TAG SALMON TO LEARN HABITS AS CATCH DROPS

By Henry Minard
United Press Staff Correspondent
SEATTLE (UP)—The University of Washington's fishing research institute wants to know about the travel habits of a fancy free adult salmon.

The Alaska fishing industry is concerned. The commercial pink catches have been slackening off. Today the first phase of a six-year program was near an end. Twenty thousand mature salmon roam the Alaskan gulf, channels and streams with a tag on their dorsals. They're marked fish.

A six year time limit was selected because of the varied span of "races" of salmon. The institute will pay 50 cents reward for the return of every tag. It expects a 40 per cent return.

Letters From Readers

Editor's Note: The following letter was sent to the Times by Mrs. M. H. Bobo.
Dear Editor:
I have just finished reading the story in the Times of the discovery of oil in Ranger by Mrs. Ethel Brooker Gilmore. I don't know Mrs. Gilmore nor where she got the information. I'm sure she must have heard it from someone or read it in newspapers or a book. I have been in and near Ranger for 52 years and was living on the farm 10 miles from Ranger (where we now live) 30 years ago when oil was discovered at Ranger. Mrs. Gilmore was correct about the discovery of oil but has been misinformed about the conditions of the farm in 1917. We raised 35 bushels of wheat per acre that year and one half bale of cotton per acre. The drought came in the winter of 1917 and spring of 1918. I fail to recall the name of any farmer who sold his farm for "any amount of money he could get" and leaving to go back where he had come from, or even leaving at all. Most of them had leased their land to the T. P. Coal and Oil Company as the company would make the test for oil. So when they got oil they were millionaires over night and many of them did leave here then in order to have a more desirable place to live. The streets and roads were both dusty and muddy and many times impassable.

Ranger had two banks, two general merchandise stores, two farm implement dealers, several grocery stores and dry goods stores, two garages, two cotton gins. The cotton gins ginned more cotton in one day in 1917 than the one we have now has ginned the past two years. Can't remember a bank or business going broke before the oil boom. And the only industry near Ranger was farming and ranching. Most all the farmers owned a good car and they didn't buy the car on the installment plan. It doesn't make any difference what people tell about what happened thru the oil boom, as most anything did happen. But would like to have it straight about the condition of the people and especially the farmers prior to that. I was here and also a farmer's wife.
Yours truly,
Mrs. M. H. Bobo

This Question Interests Our Scientists

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 24—Texas travelers of five or 10 centuries ago no doubt had their own problems, but they also left some for today's archaeologists.

Research has established that cultures of prehistoric Mexican and Mississippi Valley peoples are similar. The similarities indicate contact was made across Texas, but who transported the culture and when?

Rangers Lose Hard Fought Battle To Hillsboro Eleven

VERSATILE HARRIS IN THIRD YEAR

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 24, (Sp) —At center, tackle, defensive full back or for booming kickoffs—it's all the same to the Texas Longhorns' Dick Harris, and he's an expert at the bunch.

The blond, underslung 208-pound junior has been outstanding since his first game as a freshman, and in his third season he's a weekly star in the surprising 1947 University of Texas line.

In '45 and '46, Harris was the Southwest's best center, winning unanimous All-Conference honors for both seasons as a 17 and 18-year-old. Last spring, Blair Chermak simultaneously eyed a pair of "T" formation centers and a 4th of good tackle. Five later, Harris became a tackle.

This fall, Cherry and Line Coach Ed Price hit upon a plan to utilize the big Wichita Falls lad in two places—but not at this. He's at tackle on the quick-breaking Texas T offense. Though defense, he shifts to defensive fullback where he's at his old specialty of backing up the line. This puts brassy young George Retrovich the Longhorns' "third tackle" and gives Quarterback Hobby Lane a breathing spell and a chance to confer with Cherry. This happy combination has worked out in excellent fashion in the Longhorns' first five games.

Harris is a "football natural" in the words of his coaches. He has speed, size, agility, and which may be best of all—a football heart. He's tough, is good for about 60 minutes of play on any afternoon, and his wide-ranging defensive play is heavily counted upon when the weekly plans are set up.

Dick began his football career at Wichita Falls High School, the originating spot for many Longhorns, including a handful of "T" regulars, Co-Capt. Max Bumgardner and Billy Pyle among them. In 1945, he won a reputation as one of the finest freshmen linemen ever to play in the Southwest. Last year, he was the strong point in what was generally referred to as a "weak" line.

If not the best, certainly the most spectacular moment of Harris' career came in Texas' 1944 opener against Missouri. Dick grabbed a Tiger forward, and headed for the goal, some 50 yards away. Hemmed in by two Missouri tacklers, he glanced wildly backward for a possible lateral receiver. The Tiger defenders thought he was throwing a lateral and turned past him, while Harris sped for a touchdown.

On the University of Texas campus, Dick is a tough-haired, good-natured business administration student with a peculiar ambling walk that can be spotted from a block away.

Harris' success as a tackle has knotted a steady improvement at that position this season for Texas, on both sides and in depth. For a spot that was earlier considered the weakest point in the line, it has developed into one of the strongest. Harris' co-starters are Ed Kelley, a former center, and a steady, dependable tackle after a sophomore year of experience in '46. A bunch of new sophomores, including Petrovich, Charlie Tatom and Errol Fry, offer future promise of more strength.

After Texas had suffered in its opening game t his season on short kick-offs, someone noticed Harris trying out a kick the following week. On the basis of a half-dozen practice efforts, he got the assignment. He promptly whammed out a 60 yd. average on his first try against North Carolina and has been at it ever since. That's just the Harris way.

INDIANS TAKE GAME BY A ONE TOUCHDOWN LEAD

In one of the best games seen in Ranger this season, the Hillsboro Junior College Indians Thursday night defeated the Ranger Junior College Rangers by a score of 21 to 13.

The Rangers were at their best and though they went into the game scheduled for a defeat, they gave fans a real thrill when they took the lead in the first quarter with the first touchdown of the game. Nice roomy holes were repeatedly opened up in the Indians' line and the passing machine was in good condition.

Taking the kick-off the Indians worked their way down to Ranger's 35 yard line and on fourth down kicked to Ranger with the ball landing on the 12 yard line. The Rangers made one try, then Blitch kicked. Hillsboro returned to the 35 with Basinger carrying the ball. After a series of plays a Hillsboro punt was blocked and Ranger took over on their own 45. Norwood gained ground for the Rangers but Arterburn fumbled a punt and the Indians took over on their own 47. Carmichael was hurt on this play and taken out of the game. On the Indians' first play they fumbled with McClendon recovering for Ranger.

Again Norwood gained for the Rangers and a pass from Arterburn to Sullivan was good for 15 yards with ball set up for the first score of the game. Boyd carried over right tackle for Ranger. The try for the extra point failed and the score was 6 to 0 in favor of Ranger.

The Indians took the kick and marched up the field to scoring distance and on a play that gave the ball to Clark, he raced over end for a touchdown for the Indians. Urbis kicked the extra point making the score 7 to 6 for the Indians.

Ranger went to passing in earnest, going deep into Hillsboro territory. They worked up to the three yard line and Norwood carried over left tackle for Ranger's second score. Arterburn kicked the extra point to make Ranger's tally 13.

Hillsboro again went to work on a touchdown drive, and following a series of fast plays Carroll carried over for the Indians second touchdown and Urbis again converted making the score at the end of 17: first half 14 to 13 for Hillsboro.

At the beginning of the second half Hillsboro kicked to Ranger. The Rangers piled up several first downs as they worked down to Hillsboro's four yard line. Arterburn was accurate with his passing on the drive with Spivey and Norwood on the receiving end. The Indians held the Rangers on the fourth down and the ball went over to Hillsboro.

In the last quarter Mikeska carried over for the Indians and Urbis converted to make the score at the end of the game 21 to 13. Starting line up for Ranger was Blitch, LE; Herrington, LG; Cram, I.G; McClendon, C; W. Roye, RG; Hinkson, RT; Griffen, RE; Boyd, QB; Norwood, LH; Spivey, RH; Townzen, FB.

Starting line-up for Hillsboro was: Robinson (cc) LE; J. Carnichell, LT; Watson, LG; Thrash, C; Couch, RG; Haywood, RT; Keeton, RE; Bassinger (cc) QB; Carroll, LH; A. Carmichael, RH; Clarke, FB.

Others going into the game for Ranger were Hardin, Ready, Suldivan, Knappenberger, Horn, J. Roye; for Hillsboro, Couch, Harper, Wylie, Clarke, Haywood, Mikeska, Urbis, Krone, Barnes, Waldie, Brown and Snokhaus.

COINS.
 One dirty, copper penny.
 Rust and happiness for many people start with copper.
 One small amount of ore formed in the shape of one penny.
 Five copper pennies go to make one nickel and then it is that the ore changes to silver . . . increases in value. Ten nickels go to form a larger more valuable coin . . . fifty cents.

Two fifty cent pieces make one dollar . . . a beautiful silver dollar. Dollars then roll into many dollars and the loveliest ore of all . . . gold.

Copper and silver and gold. Frankly, I love copper, silver, and gold in the form of coins. I've heard many people criticized for loving money, and I think the criticism is justified when the love of money results in harm to oneself and others.

But I also believe, and strongly, that the love of money, when used wisely and justly and with intelligence . . . is a worth while love indeed.

There is no use pretending that the possession of money does not make life easier. Surely anyone prefers comfort, freedom from financial worry; yet few of us are rich in this world's goods.

There are many compensations for the lack of money, but to my mind . . . life is more comfortable and pleasant if one has it.

Certainly, I am one of the many who gets only occasional glimpses of the lovely gold, silver, and copper.

But the more I see of it the prettier I think it is.

The moral to the little story is, of course: gold seems to result from the careful use of the copper.

But it takes so darn much of the copper to turn into gold!
