

Local bankruptcy case could set precedent

A second-generation farm family in Castro County has received relief under the Chapter 12 bankruptcy laws in a precedent-setting case in Texas' northern district.

The case is unique in that the parties couldn't reach an agreement before going before Bankruptcy Judge John Akard. Instead, Akard had to make the final decisions to settle interest rates in the case between the family and both the Federal Land Bank of Texas and Farmers Home Administration, a first in the Northern District of Texas in the short history of Chapter 12.

Chapter 12 is a short-term program that is designed to be less expensive than Chapter 12 and is written expressly for debt-riddled farmers who want to remain in business. Typically, Chapter 12 allows for scaling down debt and re-writing loans.

"Chapter 12 is a workout situation," Akard said in his opinion. "It was designed . . . to give a person longer time and lower payments to pay their bills and a way to work out of their financial difficulties. It requires some giving on the part of all parties, certainly the debtor who commits to a long term plan of payment and court control. And it requires some giving on the part of creditors in order to be paid rather than either getting property back or not getting anything at all."

In this case, FmHA debts were reduced from $814,000 to $120,000, while three notes totaling $136,500 owed to Westex Federal Land Bank were not reduced, but the interest rate sought by FLB was lowered in an apparent compromise struck by Akard between interest rates sought by FLB and Lubbock attorney Bruce Magness.

FLB was seeking 10.25% interest, while Magness was seeking 8.5% interest on the FLB loans. Akard's order provides for the FLB repayment to be at 9.5% interest, a rate that Senior FLB Attorney Stephen Sakonchick II said would cost FLB money on bond funds it acquires for making loans.

Akard's opinion was that the 9.5% interest "based on the testimony . . . is reasonable under the circumstances."

Sakonchick told the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal Monday that he will contend on appeal that 9.5% interest prevents FLB from receiving the value of its interest, but also conceded that market interest rates could fall below 9.5% during the 30-year life of the loan.

Magness told the News last week that FLB was advertising loans at a lower rate at the time of the May 29 hearing, but Westex said that was a short-term offering because "it had gotten a good deal on the money market, and that the advertised rates couldn't be made to apply to earlier loans," Magness said.

Aldermen approve short-term budget

Dimmitt's City Board of Aldermen approved a $693,343 interim, five-month budget at their meeting Monday at the City Hall meeting room.

The short-term budget was necessary because of the city's earlier decision to switch its fiscal year from a May 1 starting date to Oct. 1. Earlier, the aldermen had decided to simply extend the 1986-87 fiscal year, but were unable to because of limitations in the city's computer software.

The five-month budget is $35,037 higher than for the same five months last year, according to City Manager Reeford Burrous. The increase comes from the purchase of two new police cars, approved Monday by the aldermen; an increase in mosquito spraying and higher insecticide costs; the need for a new pit at the city landfill; and some slight increases in the parks and recreation and administration budgets.

The budget shows decreases in the governmental, city hall, shop and warehouse, and street and alley departments.

Revenues will also be lower over the next five months. Last year, the city received an $80,000, lump-sum payment from Cabot Corp. The money came from a settlement on franchise taxes owed to the city. Overall, however, the city should have an $89,708 surplus in the general fund.

"There are no salary increases included in this budget," Burrous said, "but I think we need to look at that in October. Our people are all doing good work, and I think we need to seriously consider supplementing those salaries later. But we should do that when we look at our 12-month budget in October instead of our five-month budget now."

Burrous said the city as begun a five-days-a-week spraying program for mosquito control, including larvacide applications in lakes around the city to try to control mosquito populations.

Alderman Don Sheffy asked why the city was no longer using aerial spraying, and was told by Burrous the spraying cost about $5,000 per flight, "and if it rains within two or three days of the spraying you end up wasting $5,000. The aerial spraying has a psychological effect on everyone because they know you're out there spraying."

Burrous also encouraged residents to keep lawns and alleys well-mowed and to apply diesel to open puddles to kill mosquito larvae.

The city will examine costs of extending a water line from SW Twelfth along Butler Blvd. to the Ruskin Circle-Sunset Circle areas, where residents have complained about low water pressure.

"The only way to get water pressure out there is to complete the loop," said Burrous. Currently, the water line comes to a dead end at the east end of the Ruskin Circle development. "Plus, I feel that any building in Dimmitt would be in that territory. We have to look at future growth, and this is the best way to meet future demand."

"I've been told that if you get in the shower and your neighbor turns on his water sprinkler, you have to hunt a towel because you don't have enough water to rinse the suds off your face," said Alderman Jack Thompson. "People deserve the right to have enough water. I don't see how they've held on and kept from attacking us for this long."

Burrous will meet with City Engineer Bill McMorris to draw up plans for the line.

Burrous also said street seal coating will begin next week.

Magical experiences with nature can happen to you when you least expect them—out in a field, in a flower bed, under a tree. The best ones seem to happen around water, when there's only you and the universe.

Jody Minnick and a friend had such an experience Friday night.

When he took his vacation (something accountants tend to do on a regular basis), Jody went back to God's country, where he was raised.

Here's what happened, in Jody's own words:

"Bobby Jack Russell and I, we had fished together since 1954 when we were in college in Tarleton, we went down last Friday night on the North Llano River between Sonora and Junction.

"It was storming pretty bad but we went ahead and went fishing. We got our bait, put out our bait traps, and anchored the boat out in the river.

"About 2 o'clock in the morning the thunderstorms all cleared away, and it got real still and quiet. The full moon came out real bright, and the stars were real clear.

"Then the mist started rising up off the river, and it got about shoulder high to us, with just our heads sticking out of it. There we were in the boat, with the mist so thick that we couldn't see the river, and nothing but the full moon and clear sky above us. You could just sorta see the bank on both sides.

"Then, while we sat there, all the night life started coming out. The whippoorwills started, then the mockingbirds started singing, the owls and bats started flying around, and a deer came out and waded in the river. They didn't pay any attention to us.

"We heard all this noise, and it was the coons; they were down by the shoals. We shined our lights down there and we could just barely see their eyes in that fog. We thought they were just having a good time, but the next morning we found out they had run our bait traps for us, and had got our minnows out.

"What was strange about it was that that river fog, as it rose up, it looked like something out of a swamp movie or something. It was just level, and we were sitting there in the boat looking out over it.

"We couldn't see the water out there. We'd cast our bait, and if we heard it hit water we knew it wasn't out on the bank or in the weeds.

"I asked B. J. what time it was and he said it was 4 o'clock. We decided we might as well stay up the rest of the night, since it wasn't long until daylight. That was the first time we had stayed up all night fishing together in about 10 years.

"It lasted until about 7 or 8 o'clock in the morning when we went to eat breakfast.

"There didn't anything bite during that fog. But it didn't matter."

Follies sign-up to begin

July 1 is the deadline for anyone who wishes to perform in the Follies production during Harvest Days this year.

The performances will be Aug. 29 and 30 and most rehearsals are scheduled to begin July 6, depending on the act.

People interested should call the Chamber office at 647-2524 to sign up and choose the area they are interested in—singing, dancing, skits, props, sets, technical help, make-up, back-stage mothers and more.

Einar, Wests enjoy AFS year

By ANNE ACKER

"Einar has been like another son to us. He fits in like he has always been here," said Nancy West, American mother of Einar Sigurdsson, Dimmitt's AFS student this year.

"I am going to miss my American family a lot," Einar said. "It has been especially nice having a brother my own age. I have an older brother, Eysteinn and two older sisters, Hera and Kristin at home in Reykjavik, but it has really been nice having someone my own age around."

Einar's American brother, Mark West agreed. "It has been great having a brother around my own age. We studied a lot together and did a lot of things together. Before Einar arrived, I was nervous—I

Dear Friends,
I want to thank each and everyone of you for all you have done to make this year so dear to me. It didn't take me long to be counted as one of you, as a matter of fact, it took only a few days.

Everyone is so friendly here, but that is only one of the reasons I liked it so much.

The school spirit was one thing that fascinated me. I will never forget the football games, pep rallies and the basketball games. I was very lucky to be part of the basketball team and track team.

Never will I forget my American family, C.D., Nancy and Mark West, for all the wonderful times that we shared. I was indeed a son and brother in that home. I'll love you forever.

My friends, Scott, Scott and Rick—for all the fun moments, your friendships I'll always hold dear. My teachers—who never gave up on me, and the civic groups that I spoke to—thanks for letting me share my country, Iceland.

Thank you all again for making this year so special. You are all welcome to visit me in the land of Fire and Ice.

With Love,
Einar Sigurdsson

was afraid he wouldn't like it here or we wouldn't get along but we did."

Mark's fears were groundless, because the minute Einar stepped off of the plane, the bonding was instant. "When Einar stepped off of the plane, Mark turned to me and said 'Alright'. They liked each other instantly and so did everyone else in the family," said Nancy.

"He was really unsure of himself and afraid of our language at first, but I have enjoyed watching him grow and mature during the year he has been here," Nancy said.

"I never heard Mark and Einar fight or argue—I'm not saying they didn't have their little disagreements, they just never let them get serious," Nancy said.

Einar got along well with everyone in his American family and they did everything together. "I get along great with C.D. (West), my American dad. We joke around and tease each other a lot. My father in Iceland is very quiet."

Reykjavik, Einar's home in Iceland, is a large city of 90,000 people just below the Arctic Circle in the Atlantic Ocean. "I like living in a smaller town," Einar said. "Everyone knows everyone else."

Einar has been busy during his year in Dimmitt, competing in sports, speaking to civic clubs, meeting new friends and keeping up with his schoolwork.

"I really enjoyed sports. I played basketball and ran track. I really enjoyed the football games and cheerleaders—that was a different experience for me. Graduation was really special to me. We have a ceremony in Iceland but it is nothing like here."

Einar was involved in the Key Club, Interact, Spanish Club, Student Council and was a member of the United Methodist Youth and the First United Methodist Church.

"I love the school here. I know just about everybody," Einar said. "The schools here are not much different from Iceland—the classes at home are bigger, but the subjects are all about the same."

The American food Einar has experienced here is no different from food he has at home, but he misses seafood. "In Iceland we would eat seafood every other day—sometimes more often. I miss that. My favorite new food that I have tasted is the Spanish fajita. I like Mexican food."

"I really enjoyed Draggin' Main," Einar said. "We have something like it in Iceland, but it's a lot different here. I really enjoyed it."

The Icelander also said he really enjoys the Texas weather. "In Iceland the high temperature in the summer is 60 degrees—I like the warmer temperatures better."

Einar's experiences in the United States haven't been restricted to Dimmitt or even Texas. He traveled with the West family to Ohio over the Christmas holidays to visit Nancy's brother. "I really enjoyed the scenery on the way to Ohio. There were lots of rolling hills and trees—a lot different from the scenery here," said Einar.

"I also enjoyed my trip to Padre Island with my American brother, Mark, and my two friends, Scott Hill and Scott Morris. They were really special friends to me. I played basketball with Scott Hill and we got along great."

Einar attended an AFS meeting in San Antonio in April and met with other AFS students from Houston, Dallas and other cities. "I told them about my good times with my American family and none of them could top them. We all agreed that I had the best placement of the group," Einar said.

Einar will be leaving Dimmitt to return home to his family in Iceland around next Thursday and he will be missed by everyone who knew him, especially his American family.

"The year has gone by fast," Nancy said. "We haven't really discussed Einar's leaving yet. We are really going to miss him a lot. Before he arrived here his mother called me and cried and cried because she was missing him already. Now I know what she felt like."

"We were very fortunate having Einar here with us. We didn't have any major problems. We are extremely proud of him and his parents can be, too," Nancy said.

Fay thought she might have to get a boat, but with the help of all her relatives, she finally made it to the granddaughter's graduation services.

I went with Wanda Murdock to Morton Friday. She worked and I visited with E.D. and Grace Morgan who are members of the Texas Baptist Men's Camp Building Ministry. They were building a new church for the Trinity Baptist Church in Morton. Over a dozen recreational vehicles were parked beside the church project as the members of the volunteer organization donate their time to build this new church. New Trinity Baptist Church is a small congregation of about 50 members. Their pastor, Lou Balenton, lives in Plainview and he and his wife Eva drive to Morton on Sundays and Wednesdays.

The Building Group travel in recreational vehicles and park them when they are building a church. In the small world department: Wanda and I ate lunch with the workers and their wives and the members of the Trinity Church prepared the meal. A quartet sang several selections and the pastors wife, Eva, sang "Just a Closer Walk With Thee."

Eva works for Southwestern Public Service in Plainview and her husband, the pastor, is a post office

Cancer Society plans 'A Night in Sante Fe'

An art show presented by Wendell Clark of Sagebrush Galleries in Amarillo and a fajita supper planned by Pat Bagley, Dorothy elder and Barbara Bail will highlight the American Cancer Society's "A Night in Santa Fe," set for Saturday, June 27, in the home of Stanley and Geneva Schaeffer, 116 W. Andrews.

Tickets for the event will be $25 and can be bought from Kathy Welch, Geneva Schaeffer, Val Davis or any of the American Cancer Society Board of Directors. Proceeds from the night will go to benefit the local unit of the American Cancer Society.

The fajita supper will be prepared by Kent Carpenter and Scott Bagley.

The art show will feature five well-known artists including Carl Smith of Canyon, Edward Herbes of Arlington, Va., Pat Krahn, Kathryn Williams of Clovis and G. Harvey.

An original Carl Smith painting will be auctioned off by Jack Howell that night. Door prizes will include a G. Harvey framed lithograph titled "Morning Rain," (a $750 value) and a boxed beef from Bar G Feedyard.

Smith employs a masterful technique that captures the moods and emotions as well as the visual impact of an era many consider the most colorful in our country's history. The unique combination of imagination and authenticity that characterizes a Smith painting are a tribute to his skill and dedication and his empathy with the early-day settlers of the southwest who are the predominant subjects of his works.

Herbes displays relentless attention to the quality of materials and techniques of application. He began to paint professionally in 1966 in Arlington, Va., after a refreshing review of the Flemish techniques with Rovert White and other dedicated artists in the area. He has had 13 successful one-man shows; three in the greater Washington area, five in San Antonio, three in Houston and two in Rockport.

Williams is a realist painter of characteristic adobe dwellings of New Mexico. She paints in oil or acrylic on canvas or panel. She thoroughly researches each structural landmark, she says that "I then know what I'm painting, and the act of painting it becomes more meaningful. I am careful to present it correctly, accurately, because that is my purpose—to record it against the day when it may no longer be there."

Krahn, a representational painter in oil, pastel and watercolor of "subjects of nature", paints with an unerring eye for detail. She blocks out her oil paintings in charcoal in great detail including tonal value which results in drawings so complete that they can be exhibited as finished work. She has had twenty, one-person shows and is a member of the Pastel Society of America. Her work is represented in Amarillo at the Sagebrush Galleries.

Other events scheduled include a dance with music by the South 40 and a pinata scramble.

Pohlmeier is honored

Kalina Pohlmeier, daughter of Walt and Lucy Pohlmeier of Nazareth recently participated in Duke University's seventh annual search for mathematically and verbally brilliant students and was honored at ceremonies held at Baylor University and Trinity University on June 4 and 5.

All students invited to the ceremonies had earned scores on at least one section of the Scholastic Aptitude Tests (SAT) equal to or greater than the scores obtained by 50% of college-bound high school seniors. All students participating were seventh graders or 12-year-olds and each took the college entrance test as participants in Duke University's Talent Identification Program.

"TIP was established in 1980 to identify bright young students, to help develop their special abilities and to direct them toward special academic programs for the gifted and talented. The 1987 TIP Talent Search involved more than 41,000 students and covered 16 southern, southwestern and midwestern states. It is one of four university-based talent searches which together cover the US," said Dr. Robert Sawyer, director of the program.

The 1,675 students invited to the Texas ceremonies had scored at least 450 out of 800 points on the mathematics portion of the SAT (500 for boys) or 430 out of 800 points on the verbal portion or 52 out of 60 on the test of standard written English. All participants received certificates of distinction in recognition of their achievement; the highest scorers also received scholarships and books.

Pohlmeier is a student at Nazareth Junior High School.

Sister Corinne Lange celebrates golden jubilee

Sister Corinne Lange was honored with a reception celebrating her golden jubilee as a Benedictine nun Saturday afternoon.

The daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Lange, Sister Corinne was born Veronica Cecilia in Nazareth and made her vows at St. Scholastica's Academy in Fort Smith, Ark., June 24, 1937.

She repeated her vows Sunday afternoon in a special Mass in Holy Family Catholic Church.

A reception and dinner hosted by her family was held in the Nazareth Legion Hall after the Mass.

A three-tiered anniversary cake decorated with golden yellow roses and golden leaves centered the serving table. Iridescent doves and grape clusters decorated each layer of the cake and an ivory and gold rosary was draped around the pillars separating the layers. Mints in pastel shades of blue, pink, yellow and green along with nuts and punch were also served from the table.

The registry table held a hurricane lamp with a Precious Moments figure of a nurse attending to a sick child.

Silk floral arrangements of spring flowers decorated the tables.

Sister Corinne received her nursing certificate from St. Joseph's Hospital in Bonneville, Mo., on March 19, 1945. She passed her state board exam in Jefferson, Mo., in October, 1945, and was certified as a registered nurse. She served at hospital's in Missouri and Arkansas and has spent most of her nursing career as an obstetrics nurse at Conway County Hospital in Morrilton, Ark. She is now employed with St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo.

ASCS News

ACREAGE REPORTS

July 15 is the final date to certify your spring-seeded crops and ACR. Each crop and your ACR need to be measured and reported separately. Measurement service is available to interested producers at a cost of $20 per farm plus two cents for all acreage above 25 acres. We would encourage you to consider this service if you have any doubts about your acreage.

CONSERVATION RESERVE PROGRAM (CRP)

The next sign-up under the Conservation Reserve Program will be July 20 through July 31, 1987. Interested producers may volunteer highly erodible cropland for entry into the CRP. At the time of sign-up you must submit a bid, and land that is accepted into the program will be taken out of production under a 10-year contract and must be planted to a permanent vegetative cover.

FAILED

CROP ACREAGE

It is important that you file a Form ASCS-574 prior to the destruction of any program crop that has failed due to a natural disaster. You must remember that a crop must be planted and cared for in a normal farming manner to be eligible for deficiency payments, and the crop failure must be due to a natural disaster and beyond your control.

Spot checks will be made to assure compliance.

1986 DISASTER PAYMENT PROGRAM CHANGE

We have received a notice to the effect that 1986 disaster payment applications previously approved for 73.9% will be paid at 100%. The additional payment will be made with CCC-6's and you will not need to re-apply.

Eligible producers of upland cotton may receive disaster payments for losses of 1986 production because of quality. New applications will be accepted only for losses because of quality.

Production evidence showing quality, staple length and micronaire must be submitted on or before June 26, 1987.

The 1985 acreage limitation that was imposed on sugarbeets has been removed.

0/92 PROVISIONS

If you are interested in the 0/92 provisions for wheat or other program crops you must sign up no later than July 15. This program will apply to participating farms that have less than 50% of their permitted acreage planted to that particular program crop, and additional CU is designated and ACR requirements are met. Please check with us if you are interested and we will explain it in more detail.

While in Washington, WIFE members called upon their congressional delegations and government agency officials and hosted an issues breakfast for members of the House and Senate Agriculture Committees at the Cannon House Office Building.

Rep. Kika de la Garza, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, gave the opening remarks at the breakfast, while national WIFE President Naioma Benson of Sterling, Colo., also addressed the group.

"If we allow the family farm to be destroyed and continue to import more wheat, grain and vegetables, it will eventually kill the American farm economy," Benson said. "We feel very strongly that the economy of the US is dependent on a healthy agricultural economy."

Earlier in the week, the group heard speakers on world trade issues, secondary markets for farm mortgages, the Farm Women's Law Project, farm credit issues, the 1985 Food and Security Act and other current issues.

WIFE also voted to file suit against the USDA because of alleged discrimination against married couples engaged in farming.

According to Catherine Scherler, WIFE national publicity chairwoman, two unmarried individuals are each eligible for a $50,000 farm program payment while a married couple is eligible for only one $50,000 payment.

"Current USDA policies fail to recognize that most farm women make substantial contributions of capital, labor and management to their farm operations," Benson said. "Yet, as soon as these women marry, they are no longer recognized as equal partners for purposes of farm program payments."

Scherler said WIFE members have repeatedly asked USDA officials to change the regulation, but have never received a positive response to their complaints.

GSPA calls for release of deficiency payments

Final deficiency payments on 1986 grain crops should be paid now, not next October, according to the National Grain Sorghum Producers Association. The NGSPA has requested that payments be based on the first five months of the marketing year and paid promptly.

"There is no justification for making grain producers wait more than a year after their crops have been harvested before they receive a large part of their income," said Elbert Harp, executive director of NGSPA, in letters to the US Senate and House of Representatives.

"Farmers made financial arrangements for producing the 1986 crop more than a year ago," Harp said. "They borrowed money, planning to repay it with the deficiency payments. Withholding a part of that payment has increased the farmers' debt load, lengthened their interest payments and added to their losses."

A bill to speed the final 1986 feed grains deficiency payments came out of the House Agriculture Committee last week. A similar measure has been proposed, with out success, in the Senate. Senate opposition comes from the fact that the payments, if paid now, would have to come from the 1987 budget rather than 1988. USDA has not announced the form of the final payments, but a large proportion is expected to be in generic certificates.

The remaining deficiency payment is the difference between the basic loan provided in the Agricultural Act of 1985 and the adjusted loan set by the Secretary of Agriculture for the 1986 crop. In 1986, the basic loan for sorghum and corn was $2.28 and $2.40 per bushel, respectively. The adjusted loan is $1.82 per bushel for sorghum and $1.92 per bushel for corn.

"The amount due producers—and being withheld—is 16% of the target price," Harp said. "In most cases, the target price is a farmer's gross income. When profit margins are only 2% or 3% (or less), as they are for most feed grain producers now, that 16% payment is very important."

Tax rebates stay softer

Sales tax rebates in Dimmitt remain about 26% lower for 1987, according to figures released Thursday by State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

The June check in Dimmitt, representing taxes collected on sales made in April and reported to the Comptroller by May 20, is for $10,128.43, down from last year's $13,258.34. For the year, Dimmitt has received $73,147, while 1986's six-month total was $98,493, or a 25.73% decrease.

Cotton

The cotton growing season is off to a poor start as cool, rainy and sometimes stormy weather has plagued the crop for several weeks.

Hail, seedling disease and wet weather blight have taken their toll and replanted fields are common. Seedling diseases attack the root system below the soil surface. High vigor seed and aerating the soil with a rotary hoe are good management practices to reduce losses.

Different seed treatments and in-furrow fungicide treatment are being evaluated in Extension field tests this year. Hopefully, these fungicide treatments will provide relief from the annual problem of seedling disease at an economical cost.

The above ground part of the cotton plant has been attacked by ascochyta or wet weather blight. This fungus causes grey to brown spots to fall out of the leaves, and when severe, can cause the leaves to drop off.

Thrips are abundant and cotton fields should be monitored for thrips damage. Fields treated with in-furrow insecticides have little thrips injury. Fields where seed treatments were used should be watched closely for thrips as these applications usually provide control for about three weeks after planting.

The high number of thrips this year was evident in the evaluation of the thrips control test June 5 at the Bob Phipps' farm. Untreated plots averaged 10 thrips per plant and the first true leaves were severely deformed. Plots treated had less than 1 thrips per plant, and the true leaf was readily visible and undamaged. Based upon previous years tests, the untreated plants have already suffered yield loss which cannot be regained.

Corn

Untilled stubble fields, the overwintering home of the southwestern corn borer, are very common this year, suggesting corn borer infestations will be widespread in late July and August. Corn borer moths began emerging from untilled stubble about May 23 and peak flight probably occurred last week. These moths are now laying first generation eggs in corn. However, these infestations in June rarely justify treatment. Exceptions are fields immediately adjacent to untilled stubble fields containing large numbers of overwintering borers.

Research has shown first generation corn borers feeding on whorl stage corn can reduce yields by 20% as a result of stalk tunneling. Economic thresholds for southwestern corn borers have not been determined. However, an economic return may be gained when 15 to 20% of plants are infested with southwestern corn borers in whorl stage corn, depending upon the price of corn and the cost of control. Smaller plants will likely suffer more injury from tunneling than larger plants. To be effective, insecticides must be applied before borers move from the whorl and tunnel into the stalk.

Pheromone-baited traps are being used to monitor southwestern corn borer moth activity at 15 locations from Easter to Earth. The small yellow and white "bucket trap" used this year costs about $10, is very easy to use, and should last several years. Lures cost about $1 per trapping week. Thus, it is relatively easy and inexpensive to monitor moth flights by counting the number of captured corn borer moths two to three times per week. The detection of moth flights can indicate when field scouting is necessary to determine egg densities. Trap monitoring cannot be used to determine the need to treat a field as the relationship between the number of captured corn borer moths and egg density in the field is unknown. Treatment decisions must still be based upon infestation levels of borer eggs and small larvae as determined by field scouting.

If you are interested in monitoring southwestern corn borers on your farm, call me at 647-4115 for information on where to purchase traps and lures and trapping instructions.

Armyworms

Prospects for the wheat crop are increasingly dismal. First, there was the freeze, then Russian wheat aphid and recently, severe hail storms. Leaf rust has exploded in many fields during the last three weeks of rainy, cool weather, and as if that was not enough, armyworms are also taking a bite.

True armyworms are unusually abundant in many wheat fields. Larvae, ranging from 1/2 to over an inch in length are smooth and pale green to brown and black. There are several longitudinal stripes on the body, including two broad orange stripes on the side and three white lines on the first segment behind the head. An inverted Y can be seen dividing the head which has a honeycomb or net-like pattern.

In wheat, armyworms first consume the leaves and then move into the head where they chew off the awns and gnaw on the kernels. In some cases, they clip off the entire head by chewing through the stem.

As wheat begins to dry, armyworms may move out of wheat to feed on adjacent crops. This was observed at several locations this week as armyworms moved from wheat into corn. Tall, lush growing wheat is most attractive to egg laying by armyworm moths. These fields are now likely to have the most armyworm larvae and small corn and grain sorghum near these fields should be watched closely.

Armyworm larvae reach a length of about 1 1/2 inches and large larvae can consume a great deal of foliage in a short time. Parathion applied to field margins is effective in protecting adjacent crops from armyworm migration. Armyworms complete two to three generations per year and the large numbers of larvae now in wheat will mature into night-flying moths in July, especially if conditions remain cool and wet. Corn with grassy weeds or hail damage are especially attractive to egg laying armyworm moths.
