Pied Piper Of Wormdom Does It Without Digging

CLEVELAND (UP) — S. N. Isler of Indianapolis doesn't dig worms when he goes fishing. He coaxes them out of the ground.

"The Pied Piper of Wormdom" doesn't use a magic flute or super-sonic pitch pipe. Instead he has a sprinkling can and a powder called "Worms Galore."

Isler gave a demonstration at the Sportsmen Show here. For the benefit of unbelievers, he sprinkled the lawn in front of Cleveland's public hall with the powder. Exactly one minute and 15 seconds later the first worm came out of the ground. Within 30 seconds 14 more followed.

MacArthur And Eisenhower Tops With Farmers

DES MOINES (UP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower rate first and second, respectively, in popularity among American farmers, a poll made by Successful Farming magazine shows.

In the survey of the ten people most admired, President Truman was third, Winston Churchill, fourth and Gen. George C. Marshall, fifth. Others in the first ten were James F. Byrnes, Herbert Hoover, Thomas E. Dewey and two women—Eleanor Roosevelt and a Sister Kenny.

Truman Will Not Go To Alaska

WASHINGTON — The White House said today that President Truman definitely will not go to Alaska on a vacation trip this summer.

White House Press Secretary Charles Ross said the plan had been considered but was now definitely ruled out.

SENATOR SAYS RENT CONTROL BILL NO GOOD

WASHINGTON — Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D., La., charged today that the rent control bill would allow landlords to "waylay" their tenants and "bludgeon" them into accepting 15 per cent rent increases.

Ellender said the bill, which is expected to come up for a final vote in the Senate on Monday, is "worse than no legislation at all." Without new legislation, rent controls would expire June 30.

The Senate bill, said Ellender, has "emasculated" by amendments which would—

1. Permit a 15 per cent jump in rent ceilings over Sept. 1, 1946 levels where a tenant and his landlord agree voluntarily on a new lease running through 1948.

2. Order the federal government to decontrol at least five per cent of the nation's 600 rent control areas each month.

Ellender said no tenant could afford to reject a landlord's offer of a years lease in return for a 15 per cent boost because the housing situation is so tight.

Red Men Want To Know How About Oil Wells

SPOKANE, Wash. (UP) — Barney Old Coyote, May Takes the Gun, Josephine Good Horse, Mark Real Bird, Arthur Bravo, and Joseph Hill came to town to find out if there was anything in reports that oil wells on the Crow reservation were to be put back into production.

Old Coyote, tribal leader of 2,500 Crows living between Billings, Mont., and Sheridan, Wyo., said his tribe wasn't interested in wealth, but would appreciate some of the finer things of life, such as farm equipment, schools and sanitation.

LAY CRASH TO FAILURE OF STRUCTURE

BAINBRIDGE, Md. — Evidence indicated today that failure of the tail structure caused a giant Eastern Airlines transport to crash last night in a Maryland woods, killing 53 persons in the nation's worst commercial aviation disaster.

Eyewitness accounts of the crash seemed to bear out the belief and it was considered in government investigations that were underway at the scene and in Washington.

The plane—bound from New York to Miami—was sailing through a clear sky at approximately 6,000 feet when it faltered and started down at a 30-degree angle. At about 2,000 feet the dive apparently became steeper.

All aboard the big plane were killed when it struck. There were 49 passengers, one infant whose decapitated body was found in its mother's arms, and four crew members.

Says Southern Democrat Happy With This Regime

WASHINGTON — Rep. E. E. Cox, of Georgia said today that southern Democrats are "far happier within their party than they have been for many years."

"A great many went along with the old regime but they did it shamefacedly," he said in an interview. "The present president enjoys their confidence to a great degree."

Cox is an acknowledged leader of southern Democrats in the House.

244 Lose Lives During Holiday

Holiday accidents—including the two most tragic airplane crashes in the nation's history—killed 244 persons during the first half of the long Memorial Day weekend.

Ninety three persons were killed in the two plane crashes, 76 persons in traffic accidents and 75 persons in miscellaneous accidents including a train derailment and 21 drownings.

Mrs. Truman Holding Own

GRANDVIEW, Mo. — President Truman's ailing, 94 year old mother was only "holding her own" today.

Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, White House physician, reported that Mrs. Martha E. Truman "has not made the continued progress we have noted in the past few days."

"Her condition isn't critical," he said, "but it is fairly serious."

CAB CHAIRMAN DEFENDS C-4 PLANE SERVICE

WASHINGTON — Chairman James M. Landis of the Civil Aeronautics Board said today there was "no obvious connection" between the Maryland and New York crashes of four engine DC-4 planes which would justify immediate grounding of such planes.

Landis said "only theories have been advanced so far" for the crash of an Eastern Airlines DC-4 near Bainbridge, Md., last night. As for the crash of a United Airlines plane at LaGuardia airport in New York Thursday night, Landis pointed out that reports indicated it was not due to structural defects. A preliminary report, he said, indicated the New York accident was due to a sudden shift in wind while the plane was taking off.

The Douglas DC-4 planes, Landis said, have piled up "such a tremendous safety record" that the two accidents were "not a cause for alarm."

Swimming Pool Opening Date Is Postponed

A. L. Stiles, water commissioner, announced today that due to an electrical failure at the city pump station, it was not possible to open the Municipal swimming pool on Saturday afternoon.

It was explained that when the electricity to one of the pumps went off, water into the swimming pool had to be shut off in order to maintain the necessary supply for the city in the standpipe.

It is believed, he explained, that repairs can be made in time to have the pool opened Tuesday afternoon but the definite time for opening will be announced in Monday's edition of the Times.

New Premier Of Hungary Takes Oath Of Office

BUDAPEST — Lajos Dinnyes was sworn in today as Premier of Hungary, succeeding Ferenc Nagy, who resigned yesterday from his refuge in Switzerland.

The cabinet which took the oath with Dinnyes was unchanged except that Ernő Mihályfi, minister of information, temporarily took over the portfolio of foreign minister.

BIG INCH TO HAVE HUGE GAS CAPACITY

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP) — Pennsylvania housewives and Texas oil producers both will benefit when the famed Big Inch and Little Big Inch pipelines go into permanent operation carrying natural gas, according to the corporation which bought the lines.

George R. Brown, chairman of the board of the Texas Eastern Transmission Corp., reported on the work of converting the two pipelines to gas carriers.

Texas Eastern contracted to buy the lines from the War Assets Administration for $143,172,000. More than 140,000,000 cubic feet of gas travel daily from Texas fields to consumers in eastern states through the lines that once carried oil when Nazi submarines menaced American tankers in the Gulf of Mexico and along the Atlantic coast.

Brown reported that by Nov. 1 the first four compressor stations would be completed and the lines would then carry 265,000,000 cubic feet daily.

The potential will go as high as 500,000,000 cubic feet daily when an additional 20 compressors are installed, he said.

"The coal industry will hardly notice the competition, and the housewives of Pennsylvania will be thankful for a clean, convenient fuel," Brown said.

Brown pointed out that the coal industry "experienced great pain at the idea of competition from natural gas," but that the industry had been stimulated into more efficiency. Brown said plans have been announced whereby coal will be converted into gasoline and gas.

Volcanic Ash Called Boon To Okla. Farmers

NORMAN, Okla. (UP) — Oklahoma farmers who find volcanic ash deposits on their land need not be discouraged—the gravish powder has industrial possibilities.

Proof may be found in pumicell, an insulating material developed from volcanic ash by A. L. Burwell, chemical engineer in the state geological survey at the University of Oklahoma. Adaptable for refrigerators, storage plants and factories, the material is resistant to rot, moisture, fire and vermin.

Burwell claims his discovery of fers a lightweight building product which can be made cheaply because of Oklahoma's abundance of low-cost fuels.

He reports that 26 of Oklahoma's 77 counties have known deposits and other probably are yet to be discovered.

That Was That

CHICAGO (UP) — A city inspector reported the Iver McG. Co. for 16 fire hazard violations on Oct. 2. When the case came to court, the company attorney won a dismissal. "The building," he announced, "burned down Feb. 15."

Well . . . I Dunno, But . . .

C. M. Parnell who is in the Veterans' Hospital in Dallas, writes that he has been getting his Times regularly and to "please keep it coming". He explained that his subscription expired on May 27 which was also his eighty-first birthday, but that he wanted the subscription kept up.

He has been in the hospital since April 16 and expects to be home within another month.

Called to our attention this week were the pictures of the Ft. Worth Yacht Club appearing in a Ft. Worth paper and in one of which was included the picture of the inboard motor boat of Dr. T. L. Lauderdale. Tom, as he known in Ranger where he was reared, is fleet surgeon for the Yacht Club. Those that see him occasionally say that he's had the boat fever for sometime and is now a full fledged enthusiast.

He is the son of the late Dr. T. L. Lauderdale and Mrs. Lauderdale who now resides in Ft. Worth, but formerly lived here.

Wants a real Christian deed? Well, here's your chance. Members of the Child Welfare Club tell us that Morris Caudle, blind since 17 years of age, who has been set up in the chicken business by the vocational division of the State Department of Education, and who has been promised a seeing eye dog if he can make a certain amount of money with his chickens, is having a little tough luck about selling the chickens.

The chickens are too thick for their own good in their off-the-ground coops, and unless some of them are sold, chicken authorities tell us that they will start a war among themselves that'll end in Morris losing a lot of chickens.

So when you think about fried chicken, think of Morris. His fowls are as nice as can be bought the selling size being about two and a half pounds, and all for 85 cents.

Any man that is as handicapped as is Morris, that still has the courage to try to make his own way in this world, certainly deserves the assistance of those about him, especially when we're the ones that get a bargain in the deal.

This morning we had occasion to wish that we'd worked a little harder on French when we were studying it in college. The reason—we had to interview a French war bride. She's Mrs. R. L. Truesdale of Caddo who is in the West Texas Hospital with a brand new son.

We'll have to admit that she did better with her English than we did with French and when we asked her how she liked it over here, she replied, "Oh, I love Texas, and the people they're so good for me." We believe she meant what she said, too, because she emphasized it with the most charming smile we've ever seen.

She is from Nice, France and met her husband while he was in France with the Airborne Forces. She says that she learned to speak English while working on the PX in a Red Cross center and the first word she learned was "candy". Of course, she learned her English from the GIs particularly her husband whom she had known more than a year when they were married. She made the trip to the States with a group of war brides and was accompanied as far as St. Louis by a Red Cross representative. She waited four weeks in Germany before taking the boat for the U. S.

With Mrs. M. G. Osterhout, superintendent of the hospital, interpreting, we got from Mrs. Truesdale an idea of the atrocities of the Germans while they occupied France. She told of how, on one occasion, two perfectly innocent French boys were hanged on one of the main avenues in Nice, because a German soldier had been killed by nobody else.

Dr. P. J. Kuykendall of the West Texas has been her guiding hand as well as her physician since she came to Caddo. Shortly after arriving she had some difficulty about her allotment check and was very unhappy about it. Dr. Kuykendall assisted her in getting the matter corrected and her happiness returned. Too, she was saddened by the death of her father in France, just about two months ago. She is expecting her mother

WASHINGTON COLUMN

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—Possible need for revision of the regulation of the Lobbying Act is seen in a study of the 545 lobbyists' reports to Congress on their operations for the first three months of 1947.

Though the law is less than a year old, smart lobbyists have already learned how to dodge most of the objectionable requirements that they make public their activities and financial operations.

There are too many blank spaces in the published report summaries. In case after case registrants attach detailed statements to their reports.

There are too many blank spaces in the published report summaries. In case after case registrants attach detailed statements to their reports.

Among the traditional lobby groups, the biggest are the tax reduction outfits with 27 registered lobbyists, the railroads with 20, the so-called "water lobby" of irrigation reclamation and flood control interests with 19, real estate and building associations with 20, oil and gas interests with 18, shipping interests with 12, sugar 11.

Four lobbyists reported working for passage of the St. Lawrence Seaway law. One lobbyist registered as working against it.

Seven lobbyists reported individual interest in passage of one or more particular pieces of legislation, of varying purpose.

Big money men of all the lobbyists appears to be $65,000-a-year Carroll L. Smith, and $52,000-a-year Stephen M. Walter, of the National Association of Manufacturers registers only five lobbyists.

Their pay and expenses for the first quarter totals nearly $18,000. Top man is $25,000-a-year Walter Chamblan.

U. S. Chamber of Commerce registers two lobbyists, topped by $13,000-a-year Clarence R. Miles, whose reported lobbying expenses for the first quarter were $21.80. Southern States Industrial Council, California, Wisconsin, Ohio, and Dallas Chambers of Commerce also registered lobbyists.

Judah's Unsteady Course

Scripture: II Kings 19:5-7, 32-37; 20:12-17

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

JUDAH became the Southern Kingdom of Israel after the division into the southern and northern kingdoms through Jeroboam's successful revolt against Rehoboam, son and successor of Solomon.

The strength of David and the glory of Solomon soon waned when a people who ought to have been united with a common heritage in history and religion became strife-torn and divided.

The freedom that our democratic lands accord in speech and action is being used by some to promote discord and draw lines of hate and prejudice, sometimes in the sacred name of Christ and Christianity.

ALONG that way so surely lies ruin that all who love God must set themselves to do everything possible to promote the national strength that can come only to a people united in justice and righteousness.

The Northern Kingdom, as we have seen, was the first to fall. It was swept away eight centuries before Christ when the armies of Assyria came down upon it.

Our lesson tells of an interlude in this 136-year downfall when a good king, Hezekiah, and a noble prophet, Isaiah, were dominant in Judah.

Hezekiah himself, though a good king, was by no means perfect. He did a foolish thing when he vainly displayed to envoys from the king of Babylon his wealth and the treasures of his palace.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 1.

The Golden Text is: "Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God: and him only shalt thou serve" (Matthew 4:10).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For the Lord of hosts hath purposed, and who shall disannul it? and his hand is stretched out, and who shall turn it back? (Isaiah 14:27).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The truths of immortal Mind sustain man, and they annihilate the fables of mortal mind, whose filmy and gaudy pretensions, like silly moths, singe their own wings and fall into dust" (page 103).

ENGINEER HAPPY AS CLERGYMAN

By Joseph Levine

United Press Staff Correspondent CORINTH, Me. (UP)—A 65-year-old railroad man and his four-year-old preacher's license have a clear track ahead today.

For the Rev. H. Lewis Hardy, recently ordained minister occupying the joint pastorate of the Methodist churches at Corinth and East Corinth, it means the fulfillment of a life-long ambition.

Hardy entered the ministry immediately upon retirement after 41 years as a civil engineer for the Boston & Albany district of the New York Central Railroad.

One career completed, he entered his new calling with all the zeal and vigor of a youthful preacher.

Actually, Hardy is far from being a neophyte in the pulpit, for on many occasions he has taken over for ailing ministers in communities to which his railroad work took him.

Moreover, he has behind him a long record of church service, begun in 1924 at Auburndale, Mass., where he organized the junior church service of the Centenary Sunday School.

Drawing on his own experiences as a youngster, Hardy felt that children were not getting enough out of Sunday school. The minister of the Methodist Church allowed him to reorganize the system and replace customary Bible readings with 20-minute sermons explaining Bible stories.

The idea proved successful, and several years later he inaugurated the same method of Sunday school teaching at Wesley Church in Springfield, Mass.

Hardy chose the career that side tracked him for 41 years when he won a correspondence school scholarship in civil engineering while a newboy in his native Manchester, N.H. He continued his studies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, but left before graduation in 1905 to become chain man in a Boston & Albany surveying party.

During the next 41 years he realized that his real calling was to the ministry, but until his retirement he could only devote summer vacations and occasional week-ends.

He acquired his preacher's license in 1943 and, with an eye to fulfilling his ambition after retirement, devoted all his spare time to preparing for ordination.

Tobacco Chewing Rider Gets Service On Bus

WICHITA, Kan. (UP)—"Non-chalance," said Bus Driver R. E. Plush, "was the old man's middle name."

Driving his route through the Wichita business district, Plush heard the buzzer and pulled the bus in to the curb at the next corner.

An elderly passenger arose slowly and walked leisurely to the doorway. Instead of stepping out, he expectorated a generous amount of tobacco juice, turned around, nodded politely to the driver, and slowly returned to his seat.

"He just shifted the plug to the other cheek and kept on riding and chewing," Plush said.

Relic of 1861 Scheduled To Vanish In Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UP)—The last remaining piece of flagstone walk on this city's broad Main Street onto which Abraham Lincoln once stepped from a carriage in 1861, will soon be torn up and discarded.

The walk, in front of Adam, Mel-drum and Anderson's men's shop in midtown Buffalo, is destined to disappear in improvements planned for the front of the city's oldest department store. The store will be dressed up with granite, all-glass doors and fluorescent lighting after standing unadorned for 81 years.

DOCILE JAPANESE FOUND RETURNING TO INFLUENCE

HONGKONG, (UP) — Japan is "jujutsu-ing" her way into becoming in the very near future an important influence in the Far East, in the opinion of Dr. Peter Russo, Australian authority on Japan and formerly lecturer at the Imperial University of Tokyo.

"The characters which form 'jujutsu' have more than merely a physical implication," Dr. Russo explains. "Literally they mean 'the gentle art,' whereby one does not match strength, but wins by yielding strength—in other words, pliancy."

That, Dr. Russo said, explains the present Japanese docile obedience to every directive and form of control which springs from allied headquarters. He said the complete subservience of the Japanese in leaving the occupation authorities bewildered. They cannot understand the Japanese philosophy which runs something like this:

"We are prepared to do everything you want us to do because you are undoubtedly right (stronger); our emperor has publicly shed his divinity and declared himself a human being; we have wholeheartedly adopted the constitution you drafted for us and become democratic; as you do not like Communism, neither do we; we have followed your instructions to hold our first democratic elections; we along with all the nations in the world, have constitutionally renounced war as an instrument of policy, no matter what the provocation or circumstance."

"Say what else you require of us and we shall gladly do it. All we hope is that you will remember that your economic interests are identified with ours, and that some day, perhaps, we can be useful to you in other ways in this part of the world."

Dr. Russo, who has just returned from a three-month visit to Japan, declared that to this sort of "resistance" there is no counter. Western ideas of behaviorism just cannot catch up with such subtle philosophy.

Dr. Russo is convinced that the occupational authorities are prepared to "call it a day." There are several indications that the occupational forces will be withdrawn shortly, he said. Those in control are learning more and more to the view that Japan has learned its lesson and has given complete proof (western style) of its intention to reform.

Dr. Russo declared: "When commenting on the behavior of the Japanese, it should be taken just as seriously as the cold Englishman who professes at the end of his letter that he is your 'most humble and obedient servant,' or the proud Spaniard who concludes with an earnest desire to kiss your hand."

Dr. Russo's principal impression is that Japan is recovering rapidly from the shock of defeat.

"People we passed," he said, "seemed cheerful enough according to their standards. Some were laughing and wash-maids in the street were giggling as foolishly as ever. Above all, everybody was hard at work. Men and women were busy clearing streets, repairing buildings, erecting wooden houses, carrying tremendous loads on their backs with that frightening patience and stolidity so characteristic of the Japanese laborer."

Wards Serves All America

Every dot on this map is a Montgomery Ward Store, Mail Order House, or Catalog Office. More than 800 . . . too many to count, on a map as small as this. Cities and towns of every size, in every state . . . from the mountains of Maine, to Washington's Puget Sound . . . from Florida's palm trees, to California's redwoods . . . from northern Minnesota's iron mines, to the Rio Grande Valley of Texas. And in all the surrounding countryside, too, Wards and "the folks" are old friends, through the millions of catalogs Wards sends them every year. All this has been going on, remember, for 75 years! For 4 generations, men and women in every part of America have learned to know Montgomery Ward as a name they can trust. They have learned that Wards means good, reliable quality . . . at a price that saves them money.

"We desire to so conduct our affairs that all who deal with us will feel satisfied with their trade; will be pleased with our methods and retain a feeling of friendliness for us; will trade with us repeatedly and will be pleased to express their satisfaction to others."

Do You Have Frequent Headaches?

Persons afflicted with "eye-caused headaches" are often surprised to find out how quickly properly fitted glasses relieve this distress. All headaches are not caused by eyestrain—but a great many of them are, and this is particularly true of headaches which closely follow reading, studying, book-keeping, card playing or an evening at the movies.

to come for a visit soon and she said that when the mother learns that she's a grandmother, she's sure it will hasten her visit.

We've done a lot of bragging in our newspaper about the good records that Ranger students make in colleges and universities, but it seems that high school students that transfer from Ranger to some other school hold up their end of the records, too.

Two former Young School students that transferred to Sunset High School in Dallas and who were among the highest honor students at Young school when they graduated there, finished at Sunset this year and were among the highest honor students. They are Patricia Ann Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams and Katherine Lorraine McLarty, sister of Mrs. Raymond Landroop of Ranger. Patsy, who is also the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Williams and of Mrs. J. W. Hampton, all of Ranger, won the Everts Award, the Four-Year Linz Pin and was elected to membership in the National Honor Society. Katherine Lorraine won the Linz pin and was elected to the National Honor Society. Their graduation exercises were held Friday night at the Fair Park auditorium. Patsy was fifth in honors and Katherine Lorraine was seventh.

When the two girls finished grade school here they were in the class with Anne Matthews and Helen McAnelly who were Ranger High School's 1947 salutatorian and valedictorian.

Two Ranger boys who are working toward their private pilot licenses at the Ranger Flying Service school, are scheduled to make their cross-country flights this week. Leidon Martin will fly to Galveston on his flight and will take Jim Wallace with him. Charles Bond will fly to Carlsbad, New Mexico on his flight. The cross-country flight is required to be at least a 100 mile trip.

Garden Lore

By Ethel Brooks Gilmore

We of the southwest have sadly neglected to make use of one of the most hardy climbers, the grape vine. There is no more beautiful sight than an arbor of whit Niagara grapes. The clusters of green-white grapes against the darker leaves is an artistry in color.

The Chippewa legend of Nokomis and the grape vine is one that, should not be forgotten in the press of time, so I will relate it from memory.

Nokomis-Daughter of the moon, became bored with the earth, and with a number of other Indian maidens flew to the gardens of the moon. After walking through the moon lit gardens, Nokomis grew tired, and seated herself in a grape vine swing, seeking rest, before she returned to earth. One of the Indian maidens was jealous of Nokomis perfect beauty, so she cut the vine, and Nokomis fell to earth "like a falling star". The trees held out their leafy arms to break her fall and she came to rest on a bed of moss. That night was born her first child, a daughter, whom she named Wenonah. When this lovely daughter was grown, she was wooed and won by Mudjekeewis (the west wind). Wenonah became the mother of Hiawatha. The false West Wind deserted her, and she died of a broken heart, leaving her baby Hiawatha in the loving care of Nokomis.

Part of the broken grape vine fell to earth with Nokomis and part of the broken grape vine fell to earth with Nokomis and took root and flourished over the face of the earth, providing sweet fruit for all.

My father H. M. Brookes was a missionary to the Chippewas during 1867 and 1868.

UnderThe Dome At Austin

AUSTIN, Tex., (UP)—There was an old woman who lived in a shoe, and of course you recollect that she had so many children that she didn't know what to do. Austin has its own version of the Mother Goose rhyme. It doesn't rhyme but it says that there is a State Parks Board that's housed in an old church and has so many parks that it's always in debt.

And the 50th Texas Legislature isn't helping the situation much. It has added four state parks and is threatening to dump onto the State Parks Board a few others that now are under jurisdiction of the State Board of Control.

The new parks already added to the string or in process of addition are Eisenhower Park near Denison, Nimitz Park near Fredericksburg, in honor of the Texas-born army and navy leaders. Port Isabel Lighthouse and Independence State Park in Washington county.

Appropriations do not go with the authorization of these new parks and historic shrines but by next session of the legislature appropriation bills for them may be expected.

Until Big Bend State Park

was blended into Big Bend National Park, Texas State Parks Board probably had the biggest park area of any state — exclusive of national parks.

The present lists of state parks is: Abilene, Balmorhea, Eastrop, Bentsen-Rio Grande Valley, Buescher, Big Spring, Blanco, Braham, Caddo Lake, Cleburne, Dainingerfield, Davis Mountains, Fort Griffin, Fort Parker, Frio, John Garner, Goose Island, Huntsville, Inks Lake, Jim Hogg, Kerrville, Lake Corpus Christi, Lockhart, Longhorn Cavern, Meridian, McKenzie, Mineral Wells, Mother Neff, Normangee, Palmetto, Palo Duro, Possum Kingdom, San Jacinto, San Jose, Stephen F. Austin, 36th Division, and Tyler park.

How near W. Lee O'Daniel came to being delayed in becoming governor of Texas on Jan. 15, 1937, has just come to light.

That was the day the first inauguration of a governor was held away from the state capitol. A great out-door ceremony had been arranged at Memorial Stadium of the University of Texas.

The late C. M. Cureton, then Chief Justice of the Texas Supreme Court, administered the oath of office to O'Daniel while a crowd estimated as high as 60,000 watched the event. It took place on temporary stands and the oath was laid on a table to be signed.

Max Bickler who has handled details of state inaugurations for years without a bobble had taken extra pains that year because the ceremony was at an unusual place. All went well until the time came to sign the document. It was laid out and the open inkwell was there in which to dip the pen.

Then there was a sudden gust of wind. Some one grabbed for the copy of the oath to keep it from blowing away. That was successful but in saving the paper the inkwell was knocked over.

Judge Cureton looked dolefully at the ink-covered document. But Bickler had exercised rare foresight. From his pocket he drew another copy of the official oath. He had carried a spare just in case anything happened. Judge Cureton breathed easier; the oath was signed and O'Daniel became governor on time.

The Texas Senate witnessed its heavyweight battle recently.

Sen. Pink Parrish of Lubbock and Sen. Gush Strauss of Hallettsville pitted their full 250 pounds each against the other on opposite sides of a merit system amendment to a bill setting up a retirement system for state employees.

Other senators sat back and watched the duel. Parrish fought for an amendment to the House bill creating merely a retirement system changing it to include a merit system with a state personal board, which Strauss called a half-baked civil service system.

Parrish had his way but Strauss countered with an amendment that killed the grandfather clause in the merit system. That clause retained present state workers without making them compete with new applicants.

"If we are going to set up a merit system, let everybody go on it," said Strauss, as his amendment went on by voice vote. But when Strauss attempted the same amendment on another part of the bill with a grandfather clause, Parrish got a recorded vote which rejected the amendment by a single tally.

Both are former state employees. Parrish worked for the State Comptroller's Office and Strauss is a former head of the Gas Utilities Division of the State Railroad Commission.

Texas' new highway map is a beauty with many color pictures but it has one error.

Among the pictures is the new Nimitz hotel at Fredericksburg that stands on the site of the hotel that was famous for its resemblance to a ship.

The map has this caption: "A famous name for a famous house — birthplace of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz in Fredericksburg."

Visitors who take the road map on its face will go through Fredericksburg without really seeing Admiral Nimitz's birthplace.

He was not born at the hotel or its predecessor but at a house on the opposite side of Fredericksburg's wide main street.

Air conditioning for the half-century old Texas state capitol is being discussed with legislators sweltering in summertime heat.

Fans long have been in use in the House of Representatives but until last week the Senate Chamber had no fans.

Then it became so oppressive that four attic exhaust fans were mounted on small scaffolding and reversed to pump fresh air in to the room. Now the trouble is that when they are running to cool off the Senators it is almost impossible to hear the proceedings.

Fespite the heat, the Senators still sticks to its coat-wearing rule.

In the House, members shed their coats but are required to wear a coat when addressing the Speaker or the members of the House.

Little prospect now is seen for an adjournment of the session before the end of May, so the heat has become a real problem.
