Arabs, Jews Locked In Bitter Battle

Well...
I Dunno,
But...

Gene Baker got his start in the newspaper business at the Ranger Daily Times and is now owner and editor of the Gorman Progress, got himself a little nation-wide publicity through a comment he made in his paper and which was picked up by Neal O'Hara who writes the syndicated column "Pull Up An Easy Chair."

Gene's comment was, "everybody in a small town knows the news, but reads the paper to see if the editor gets it printed accurately."

And this bit of real wisdom comes from a man who said that there were two things he'd never do, never get married and never work on a newspaper and who ended up doing both.

Ranger was represented on Texas Christian University's victory-winning debating teams in the person of John Shirley, John's team which was the junior men's team won the second place cup at a recent contest in San Antonio where they competed against 17 colleges and universities from five states. Another TCU team won the sweepstakes trophy in the contests, and all together won eight first and second place cups.

Had the privilege recently of reading the copy of a splendid talk made by J. C. Fenevy, great chain store owner, on "Christian Principles in Business" and which was entered in the Congressional Record.

He stressed the necessity of applying Christian principles in business and urged the application of the Golden Rule in business.

As director of the Laymen's Movement For A Christian World he stated that opportunities had been opened up whereby he could apply Christianity in every day life.

We've often heard of the Christian deeds of this man and after reading his sincere statement, we can very well believe every thing we've heard.

Guess we'd all be better off if we followed his advice, too.

J. E. Moroney who is one of the Ranger Junior College's greatest boosters, is the guy that thought up the advertising plan for the College and presented it to the Chamber of Commerce.

DAIRY CATTLE SHOW TUESDAY WAS SUCCESS

"Far beyond our expectations" is the way those in charge of the Eastland County Dairy Cattle Classification show, held in Eastland Tuesday, expressed themselves regarding the show.

President L. E. McGraw of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce, one of the leading promoters of the movement, stated that he was elated with each and every phase of the show. "It is an exceptionally good start," he said.

The attendance at the show was much greater than had been anticipated as the number of cattle exhibited. Cows were exhibited from almost every community in the County.

One hundred and fifty 4-H and FFA boys were present for the cattle judging contests, it was stated.

Elmo Cooke, County Agricultural Agent of Taylor county, and R. E. Burleson, Dairy Expert of the A. & M. College Extension Service, judged the stock. The boys entering the judging contest were furnished with score cards from which they judged the animals which had already been judged by Cooke and Burleson.

Following are the classifications for the animals exhibited: (We were unable to secure for today's paper the list of the boys winning prizes in cattle judging.)

Crossley Is Candidate For Re-election

County Judge P. L. Crossley has announced his candidacy for re-election, stating that he probably will have a formal statement to make later.

There is perhaps no official in the County whose position on county matters is better known than are those of Judge Crossley. He is serving his second term in the office, having had an opponent at each election.

Supporters Of Housing Bill More Confident

WASHINGTON, April 22 (UP)—Supporters of long range housing legislation were confident of victory today as the Senate neared a final vote on the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill.

Sens. Ralph E. Flanders, R., and Allen J. Ellender, D., La. both predicted the bill would pass by an even wider margin than the 49-35 vote by which the Senate yesterday rejected a proposal to eliminate its public housing features.

Stevenson Files Application For Place On Ballot

HILLSBORO, Tex., April 22 (UP)—Application of Former Governor Coke R. Stevenson for a place on the ballot as a candidate for U. S. Senator in the July Democratic primary was received here today by State Democratic Chairman R. W. Calvert.

Calvert said the 60-year-old ranchman of Junction sent with his application a check for $125 to cover filing fees.

Although Stevenson had announced he was retiring from politics when he left the governor's office at the end of 1946, his application for a place on the ballot as the opponent of Senator W. Lee O'Daniel had been expected for some time.

The former governor had declared his intentions of making the race as New Years Day.

Senator O'Daniel has made no statement of his intentions to seek re-election, but observers awaited his return to Texas to make a speech in Fort Worth next Monday.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (UP)—President Truman today named Charles Sawyer, former ambassador to Belgium, to be secretary of commerce. Sawyer accepted the cabinet post.

The appointment of Sawyer follows Mr. Truman's action yesterday in naming the present secretary, W. Averell Harriman, to be the roving ambassador to direct the European recovery program from the field.

Sawyer, a Cincinnati, O., attorney, conferred with Mr. Truman this morning by telephone and agreed to take the job.

Sawyer formerly was democratic national committeeman from Ohio before his diplomatic service in Belgium.

BOXER DIES OF INJURIES FROM FIGHT

MILWAUKEE, April 22 (UP)—Jackie Darthard, 19 year old middleweight boxer, died today of cerebral concussion and internal bleeding suffered in a fight last night with Bert Lytell of Fresno, Cal.

Darthard died despite the efforts of 3 surgeons who worked over him for an hour and a half this morning. Dr. Dr. Harry P. Maxwell, who performed the operation said a blood clot had formed on the left side of his brain.

Shortly after the fight, Jordan Davis, 27, and Arrington "Bubble" Klice, 29, both of Kansas City, co-managers of Darthard, were picked up by Milwaukee police on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

They were released on $500 bail each for a later appearance before District Attorney William McCauley.

Lytell also was booked on a technical charge of manslaughter pending the outcome of his ring rivals condition. He was released in $1,000 bail.

Devis and Klice, police said, were carrying guns. They told police that they had the guns to protect their share of the gate receipts.

Rotarians Hear Talk On Freight Damage Waste

H. C. Carson of the Texas and Pacific Railway with headquarters in Dallas was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club Wednesday at noon at the Gholson Hotel.

Introduced by H. C. Henderson, Mr. Carson spoke on the program now underway with his company to reduce the tremendous loss through the paying of freight claims.

He stated that $129,000,000 was paid out last year for damaged freight when most of it could have been eliminated if each individual connected with each item had taken greater care.

He urged the club to assure safe delivery of freight by taking every precaution toward this end.

Mr. Carson also asked that those present pass on to the railroads and other freight transports any ideas that might aid in reducing this loss. Employees of the company are appearing in towns along their route in an effort to educate the people on the program.

At the meeting Wednesday, F. P. Brashier, Sr., spoke briefly on the program for advertising Ranger Junior College which is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and which is being formulated.

Besides Mr. Carson, other guests at the meeting were E. F. Crawford of Cisco and W. A. Cowan of Dallas.

Trash Hauling Trucks To Be Out Tomorrow

Friday will be the second and last day for free hauling of trash in the current clean-up campaign and the trucks will leave the fire station at 8 o'clock in the morning to cover the West side of Ranger.

A thorough coverage of the East side of town was made Tuesday with the trucks averaging eight loads each.

Those who are making the collection have urged that all trash be in some kind of container and that it be placed where the trucks can easily get it.

CONFLICT FOR STRATEGIC SAFAD, CITADEL OF GALLILEE

Arab Army Headquarters, North Palestine, April 22, (UP)—Arab and Jewish forces today were reported locked in bloody conflict for Safad, strategic citadel of Galilee which dominates much of northeastern Palestine.

Reports reached headquarters that units of the Arab Army of Liberation had entered Safad after the withdrawal British troops from the town, and were clashing with the Jews in a series of battles.

The Arab population of Safad, northwest of the Sea of Galilee and near the border of the Jewish-Arab zone under the partition plan, outnumbered the Jews four to one. But the Arabs were dominated strategically by the Jewish quarter on heights overlooking the Arab section.

Jewish gun posts at the entry of the main highway into Safad from the coastal area fired mortars and machine guns at Arab convoys trying to break through with supplies and reinforcements, the headquarters reports said.

When the British left the town, infiltrating Arab Army forces occupied the fort of Safad and were relying on that position to check the Jews in any showdown test.

The Jews were reported getting reinforcements from the Huleh Valley northeast of Safad, where there are a number of strong Jewish settlements.

A young doctor just back from Safad said there were clashes almost hourly and the number of dead and wounded in the sniping was mounting steadily.

JERUSALEM, April 22 (UP)—Great Britain disclosed today that some British troops and supplies will be kept in the Holy Land indefinitely, apparently until the United Nations reaches a final decision on Palestine.

The brief British announcement gave no hint of what new plans might be afoot for British Forces in Palestine. It said merely that "a number" of troops will remain to protect military stores after the mandate ends May 1.

LAKE SUCCESS—Australia today launched a small-power drive to go ahead with the United Nations program for partitioning Palestine despite Arab armed resistance and the United States demand for another solution.

Latin Holds Its Own
CLINTON, N. Y. (UP)—Latin apparently isn't altogether a dead language. After using Latin on diplomas for 136 commencements, Hamilton College last year switched to English. But Class of 1948 graduates voted to resume the Latinized version. "It's more appropriate," they argued.

Stake $3,000,000 And Hard Work On Luxury Hotel

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Five times a night two earnest men climb wearily out of bed of the house they are building. When the plasters, carpenter and laborers arrive at 8 a. m., the two hover around them like anxious mothers, caressing the bags of concrete and unloading lumber and steel.

It sounds like two GIs speaking the last time out of a government building. That is the house Ivar Blacker and Sam Cohen are building. It is a $3,000,000 hotel—the biggest and most expensive ever raised in this glittering playground. They are giving it plenty of personal attention because it's their $3,000,000.

Blacker and Cohen and two other partners, J. C. Cohen, Sam's father, and Martin Fisher all of New York, have Miami's greatest quick building industry watching every move they make.

The Innocent Impostor

By Renee Shann
COPYRIGHT BY RENEE SHANN; DISTRIBUTED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Patience Mead, primly brought up by two maiden aunts, is in love with Paul Taylor, whom her aunts have forbidden her to see because they have never been properly introduced. Charlotte, Patience's twin sister whom she has not seen since childhood, is a stage star rebekating a show in London. Charlotte is determined Patience shall have some fun. She invites her up to London for a day, dresses her smartly from her own wardrobe. They are to lunch with Roger Dickson, popular actor and Charlotte's boyfriend. Charlotte kindly begs Patience not to take Roger away from her. At the last minute Charlotte is invited to lunch with Dwight Breeden, movie producer. She can't turn him down. Patience, shy and frightened, is left to meet Roger alone.

XIII

THE lift-boy swung open the door of the lift. She stepped inside and felt the breath rise swiftly in her body as it sped downwards.

And now the door was swinging open again. She saw Roger Dickson immediately, recognizing him from his photograph. She saw him look at her, his face lighting up, and then a hastily puzzled expression came over it.

"Mr. Dickson?"
He stared at her.
"You are and yet you aren't!"
"I'm Patience. Charlotte's sister."

"Sakes alive! For a moment I thought you were Charlotte. I'd no idea you were going to be so much alike."

Patience handed him the letter. "Charlotte's had to go off unexpectedly to lunch with a Mr. Breeden."

"The devil she has!"
"She's explained it all in there," Roger grinned. "I take it you and I are lunching together?"

Patience felt hot color creeping up her cheeks.

"If that's all right with you, Mr. Dickson."
"It's wonderful." He put his hand at her elbow and led her through the lounge and into the restaurant. He found a table for two.

"Cigaret?"
"No, thank you." She smiled at him. "Wouldn't you like to read Charlotte's note?"

He smiled as he glanced at the hastily written lines. They were typically Charlotte. "Though I adore you, darling, I simply daren't let this opportunity slip through my fingers. But I'll do my darnedest to meet you at the theater. In the meantime—take great care of Patience. There's only one of her. I swear, in the whole of England and I think she's rather sweet. So will you I've a feeling. Only, darling, don't think her too sweet or I'm not going to like it."

ROGER put the letter back in its envelope. "Now, tell me about yourself," he said to Patience, preparing himself to listen politely to the story of her life. To his astonishment, he found that he was extraordinarily interested by it.

"So until last week you'd not seen Charlotte for years?"
"No. Didn't she tell you?"

She had, he remembered, but he'd not taken much notice. A twin sister buried in the country hadn't sounded to him of any great importance. Now it would seem that beside the sister, who was assuredly as pretty as paint, there were two maiden aunts.

"We're all awfully eager to see Charlotte on the stage," said Patience, fidgeting. Roger Dickson not half so terrifying as she'd imagined. "I suppose she's very good."

"Oh yes, she's got what it takes."
"What does it take?" asked Patience interestedly.

"Well, you know what I mean. She's got wide appeal. She's lovely to look at and she dances like an angel. People go mad about her."

"They go mad about you, too, don't they?"
Roger looked at her. What sort of a girl was this sister of Charlotte's? Was she deliberately setting out to please him? He met her candid gray eyes and saw that she wasn't.

"You're sweet, little Patience!" he told her. "Tell me, are you often in London?"

"THREE times a week," said Patience promptly. "Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays," and then found herself wishing she hadn't told him this, because he was suggesting they should lunch again together, and somehow she wasn't altogether sure if Charlotte would like it.

Roger inquired where she could be found say around lunch time on Monday.

"In a place you'd never go to. A luncheon room around the corner from my dressmaking academy." "And the dressmaking academy is where?"
"In Stafford Street," said Patience weakly.

Roger grinned. "But you don't want me to be there?"
"No."

"You know that's the very thing that's making me quite determined that I will be," Patience sighed. She didn't know quite how to handle this situation. Roger grinned. "Don't look so worried. Maybe I won't be after all."

He paid the bill and they left the restaurant together. Patience was aware, as she'd been as she'd entered it, of people turning to look at them. Of heads moving closer together. Roger was being recognized, of course. She was glad when they were in the quiet seclusion of a taxi.

She sat far away in her own corner, her hands folded in her lap. But in the theater it happened just the way Charlotte had warned her. His hand stretched out and took one of hers. She tried to withdraw it, but his grasp was firm. She tried harder. And then she gave it up.

After all, she asked herself, did she really mind so very much?

Eastland County Towns & Communities

(Editor's Note— The following is taken from the forthcoming book, "History of Eastland County," by Ed T. Cox.

CISCO CONTINUED
In 1902 The Citizens National Bank was organized with Dr. J. P. Webster, President; J. J. Butts, Vice President; A. H. Johnson, Cashier; and M. S. Stamps, Assistant Cashier.

The new town was not long without a newspaper. R. G. Luse erected a tent on Broadway near the site of the Christian Church building, moved in a few cases of type and his Washington Press and issued the first copy of "The Cisco Round Up," on the 1st day of July, 1881.

A writer in an issue of that paper of date July 16, 1909 gives the above information and states that when he visited the Tent office he was shown a rattle snake which had been killed nearby the day before.

The paper was named after cowboys had shot up the town and the Editor had visited a round up near Cisco. The writer well remembers an article in the paper describing the editors observations and experiences on that occasion and would give much to read it again.

Mr. Luse only published the paper for a few years before disposing of it to Baily and Rose who continued its publication until about 1891 when it was acquired by Frank Vernon, an able and vigorous character by whom it was controlled for some years.

Its first issue as a daily appeared February 13, 1920 but its name was soon changed to the Cisco Daily News. Since that time its name as well as its ownership has changed several times and is now "The Cisco Daily Press."

Another early newspaper published in Cisco was the Cisco A-Post, a weekly, under the management of Warner Wilson. The publication was continued for a number of years but had no successor.

At this time there were three weekly newspapers being published in Cisco. The Cisco Pilot, published by Edgar Rye in 1896 was probably renamed the New West which under the management of J. J. Eager, was the mouthpiece of the Populist Party in Eastland County until its demise in or about 1906. Mr. Eager was a very aggressive leader and made things quite interesting for the Democrats for several years.

According to the New West mentioned above, a paper was published at Hobart, an eight miles south of Cisco in 1899 as the Hobart Daily. The New West welcomes the little Daily as one of its exchanges.

Cisco has a splendid public library, housed in a nice white brick building. The library was founded by Frank Vernon in 1894 and for a time was located at the home of Mrs. A. B. Johnson. Mrs. George Langston is the authority for the statement that the first volume donated was "Ben Hur".

by the founder, Mrs. William Reagan, formerly Mr. Frank Vernon, was (1942) chairman of the Library committee.

Its management was taken over by the Twentieth Century Club in 1899. In 1900 the library consisted of 450 volumes; this number has been increased to more than six thousand.

In 1903 Wood McSpadden and Mayhew & Company put into operation a system of Electric Service under the name of the Cisco Electric Company. The property was operated under this name until sold to The West Texas Utilities Company in 1924. Included in this transfer was The Cisco Ice Company which had operated for some years under the first named ownership.

Cisco was first served by the Lone Star Gas Company exclusively but in 1934 The Cisco Gas Company was organized and the city is now served by the two companies.

Pipe As Burglar Alarm Crosses Up Groceryman

CINCINNATI, O. (UP)—Four policemen went to Antonio Dipilla's grocery store in answer to a robbery alarm.

But there was no robbery. The grocer just got his signals mixed up.

Dipilla explained that he and his landlady, Mrs. Frank Klein, who lives on the second floor, had a pre-arranged signal whereby he was to tap on a pipe in case of a holdup.

"Mrs. Klein was in the store, and a few minutes after she left I heard water running in a washroom," Dipilla said. "I forgot about the signal and rapped on the pipe to call her attention to it."

The landlady, hearing the rapping, called police.

Indian Advised Texas Has Plenty Of Trees For Totem Pole Carving

College Station, Tex. (UP)—Is Chief Mathias Joe, the totem pole carver, a Squamish Indian or merely a squamish Indian.

That's the reaction of Texas foresters and woodsmen when they learned Chief Joe was snubbing the state's trees of Texas. According to reports, the chief is bringing his own wood, a red cedar log from the Pacific Northwest, to do his totem pole carving while in the Lone Star state this month.

Now everyone knows (except Chief Joe) that Texas has the biggest and best of everything. Naturally, the Texas A. & M. College Forestry Service is anxious to do its duty in furthering this tradition. Of course, if Chief Joe prefers to tote his own log all the way from his Capilano Indian reservation in Vancouver, British Columbia, to do his totem pole carving in Texas, that's his privilege. He's a guest, and we'll treat him with the same hospitality.

Star Sophomores Join General Ohio State Football Walkout

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Spring football practice throughout the land again brings up the amusing situation at Ohio State, where on fall week-ends what should be the varsity goes off to play with the professional Cleveland Browns.

Education claimed only quarterback Billy Doolittle, end Jimmy Crane, guard Bob Jabbusch and center Howard Duncan, which doesn't mean a thing. But backs Ollie Cline, Bob Brugge and Dean Sensenbaur, among the very last of the Paul Brown men in Scarlet and Gray, are the newest additions to their old coach's money ranks.

They swell to a dozen or more the number of Browns who had from one to three years of eligibility remaining at Ohio State.

Cline is a phenomenal fullback, almost frightfully fast for a 210-pounder, Brugge is a big and fine all-around back, Sensenbaur a remarkable runner.

Wesley Fesler's troubles do not end with the raids of Brown of the Browns, however, for since spring drills started he has lost his two slickest sophomore backs.

Park Blubaugh decided to abandon football because of a bad knee. Bob Wright signed a baseball contract with the Detroit Tigers.

MAKING things worse at Ohio State, the freshman crop of 1947 was the slimmest and poorest in quality in a decade. It sent up no more than six or seven men of varsity caliber.

Fesler has another year to go on his contract, but another autumn such as last, when the Bucks won only two of nine, and the Monday morning quarterbacks will be decorating High Street with him.

The consensus is that Brown will be back in command within a couple of years, perhaps in 1949. The fellow is peculiarly cut out for the job.

Meanwhile, Cline, Brugge and Sensenbaur join the Browns' group at Ohio State, where the remarkable professional end Dante LaVelle and place-kicker Lou Groza are roommates, for example, Brown doesn't want football bums, insists the lads complete their education.

Scout Robert Johnson, Patrol Leader of the Texas Patrol, Troop number 45, Goldthwaite, Texas, won the "Grand Champion Steer Prize" at the Houston Fat Stock Show and Live Stock Exposition, Houston, Texas, in the 1948 showing. Scout Johnson is a Life Scout, and 15 years of age. The steer sold for $12,000, which Scout Johnson says is going for his education to become a better rancher.

Marines To Train College Students

NEW YORK (UP)—The U. S. Marine Corps on May 1 will complete its procurement program of enrolling more than 1,600 of the nation's top undergraduate college students as candidates for commissions in the 1948 session of the platoon leaders class.

Training at the Marine Corps schools at Quantico, Va., college students, freshmen, sophomores and juniors, from more than 200 accredited colleges and universities have been accepted for the program, which leads to a commission as a second lieutenant in the regular and reserve Marine Corps.

Attending either one or two sixweek summer training sessions, students are given a well-balanced officer training schedule.

After completion of the required military training periods and upon graduation from college, the men are commissioned. This

Only Legless Persons Work For This Firm

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Handicapped persons, the only kind it employs, are the key to success of a Dallas firm which has been in operation here since 1914.

It is the Hedgecock Artificial Limb & Brace Co. The firm employs only 12 persons but because they have met and mastered their own problems, they are better equipped to help others, says year over 300 graduates will be offered commissions in the regular service.

It was through this program started in 1935 that the Marine Corps got most of its junior officers before World War II. However, after Pearl Harbor officers had to be obtained by a more direct means and the program was discontinued temporarily.

Mrs. D. E. Hedgecock, owner of the firm. "We don't employ anybody who isn't minus a leg," she said. "We think such persons are more interested in their work. Also, we feel that they have something in common with the customers."

PLAN CIVILIAN DEFENSE IF ANOTHER WAR COMES

By Maureen Gothlin, United Press Staff Correspondent, WASHINGTON (UP)—If there should be another war, every United States city must be ready with an efficiently-organized plan for evacuation and for coping with war-borne disaster.

That is the opinion of Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, federal works administrator. Fleming's public roads commission already is laying plans for building a system of urban streets expressways and rural highways. They would facilitate evacuation and maintain supply routes if railroads and main highways should be knocked out by bombs.

Fleming favors bringing back the war-time office of civilian defense. In the defense department a new director of civilian defense planning has just started work on plans for a future civilian defense program.

He is Russel J. Hopley, president of the Northwest Bell Telephone Co., Omaha, Neb. Hopley hopes to complete within six months a plan to protect American cities against possible military attack.

Hopley shares Fleming's view about the need for efficient local disaster organizations.

"Just as every American city needs a fire department, we must have a sound civilian defense organization on hand in case this country is attacked by an enemy," Hopley said.

He urged each U. S. city to start now to develop its own disaster relief organization. His job, he said, will be to co-locate various government reports outlining proposals for protection against atomic and other weapons and recommend "a workable system based on individual and community responsibility."

Fleming believes every American should be versed in whatever methods exist for dealing with the disaster that would result from an atomic bomb, a guided missile or other weapons of a future war.

He recalled that "countless lives were lost needlessly" in Europe in World War II as a result of panic, ignorance and lack of organization. The same thing, he said, has happened in peace-time disasters in this country, such as the Texas City explosion and the Maine forest fires.

of civilian defense made up a nation-wide network of voluntary civilian teams extending down to the smallest community. Members of the teams perched on church towers and skyscrapers as air raid spotters issued gas masks and carried on blackout drills.

In any future war, Fleming said, civilian teams must have worked out in advance a system of organized collection of people and property for evacuation. They must be able to direct traffic out of cities in an orderly fashion.

He believes that every bus, truck and automobile that would be available for civilian use in an emergency should have certain duties and passengers assigned to it in advance. Every car driver should be assigned a specific route he is to follow out of town.

Even if such advance arrangements never are called into use by a war disaster, Fleming said, they would be useful in coping with such peace-time emergencies as flood or fire.

Cisco, April 21—The remains of Otis C. Lomax, Jr., who was killed Aug. 12, 1943, while on duty on the United States submarine Carbella in South Pacific, is being brought to Cisco for reburial Sunday with military honors. Services will be at Thomas Funeral Home chapel and at the graveside in Oakwood cemetery. Rev. C. A. Warren will officiate at the religious service while Rev. W. J. Cross and Rev. Stuart Rhone and the American Legion will have charge of the ceremony.

Deceased was born in Cisco on April 23, 1921, and graduated from Cisco High school with the class of '39. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Lomax, Sr., sister, Miss Mayenne Lomax, and a brother, Alton Lomax, all of Cisco.

He joined the Navy Sept. 5, 1940, and received the President

Mrs. S. N. Poe underwent a successful eye-operation Wednesday at Dallas and says the world looks very beautiful to her after having been able to see but very little for several months.

Mack Stephens has received word of the death of his brother, J. E. Stephens, Monday night at his home in Los Angeles where he had lived for the past 20 years. His death followed a stroke which occurred three weeks ago. The deceased formerly lived in Cisco, coming here in the pioneer days of this section. Funeral and burial will be in California.

Smart Wild Bird Finds Human Friend Is OK

SANTA PAULA, Cal. (UP)—Brownie is the smartest of Al Reeve's wild bird friends and hops right into his hand when his name is called at a twice a day doorstep crumb-time feeding.

Reeves said Brownie, a little wild towhee, first started coming out of his hand four years ago. He would dart up on his hand, snatch a piece, and be off then. Now he flies right to the kitchen and hangs on the screen while his birdseed is being prepared. He is so bold that he hucks his seed right in Reeves' hand.

Brownie is one of a feathered flock that comes to the Reeves home at 7 a. m. and 6 p. m. each day for a handout of crumbs and birdseed. The flock includes gold

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh
Homer Does Some "Back-Seat Sewing!"

Homer Bentley's missus was working on her new sewing machine, when Homer comes in, draws up a chair, and starts talking: "Don't you think you're running too fast?" he says. "Slow down! Watch out! Be careful!"

When the missus finally turns with murder in her eyes, Homer says, goodnaturedly: "I thought you might like a little help, dear—like you help me drive the car."

The missus can't help but burst out laughing—and they settle what might have been a quarrel over a friendly glass of beer. The missus agrees to give up back-seat driving and nagging Homer about ashes on the rug. Homer agrees to quit criticizing Sarah's taste for flowery hats and parsley salad.

From where I sit, the key to getting on together is meeting every issue half way—and overlooking any petty differences in tastes—whether those tastes apply to beer or flowery-looking hats!

A Friend Is Lost

Staring down at the lifeless body of Butch, these four boys reflect one of childhood's grimmest tragedies—the death of a pet. The boys, Richard Thoma, Robert Chiovaro, Bernard Vollett and were playing sandlot baseball in Roosevelt, N. Y., when Butch was struck by a bus on a nearby highway.

Mountain Lion Killers Are Wanted In West

WASHINGTON (UP)—The West would welcome anyone who wants to shoot mountain lion, Interior Department officials report.

Because of the lack of hunters during the war years, the predatory animal has increased in number to about 6,000. That isn't many compared to the days of the wild west, officials say, but livestock in the Southwest is suffering more than usual.

Mountain lions, or cougars, kill sheep, colts and sometimes even full-grown cattle. As many as 30 sheep have been slain by one of the tree-cats as the result of a direct attack or a stampede provoked by an attack.

Most mountain lion hunting is carried on by federal and state game control men who kill for a salary. Some western states offer bounties. Colorado, for instance, will pay $50 a head.

Fire is the leading cause of all disasters and catastrophes in the United States. The American Red Cross reports that fire is responsible for more disaster relief calls than all other causes combined.

Trip To Get Prisoners Nets Sheriff Heirloom

SAN SABA, Tex. (UP)—Sheriff J. Newell Graves of San Saba county made a trip to Dawson county for a prisoner and found a prized family heirloom at Lamesa.

It is a cap-and-ball six-gun engraved with the name of the sheriff's grandfather, L. D. Graves, who helped organize Coleman county in 1864 and served as that county's first sheriff. A Dawson county deputy sheriff had the gun.

The gun hadn't been fired since 1882, when two loads of powder and shot were taken from it and preserved in an envelope. The cylinder is engraved with figures of mounted federal officers pursuing Indians and firing at them with pistols. Graves said it is in condition to be fired.

You know that a dozen persons, working together, can accomplish more than one person working alone. That's the way it is with any civic project. And it's especially true of Spring Clean-Up Week. Make it a community affair.

Family Has 101 Years Teaching School Record

STAMFORD, Tex. (UP)—One hundred and one years is the total time spent teaching school for the J. F. Guillett family, including the "in-laws."

J. F. Guillett, 80, taught only 18 years, beginning in his native Missouri and teaching some 14 Colorado, Oklahoma and Texas. His late wife, the former Lou Stout, was a teacher when they married and she taught for eight years.

Four of the six children were teachers, though one of them taught only one year. They have a total of 56 years. One now is a teacher in Stamford high school, another decided not to teach this year so he could work on his Ph.D. degree at the University of Texas. The other 29 years were added by wives of two of the sons.

You can help cut down this alarming toll in fire damages. Start in your home this Spring Clean-Up Week. Check for fire hazards. Join your neighbors and work towards community cleanup. Save your home and save lives.
