WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—This is the third winter since the end of the war, and still the problem of what to do with some 850,000 displaced persons who can never go home has not been licked. What's worse, it will be another three to five winters before the problem can be cleaned up. Half are women and children. Four out of five are Christians. One in five is Jewish.

These DP's are now located, roughly, 650,000 in Germany, 100,000 in Austria and 100,000 in Italy. They are kept in DP camps. They cost the U. S. nearly $150 million last year, in food, shelter, clothing and protection. As the U. S. takes over the costs of British zones in Germany and Austria this year, the cost may go to $250 million. Obviously, the cheapest and best thing to do is to help resettle them.

They want another chance. On only two things do they appear to be adamant. They will not return to the now-Communist dominated countries from which they came, for fear of persecution. They will not help rebuild Germany.

The plight of these people is due for another American spring in coming months as Congress takes up two bills intended to admit up to 400,000 U. S. immigrants during the next four years.

Congressman William G. Stratton (R., Ill.) has proposed that 100,000 displaced persons be admitted to this country every year for the next four years. Hearings on his bill were completed last summer. But the measure is now bottled-up in a House Judiciary sub-committee under Congressman Frank Fellows (R., Me.).

SHORTLY before Congress recessed last July, Sen. Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.), six other Republicans and two Democrats introduced another DP bill. It would admit to the U. S. during the next four years any displaced person who could qualify under the U. S. immigration laws.

The lobby in support of these bills and the lobbies against lowering the present U. S. immigration barriers have both been heavy. Whether the Stratton or the Ferguson bill is finally adopted by Congress, or whatever compromise may be agreed on, the fate of only half of the 850,000 European DP's will be settled.

The other half of the problem must be handled ultimately by the UN International Refugee Organization. IRO is largely an American idea. When it was adopted by the UN General Assembly in December 1946, the deal was that IRO should not come into being until its constitution was ratified by 15 nations.

Until that time, a Provisional Commission of the International Refugee Organization—PCIRO—was to take over the DP relief work under UNRRA. PCIRO set up headquarters at Geneva, Switzerland.

THERE is little that PCIRO can do, however, until more countries pay up their share of the operating costs and ratify the IRO constitution. In the past year only 12 governments have acted. They are Australia, Canada, China, Dominican Republic, France, Guatemala, Iceland, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, United Kingdom and U. S. These countries have provided three-fourths, or $115 million out of the $155 million budget considered the minimum necessary to care for and resettle the refugees. The U. S. share was $71 million this year, will be the same next year.

Nine other countries have signified their intention of coming in, but haven't formally ratified. In the meantime, the Preparatory Commission—PCIRO—is doing what little it can. General Executive Secretary of PCIRO is an American, William Hallam Tuck. His principal effort has been to get UN members to accept proportionate quotas of refugees they'll admit.

To date some 17 countries have agreed to take 300,000 DP's. Actually, they have taken only 112,000 in the past 10 months. The U. S. has taken 25,000 under regular immigration quotas. But Congress will have to act before this country can take more.

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK (NEA)—The secret of the success of the New York American League organization down through the years has been the ability of the management and scouting staff to know a Yankee when they saw one. And more frequently than not when the prospect was several years away, as the foxes foragers say.

This is true of all consistent winners. Since Col. Jacob Ruppert originally built them, as Harry Franke sold out the Red Sox, the Yankees rarely have been buyers.

Their winning way is finding and developing their own stars. For years the Cardinals were kept solvent by their sales, supplying the entire National League and occasionally turning a profitable piece of business with an American League outfit.

BRANCH RICKEY quickly transferred the balance of NL power to Brooklyn, now the fountain head of most player transactions in the elder wheel.

George M. Weiss, new general manager of the Yankees, has made the development of talent his main objective since he joined the organization in 1932.

No other major league club was more representative of the farm system than the winning Yankees of 1947.

No other parent club brought up so many first-year men to stay.

But George Weiss has also done very well in what he calls his sideline, the disposal of surplus talent.

Weiss has sold 100 or more members of the chain for something like $1,250,000.

Minor transactions have mushroomed into $100,000 deals. Players like Buddy Hassett, Johnny McCarthy, Bob Seeds, Eddie Miller and Vince DiMaggio, remain anonymous, said he wished to honor Miss Etta Wills. The bond's interest will provide a prize of $20 a semester to a graduate of Junior High School 47, on the basis of scholarship and character.

Wild Ducks Ignore Traffic Signs

ELGIN, Ill. (UP)—How to make ducks obey traffic signs is baffling officials of Fix River Valley communities.

The signs were placed at several points to protect the wild ducks which winter in the area. Several times each day they waddle across a highway on food-seeking expeditions.

The signs said: "Drive carefully Wild duck crossing." Put, complains Mayor Walter

E. Miller, "the ducks no longer appear exclusively at the signs, but cross also at several other points."

He reports that they have created a serious traffic hazard because of their "stiff-necked" insistence on crossing the road single file.

It takes a long time for 500 ducks to waddle across the highway, Miller points out. State laws prevent harming them. If a motorist runs over one he must leave the duck there or risk a fine. So about the only thing drivers can do is wait until the ducks get across.

WHEN I came to again I was in bed and Marie had had the sense to put a very attractive nightgown on me. Marie was there in the room with me as well as a man I had never seen before who seemed to be trying to locate my spine by punching through my abdomen. The overhead lights were still on and I blinked helplessly against them.

Cooper Coin May Be 2,200 Years Old

MARRTOWN O. (UP)— Mr. and Mrs. Claude Williams have an old copper coin, about the size of a quarter and no thicker than a dime, which they believe was in use in Egypt some 2,200 years ago.

The coin compares identically with descriptions in an old Welsh Bible of a coin called the Ptolemy I. It has the head of Ptolemy I, with a band around his head on one side and a proud eagle on the other.

Williams had the coin examined by Ohio University authorities, who believed the coin was made on the island of Cyprus during the Phoenician occupation. The authorities thought the lettering on the coin was from the ancient Sanskrit.

Back-Stage Behind The Curtains
... in every organized business, there is a mass of preparation, work, skill and expense before any thought can be given to profits from the finished product. For example, the cost of typing a 100-page abstract is a trifle compared to that of assembling, classifying and posting the records day after day, year after year, in preparation for your next order. The abstract, therefore, can't be cheap like dirt, but always there is safety and a saving in including it in every real estate transaction.

Nat'l President Of AAUW Gets Award

PHILADELPHIA — Dr. Althea Kratz Hottel, national president of the American Association of University Women, is the recipient of the 1947 Gimble Philadelphia Award, according to an announcement made today by Dr. Kathryn McHale, AAUW General Director. This award of a thousand dollars is presented annually to a Philadelphia woman as having contributed most that year "in service to humanity."

This year, Dr. Hottel was cited for "high scholastic attainments; for invaluable research into youth problems, but especially for her outstanding work among the women students of the University of Pennsylvania."

A committee composed of former recipients of the annual award

Invitations Out For Book Shower

Invitations to a book shower, review and tea, have been mailed by the Columbia Study Club to heads of the various women's organizations in Ranger, and these officers are asked to notify members of the groups of the invitation.

The shower will be given Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Community Club House and admission will be by the gift of a book to the library. Miss Jo Oyle will review the book, "Sweet and Sour" by Fannie Leach.

Mrs. Susan Hunt has as her guest her son, Bob Hunt, who is a student at the University of Oklahoma.

selected Dr. Hottel unanimously from eighty-two names submitted by women's organizations in the Philadelphia area.

Happy Nat Is Gone and Neighbors Mourn Loss Of Everybody's Friend

By James Mahony United Press Staff Correspondent BOSTON (UP) — Max Seiden's business is disposing of property. He never ran into a situation like the one he met when he started selling the stock of a South End haberdashery whose owner was dead.

"Everyone who comes in here looks like a mourner," Seiden said. "I've never sold out a business where the customers loved a store owner like this."

The store owner was Nathan (Happy Nat) Binder, and all Seiden had known about him was that he was shot and killed Nov. 17 in a $21 holdup.

He began to learn more when he put up his sign, "Going out of business. Everything must be sold."

Passersby gulped at the reminder that Happy Nat was gone. Others from the tenement tenements dropped in with the only tribute they could afford.

"He was my friend," they said. "He was everybody's friend."

Little by little individual stories were pieced together to show why Happy Nat in 35 years had become so poor in material things, but so rich in friendship.

"Look, lady," he would say to a customer. "Your little boy needs a sweater. You take it. Pay me later. Pay me any time. You want both? Take them both. Get out now before someone sees me and wants the same thing at the same price."

The little man upstairs wanted $5 worth of clothing to send to Greece.

"What's it for?" Binder asked. When told it was for the starving and the poor, Happy Nat contributed $300 worth of goods.

"Don't tell anybody," he said. "Don't tell my wife."

"It goes on like that all the time," Seiden said. "They come in to tell me that the sign in the window makes them feel sad. They

Bowling In Teaches A

MUNCIE, Ind. (UP) — Parents of children attendingington School kindergarten, surprised at the speed that spring showed in learning arithmetic.

Almost overnight the children began to add and subtract, they said. Visiting classrooms, the parents found out why. The boys and girls were learning by bowling.

Hotly-contested games were rolled by the juvenile leggers on an alley in the school room. They had to add and subtract to figure their own scores.
