New York Digging Out From Under Snow

9 Dunno,

During the holidays this year we heard this version of why the south and west make firecrackers and such a part of the Christmas celebration. We were told that following the Civil War, the people of the South considered themselves no longer free, having been defeated in the war, and turned to using fireworkes at Christmas instead of the 4th of · Well, now that we know better, it looks like we could get the fireworks back where they belong, on the 4th of July.

W. L. Langford was burned about the face and hands in a fire Saturday afternoon which destroy ed a chicken house at his poultry yard on Oak Street.

Attendants at the Brazda-Ameen clinic where he was treated stated that the burns were second and third degree.

The chicken house was completely destroyed by the fire which started from a brooder. Another chicken house nearby was only scorched. A number of chickens were lost in the fire.

Two trucks from the fire department answered the call and managed to confine the fire to the one house. Chief Charlie Isabel stated Saturday that one of the firemen lost a fountain pen at the fire and that if anybody finds it they may return it to the fire sta-

LOOKING for a new idea for entertaining the teen-age set— and their older friends? Then plan a sundae buffet.

The trick lies in having a varlety of fruit sauces, just like the corner ice cream "parlor." Incidentally, that's where you get your ice cream in bulk. Your pantry and refrigerator shelves can supply the makings of sauces without any advance plan ning. Defrost any frozen fruits, open a jar of jam or jelly, slice a banana, get out the honey and chocolate—and before you know it you have a variety of ice cream toppings to intrigue everybody. Set them all forth in small dishes and let each person make his sun-dae "to order." You can create others on a moment's notice by combining two or three ingredi-

Greek Army On The Offensive

By United Press ATHENS-Reinforced Greek rmy troops in the Konsita area of northern Greece have opened a counter-attack and are pushing querilla forces back in the direction of the Albanian border, 10 miles northwest press dispatches said today. There reports said government troop were advancing along the principal road toward the stratric Bourazari bridge between Kenitsa and the border, seized by guerrillas on Christmas day. Dispatches from Ioannina said the guerillas forced government troops guarding the bridge to re-treat into the Vasilikon heights Reliable military sources said both sides have thrown reinforcements into the battle.
