Government Asks Refund On Rail Charges

Well... I Dunno, But...

Homer Wiesen, manager of Ranger's A&P grocery store, sure gave us a good idea this morning and if all the grocerymen will cooperate as well as Homer, we think we can beat the high cost of groceries.

Early this morning Homer delivered to our door the first loaf of his new Home Style Marvel Bread. It is a good sized loaf, wrapped in a red and white gingham checked wrapper and smells and tastes like something out of mother's Saturday afternoon baking years ago when about 4 o'clock each Saturday afternoon all the kinds were herded in for a tea party of hot rolls and milk.

Now if some other grocerymen will chip in a sample copy of some prize beef, another some potatoes and maybe another some vegetables or fruit for salad, we might have a square meal again. Otherwise the outlook is pretty slim.

Thanks Homer.

A good many times in our life, we've run up against stumps that looked hopeless to get around. Sometimes, we'd think, well this is one time that we can't do it. But because it was so important and had to be done, we'd keep hammering at it. Do you know that every single time we've been able to manage some way to get the thing done. Maybe it wasn't just the way we'd like to have it and it wasn't easy, but the important thing is that it was DONE.

And that's just the way we feel about the airport improvement program. It won't be easy to do but it's too important to our town to let it slip. Like we've said before, where there's a will there's a way.

We believe that that's the way the great majority of Ranger citizens feel about it, too. We know it is because they keep telling us about it.

And we quote. "I think it is a wonderful thing for our town and can't see why we can't do it. If we can build a $30,000 rodeo arena in a few months and once a year stage a rodeo such as we've had the last two years, it seems to me that the airport improvements program would just be an every-day affair." Mrs. James Higdon, Ranger business woman and property owner.

"Let's turn it over to the young fellows. I remember the time when the old boys used to have their rodeos out behind the ball park. Yep, I'm for it 100 per cent." Roney Jones, pharmacist and property owner.

"I've been working for the airport ever since it was first started. I did grading and other work at the outset and also gave $25 to help get it started. I've always done everything they asked me to do. I just can't understand it. Why, when we had to WPA to keep Ranger people employed, we built all kinds of things without any financial help from the city. They didn't have the money. When I was in office, I always listened to what the people wanted to do and if it could be done I did it." Henry Davenport, former county commissioner and Ranger property owner.

Softball Game Is Called Off

E. F. Arterburn announced today that the softball game which had been scheduled for Friday night has been called off.

The game was to have been between an all-star Ranger team and King Tractor of Eastland, the latter the winner of the Ranger tournament.

It was stated that conflict in activities necessitated the cancellation of the game.

NEW PRICE INCREASES JOLT FAMILY BUDGETS

CHICAGO—A new round of price increases at the nations big grain and livestock markets threatened another jolt today to the households budget.

The price of butter, eggs, corn, wheat, oats and meat-on-the-hoof had risen to record high levels.

Grain traders said that much of the price rise, was caused by the August drought, which inflicted heavy damage to corn, the nations basic crop.

The other prices, the traders said, were tied to corn in an economic chain reaction. Wheat continued to rise in price on the Chicago Board of Trade today, with September futures topping yesterday's all-time high with a price of $2.62 1-2 cents a bushel.

September corn sold at an all-time high of $2.50 a bushel yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. September wheat sold for $2.62 1-4 and September oats for $1.16 7-8. Both prices were record highs for September. On the Chicago Mercantile shell egg and butter futures rose to new highs. October eggs sold for $4.48 cents a dozen, and November butter for 73.25 cents a pound.

At Chicago's sprawling Union Stockyards, top grade steers yesterday equalled the 1947 high of $35 per hundred pounds.

Sleeps Through Show
SAYRE, Pa. (UP)—The sound of shattering glass pierced the early morning stillness and Patrolman Jack Hale walked up to a window of a midtown theater to investigate. A drowsy-looking boy of about seven stuck his head through the window and said: "I went to the movies and fell asleep. I just woke up."

The annual precipitation of Powell, Wyo., is a scant 17 1/2 inches.

BEVIN TELLS COMMITTEE ABOUT PLAN

By United Press

LONDON—Members of the House foreign affairs committee today discussed with Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin his proposal that the United States redistribute the gold stored at Fort Knox in the interests of international economic recovery.

Committee members, headed by Rep. Christian Herter, R., Mass., pressed Bevin for details of how he proposed to carry out the proposal. It was understood Bevin said that he felt his plan should be considered in connection with the Marshall Plan.

However, committee members declined to discuss Bevin's statement in detail on grounds the discussion was off the record.

Bevin, it was understood, spent about an hour outlining British foreign policy in great detail and answering questions fully and frankly.

Neither the British treasury nor the foreign office would give any details of the gold plan today.

Members of the committee privately expressed doubt that there would be any distribution of U. S. gold at this time.

The group of 18 U. S. Congressmen left immediately after talking with Bevin by automobile for Northolt Airport where they took off in two U. S. Army planes for Berlin on the second stage of their first hand inspection of European political and economic conditions.

Election To Decide Peanut Marketing Quota

The Secretary of Agriculture has announced that there will be an election held before December 15, 1947 to decide if there will be a marketing quota on peanuts for 1948.

All parties interested in the crop will be eligible to vote and two-thirds of the voters must vote in favor of the quotas before they will be in effect. If quotas are voted they will be in effect for 1948, 1949, and 1950, and if quotas are not voted there will be no Government support price for peanuts.

It will be necessary to set up allotments on each peanut farm in Eastland County before the election and this allotment will be based on the 1944, 1945, and 1946 acreage. The AAA Office is now taking these acreages so that allotments can be established. If there has been peanuts grown on your farm any of those three years and you want an allotment set up for your farm come to the AAA office at once and turn in your acreage, but be sure to have an accurate acreage for each year.

Fire Damages Garage; Chief Issues Warning

Fire early this morning damaged a garage at the J. W. Elder home and partially destroyed items stored in the building.

Fire Chief Charlie Isabell stated that the garage caught fire from trash that was burning in an uncovered container. In this connection Chief Isabell issued a warning about burning trash, stating that within the last two and one-half months the fire department has answered 71 calls all but one of which were grass fires. Many of the fires were started from burning trash.

The rate of calls is better than one a day and yesterday the department answered four calls, all of them grass fires.

U. S. STEPS INTO CRISIS IN GREECE

By United Press

ATHENS—The United States today intervened strongly in the Greek political crisis, throwing its full weight behind a new effort to obtain a broader and more representative Greek government.

Loy Henderson, special representative of the State Department, went into a series of whirlwind conferences with Greek leaders including both constantin Tsaldaris, premier of the present government, and the opposition groups.

He met with Themistokles Sofoulis, 86 year old liberal leader who has refused to enter a government unless given a free hand, Sophocles Venizelos, son of the liberator of Greece and leader of the liberal Republicans, George Panandreu, social democrat, and Panayotis Kanellopoulos, Republican leader, in an effort to arrive at a solution.

Dwight Griswold, American administrator of the U. S. aid program, told a press conference that the United States would recognize any government which won approval of the Greek parliament.

However, Griswold would not comment on whether the United States would seek to broaden the base of the Greek government even if Tsaldaris managed to win Parliamentary support.

CLAIM 30 TO 40 MILLIONS OVERCHARGED ON SHIPMENTS

By United Press

WASHINGTON—The government today began action to obtain from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 from 717 railroads it accuses of overcharging the government on shipments of explosives and ammunition during the war.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark announced that a complaint had been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission to recover reparations for the alleged overcharges.

It was the eighth complaint of similar nature involving wartime shipments filed with the ICC.

The complaint charged the government was entitled to rates lower than those imposed by the railroads because of the "magnitude of the shipments . . . and the successful safety measures placed in effect by the armed services, and other favorable transportation characteristics."

Clarke said repeated efforts were made during the war by the armed forces to obtain lower rates but the railroads "persistently refused."

"Our investigation indicates that high explosives and ammunition traffic was most profitable to the railroads," Clarke said. "In view of the importance of these shipments, all unreasonably high rates and profits should be recovered for the people."

Assistant Attorney General John F. Sonnett, anti-trust division chief, said the action was instituted at the request of the armed forces and it was hoped a "considerable portion of the large sums of money which we believe were unjustly collected" would be collected.

American Farm Income Rises To New Peaks

By United Press

WASHINGTON—American farm income rose toward new peaks today.

The agriculture Department said farm dollars rolled in faster during the first eight months of this year than ever before in history.

The reason, they said, was the record number of dollars in the hands of American consumers and a booming foreign demand for U. S. food.

If farm receipts continue at present levels for the next four months, farm income will top last year's record-breaking $18,889,000,000 by a substantial margin.

The department said total cash farm receipts for the first eight months of 1947 were $17,400,000,000—the result of a 24 per cent hike in farm prices since January.

This means farmers must take in only $1,489,000,000 between now and December 31 to equal last year's record. Actually they will collect much more.

September wheat, for instance, sold at $2.62 1-4 cents a bushel at Chicago yesterday. If the percentage increase in wheat prices is as great between now and March as it was last year, wheat could hit $4 a bushel.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

(Peter Edson is on vacation.)

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—John L. Lewis, according to the latest poll, should be the first choice for the Republican presidential nominee in 1948.

This poll was based on the recent suggestion of Rep. George H. Bender of Ohio that a good radio voice is vital to the success of any presidential candidate. It was made by taking a consensus of the opinions of Washington's radio experts, who have handled broadcast programs for almost all the leading political figures.

Just how John L.'s name crept into the questioning isn't quite clear. But it did, despite the fact that Mr. Lewis had never before been mentioned very seriously as a candidate. It was unanimously agreed by the voice experts that Lewis' voice and showmanship, if not his popularity, would be a valuable asset to the Republican '48 ticket.

"Hammy, but very effective," was one description of Lewis on the radio. "A radio personality that is tops" was another.

NONE of the experts would let their names be used for direct quotation. They apparently feared what might happen if they criticized one of the men and then had to handle another of his programs.

Taking the voice alone, aside from personality considerations, the experts unanimously agree that Tom Dewey's is tops. He enunciates most clearly, modulates his voice best and is easier to understand than almost any other man in public life, they say. In these respects, it is said that Dewey's voice is almost on a par with that of radio commentator Lowell Thomas. It is reported that Thomas gave Dewey many speaking lessons, in fact.

"The most cultured and perfect voice for radio among any of today's politicians," a network announcer says.

After Dewey, the poll revealed that Sen. John Bricker from Ohio has about the best radio voice. "Very effective," "forceful," and "sincere" were some of the descriptions of Bricker on the radio.

There was much controversy over the effectiveness of Senator Taft on the radio. One radio engineer claimed that the rasping qualities of Taft's voice made it irritating to audiences. Another expert, however, said the mid-western nasal twang in the Ohioan's voice gave it a sort of distinctive appeal. He said you were convinced of Taft's sincerity when you listened to him. They almost all agreed that Taft was one of the best ad-libbers on the air. It is difficult to tell, they say, when he is reading a script and when he isn't.

FAR better than average, according to the consensus, is the voice of Harold Stassen. One network program director described it this way: "Stassen's voice is good, all right. But I think it has a tendency to appeal more to the high I. Q. audience. It's impossible to explain just why, however."

Another announcer said that Stassen was more effective over the radio than in person because his voice didn't quite match his stature and appearance, and face-to-face audiences felt a little let-down when he started speaking.

Vandenberg's personality on the air was ranked close to the top. His voice is "forthright" and "forceful," the experts claim. He, too, is another expert on talking without a script.

Only three of the experts polled had heard enough of General MacArthur's voice to make an appraisal. One said it was "too melodramatic" for sophisticated American audiences. Another said his diction was good but his delivery too slow for radio. The other said it was "just average."

Outside the Republican party ranks there was pretty general agreement about the best Democratic voices. Senator Pepper's voice and that of Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson were rated excellent. Of President Truman, they all said that it was amazing how much his radio technique had improved since he had become President.

Based on this survey, it certainly appears that the radio end of the '48 presidential campaign should be entertaining to American audiences.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Any discussion of the Braves' inevitable winds up with the 1944 edition.

So it is that the Boston Nationals, sporting right along with the Cardinals and refusing to be counted out, have the boys retelling the story of George Stallings' Miracle Men, who 33 years ago came from out of nowhere to take the last place in early July to take it all with considerable to spare and mop up the supposedly invincible Athletics in the World Series.

Johnny Sain, the right-hander with the sideman cross-fire that right-hand hitter simply do not like, is well on his way to a second consecutive 20-game season. That takes the lads back to the last Braves' pitcher who performed the feat—the immortal Dick Rudolph, who copped 27 in 14, 22 the following campaign.

CHECKING up on the Braves' mighty few 20-game winners brings up the names of famous pitchers. Seattle Bill James threw away his arm copping 26 in '14.

Joe Oeschger, who in 1920 pitched the 26-inning tie with Leon Cadore of the Dodgers, accounted for 26 in '21. Twelve years elapsed before the Braves—now in the pocketbook and the standings—had another 20-game winner in Ben Cantwell in '33.

In '37, the veterans Jim Turner and Lou Fette came out of the Double A's to turn in 20 victories apiece and give Bill McKechnie a respectable year. It was the first time the Bostonians had two Because so many people understand the word "flammable" to mean "non-flammable," many safety councils have started plugging the word "flammable." Several other fire-fighting organizations have also adopted this word. So, for flammable items in your home why not mark the bottles or cans with red nail polish to readily identify them?

Here's a canning tip to remember: keep constant check on the gauge of your pressure canner. Unless the gauge is accurate, food being processed may not get enough heat for safe-keeping. Or heat may be too high, thereby destroying vitamins and impairing flavor.

Don't take chances on buying table spreads that have become rancid from storage. Buy vitaminized margarine that's fresh and is made only upon order. It's always flavor-right.

Because of the battling in the East Indies, which supply most of the world's black pepper, prices of this seasoning have soared within the past month.

And speaking of prices going up, hides have gone up in price and shoe manufacturers say there's little hope of footwear getting cheaper any time soon. So don't forget that good wax-liquid and paste polishes will help to keep leather hides soft and make them wear longer.

Windmill Theatre Never Closed All Through London Bombing

By Robert Muzel
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP) — A few yards from Piccadilly Circus is a little theater with the proudest boast in all show business: "We Never Closed."

The Windmill Theatre, the only one in London to stay open during the entire Luftwaffe blitz, posted that sign even while the bombs were dropping. Laura Henderson, the snow-haired little lady who owned the house, said:

"Put it up. And I hope those blinking Germans fly low enough to read it."

Along narrow Great Windmill Street, where an ingenious architect squeezed the picturesque theater into a space the size of a two-family house, they were talking about Mrs. Henderson and recalling the days of the Windmill's wartime glory.

Mrs. Henderson died three years ago at 82, but Joan Jay dabbed at her eyes as she mentioned her. And the rest of the Windmill, known to most American soldiers—were equally sentimental about Joan, last of the blitz veterans to leave the theater.

Statuesque Miss Jay was off to get married.

"She's a link with the blitz," said Vivian Van Damh who managed the theater and inherited it from Mrs. Henderson. "Kids like her, most of them only 17, went through every show, bombs or no bombs, and slept in their dressing rooms night after night because there was no way to get home."

"We're not a pretentious theater. We have a sort of variety show with very pretty girls and what nudity is permitted here. But we have more to be proud of than any theater in all the history of the stage."

The Windmill was immortalized in a novel and a play, both called "Heart of the City," and a film, "Tonight or Never," in which Rita Hayworth starred. Miss Jay, who spent four months in hospitals with bomb injuries, saw herself on the screen in the person of Janet Blair.

First Home In Bendix Race

Paul Mantz, Hollywood, Cal., waves from his souped-up P-51 after landing in Cleveland to win Bendix transcontinental air race for second year in a row. Mantz covered the 2045 miles from Van Nuys, Cal., to Cleveland at an average speed of 460.23 miles per-hour. (NEA Telephoto).

Van Damh admitted he was rather disappointed that Miss Hayworth on her recent visit to London couldn't find time to visit the theater she helped make famous, although it was only a few minutes walk from her hotel.

The producer said he had no explanation for the Windmill's luck in escaping bombs that fell all around it during the war. But W. MacQueen Pope, historian of the British stage, has a suggestion.

"When the theater opened in 1932," said Pope, "the entire staff lined up inside the lobby, which was decorated with potted palms. Then the manager blew a whistle. The doors swung open, but there were no customers outside."

"Only a big mongrel dog who sniffed his way towards one of the potted palms. In show business they say that means good luck."

Navy Speeds Maps By Radiophoto

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The Navy can now prepare a weather map of any spot in the central Pacific within 30 minutes after the weather changes anywhere along the lone of an 8,500 mile radiophoto system.

Weather stations in Guam, Honolulu and San Francisco prepare maps which give detailed pictures of the situation in their areas. Within half an hour, these charts can be transmitted along the whole chain of bases from the China coast to Washington.

The instantaneous transmission of weather data is of particular importance to airmen planning long flights. Ordinary cable weather reports are not fast enough to keep aviation units abreast of conditions.

Railroad Sending Freight By Air

CHICAGO (UP) — The Santa Fe Railway sends freight by air. The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway owns the Santa Fe Skyway, Inc. This organization of 110 picked airmen has seven airfreighters in operation.

"This is another example of Santa Fe's use of new modes of transport to meet special shippers' demands, and to keep revenue from falling off," says H. R. Lake, president of the Santa Fe Skyway, Inc.

In 1930, the Santa Fe began using highway trucks to provide a more flexible and speedy service to branch line shippers. Its trucks provided 71,524,590 ton miles of service over 7,360 miles of highway routes, according to the company's 1946 annual report.

This was an important service to many shippers and one often related to heavy rail shipments, Lake said.

According to Lake, the Santa Fe Railway has filed a motion requesting an immediate air carrier hearing by the Civil Aeronautics Board. This action on Santa Fe's application for common carrier authority to transport property and U. S. mail by aircraft was originally filed in November, 1946.

The bugaboo of Monday wash will soon be over as new textiles are introduced to the market. New fabrics are being made stretch and shrink proof. They won't wrinkle or muss and will launder and wear well. Even slip covers will "give" so you won't have to pull and tug to get them on after laundering.

Here's really something to sink your teeth in for a new taste thrill! Just add a smidgeon of salt to real mayonnaise, then spread it thick on those tender ears of corn. Ummm! It's good.

Contrary to popular belief, housewives can't always tell spring lamb by its weight. They can, however, tell it by its pinkish color of fat, redness of bone and pink-red cast of flesh as well as by weights of the various cuts.

Newspaper Story Brings Painting To Public View

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UP) — A San Francisco columnist's reminiscing freed Elaine from her exile to the University of Illinois basement.

Now she's been dusted off and hung in the university art gallery. But she isn't creating the stir she brought about 70 years ago in San Francisco when she won fame for an immigrant artist, was stolen, and attracted an offer of $25,000 from a German prince.

"Elaine" is a painting done by Toby Rosenthal in 1875 to depict the central figure of a poem by Alfred Lord Tennyson. Tennyson's "my maid" died of unrequited love for Sir Lancelot of King Arthur's Round Table.

Rosenthal's painting shows a beautiful woman lying on a canopied bier upon a funeral barge, a lily in one hand and a farewell letter to Lancelot in the other.

Robert O'Brien, San Francisco Chronicle columnist, not long ago recalled the sensational success the painting enjoyed when it was first shown. On the fourth day after the picture was first exhibited — and after 5,000 persons had filed past it — the painting was stolen.

At least one newspaper put out a Sunday morning extra when police recovered it, according to O'Brien.

At about this time Mrs. R. C. Johnson, owner of the painting, was said to have turned down an offer of $25,000 from Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany.

The columnist ended his reminiscing by advising his readers that "the painting is now on the wall of the art gallery at the University of Illinois."

He was wrong. When Prof. Frank J. Roos, Jr., head of the university art department, heard about O'Brien's column, he started a search for Elaine. He found her in a basement, covered with the dust of years.

Elaine was returned to the gallery, with a caption: "Is Romanticism Dead?"

Roos, who said the painting was sent here 25 or 30 years ago on "permanent loan" from the Chicago Art Institute, parried questions about its present worth.

"Tastes change," he said.

Stocking Makers Should Wear Them

READING, Pa. (UP) — Fine thing, hosiery executives moan these days, when the women who make the world's stockings parade around barelegged.

It might be more comfortable to go without stockings, said one mill head in this hosiery capital of the world. "But comfort must be sacrificed to uphold a moral obligation to the industry."

The executive said, "It certainly seems strange that Reading women lean toward bareleggedness in a city where the hosiery industry is our bread and butter."

Some mills reported that their female employees were "taking it for granted" that they were expected to wear stockings, but in other plants they used "frequent reminders."

Harold E. Guldin, local branch head of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers, agreed with the manufacturers and commented that wearing shoes without stockings is a foot health hazard, anyway.

Judge Finds Judge

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (UP) — Judge Herbert L. Cohen of Fairfield, Conn., was on the wrong side of the bench in a recent speeding case. Judge Cohen was fined $15 by District Judge Charles L. Hibbard for traveling 60 miles an hour while on a week-end visit.

GIRL OPERA TOPS IN JAPAN

TOKYO (UP)— Shortly after the turn of the century, the Osaka-Kobe Express Railroad Co. headed by Mr. Ichizo Kobayashi, was seeking a means to popularize the resort town of Takarazuka ka which lies between the two towns it serves.

The company hit upon the idea of starting a dancing team composed exclusively of girls, in the hope that it would prove to be an attraction to tourists. So the Takarazuka theater was financed and built in Takarazuka.

It soon became a nationwide institution exceeding by far even the wildest imagination of the company officials. It would be comparable to the famous "Rockettes" of Radio City. It became known as the Takarazuka Girls Opera Co. and gave employment to 80 girls five years after its inception.

Not content to ride along with current public taste the company decided to send directors to Eu-

Now, Just Who Is The Mayor

GALVESTON, Tex. (UP)— Georgia had only a couple of claimants for the office of governor, but Galvestonians are wondering which of more than half a dozen men is rightfully holder of the mythical title of "Mayor of East and West Beaches."

The dispute, chiefly over the west beach title, started about a month ago when Albert Doveir, owner of the Ping Pong Club, gave a barbecue and air show as a campaign opener.

Doveir's right to the title has been contested by Bill Evers, manager of an eating place. Evers claims the title is his because he was known as mayor of east beach before the war when he operated another place on east beach.

But Life Guard Leroy Columbo declares he's the real mayor of both beaches and none of the half-dozen others have the qualifications for the job.

"I'm fully qualified for the office since I have been a beach-comber for the past 25 years, walking 15 to 20 miles on the beach daily," he declares.

rope to study latest techniques and adapt them to Japanese taste. In 1932, the Tokyo Takarazuka theatre was built for the exclusive use of the team. Now the Ernie Pyle, it became a showplace of Japan.

At its peak the troupe had its theaters not only in Tokyo and Osaka but also maintained a school in the latter city to train its future stars. The girls are thoroughly schooled in dancing, singing and acting before joining the troupe. All male parts are taken by girls. Costumes are made according to the standards set by opera companies the world over. The girls operate under a system of strict disciplinary control. They do not associate with boys.

In 1939, the troupe took 850 dancers to the World's Fair in New York and were favorably received. Their versatility enables them to combine both classical Japanese and Occidental dancing into a program enjoyable to almost every audience.

The traditional background of the troupe acts as an incentive for new girls to join it, enter a period of training and emerge as members of the best known team of entertainers in all Japan.

FDR Poked Fun At Governors

BOSTON (UP)— To further industrial and economic relationships between the six New England states, the governors meet regularly three or four times a year to discuss their common problems.

Soon after these meetings were commenced it was deemed necessary to visit Washington and during the trip they were invited to call on Pres. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

As the six men trod solemnly into the President's office, Mr. Roosevelt glanced up somewhat startled. Then with a grin he said, "What! All six! You're not going to concede, are you?"

If you fail to get an abstract when you buy your home in town or a farm you are almost sure to be required to furnish one when you sell—and at your own expense. It is customary for the seller to furnish the abstract and he is glad to do so if he knows he has a good title. It always pays big dividends to know about the title before buying any kind of real estate.

Sports Writer Covers Ground In Wheelchair

RIVER FALLS, Wis. (UP)—Paralysis crept into the life of Raymond Baird, 28, when he left high school, but wheelchair-bound he became a newspaper sports writer.

The River Falls Journal and the New Richmond News have printed his column—"A Knockout Every Time"—weekly, for eight years. To many of his fans, he's a ground covering, omnipresent sports writ-

The malady that cripples Baird's arms and legs is spastic paralysis. Raymond now has only two fingers per hand that can serve his sports-crowded brain in getting on paper the teeming tails of athletics he's studied for years.

In a farm house near River Falls Baird chronicles the sports world from his wheelchair. He knows the standings of teams and individuals for years back, and can quote obscure statistics on the spur of the moment.

He also writes for several national publications and for metropolitan daily papers.

His scrapbook holds letters of encouragement from the late baseball commissioner, Judge K. M. Landis, Chicago Cub owner P. K. Wrigley, and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Mrs. Roosevelt has twice used his case in her "My Day" column to point up the possibilities for invalids. Radio stations in Milwaukee and Minneapolis have broadcast his words, and others have used his life story.

Airport Activities

Speedy says--

Bob Galloway and I made a trip to Amarillo and return yesterday afternoon. We delivered a twin engine cessna and brought back a single engine cessna 140. Bob was an air force pilot during the war and did most of the flying on the trip.

It is well known over the state what cities have improved airports and what cities do not. The service rendered at the various airports is also well known. For example all people who know that Russell Field in Fort Worth gives excellent service, and they also know that a ride to town is part of the service.

When an airplane is in straight and level flight, the lift from the wings exactly equals the force of gravity, and the thrust from the propeller exactly equals the drag of the wings and the fuselage. Flight is maintained according to Newton's first law of motion which says that a body in motion tends to continue in motion in the same direction until acted upon by some external force.

The rate of descent on a 24 foot parachute is 21 feet per second. This is equivalent to a 10 foot jump.

Personal Remarks
Of course you can say what you please to anyone. Put figure on making people hate you.

It certainly makes you stand up on your hind legs and howl like a mad dog, though, when the shoe on the other foot, doesn't it, sister?

Did anyone ever tell you that one of the first marks of good breeding is consideration for the other person? Didn't your mother or some kind guardian angel ever whisper in your ear that one of the loudest things you can ever do is to make personal remarks? Keep your remarks to yourself or say the consequences.

A lady or a gentleman will very likely never reply to you, but you'll pay, nevertheless. Silent contempt, silent ostracism, silent amusement... you'll know it; you'll feel it... you don't like to be quietly put in your place, do you?

What an idiot you make of yourself when you make personal remarks.

The next time you feel a desire to say something rotten to someone else, try putting yourself in that person's place. Of course, if you like to inflict unhappiness, go ahead and say what you intended to.

Go ahead and cheapen yourself, if you want to.

After all, you live with you. Fun, isn't it?
