Well...
I Dunno,
But...

Girls take your ease. The rumors about the drastic changes in styles for the fall are in error. Gertrude Henry and Audrey Yonker, just back from market, said today that they didn't find the styles so changed. There was no sign of the French spool heels that were predicted, hideous things, too, nor were there a lot of other extremes that the French are trying to force on the American world of style.

It sure had us worried, too.

Here we haven't caught up with the last "new look" and the thought of another one in the offering, really had us seriously considering the barrel. We've taxed our ingenuity to the breaking point, trying to add an inch here and a couple of inches there and to date there's no dress in our wardrobe that are the same length. This brings up another problem. The slips don't hit it off with the dresses very well.

Since the daughter's been home from school, the husband has taken to a corner in the lobby of the hotel, declaring "it's a woman's world, after all." The patter about hems, the "new look" and such, has him looking at us with a concerned expression. He really thinks we've lost our minds.

Speaking of the French trying to regain their hold on the style world, we think they might as well give it up as a bad job. When it gets to the point where Texas is turned to as a style center for a good part of the world, the French haven't got a chance. Cause whatever Texas does, she does it bigger and better.

Now that we've tried our wings in the world of fashion designing and pace setting, there's no Frenchman alive that could make us haul down our shingle.

We recall that in a recent essay contest sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce on what Ranger needs, that the majority of the essays pointed out the need for greater recreational facilities for the town.

So we'd like to add our two bits worth in support of the efforts being made by the American Legion and Leveille Motor company to furnish recreation for the junior boys of the town. They have organized a junior boys hard ball team and have been working for months to whip the team into shape for the 17th District schedule.

Saturday afternoon the team goes to Brownwood for a league game. The sponsors are asking you to back their efforts and those of the boys by turning out to do a little grandstand whooping for the boys.

It's just such programs as this that gives the kids a wholesome outlook on life, and the program deserves your support.

People Urged To Back Junior Baseball Team

Members of the American Legion and the Leveille Motor Company have issued an appeal for citizens of Ranger to back the Junior Baseball team which they are sponsoring by going to Brownwood Saturday afternoon to witness a game between the Ranger Brownwood teams.

Those who plan to go are asked to be at the American Legion Hall between 12 and 12:30 p. m. From there the supporters will leave for Brownwood where the game will be called at 3 o'clock.

The team has been organized as a part of a nationwide recreational program for junior boys and deserves the support of the town.

GRANDSON OF FAIRY TALE WRITER CARRIES ON

Boerne, Tex., (UP)—A great grandson of a German writer of children's fairy tales who came to Texas almost 100 years ago is carrying on in the old man's footsteps in this Texas town along with his wife.

They even are using some of Lucian F. Toepfer's handwritten presses and bookbinders that he brought from the old country.

For the past decade, Fritz A. Toepfer and his wife have been writers of juvenile fiction. Their headquarters is a 36 acre farm near here.

Not only is their business a way of making a living for the Toepfers—they love children and many hours of research and planning goes into every booklet the couple put out.

Toepfer and his wife are going to almost fantastic extremes in their research on a forthcoming book called "The Land of a Million Bulls."

The principal character is a little Mexican boy who likes to go into the mountains and hunt for wild bulls and Toepfer and his wife have asked every old settler in the back country of Mexico to suggest a name for the main character.

Before he wrote one of his best-sellers among youngsters called "The Little Valley Quail," Toepfer was renamed for 34

School For Deaf Head Appointed

AUSTIN, May 28, (UP)—Roger M. Powell's resignation as superintendent of the Texas School for the Deaf was accepted today by the board of control and Roy M. Steele was named as his successor.

Steele now is assistant superintendent at the Illinois School for Deaf.

Kenneth Royall and Senator Styles Bridges. Earlier today, an unofficial informant said the General had notified military sources in Seoul, Korea, that he would accept the request. But in his cablegram to Bridges, MacArthur said: "It would be peculiarly repugnant to me to have felt that I sought to capitalize to political advantage, as many have frankly urged, the public good which might manifest itself upon my first return to American soil following the Pacific war."

U. S., RUSSIA SEEK PEACE IN PALESTINE

LAKE SUCCESS, May 28, (UP)—The United States and Russia have joined forces in an attempt to bring peace to the Holy Land where the shrines of the ages are threatened with destruction.

The chief American delegate to the United Nations—Warren Austin—says this country will back Russia's proposal for strong UN action on Palestine.

Austin told newsmen that it is too early to say what this country will do if the Russian plan fails to get the seven votes necessary for passage by the Security Council. And he refused to reveal the American attitude toward a British proposal for a four-week truce in the Holy Land.

An American spokesman has denied that the British plan was discussed by American and British diplomats. The spokesman says the United States was given no advance warning of the British proposal.

Reliable UN quarters believe that neither the British nor the Russian proposal has a chance of passage.

Ban On Railroad Strike Extended

WASHINGTON, May 28, (UP)—A temporary order banning a railroad strike has been extended.

Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough extended the order until June 11th. The U.S. railroad brotherhoods involved—the engineers, firemen and switchmen—agreed to the extension. The action will give the unions and the government time to prepare arguments on the union motion to throw out the restraining order. It was issued originally to halt the threatened rail strike.

Labor observers think a settlement of the 17-day Chrysler strike is near. Both sides in the dispute are meeting today. Hopes for a settlement rose with the agreement of General Motors and the CIO electrical workers. The agreement may be the pattern for a Chrysler settlement.

LIST SENT TO FEDERAL AGENCIES TO DETERMINE EMPLOYEES LOYALTY

Says Voice Of America Program Not Monitored

WASHINGTON, May 28, (UP)—Assistant Secretary of State George Allen has admitted that nobody in the state department monitored "Voice of America" entertainment programs broadcast to South America.

He told a house sub-committee that there was no indication that anybody in South America listened to them, either.

A House executive expenditures sub-committee called Allen and other state department officials before it to explain about some of the broadcasts. Angry Congressmen charged they were "slanderous" and libeled the United States.

Allen said the department was without sufficient personnel to supervise anything other than news and news analysis programs. The broadcasts concerning life and history of the states were classified as "entertainment."

Taft Report Urges Gardens As One Way to Stop Inflation

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—If Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio can't do a better job of running the United States than he has done in running the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report, it doesn't look as though he'd make a very hot President.

Under Taft's system of operation, nobody has been permitted to do anything while he was out of town. And he has been out of town frequently, campaigning "Politics before business, every time." The Taft Committee report on the President's economic message to Congress was due last Feb. 13. It isn't in sight even yet. But maybe that's just as well.

Last summer, Sen. Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut needed Taft in having his committee look into the high cost of living. Three subcommittees were appointed to hold hearings during vacation time in the east, mid-west and west.

Sen. Arthur V. Watkins of Utah ran the western show. He completed his report early in March with some red-hot recommendations. The eastern subcommittee, under Sen. Ralph Flanders of Vermont, filed its report, also pretty good. The mid-western group, under Sen. Joe Ball of Minnesota, hasn't been heard from.

What the full committee has, at long last, gotten around to making a final report of last summer's work.

As a solution for the high cost of living, the committee recommends Victory Gardens. That might have been all right in March, but it's pretty late to get started now in all but the northern tier of states. To mitigate the effect of high prices, the committee recommends farmers' markets should be established, and consumers should more intelligently and use substitutes. Doing anything about high prices themselves isn't even mentioned.

On yes. There is one item about cutting excise taxes which directly increase the prices of essential cost-of-living items, particularly for low-income groups.

What they probably mean here is lipstick and whisky. There are no excise taxes on meat, potatoes, spinach, nor even applesauce. For the inflationary danger of too much expansion of credit, the committee has another dandy suggestion. It is to give the matter more study.

There are other things the committee recommends putting off. One is the matter of doing something about controls over scarce items. In one place the report says there should be allocations of scarce raw materials for consumer goods. But in another place it says this needs more study.

The committee also recommends making more money available to educate people on meal planning.

As for what to do with the tax cuts you're now beginning to enjoy, the committee says you shouldn't have these. Instead, the government should give them to you in the form of savings bonds, cashable only when the danger of inflation is past.

For management and labor, the committee offers some startling advice. It is that management should reduce prices and labor adopt reasonable wage attitudes.

The report also says there should be mutual efforts by management and labor to avoid any curtailment of production through labor disputes. There's another original idea for you.

Just to give them their due, they made a few sound recommendations. One is that the Bureau of Internal Revenue be given enough money to catch tax dodgers. It was the GOP that cut this. A second is to defer unnecessary public works until costs come down. A third is to complete reclamation projects that will increase food-producing acreage. A fourth is to remove monopoly restrictions on production. And a fifth is to promote savings-bond sales.

It's Going To Be Pretty Hard To Explain

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

Maybe here's an Abe Lincoln story that you hadn't heard:

Lincoln said of a certain judge, "He's so strict, he'd hang a man for blowing his nose on the street but he would quash the indictment if it didn't specify which hand he blew it with."

Everybody in Eastland is talking about oil.

Used to edit the paper at Eastland many years ago so the other day I revisited the "old home town" and was amazed to find the place is really "stepping out."

One company, they told me, has leased 40,000 acres in the county. That's a lot of land and indicates a strong belief in future oil possibilities and there have been several blocks of 8,000 acres each.

Eastland County was the scene, back in 1918-20, of one of the biggest oil booms in history. Wouldn't it be odd for the county to have another real oil rush after 30 years? And yet it seems quite possible.

We told recently of the sidewalk which advertised, "See the horseless carriage," this being in the early day of the automobile which was known as the "horseless carriage." Folks paid their quarter and saw a buggy drawn by two mules.

This reminded a reader of the Carrizo Springs Javelin of a similar "sell." E. C. Smith writes from Redondo Beach, California about a sideshow along about 1900 in San Antonio which had a sign reading "She the horse with the tail where his head should be."

"People paid their dimes and saw a horse with his tail tied to the trough.

Boss Concedes Worker Is Important Man

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Judge Charles Betts found an honest man.

An employer called the judge to ask that one of his employees be excused from jury service.

The judge explained that he might not have enough jurors if the request were granted.

"Well," said the employer, "if that's all that's worrying you, I'll be right down to serve. This man is much more important to the business than I am."

In 1900 American women wore an average of half a dozen starched petticoats.

Young Diana Saw Seals And Is Sawed Loose

NEW YORK (UP)—Diana Cebalero, 5, was watching the seals at the Central Park Zoo and twined her leg in the steel fence around the pool. When it came time to go home, she couldn't get her leg loose.

Efforts of her mother and other bystanders to help failed, Diana cried louder. Finally, police brought a chair for her to sit on, a bag of candy and a hack saw. While Diana contentedly munched the candy police saved a bar loose to free her.

Plenty Of Accidents But She Survives

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—Mrs. Thelma Ruth Pafford has almost a charmed life. Eleven years ago when she was 18 she leaned against the door of an automobile and fell out.

During the war a ton of rubber and cloth matting slid from a carrier crane. Mrs. Pafford was partly buried, suffering a leg injury.

Three years ago Mrs. Pafford was in an automobile accident in which the car was demolished. And now Mrs. Pafford is recovering from another accident—she fell out of a taxicab.

Texas Baptists returned this week from the largest Southern Baptist Convention in history. Where Salmon Go In Deep Sea To Be Quest Subject

By Jack B. Evans
 United Press Staff Correspondent
SEATTLE (UP)—They're going to take a look into the home life of deep sea fish along the West Coast. The denizens of the seas won't have any more privacy than gold fish in a bowl.

The fisheries departments of California, Oregon and Washington have formed a tri-state commission to study the habits of fish. Part of the study will concern salmon, especially silvers and chinooks.

C. L. Anderson, assistant director of Washington state fisheries, said that of the five species of salmon which make up the $36,000,000 a year industry, only silvers and chinooks are landed in all three states.

Heretofore, the home life of the salmon in deep water has been kept pretty well secret.

"We know about salmon when they hit fresh-water streams. What happens then is obvious," Anderson said. "We want to know where they go as they streak through the salt sea. That's got

Embarrassing Moment
DENVER (UP)—The young man was more embarrassed than most traffic offenders when Judge Hubert D. Henry fined him $15 or careless driving and taking the right-of-way.

But he was even more redfaced when the judge offered to suspend $10 of the fine if George W. Ashford would attend the police traffic school.

"Uh, well I can't do that, Judge," Ashford stammered. "You see, I'm traffic instructor at North High School."

BEFORE TAKING RETONGA SHE COULD HARDLY EAT

"I Have a Hearty Appetite Now and Relish my Food," Declares Texan. Retonga Promptly Relieved Distress From Sour Stomach Restlessness, and Weakened Feeling.

"Suffering the tortures and distress I did for several years, it is no wonder that I am so grateful for Retonga and the grand relief it brought me," happily states Mrs. Fannie Wortham, life-long resident of Mount Calm and Hill County, Texas, who gratefully continues:

"My appetite was so poor I would go for weeks at a time without eating hardly a bite. Food seemed to turn sour and fill my stomach with gas until the distress was almost unbearable. Many times at night I would have to sit up in bed to get my breath. I lost weight and felt so worn-out I didn't seem to have enough strength to do my housework. It looked like I would have to take strong laxatives the rest of my life and aches and pains seemed to be in every muscle in my body.

"I am so grateful for the grand relief that Retonga brought to me. I have a hearty appetite now, no longer suffer distress from sour stomach, those awful aches and pains in my body have let up, and I no longer take strong laxatives. I know what a good night's sleep means and I feel like my real self again. No one can be more thankful for Retonga than I am and the grand relief it brought me. I am glad to recommend it to others suffering as I did."

The active ingredients of Retonga are purely herbal, combined with Vitamin B-1. Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, loss of appetite, borderline Vitamin B-1 deficiency, and constipation. If the first bottle fails to bring you relief, your money will be refunded. You can get Retonga at Oil City Pharmacy. (Adv.)

us baffled." Anderson said silvers and chinooks are caught from California, to Alaska, both commercially and by sportsmen.

"But merely catching the fish doesn't tell us anything. They may be headed for streams in any of those areas. That's what we want to know. Where they are headed while at sea."

Anderson said the commission will start by tagging silvers and chinooks caught by trawlers. "We'll send men out on boats," Anderson said. "They will remove a certain number of hooked fish carefully so as not to injure them. The fish will be tagged through the dorsal fin, then measured and released."

A comparatively small number—several thousand—of tagged fish should do the trick, Anderson said.

"Gallup takes only a few sample polls and usually can predict the outcome of elections. It should work with fish, he said. "We should be able to tell by this method where they go."

When tagged fish are caught, the fishermen will look at the discs and relay the information to the departments stating where they

How They Do It In Hawaii Gives New York New Ideas On Slimming

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Momikai, who comes from Lahaina, is showing New York how they trim down a waistline in Hawaii.

All you have to do is ami, uehe and kalakua.

All Hawaiian girls are adept at ami. That's what Momikai says and she adds it explains the slim waistlines and shapely legs of the hula dancers.

Uehe and kalakua help out too. So if you want to look like a wahini (girl) or kane (man) on the beach this summer, listen to Momikai's revelation of the secrets of her islands.

"Ami is really very simple," said Pearl of the Sea, which is what Momikai means. "It's the circular motion of the hips in the hula. It's supposed to represent the ceaseless rolling of the sea up on the shores of the islands. It's the basic hula step and we sometimes call it "around the island."

She flashed a little smile of white teeth and pinned a carnation into her black, glistening hair.

"Like this," she said. Her hips revolved in a fluid rhythm first clockwise and then counter-clockwise.

"See my waist!" she queried. "See how slender it is. This motion works off all the excess fat."

Momikai recommends grabbing two bedposts or standing in a doorway holding on to each side. Now move the hips to the left and around to the right and around and around. Try to keep the upper body still, leaving the rotation to the midsection.

But how about the legs, Momikai?

"Ah," she said, "the legs. That's where uehe comes in. You do it like this."

She parted her hula skirt and customers of the Hawaiian Room of the Lexington Hotel promptly crowded around. Momikai, who was flown from Honolulu by the management, apologized because her grass skirt was ersatz, instead of the traditional ti-leaves.

"Flat on your feet," she instructed, "now bend your knees slightly, like a quarter knee-bend. Then suddenly snap on to your toes. Straighten up and repeat. But all this time you must remember to keep your hips moving in ami. Done well its beautiful and practical."

Everybody watched Momikai's hips until they were pleasantly dizzy.

"Those two are all you need," she said, "to keep in shape—along ed that unless more grain is imported, thousands of birds will have to be killed.

"It is the same old trouble, dollars," said the National Homing Union of Pigeons. "Pigeons are low on the priority list and the treasury won't sanction more dollars for more grain."

The ration will be 2 1-2 pounds of grain per week per coot, barely enough to feed two pairs of birds, and coots generally hold 10 pairs.

Crusading Governor Starts Drive To Help Mentally Ill Of Nation

By John T. Withy
United Press Staff Correspondent
ST. PAUL, Minn. (UP)—Minnesota's crusading governor, Luther W. Youngdahl, has begun a campaign to cure what he considers one of the nation's greatest ills. Last year the Minnesota executive took national headlines with his campaign against the state's slot machine traffic. After a hard fight in the legislature, the tall, Tommy Thompson, 4, of New Britain, Conn., wears a sailor's uniform, but doesn't share the general feeling among seafaring men about women. He still thinks this is a man's world. The object of his disdain is 6-year-old Ruth Swanson of Brooklyn, N. Y. Ruth was sailing on the S. S. Gripsholm for Sweden, and Tommy was seeing some friends off.

gray-haired former justice of the state supreme court won passage of a bill which put the machines in hiding. He was acclaimed by anti-gambling forces as their new champion.

This year Youngdahl has emerged with a campaign to improve "deplorable conditions" in Minnesota's seven hospitals for the mentally ill. He started to build up public pressure for improvements. He hopes his efforts will be reflected in greater appropriations by the 1949 legislature.

The campaign may catch on nationally, as Youngdahl already has visited one Illinois hospital to investigate conditions and plans other trips to nearby states. In his lecture talks, here and elsewhere, Youngdahl is bringing in the mental hospital angle every time he can.

The governor is convinced that it isn't just a Minnesota problem. As he puts it, many states are falling down on their duty to the people who need mental treatment.

In Minnesota, Youngdahl got the ball rolling by making personal visits at five of the seven institutions. What he saw prompted him to take to the radio and press to blast the situation.

In one hospital, for instance, Youngdahl said he found cattle on nearby farms getting better treatment than mental patients. At another, he found chains being used as restraints. In a third, he discovered a 14 year old girl, a mental patient subject to tantrums, sleeping nude in a bed with no springs, her hands tied to the frame and only a single sheet to cover her in the cold room.

"These conditions prove to me," Youngdahl has said, "that America must take steps forward in its care of mental patients. This can be done only by spending more money for proper care."

At all hospitals, Youngdahl said he found a shortage of personnel, inadequate medical facilities, and need for greater treatment equipment. Workers were doing the best they could, he said, but could not do a job with what the state had to offer.

"Mental illness is three times more widespread than cancer," he said. "It is 15 times more widespread than tuberculosis. It will claim a member from one out of every five American families this year.

"Yet in many instances, because of public apathy, treatment is still in the dark ages. People still consider a mentally ill person as a 'nut', a criminal or a brute.

"With modern methods, treatment can be improved so that many will be cured completely and others can be discharged to normal lives."

"We in America will not fulfill our responsibility to these people until there is an awakening by the people. Our forgotten mental patients must be remembered."

Anzio Beachhead Where GI's Died Still Shows Tragic Scars Of War

Anzio, May 25 (UP)—The Germans killed 2,800 American soldiers here four years ago. Today is the anniversary of the end of the campaign.

Driving down to the beach at Anzio today from the rubble town of Cisterna, you see a few farm children wearing oversized caps. The houses along the gravel road are mostly ruins. Here and there small herds of sheep are grazing.

The red brick silos that dot the horizon have been out of action for years. The big shells of the

Arabs Capture Arab in Pictorial Fake

This is Arab make-believe warfare. The soldier at top left, about to be captured by the Arabs in the foreground, is really an Arab, too. He's dressed up like a Jewish Haganah fighter, strictly for the act. The Arabs then have the scene photographed, purporting to show them taking a Jewish prisoner. Actually, few prisoners have so far been taken by either side. (Photo by NEA-Acme staff correspondent Artin Kamegissian.)

Americans and Germans fired at each other for nearly four months left the silos full of holes two and three feet across.

Occasionally you see a high tension electric tower bent over like a hollyhock stem that a dog has run into. There are not many of them, though. There are no burn-out tanks are field pieces either.

no landing craft rusting in the shallows the way it is on Two Jima in the Pacific.

Most of the metal in this area was carried away after the war. The Italians need every scrap they can get.

Where the road from Cisterna comes to the beach and turns right toward Nettuno and Anzio, there is a plain marble shaft. It memorializes the army units that fought their way across the wide coastal plain to Cisterna, back on the Appian Way.

Up the road a few miles on a slight rise the bodies of the American dead lie buried under a field of white crosses.

The Germans wounded 11,000 Americans and captured 2,400 in the campaign between Jan. 22 and May 25, 1944. Many of the captured were paraded through the streets of Rome, which is only 27 miles northeast of here. The allies had regarded the landing as a short cut to taking Rome.

They didn't foresee that their forces would be stalled at about the same time in the south by a German refusal to withdraw from Cassino. When that happened, Anzio became an isolated struggle to keep a foothold far behind the main enemy defense line.

If you drive the Appian Way from Naples to Rome on a clear day, you see why the Americans chose Anzio for their short cut to Rome.

Much of the coastal plain from Naples to Rome is very narrow. In some places the distance from the beach to the Appennine Mountain range is not more than five or six miles. Some of it is marsh land that was drained once by the Fascists but was reflooded by the Nazis during the war. At Anzio the coastal plain is more than 25 miles wide and the footing is firm.

The towns of Nettuno and Anzio are surprisingly intact. That is because the allied troops didn't run into opposition on the beaches. They landed at 2 a. m. under cover of a naval bombardment and within 10 hours reached all major objectives. They were able to do so without demolishing the two small major resort towns, al-

Stamp Mix-Up Arouses Claremore

CLAREMORE, Okla. (UP)—There's nothing so riled as a stamp collector who thinks he's been wronged. Nothing, that is, unless it's a whole town full of folks ready to raise the roof.

On Nov. 4 the post office will issue a 3-cent stamp commemorating the birthday of Will Rogers, Claremore's most famous son. For a while it looked as though the first day sales (coveted by collectors), might be shared with Beverly Hills, but that matter was settled.

Then, after Claremore was named as the first-day sales site, a commercial stamp firm issued a "cachet" (envelope for philatelists) which depicted the Will Rogers memorial auditorium and coliseum as being in Claremore.

The hitch is, the coliseum is in Fort Worth, Texas. The state-built memorial museum for Rogers is located here.

Bob Love, head of the Claremore memorial, said he had written the firm and asked that they revise their cachet. He claimed he has had no response.

"They even asked me to send the pictures of our memorial in Claremore for the envelope a couple of months ago and I sent them," he added.

So the city is now fighting its second battle. Will is their boy and they want everything connected with the late humorist to be perfect.

"About like he was," a Claremore resident explained.

Buzzards Attack Living Animals

LAKE CHARLES, La. (UP)—Cattlemen in southwest Louisiana are warring on a ravenous flock of buzzards which have been passing up carcasses for living animals.

The buzzards have been attacking and killing all kinds of livestock, but mostly newly-born calves.

W. L. Caldwell, who lives near Lake Charles, reported the flying scavengers had killed 20 of his calves this year, and seven in one week.

John E. Jackson, Calcasieu Parish agent, has told farmers to set up poultry wire traps in their large pastures, using a carcass of a dead buzzard as a decoy.

He said one farmer near Baton Rouge, La., had trapped and killed 3,500 buzzards in one season by using this method.

In most cases, the cattlemen reported, a flock of about 300 buzzards would swoop down and attack a helpless newly-born calf.

As Agriculture Department Heads, Democrats Admit They Were Good

By Vincent Burke
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—If a Republican moves into the White House next January, the Department of Agriculture may need a new rewrite man.

The first Republican secretary of agriculture in 16 years might want a few department publications rewritten with a different slant.

Take for example, USDA document No. 2. Published last July, it contains the "biographies of persons in charge of federal agriculture work, 1836 to date."

Judging from the pamphlet, some of these officials had shortcomings; but that happened only during Republican administrations. Occasionally there were smart fellows running the department; almost without exception they were Democrats.

The greatest of all, it appears, was Henry A. Wallace.

Late in the 1880's the department got its first secretary of cabinet rank, J. Norman Colman. He was a Missouri Democrat and according to the pamphlet, "about the most competent head the department yet had."

The Republicans then put Bearded Jeremiah M. Rusk in charge (1889 - 1893). Rusk was an ex-tavern keeper, Civil War officer and Wisconsin governor. He did some good things. But he kicked out the women Colman had hired and gave their jobs to "his army colleagues, many of whom are said to have been senilely deficient. The old soldiers, thus, literally took over the department."

But J. Sterling Morton, a Nebraska Democrat, came along and "cleared out the old soldiers" and "saved $2,000,000 during his administration."

James Wilson of Iowa ran agriculture for the Republicans for the next 16 years. "He delighted to herald ever-advancing agricultural prosperity, but tended to ignore certain insidious factors which menaced this. His successors had to face these problems."

Wilson was succeeded by "an outstanding man, versatile, broad in knowledge and a gifted thinker."

This was David J. Houston of Missouri. You guessed it. Houston was a Democrat. A native of North Carolina, he "was probably the most distinguished man intellectually to head the department until the time of Henry A. Wallace."

The pamphlet notes that President Coolidge's agriculture secretary—William M. Jardine of Kansas—fought against price fixing of any kind.

Later came the New Deal and Wallace. "He (Wallace) created practically a new department of agriculture to carry research into action." He sought to help farmers "build economic democracy in agriculture."

"Wallace sought to make the entire department, old and new express itself continuously in terms of action which would best conserve the soil, feed the cities and build a farm civilization that would forever serve as the foundation of democracy."
