fect of buildings which will be used for sciences, cafeteria, and music studio. The power will be working on these buildings Monday.

The College will offer courses dealing with adult education another year, and the townspeople should be eager to enroll in some of these courses. A course will be offered in household sciences which will include some physics, chemistry, and other allied subjects, and should appeal to every home maker. A course in psychology will be offered and since it is an evident fact that none of us know too much psychology, it should appeal to all business people, as well as mothers, fathers, especially young married people. A course in government will be offered, for it is a well known fact that too few of the citizenship knew enough about the workings of our government. In addition to these courses there will be courses in the field of business, etc. These courses will all carry college credit, should the person taking the course desire credit. The Board of Education has been very diligent, careful, and sincere in making plans for the new set-up. These men have worked faithfully in trying to give the citizenship of the town something that is worth while and lasting. The board has worked and planned for the youth of Eastland County, and at the same time making its plans for students coming to Junior College from other counties.

It is up to the citizenship of Ranger to boost the Junior College. We should have an enrollment another year of at least three hundred students. The College plans to enlarge upon all its activities it has already been carrying on. In addition, one of the best music set-ups to be found anywhere may be found in Ranger Junior College another year.

The Board will appreciate your hearty cooperation in all of its undertakings. The College is enjoying one of its best years. Therefore, your help will make another year better.

Threat To Ex-King Michael Rumored

WASHINGTON, Mar. 26 (UP)—The State Department said today it has received "reports of rumors of a plot" against the life of ex-King Michael of Romania.

"The Department is taking measure for his safety while in the United States," the Department said. It did not elaborate on what measures were being taken.

Eastland County Towns & Communities

(Editor's Note—The following is taken from the forthcoming book, "History of Eastland County," by Ed T. Cox.)

Probably the first settlements to be made in the immediate vicinity of Carbon were by Rev. W. B. Cobb on what is known as the Littleton place, the N.W. 1-4 of section 34, and Bob Turner on the S.W. 1-4 of section 35, now owned by Dr. Jackson, and were made about 1878. Each of the above sections join that upon which the town of Carbon is located.

James F. White had settled a few miles southwest of the present town in 1878 and was elected commissioner of the precinct in that year. A. S. Latham settled about an equal distance to the southeast in the following year. About an equal distance to the northeast Redmond Allison, M. Rogers, Henry F. Mann, Mr. Jordan and Ryan settled on adjoining quarters sections probably in the same year. The late Julius Karkalis came to the county with Mr. Ryan and made his home with him for some time.

In 1877 Dee Hall, a brother-in-law of Jas. White, with his father, settled the place on which he lived until he moved to Carbon.

When the Texas Central railroad was built through Eastland county in 1881, a townsite was laid out about 10 miles south of Eastland and called Carbon. Shortly afterwards a sale of town lots was held and the first one offered was bought by Mrs. Fannie Haynes. This was lot two and block five. There is a common belief that there was a clause in the deed to Fannie Haynes that a depot should be maintained at Carbon, but a careful examination of the deed discloses only a straight warranty deed.

J. T. Wilson is said to have been the railroad's first agent at Carbon but the one best remembered by the early residents was J. M. Neil. This gentleman had hardly hit town before he began to interest the few inhabitants in things spiritual and organizing a Sunday school which was held in the waiting room of the railroad depot.

Some years later a suggestion was made, probably by the railroad company, that the town be moved to a site about three miles to the east, but was never given serious consideration. The reason suggested for the change was that the proposed new location would be about half-way between DeLeon and Cisco, a distance of around 35 miles, and would avoid the necessity of another station between the two points. There was no town of Gorman at that time.

N. S. Haynes was Carbon's first merchant of any character, engaging in both general merchandising and lumber. He was succeeded in both lines by J. F. White in about 1887. Mr. White had the misfortune to lose his stock of merchandise by fire in 1888, but continued his lumber business until his death in 1891. The business was continued by the White family under the management of the late W. B. White. It was sold to Rockwell Brothers who continued it until the boll weevil made a clean sweep of cotton production in the community.

A Mr. Kemp Jordan, was, perhaps, Carbon's first druggist. It is believed that he sold his business to M. V. Russell, who in turn, sold to Jesse Thurman who added groceries and continued the business through most of the 80s, selling the drug stock to Charles Phillips, who was then postmaster, about 1887. Phillips is said to have been followed by Haynes.

E. Busby & Company also established a general mercantile business in the late 80s which they continued until it was purchased by M. Puett & Son about 1893. The firm changed locations, moving further down town, but carrying the Puett name, with some variations, until 1922, when Harry Hall became its owner and continued to carry on at the same stand.

Yantis & Company also established a mercantile business in the late 80s with John Schaefer as manager, who was succeeded in that position by the late J. R. Foster who continued then opened a business of his own, which he operated until his death in 1923. In 1925 the Finley Bros., Sam, Ben and John, closed out their firm, gin and merchandising business at Jewell and opened up along the latter lines in Carbon but soon disposed of their gin property but continued their merchandise business until about 1905.

T. J. Morris came from Arkansas to Texas in 1895 and soon entered the mercantile business in Carbon, buying most anything the farmer had to sell and selling him most anything he wanted to buy. In 1907 he had the misfortune of losing his building and stock of merchandise by fire; rebuilding, he continued to carry on until 1915 when he sold to W. H. Puett and conducted a feed business until he died in 1935.

The first exclusive hardware store in Carbon was established in 1890 by L. A. Dingler about where the produce house is now located, but soon moved to where the late filling station is now located. The stock was sold to Gorman Bros. in 1903, but in 1909 Mr. Dingler built the house which was occupied by him and his son until the elder partner was incapacitated by age, and as long as he was able to make the trip from his residence to the store, "Uncle Ike" got great pleasure from coming down and meeting his friends. L. A. Dingler died in 1933. The business, suspended some months ago, had the longest record of continuous service of any that has been in Carbon.

In the horse and buggy days even a small town without hotel accommodations was badly out of step. Henry Hall, a cousin of Harry Hall, a present resident of Carbon, built the first room after the town was established. It was located on the east side of avenue "E". James W. Wilson built one on the west side of the avenue soon afterwards and the two served the public for some years before the West Side was closed, the other continuing until the coming of good roads and the auto spelled the ruin of business in the smaller towns and their places were taken by cafes and short order houses.

The banking business had its beginning in Carbon with the organizing of the Bank of Carbon in 1904. W. H. Eddie was its president; W. A. Waldrop, vice-president, and J. E. Spencer, cashier and in charge of operations. After some years Mr. Spencer acquired full ownership and continued to operate the business until he sold it to S. F. Kumph and others in 1921.

In 1908 the First State Bank of Carbon was organized. The Bank of Carbon and the First

Eternal Life, Immortality of Soul

Scripture: Colossians 3:1-4, 12-17; I John 5:11-13

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

WHEN we think and speak of the immortality of the soul we tend to have in mind the thought of time and survival, the here and hereafter. But when Jesus spoke of eternal life His emphasis was all on the quality of the life.

"This is life eternal," He said in His prayer for the disciples (John 17:3), "that they know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent." He said also, "Because I live ye shall live also."

The passages chosen for our lesson bring this out. They speak of the new life in Christ, which is the foretold and ground of the life immortal. The nature and quality of that life are beautifully expressed in the passages in our lesson from Colossians, as they are in all New Testament expositions of the Christian's experience in Christ.

We must think of future life in terms of the life that now is. It is what we are in Christ that gives us the hope of immortality. I think that the most effective Easter sermon that I ever heard centered around the preacher's challenge to the congregation, "What is there in your life that is worthy of immortality?" That is a solemn and disturbing thought.

WHAT we are here has to do with what we shall be. John says, "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be." But it is because we are now the sons of God, that there is the promise of that longer life.

In another great Easter sermon, the late Dr. George A. Gordon, famous minister of Boston's Old South Church, once drew a contrasted picture of what is expressed in two well-known hymns—the one, "On Jordan's stormy bank I stand," expressing the wistful look toward the land of immortality "where my possessions lie," the other the hymn of the blind minister and poet, George Matheson, expressing the present possession:

"O Love, that wilt not let me go, I rest my weary soul in thee; I give thee back the life I owe, That in thine ocean depths its flow May richer, fuller be."

That is not anticipation of eternal life, but its possession.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE

"Reality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 28.

The Golden Text is: "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all" (I Chronicles 29:11).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson - Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thy throne is established of old; thou art from everlasting" (Psalms 93:2).

The Lesson - Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The realm of the real is Spirit. The unlikeness of Spirit is matter, and the opposite of the real is not divine,—it is a human concept" (page 277).

State Bank of Carbon were merged in 1921 and the merged institution continued to operate until sometime in 1921 when a combination of poor crops, low prices and a business depression forced it into bankruptcy, being one of a long string of Eastland county banks that traveled this road because of conditions over which they had no control.

Towler & Son seems to have been Carbon's first ginners, coming from Jewell about 1881. After the retirement of the older member the firm became Towler & Eaton, who, after some years, sold to Puett & Son, who continued the business until about 1899. Carbon was first served by outside telephone connections about 1897 when both Frank Vernon of Cisco and W. A. Bucy of Rising Star had toll lines into the town. At present the town is served by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Medical Men Step Up Whooping Cough War

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UP)—Although the general case fatality rate of whooping cough in the United States is only about 2.3 per cent, doctors and scientists continue their incessant fight to find new means of stamping out the disease.

Dr. William L. Bradford, associate professor of pediatrics at the University of Rochester's school of medicine and dentistry, expressed belief that research now in progress may produce a skin test that will determine the susceptibility or immunity of an individual to whooping cough.

The newly developed streptomycin, a companion of penicillin, has also shown encouraging signs in the treatment of the disease.

Ex-Convict Is Preaching In Mexican Revival

Isador Garza, an ex-convict who spent several years at the Blue Ridge State Farm, at Hobby, Texas, has been preaching in the Baptist Revival for the Mexicans, this past week.

In 1934 Garza was sent to the prison for fifty years on a charge of manslaughter. After he was in the prison for more than four years, he was converted and immediately began to change his ways, in order that he could get out as soon as possible. He taught the other prisoners to read and write, and worked in various tasks of responsibility in the prison.

This past week Garza has been relating some of his prison experiences and giving his testimony of how Christ is able to change the most vile and wayward, to decent useful citizens.

The Mexican Baptist Mission in Eastland has been host to the Mexican Baptist Missions of Ranger and Cisco. Rev. Wolfe, the Baptist Missionary, reports that the meetings have been well attended and a great deal of enthusiasm has been shown.

The meetings will terminate this (Sunday) evening with a special Easter program in which several of the Mexican young people will take part.

Chemical engineers are said generally to be the best paid members of the engineering profession.

Deafened Now Hear With Tiny Single Unit

Science has now made it possible for the deafened to hear faint sounds. It is a hearing device so small that it fits in the hand and enables thousands to enjoy sermons, music and friendly companionship. Accepted by the Council on Physical Medicine of the American Medical Association, this device does not require separate battery pack, battery wire, case or garment to bulge or weigh you down. The tone is clear and powerful. So made that you can adjust it yourself to suit your hearing—as your hearing changes. The makers of Beltona, Dept. 14, 1450 W. 10th St., Chicago 8, Ill., are so proud of this achievement that they will gladly send free descriptive booklet and explain how you may get a full demonstration of this remarkable hearing device in your own home without risking a penny. Write Beltona today.

Easter...

time of regeneration, when our contemplation of Christ risen reminds us that there must be some master plan for all the complexities of existence. Easter, time of planting, when the sight of growing things over all the earth assures us that God in his kingdom is wise and bountiful. Easter, time of church-going, when His words inspire us to assume our personal responsibilities and justify our existence by living lives of generosity, brotherliness and tolerance.

U. S. Surgeons Organize To Send Europe Aid

CINCINNATI (UP)—Neurosurgeons throughout the country have organized a fund to send food and clothing to their colleagues in Europe.

Dr. Joseph P. Evans, associate professor of surgery at the University of Cincinnati, and secretary-treasurer of the fund said in announcing it that many Europeans, not just the neurosurgeons are desperately in need of American help. His appeal is in addition to the current nation-wide American Overseas Aid and United Nations Appeal for Children.

Dr. Evans, who returned recently after teaching newest medical techniques to physicians in Austria with a medical mission sponsored jointly by the Unitarian Service Committee and World Health Organization (United Nations), described the plight of the people, as he saw conditions in Austria, as "really terrible."

"Proverty is everywhere in Austria," he said. "Most people haven't the things we think of as even ordinary amenities."

He recalled an encounter with a Viennese countess who asked him for knitting needles and wool so that she could earn a little pin money on the side.

"Superficially, the clothing situation in Austria does not appear as bad as it is," Dr. Evans remarked. "Actually, the people who do not have clothing—and they are numerous—do not venture out on the streets. Some children are forced to miss school because they have literally no clothes to wear."

One result of inadequate food and clothing is that sickness is on the increase, he said. Dr. Evans especially noticed the increase of tuberculosis. While he was in Graz the university hospital there lost the services of four house officers in a single week from tuberculosis.

The neurosurgeons' fund was initiated at a meeting of the Academy of Neurological Surgery. A general appeal has been made to all neurological surgeons of the United States and Canada.

Lone Civil War Veteran, 106, Lives On 362 Acres Kept Just For Him

By Nello Cassal
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UP)—It would be cheaper to set him up in a hotel suite in St. Louis or Kansas City but ex-Private John Graves is no ordinary veteran.

He probably wouldn't mind moving. But at the same time he just loves to sit in the sun, chewing tobacco when the weather is nice, contemplating a domain where housing or finances are unspoken words.

Graves is 106 years old and the only surviving veteran at Missouri's Confederate Home at Higginsville. He lives there with six widows of former Civil War companions.

In attendance is a superintendent, four nurses, a bookkeeper, cook, gardener and a maintenance man. Two of the four nurses keep a constant vigil over "Uncle John" and listen to his stories, which go back 80 years.

Graves' last fellow veteran died in March, 1945, but the legislature here continues to appropriate money for the establishment, consisting of 362 beautiful park-like acres dotted by numerous buildings and cottages.

The peak number at the home was 325 in 1910. And since all the accommodations still exist, the present residents have as much room as seven beans in a shoebox. For the next fiscal year, the home will receive $27,500, which in simple arithmetic amounts to almost $4,000 for maintenance of each.

Wouldn't it be cheaper to move them to the Missouri Federal Soldiers' Home at St. James, where 250 Union veterans and widows live?

If the idea was ever conceived by the lawmakers, it judiciously was never voiced. Such a suggestion undoubtedly would evoke a rebel yell that would echo from one end of the state to the other.

Uncle John was born in Pike County, Mo., Jan. 1, 1842.

Roadside Barley Patch

To ease England's food shortage, an experiment is under way in Middlesex to raise barley on a mile-long strip along the highway. Above, a workman uses a miniature tractor plow. If the experiment proves a success, other roadside projects are expected to spring up throughout the nation.

Already several international physicists have expressed their wish to carry out research at the Testa Grigia laboratory. Accommodations for foreign scientists are planned in the nearby town of Cervinia, to provide for an historic international co-operation for this important work.

The Testa Grigia laboratory is the third in Europe and best equipped of its kind. The other two are on the Jungfrau Mountain and on the Pic du Midi in the Pyrenees.

Under the joint direction of Edoardo Araldi and Gilberto Bernardini, the huge rectangular prefabricated cabin, made with double walls of cork, phaesite and aluminum, was set up on a cement base under tremendous difficulties. All material had to be brought up on sleds and on an improvised tunicular under the lashing of cold wind and the first snows.

On stormy days the laboratory will be cut off from the world. It is supplied with food and medical equipment sufficient to last for 15 days. On bad days, only well-trained skiers can reach the town of Cervinia lower down the granite peak. The four Italian physicists who have begun their exile to further the progress of science have no fear of being cut off from all help in case of storms however—each is an excellent skier.

of greater energy and in greater number can be found. By studying such particles, the scientists hope to reach the laws which govern the formation of atomic nuclei.

Puerto Ricans Fill Need For Workers In Ohio

CLEVELAND (UP)—A broker in unskilled labor is offering "willing and dependable Puerto Ricans" to manpower-short Cleveland employers.

Samuel G. Friedman, president of the S. G. Friedman Farm Labor Agency with headquarters in Philadelphia, made his first venture into the industrial employment field by supplying 200 Puerto Rican workers to the National Tube Co. plant in nearby Lorain, O.

He plans to offer services to Cleveland employers because "I understand there are 57,000 jobs available in this general area." Friedman previously has dealt only in farm labor, supplying more than 2,000 Puerto Ricans to farmer groups in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Sleuthing Made Easy
GOSHEN, Ind. (UP)—The police were glad of snow for once. They answered a burglar alarm from an outlying sporting goods store and followed the thief home to his doorstep by the tracks in the snow.

Traffic Violators Given Movie Lesson

CHICAGO (UP)—Judge John F. Griffin is treating traffic violators to a movie.

"Young traffic violators especially will have to watch 'Highway Maniac' then come back and tell me if they learned a lesson," Griffin said.

He continues the charge against drivers until they report back. The judge said he believed the lesson the film indicates is more effective than sending traffic violators to look at auto accident victims in the Cook County Hospital, as he did in the past.

SCIENTISTS ON MOUNTAIN SEEK COSMIC RAY SECRET

By Joseph J. Baicich
United Press Staff Correspondent
TURIN, Italy (UP)—Four Italian physicists have closed themselves in a cube-like laboratory atop Mount Cervino in the Alps for a study of cosmic rays.

The squat building nestles on the rock peak of Testa Grigia at 12,000 feet above sea level. Geiger meters, Wilson chambers and other strange instruments surround the four men. They keep in constant radio communication with their Rome headquarters to report on their work, which is affiliated with the United Nations.

When the new laboratory was established, state officials and Italian and foreign scientists struggled to hold their footing against a wicked wind screaming across the highest peaks of the Alps.

Scores of cables held the laboratory to the mountain top and snow drifts had piled up around the little building before the scientists entered. Officials of the central physics institute said the men might remain in the observation laboratory for two months before their first experiments are concluded.

The answers to the fundamental problems of modern physics are what these men seek. They may be found in the cosmic rays, which constitute a sort of mist-like rain falling upon the earth. The origin of this "rain" of cosmic rays is not yet established, but it is formed of the same particles found in the atoms and nuclei of which matter is composed.

It has been found that the radiation—or at least a good part of it—is absorbed in various measure by the atmosphere. Hence at extreme heights, cosmic ray particles

ALL DOORS OPEN OUT...

ALL through February, underneath the snow, old mother Nature has been busy.

Snowdrops have been popping out. The first spears of crocus climbing toward the light; the willow switches along the creek glow golden green.

Now, with the snow covering at last along the north side of house and fence, the old girl is really ready to put on her show.

Above, the wintry clouds have gone. The tufty bolls of warmer weather—cirro-cumulus and nimbus—are shredding in the blue bowl of a springtime sky. The sun is hot in windless spots—you can almost hear the sap running in the trees. An errant honeybee, a thrush—yes, your ears can tell you the season's on its way. It's almost time for apple blossoms!

All door open out—all roads lead to the lazy sweetness of springtime. Picnics and fishin', gardening and glorious loafing beckon in the sunny week-ends ahead. And in the Ranger stores, you'll find the things you need to truly enjoy the outdoors: golf and tennis equipment, bicycles, picnic needs, lawn furniture, garden tools. Start your outdoor living tomorrow... with outdoor equipment from your favorite Ranger store.

Garden Lore
By Ethel Brooks Gilmore

Every Christian should love a garden for so many important events during the life of Christ took place in some garden. He spent many pleasant hours with Lazarus, Mary, and Martha in their garden at Bethany.

His last free hours before his crucifixion were spent in the Garden of Gethsemane, and he was laid to rest in a tomb in the garden of Joseph of Arimathea.

Authentic data in "The Prince of the House of David" mentions that the thickness of the foliage of the olive and fig trees created complete darkness, so Joseph had to have torches brought from his home. Slowly they went forward to the Rock of Moriah which hangs over the valley, and formed the east wall of the garden. It was there that a shallow flight of stone steps lead into the new tomb hewn out of the rock. The torches flashed brightly on the massive door, and shone through the dark eypress trees, whose branches drooped in majestic gloom over the entrance to the tomb. Under this tree, the Roman Guard watched. In this Garden of Joseph of Arimathea, the event took place, which changed the destiny of mankind.

Let the present pass from your mind, and let your thoughts go back to the third morning after the Crucifixion. The family of
