Hope Held For Break In French Crisis

Arrive For Grand Jury Investigation

Iowa Corn Husking Bees Vanishing But Old Timers Plead For Return

DES MOINES, Ia. (UP)—The familiar thud of corn against the wagon bangboards has become history on many Iowa farms. The machine age has muscled in on the popular Iowa corn husking bee and the corn husking contest. More mechanical corn pickers were available to do the tall corn state's harvesting job this year than ever before, with agricultural experts estimating that 75 per cent of the 1947 crop on 9,500,000 acres would be machine picked.

Since 1939, when there were 20,029 mechanical corn pickers to harvest the 9,000,000 acres of corn, the number of machines has tripled. Leslie M. Carl, federal-state crop statistician, said this year there was a picker for every 158 acres of corn, or more than 60,000.

Some anticorns notwithstanding, men can't compete with the machine when it comes to picking corn. A two-row corn picker can harvest 500 to 800 bushels a day. A man working alone can pick only 80 to 100 bushels. But Elmer G. Carlson, king of the nation's corn huskers in 1935 and now owner of a hybrid seed corn company at Audubon, Ia., doesn't think the corn husking contest is gone forever. "I've talked to some of the former corn husking contest participants and they feel the same way," he said. "All we need is a sponsor and some publicity. It would be

SAYS ATOMIC INVESTMENT SHOULD BE DOUBLED

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — This country in the next several years will have to double its 2-million $40-thousand dollar atomic energy investment if it "really means business," David E. Lillenthal said today. Lillenthal, chairman of the atomic energy commission, told the American Society of Mechanical Engineers that U. S. atomic weapons are constantly being redesigned and improved. But the great bomb material plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Hanford, Wash., "were erected in the greatest haste" during the war, he said, and— "It is obvious that they are not the last word, that great improve-

Group Would Tighten Up Export Control

WASHINGTON — House Republican policy makers today considered the possibility of legislation which would force President Truman to tighten up export controls as an anti-inflation measure. House Republican leader Halleck said the idea was discussed at a steering committee meeting which considered Mr. Truman's anti-inflation program and the administration's emergency foreign aid proposals. Halleck said the House GOP leadership discussed the possibility of giving the administration "more directives" and less discretion in the field of export controls. He said no decisions were reached. Mr. Truman in his 10-point anti-inflation program Nov. 17 asked Congress to extend and strengthen government controls over exports which expire Feb. 29. Republicans have charged that the administration has failed to exercise effectively the controls it already possesses. "The President now has the power to control exports but he has permitted goods to flow out to countries not now needing relief," Halleck said. "This has had a terrific impact on prices."

Former Coleman County Sheriff With Oil, Gas Co.

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 2 — George W. Robey, former sheriff of Coleman County, Texas, has been added to the staff of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, Charles E. Simons, vice-president and general manager, announced. Robey joins John V. Kelley veteran special investigator and former Breckenridge chief of police, in the Association's theft prevention campaign against thieves who menace oil company supplies and equipment. Robey, whose home is at Coleman, served as sheriff of his home county from September 1937 to January 1947. He was deputy sheriff for five years prior to that had farmed and ranched, following his service in World War I.

More Packages For Veterans In Hospitals Needed

R. H. Hansford, commander of the Carl Barnes Post of the American Legion, stated this morning that he had received a call from Mrs. Murray at Austin, appealing for more Christmas packages for Veterans in Hospitals over the state. The packages will be on display in the Strong Flower Shop window. It was stated that anything can be sent except cooked food and packages may be an assortment for veterans' families or individual packages for veterans. The packages will be sent to hospitals by the Legion and Auxiliary and will be distributed in the hospitals by members of the Auxiliary. With a slogan "Give To The Yank Who Gave For You," the two organizations are making a drive for at least 18,000 packages.

Cisco Man Held In County Jail On 3 Charges

Clifford Dawson of Cisco, charged with driving while drunk, with speeding and with operating a motor vehicle without a license, was being held in county jail today. Sheriff J. B. Williams stated that Dawson was turned over to him by Cisco officers who arrested him in Cisco last night. Charges against Dawson, Sheriff Williams said, were filed by Cisco officers, Frank Slapper and W. A. Page in Justice of the Peace H. S. Stubblefield's court in Cisco.

GOP IN HOUSE FOR CUTS IN RELIEF BILL

WASHINGTON — House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck today reported "considerable sentiment" among House GOP members for cuts in the emergency foreign relief bill. Halleck made the statement after a meeting of the House Republican steering committee. He said the committee made no decisions on the bill. "There was a lot of discussion about the amount," the Indiana Republican said. "I can say there is considerable sentiment among a lot of Republicans that the amount in the bill is too large." Halleck referred to the house bill which already is 7-million dollars below the 597-million authorization approved by the Senate yesterday by a vote of 83 to 6. The senate bill covered aid for France, Italy and Austria in substantially the form asked by President Truman. The House version as approved by its foreign affairs committee not only slashed the total, but added 60-million for China. Halleck said no decision was reached as to whether or how much should be cut. He said general debate on the bill might start Thursday and might cover from 10 to 12 hours all told.

Violence Marks Beginning Of Arab Strike

JERUSALEM — Arabs today began a three-day general strike with a burst of stabbings, shootings, arson and mob violence that forced the Jewish underground to line up with the British for the first time to try to maintain order. Arab mobs stormed through Jerusalem's streets, smashing stores, stealing an estimated 1-million dollars worth of Jewish property, and attacking Jews wherever they were found. A Jewish mob formed, and, shouting, "revenge, revenge," started for the Arabs. The Jews, however, were turned back by British police assisted by members of the Hagana Jewish underground army. No human force, however, could keep all the Jews and Arabs separated and five hours of disturbances left one Jew dead, at least 20 wounded, and several Arabs wounded. Among the Jews suffering serious stab wounds was a correspondent for the British Reuters News Agency. Fifty students from the American University in Cairo paraded to the Arab league offices and shouted "down with America." In Aleppo, Arabs attacked Jews, Jewish property, and American-owned automobiles. Two-hundred students wrote in blood their enlistments in an Arab force to fight partition.

Final Rites For Mrs. Brown Held This Afternoon

Funeral services for Mrs. A. H. Brown, who passed away Monday morning at her home in Eastland, were conducted from the Hamner Funeral Home in Eastland at 2:30 this (Tuesday) afternoon with Rev. L. M. Chapman, pastor of the Eastland Baptist church, and Claud Smith, minister of the Church of Christ in Eastland, officiating. Interment was in the Eastland cemetery. Survivors include the husband, a daughter, Mrs. Pearly Lewis of Baxter, Tennessee; two sisters and a brother. Also two stepsons, Calvin Brown of Fort Worth and S. E. Brown of Longview. The deceased was born in March 1883 in Putnam county, Tennessee. She and Mr. Brown were married in Tennessee. They had lived in Eastland 20 years. Using only two consonants, W and H, it's possible to spell the full names of two states of the Union— Iowa and Ohio.

Just Another Worker Now

MARINES OBSERVING 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF FAMOUS HYMN

There have been hundreds of verses. The new standard opening line, "From the halls of Montezuma," was added by an unknown fighting man after the Mexican War when the leathernecks captured the castle of Chapultepec, or "the halls of Montezuma." "The Shores of Tripoli" refer to Marine glory 40 years earlier when Lt. P. N. O'Bannon and his small force of Marines helped capture Tripoli, in the war with the Barbary pirates. The Marine hymn was officially adopted in its present three-verse form by Maj. Gen. John A. LeJeune, major general and commandant of the corps, in 1929. Popular recordings are being released for the centennial observance and in connection with the Marines' recruiting drive scheduled to move into high gear in January.

Monument To Mother Of Garfield Found

RICHMOND, N. H. (UP)—A monument marking the birthplace of president Garfield's mother has been "rediscovered" in an isolated wooded area here. Harlan K. Barrett found the almost forgotten marker a half mile off a dirt road. All traces of buildings and paths in the area had been obliterated. The granite monument bears the inscription: "Here was born, Sept. 21 1801. Eliza Ballou, wife of Abram Garfield, 20th president of the United States."

Customers Baffled By Slick Bandits

ST LOUIS (UP)—Two prescient customers who walked into a liquor store here were surprised when the man behind the counter said he didn't have the faintest idea what prices he should charge. Then another man casually walked out of the back room and said, "It's getting late. Guess we'd better go get something to eat." Both men walked out, leaving the customers unerved. A few seconds later, Joseph Singer, 54 and his wife, Leona, 45 burst out of the washroom and revealed that the supposed clerk were bandits who had just stolen $195 from the store.

GUARDS SEIZE POWER PLANTS, START THEM OPERATING

PARIS — Armed guardmen restored Paris subway service by seizing struck power plants today and ousted Communist deputies from the National Assembly as a fledgling back-to-work movement doused hope of a major break in the nationwide strike paralysis. Thousands of helmeted mobile and security guards rushed the power plants where walkouts had shut off the subway power, justed out the pickets and set the generators humming again. The snoop was so swift and strong that it was bloodless. The turbulent Assembly, where Premier Robert Schuman was seeking laws to crack down on the nation's 2-million Communist-led strikers was meeting again a few hours after the sit-down Communist deputies were ejected. The government already was cracking down, without waiting for action by the Assembly which so far had passed only one section of Schuman's emergency program. It authorized him to call up 80-thousand reservists in case of revolution.

At Limoges, Police Hurl Tear Gas Bombs Into the Ranks of Strikers Blocking the Railway Station. More Strikers Swarmed to the Station, and Traffic in the Whole Area was Snarled.

Paris police occupied several bus depots to guard against outbreaks after public bus driver, greengrocer, and other employees voted not to strike. The vote seemed symptomatic of a movement which promised to break the backbone of the nationwide strike. The General Confederation of Labor's 6-million members were split wide open. The Communist-led majority stood fast. The minority showed willingness to negotiate with the government.

Peanut Marketing Quota Election On December 9

The peanut producers of Eastland County will vote on peanut marketing quotas December 9th. This election will decide if there is to be a support price and a controlled acreage on peanuts in 1948, 1949, 1950. If you are a peanut grower be sure to vote. Advise Emmett Powell secretary of Eastland County A.C.A.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—Houston, Texas newspaper publisher, sends in a report from his San Angelo Standard and Times that gives the best picture yet of what's happening down on the big wheat farms. The big operators come rejoicing, bringing in the sheaves, all right. But they aren't sending those sheaves to market. First, in the hope of a price rise and, second, because they want to beat the income tax collector.

From a third to a half of the wheat raised in the Texas Panhandle is still being held on the farms, say Mr. Hart's reporters. The little town of Vega, Tex., population 300, is said to be rolling in dough. Eight families alone raised from 30,000 to 200,000 bushels of wheat apiece. Putting the average at 100,000 bushels, it represents a potential gross income of $300,000 at today's $3 a bushel price. But, since the income tax laws are so rigged that the most a man can keep and show a profit on is around $29,000, these big farm operators are selling only about 10,000 to 20,000 bushels. This nets them maximum return after taxes. The rest of the crop is being stored on farms or warehoused until 1948, which is another tax year. Every empty building is said to be stored with wheat. Wheat-filled granaries line the railroad tracks. Two big new elevators are being built in Vega to hold 75,000 bushels.

This Texas situation is apparently true of the entire wheat belt, right up to the Canadian border. When Tom Campbell of Montana, biggest U. S. wheat farmer, was in Washington recently, he told President Truman that he was holding 600,000 bushels of wheat. The U. S. Department of Agriculture Crop Reporting Board says that, as of Oct. 1, over 628 million bushels of wheat—nearly half the 1947 harvest of 1.4 billion bushels—were still being held on farms. These big farm operators, who are not selling their wheat now, are, of course, playing a smart game. Planting wheat throughout the winter wheat belt has been too dry, which means next year's crop may be much smaller than this year's all-time record high. If the next crop is off, the price is bound to be higher.

It has been generally reported, and the belief is widespread, that it is the government's crop loan policy which is responsible for today's high wheat price and for much of the wheat hoarding on farms. Community Credit Corporation reports indicate this isn't so. It is the tax law—not the farm loan policy—that is principally to blame. As of Oct. 1, again the latest report available, CCC had made loans of $37.75 million dollars on 20 million bushels of 1947 wheat. While this sounds like a lot of money and a lot of wheat, it is only 1.3 per cent of this year's 1.4 billion bushel crop.

As a matter of fact, the big farm operators are now so well fixed financially that they don't have to rely on government loans. They do their own financing, and thus save interest charges.

Of the record, Department of Agriculture officials will admit frankly that the big wheat farmers are afraid of government loans. What they fear is that the government might seize any wheat against which it advanced money, by calling the loans before due date. What the big farm operators really want is a return to the certificate plan of May and June, 1946. Under this operation, farmers who marketed their grain were given a certificate receipt. This certificate could be exchanged for cash on demand, at the market price prevailing when the certificate was turned in. If the market price was up, the farmer stood to gain. If the price went down, the farmer was guaranteed as a minimum the price in effect when he surrendered his grain for the certificate.

Furthermore, the Bureau of Internal Revenue gave its blessing to an arrangement whereby, if the farmer did not choose to cash in his certificate until 1947, the income from the sale would not be taxed until 1947. In short, the deal was so rigged that the farmer had everything to gain and he couldn't possibly lose. And that is apparently all he wants now.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—"Our above-the-limit roster," the announcer read, "has long been a source of concern, if not embarrassment. We have been inelastic and in no position to consider addition of available strength from our minor league affiliates."

So, making room, Branch Rickey took $50,000 more from the Pittsburgh club in exchange for infielder Stan Rojek and first baseman Eddie Stevens.

That makes $450,000 worth of Ivory the Brooklyn club has peddled this far this year while winning the National League pennant and establishing a new attendance record at Ebbets Field.

KIRBY HIGBE, Hank Behrman, Calvin McLish, Dixie Howell and Gene Muech went to the Pirates for $300,000 and Al Gionfriddo. Resident Rickey kicked back $20,000 when right-hander Bernessa was turned back. Outfielder Tom Entum was sold to the Reds for $20,000, Augie Odom for $35,000 and pitcher Ed Neusser first baseman Stretch Schultz was grabbed by the Phillies for $50,000.

Frank E. McKinney, John W. Galbreath and associates weren't fighting when they said they would give the Pirates a pennant if one could be purchased.

The money something like $1,000,000 and the racing man's investment for new talent in 1948 was paid for operation.

The managers needed Rojek because even if they do not win the pennant, they need him. The deal for Stan Rojek and Eddie Stevens like the best young pitcher in the Pacific Coast, respectively, de-

This Is Happy

By PEGGY DERN

XXIII
WHEN Steve came back into the sitting room, sleek and well groomed and undeniably handsome, Happy was absorbed in the typed sheets she had found beside the typewriter.
"Madame Snoop, eh?" Steve said sternly, his eyes twinkling. "Who said you could read that?"
Happy looked up at him, bemused.
"But, Steve—it's wonderful. What is it?" she asked eagerly.
"An outline for a movie—rather, the outline has been accepted, and this is the 'treatment.' I think they call it. About six thousand words, they said, so that a script can be built from it—a shooting script," he explained, and added swiftly, "Is it good?"
"Of course not."
"Steve, please come if you can. You'll love it." She broke off at his look and added hurriedly, "It's not just my invitation. Mrs. Harrell suggested it—in fact, I think it was really George who suggested it. Anyway, don't make up your mind until you see them at tea, will you?"

It was a gala spring day. Savannah was in her very best bib and tucker for the delight and admiration of her annual spring visitors.
Steve and Happy wandered about happily. Just around the corner from a busy downtown street, where the traffic clanged and roared and people hurried, intent on their own affairs, they came upon a house that made Happy stood still in sheer delight. It was a tiny house, not more than 25 feet wide at most; yet it was three stories high, with a walled garden at the back. In spite of the fact that it was bordered on both sides and faced across the street with tall business buildings, the little house was as gay as a child's laugh on a June morning. Built of a ancient stone, the windows deeply set to indicate the thickness of the walls, it had been freshly painted white, and the front door, beneath an exquisite fanlight, was painted a bright scarlet.

Steve seemed to find that definitely offensive.
"Oh, so he takes it for granted, does he? Well, how do you feel about it? Or is he going to give you any choice?"
Soberly Happy said, "I don't quite know, Steve. I like him, and Sundown is heavenly and—well, I just don't quite know."
Steve drew a deep breath, obviously of relief, and smiled at her as he tucked her hand through his arm.
"Of course not."
"Happy, do you mean to stand there and tell me that this—this stuffed shirt hasn't asked you to marry him?"

Poetry Heard, Not Read In Harvard Library

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP)—Convinced that poetry has to be heard to be appreciated, a Harvard professor has amassed an unusual collection of phonograph records.

Prof. Frederick C. Parker, who teaches public speaking, records the voice of famous poets, authors and actors. His collection is housed in a special library called the Harvard Vocarium, where it is in constant demand by students who prefer to study by ear than by eye.

The idea was born by accident when T. S. Eliot visited Packard's study in 1933. Packard showed him a new recording device and persuaded him to test it out by reading his "Hollow Men."

Heads in Luck
WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O. (UP)—A pheasant astonished Sheriff Orland Hays by walking into his office at the courthouse. However, it was out of season and the bird was released in the country.

DALTON, Ga. (UP)—A safety drive is under way to require that high-riding boys and girls fasten red and white reflector type tape to bicycle handlebars, forks and fenders.

BARBS
BY HAL COCHRAN
THERE is no use in going back looking for lost opportunity. Someone else has found it.

Some educators say fairy tales are harmful to children. Better not let your child read political statements.

By the time some people learn to ride horseback, they can't.

A baby born in a southern town was five feet tall. Young giraffes are cute little things.

Members of a girls' bike club in the east say they ride because it makes their arms beautiful. No comment!

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UP)—The cost of making love in an automobile, like everything else, is going up. New traffic regulations include a boost in fines from $3 to $5 for "embracing or being embraced while a car is in motion."

Jap Teachers
Fall In Purge

TOKYO (UP) — Nearly half the Japanese teachers screened by a commission of the Japanese education ministry during the past two months have been purged, including one Communist.
 The commission announced that out of 225 teachers screened in September and October, 105 had been rejected as unfit. One purged was Mrs. Yayoi Yoshida, director of the Tokyo Women's College.
 Another was Shinichi Matsumoto, director of the Central Labor School.
 Rejection of Matsumoto was one of the first known instances in which a Communist was purged.
 Previously, purge lists have consisted chiefly of pre-war ultra-nationalists and war criminals.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—Houston Harte, Texas newspaper publisher, sends in a report from his San Angelo Standard and Times that gives the best picture yet of what's happening down on the big wheat farms.
The big operators come rejecting, bringing in the sheaves, all right. But they aren't smiling.
Eight families alone raised from 50,000 to 200,000 bushels of wheat apiece. Putting the average at 100,000 bushels, it represents a potential gross income of $300,000 at today's $3 a bushel price.

But, since the income tax laws are so rigged that the most a man can keep and show a profit on is around $20,000, these big farm operators are selling only about 10,000 to 20,000 bushels. This nets them maximum return after taxes.
The rest of the crop is being stored on farms or warehoused until 1948, which is another tax year. Every empty building is said to be stored with wheat. Wheat-filled quonset huts line the railroad tracks. Two big new elevators are being built in Vega to hold 75,000 bushels.

THIS Texas situation is apparently true of the entire wheat belt, right up to the Canadian border. When Tom Campbell of Montana, biggest U. S. wheat farmer, was in Washington recently, he told President Truman that he was holding 800,000 bushels of wheat.
The U. S. Department of Agriculture Crop Reporting Board says that, as of Oct. 1, over 628 million bushels of wheat—nearly half the 1947 harvest of 1.4 billion bushels—were still being held on farms.
These big farm operators, who are not selling their wheat now, are, of course, playing a smart game. Planting weather throughout the winter wheat belt has been too dry, which is bad. Next year's crop may be much smaller than this year's all-time record high. If the next crop is off, the price is bound to be higher.

It has been generally reported, and the belief is widespread, that it is the government's crop loan policy which is responsible for today's high wheat price and for much of the wheat hoarding on farms. Commodity Credit Corporation reports indicate this isn't so. It is the tax law—not the farm loan policy—that is primarily to blame.
As of Oct. 1—again the latest report available—CCC had made loans of $37.73 million dollars on 20 million bushels of 1947 wheat. While this sounds like a lot of money and a lot of wheat, it is only 1.3 per cent of this year's 1.4 billion bushel crop.

AS a matter of fact, the big farm operators are now so well fixed financially that they don't have to rely on government loans. They do their own financing, and thus save interest charges.
Off the record, Department of Agriculture officials will admit frankly that the big wheat farmers are afraid of government loans. What they fear is that the government might seize any wheat against which it has advanced money, by calling the loans before due date.
What the big farm operators really want is a return to the certificate plan of May and June, 1946. Under this operation, farmers who marketed their grain were given a certificate receipt. This certificate could be exchanged for cash on demand, at the market price prevailing when the certificate was turned in. If the market price was up, the farmer stood to gain. If the price went down, the farmer was guaranteed a minimum price in effect when he surrendered his grain for the certificate.
Furthermore, the Bureau of Internal Revenue gave its blessing to an arrangement whereby, if the farmer did not choose to cash in his certificate until 1947, the income from the sale would not be taxed until 1947. In short, the deal was so rigged that the farmer had everything to gain and he couldn't possibly lose. And that is apparently all he wants now.

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK.—(NEA)—"Our above-the-limit roster," the announce ment read, "has long been a source of concern, if not embarrassment. We have been inelastic and in no position to consider addition of available strength from our minor league affiliates."

So, making room, Branch Rickey took $50,000 more from the Pittsburgh club in exchange for infielder Stan Rojek and first baseman Eddie Stevens.

That makes $450,000 worth of ivory the Brooklyn club has peddled this year while winning the National League pennant and establishing a new attendance record at Ebbets Field.

KIRBY HIGBE, Hank Behrman, Calvin McLish, Dixie Howell and Gene March went to the Pirates for $30,000 and Al Glendon. Resident Rickey kicked back $35,000 when right-hander Behrman was turned back. Outfielder Tom Tatum was sold to the Reds for $50,000, Augie Olan for $35,000 and pitcher Ed Heusser first baseman Stretch Schults was purchased by the Phillies for $50,000.

Frank E. McKinney, John W. Gallo and associate weren't kidding when they said they would give the Pirates a pennant if one could be purchased.

The means something like $200,000 to the banker and the racing team investment for new talent in their own year of operation.

The Buccaneers needed Rojek because even if they do not win the pennant, they do not want to lose the best young pitcher in the Pacific Coast, respectively. de-

This Is Happy

By PEGGY DERN

XXIII
WHEN Steve came back into the sitting room, sleek and well groomed and undeniably handsome, Happy was absorbed in the typed sheets she had found beside the typewriter.

"Madame Snoop, eh?" Steve said sternly, his eyes twinkling. "Who said you could read that?"
Happy looked up at him, bemused.

"But, Steve—it's wonderful. What is it?" she asked eagerly.

"An outline for a movie—rather, the outline has been accepted, and this is the treatment. I think they call it. About six thousand words, they said, so that a script can be built from it—a shooting script," he explained, and added swiftly, "Is it good?"

"Oh, yes, Steve, it's wonderful! You're having trouble with the typing, aren't you?"

"Trouble with the typing, she says? He gave a woebegone chuckle.

Happy put down the typed sheets and looked up at him eagerly. "Well, your tour will be over soon, and I'll be back in New York in a week or two, and we can get back to work together."

Steve's eyebrows rose and there was an odd expression in his eyes for a moment.

"You're going back to New York?"

"Well, of course, I was invited to spend a month at Sundown—not the rest of my life!" she laughed.

"No?" Steve's eyebrows were still up.

Happy colored but met his eyes straightly.

"Of course not."

"Happy, do you mean to stand there and tell me that this—this stuffed shirt hasn't asked you to marry him?"

"You blessed idiot!" She was rosy with confusion and could not quite meet his eyes, but suddenly and unexpectedly, she was serious. "He—I think he wants to—oh, he has made it quite plain, though he has never come right out with the words 'Will you marry me?' But—well, I think he sort of takes it for granted I will."

Steve seemed to find that definitely offensive.

"Oh, so he takes it for granted, does he? Well, how do you feel about it? Or is he going to give you any choice?"

Soberly Happy said, "I don't quite know, Steve. I like him, and Sundown is heavenly and—well, I just don't quite know."

Steve drew a deep breath, obviously of relief, and smiled at her as he tucked her hand through his arm.

"Oh, well, take a long time to think it over, Happy dear. Marriage is serious, not to say a grim business. It never pays to rush into it headlong!"

"Oh, I nearly forgot. You are invited to come back to Sundown with us for a few days, if you can manage it!" she said eagerly.

Steve stared at her.

"The deuce you say!" he marvelled.

"Oh, Steve, please come if you can. You'll love it." She broke off at his look and added hurriedly, "It's not just my invitation. Mrs. Harrell suggested it—in fact, I think it was really George who suggested it. Anyway, don't make up your mind until you see them at tea, will you?"

IT was a gala spring day. Savannah was in her very best bib and tucker for the delight and admiration of her annual spring visitors.

Steve and Happy wandered about happily. Just around the corner from a busy downtown street, where the traffic clanged and roared and people hurried, intent on their own affairs, they came upon a house that made

Poetry Heard, Not Read In Harvard Library

Poetry Heard, Not Read In Harvard Library

Happy stand still in sheer delight. It was a tiny house, not more than 25 feet wide at most; yet it was three stories high, with a walled garden at the back. In spite of the fact that it was bordered on both sides and faced across the street with tall business buildings, the little house was as gay as a child's laugh on a June morning. Built of a ancient stone, the windows deeply set to indicate the thickness of the walls, it had been freshly painted white, and the front door, beneath an exquisite fanlight, was painted a bright scarlet.

"Steve, what a darling house!" Happy breathed, enchanted. "It's like something out of a fairy tale. Oh, Steve, wouldn't you love to live there?"

Steve looked down at her swiftly and then back at the little house, so gay, so nonchalant in the midst of the city clamor.

"But I'm afraid Timmy wouldn't like it." Happy went on thoughtfully. "The garden wouldn't be big enough."

Steve stared at her, one eyebrow rising quizzically.

"And since when has Timmy become so fussy? The last time I saw that yellow beast he seemed quite contented in a one-room apartment," he protested.

Happy laughed. "Oh, but he's found Sundown since then."

Steve walked on, leaving the gay little house with the scarlet door behind him.

"So Timmy likes Sundown, eh?" he asked mildly.

"He adores it. Everybody likes him, and he's grown so fat and sleek you wouldn't know him!"

"He didn't exactly look gaunt or starved or abused when I saw him last; in fact, he looked like a pampered pet who has had more than his share of the good things of life."

"Well, he's my family, you know," she reminded him. "The only living thing that I have to make a fuss over. I suppose I do spoil him; but he appreciates it so."

Steve laughed at her fondly and tucked her hand beneath his arm, and they walked on.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP)—

Convinced that poetry has to be heard to be appreciated, a Harvard professor has amassed an unusual collection of phonograph records.

Prof. Frederick C. Parker, who teaches public speaking, records the voice of famous poets, authors and actors. His collection is housed in a special library called the Harvard Vocarium, where it is in constant demand by students who prefer to study by ear than by eye.

The idea was born by accident when T. S. Eliot visited Packard's study in 1933. Packard showed him a new recording device and persuaded him to test it out by reading his "Hollow Men."

Pheasant in Luck
WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O. (UP)—A pheasant astonished Sheriff Orland Hays by walking into his office at the courthouse. However, it was out of season and the bird was released in the country.

DALTON, Ga. (UP)—A safety drive is under way to require that night-riding boys and girls fasten red and white reflector type tape to bicycle handlebars, forks and fenders.

THERE is no use in going back looking for lost opportunity. Someone else has found it.

Some educators say fairy tales are harmful to children. Better not let yours read political statements.

By the time some people learn to ride horseback, they can't.

A baby born in a southern town was five feet tall. Young giraffes are cute little things.

Members of a girls' bike club in the east say they ride because it makes their arms beautiful. No comment!

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beech wood crocote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. Jap Teachers Fall In Purge

TOKYO (UP)—Nearly half the Japanese teachers screened by a commission of the Japanese education ministry during the past two months have been purged, including one Communist. The commission announced that out of 225 teachers screened in September and October, 105 had been rejected as unfit. One purged was Mrs. Yayoi Yoshida, director of the Tokyo Women's College. Another was Shinichi Matsumoto, director of the Central Labor School. Rejection of Matsumoto was one of the first known instances in which a Communist was purged. Previously, purge lists have consisted chiefly of pre-war ultranationalists and war criminals.

Quit Worrying About Your Title—

... let us do it. If you suspicion or know your title is faulty give us a chance to help you. While the abstract may not cure every defect, it does assemble the material which places these defects or 'flaws' in position to be worked out. Delay in having your title abstracted won't help but often hinders, and adds to the expense later on. Don't further delay about this important matter.

SOCIETY

WSCS Awards Life Membership To Mrs. Balch

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church met Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the church.

After the opening prayer by the president, reports of officers and committee chairmen were heard.

In the business session, Mrs. R. S. Balch was elected to receive the adult life membership given each year by the organization.

Mrs. M. H. Hagaman gave an informative talk on the prison system in Texas. The devotional was given by Mrs. A. J. Ratliff who used as her scriptural story the life of Nicodemus.

After a closing song Mrs. Claud P. Jones said the benediction.

The next meeting will be held December 8 when a World Federation program will be given.

Y. W. A. Completes Mission Study

The Y. W. A. of the First Baptist Church met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Earle Pittman for a business meeting and mission study.

It was decided that the organization would meet Thursday, December 11, for the annual Lottie Moon Christmas program. A report was given on the Thanksgiving baskets delivered by the Y. W. A. last week.

Mrs. Pittman completed the study of the mission book, "My World, Too".

Refreshments were served to Misses Marie Harper, Loretta Culpepper, Zella Faye Stephen, Doris Groves, Paty Wheat, Wanda Rose Billie Faye Pounds and Mrs. Pittman.

Class To Have Christmas Social

The LLL Class of the First Baptist Church will be entertained Wednesday with a covered dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. George Rogers, East Main St., at one o'clock.

Following the luncheon a business session and social hour will be held. Gifts will be exchanged from a Christmas tree.

All members and associate members are urged to attend.

Anyone who would rather think of sun and balmy breezes instead of slush and snow will be glad to hear that the nation's knitting mills are clicking 24 hours a day to meet next year's demand for bathing suits. On the complicated automatic machine above in Los Angeles, nine patterns, resembling rolls of an old-fashioned player piano, are needed to guide the thousands of needles turning out the new Catalina angel fish design. Bette Stewart models a completed suit as the cloth leaves the bottom of the machine.

Young Master

Seven-year-old Charlie Pongraz, of Akron, Ohio, knows the value of working with a live model. His sketch of 6-year-old Cathy Ann Conway will, when completed, be part of a collection he'll enter in a nation-wide crayon drawing contest for school children.

TEACHER HOUSING PROBLEM SOLVED BY INGENUITY

AUDUBON, Ia. (UP)—This town of 2,409 persons solved its teacher housing problem by construction of two modern duplexes—and it didn't take a bond issue to do it.

Superintendent of Schools Allen N. Stroh said an idea, some ingenuity and a lot of hard work turned the trick.

The duplexes cost about $15,000 and house four teachers and their families. They will have paid for themselves in 15 years at the fairland rental of $30 per month per family.

This was the situation last summer:

Audubon had 10 men on its school faculty of 32. Nine were married and had families. Of the nine, Stroh had rented a home and two others courageously had bought homes.

That left six families, including that of Don Stark, the high school industrial arts instructor and father of a new baby, faced with the typical situation in small communities—landlords considering a short-term proposition, no in-laws to move in with and no hotels to live in while watching the want-ads.

Stroh learned of surplus buildings for sale at Clarinda, Ia., by the War Assets Administration. The buildings were barracks, formerly occupied by Japanese and German prisoners of war. He sounded out the school board on buying them.

The board decided not only to buy them but to tear them down, haul the lumber to Audubon and build the homes from scratch.

Stark, an air force veteran, was made head of the project. Stark and Stroh bought the buildings for $327. They transported boys from the industrial art classes by bus to Clarinda to dismantle them.

Lots were bought in the residential district and Stark engineered the filling of a hole on the site with more than 2,000 yards of dirt.

Stark shopped around Des Moines, Omaha, St. Louis and Kansas City for finishing lumber.

The project was finished in record time. The teachers did their own interior decorating. The plans for each are identical—a living dining room combination, two bed rooms, a bath, two larger closets, and a kitchen. The back porch can double as a breakfast nook and each has a full basement.

The work of shifting locomotives is carried out on British railways in part by an ingenious device resembling a hand plough running on a track on the ground, propelled by gasoline-electric motor with a pushing power of 150 tons or five carloads.
