29th YEAR RANGER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JULY 6, 1947 PRICE FIVE CENTS No. 31

Well...
I Dunno,
But...

The weather cooled off for the Fourth of July, dropping from the 107 high of the day before to ONLY 100 yesterday, Saturday. It's back up there again, registering 107 before 1 o'clock.

In case you don't remember it, we told you last winter when everybody was howling about the cold that we'd wish for some of it come July and August. And we repeat what we said then, we'd prefer the cold to the heat, such as we're having now.

It's too bad that it has to be done, but we're glad President Truman got Russia stated. Personally, we don't like to be kicked around and we don't like to see our country battered around. So far everything has had to go Russia's way or out she walked. At times the Soviet Union reminds us of a small child who refuses to play unless he can run the game.

Heard a man saying the other day that he still believes that a thorough application of the principles of Christianity would be the solution to the world's problems. We agree to that but it's gonna be hard to make Russia see that when they've kicked out Christianity.

Anyway, it's time somebody bucks up to Russia.

If you want a box at the Jaycee rodeo, now's the time to speak up. The box holders last year were given first opportunity at their boxes this year but now they've been thrown open to the public.

It's a little less than four weeks until the show opens and the last minute plans are flying.

All we had to do this morning was take one look at most of the people we met, to know whether or not they had some kind of outing on the Fourth.

Red faces and arms were the tell-tale signs and eventually a good many people were out in the open Friday. Some of 'em are nursing rather good cases of sunburn.

Jacqueline Edwards, talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Edwards, is to be the guest artist on the Premier Ranger program over WFAA, 820 Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock. Miss Edwards will sing on the program which lasts from 7 to 7:15 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Dockery had as their guests Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Roberts and daughters, Rose Mary, Marjorie and Elizabeth of Throckmorton, formerly of Ranger.

"Luke," as Mr. Roberts was known to the staff of the Ranger Times, where he was an operator during their residence here, is now publisher of the paper at Throckmorton.

Navy Contractor Seeks Men For Work On Guam

Some 700 workers monthly for Pacific overseas duty in the reconstruction of Guam, George A. Chandler, field personnel manager of Brown-Pacific-Maxon construction company of S. A. Francisco, began receiving applications at the Texas State Employment Service office at 921 Lamar street in Ft. Worth Monday.

Chandler said that technicians and skilled men such as electricians, riggers, iron workers, carpenters, construction engineers and draftsmen are needed. Wages are higher in most cases than those for U. S. employment and are exempt from income taxation. One year contracts are required.

Recruits are flown from S. A. Francisco to Hawaii, then to Guam.

Chandler said the company provides quarters and board at a maximum charge of $1.50 daily and free transportation to and from worker's job. He said that families of such contract workers are not permitted to go to Guam at this time.

HOLIDAY TOLL IS AT LEAST 285 DEATHS

The long Independence Holiday took a tragic toll of hundreds of celebrants today as clear weather jammed highways, beaches and amusement areas.

At least 285 fun-seeking persons met death since Thursday noon, 114 of them in the bumper-to-bumper traffic, 93 in drownings and 75 due to miscellaneous causes.

Three died as result of fire-works.

The National Safety Council had predicted that 275 persons would die in auto accidents. The soaring traffic toll indicated today that the prediction would be surpassed.

Texas accounted for 21 of the overall total. Five were traffic fatalities, five were drowned, and three were from miscellaneous causes. Eight persons were shot to death in Texas.

TRUMAN WAITS REACTION ON DENUNCIATION

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. — President Truman kept close watch today for world reaction to his Fourth of July denunciation of Russia for refusing to cooperate with the Marshall plan to speed Europe's economic recovery.

The President was especially eager to find out how his speech would be received in foreign capitals. He directed White House aides to send all important comment to the address to Colle, the 210-acre estate of Stanley Woodward, state department chief of protocol, where the President is spending the week-end. Mr. Truman returns to the capital tomorrow.

Leading the nation in observance of Independence Day, the chief executive appealed to all countries to cooperate for a lasting peace founded on freedom and truth. He assailed as "fallacious" the Soviet argument that the Marshall plan would encourage meddling by some nations in the affairs of others.

With most senators and representatives out of Washington for the holiday week-end, congressional reaction to the President's speech was slow on taking form. However, those who would comment were heartily in favor of Mr. Truman's strongly worded rejection of Russia's "fallacious" argument against the Marshall Plan.

Sen. Tom Connally, D. Tex., said the speech was "most admirable." He said he was in complete agreement with the President's view that "The Russian objections to the Marshall Plan are unfounded."

WOULD ASSURE AMPLE FUEL FOR NEEDS THIS WINTER

WASHINGTON — The United Mine Workers — AFL — were ready today to ratify a new coal wage contract which industry sources said would assure ample fuel this winter for homes and factories despite threatened oil and natural gas shortages.

UMW president John L. Lewis was scheduled to meet with spokesman for U. S. Steel Corp., other steel companies operating "captive" mines and the northern Appalachian producers to put the finishing touches to the final draft of the contract. They reached agreement in principle Wednesday.

Lewis was to convene his 250-man wage policy committee at 2 p. m. CST, to approve terms of the new contract.

At the same hour, southern coal producers resume their contract discussions. These mine owners, representing about one fourth of total soft coal production, passed up the Fourth of July holiday to talk over Lewis' demands, but after a three-hour session they decided to look for "more facts."

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—They're making yeast, molasses, salad oil, powdered juice and livestock feed out of oranges now, and there's no taking what netting. Let the Department of Agriculture's Dr. L. F. Martin, of the Bureau of Industrial Chemistry, tell you about it.

Dr. Martin is in charge of government research laboratories at New Orleans, La., and Winter Haven, Fla. At these stations and at other orange laboratories in Westaco, Tex., Los Angeles and Albany, Calif., the government is trying to find new uses and improved methods of handling citrus fruits and their byproducts.

Canners take 40 per cent of all the oranges and 70 per cent of the grapefruit now. But after they get the juice in cans they have left a lot of peel, pulp, skin and seeds that are an awful nuisance. If dumped in streams, they kill off the fish. For a time they were pumped underground through reverse wells. Trouble was that the waste waters seeped through the ground and spouted out as springs a couple counties away, causing all sorts of damage.

Some years ago the idea of grinding up the peel and making it into livestock feed was tried, and it worked. Ninety per cent of all the Florida canner peel, 70 per cent of all the Texas peel, is now used in cattle and poultry feeds.

In grinding, pressing and processing the skin and pulp, however, there's a certain amount of liquid that creates a problem. Because there is a considerable sugar content, somebody got the idea of trying to make it into low-grade molasses. During the war, when there was a sugar and molasses shortage, this was a profitable enterprise. About a third of the canner waste liquors gets used this way now, but when the supply of blackstrap molasses from the cane sugar refineries increases, orange molasses won't be able to compete in price. So now they're trying to make an edible molasses out of it.

Also looking ahead to the day when the orange pulp molasses business might fold up, chemists have figured out a process for converting the waste liquors into yeast. This yeast has a high protein content and makes good cattle feed. There's a plant at Orlando, Fla., in this business on a commercial basis.

About the fanciest byproduct development, however, was the idea of pressing the oils out of orange and grapefruit seed. Like all vegetable oils, they may be used as shortening. Refined, they make a good salad oil.

Chemists are also trying to improve the quality of canned citrus fruit products for human consumption. They're analyzing all the unstable organic compounds in the fruit to find which ones spoil the taste of the canned juices. Best answer they've found so far is to use only perfect fruit for canning.

In the last couple of years a juice concentrate has seemed to work pretty well. The juice is evaporated till it has about 70 per cent solids. Then one-fourth fresh juice is added for flavor, making the mixture about 50 per cent solids. Canned and frozen, it keeps well.

FOR a few years the research boys experimented with orange wines, gins, brandies and liqueurs. They made some good stuff, too, they say. Then Congress decided the government should not spend taxes for booze research, so they had to cut it out.

All this research has for its real purpose the developing of the citrus fruit market. Though the government hasn't bought any citrus fruits to support the price since before the war, the possibility of a big surplus and dumped, unsalable fruit such as they had in mid-depression days, still haunts citrus growers.

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Don't feel sorry for the Cardinals. Don't take any stock in the story circulated more recently that the St. Louis Nationals are a decaying organization.

Direct evidence to the contrary is the Houston club, out in front in the Texas League and threatening to pull away.

The Buffaloes should with the kind of pitching they have had to date.

As total of 15 shutouts were turned in by a half dozen Houston pitchers in the first 45 games. Clarence Beers had four. Jack Creel three, Al Pappi and Roman Krushnick two each, and Rudy Rundus and Art Nelson one apiece.

Jimmy Adair, managing San Antonio, says Beers and Creel are in the wrong league. "They could win in much faster baseball than that played in the Texas League," opines the old Cub infielder. "I don't believe I ever saw a minor league pitching staff so strong. Even after that big four—Beers, Creel, Pappi and Brunswick, Houston has pretty good pitchers in Charley Sproull and Nelson, and Rounder ever learns to get his stuff over the plate, he's going to be a corker."

MAJOR league scouts declare that Beers would win with the Cardinals right now.

The right-handed Beers and Creel beat arm trouble to demonstrate the former for his first and the latter for another chance with the parent club.

Breaking in at 17, the 25-year-old, 175-pound Beers kicked around in the minors for six years, went into the Army Air Forces with a sore arm contracted in the cold weather at Pocatello, Ida. A service measure, Bill Larson, did what baseball trainers failed to do in four years. He fixed the arm. Beers got out of the Air Force in time to train with the Buffs last year, when a wisdom tooth extraction leaving a dry socket prevented him from running to get in shape.

Beers won seven of eight after dropping three spirit-breakers in the season's start, 2-1, 3-1 and 3-1. He fanned 35 in 64 innings. He possesses a good fast ball and a fine curve and added a knuckle to his repertoire this season.

Creel's arm went dead while he was with the Cardinals in 1945, remained troublesome through last season. The 30-year-old, six-foot, 165-pound Creel is a first cousin of Tex Hughson of the Red Sox. Creel was a rather accomplished third baseman. Through a family trait, he is unable to fully open either hand. A muscular phenomenon limits him to about half open hands, but he figures this helps his pitching.

Creel owns a great curve, a good screwball and his control is exceptional. In 1942 with Houston, he won 13 and lost 6 with an earned-run average of 1.30. His masterpiece this spring was a two-hitter against Beaumont in which he did not allow a hit for 7 1/2 rounds, then yielded a scratch.

A Man Named Job Finds a Solution

Scripture: Job 1:1; 27:1-5; 31:19-28

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

ARE there problems that are "modern" in the sense that men have never encountered them before our time?

Such a thing is neither possible nor improbable. For the external conditions of life have changed greatly within a single generation, and new occasions and environments must surely bring some new problems.

We are all living in a world that has become smaller by reason of new discoveries and means of transportation. But at the same time that world has become an immensely enlarged environment for the individual by reason of that very fact.

Facts and contrasts strike a great deal deeper in the new occasions. And so a poet has told us to teach new duties, and therefore present new problems.

NEVERTHELESS, some problems are as old as man himself, and one thing that is unchanged is the fact that man himself has to be the problem solver. So ancient experience and wisdom may have much to offer, even in the presence of problems that are as new as the new-born day.

Deep and unchanged in human life is the problem of suffering and especially the suffering of the apparently morally guiltless. Much human suffering offers no problem, though the fact may not alter its acuteness. It is the direct and observable result of sheer disregard of moral or physical laws. But the suffering of the good is another thing.

It is this problem with which the Book of Job deals. The Book has been called "a sublime drama of God's providence and man's suffering." Its central character, Job, a man of moral rectitude and apparently blameless life, is stricken with dire calamity, in himself, his family, and his affairs.

THE situation is made acutely dramatic to bring out the full reality of the problem. Yet it is no more extreme than that which many men and women have experienced today, especially the thousands of innocent people who suffered war's ruthlessness and Hitlerism.

Three of Job's friends sought to comfort him with plausible or conventional notions. These notions centered around the idea that suffering is a sure sign of sin and that Job must be guilty of some secret fault.

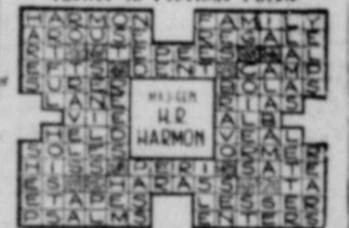

This easy view Job refuses to accept. His faith is tried, and he is tempted to "curse God and die." But while he finds no solution of the problem of suffering, he finds a solution of his personal problem in the conviction that the Judge of the earth will do right and in the determination to trust Him no matter what may happen.

Sea Lilies Help Geologists
SEATTLE (UP)—Prehistoric sea lilies, a few of which are unearthed each year by amateurs, help paleontologists estimate the date of prehistoric deposits. Usually found in shale or limestone, the flower like animals changed just enough through the centuries for experts to determine approximately when plants or animals found in the same geological layer lived.

Beware Of Dogs

Eugene McCulley, left, looks in wonder at the harmless-looking dogs which attacked and killed Stanley Balaban, 11, near a crowded swimming pool in New York City. The heat-crazed dogs, two of which were killed by police, charged Patrolman Rissone, 31, as he stooped over the boy's body. At right, Patrolman Rissone displays wounds and torn trousers after he tried to rout the mad bull terriers. (NEA Telephoto).

Daughter Of Former Ranger Woman Married

ALPINE, Tex.—In an impressive candle-light service at eight o'clock last Friday evening in the First Methodist Church of Alpine, Miss Charlotte Jean Miller became the bride of Mr. Jack Mayberry.

The Rev. Austin Dillon, pastor of the church read the marriage rites, using the double-ring service. Mrs. Dillon at the organ played a program of beautiful selections, and the traditional professional and recessional marches. Seven-branched candelabra in graduated heights held tall white tapers. Small candles with ribbon-tied gardenias decorated the seats reserved for the families and close friends. The rear of the altar was banked with garlands dotted with white summer chrysanthemums. White gladioli in tall baskets made an impressive setting for the ceremony.

As Mrs. Dillon at the organ played that favorite of many brides, "I Love You Truly," the ushers Carl Shultz, Jr., and Eddie Nixon, went forward for the lighting of the candles. The beautiful voice heard singing was that of Mrs. Frank Young, who sang "O Promise Me," "Because" and "Love's Old Sweet Song."

Mrs. Charles E. Speck, mother of the bride, entered wearing a formal gown of aqua crepe with pink flower hat and pink carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Mayberry, parents of the groom, were escorted to their places. Mrs. Mayberry wearing a black sheer dinner gown, her small cocktail hat was of pink orchid and wore a pink corsage. Other friends seated in the reserved sections, included Mrs. P. V. Cartwright, in a white taffeta dinner dress; Mrs. Carl Shultz, in a black formal; Mrs. T. A. Beard, wearing a blue evening dress.

The bride made a beautiful picture as she entered with Mr. Speck who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was of white bridal satin made with a picture neck and long sleeves pointed at the waist. Her full skirt had a sweeping train. Her bridal veil of illusion was attached to a coronet of pearls and fell to the edge of the train. She carried an arm bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis, ribboned, with streamers of love knots with bouvardia.

Miss Mary Mills of Santa Ana was bridesmaid and the bride's only attendant. She was wearing a formal dress of lime-green net. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations with ruffle of green net. Her tiny hat was of green net and pink flowers and she wore long gloves of green net.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mayberry of Gatesville, Texas. He saw a term of duty over seas and was seriously wounded. Since his recovery he has resumed his studies at Southwest Texas State College, San Marcos, and expects to take his degree there.

Serving as his best man was Charlie Redus of Devine. Ushers were Carl Shultz, Jr., and Eddie Nixon, both students at Sul Ross college.

The bride is a graduate of Alpine High school and attended Sul Ross College. Leaving Sul Ross she went to enter S.W.T.C., San Marcos, where she took special work in home economics. Graduating from San Marcos last winter she went at once to Flatonina where she is head of the department of Home Economics. She expects to resume her position there about July 1.

Following the ceremony at the church, Mr. and Mrs. Speck received their friends at their beautiful home on the Ft. Davis Highway. Mrs. T. A. Beard served the elaborately decorated wedding cake which was encircled with white carnations and ferns. The silver cake server was tied with white ribbon and carnations. Mrs. P. V. Cartwright and Mrs. Carl Shultz assisted in serving the punch.

Guests were interested in viewing the gifts presented to the

Garden Lore

By Ethel Brooks Gilmore

Perhaps, no rose was ever loved or cherished more, than the white rose that once grew beside the palace door of Cathrine II of Russia. Catherine had many amours, but she really loved one captain of the palace guards. This captain was sent on a mission to Turkey. In the early spring when he returned to Moscow, he brought back a white rose bush, which Catherine planted beside the palace entrance. The rose grew wonderfully that season and bloomed. It was very beautiful, so Catherine appointed eight palace guards to watch over it, four by day and four by night.

The rose-bush was given every care during the following winter, but died, even as did the affair with the young officer. Never the less, Catherine maintained the guard for many years, lest any foot should sully the ground, where the symbol of their love had grown.

Apricot trees are a native of China, and in an early period seeds were carried to Japan, so that now they are considered as native to Japan also. Apricot trees are still carefully cultivated as show pieces in Chinese gardens. Differences of climate cause varying shades of foliage from the dark green of China to the much lighter green of Texas.

When one looks upon an apricot tree laden with sun-kissed golden fruit, it appears as a tree of peaceful beauty, but woven in its history are treason, plots, and buccaneering expeditions, for the old Chinese government had a strict law against the export of the seeds or seedlings.

31 Year Old Suit For $8 May Be Settled Soon

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—A law suit involving $8, filed in 1946, may soon be settled in a justice of the peace court hearing.

It was 31 years ago that Ralph Bryant filed the suit against the Dallas Gas Company, for alleged materials and labor expenses against the firm which later became the Dallas division of the Lone Star Gas Company.

Counsel for the company at that time entered a demurrer to the case and it since has been in the court files. Attorneys for the gas company now have petitioned the court to dispose of the matter.

Postal Receipts Are More Than In Prewar Years

AUSTIN, Tex.—May postal receipts in Texas were more than double the prewar years' average, data of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research show.

May receipts had a seasonal setback, however, falling 2 per cent below April to total $2,661,445 or 4 per cent above May 1946.

Nine Texas cities reported receipts on the upswing while all others sustained slumps. Greatest gain was the 13 per cent at Fort Worth.

The 24-per-cent drop in Childress was the biggest decrease. Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth and San Antonio continued to lead in total receipts. Compared with May 1946, receipts fell in 18 towns throughout the State, increased in 35 cities and remained steady in San Antonio. Largest gains were Lubbock's 87 per cent and Sweetwater's 23 per cent. Greatest May-to-May slump was Orange's 18 per cent.

THE EYES REQUIRE CONSTANT CARE

The eyes need constant care and watching because they are delicately constructed and feel the wear and tear of life, and age and work—just as the rest of the body does. Do not neglect them.

Adam inclined his head. "When Nedman moves to New York for his printer, I expect to accompany him."

"If entered in a good spirit," Hartman said, "and right attitude of co-operation, the plan will work."

Workers on strike at the Hermann Oak Leather Co., St. Louis, Missouri, continue picketing in spite of flood waters that have reached the building.

The fund is to be known as the Albert O. H. Singleton Memorial Fund. Contributions will be accepted by the librarian of the Medical Branch.

At age education, offered for the first time this summer, is designed to bring an understanding of the social, economic and other implications of the air age to both teachers and administrators.

HER maidings were interrupted by the sound of Marcel and Sir Charles on the staircase...

"Engagement?" said Sir Charles, coming in. "Who expects to be married?"

"Go and tell the rest of the boys," Sir Charles said. "Sophie ordered 'Till Basil and Felch Godfrey.' You mean we don't have to go away?"

"If entered in a good spirit," Hartman said, "and right attitude of co-operation, the plan will work. Size makes no difference, but co-operation between management and labor is essential."

At 8 He's Been Conducting 4 Years

At 8 years old Ferruccio Burco directs the Rome Royal Opera Symphony in Beethoven's First Symphony as he makes his official debut in the Italian capital after conducting more than 40 concerts in various Italian cities. He's the great grandson of the Italian composer Vincenzo Bellini, and conducted his first concert when only 4 years old.

Jumbo The Sea Lion Gets Ulcers And Maybe Girls Are To Blame

JUMBO THE SEA LION 18 dc
By Robert Richards
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—It might be the girls, Lew Bohan admitted, but he isn't sure. Anyway Jumbo has ulcers.
Jumbo is a 23 year old sea lion. He earns $800 a week.
Jumbo, who has a face like a dog if you get close enough to see it, is now working at the Fashion Fair in Madison Square Garden and the pretty models bother him. Sea lions are proud of their tricks, and it burns Jumbo up when people turn to stare at the women.
"I've been working with him for 10 years," Bohan explained, "and he's always the same. Sea lions just don't like competition. He's got a brother named Sharky key working with my father-in-law right now over at the Roxy Theatre. Put them on the same stage and what happens? In two minutes, they'd be fighting."
Most people don't understand about sea lions, Bohan said. They may weigh 400 pounds, like Jumbo, but they're sensitive.
"Another funny thing about them," Bohan said, "is that as they are, you must teach a captive sea lion to eat. Put a pile of fish in front of him, and he'll starve. All he knows about is how to catch his dinner on the run. Nobody ever taught him to eat dead ones."
But once they learn, sea lions are hearty eaters. Jumbo knocks off 15 pounds of fresh fish daily. It takes 18 months to train a performing sea lion and some of 176 days. In 1931 Wiley Post and Harold Gatty flew their "Winnie Mae" around the world in 8 days and 15 minutes. Two years later, Post made the same flight alone, in 7 days 18 hours. Recently American Airlines flew a scheduled trip from Chicago to New York, 733 miles, in 1 hour and 51 minutes. This is less time than it takes to drive your car from here to Dallas. The world is sure getting small.

Mary Sybil Rose, University of Oklahoma student, can't compare driving with flying, because she has never driven a car. She was the first Co-ed to receive her private license under the university flight training program.

Way Found To Salvage Bark In Lumbering

LONGVIEW, Wash. (UP)—The Weyerhaeuser Timber Co. branch here has developed a process of utilizing the bark of saw logs, thus turning a 12 per cent waste into cash.
The bark is turned into five products with many uses in industrial fields.
The organization produces five main components, all useful in plywood, glue, plastics, insecticides and soil conditioning.
The products include cork-like flakes, short fibers, tissue powder and cork-fiber combination.
Officials said approximately 75,000 pounds a day are now being processed. At present, only the thick bark of the Douglas fir is being used, although barks from all Pacific Coast conifers are usable.

Says Income Tax Helps Farmers To Make Money

MOUNTAIN VIEW Okla. (UP)—Many people think they would be better off without having to pay income tax, but a local banker contends the federal income tax has helped Oklahoma farmers.
R. M. Kobs, president of the First National Bank, said many farmers are making more money than before because of income tax.
Kobs said having to pay the tax forced farmers to add an income from the "little things" like milk and egg checks and feed sales for the first time.
"As a result of having to figure their tax, they have come to know just what profit they are making from some crop, instead of merely guessing they're getting along all right," he said.

If You Say Snafu Or O.K. You're Using An Acronym

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UP)—Basic English may be the coming thing, but according to Dr. T. M. Pearce, head of the department of English at the University of New Mexico, tomorrow's English will be filled with acronyms and abbreviations.
An acronym, Dr. Pearce explained is a word formed from the initial letters of other words, such as O.K., snafu, and DDT. The war has speeded up the use of acronyms with such expressions as PX and GI, among others.
"This is precision English suited to military needs, but as we enter the age of the A-bomb," Dr. Pearce concluded, "tomorrow's English may contain more and more of acronym and abbreviation."

FUNNY BUSINESS

"Wilbur's going all out in his wooing campaign!"

1,500,000 Buttons Stump Disposal Men

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Button, button! Who's got the button? In this case, it's the U. S. Army.
In numbers, it's 1,500,000 plastic buttons. No one has any idea what to do with them.
Rejected by buyers at an army surplus sale, some 3,000,000 buttons were turned over to army engineers by the Philadelphia quartermaster depot. They were to be used to fill a swamp area at near-by Lester, Pa.
Four days, and 1,500,000 buttons later, owners of the property put a stop to the button-dumping plan. They said they wanted Delaware River silt and not army buttons on the land.

British Travelers Come Home, Broke

DOVER, England (UP)—The millionaire fished through his pockets and finally dragged out a lone threepenny (five cents) bit.
"All I've got left," he said.
The porter took it. Since the campaign to prosecute Britons who spend more than the permitted £75 sterling abroad got under way this old port has become used to the phrase: "Back home and broke."
From the trans-channel boat trip ashore sheepish Britons who scarcely have, as the natives say, "two penny pieces to strike together." They stop at hotels or take cabs or dine at restaurants and almost in chorus they say:
