Filibuster Delays Senate Labor Vote

Labor Bill Passed Over Presidential Veto

Representative Fred A. Hartley, Jr., Republican from New Jersey, right co-author of the Taft-Hartley labor control bills is congratulated by Representative John Lesinski, center, Democrat from Michigan, who led the fight against the bill. The House voted to override the President's veto, 331-83. At left is Representative Charles A. Helleck of Indiana, House Republican leader. (NEA Telephoto.)

Well... I Dunno, But... The guys in charge tell us that if you want to go to that banquet Monday night, you gotta have your ticket by noon Monday. Absolutely no more tickets will be sold after noon on Monday.

Friday night business people of Ranger will launch a program that is very important to the community. They will begin a series of visits of a social nature to rural communities in this area. The first visit will be to Alameda when a get-together will be held at the Alameda school. An invitation has been extended to the people of that area to attend the meeting and a program is being arranged for it.

Reasoning back of this move is sound. To know a fellow you've got to visit with him and to do business with him, you've got to know him. Furthermore visiting with people brings about a better understanding of them and their problems. And we all live to close together to look over the other fellow and problems he faces. The interests of those about us are our interests and we can't isolate them. We are inter-dependent and it pays to know the fellow you're dependent upon.

"No man liveth unto himself alone," and it's a good idea to get acquainted with those around us. Brother, we'll bet Truman's and those who are burning every where we turned Saturday nighting somebody was giving 'em the works over their vetoes.

It looks like the Senate will stick by the House in overriding the veto despite the filibuster staged Friday night and Saturday morning, but the bill that Jester vetoed is a dead pigeon. He admitted that the bill was fair but he vetoed it anyway.

That snacks of vote getting tactics. They tell us that Ernst Shelton's motorized ice cream wagon is developing quite a following—a crowd of neighborhood kids where ever the wagon goes.

The little white, awning-covered wagon covers the town selling ice cream cones and such, up and down the street and the kids really go for that. It's some thing new that they like. Instead of having to go to town to get their cones, they're brought right to their doors. And the wagon has the remarkable habit of appearing just at the right time.

All of which reminds us of some of the vendors that used to cover our town when we were kids. There was the woman that sold vegetables from a "surrey", who went up and down the street ringing a little bell. There was an ice cream wagon, too—hand pushed vintage but the one that capped 'em all was the Italian that went up and down the street selling hot females and singing to the top of his voice. "Hot tamales, baked in gravy, good for the wife and ten-year baby."

NEW FLOODS CAUSE RISE IN RIVER

New floods spread along the Missouri river today and army engineers estimated that central states floods of the past three weeks have caused nearly $100,000,000 damage.
While the new threats appeared along the central and lower Missouri river, engineers said that barring unforeseen developments, the danger of dike breaks appeared to be lessening along the Mississippi.
Army engineers district headquarters at St. Louis estimated that as of June 18, floods had caused $99,500,000 damage in the American midlands.
The new floods were caused by heavy rainfall during the night. Almost five inches of rain fell in the area surrounding Kansas City, a "torrent" of rain fell near St. Joseph, Mo.
Meanwhile, Arthur H. Sebelin, public relations officer for the U. S. Engineers, reported that the Mississippi river crest that threatened to break through levees South of Quincy was "flattening off."

Atlee Blasts Governments In Eastern Europe

BARNESLEY, England—Prime Minister Clement Atlee charged today that "so-called democratic government is a travesty" in several eastern European countries.
Atlee told a meeting of Yorkshire miners that human rights were denied in those eastern European countries. His denunciation of restrictions on liberty was among the strongest criticisms he has made publicly against political trends in eastern Europe.

Says Protests Caused His Veto

AUSTIN—Pencil written protests on tablet paper from people in "dry" counties of Texas caused him to veto a new liquor control bill passed by the state Legislature, Gov. Beauford H. Jester said today.
The measure to tighten liquor regulation had been amended to permit "wet" precincts or towns within counties that have county-wide prohibition. Jester said that feature might nullify county-wide local option.
James Liddy, Watertown, N. Y., made the coil springs in the middle 19th century with coils from the seat of a buggy.

ROAD MEETING CALLED FOR TUESDAY NITE

A meeting of a group of Breckenridge, Caddo and Ranger citizens will be held at Caddo Tuesday night June 24 for the purpose of laying plans to get the State Highway Department to take over the Ranger-Caddo road as a farm to market road.
It was stated this morning that this has been one of the major projects of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce and ground work for the plans has been laid. The Commissioners courts in Eastland and Stephens counties have passed court orders requesting the department to take over the road and those working on the project feel that prospects are better than ever before.
An appointment has been made with the highway commission for a delegation from the two counties to appear before the body on July 31. It was pointed out that the next farm to market road program starts in 1949 and it is hoped that the road will be included in this program.
Those expected at the meeting Tuesday night are the highway committees of the Breckenridge Chamber of Commerce, the county judge of Stephens county, commissioner of the Caddo precinct, farm to market road committee of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, Judge P. L. Crossley of Eastland county and Commissioner Castleberry of the Ranger precinct.

Believe Russia Will Accept Bid To Join Talks

LONDON—A "better than even chance" exists, Moscow observers believe, that Russia will join Britain and France in tripartite talks on the Marshall plan for European recovery, a dispatch from the Soviet capital said today.
The dispatch was cleared by Moscow censors almost simultaneously with a Moscow radio broadcast stating that the Soviet government was "considering" the Anglo-French invitation to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault asked to meet them next week.

Trinity River Threatens Floods

The rampaging Trinity river was predicted today to flood large areas of farm lands within a 50-mile arc south of Dallas, as the rapid waters rose five feet over the flood stage at the commerce street bridge in Dallas proper.
Five deaths already have been attributed to the rainstorm in North Texas.

Baptists, DeLeon Play Here Monday

The First Baptist church softball team will meet the all-star team from DeLeon in a game Monday night at 8 o'clock at the Ranger softball field.
This is a return game, the Ranger team having played at DeLeon on last Monday night. DeLeon was winner of that game and the Baptists will be out to revenge that defeat on Monday night.

Ma's Good Food Wins Even Over Stage Glamor

BROCKTON, Mass. (UP)—As far as 22 year old Shirley A. Anderson is concerned, the reported glamor of the stage and night life is "just a pain in the neck."
After a year of dancing with a professional troupe, Miss Anderson quit the stage and went to work in a Brockton shoe factory.
"I'm home and I can sleep in my own bed and eat Ma's good cooking," she said, "and I find helping to make a shoe quite relaxing and almost as interesting as stage routines."

22, One Half Hour Continuous Session Longest In Twenty Years

SERIES OF GOOD WILL TRIPS SET

A big get-together meeting at the Alameda school has been planned by Ranger business men for Friday night at 8 o'clock and it is urged that as many Ranger citizens as possible make their plans to attend.
The meeting which was planned by the agriculture and livestock committee, and the trade extension committee of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce is the first in a series of such gatherings to be held over Ranger's trade territory. The meetings will be held on Friday nights and programs will be provided by the men planning them.
Designed to promote good will, a get-acquainted theme will be the order of the meetings. A committee composed of Joe Dennis, P. T. Smith, Calvin Brown, and Arlie Carver was named to work out the itinerary for the trips. They are also making the plans for the meeting Friday night.
A committee composed of Delbert Capps, C. M. Deal, Jr., and R. J. Rains, was named to arrange programs for the various meetings.
Plans for this project were worked out at a meeting held Friday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce, and which was attended by H. C. Henderson, T. C. Wylie, Joe Dennis, R. J. Rains, Delbert Capps, Calvin Brown, P. T. Smith and Arlie Carver.

WASHINGTON (UP)—A marathon filibuster by insurgent Democrats and Republicans today seemed certain to postpone until next Monday the crucial Senate vote on overriding President Truman's labor veto.
Prospects were that when the Senate does vote, it will join the House in enacting the Taft-Hartley bill despite the President's objections.
Weary senators who had been up all night were maneuvering for an agreement that would put off the vote until Monday and end the longest continuous Senate session in 20 years.
At 8:30 A. M., the Senate had been in session for 22 1-2 hours.
Republican leaders at first had been determined to smash the filibuster even if it meant staying in session through Sunday. But at dawn, GOP Whip, Kenneth Wherry proposed a unanimous agreement to vote Monday.
The filibusters refused to give in then. But later, Sen. Wayne Morse, R. Ore., one of the leaders of the insurgents, said he and his filibustering colleagues would be willing to consent to a vote any time next week.
Though apparently abandoning all hope of getting a vote today, the leadership strategy seemed to be to let Morse and his associates talk a few hours more before making an agreement on postponement.
The Democratic leadership itself kept hands off the filibuster. It took no part in the talkathon. Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, in fact joined in the unsuccessful Republican proposals to get a vote today.
But he and the GOP leadership were blocked by the small group headed by Morse and Sen. Glen Taylor, the singing cowboy from Idaho, and including Sens. Claude Pepper, D., Fla., and Harley M. Kilgore, D., W. Va.
Their strategy was to delay a vote until the Senate obtained public reaction to Mr. Truman's blistering veto message yesterday and his radio appeal for public support last night.
Mr. Truman carried his case directly to the people after the House promptly and overwhelmingly overrode his veto by a vote of 331 to 83—far more than the necessary two thirds majority needed to override.
If and when the Senate votes to override the President's veto, the controversial bill will become the law of the land—outlawing the closed shop, restricting the union shop, banning jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts and granting the government authority to obtain court injunctions to prevent strikes in industries vital to the national health and safety.
Mr. Truman rejected the measure yesterday as a "shocking" bill and an instrument that would sow labor-management discord "for many years to come."

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—Half a dozen of the world's leading authorities on helicopters had a bull session with Washington aviation writers the other night and, just as you'd expect, the talk all went right straight up and hovered in mid-air all evening.

Only man who kept his feet on the ground was Igor Sikorsky, Russian-born inventor of the "heel-co-peter" as he used to call it. He's still an enthusiast about the future for his invention, but he admits it has definite limitations—150-mile-an-hour cruising speeds and useful loads of from two to 20 persons.

Best story about Sikorsky goes back to the days of his early experiments for United Aircraft. He used to take movies to record his progress. It was noticed, however, that while his films showed the best models flying up, down, sideways and backwards, they did not fly forward. When Sikorsky was asked about this little detail he shook his head sadly and said in his beautiful accent, "I know. This is the one thing we have not yet solved."

Just to show how much progress there has been since then, get a payload of some of the screwball things the egg-beater designers of today talk shop about.

R. W. Prewitt of Philadelphia, president of the American Helicopter Soc'y, told with a rotary motion of his tongue in his cheek about the idea of lifting the helicopter straight up in the air with its windmill contraption, then turning it at a 90-degree angle and proceeding horizontally at high speeds, using the rotor as a propeller.

WELCH POGUE, former Civil Aeronautics Board chairman and now secretary of the Helicopter association, told about a man on a train, riding by the Piascecki helicopter plant in Sharon Hill, Pa., and seeing a two-rotor job in flight.

The man got off the train at the next stop, came back and demanded to buy one, immediately. Seems he had a contract to paint a tall factory chimney. His idea was to stick a painter on a plank stuck out the cabin door, run the helicopter up one side of the chimney and down the other and so spray-paint the smokestack.

That brought the talk around to real, practical uses of the helicopter. The authority seemed to be Lou Leavitt of Camden, N. J., who operates a fleet of eight helicopters for hire and is having his troubles making both ends meet. In his best month he took in $20,000, but still lost money. Operating costs are higher for small planes.

Lou Leavitt has, however, done all kinds of jobs. Surveying a Louisiana oil field. Hauling Governor Driscoll and Sen. Alexander Smith on their political campaign barnstorming in New Jersey. Delivering parcels to 55 Connecticut towns in three and a half hours to advertise a Hartford department store's anniversary. Landing Santa Claus in Allentown, Pa., on a small platform surrounded by hundreds of excited, screaming kids without anybody getting hurt.

Col. H. E. Gregory, Army Air Forces expert on helicopters, took off on more bizarre flights of fancy in speculating about future military applications of the windmill. With dramatic seriousness he talks about laying signal corps wire from a helicopter—even digging holes and planting the telephone poles.

REAL enthusiast in the business is young F. N. Piascecki, whose engineering firm has been working with helicopters only since 1940. Piascecki says that on his drawing boards is a new model to weigh 17 tons and be the equivalent of the DC-3 as an aerial workhorse. It is designed to cross the ocean or fly halfway across and back on aerial rescue missions. Piascecki predicts 250 mile speeds.

But the helicopter age, with one in every back yard, does not yet seem to be just around the corner. Sikorsky says that the family helicopter, selling for $3000 or less, may be 10 years or more off. Present costs are around $30,000.

Walt Donney, speaking for Bell Aircraft, said his company has made great progress in simplifying controls, but they have decided "they can't bring out a model for gran'ma this year."

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Even with the great Hal Newhouser off to a somewhat shaky start, the Tigers are out to prove Connie Mack's contention that pitching is as much as 90 per cent of baseball.

The Detroiters realize they cannot accomplish this without a few base hits. They are banking on Dick Wakefield to replace Hank Greenberg in the assault and battery department, and help what generally is acknowledged to be the most efficient staff in the business to stir up trouble for the defending Red Sox all the way along the route.

A pronounced flop in 1946, Wakefield seemed ambitious in this spring Steve O'Neill told the Michigan alumnus that the record $35,000 and the automobile he was handed for signing were no guarantee to keep him in the majors. He would either have to hit and hustle or be returned to the minors.

DETROIT fans felt the same way about it. Wakefield, the punpered and promising poegreen of 1942-44, heard the boss birds at Briggs Stadium until he caught fire with a home run atop the right field pavilion against the Browns, a feat accomplished previously by only Jim Bottomley and Ted Williams.

With Lake, Keil, Cullenbine, Wakefield, Evers, and Mullin, Stout Steve O'Neill believes he has sufficient power to take it all. Roy Cullenbine broke in with a home run on opening day and

Believe Rival Colleges Have Buried Hatchet

ALPINE, Tex., (U.P.)—A hotel clerk here is now quite sure the world is at peace.

The clerk is witness to two peaceful days in one room—spent by delegates of East Texas State and North Texas State, rival colleges for 30 years.

Peace came to the hilltops west of Fecos when delegates from the two colleges were thrown in the same room during a recent Texas Intercollegiate Press Association convention here.

After two days of nervous wait-students must have buried the hatchet. There were no overturned furniture, or no broken windows.

TRAFFIC HEAD FINDS LACK OF COURTESY CAUSES MISHAPS

By CLAIRES COX
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO (UP)—The man in the street is running the nation's flat-footed, a veteran policeman finds.

The average American may be a peace-loving man, he said, but he starts stirring up trouble the minute he gets out on the street. Andrew said even the motorists, who blame every mishap on pedestrians, become feet-footed traffic dodgers when they get out from behind the wheel. "Neither motorists nor pedestrians are very polite," Andrews complained. "That's the chief cause of traffic accidents—that and daydreaming."

Andrews already has helped establish Evanston as one of the nation's safest cities on the ratings of the National Safety Council. He's been concentrating on motorists, but soon is going to start a pedestrian safety campaign which he hopes will be copied in other cities.

He said a pedestrian with head high in the air can look both ways for traffic, glance at a stop sign and then proceed to walk right into the path of an automobile—all because he's trying to figure out how to make an extra dollar on a business deal, or thinking about that blonde he passed two blocks back.

Crossing streets against signals, jay-walking and darting through traffic to catch the five o'clock bus also land hundreds of persons in hospitals every year, Andrews said.

He added that a large percentage of pedestrian traffic violations are by persons who don't drive.

"They don't know how to estimate the speed of an oncoming automobile, and they don't understand the rules of right-of-way," he said.

"Apparently there's only one solution to the whole problem. We'll have to give pedestrians tickets just like the drivers."

The man in the street doesn't seem to care much whether he risks his neck he added, but he'll think twice before d u c k i n g through traffic, if it's going to cost him a couple of dollars.

war there was a general letdown by the residents and the public works department, with the result that the city became filthy. Garbage was not prepared properly for collection and collections were never on schedule.

"Detroit was not sanitation conscious," he said, "but now we have embarked on a year around program, a continuing publicity campaign, to make the city clean and more healthy."

Jones said the problem of sanitation was being licked but that a continuing program was needed.

"When you get down to the last four or five, they are all beautiful, and our problems are all had," he said.

Jeffries said that after sewers and sanitation would come street paving, the erection of new schools, the building of additional playgrounds, the acquisition of more parking facilities, the building of more parks and the need for a better airport.

In the long range program, Jeffries said are plans for the establishment of a river front drive and the building of a cultural center.

MOTOR CITY FINDS SEWER PROBLEM HARD

DETROIT (UP)—Detroit, the motor capital of the world, is plagued with a problem that can't be licked by mechanical ingenuity. The problem is the installation of $35,000,000 worth of sewers to keep thousands of homes from flooding after each heavy rain.

Mayor Edward J. Jeffries and Ernest Jones, superintendent of public works, agreed that the sewer problem rates tops among the civic enterprises.

"After every heavy rain the homes in the newer sections of the city have flooded basements and the manhole covers in the streets pop off like buttons," Jones said.

He explained that in many of the recently developed sections of Detroit a 14-inch pipe empties into a seven-inch drain with the result that a heavy rain forces the water back into the basements. The receding waters then leave a covering of sludge to damage the property further.

One energetic resident flooded his own basement recently just before a heavy rain and kept the clean water at the flood stage. As the water seeped out he was left with a freshly washed basement and did not have to shovel out bushels of sludge.

Jones said the construction of sewers did not keep ahead of the growth of the city and that the city was "paying for it now."

The extension of two existing 14-inch trunk lines, he said, "will go a long way toward licking the problem."

These trunk lines are to be started immediately and will cost $14,000,000. One is to be completed next year, while the other will not be finished until 1949.

Jones said an additional $31,000,000 would be spent by 1952 to bring the city's sewer system up to par.

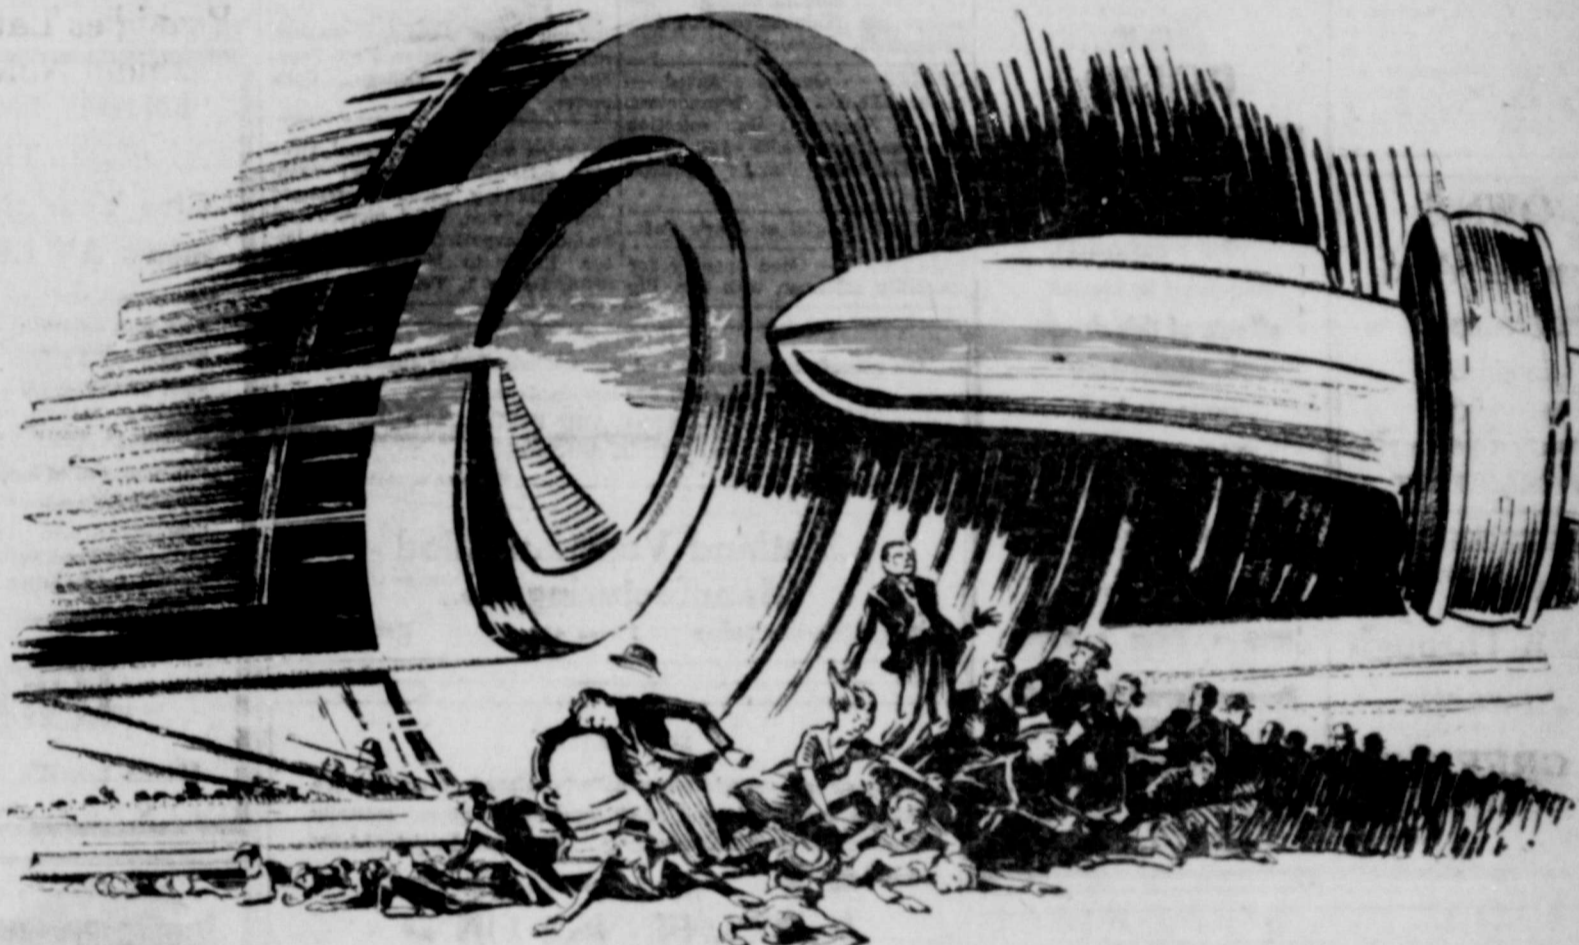

Tied in with sewers is the problem of sanitation and keeping Detroit clean, Jones said.

He pointed out that during the

WHERE THOUSANDS DIE!

91 killed—3,150 injured! If that were the report of an explosion, wreck or other disaster, it would be front page news. People would be horrified! But worse—it's just one day's automobile casualty list in the United States. It happens every day, week in, week out. Four deaths, 131 injured—every hour. At year's end 33,500 lives snuffed out, over a million injured or maimed for life. That's what happened last year. This year's record threatens to be even higher.

Speed—reckless, wanton speed—drunken driving—defiance of safety rules and regulations—and careless, jaywalking pedestrians, top the list of causes for this grim toll.

What can you do about it? Will the speeding wheels of your car add one death to this mass murder of the highways? Not if you, the driver—and you, the pedestrian—take your individual responsibilities seriously. Drive carefully at all times, under all conditions and be alert when walking.

Don't be one of the thousands to kill, or be killed. Drive safely—and live!

This advertisement is presented in the public interest by the President's Highway Safety Conference and the daily and weekly newspapers of the nation through their Press and Publisher Associations.

Fitty The Poor Customer Expert Tells Retailers

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (UP)—Charles S. Wynand, an authority on retail selling methods, says there are three things wrong with retail business. They are:

More customers suffer from an inferiority complex. Most clerks are indifferent, condescending and frequently downright insulting. Most employees who hire the clerks are self-satisfied and reluctant to make progressive changes. Wynand, who is assistant to the president of Pennsylvania State College, told a West Chester Board of Trade meeting that traders people should remember that the average customer is "a fairly inarticulate person, with frustrations and aspirations and deep-seated inferiority feelings, who is trying to buy self-esteem along with his other purchases."

"Is my husband putting up this bond?" she asked. An officer nodded.

CHICAGO (UP)—Illinois veterans who don't need their state bonus money might well set up a trust fund to help those who are in need, says a university professor and former marine.

Paul Douglas, University of Chicago professor made the suggestion in an address before a local chapter of the American Veterans Committee. He pointed out that if only five per cent of the bonus money were turned over for welfare use, more than $9,000,000 would be available in Cook County (Chicago) alone.

SPOKANE, WASH. (UP)—Old Man Stark is lending a hand in the army's recruiting program, according to Master Sgt. John F. Brerton of the local recruiting office.

The sergeant said most of them sign on the dotted line when they learn the army still finances GI babies.

Garden Lore

Long ago our great-grandmothers sang a song about a flower and a star. In one verse the song's refrain was, A flower fall in love with a star one night, But the star could n'er come down to the flower, or flower go up to the star. This song was connected with a legend concerning the flower plant nicotiana, commonly called Evening Star.

The legend is that one night a drab bit of a plant on a bright evening star and soon the star became aware of the flower. Many nights they looked at each other and grew to love each other, but the star realized, that their romance was in vain, so he sought the advice of Mylitta, the goddess of the heavens and Mylitta took pity on them and to ease the flowers grief transformed her into the plant known as the Evening star.

Nicotiana is a flowering species of tobacco. The flowers are star shaped and are of various hues, and they have a delightful fragrance.

The word nicotiana is a coined word, coined in honor of Jean Nicot. The tobacco plant itself was brought to Europe in 1558 by Francisco Fernandes, a physician who had been sent by Philip II. of Spain to investigate the products of Mexico. Jean Nicot, the French ambassador to Portugal, sent seeds to the queen, Catherine de'Medici and many other notables. In commemoration of the services rendered by Nicot in spreading knowledge of the tobacco plant it was given the name of Nicotiana.

Ralph Lane, first governor of Virginia and Sir Francis Drake, when they returned to England, during 1586 took with them Indian pipes and tobacco prepared for smoking which they gave to Sir Walter Raleigh. Governor Lane is credited as the first Englishman to smoke a pipe. An old manuscript reads thus, Sir Raleigh, "took a pipe of tobacco before he went to the scaffold."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

A Lesson From the Kingdom of Judah

Scripture: II Kings 25:1-12; Jeremiah 37

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
THE Kingdom of Judah was a small kingdom set between the great empires of the ancient world. It was always in some danger from its powerful enemies and especially from their ambition for conquest and world domination. The life of the people and the policy of their rulers was affected by factors and powers outside their own borders over which they had little or no control.

It would seem that our great North American democracies have little in common with that small, ancient country so beset with danger from its powerful neighbors. But our domestic life and our policies and actions are in large measure determined by conditions in the rest of the world.

IT was not always so. The oceans once kept us comparatively isolated and we used our isolation so well that, instead of having our borders bristling with guns, as in Europe, we established and have kept the peace for over 130 years, along an unfortified border of over 3000 miles between Canada and the U. S. It has long been my belief that in our ministry of relief to Europe and Asia we ought to be making a little more of that example.

Despite the peaceful attitude and achievement of our two North American countries, we have with in this 20th century been involved in wars that were not of our own making. Death, suffering and tragedy have come to our homes. And now we face conditions in which it may all happen again. We know that we are not, and cannot be, isolated.

What, then, should be our course? Since I am a preacher, I think there is something we can learn from the lesson of Israel and the fall of the Kingdom of Judah.

WHATEVER safety there was for that kingdom lay in the preservation of her own integrity and moral strength and in straight and honest dealing with neighboring nations.

It was this that prophets, like Jeremiah, proclaimed as the only right course. But neither King nor people would listen. They turned their own life into corruption, and they engaged in crooked intrigues. Instead of listening to the prophet, they cast him into a foul dungeon. If we would heed the lesson of Israel, we would engage all our powers in the correction of evils and abuses in our internal life. Nothing would make us stronger and wiser for the inevitable part that we shall have to play in world affairs.

poultry or other livestock," they warned.

They said many growers, unable to get their crops planted because of bad weather, have requested information about this treated seed.

at the same time at commencement exercises at the Odessa High School this year.

Mrs. Wells, who began driving a school bus from Penwell two years ago, decided that since she had to make the trip every day, she might as well go to school and finish the high school education she discontinued 20 years ago.

Starting next fall, Mrs. Wells plans to enter junior college here.

'Huff-duff', 'Gapa', 'Mop' Defined For Those Who Don't Already Know

By Hearman W. Nichols

United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO (UP)—Such words as "huff-duff", "gapa", "mop" and "plesianthropous" have been added to the American language today.

Those, and many others, are defined in the new issue of the Encyclopedia Britannica's Book of the Year.

"Huff-Duff," for example is the pronunciation given by servicemen to the initials HF-DF, meaning high frequency direction finder.

"Gapa" is short for ground-to-air-pilotless aircraft, a guided missile of the U. S. Army Air Forces.

"Mop," is a mild form of "hubba, hubba, hubba" whatever that is. And "plesianthropous" came into usage because a man named Broom dug up some dirt in South Africa. A "plesianthropous" is an "almost man," whose skeletal remains were found by Dr. Robert Broom not far from Johannesburg.

You can put some of the new words into a sentence, if you feel like. Thus:

"The brideship has plenty of cuddle seats aboard and there was a great deal of 'mop.'"

You can translate it like this: "A ship carrying a large number of servicemen's brides had aboard many small seats for babies, which are hung from a strap over the shoulder, and there was a great deal of hubba, hubba—in a mild form."

The encyclopedia people aren't sure where "be-bop" came from, but they have a rough idea of what it means—"a word used to describe swing music which is unrestrained, unrehearsed, high-noted, full of horseplay, and often 'off key.'"

"Banana" money in the new book is Japanese currency, so dubbed because it bears the design of a banana but we understand it takes a good sized stack to buy even a banana.

A "bungalow biddy" is a huge machine which can "lay" a four-room concrete house in 24 hours.

One new word says just about what it means.

"A 'sitter' is a girl who watches the baby while mom and pop go to the movies."

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Gonzales County To Have Broiler Show, Festival

GONZALES, Tex., (U.P.)—Gonzales County will put a feather in its cap and advertise the 16 million broilers it raises annually by putting on an annual broiler show and festival.

The first such festival will be held early in 1948, it was decided at a meeting of interested citizens here Wednesday.

Organization of the project will be completed at a second meeting to be held soon. Object of the festival is to enlarge the market for Gonzales County broilers. The county is the largest broiler-producing center in the South.

for it. He is on his way by auto." The auditor's office has just returned the deed to Missouri with the following note: "We have been holding this deed for more than 23 years and Forthun hasn't arrived yet. Must have had car trouble."
