U. S. To Stay In Berlin, Says Clay

Well... I Dunno, But...

A note from Mrs. David L. Adams of Abilene, formerly Gwen Tunnell of Ranger, adds her vote for traffic lights at the two much talked-of highway crossings in Ranger.

Gwen says she thinks she has a right to put in a word for the lights in as much as she's a native daughter and "still loves Ranger". And that's all right, too.

We've heard of cats whipping dogs and even that was a little surprising but Jimmie Don Burnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Burnett has a far more shocking whipped dog story.

While playing at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. B. W. Burnett, Sunday, he heard his little dog yelp and on investigating found a hen literally whipping the stuffing out of the dog, that came out with a broken leg. Jimmie Don nearly took a whipping from the hen himself when he attempted to break up the fight.

The injured pet is carrying his broken leg in a splint and latest reports are that he'll recover, that is physically, but never his pride.

Seaborne Hudson Hightower, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hightower is $25 richer for having entered a contest to name the Texas Electric Company's new magazine.

Six entries in the contest in which there were 2,446 cards sent in suggested the name "TESCO Roundup" and that was the name selected by the judges. So it was decided that instead of giving one and fifty, each of the six would get a $25 bond and that's the way they worked.

Names of the entrants were not revealed to the judges until after the winning name had been selected. A. N. Larson, manager for the Ranger division of the company was one of the judges.

We still think something should be done about bubble gum. There's nothing good about it that we can see and it's positively nauseating to see a kid walking down the street with his face practically hidden behind a great bubble of that stuff. And they do it in such unnecessary places, like in cafes. Ugh!

Melinda Sue Blackwell, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blackwell, Jr., couldn't wait for the Easter parade and Saturday was wearing her new Easter bonnet with blue ribbons upon it and just as happy over it as if it had really been Easter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Surles of Dallas out to spend the week-end with Mrs. Surles' parents, Chief and Mrs. W. G. Pounds had a good one to tell on their three-year-old daughter, Carol Ann.

When they recently went to a motor company in Dallas to accept delivery of a new automobile that was waiting for them, they entered the building through a normal sized door. Thinking he'd stump Carol Ann, Mr. Surles stopped inside the door and said, "Well, Carol Ann, how are we going to get the car out of here? We can't get it through this door." Carol Ann thought a minute, then said, "Well, Daddy, how'd they get it in here?"

We doubt, we'd been that quick on the draw.

U. S. AIR FORCE EXPANDING IN NEAR EAST AND ARTIC

By William F. McMenamin
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The Air Transport Command, globe-covering arm of the Air Force, is expanding its facilities in the two key world trouble spots, the Mediterranean and the Arctic.

The big transport planes of the Air Force have added Athens, Greece, and Ankara, Turkey, to their list of stops. That is a direct result of the $400,000,000 Greek-Turkish Air Program.

Still a second Mediterranean expansion is planned that will give the Air Transport Command a shortcut to the Mediterranean political hot-bed. Planes will fly from the United States to Bermuda, the Azores, Port Lyautey in French Morocco, and Wheelus Field they can branch off to Athens, Rome, Ankara, Cairo, Dhahran, Saudi Arabia and other points in the near East. That will avoid sending planes the long route through Europe as they now travel.

The new route also is expected to provide an ideal one for possible ferrying of planes to be turned over to the Greeks and Turks under the Greek-Turkish aid program.

The Air Force has re-surfaced five fields in Greece. It has turned over a few trainers and transports to the Greeks but so far no combat planes have gone to them. The Turks also are expected to get some surplus American planes left over from World War II.

The Air Transport Command expansion in the Arctic has been extensive. Its planes now fly from Westover Field, Mass., to Ottawa and Fort Churchill, Canada, Goose Bay, Labrador, and remote Air Force posts in Greenland, stretching as far north as Thule, Eureka Sound and Resolute Bay.

The ATC lines in Alaska, preparing for a $140,000,000 airfield expansion program there, have been extended. New points added are Norman Wells, Sawmill Bay, Cambridge Bay and Kittigazuit.

The ATC began last summer a Great Circle air run from Seattle to Tokyo via Anchorage and Shemya in the Aleutians.

The Air Transport Command is America's largest global air line. It carried 133,000,000 ton miles of cargo and flew 500,000,000 passenger miles in 1947 without a passenger fatality on regular scheduled flights.

Committee Urges Quick Passage Of Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, Mar. 22, (UP)—The House foreign affairs committee today called for approval of its $6,205,000,000 foreign aid bill as a roadblock to the march of Communism and world domination by Russia.

The committee said the alternatives to its catch-all assistance program would be far more costly and "the very survival of the United States would be more seriously at stake than at any other time in its history."

The report was made public as top-ranking members of the committee went before the House rules committee for a quick okay of the bill in order to bring it to the floor tomorrow for a general debate.

The measure includes $5,300,000,000 for the European Recovery Program, $570,000,000 for military and economic assistance to China, $275,000,000 for military aid to Greece and Turkey, and $60,000,000 for the United Nation's Children's fund.

A. L. Carr Gets New Post In Corpus Christi

Carr will leave this week to take up his duties at the new post.

Expect Senate Approval Of Tax Cut Bill Today

WASHINGTON, Mar. 22, (UP)—Democrats and Republicans agreed today that the Senate will pass the $4,800,000,000 tax-cutting bill by an overwhelming majority before the day is out.

A poll showed that at least 23 of the Senate's 45 Democrats were ready to vote for the GOP-sponsored measure. Republican leaders expected all the 51 GOP senators to support it.

Administration Democrats conceded that they had little chance of mustering the votes needed to sustain an anticipated veto by President Truman.

Republicans were confident that both the House and Senate would support the bill by the two-thirds majority needed to kill a veto. The felt the outlook could be up, set only if an international crisis threatens to wipe out the prospective surplus in the budget.

Banquet Hour Change To 8 O'Clock Tuesday

It was announced today that the hour for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet Tuesday night at the Gholson Hotel has been changed from 7:30 o'clock to 8 o'clock.

The change was made in order that people who wished to attend Holy Week services at the various churches could do so and still be able to attend the banquet.

It was also announced that Dr. Claud P. Jones, pastor of the First Methodist church has moved services of that church for Tuesday night up to 7 o'clock instead of 7:30 in order to cooperate with Chamber of Commerce in seeing that all who wished were able to attend the service and the banquet also.

R. V. Galloway, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, stated today that it appears that about 175 will attend the banquet.

Delbert Downing of Midland is to be the guest speaker and C. C. McKeever, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will preside.

In speaking of the change in the banquet hour, Galloway explained that plans for the banquet had gone so far to be changed when it occurred to the directors that it would conflict with Holy Week, so every effort is being made to work it out to the advantage of all.

Ranger Man's Son Found In Plane Wreckage

The plane, a civilian one, was lost early last summer and found in the mountains last Thursday.

Funeral services for the deceased will be held Tuesday or Wednesday in Phoenix.

Mr. Reid is foreman for the Barefield-Full ranch.

TWO STATES RECEIVE RADIO LION'S SHARE

WASHINGTON (UP)—Texas and California are becoming crowded with radio signals.

Those two states lead the nation in the number of authorized broadcast stations, according to a count by the Federal Communications Commission.

As of mid-February, the commission has granted authorizations for 3,119 standard FM and television outlets in the continental United States and possessions. That includes stations on the air and those being constructed.

Of the total number of authorizations, California received 228 and Texas 223. Next in order are Pennsylvania with 184, New York 173, North Carolina 132, and Ohio 128.

At present, 1,558 standard, 410 FM and 19 television stations are on the air. Under construction are 411 standard, 653 FM and 68 television outlets. Also 856 applicants are still waiting for the commission to decide whether they are qualified to operate broadcast facilities. Over 650 of the latter applications are for standard stations, while 115 are for FM and 119 for television.

Texas has the most standard authorizations with 153, followed by California with 129, Pennsylvania 58, New York 89, and North Carolina 86.

California tops the list of FM and television grants. Montana, Vermont, Hawaii and Alaska have no FM stations while 18 states and the possessions are without television authorizations.

Service Hour At Methodist Church Changed

Dr. Claud P. Jones, pastor of the First Methodist Church, stated today that Holy Week services at his church Tuesday night will be held at 7 o'clock instead of 7:30 o'clock in order that members of the congregation could attend the services and the Chamber of Commerce banquet also.

Services every other night will be held as scheduled at 7:30 o'clock but will be changed for this one occasion. Services are also being held at the church at 10 o'clock each week day morning.

Missing Plane Sought
PORTLAND, Mar. 22, (UP)—Rescue parties searched the rain-soaked hills of southern Washington today for a C-47 transport plane, with eight persons aboard, which disappeared in a storm Sunday afternoon as it prepared to land at the Portland airport.

Trieste Plan Flatly Rejected By Yugoslavia

LONDON, Mar. 22, (UP)—Yugoslavia rejected the American British-French proposal to return Trieste to Italy in identical notes handed to the ambassadors of the three western powers in Belgrade.

British Ambassador Charles Pease said in Belgrade that the notes were a blunt Yugoslav rejection of the proposal by the western powers. The official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug also reported that the western proposal had been rejected.

The agency said the notes were taken as indicating that Yugoslavia would counter the big three move by demanding a plebiscite and that the Yugoslav reply accused the western powers of playing politics with Italy.

Flood Threat Growing Worse

By United Press
Water rushed over the banks of streams from North Dakota to Pennsylvania today and the U. S. Engineers warned of serious floods along the Mississippi, Missouri and Illinois Rivers if heavy rains fall in the next five days.

The most critical situation appeared to be at Quincy, Ill., where the Mississippi stood at 21 feet, seven feet over flood stage, and was still rising.

A storm lashed the Pacific northwest coast endangering shipping with a 50-mile-an-hour wind that blew rain as far inland as Idaho.

The nation counted at least 55 dead due to violent weather conditions including tornadoes, floods and fog, during the past four days.

Many streams were reported at above flood stage in Iowa, North Dakota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Missouri.

Committee For Aid To Three

WASHINGTON, Mar. 22, (UP)—The House appropriations committee today voted $55,000,000 in stop-gap funds for France, Italy and Austria.

The money, to meet the "urgent needs" of the three countries pending enactment of the European Recovery Program, was included in a deficiency appropriation bill approved by the committee.

CHILLING OF SOVIET TOWARD POWERS NOT TO CHANGE PLANS

BERLIN, Mar. 22, (UP)—The United States has no intention whatever of getting out of Berlin, Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today, despite a sudden chilling of relations between Russia and the western powers here.

The Soviets boycotted seven scheduled four-powers meetings here today, and asked for a postponement of tomorrow's meeting of the coordinating committee, the second highest administrative body in Germany.

Coming on top of the abrupt walkout by the Soviet delegation from the Allied Control Council Saturday, the boycott crippled four-power rule of Germany and cast a cloud of uncertainty over the future status of the western representations here.

Clay, the American military governor, told newsmen that despite the Russian blows to four-power operations, the United States was staying in Berlin.

"I don't know how many times it is necessary to repeat it," he said. "I have said it before, and I say it again. We have no intention of leaving Berlin."

Italian, French Ministers Confer

ROME, Mar. 22, (UP)—Premier Alcide De Gasperi met French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault in a crucial conference today and emerged with the declaration that Italy and the world faces the question of war or peace.

The De Gasperi-Bidault conference, relating to the vital question of Italy's participation in the western bloc, occurred as the tense Italian political situation was rocked by the western proposal to return Trieste to Italy.

De Gasperi met Bidault at the ancient sanctuary of Crea, during a brief respite in De Gasperi's whirlwind election tour which was now dominated by the Trieste issue.

Reports from throughout Italy indicated that the western switch on Trieste had rocked the Communists back on their heels. News agency reports disclosed that at scores of political meetings rightist speakers were hammering home the Trieste issue.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Coal Operators May Strike Rather Than Meet Demands

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Sentiment among leading coal mine operators who met in Washington for a safety conference was strongly in favor of taking a strike rather than meet demands from John L. Lewis for increased wages and welfare fund payments.

Operators took heart from U. S. Steel Corp. president Benjamin F. Fairless' statement to Sen. Robert A. Taft's Economic Committee that he did not believe a third round of wage increases was necessary at this time. There was some inclination to interpret this as a major policy statement from Big Steel, which is also the largest operator of captive coal mines in the country.

U. S. Steel's coal subsidiary took the lead last July in negotiating a new contract with Lewis. It runs out on June 30. It gave the miners a 44 cents an hour pay raise. Minimum earnings are now $63.25 for a five-day 40-hour partial-to-partial week. In addition the miners were given 10 cents royalty on every ton of coal mined for health, welfare and retirement benefits.

The entire coal industry followed this pattern. It was roundly criticized at the time for having surrendered so completely to Lewis. It brought on an increase in the price of coal. President Truman and his economic advisers have criticized it as contributing to inflation.

Coal operators made a big public relations effort to sell the idea that this increase was in the public interest. The mine owners had just had their properties returned to them after long government seizure. Operators were afraid that if they didn't start producing coal immediately, somebody might get the idea that mines should be nationalized and run by the government forever. So the operators offered John L. and his miners terms so good that they couldn't refuse.

Today the situation is much different. The Taft-Hartley Law is on the books. It provides restrictions against strikes which threaten the national health and security.

Thus far Lewis has indicated only that he wants the welfare and retirement fund benefit payments straightened out. When the new contract was being drawn up last July, operators wanted benefit payment terms included. Lewis refused. He said this should be determined by the three trustees for the fund—himself for the miners, Ezra Van Horn for the operators, and Thomas E. Murray of New York as public representative.

These trustees have been trying to agree for seven months. Having failed, Murray has resigned. Lewis wants pensions of $100 a month paid to all 60-year-old miners who have worked in the mines 20 years. He says this would cost only $10,000,000 a year to start. Van Horn and the operators maintain that on a sound insurance basis, it would be necessary to raise the royalty payments to 40 or 50 cents a ton to pay these pensions. They say the fund would have to be a billion dollars to pay benefits of from $100,000 to $125,000,000 a year, in business as well as good.

Failing to reach an agreement, Lewis has notified the operators "reserved the right to take any independent action necessary." Just what that means, nobody knows. It could mean strike.

Under the contract, either Lewis or the operators can cancel on 60-day notice. Under the Taft-Hartley Act, however, they must give a 60-day notice of intent to reopen a contract. Then they must submit to investigation for 60 days and hold an election on management's best and best offer.

It is doubtful if Lewis will seek a union shop election. To do so he must first secure petitions for union shop from 30 per cent of the employees. Lewis can easily allow the mines to go open shop. He can still keep control of his miners by having them authorize checkoff of their union dues by the employer.

There is no hint at all whether Lewis will ask for an increase in wage rates. But the operators are ready to fight him on that if he does.

THE SCOREBOARD

No Excuse for Ball Players Holding Out These Lush Days

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(NEA)—In these lush baseball times, it was rather surprising to see 25 or more of the combatants holding out with the training season under way.

With all but the Browns having done so well financially during the war and postwar periods, there is no excuse for a so-called baseball holdout these days.

With mighty few exceptions, the established star has been paid what he was worth to his club.

Rarely has a ballplayer meant it when he threatened to do something else if the owner didn't put more money on the line.

Offhand, only two made good threats to remain on the sidelines, and in 1939, Turkey Mike Donlin was so situated that he could capitalize on his baseball fame in vaudeville.

The stylish Eddie Roush stuck to his farm one summer while the property of the Reds.

All the rest were only bluffing.

Between baseball seasons, sports pages were once filled with hot-stove league stuff, but there is no off-season now. The baseball writer no longer needs to write pieces about outfielder Joe Blow being dissatisfied with what the hard-headed magnate has offered him for the upcoming campaign.

The club and player were only bargaining then when the athlete was returning a contract unsigned two or three times, and that's what they are doing today.

Most name players are now signed without fuss shortly after the World Series, or some time before the start of a training season. That's the way Joe DiMaggio, Williams, Feller, Blackwell, Mize, Kiner, Spahn and most of the other big shots agreed to continue pleasant relationships in 1948.

The more accomplished player who has had a fine season seldom finds himself in a protracted controversy about his parchment.

Stan Musial may be attempting to make up for some of the time he lost under Sam Breadon at the expense of Bob Hanagan. Hal Newhouser threw too many wrong pitches at the right time. Spec Shea is only a sophomore, who had arm trouble as a freshman.

Buddy Kerr, one of the superior shortstops, is entitled to anything he can get, and the Giants are so situated that they can pay it.

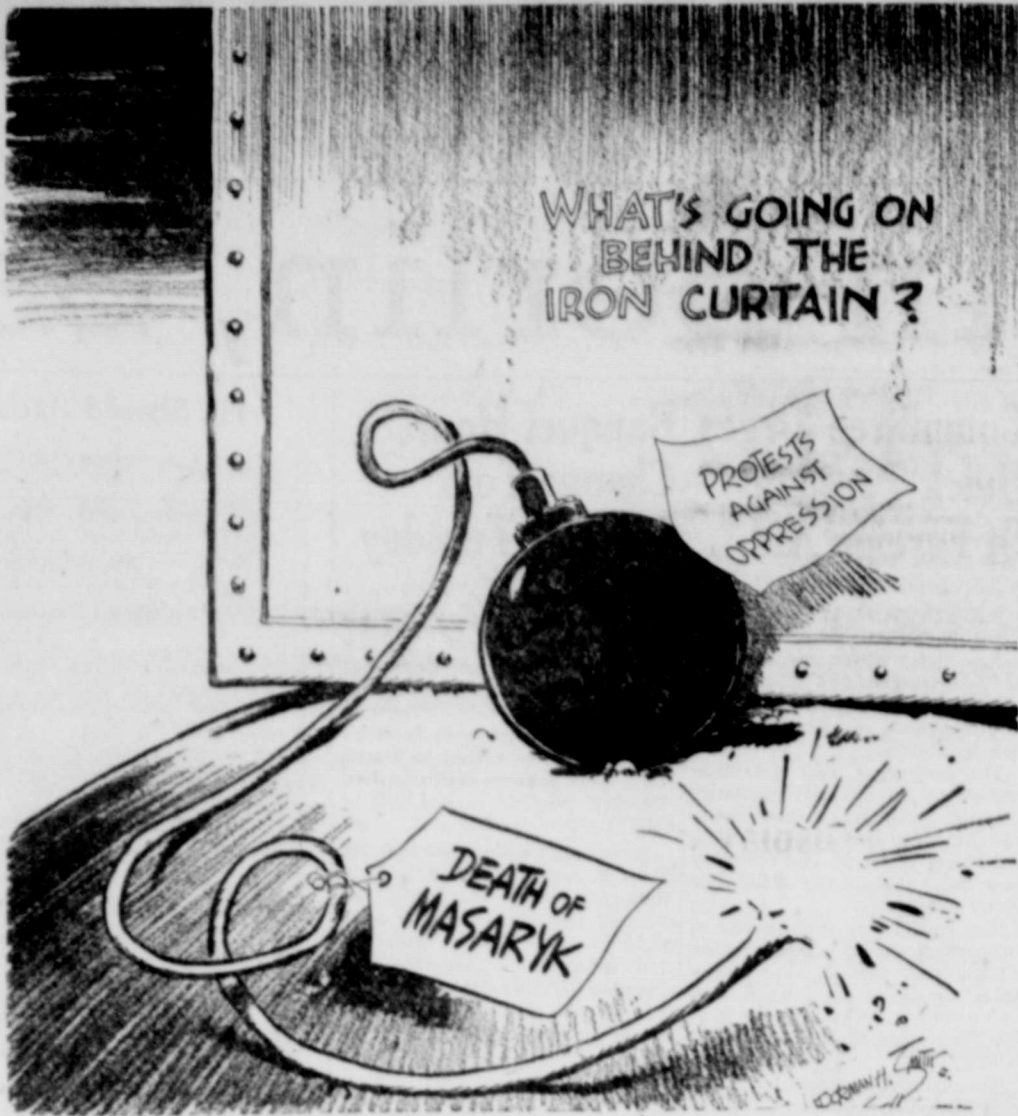

Harry Walker has to prove that he can maintain something approaching that major league-leading batting pace.

There are two sides to every holdout story, too, and the boys never fail to get together, so why get excited about it?

May Be a Curtain-Raiser

Inlan Sailor Plans Ocean Voyage As Start Of His College Education

JACKSON, Mich. (UP)—An ocean-going vessel is sitting hundreds of miles from navigable water here, but it's all part of Theodore Conover's plan to go to college.

The young ex-sailor plans to sail his converted whale boat south the Ohio River to the Mississippi thence via the Gulf of Mexico to Tampa, Fla., and his goal, the University of Tampa.

A year ago the bogey of expenses thwarted Conover's idea of attending the southern college. There was the problem of transportation as well as housing.

So Conover got a 28-foot ex-Navy whale boat at an auction for $130. Since then he has converted it into a sleek, power driven cabin in craft.

Interested townspeople pitched in to help the disabled veteran in his task. The city water superintendent, D. J. Stellingworth, contributed a discarded impeller wheel from one of the city's deep well water pumps for a propeller.

Conover built a 14-foot cabin containing seats, bunks, table, closet and kitchenette. He installed a new marine engine and a 34-foot mast for sail power. Thirty-seven feet of railroad rail provides a heavy keel.

OFFICE Nurse

By Adelaide Humphries

XXIX
THE next afternoon another visitor was announced.
"No," Janice said, "I don't want to see Dr. Holbrook. Please say that I—"
"But it isn't Dr. Holbrook," the nurse corrected. "It's Mrs. Holbrook. Of course, if you—"
"I'll see Mrs. Holbrook," Janice said. She was curious to see this visitor and to find out why Mrs. Holbrook was calling instead of her husband.
Elissa Holbrook was much more beautiful than the picture on the doctor's desk. She was, in fact, about the most beautiful woman Janice had ever seen: very blonde and aristocratic and exquisitely groomed.
Apparently, Mrs. Holbrook was similarly impressed with Janice. The first thing she said was, "You're lovely. I expected you to be pretty, but Eric did not tell me you were so very lovely."
Janice did not believe that she looked lovely, but it was nice of Mrs. Holbrook to say so.
"I brought you a little something," Her visitor laid a square white box by Janice's side, drawing off her white kid gloves as she sat down. "I'm glad I didn't bring flowers," she added, looking around and smiling faintly and understandingly.
"Yes, I do have enough flowers," Janice admitted; then, having opened the box, she pushed aside the tissue. "Oh, this is gorgeous, simply gorgeous!" It was a dainty bed jacket of white satin trimmed with creamy lace and a blue bow.
"I expect you're wondering why I came," Mrs. Holbrook said.

growing old gracefully. I know he was willing to make any sacrifice for you, but since I know him better than he knows himself, I honestly believe that he will be just as satisfied, eventually, not to have had to make any."
"I'm sure you are right," Janice agreed. She knew that Mrs. Holbrook was telling her, quite frankly, that her husband would soon recover from his love. Eric would find that he could live without Janice. And this did not hurt Janice, since she had realized—just in saying so—that she was no longer in love, either.

MRS. HOLBROOK said that she must be going. She thanked Janice again. She laughed, a gay, excited laugh, her beautiful face even more beautiful now that it looked so animated.
"I really mean it, my dear—thank you for everything. I hope you get well soon and have a nice vacation, and I hope you, too, will find happiness."
That same day, after supper, the nurse said there was someone else to see her.

Janice thought she knew who it would be; someone she wanted to see, yet did not want to see.

She told the nurse to ask the visitor to wait a few minutes. She said she would like to put on her new bed jacket. She also would like a mirror and her lipstick.

"That's the ticket!" the nurse exclaimed. "We are getting better. Wanting to pretty up a bit. That's always a good sign."

The nurse said every bit as gorgeous on as off; her blue bow was really quite fetching. Janice was pale, but with a becoming, delicately tinged paleness, and her hair, tied back like a little girl's, was a soft dark cloud against the pillows.

She was confident that she looked all right, even for this visitor.

(To Be Concluded)

Conover said that on arrival in Tampa he will anchor his craft near the college and set up house-keeping in style, with the gentle waves to rock him to sleep.

But he has plans beyond the horizons. Secure in his locker are complete charts of Caribbean and South American waters. After college he envisions leisurely trips to far-off places, tropical nights, lecture tours.

But in more sober moments Conover confides that he has just one worry about his boat. He hopes it will float.

AAA Hits Liquor Sale at Gas Stations

Both cars and drivers can get "tanked up" at gas stations in 30 states, the American Automobile Association revealed, after a nation-wide survey. In 22 states, shown in black on the map, service stations are permitted to sell hard liquor. The eight states shown with diagonal shading permit the sale of beer or wine in conjunction with gasoline. Two states are dry, while the others prohibit sale of liquor at gas stations.

Unsated Hunger In Naked Display As Chinese Line Up For Free Bread

By A. M. GOUL

United Press Staff Correspondent SHANGHAI (UP)—If you hadn't known what was going on, you'd have thought another riot was about to explode in the Haining Road Market.

A shouting mob was crowded around the driver of a white-paneled truck parked at the curb in front of the market. It was a Salvation Army truck, come to pass out its monthly quota of bread to the destitute and the refugees of the Haining Road quarters.

"Line up, line up," the driver was yelling at the top of his voice. "Two in a row, two in a row," he called out.

"Everybody sit down or none of you will get any bread."

But the hunger that was marked on the faces and in the shriveled bodies of the applicants does not recognize the conventions. The mob crowded in close.

There were at least 500 there for the handout of "men tau" which the "Sally" periodically makes to Shanghai's homeless and hungry thousands. The truck was surrounded by the mob before it came to a stop. The mob spotted it coming. They met it and chased after it until it reached the market place.

The driver stopped, crawled out, forced his way to the back of the truck, and reached in to haul out one of the four huge baskets piled high with the tough, chewy, dark loaves.

"Line up, line up," he cried "Two in a row, two in a row."

Some lined up, but in a rather lackadaisical order, and in rows of fours and fives and sixes—not in twos.

"Sit down, sit down," the bread-giver ordered. Some did—a few of those who had already snagged a loaf.

"Everybody sit down or none of you will get any bread," he im-

College Will Give Degrees In Absentia

COMMERCE, Tex. (UP)—President James Gee of East Texas State Teachers College has announced that the school will confer degrees in absentia to students who have completed requirements 30 days before or after scheduled commencement exercises.

"This action was taken solely for benefit of teachers who are struggling to get ahead," the school president said. "In many instances immediate conferment of a degree will mean an increase of nearly $25 monthly in salary."

The board of regents of the university authorized President Gee to put the plan into operation. Registrar John Windell said that East Texas State has received 153 applications for bachelor's degrees and six for masters degrees under such circumstances. He urged all graduates who have completed requirements for degrees since last August to file applications immediately.

Old-Time Jitney Driver Recalls Crowded Days

SEATTLE (UP)—Frank Cross has been a cab driver in Seattle for 38 years and remembers the old 5 cent days when a jitney driver could crowd 12 to 14 riders aboard a Model T Ford and no body complained.

Cross said you could "pile 'em in the front seat, two deep and three wide, jostle and crowd 'em and step on their feet."

"Nobody cared they thought it was sport," Cross said.

"But it's different these days. They sit in the back—alone and untrodden and complain about your driving. People weren't nervous in the old days."

ONE MAN'S VISION

Father James McClain. I think often of him . . . which perhaps is strange . . . since I am not a member of his church.

It is because I believe in . . . and respect him.

Unless we believe in and respect an individual, some stable something is lacking in human relations.

Father James McClain is a gentleman.

I like his attitude . . . his independence . . . his tolerance . . . I like the way he looks in his black clothes and turned round collar. I like him because he is a perfectly normal young man.

Most of all . . . I like him because . . . of his vision. The vision of one man does not always lend itself to another . . . and he believes in his. I like him for the intangible things he sees and understands in relation to birth, life and death.

I like him because he went to a hospital room and spoke quietly to a lonely, desperate man . . . because he gave his hand in friendship to someone who had no hand to hold to.

Somewhat I feel that God is comforted and very glad because of James McClain. I think he and God are very good friends, with a good, friendly speaking acquaintance.

I am a friend of James McClain . . . James McClain is the friend of anyone who wishes friendship . . . It is a fine thing, his friendship.

And so I wish him well . . . this man of God . . . and of men.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our friends for the beautiful floral offering and kind words of sympathy during the recent death of our husband and father, E. M. Collins. May God bless each of you.

The Collins family.

Miss Stewart Becomes Bride Of Mr. Smith In Ceremony Saturday Evening

In a ceremony performed at the First Methodist church Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, Miss Barbara Ann Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stewart, became the bride of Mr. M. G. Smith, son of Mr. C. E. Smith of Iraan.

Dr. Claud P. Jones, pastor of the church, read the service before the altar decorated with white gladioluses and fern and lighted by tall white tapers placed on each side behind the chancel rail.

Mrs. Joe B. Scott at the vibra harp, accompanied by Miss Mildred Balch at the organ, played "Always" while candles were lighted by Misses Melba Creager and Loretta Culpepper.

Other pre-nuptial music was furnished by Miss Jacqueline Edwards who sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly." Miss Balch played the traditional wedding marches and softly played "Clare de Lune" during the ceremony.

The groom was attended by Bruce Maddox of Dallas as best man, and Roscoe Hopper of Ranger as groomsman. Ushers were Bob Balch, Bill Townsen, and Jack Cole.

Miss Glenna Weaver, bridesmaid, wore a gown of dusty rose moire taffeta and carried yellow daffodils. Miss Georgette Rogers was maid of honor. Her gown was of gold taffeta and she carried pink carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin with a lace yoke and basque waist, and leg-o-mutton sleeves which extended in points at the wrists. Her illusion veil was fingertip length. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid and sweetpeas with white ribbon streamers tied in love knots.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the basement of the church with about 150 guests attending. The three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, was served from a table laid with a lace cloth and appointed with crystal and silver.

Out-of-town guests present included Mr. and Mrs. James L. White, and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. White of Brownwood; Mrs. Fred Brookman and Dr. and Mrs. Dennis M. Voulgaris of Waco; Mrs. Effie Hall of Dublin; Mrs. Elliot and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Elliot of Cisco; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Maddox and family, Mrs. R. M. Davenport, Alice Rae Davenport, and Martha Nan Thompson of Dallas.

Mrs. Smith is a graduate of Ranger High School and attended Ranger Junior College. Mr. Smith is a graduate of Cisco High School and served 18 months in the Army.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Iraan.

Grass Pills Suggested As Food Saver

By Bob Weddle
United Press Staff Correspondent
DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Elmore R. Torn, has switched to grass. Not the long green stuff. Tablet form.

The executive vice president of the Texas Chemurgic Council, going all out to conserve food for the hungry people of Europe, is taking tablets of cerophyl. Cerophyl is the fancy name for dehydrated grass.

Torn says 20 such tablets are enough to fill the vitamin requirements of an average person for one day. Besides, the grass pills have chlorophyll "green magic" in them—a substance which scientists say may prove useful in prolonging the life expectancy of man.

With the grass diet supplemented only by fruit juices and coffee, and perhaps an occasional helping

The meadow diet is not altogether new to Torn. Several years ago he used the cerophyl pills in an attempt to lose weight. He lost 54 pounds in three months.
