Cold but Honest Look at FDR Is Found in Hull's Memoirs

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Of all the people who knew Franklin D. Roosevelt and wrote books about him, Cordell Hull's new 1742 pages of "Memoirs"—written in collaboration with Washington correspondent Andy Berding—offer the most honest appraisal. Ray Moley, Al Smith, Jim Farley, Jack Garner and the others in their club fell out with Roosevelt. When they wrote their books it was to find FDR wrong and show how right the authors were. In the other corner, Fanny Perkins, Charlie Michelson, Henry Morgenthau and now perhaps the new Harry Hopkins Memoirs compiled by John Sherwood overglamorize "the boss."

Hull's sizeup is pretty cold. He strives for historical accuracy. Some of it is a bit tedious, but it is the record. The two men first met in 1918, when Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the Navy and Hull was in Congress. It was 10 years before they became closely associated.

It was a complete surprise to Hull when Roosevelt offered him the Secretaryship of State in January, 1932. Hull took a month to decide. "If I accept, I do not have in mind the mere carrying on of correspondence with foreign governments," Hull told the President. "In the 12 years he was in the cabinet, Hull was frequently criticized for his slowness, his deliberateness. Hull observes that most of the mistakes of the Roosevelt administration were due to haste and lack of deliberation—a point that the present administration might well pause in its hat."

Hull admits that he had "a few" emphatic differences with the President. They threshed them out bluntly, but in friendly spirit. "Sometimes he tended to commit us too far in his direct approaches to the heads of other governments, and to forget the diplomatic implications of his military decisions," Hull writes. He says the President was at his best in proclaiming to the world in dramatic form his great slogans, such as the Four Freedoms.

While the two men were in general agreement on foreign policies, Hull confesses he didn't go along on many of the domestic policies. Frequently he told the President he was going too fast and too far on his reforms. On such occasions Hull says Roosevelt listened, then changed the subject.

Hull called Roosevelt "Franklin" up to 1932, then always "Mr. President." But in 1942 when Hull was to propose a toast at a cabinet dinner, Roosevelt said, "Please try to address me as 'Commander-in-Chief, not as President.'"

HULL mentions that some of the ambassadors who were Roosevelt's close friends—Ballitt, Kennedy and Davies—used to write the President directly over the secretary's head. What apparently burned Hull worse was Roosevelt's habit of sending personal ambassadors—Hopkins, Wallace, Hurley, Harriman and others—to talk directly to the heads of foreign governments.

The practice of some of Roosevelt's kitchen cabinet intimates, Ickes and Morgenthau, attacking State Department personnel or policies is given as another disagreeable experience.

In the 1936 election Hull was undercut by the politicians. He had sent Roosevelt suggestions for foreign policy planks in the Democratic platform. They were ignored.

From 1938 to July, 1940, Roosevelt tried to persuade Hull to run for the presidency. The Roosevelt decided to run for a third term. Hull was against the third term and he was also against Roosevelt's efforts to have his secretary of state run for the vice presidency in 1940 and 1944.

"I believe the world is going straight to hell," Hull told Roosevelt when the presidency was first proposed in 1938, "and I think I can be of greater service in the State Department." He stuck to that.

'This Will Be All,' Joe Says, But Don't Bet Money on It

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

POMPTON LAKES, N. J.—(NEA)—Joe Louis sticks to the statement "Me and Mike (Jacobs) will both retire after this one. I will go to California, and he will go to Florida. But you may take that with a little salt and a little arsenic on the side. It is the opinion of those closest to the situation that Louis will be back at the old stand in September provided he comes through the second edition with Jersey Joe Walcott all right at Yankee Stadium June 23. The Great Father of Camden will have to knock the champion into retirement.

After all these years, the long-term Brown Bomber winds up as a salaried white collar worker for Joe Louis, Inc. Having proved that 51 per cent of his earnings comes from sources other than ring purses—Louis has it in writing from the internal revenue department that he is entitled to file a corporate income tax return. This reduces the assessment from 85 to 38 per cent, plus the individual return. The wonder is that John Roxborough didn't get around to this earlier.

It certainly gives Joe Louis, Inc. additional incentive to look smack dab through the returns with Walcott to even bigger business with Gus Lesnevich in September.

Louis will be through with the tougher part of the training sledge when he sidles through the hemp with Walcott. A date with Lesnevich in the fall would be little more than an additional chore.

LOUIS gets in the corporate class through pictures, radio, television, exhibitions, a soft drink and whatnot. He was starred in a movie, you know, and the surprising action in his first meeting with Walcott, Dec. 5, made the fight pictures yield him more than $250,000, or three times his end for the match.

Roxborough, the real boss, says he will not urge Louis to fight again if he doesn't want to. Asked if the man would be Lesnevich in the event Louis decided to go the post once more, Roxborough replied, "Who else?" And he smiled in blissful anticipation of more important money ahead.

"Joe keeps saying this will be his last," says co-manager Marshall Miles, who has been closest to the titleholder in more recent years. Asked if he believed it, Miles replied, "No. If you want my personal opinion it is that he will fight again."

As for Jacobs bowing out, you'd never suspect that, seeing the promoter personally dealing out 500 tickets in the Twentieth Century Sporting Club's bucks office at Madison Square Garden.

And what difference would there be between Uncle Mike retiring and doing what he is? The organization runs itself. He only drops in from his Rumson estate by way of giving himself something to do. Jacobs' health is vastly improved, and he isn't one to toss a highly profitable business out the window into Eighth Avenue.

And as a member of the idle rich, Mike Jacobs, a hustler since he was a kid, would dry up and blow away.

F. D. Glass Jr. No. 1 J. O. Gowan was put on pump. Some magnetic attraction within the structure seems to be hindering the pump test. Now they intend pulling the rods and installing a bronze ball and a steel seal instead of the all steel equipment which in one or two other instances has seemed disturbed by the phenomenal attraction underground. The grade of oil in this well is almost pure, however, there will note be sufficient gas to bring it to the surface, so it is necessary to overcome the head which the all steel equipment picks up within a matter of ours.
Snowden and Sadler No. 2 Albion drilling at 1530.
Snowden and Sadler No. 1 C. E. Watson acidized this morning (Friday) at about 9:00 o'clock. In the process of swabbing the afternoon the well blew out the swab and cleaned itself through the tubing. The gas pressure at approximately 1:00 o'clock was tremendous—Mr. Drennan estimated that it would be at the rate of 3 1/2 to 4 million cubic feet right at that time. But its was not expected to maintain such terrific pressure longer than an hour or two at the most. However, it is pretty certain that this well will have sufficient gas pressure to flow and it has a very high quality oil, and it looks like there will be plenty of it, even though, the activity has been such that no thought of any sort of a test is possible until this cleaning out is accomplished. There is at least a 29 foot streak of pay.

Truman Carries Campaign Into State of Idaho

Aboard Truman Train, June 7, (UP)—President Truman, touring the west aboard his special train. Carried his campaign into Idaho today, leaving behind a split in Nebraska Kansas delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

Shortly after the President's train left Omaha last night, William Ritchie, chairman of the Nebraska State Democratic Central Committee, announced he would not support Mr. Truman at the convention.

"After Mr. Truman's visit here Saturday, I am convinced he is not the man this year," Ritchie said.

Ritchie, an Omaha attorney and a delegate to the National Convention, said he would vote for some other candidate, "possibly a Jeffersonian Democrat."

Ritchie said he was speaking only for himself but he added, "I'm quite sure other members of the Nebraska delegation at the National Convention may see things my way."

The Nebraska delegation is not bound to vote as a unit. Ritchie indicated he bolted the Truman bandwagon because of the President's choice of advisers.

Benes Resigns; Opens Position To Communists

PRAGUE, June 7, (UP)—President Benes resigned today, clearing the way for the Communists to take over the last major office in Czechoslovakia which eluded them in their coup last February.

The resignation of Benes was announced officially toward the end of the day. Authoritative sources had reported earlier that, weary and broken in health, he had signed the document making formal his retirement from the Czech political picture when the Communists took over.

Informants said he had been unable to carry out his plans to resign Saturday. They reported that lately he had lapsed into long periods of unconsciousness, and was unable to move except in a wheelchair. He had been at his summer home at Seznam Usti south of Prague since the Communists coup.

The new Communist parliament, elected eight days ago in a single-ticket Communist balloting, will elect his successor.

Millions In Sunken Gold Await Treasure Seekers On Coast

WASHINGTON (UP)— There is gold in the sand. From Nantucket to Tristan da Cunha, from Cocos to Hispaniola, from Nova Scotia to Vigo Bay, treasure is to be found.
 "It is a matter of record," the National Geographic Society says, "that treasure worth countless millions lies in hundreds of sunken ships only a few fathoms down, all along the world's coasts."
 The recent discovery near Sandy Hook, N. J., of gold coins two centuries old may inspire "a mild rage of beachcombing" among vacationists this summer, the society said.
 It may also lead to "better-equipped salvage expeditions" and "could even produce a popular-price diving rod for shore cottagers' use."
 Forecasting that "the new look at coast resorts this summer will be the downward look," the society supplied a few tips for treasure hunters:
 1. The British frigate Hussar in 1780 sank in New York's East River 30 miles north of Sandy Hook after hitting a rock. It went down with $4,000,000—possibly much more—in pay for British Redcoats. The treasure has never been recovered.
 2. Also in 1780 the British frigate Lexington, carrying gold and silver bullion from Vera Cruz, Mexico, sank in the Hell Gate passage not far from the Hussar wreck down. The gold and silver are still there.
 3. In 1789 the warship De Brak sank in a storm a mile off Lewes, Del., with $15,000,000 worth of precious metals. Repeated salvage efforts have failed.
 4. In 1909 the British liner Republic foundered off Nantucket with $3,000,000 in American "gold eagles" and two years later the liner Merida went down off Cape Charles, Va., with $5,000,000 in coins, bullions and Mexican jewels.
 Those, however, were "small change" losses. In 1702 British and Dutch fleets sank 16 Spanish galleons in Vigo Bay, Spain. The totaled $150,000,000 worth of loot they were bring back from Caribbean raids. Only a small part has been recovered.
 Nearly as much treasure was lost in 1643 when a West Indian hurricane drove 16 Spanish ships on the shoals north of Hispaniola. A small part of their cargo of gold silver and jewels was salvaged.
 In 1715 another hurricane sank 14 Spanish ships and $65,000,000. Pirates, among them Black in treasure off Long Cay, Fla., beard and Captain Kidd, are supposed to have buried treasure in Nova Scotia, Cape Cod, Block Island, and Long Island.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

What age does a person have to be before he is considered "old"? Anyone is old who is 10 years older than you are.

When I was on the staff of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, the lady who was bookkeeper had a birthday. A girl who worked in the classified advertising department said, "So today is your birthday! I hope I'm as well preserved as you are when I'm 35!"

My mother's favorite story was about a woman who wouldn't tell her age. It was her boast that she had kept it a secret since she was 20. A man said, "But someday you'll accidentally reveal it." "No," the woman replied, "when a woman has kept a secret for 18 years she'll never reveal it."

And my mother used to tell about a farmwife up in the hills of Arkansas. Every fall at harvest time, the men took turns helping each other with their crops. And when they came to this particular farm, just as they sat down for dinner (the noon meal, of course), before they'd had time to take a single bite, the farmwife said, "Well, I believe we'll have enough left for supper!"

Food Keeps O. K. In Opened Cans

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (UP)—It is not necessary to transfer food from an opened can to a dish before storing it in the refrigerator, scientists of the General Electric research laboratory point out.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture says:
 "It is just as safe to keep canned food in the can it comes in—if the can is cool and covered—as it is to empty the food into another container. . . . A few acid foods may dissolve a little iron from the can, but that is not harmful, not dangerous to health. "Cans and foods are sterilized in the processing, but the dish into which the food is emptied is from for sterile. In other words it is likely to have on it bacteria that cause food to spoil."

Miss Carroll, Mr. Cunningham Married Sat.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Carroll of Ranger announced the marriage of their daughter, Barbara Jean, to James M. Cunningham, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cunningham, also of Ranger.

The single ring ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening, June 5, in the home of the brides parents with Rev. Claude C. Smith of the Church of Christ in Eastland officiating. The bride wore a blue dress with white accessories and carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid. Lavern Ball, maid of honor, wore gray with white accessories. Donnie Carroll, brother of the bride, attended the groom as best man.

At the reception held after the ceremony the table was decorated with pink crystal candle holders and a pink crystal bowl filled with daisies. The four-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. The table was covered with a white linen cloth. The bride is a graduate of Ranger High School. We know his soul is comforted, know that he is returned to his beloved home and rests among friends. These kindnesses and words of sympathy will live in our hearts.

Reports of Indians Leaving Reservations

BOSTON (UP)—The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel Among the Indians and others in north America, the oldest missionary society of American origin, has just held its 161st annual meeting.

Its field secretary, the Rev. G. E. E. Lindquist, told the 50-member society he had visited 23 Indian tribes in 24 states and had addressed nearly 9,000 persons in 176 appearances.

He said Indians were leaving their reservations to work in cities at jobs they learned during World War II.

The society was organized in 1787 and held its first meeting on Dec. 7 that year at the old State House. Judge Oliver Wendell was the first president and his grandson, Oliver Wendell Holmes, late Supreme Court Chief Justice, was later a society member.
