PRICE FIVE CENTS No. 77

Well...
I Dunno,
But...

Do you know that 99 per cent of the people asked for their views on the airport improvements program have favored it without reservations?

Do you know that planes now at the Ranger Airport have flown emergency medical and surgical patients in and out of Ranger?

Do you know that the payroll for people in Ranger now making their living directly from the aviation industry at the Ranger Airport runs almost $25,000 a year?

Do you know that the GI Flying school at the Ranger Airport is bringing into Ranger monthly around $1,350, depending on the number of veterans enrolled and that each veteran that completes his full four courses receives $1,800?

Now if the airport in its present condition can do that for Ranger, doesn't it stand to reason that an improved airport would mean even greater returns to the city?

Other views on the program given by local citizens are quoted.

"I approve of the program 100 per cent and want to see it carried out," J. B. Houghton, Sr., owner and operator of Houghton's Repair for which a new home is now being built.

"I've always felt that a town without a good airport will be off the map in a few years. It's just like the automobile age. We fought for good roads for those automobiles and to keep Ranger on the good road maps. And this is the air age and the airport is just as important to this age as the roads were to the other. If we stay here and grow we've got to grasp every opportunity that comes our way. Anything worthwhile costs and I think that any help that comes our way should be taken." Ernest Shelton, owner and operator of Shelton's Ice Cream Palace and wholesale ice cream business.

"I would sure live to have that airport improved but I think we need a solution on how to pay for it," Price Crawley, owner of Price Crawley Motor Company.

"I think it would be a good thing. All of the people of Ranger would profit by it and I sure would to see it go through." C. O. Culpepper, owner and operator of the Ranger Dry Cleaning Plant.

"I think it's one of the best things I've heard of. I was in the Air Force during the war and I feel that air travel is the transportation of today and tomorrow. And anything that I can do to see the airport improvements program carried through, I'll sure be glad to do it." Alvis Wood, owner and operator of the Ranger Transfer and Storage.

"I think it would be a mighty fine thing if we can get our airport improved and feel that we should take advantage of the government offer. Every improvement that we make is a drawing card to Ranger and to help our town." Aaron Bell, owner and operator of Bell's Young Moders, specialty shop.

Chicago Builds New Airport

CHICAGO (UP)—Chicago's newest and smallest airport will serve as an adjunct to Municipal airport and the New Douglas airport. It is located less than 10 minutes from the Loop and will provide a downtown delivery point for passengers with limited time for business transactions.

The 91-acre island originally built for the 1933 Chicago World's Fair. The Adler Planetarium is located on the north end but the south end, where the airport is to be built, has been a barren waste since the World's Fair closed.

The new airport will have a single runway and a taxi-way. It also will have a parking space for 200 airplanes and 275 automobiles.

The project is scheduled to be completed late in 1947 or early in 1948. Estimated cost is $1,600,000.

PREMIER IS DEFEATED BY STEPHENVILLE

In the third game of the Ranger softball tournament, Premier was defeated by Stephenville by a score of 3-2.

Stephenville scored once in the third inning, once in the fourth, and once in the seventh. Both of Premier's runs came in the last inning. Home runs were made by Goodman and Sullivan, both of Stephenville, and two base hits were made by Cole of Premier and R. Garrett of Stephenville.

Dawn of Premier struck out 10, walked 1, and gave up 5 hits. Sullivan of Stephenville struck out 11, walked 4, and gave up only one hit. He pitched a no hit game until the seventh inning when Cole made his two base hit.

Umpires for the game were Poyner, Warner, Dinamore, and Crouch.

Tonight Mineral Wells plays King Tractor of Eastland in the fourth game of the series. Scores in games so far have been Gorman 3, Mingus 1, and Rising Star 2, Ranger 1, and last night's game, Stephenville 3, Premier 2.

Varying Degrees Of Rain Fall Is Reported For Co.

Portions of Eastland county received varying degrees of rain fall yesterday. Most of the rain reported fell on the watershed of the South Leon Southwest of Eastland, which stream was temporarily out of banks yesterday afternoon.

At Eastland the fall was light, amounting to possibly one-half inch.

South of town in the Mangum community the fall appeared to be heavy, amounting to as much as two or three inches in a short time. At the Will May home in the Mangum community lightning struck during the storm and did quite a bit of property damage, but no one received personal injuries, according to reports.

In the Staff community southwest of Eastland good showers of rain were reported yesterday.

At the Edward Schoor farm a few miles south of Cisco, a rain fall of four inches was reported. Also Oscar Petree, three miles west of Carbon, is reported to have gotten a fairly good rain yesterday afternoon.

Wheat Hits New All-Time High

CHICAGO—September wheat opened $2.51 1-2 a bushel on the Board of Trade today, a new all time high for wheat of that delivery.

This price tops the previous record peak of $2.50 7-8, set yesterday. Prospects of a greater drain on wheat supplies through expanded live stock feeding and exports furnished the aggressive demand.

U. S. URGES GREEKS TO GET TOGETHER

ATHENS—Dwight Griswold, head of the American Aid Mission, today urged Greek leaders to quit arguing and form a broad coalition to keep "any foreign power" from seizing control of the Greek government.

Premier-designate Constantin Tsaldaris announced that he will seek to form a government today even if he cannot win cooperation of rival factions.

Griswold, who has been trying to reconcile the claims of Tsaldaris' Populist-Royalists and Themistocles Sofoulis, Liberal party leader, called a press conference to make clear the American position.

"We came in here to neutralize foreign aggression which started before we arrived," he said. "We are only interested in seeing a government in Greece with which we can do our job affectively."

He said the American mission wants "to see all elements united, keeping any foreign power from taking control of the Greek government."

While Griswold spoke, reports arrived from Jannina that army troops and 500 guerillas had been clashing since 4 A.M. near Theodorina.

The guerillas has been marching southward toward mount Agrafa with munitions and cattle to supply rebel bands in the hills of central Greece.

Press dispatches said the supply train had fought several skirmishes with troops since crossing the Tjoumerka mountains. Athens newspapers claimed without any neutral confirmation that the guerillas had left Soviet-manufactured bullets on one battlefield.

Convicts Pay Bank But In Blood

ATLANTA, Ga. (UP)—Prisoners at Atlanta's federal penitentiary, many of them serving sentences for bank irregularities, are paying back the bank they are alleged to have robbed, nor are they paying in dollars and cents. They are paying in blood.

Every week 25 or 30 inmates of the prison make contributions to the Grady Hospital Blood Bank, and the precious fluid is saving hundreds of lives each year.

The Grady Blood Bank is looked upon by other Atlanta hospitals the same way commercial banks look upon the Federal Reserve Bank. When a private hospital's blood supply runs low, it borrows from the bank—and at a high rate of interest. Each patient who receives a transfusion is expected to get two additional donors to give a pint of blood each. By means of this cycle, the bank manages to keep up its supply.

One would think that under this system the bank would soon have a large surplus, but much of the blood is not suitable for transfusions. However, it is not wasted. It is converted into plasma, which can be used in many cases where whole blood is not required.

British Press Blasts Government's Economy

ANNOUNCEMENTS OF CUTS COINCIDES WITH STRIKE

LONDON—Britain today embarked on an austere economy program which the press immediately lambasted as "too little and too late," and ran head-on into a spreading wildcat coal miners strike.

While Britain's little man accepted the government cuts in food, gasoline and travel with grim resignation, the press, including some of the government's staunchest supporters, launched a ferocious attack on the program.

But even grimmer news came from the northern coal fields. The government has pinned its whole program upon hopes of boosting coal production. However, nearly 7,000 miners were out of the pits already in a wildcat protest.

strike against increasing their hours of labor. And they preceded another 50,000 would walk off their jobs shortly.

The attack on the government—a forerunner of expected turbulent days in Parliament—was led by the traditional bellwether of British opinion—the Times of London which until recent weeks had firmly supported Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

"The time has come for protests," said the Times. "The combined effect of the government's uncertainty and the hard facts of the gap between incoming and outgoing in the national account is inevitably to invite a depression."

The Manchester Guardian whose editorial voice in Britain is second in influence only to that of the Times spoke in similar tones.

The laborite government had laid its cards on the table, and they spelled the skimpiest fare on the dining table in all of British history, not even excepting the grimmest days of the war.

After Sept. 7 the British family of four will be able to buy only 80 cents worth of meat a week—about three pounds of beef or four pounds of lamb. Otherwise it will be salads, non-rationed fish, whale meat, horse meat or catch as catch can.

Motoring for pleasure was out—no gas.

And the worst was not yet. The government warned that more drastic measures were on the way.

Norwegian Plane Crash Kills 27

LOEDDINGEN, Norway—A Norwegian Airlines flying boat smashed into fog-shrouded Llubben mountain outside this village high above the Arctic Circle, today, killing all 27 passengers and eight crew members.

One of the passengers, a Mrs. Jess, was listed as an American, but gave her address as Horkens, Norway. Most of the passengers on the fatal Tromsø-Oslo flight were Norwegians. Two Czechoslovakian newspapermen were aboard.

RECORDS SHOW CIRCUS ALWAYS DRAWS BIG CROWD

Great crowds in every section of Texas and Oklahoma have attested to the popularity of the Gainesville Community Circus which comes to Ranger for two performances on Thursday, September 11, under auspices of the Lions Club and Jaycees.

When the circus exhibited before 52,250 persons in three performances at Will Rogers Coliseum in Fort Worth in 1940, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram declared it was the largest crowd that had ever gathered in one roof for any kind of gathering in Cowtown.

In Huston, 30,000 persons witnessed the performances of the circus when it appeared under auspices of Arabia Shrine Temple but one of the most remarkable audiences witnessed the show at Kyle field, Texas A&M College. There were 11,000 persons in the audience for one performance, given during the annual Farmers Short Course and every one of the 254 counties in the state were represented in the audience.

The circus, now in its 18th year, suspended activities during one war, but has appeared before and since in every large city in Texas and many smaller cities and towns in Texas and Oklahoma.

This year's program is the most extensive and elaborate in the show's history, inspired in part by the signing of an agreement with Hollywood motion picture producing company, to make a feature length motion picture, "Gainesville, U.S.A.," based on the remarkable history of the show.

The tickets for the appearance of the show in Ranger are on sale at the Chamber of Commerce, Swaney's Pharmacy, Oil City Pharmacy, Texas Drug Store.

County Jailer Quits Because Of Low Salary

County Jailer Blake Forehand stated this morning that the escaping of a prisoner from the County jail a few days ago had nothing to do with his resignation as Eastland County jailer, that he had already resigned. He said that his reason for resigning was that he could not live at the salary the job paid, which he indicated was $100 per month with board and living quarters for he and his wife, both of whom work at the job.

Forehand did not go into details regarding the manner in which the prisoner, understood to have been a man wanted at several places throughout the country, escaped, other than to say that he was assisting in the cleaning up of the building when he slipped away. He stated, however, that charges had been filed against him in the man's escape.

It seems that County officers had inadequate descriptions of the prisoner. Forehand went to San Angelo Wednesday where the wanted man had been in jail and officers there furnished him with a picture of the man.

It's Double Or Nothing On New Car

LOS ANGELES (UP)—California's bid for position in the automobile industry — the three-wheeled $1,000 Davis car—carries with a big plum for 154 technicians if it proves successful. And nothing if it fails. These aircraft engineers, draftsmen, tooling experts and expeditors are regularly employed during the daytime and have worked nights, Sundays and holidays in developing the Davis for the Carsearch Engineering Corp. If their prototype, named after the designer, Gary Davis, is a success, they will receive double their normal earning rate. Otherwise they will receive nothing. The Davis has been road-tested for 400,000 miles over all types of roads at speeds as high as 116 miles an hour. Plans call for production of at least 50 cars a day by Jan. 1, 1948. In addition to the tricycle type mounting, other unique features include hydraulic built-in jacks for tire changing, all-aluminum chassis and body, and a one-piece cantilever, removable top. Designers claim the Davis, with its 60-horsepower, four-cylinder engine, will average 50 miles to the gallon of gasoline at speeds of 35 to 40 miles an hour. The Davis weighs only 1,525 pounds, less than half the weight of the conventional light car.

Fire Chasers Buy Gift For Firemen

MILWAUKEE (UP)—There's a score of Milwaukee business men, most of them middle-aged, who have never lost their enthusiasm for chasing fire engines.

About a year ago, these "fire fans" decided to provide the fire department with an ambulance of its own. Prior to that time, the department had to use a police ambulance.

The business men raised $7,000 and presented their gift to Fire Chief Edward Wachter.

Not What You Get—

... but what you have is the important thing in buying real estate. If one buys without an abstract he may get something, but it's value will depend on the sufficiency of the title. Lands and the improvements thereon are worth little if their title proves to be faulty. Only expense, embarrassment and disappointment follow stupid, rushing real estate sales. Don't get in a hurry. Buy carefully and wisely. See your abstractor first, thank him later!

Says Quicksand Can't Swallow You

CHICAGO (UP) — The next time you get caught in a bog of quicksand, don't be alarmed, advises Philip C. Rutledge.

You won't sink in any further than your waist, he said.

Rutledge, professor of civil engineering at Northwestern University's Technological Institute, said the idea that quicksand swallows persons whole is just a myth for use by writers of adventure stories and horror movies.

"Civil engineers have known for years that there isn't a place in the world where a person will sink from sight in quicksand," Rutledge said, "but the public has been led to believe that once a persons gets stuck in the sand and water mixture, he is doomed."

Rutledge explained that a person can't sink deeper than his waist in quick sand because sand and water have a specific gravity of between 1.8 and 2, while humans have a specific gravity of .95.

Bargain Becomes White Elephant

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (UP)—West Chester State Teachers College got a $10 bargain, but doesn't know what to do with it.

The bargain is a 2,400-pound aircraft engine purchased from the War Assets Administration. Valued at $10,000, it was sold to the college for $10 for educational purposes.

College authorities planned to put it on display in a campus museum, but the engine is too bulky and heavy for doorways and elevators. So it's resting on the top steps of the school's Anderson Hall as officials scratch their heads for a solution.

Chicago Boys Camp On Farm

PLANO, Ill. (UP) — A group of city boys, many of whom never saw a plow or a cow, had the time of their lives on a farm near here this summer, as guests of the Chicago Boys Club.

The program of farm camping was the first in a series of steps to acquaint city kids with the wonders of nature and the good earth.

There were 12 boys in the first group and they visited the W. L. Zink farm in an isolated area near here. With a camping site as headquarters, the youngsters took field trips to different parts of the sprawling farm to witness modern farming methods at work. The movement is expected to roll along, according to Irving Rudolph, executive director of the club.

Some time soon, the organization hopes to establish city farms — right in Chicago — to give 11,000 boy members a chance to raise pigs, chickens and vegetables.

Pastor Preaches Sermons In Sign Language

MACON, Ga. (UP) — The Rev. James M. Johnston, 25-year-old assistant pastor of the Foursquare Gospel Church here, preaches his sermons without a word. He has recently inaugurated special services for the deaf and dumb members of the congregation, and he delivers through the standard hand signal alphabet. It started one Sunday when Johnson noticed several deaf and dumb people in the congregation listening to Sister Edna Barrett, the pastor, preach. But they were not hearing a word.

So he stood beside Sister Barrett and as she talked, he translated her sermon into hand signals. It was so successful that he began to hold hand-signal services every Sunday.

Johnson admits the method has its drawbacks. When his congregation "sings" hymns you can't hear them. But you can see what they mean.

C. C. McKeever and Rip Gallo-way flew to Amarillo and back yesterday. With a little help from Mac, Rip got lost and called Breck-ridge Stamford. When the landing at Ranger was made, Rip thought it was a forced landing for gas and to find their location. Says Rip as they landed, "Mac, this old boy has a lot of Cessna's, too." Later, "What are you talking about Mac this is Ranger."

Popular misconceptions about flying: An airplane will fall when the engine quits. This is not so, an airplane cannot be landed without turning the power off a few minutes before touching the ground. The ship must lose its flying speed before touching the ground, otherwise it will not stay there, but will bounce back into the air.

Heartsease

By Elsie Glenn

The Midnight Hour
There are so many midnight hours all through life.

The dark, hidden places in the human soul rise up in terrifying, screaming protest, then you and I battle for our lives. Perhaps the world may not know it; we still speak and eat and sometimes sleep, but the battle rages on.

The hideous Gethsemane that come to us all!
It is then that we momentarily lose contact with humanity. Inwardly, we become raging, raving wolves. . . . stricken, hopeless animals fighting all the things we do not understand. Poor, lost people . . . at such times, fighting so desperately for we know not what, . . . clinging to the familiar things . . . familiar thoughts . . . what lonely, ghastly experiences the human race goes through . . . during the Midnight hours.

Midnight hours of doubt, disillusionment . . . despair, pain, hurt, fear, hunger, thirst, where can we turn in the Midnight Hours?
The conflict of religion . . . decisions to be made on which so much depends . . . the weighing of ourselves in the balance and the nightmare of being found wanting . . . loss of security . . . betrayal at the hands of a friend . . . the contempt of someone who used to love us . . . Midnight Hours . . . in which we walk alone

The Midnight Hours . . . in which we run . . . faster, faster, trying to escape the swirling, suffocating darkness . . . the Midnight Hours in which The Prince of Darkness beckons just ahead.
It is one of the prices we pay for life . . . the Midnight hours. Christ Himself had His midnight hours.
Jesus wept.
Because He understood the Midnight Hours.
He knew it was a part of living . . . and part of the things we cannot understand.
Out of our darkness will come a light.
Whence . . . where . . . we know not.
And someday, we shall understand the Cross on which we die . . . in the Midnight Hours.

Miss Mary Allen Lanier left today for Monahan where she will resume her teaching position in the public schools there.

ject Completion will give Toledo a depot comparable to Cleveland's Terminal Tower and Cincinnati's Union Terminal. Of the state's four major cities, only Columbus will have an old station.
The New York Central System, major user of the Toledo Terminal, has informed the Toledo Chamber of Commerce and the city of Toledo that it is prepared to go ahead with the project.
According to official announcement, initial construction will involve track construction, platforms and overhead station concourse. Building of the station proper is scheduled to begin some time in 1948.
Toledo will utilize its extensive glass factories in building the station. It claims to be the glass capital of the nation.
The present station, a dank and dingy affair, was constructed in 1886. As far back as 1900, there was periodic correspondence between city officials and the railroads discussing more and adequate passenger facilities. Definite negotiations were opened in 1914 when World War I intervened.
The Toledo Chamber of Commerce reorganized its drive for a new station in 1923. Hope for a new station was stimulated in 1930 when a devastating fire struck the building. However, the station was rebuilt after the fire.
In addition to the New York Central, the depot is used by the Chesapeake & Ohio, Pere Marquette, Baltimore & Ohio, Wash, and Michigan Central.

10 Years of Civic Effort Bring Action At Last

Third Of U. S. Towns Have No Building Code
EAST LIVERPOOL, O. (UP)--The President's Conference of Fire Prevention recently completed a survey which showed that a third of the towns in the United States have no building codes. The towns which do have codes, the Conference bulletin stated, set them up 20 years ago, and they need "serious revision."
"The President's conference," said Federal Work Administrator Philip B. Fleming "is to set up a basic code so as to increase fire safety, and to write into the laws a ruling requiring natural non-combustible fire barriers be put
