Coal Operators Split Halts Settlement

Well...
I Dunno,
But...

Only 20 shopping days to Christmas and not a single downtown decoration yet.

Several have complained to us that Ranger is lagging in dressing up the town for Christmas while all about us are already decked out in their best Christmas finery. Nothing does more to build up the Christmas spirit in the town than to have the constant reminder of its approach in gay decorations on the main streets of the town.

Shop windows are certainly be- speaking the season and some of the displays are most attractive. Now we don't want to bring down the wrath of Chief George Murphy on our heads but a hint to the wise, you know and it's Chief who usually supervises the stringing of the lights along Main Street. Of course, the various business houses can add a little touch with Christmas trees out in front, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Eakin have received word that their son, Pfc. Bobbie Takin has landed in Yokohama after a rough and tumble trip across the Pacific. Bobbie told his parents that they entered two storms and that he wished he could die but didn't.

He is now in the Paratroopers. Virgil Goswick back from a hunting trip in south Texas. Friday was proudly displaying the six point buck which he brought down. That is, he says he killed it and we'll have to believe it since his wife, Frances confirmed the report.

Only hunter not reporting a kill so far, is Inez Harrell, who is noticeably silent on her uncle's ranch down near Kerrville. We expected a promise of a venison roast from her but it looks like our larder will go empty.

Gals in Ranger with aspirations to become airline hostesses have their opportunity for a career in this line and they're begging for 'em, too.

Pioneer Air Lines, Inc., who will soon start a plane route through this section, serving Ranger, has sent out an SOS for girls from Ranger to qualify for the jobs.

Girls whom we've known who served as hostesses have always been fascinated with the work and several former Ranger girls are serving in this capacity or have at one time or another. At least there'd never be a dull moment in such a job with lots of interesting contacts thrown into the bargain.

Appearing in another column in this newspaper is the information concerning the jobs. And the company is asking for Ranger girls for the jobs.

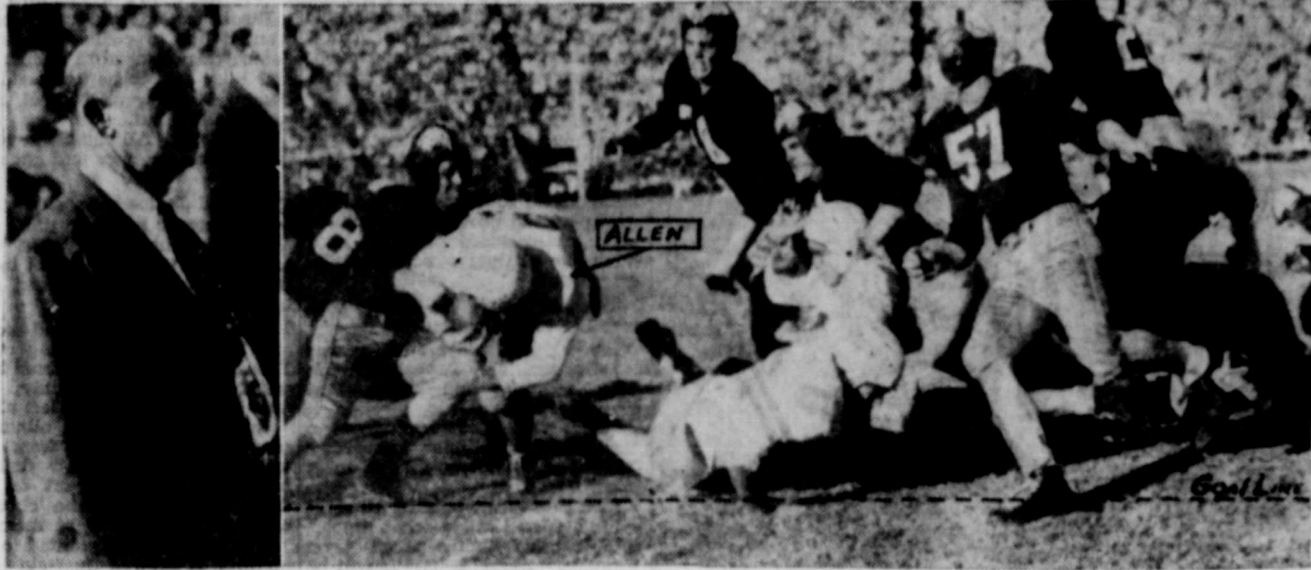

The planting program was getting a boost Saturday with interested ladies taking turns at keeping a booth on Main street where orders were being taken for trees and shrubs.

December 12 is the date set for the mass planting and among other features of the day will be the services to be held at 4:00 o'clock in the Memorial Park in connection with the Gold Star mother's planting of trees.

Harsh winds are really going all out in the planting program. Though all of his trees are not to be pears, he has ready for planting 75 trees, including azaleas and fruit trees among other things. Now all he needs is a helper to do the digging and planting.

In ultra-violet light, persons who have had an eye lens removed, can see objects clearly that are almost invisible to those with good eyes.

With an area only a little larger than that of New Mexico, Norway has a jagged, fjord cut coastline of more than 12,000 miles.

A smiling Texas sun welcomed some 48,000 football fans as they witnessed the annual Turkey Day Classic between the Texas University Longhorns and the Texas A&M Aggies at Memorial Stadium in Austin, Texas. At left, Dana X. Bible, coach of the Longhorns for the past 10 years, stands with head bare as he listens to the Longhorn band give him a final salute by playing the Eyes of Texas as Bible came onto the playing field to start the final half of the game. At right, H. K. Allen, No. 31, Texas full-back, plunges over the Aggie goal for the third Texas touchdown. Jack Halfpenny, No. 25, Texas, and No. 11, Joe Baumgardner, Texas, at right of Allen, blocking out two Aggies. Other players are: No. 78, Monte Mohrrief, A&M; No. 57, Dick Wright, A&M. PIONEER AIR LINES SEEKING HOSTESSES

R. V. Galloway has received word from John R. Olds of Dallas, director of public relations for Pioneer Air Lines, Inc., that the company is seeking additional hostesses. Olds explained that with the expansion of the service of the company more hostesses will be required and it is the policy of the company to seek them in towns which are served by the company. He asked that Galloway make an effort to interest Ranger girls in the work and stated that those qualifying must be from 21 to 25 years of age. They must be attractive and unmarried with some college education and in good health. No foreign language will be required nor will it be necessary for them to have had nurse's training.

Those interested in applying for the positions should contact Miss Donna L. Hamm, chief hostess, Pioneer Air Lines, Inc., Municipal Airport, Houston, Texas.

UNEMPLOYMENT GROWS IN STRIKE HIT INDUSTRIES

PITTSBURGH — Unemployment spread throughout the country today in coal-consuming industries as the soft coal strike entered its tenth day. New production cutbacks, short work weeks and mass layoffs were predicted in the steel industry next week. Coal piles continued to dwindle, and industry in general prepared to meet the emergency by slashing production and saving the precious fuel for the barest necessities. The full blow is still one or two weeks away, according to a steel company spokesman. The coal strike has idled more than 70,000 workers in steel, railroads and small industries. It has brought about a reduction in work schedules for many thousands of others who will find their Christmas pay checks greatly reduced. Curtailment of basic steel making would strike a hard blow in allied industries within a short time. Fabricators, who get their steel from the basic producer, are struggling along with meager coal supplies and soon will face a steel shortage. The automotive industry, hampered by shortages, would be hard hit if steel mills close. Their inventories are low due to the protracted coal and steel strikes earlier this year. U. S. Steel Corp., the world's largest basic producer, announced new production cutbacks. More are expected next week. Some 18,500 railroad workers are idle or working greatly reduced schedules due to the government ordered slash in railroad operations and the reduction in coal shipments on freight lines.

No Time Limit On Mailing Xmas Cards Overseas

WASHINGTON, D. C. Nov. 29 —It is still permissible to send Christmas greeting cards to members of the armed forces in the occupation areas overseas, Major General Edward F. Witsell, The Army's Adjutant General, has announced.

Even though the thirty-day period for mailing gift packages to Army personnel stationed in distant points all over the globe ended on November 15, there is no restriction or time limit set on the mailing of Christmas cards, General Witsell pointed out. These cards must be sent in sealed envelopes as first class mail and it is suggested that cards mailed after December 1, be sent by Air Mail using the new 5c postage stamp.

With the receipt of mail from home playing a vital part in the morale of American troops in the occupation areas overseas, General Witsell said that the sending of Christmas greeting cards affords an excellent means of maintaining the vital holiday bonds between the soldiers and their relatives and friends at home.

While Christmas cards sent by Air Mail after December 1 probably will be delivered in the most remote areas before Christmas, General Witsell urged all those who contemplate sending Christmas cards to take prompt action between now and December 1 to be certain of on-time delivery.

Pioneer To Move General Offices to Houston Dec. 2

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 29 —Pioneer Air Lines will move its general offices and treasury department from Dallas to Houston effective next Monday, (Dec. 2), Robert J. Smith, president, announced today.

Operations activities of the airline already are centered in Houston, and removal of the general offices and treasury department will consolidate headquarters in that city. Offices and shops are in the National Guard Armory Hangar at Houston's Municipal Airport. Smith, whose home is in Dallas, said that he would continue to maintain a personal office here. He said that consolidation of all headquarters functions of the line was necessary to effect greater convenience and efficiency.

Russian Troops Reported Moving Out of Germany

BERLIN — Reliable Allied sources estimated today that 40 per cent of the Russian troops in Germany were being sent home or transferred to Soviet garrisons outside the Reich. Three Russian infantry divisions and four artillery divisions reportedly passed through Potsdam earlier this week. Reliable sources said the troops were headed east toward the Russian border.

Radio Moscow said "thousands" of older age soldiers were being demobilized and returned to the Soviet Union.

C. C. Directors Regular Meeting Monday Night

The regular meeting of the board of directors of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce will meet Monday night at 7:30 o'clock. Matters of importance are to be brought before the group and it is urged that all make their plans to attend.

O. H. Dick, circulation manager for the Times, is looking for another carrier for a new route. To qualify the boy must be industrious and dependable.

The route is for evening delivery and will earn the boy about $4.20 per week. For only thirty minutes work each afternoon. Any boy interested should contact Dick at the Times office sometime during the afternoon.

TWO GERMANS GET DEATH SENTENCES

ROME — Col. Gen. Eberhard Von Mackensen and Lt. Gen. Kurt Maeltzer, Nazi commanders in occupied Italy, were sentenced to death today for the Ardeatine Caves Massacre of 335 Romans in reprisal for the killing of 32 Germans in 1944.

A British military court found Von Mackensen and Maeltzer guilty of war criminality and sentenced them to die before a firing squad.

The verdict followed a week-long trial of the case which Italians generally regard as the greatest single war crime of the war.

Von Mackensen was commander of the German 14th Army in Italy and Maeltzer was commander of the Rome area during the occupation of Italy.

The mainstay of the defense case was a plea that the officers merely obeyed an order from Adolf Hitler for a mass killing of Italians in reprisal for the deaths of the German soldiers when a partisan tossed a bomb at their headquarters here.

High School Band Clinic To Be In Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Tex., (UP) — Between 500 and 700 high school band members from West Texas and Eastern New Mexico are expected to attend the fourth annual band clinic December 6 and 7, sponsored jointly by the Texas Technological College and Lubbock High School, according to Prof. D. O. Wiley, Tech band director.

Those attending will be given the opportunity of hearing new music and conferring with visiting directors and other music education leaders. A business session of the Texas Musical Education Association regions one and eight, is slated for 3 p.m. Dec. 7.

Makes Small But Regular Gifts To Texas University

AUSTIN, Tex., (UP) — The University of Texas, accustomed to receiving gifts and endowments in large amounts, has perhaps its most consistent—if not affluent—donor in Herman Schmidt of Bexar County.

Schmidt's contributions are not very large—in fact they usually are limited to one figure. He made his most recent gift—of $2—to be used "in experimental work with farm and ranch products of medical research," just so long as it benefits materially humanity.

FCA Considering Proposal Of Individual Striker Fines

FLAYS RUSSIA FOR STAND ON ATOMIC BOMB

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. — Great Britain accused Russia today of trying to force the western powers to scrap the atom bomb without reducing the Soviet armies.

At the same time the British served notice that they would take part in no disarmament scheme which was subject to the veto.

France today formally asked all United Nations members to withdraw their troops from foreign territories and begin parallel demobilization of their armies.

The French amendment said that because "the establishment of international control of the production and use of atomic energy—one of the primary elements of security," the atomic energy commission should proceed with the greatest speed to work out an effective control plan.

France also asked UN members to submit information on the size and location of the armed forces as soon as possible because the problem of disarmament is one of security.

Parodi, explaining the amendment, also called on the powers to dispense with "legal and parliamentary tricks."

Wheel-Chair Vets Learn To Fly Plane

YAN NUYS, Cal. (UP) — Wheel chair patients at Birmingham General Hospital here are learning to fly airplanes.

They have formed a flying club within the Paralyzed Veterans' Association and are taking lessons in a new type two-control airplane.

The plane eliminates the usual rudder controls operated by the feet. All necessary controls are consolidated in a single wheel, automobile fashion.

WASHINGTON — A split among southern coal operators today dashed talk of a private coal strike settlement before the government finishes its court fight with John L. Lewis.

At the same time, officials of the federal coal administration were considering applications by operators for permission to fine individual miners of Lewis' 40,000 United Mine Workers, AFL, on grounds that they had breached their contract by striking the government operated mines. First indications were that such fines probably would not be sanctioned at this time.

The rift among southern operators was shown in statements from a third of the directors of the Southern Coal Producers Association and from the West Virginia Coal Association. Both groups repudiated a proposal of Edward R. Burke, spokesman for the southern producers, suggesting a strike truce while union negotiations were revived.

Lewis' trial on a contempt of court charge was in recess today until 10 a.m. Monday.

Many southern operators were reported unwilling to take any action which might be construed as interfering with the court proceedings. The contempt charge was brought by the government because Lewis refused to obey a court order that he call off the walkout.

Fines against individual miners could be expected to complicate ultimate settlement and perhaps delay any return to work. Most UMW district contracts contain a provision authorizing a fine of $1 or $2 daily on each miner participating in an illegal strike. Some district agreements do not contain the provision.

One coal industry spokesman said he had heard that many of the coal producing districts planned to ask the Federal Coal Administration for authority to assess the fines.

At Bluefield, W. Va., L. E. Tierney, Jr., president of the Eastern Coal Company, announced that his company was asking that the penalties be levied against 2,200 miners.

The coal administration must make an early decision on the applications. During the next two weeks, the miners will be receiving the last paychecks from which the fines could be deducted.

Southern operators expect to discuss Burke's strike truce proposal at a meeting of the Southern Association's board of directors here Monday.

Texas farm population dropped from 2,149,187 in 1940 to 1,740,000 in 1944 because of wartime shifts.

Hope To Make Organization A Permanent Body

DALHART, Tex., (UP) — The Chamber of Commerce Livestock Agriculture committee which last spring led in formation of the North Plains Stocker & Feeder Sale Association hopes this fall to make it a permanent organization. The Association has been operating under a temporary five-man committee: Chairman Ray Barr, C. H. Kupter, Clyde Latham, Gus Coats, and Roy Wharton. Its first annual stocker and feeder sale in Dalhart in September was so successful that many cattle producers, not initially interested, have asked for membership when the permanent organization is made.

The C. of C. committee hopes to complete the permanent set-up at a steak banquet and business meeting in Dalhart the night of November 25. Cattle producers representing all parts of the Dalhart territory are being invited, Barr said.

REPORT ON THE DARK AGES

Every since the country elected a Republican Congress prophecies of a return to the so-called Dark Ages of the Harding-Coolidge-Hoover era have been heard throughout the land. As a consequence, a good many people seem to be waiting fearfully for a wave of black reaction to engulf them.

So, in the hope of bringing a crumb of comfort to tohse morose minds, we should like to borrow a few statistics those Dark Ages which recently were unearthed by the "opics of the Times" columnist in the New York Times. Let's start with wages. Taking 100 as the base figure of real wages in manufacturing industries in 1914, it develops that wages in 1920 stood at 120 points. Two years later the figure was 125, and in two years more it went to 130. At the end of the Coolidge era it had risen to 136.

The first old-age pension law came in 1923, under Harding. The number of child workers was decreased by 2,000,000 between 1910 and 1920.

These aren't the only figures that the enterprising columnist presented, but perhaps they will serve the purpose of recalling that the Twenties were not the decade of social backwardness they are sometimes charged with being.

There was a good deal of well being and good feeling in the Twenties. At the end the prosperity got out of hand and the good feeling wore thin. But it can't be said that there was no progress, no social consciousness, no political decency.

It scarcely seems necessary to say that the Twenties, like any other period of history one may choose to designate, were largely shaped by the personalities and preferences of the men who conducted or influenced the government of this country. Yet perhaps this truism must be repeated at a time when it is being said that inflation, depression and another war are inevitable with the Republican in power.

To deny that statement is not to be partisan. To deny it is not to say that inflation, depression and war are impossible under Republican influence. But the statement should be denied and refuted because it is an easy and dangerous generalization which doesn't really mean anything.

Our chances of escaping inflation, depression and war depend upon the collective intelligence, effort and good will of all the people, and upon the same qualities in the individuals to whom the operation of government is entrusted. There is neither doom nor salvation in a political party label.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—At a conference in New Orleans sometime this winter, a new Thomas Jefferson memorial award to the South's most distinguished citizen of the year will be presented to 39-year-old retiring Gov. Ellis Gibbs Arnall of Georgia. The plan is to have the award presented by Alabama's newly-elected governor, Big Jim Folsom. Participating in the ceremony will be Dr. Clark Foreman's Southern Conference for Human Welfare and similar organizations heading up the liberal reform movement in the South.

There will be some old professional Southerners inclined to sneer at this whole business, not liking the donors, their motives or their fitness to say that Ellis Arnall is cast in the image of Thomas Jefferson. Be that as it may, the center of interest here is on the man Arnall—his ideas, his program, and what makes him tick.

The election of rabble-rousing Eugene Talmadge as the next governor of Georgia has been taken by some to mean the end of Arnall reforms in Georgia. But since Arnall's appointees fill all state commissions and can't be removed by Talmadge, the Arnall influence isn't exactly dead.

A GEORGIA governor cannot be re-elected to succeed himself, so long before the recent election Arnall mapped out for his own immediate future a program to make a lot of speeches and spread his ideas all over the country. Also, he wrote a book just published. It's called "The Shore Dirty Seen."

"The Shore Dirty Seen" gives the big idea of what it's all about. What the author hopes he sees is a land of the free and a home for the brave—South and West as well as North and East. But it's of the South that Arnall principally writes.

Arnall sees the South as a great paradox. Grinding poverty in the midst of great natural wealth. There are, he says, many Souths. He sees the industrialization of the South in the next 20 years as a certainty. But he doesn't want it to become a mechanized slum, like so many manufacturing towns of the North.

He wants more federal funds for Southern highways, education and health, because he says the South can't meet its own bills for these things till it becomes more prosperous. Georgia alone, he says, needs $15 million a year with which to build schools and pay teachers.

ARNALL isn't afraid of communism in the South. What scares him is fascism—industrial dictation to the South by the North. Arnall says that the Negro's problem is largely an economic one. It's part of the general poverty of the South. But he believes the Negro in the South is in far less danger than in the North, where he lives in black gettos.

The bill of rights which Arnall proposes for the Negro includes: (1) Equal protection under the law; (2) The rights of citizenship and the right to vote if he is literate; (3) Greater educational opportunity; (4) Facilities equal to those of the whites where segregation exists.

SPORTS

BY NED BROWN
NEA Staff Correspondent
(Pinch-hitting for Harry Grayson)

NEW YORK—(NEA)—This is to warn Joe Louis of a concerted undercover movement to "remove him from his exalted position" and "win back the heavyweight championship for the Caucasians." No doubt Joe will be all a-twitter when he learns these details—may even be agitated enough not to suppress a yawn.

Professor Billy McCarney unfolds the plot, sponsored, he says, mostly by old-line fight managers. First inkling of the underground action came in the form of a modest letter from Jack Kearns, from which we quote: "Joe Maxim, White Knight of Cleveland, rides again."

Mike Jacobs recalls saying something about matching Maxim with Louis, if the "White Knight" licks the winner of the Jersey Joe Walcott-Elmer Ray battle.

"The oldest who are heading this well-financed movement," explains Professor McCarney, one of the best and more colorful of veteran managers, "include Jack Kearns, Jack Hurley, Nate Lewis, Andy Neiderreiter, Tim McGrath, Dan Carroll, Max Waxman, Add Thacher, Louis Newman and me. All are qualified by long experience in directing affairs of heavyweights—not a newcomer in the list."

"The new crop of fight managers—Johnny-Come-Latelies—are doing too well with smaller men today to bother about trying to develop a heavyweight. Boxing is drawing tremendous gates because the sport public want their boxing, good or bad.

"This movement is not to be confounded with the daffy White Hope Era which followed Jack Johnson's defeat of old Jim Jeffries. Joe Louis has been a credit to boxing and himself. He is respected by all followers of the sport. For close to 10 years he has held the title, and it was considered almost impossible to bring out an opponent capable of dethroning him. "Today it's different."

BILLY MCCARNEY then proceeded to give an unbiased opinion of some of the prospects on hand. "Kearns, with his Joey Maxim, claims he is sitting in the driver's seat," said the Professor, "but Maxim is weight shy, punch shy and hasn't proven his ability to absorb punishment—though right now he seems best of the crop. It may be his career is a bit behind him."

"One of the best of the youngsters is Art Ramsey, of Glenn Falls, N. Y. A terrific puncher, but seems to be vulnerable to hard wallops, which is his lone drawback. He must outgrow this."

"Jack Hurley has two prospects, under careful preparation even before the Louis-Corn debacle. Bob's big, strong, hard hitter, tough under wallops. The ring-wise veteran, Billy Petrolle, is schooling them."

"There will be no silly tournaments in connection with this new development. Over the five years of that White Hope Era only one outstanding big fellow was developed—Luther McCarty—who died in the ring just when reaching his peak."

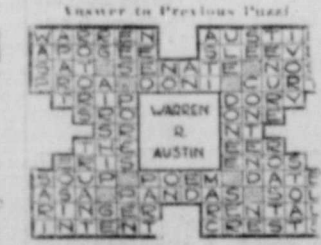

Billy McCarney discovered, developed and managed Luther McCarty, a truly great heavyweight. Here's hoping Old Professor can come up with another good 'un."

Rural Electric Needs Growing Wickard Says

WASHINGTON (UP) — Claude R. Wickard, chief of the Rural Electrification Administration warns that the need for an expanded electric service is becoming critical in many parts of the country.

Wickard said reports to REA disclose that fully half of the government-financed electric systems are unable to meet all the power requirements of their customers even now. The need will grow as farmers buy more and more electrical equipment, he said.

He added that nearly all REA co-operatives are stepping up their purchases of wholesale electric power.

"TVA Bonneville and other agencies report that war-time consumption levels have been maintained throughout the period of reconstruction," Wickard said. "Large industries formerly engaged in war production are using just as much power for civilian goods."

Noisy Shrimps Explain Why Sea Isn't Quiet

LA JOLLA, Cal. (UP) — The reason aquariums are so quiet is because in captivity sea animals pout "and won't give their love calls."

Actually, the sea is far from silent, with a fearful racket going on all the time, Dr. Martin Johnson, marine zoologist, said at the Scripps Institute of Oceanography here.

Jackson backed up his assertion by playing phonograph recordings of the crackling racket made in San Diego waters by shrimp snapping their elongated feelers. The records were cut during wartime navy experiments here.

He said the shortage also has been complicated by the fact that many small industries, homes and farms are switching to electricity for the first time.

"We cannot afford to assume that because during the war there was not an acute shortage of power for war industries, shortages will not develop when farm people have opportunity to put electricity to all the profitable uses they have in mind," he concluded.

Christmas Buying Spree Predicted For Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Pittsburghers are expected to spend a record-smashing $25,000,000 this Christmas season. Businessmen reported that there will be plenty for all—except for men.

The men will get ties. They won't get many shirts, shorts, golf clubs, leather luggage, hunting rifles, fishing tackle or automobiles.

Department store officials are enthusiastic over the sales prospects for the week ending Oct. 26 was 55 per cent above last year and 80 per cent higher than two years ago.

Murray-Houghton Nuptials Friday

Announcement has been made by Mrs. Blanche Murray of the marriage of her daughter, Catherine, to Mr. William Houghton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Houghton.

The ceremony was performed Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the home of the bride with Rev. David C. Ham reading the service. Tall pink candles lighted the mantel before which the vows were exchanged.

The bride was attended by Mrs. R. H. Ham of Odessa who wore a gold crepe dress with brown accessories and corsage of gardenias.

The bride was attired in a grey crepe dress with pink velvet hat and black shoes. Her shoulder corsage was an orchid and purple orchid.

Bobbie Powell attended the groom as best man.

Following the ceremony which was attended by the immediate members of the two families and few friends, an informal reception was held with the bride and groom cutting the three tiered cake which was topped by a miniature bride and groom under an arch. The cake rested on a crystal plate and was surrounded at the base by pink carnations and fern. The bride's table was laid with a lace cloth and at the opposite end from the cake was an arrangement of pink carnations and fern in a handpainted bowl placed on a silver mounted reflector.

Mrs. Bobbie Hickey, sister of Mrs. Houghton, presided at the silver coffee service and Mrs. J. P. Houghton served the cake. Mrs. Murray was assisted in the dining room by Mrs. W. D. Conway.

The couple will return after a short trip to make their home in Ranger.

Miss Hatton Bride Of Mr. Godwin

In a ceremony performed Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hill of Dallas, Miss Dorothy Evelyn Hatton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hatton of Ranger and niece of Mrs. Hill, became the bride of Mr. Dewey Weldon Godwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Godwin of Athens.

The service was read by Rev. H. B. Johnson of Ranger before an altar arranged before the fireplace, and before which stood an arch of palms. Baskets of white chrysanthemums stood before the altar which was candle lighted.

Miss Marie Godwin of Ft. Worth attended the bride and wore an aqua crepe dress with black accessories and a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

The bride chose for her wedding an aqua suit with black accessories and her corsage was of white carnations.

An informal reception was held at the home following the ceremony.

The couple will make their home in Dallas.

Left-over sugar is mainly responsible for many of the brilliant shades of autumn foliage.

For a time it looked as though he had made a bad bargain. Since 1902, the hunt for oil on and around Silver City Dome has continued intermittently, with only good showings of gas resulting.

A few days before a week-end hunting trip with three friends, Landon checked his new interest—and returned home glum, the well apparently was going to produce nothing but salt water.

The quail hunt in the well's vicinity wasn't going well, either, for a heavy rain was putting a damper on the shooting. Partially to get in out of the wet and partially to check the well "just once more," Landon had his companions duck into the drillers' shack.

He let out a whoop—the well had been brought in and was producing 10 barrels an hour. The strike opens a new Kansas field.

The army quartermaster corps has developed mobile laundries, bakeries, shower-baths and repair shops so light in weight that they can be transported by plane.

At the peak of World War II, the quartermaster corps was buying $190,000,000 worth of powdered eggs a year.

LANDON'S LUCK BETTER IN OIL THAN POLILICS

TOPEKA, Kan. (UP)—The Alf Landon luck—oil business variety, not political—is still going strong.

He went quail hunting and bagged an oil well.

The unsuccessful 1936 presidential candidate, a highly successful independent oilman, was approached by Mrs. Ruth Lane of Kansas City, Mo., with the offer of a share of a well on the fringe of the Silver City Dome in Kansas, 100 miles south of Topeka.

She said she would turn over to Landon an interest in the well, then being drilled, if he would bear the cost of finishing the drilling.

Landon accepted.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

A Letter on Christian Living

Scripture: Acts 19:23-30; Ephesians 6:13-18

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
RECENTLY I was in mild controversy with a friend who is a disparager of St Paul. He thinks that Paul is an over-rated man, and that in general, and in spite of Paul's professed devotion to Jesus, his writings have been responsible for much of the perversion of Christianity from what Paul himself called "the simplicity that is in Christ" (II Corinthians 11:3).

Such a view has been not uncommon, but I think it is an utterly mistaken conception of Paul.

The Great Apostle was not perfect; he was, as every man is, in some respects a child of his age. But the remarkable thing is the extent to which he was beyond his age, and the extent to which so much that he wrote is as vital for today as if it had been written in our own time.

What is more, Paul's writings do reflect, in greatness and purity, precisely "the simplicity that is in Christ."

which Paul has set forth with colorful vividness the fruits of the Spirit and the nature of the Christian life.

Here it is a description of the Christian soldier, equipped with the full armor of God, steadfast and full of courage, fortified by prayer for himself and for others. Elsewhere (I Thessalonians 5:14-25), it is a practical exhortation to Christian living, detailed in its emphasis and guidance.

Again, it is a description of the Christian as a member of a body in which each part has its function and in which all are working together for the building-up and the glorifying of the body in love—an unsurpassed description of the ideal society and the highest religious and social goal that man could strive for.

I HAVE suggested to my friend, as I would suggest to others who may be inclined to disparage Paul, that they concentrate a little more upon the positive and practical teachings of Paul as they relate to Christian living and the interpretation of Jesus as the Master of character and conduct.

Our lesson from Ephesians contains only one of many beautiful and dramatic passages in which the greatness and the Christian simplicity of Paul appear, in form and in substance, in beauty as well as in truth, the greatest sermon ever written.

The man who wrote these words, preached the Gospel, and lived the Gospel he preached, is forever great—great as a man in history and great as a Christian in the larger life of God's kingdom.

Next to the simple, sublime sermons of Jesus Himself found in the parables and in the Sermon on the Mount, this is surely, in form and in substance, in beauty as well as in truth, the greatest sermon ever written.

The man who wrote these words, preached the Gospel, and lived the Gospel he preached, is forever great—great as a man in history and great as a Christian in the larger life of God's kingdom.

One Steak, Price $3437.50

TWA Hostess Mary McCorkle, of Kansas City, Kans., whistles—but loud—as E. W. Williams, local packing house owner, tells her that the glass-protected steak he's handing her is worth $3437.50. It was cut from Grand Champion Steer T. O. Pride, which recently sold at auction for $43,026. Steak sells for $1250 a pound and this one weighs 27 1/2 pounds. It was flown to Pittsburgh to be given as a prize on a radio show.

Pressure Meter Warns Against Auto Flat Tires

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—Motorists will soon be able to detect low pressure tires or oncoming flats without moving from the steering wheel if a device tested in Houston by state highway patrolmen is adopted generally.

The device is a safety pressure meter attached to each tire. An electrical hookup sends pressure figures to the dashboard, where a system of lights and buzzers indicates which tire is getting low, and warns the driver of a slow leak or imminent flat.

Developed in 1934, the device never reached general sale. A Harlingen manufacturer now is producing the meters.

Bird, Rabbit Dogs Get All Mixed Up

CHARLOTTE, Pa. (UP)—Nobody knew how it happened, but it did.

Police were checking game at a crossroads near West Newton, Pa. One group came along with 2 bird dogs and eight rabbits.

Right behind them came another party with four rabbit dogs and eight pheasants.

Flying 15 Miles High Forseen By Engineers

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (UP)—General Electric engineers are preparing for the day when airplanes will fly at altitudes of 15 miles.

The scientists have produced a new tube-testing chamber to assist in the design and development of electronic tubes which will operate at an 80,000-foot altitude. The device, known as a "tube ice-box," will produce temperatures ranging from 100 degrees below to 170 degrees above zero.

Store Dummies In Auto Ward Off Hitch-Hikers

SEATTLE (UP)—C. W. Johnson reported on his return from an automobile trip to Minneapolis that his plan to discourage hitchhikers worked out fine.

Johnson rigged up two store dummies—Ole the Swede and Pat the Irishman. He said when hitchhikers raised their hands to thumb a ride, they would notice the crowded car. Johnson felt as though he wasn't traveling alone and yet wasn't "bothered with conversation."

FROM BAR TO BARS
FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP)—Kenneth M. Miller says next time he walks into a hotel he'll make sure it's just that. Miller mistook Desk Sgt. Sheriff Knows How President Truman Feels

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)—Sheriff Owen Kilday of San Antonio can sympathize with President Truman over unfortunate treatment of prison paintings. The President's portrait in Washington recently received an incision on the left cheek from the knife blade of an unknown assailant. A few days ago, Sheriff Kilday, who took pride in a painting given him by Fred Cowen, San Antonio attorney who died recently, found his art piece smeared by an unknown ink-splatterer.

Joe Baumgardner, No. 11, for Texas, breaks through and throws Leo Daniels, No. 19, A&M for a 6-yard loss. Looks like Daniels might be giving Baumgardner the old stiff-arm. It was rushing line play by the Longhorns which kept the Aggies ground game in a hole all afternoon as they drove over three touchdowns and a field goal to defeat A&M by a score of 21-7. Educating Bavaria In History Fails

MUNICH (UP)—A year and a half after the end of the war, German and American officials have failed completely to teach Bavarian youth anything about the true history of the past 13 years.

The education of Bavarian youth reported, "no history now being taught in Bavarian schools, due mainly to the complete absence of suitable textbooks."

The army's education chief said a commission of three experts was appointed by the Bavarian education ministry to write new history textbooks, but "they eventually lost their nerve and gave up the job."

He was asked what Bavarian youth was being taught about the history of the Nazi regime. He answered, "you have asked the most embarrassing question you could ask. We are not yet able to teach recent history."
