Supporters Still Bent On Eisenhower Draft

Well...
I Dunno,
But...

From what we read in the papers, what we get in the mail and hear over the radio, the hottest race in Texas is that for U. S. Senator.

It's about the only one in which any vindictives have been cast, with Lyndon Johnson getting himself labeled as "Johnny-Come-Lately" Johnson with a few pointed digs about his whirling windmill.

We can't say for sure what the effect of the whirling windmill will have, but we do recall a band wagon and a "Pappy pass the biscuit" slogan that elected a governor of Texas and a United States Senator.

Then there's the Coke Stevenson that's being dug about his pipe smoking habits, his tax reduction stand and his endorsement by the labor leaders.

We don't see anything wrong with puffing on a pipe, in fact, we've seen some pretty reflective men that had that habit and while unconsciously taking a deep draw of the pipe thought up some pretty good ideas. Stevenson helped pull Texas out of the red and he can't help it if Labor got mad at Johnson and endorsed him.

Then there's the grapevine report that George Peddy ran on the Republican ticket in 1922 and got 140,000 write-in votes. His denial of the fact is to the effect that he was endorsed by the Republicans because he was fighting the Klu Klux Klan and Earle Mayfield who was the KKK candidate in that election.

Well, why bring up the Klan. It caused enough trouble when it was active and besides that we've got another Un-American threat that's more real than the Klan and that's Communism.

And so far there hasn't been much of an issue made of that in this campaign.

One of the prettiest sights we've seen this summer is the zinnia garden belonging to Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Perrin in Cooper addition.

The garden which is at least 25 by 35 feet is a solid mass of colorful zinnias, in varied sizes and colors. Some of 'em have reached the "huge" stage while others are the baby type.

Our reward for visiting the garden was an arm load of the flowers.

Mrs. Perrin was showing us about the garden, when up walks Mr. Perrin who says, "Now she doesn't get all of the credit for this," and with that launched into his own version of the garden. We imagine it's a partnership deal though.

One of the secrets of the beauty of the flowers, they think, is the fact that they save their seeds from a selected lot of flowers from the garden each fall. They got their start with one package of seed three years ago and haven't bought any since.

Boosters for Ranger's American Legion and Leveille Motor Company sponsored Junior Baseball team, are a little grouchy about the lack of support given the team in their games here. And we can't blame them.

Their brand of baseball is developing into the hard hitting fast traveling type and boosters wish that Ranger would lend a little more moral support to the boys.

Like we've said before, the effort is of nationwide scope and has as its objective wholesome recreation for the junior boys of America. You can have a hand in keeping this move going by making it a point to attend the games, at least the games that are played in Ranger.

Way Found To Save Abscessed Teeth

NEW YORK (UP)—Abscessed teeth can be saved now through new oral surgery techniques, Dr. E. Alan Lieban told the American Academy of Dental Medicine. The operation is painless, he said.

Under the process, drugs are introduced into the underlying tissue by electric current, sterilizing the infected area. The root canal which previously had been cleaned, then is filled with silver wire or gutta percha.

Thus sterilized and filled, the tooth and its root may be preserved for added years of useful service, Dr. Lieban said.

U. S. Hands Protest To Russia

Soviet Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin leaves the office of Secretary of State George Marshall after having been handed a U.S. note protesting the Russian blockade of Western Berlin. Although Panyushkin told reporters he did not know what the note contained, it was learned from other sources that it did concern the Russian blockade. — (NEA Telephoto).

Tito Rebuffed By Kremlin's Emphatic "No"

LONDON, July 7 (UP)—Marshal Tito's campaign to woo the Kremlin while continuing to denounce the Cominform in the bitter terms appeared today to have failed.

Tito, head of the Yugoslav Communist Party, has been rebuffed by the Soviet Union's Communist Party, of which Premier Josef Stalin is the head.

The Yugoslav Communist Party's Fifth Congress is scheduled for July 21 in Belgrade. After the Cominform's excommunication of Yugoslavia and Tito, the Yugoslavs sent invitations to all Communist parties of Eastern Europe to attend the Congress.

An emphatic no was issued by the Kremlin last night. The Moscow radio announced that the central committee of the Soviet Communist Party rejected the invitation because of Yugoslavia's refusal to attend the recent Cominform meeting which "thus placed the Yugoslav Communist Party outside the family of Communist parties."

Other Eastern European parties were expected to follow in the footsteps of the Kremlin.

Students Ignore The Spirit of Confederacy

LEXINGTON, Va. (UP)—The highly cosmopolitan student body of Washington and Lee University descended upon a state liquor store on Jefferson Davis's birthday. To their annoyance the store was closed.

On the door was a tiny Confederate flag and a sign: "We've got the spirit." Not to be out done the students drove to West Virginia. When they altered the sign to read: "We've got the spirits."

Affections Spurned To Tune Of $3.00

PUEBLO, Col. (UP)—It's routine for police to investigate reports of attempted attacks upon women.

But Pueblo police encountered a new one.

Albert G. Carillo told officers he was walking on a dark side street when two women tried, as he put it, "to force their affections" upon him.

Carillo told police he lost his billfold containing $3 when he resisted.

Carroll Boon Associated With Killingsworth's

J. Floyd Killingsworth has announced the association of Carroll Boon, formerly of Ranger, with the Killingsworth Funeral Home as mortician and with Killingsworth's Hardware and Furniture business.

Boon, the son of S. P. Boon, of the Rio Grande Valley, and the late Mrs. Boon, was born and reared in Ranger, is a graduate of Ranger Junior College for one and a half years before going to Dallas where he attended and graduated from the Dallas Institute of Mortuary Science.

He served his internship as a mortician and was licensed to the practice in 1935. Since that time he has been associated with funeral homes in Longview, Kilgore and Wichita Falls.

The family which consists of Mr. and Mrs. Boon and their son James Carroll, Jr., (Jimmie) is making their home in the apartment at the Killingsworth Chapel building.

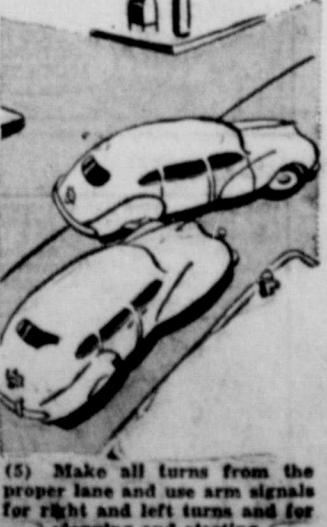

In speaking of his return to Ranger, Boon stated that it was something like a homecoming for him and that he is very glad to be back in his native Ranger.

Coal Miners Are Still Out On Wildcat Strikes

PITTSBURGH, July 7 (UP)—The sympathy strike of commercial miners continued to spread today in the Pittsburgh district, but United Mine Workers officials were urging the men to end their wildcat action.

There was no change in the captive strike picture, with 40,000 miners still out in steel company-operated pits throughout the nation.

The Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators Association reported about 14,500 commercial miners on strike at 42 mines today, compared with 10,000 miners on strike at 30 mines yesterday morning.

Arabs Walk Out Of Security Council Session

LAKE SUCCESS, July 7, (UP)—The representative of the Arab higher committee of Palestine walked out of the United Nations Security Council session on Palestine today.

Jamal El Hussein left the council chamber when a Soviet maneuver to have the Jewish representative referred to as the "representative of the state of Israel" was upheld by a council vote.

"We can't assist in these deliberations as long as this term is used by the chair," Hussein said as he took his walk.

Joe N. Graham Heads Chamber Of Commerce

Joe N. Graham, manager of the J. C. Penney Company in Ranger, Tuesday night was elected president of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce.

President Graham was elected to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of C. C. McKeever. In offering his resignation McKeever stated that he hesitated to do so but the fact that his business will take him out of town so much for the next few months that he felt he could not do the office justice.

David D. Pickrell presided at the meeting Tuesday night and reported that a total of $300 in West Texas Chamber of Commerce Memberships had been sold in Ranger and that is $50 above the quota assessed Ranger by the WTCC. He also reported on the water resources survey report made by the WTCC recently to the city commission.

A committee composed of Pickrell, W. F. Creager, Dr. Calvin Harris, and H. P. Earnest was appointed to cooperate with the city commission in every way possible in working out the water system for Ranger.

Another committee composed of George Campbell, B. A. Tunnell, J. A. Bates, C. B. Fruet, W. A. Lewis and H. C. Henderson was appointed to work with other committees on the coming West Cross Timbers Sheep and Goat Raisers Association show and sale in Ranger.

Remains Of Sgt. Hale Arrive In United States

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hale have received word that the remains of their son, Sgt. Thomas (Ike) Hale have arrived in the States and further word is awaited concerning the arrival of the body in Ranger.

Sgt. Hale was killed in Alta Villa, Italy, on September 15, 1943. He went into the service in November 1940 and to foreign service in March 1943 and was a veteran of the North African campaign.

Just a few months ago his parents received a letter from an Italian who had attended the soldier in his last days.

By United Press, July 7 — Diehard Anti-Truman Democrats made up their minds today to try drafting Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, even if they have to ask the President's help.

Apparently satisfied that when Gen. Ike said no politics he really meant "maybe" his roosters stepped up their efforts to put his name before the Democratic National Convention which opens in Philadelphia on Monday.

James A. Roe, one of the leaders of the New York delegation, said today he would formally offer Eisenhower's name for the nomination.

The Queen's County Democratic leader said, "General Eisenhower was a great leader in war and he will be a great leader in peace."

Roe, a former congressman, called on President Truman to eliminate himself from the race, and said he would present a resolution to the convention asking him to step aside in favor of Eisenhower.

Referring to Eisenhower's statement on Monday that he did not want to be a candidate Roe said, "No man can honestly turn down the nomination for President of the United States in time of crisis."

"President Truman should have the courage," said Roe, "to eliminate himself as a candidate and step aside for General Eisenhower who has been the top choice in every unbiased poll held during the past year. Eisenhower must be drafted even though he does not want the nomination."

Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D., S.C., said he is planning to offer Democratic party leaders on Saturday a resolution calling on President Truman to step aside and "give Gen. Eisenhower a chance to be elected President." A withdrawal by the President, he predicted, would "have lots to do" with changing the general's attitude.

Sen. Claude Pepper, D., Fla., proposed a "truly national draft" that would give Eisenhower a chance to form a "coalition government" to prevent World War III. He will ask party leaders to promise the general a free hand in writing a platform, choosing a running mate and picking a cabinet of both Democrats and Republicans.

However, party veterans like James A. Farley and E. H. Crump of Memphis were saying that despite all the shouting for Eisenhower, it looks like Truman on the first ballot.

The president, apparently unperturbed by the row within his own party, returned to the White House last night from Missouri. Between now and convention time, he has scheduled political conferences with many of his top strategists. These advisers report that Mr. Truman has accepted Eisenhower's statement of Monday as final.

Goal Set For Democratic Platform
PHILADELPHIA — Democratic Party platform drafters were asked today to write a declaration of principles on which every candidate from the President down could run this year with "good conscience."

The goal was set by U. S. Sen. Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania as the preliminary platform drafting committee which he heads began hearing on what the platform should contain.

The platform is scheduled to be ready for the Democratic National convention when it meets here next Monday.

Myers told his colleagues that nothing has been decided yet on party statements concerning the labor and racial rights issues on which they are split.

He said they would have to meet these problems with a platform which is direct and meaningful, and "not an exercise in ambiguity."

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Democrats Rows, as in 1860, Make Republicans Very Happy

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Democratic pre-convention squabbles this year make an interesting parallel with the record of 1860. The issue that caused the party split 80 years ago was whether slavery should be extended to the territories and who should decide it—the people who lived in the territories or the Congress?

The Southern wing of the Democratic Party said Congress should pass a law authorizing slavery in the territories. The more moderate Northern wing favored letting the residents of each territory decide under state rights.

This year's Democratic mess is a follow-up and a hang-over from that old question. It is a split over President Truman's civil rights program, with a curious reverse twist.

The 1860 Democratic convention met in Charleston, S. C. Before the convention opened six Southern states announced they would withdraw if they could not have their own way.

On the first vote, candidate Stephen A. Douglas of Illinois, leader of the Northern faction favoring states' rights, won a decision 185 to 138. The Southern states then withdrew their 32 delegates. That still left the convention with 251 delegates, or more than the 202 necessary to name a candidate under the two-thirds rule.

The two-thirds rule had cheated "Little Giant" Douglas out of the Democratic nomination in 1852 and 1856. It was also to rob him of his third and last chance for the presidency in 1860. The convention battled for 57 ballots. The most votes Douglas could get was 131. So the convention adjourned, to meet again in Baltimore six weeks later.

Here the Southern states again withdrew their delegates, but in two factions. One went to Richmond, the other stayed in Baltimore. Both factions nominated John C. Breckenridge, but only after a dozen hot fights and one drawing of a pistol. The Northern convention in Baltimore nominated Douglas.

It was this split in the Democratic Party, however, which enabled the Republicans to elect Abraham Lincoln.

It took the Democratic Party 24 years to recover from this split. It was 1884 before the Democrats elected a President in Grover Cleveland. It is this danger of a long-lasting split which hangs over the Democratic Party today.

THERE are some Democratic leaders—Southern as well as Northern—who believe that all the present feuding over the civil rights issue is just the stormy party's usual pre-convention smoke and firework. Jim Farley and other Democratic savants are now predicting it will be Truman on the first ballot at Philadelphia.

If that happens, and if a Southerner like Sam Rayburn of Texas or Henry F. Byrd of Virginia were named as his running mate, the Southern state delegations might climb on the bandwagon as they have after many previous pre-convention threats to bolt.

It is pointed out that Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee have refused to go along on any secession. Arkansas, Louisiana and Tennessee have already selected uncommitted delegations. Alabama, Florida and South Carolina have anti-Truman delegations. Texas is sending an unstructured delegation pledged to oppose the civil rights program, but also pledged to support the party nominee and not bolt.

But the party has still two other splits which can wreck it. One comes from Henry Wallace's third party and the other from the anti-Communist Americans for Democratic Action. These two groups don't want Truman even if he is for civil rights. These two groups are doing as much to defeat the Democrats as the bolters of 1860.

What they are doing of course makes the Republicans very happy. As long as the Democrats are split in four, three, or only two factions, the Republicans can win.

THE SCOREBOARD

Zale Comeback Gives Boost To Louis-Walcott Rematch

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Tony Zale's smashing comeback against Rocky Graziano in the Newark ball yard the other night gave the Louis-Walcott return at Yankee Stadium, June 23, a tremendous lift. For the time being at least, people will quit making fun of the old prizefighter. Joe Louis may still be able to wrap punches together, and wasn't that Jersey Joe Walcott a remarkable pair of legs?

After all, Louis and Walcott are no older than the 34-year-old Zale. The downfall of Graziano, exposed definitely as nothing more than an over-publicized club fighter, was another striking illustration of the fallibility of the newer crop. The sterling young character from New York's Second Avenue actually looked like a bloke who never had a glove on.

Those who made Graziano a 12-5 favorite and better, believed he would sail into Zale with the confidence that comes to the average fighter with a championship.

But Zale quickly demonstrated that this was too much to expect of Graziano, and you suddenly realized that the Dead End Kid hadn't worn the middleweight crown well for the 11 months he held it, anyway.

Old-timers chuckled about Graziano having been compared with the Great Stanley Ketchel. "Ketchel," they reminded you, "would have knocked him out by fisting at him."

Graziano's only defense has been an unbridled attack and a right-hand wallop. But on this occasion against Zale, he stood there with his left low and his right down.

ZALE took no chances this trip, made every shot good against an open target.

Shortening up his punches, the one-time steelworker stepped inside of Graziano's swings with jabs, hooks and right hands to the head and body. The left hook to the jaw that dropped Graziano in the first round really settled it.

When he launched his one brief attack late in the second stanza, Graziano led with his right, the mark of a rank sucker, and was reaching with his punches, so could not possibly have had anything on them.

Off their third engagement, you wondered how Graziano belted Zale all over the place in their first outing until he folded up, and how in the world he managed to hang the Navy veteran over the ropes to dry in Chicago.

Well, the first fight, you will recall, was postponed from July until September when Zale went to a hospital for three weeks. That could have left Zale lacking something. In the second outing, there was the intense heat of the Chicago Stadium, and, as Old Tony explains, he let him get away.

Old Tony Zale knew all the time that all he needed to rid the ring of its problem child was another shot at Rocky Graziano's whistlers.

Survey, Comanche County, just north of the George Stone property which is W. B. Johnson has under lease. It is also just north of the two gas and oil wells which have been producing for a number of years which are located on the southern part of the Stone property. This location may bear watching. It is also directly south of where the Mellard and Clemens set up is running an Ellenberger test, about 1 1/2 miles south.

Joe S. Mellard and associates are making a No. 1 location on the Blackwell property on the Eastland-to-Gorman highway. Part of the equipment is being moved in this week and the location will be toward the southern part of the tract. This location will be the initial drilling on a block of approximately 2000 acres which Mellard et al. have been working on for some time, and represents a swing to the northwest of the Gorman area, farthest in that direction in the present drilling operations in and around the Kirk Field.

Locations for two new wildcat tests have been made in southern Eastland County.

Nine miles west of Gorman Luling Oil & Gas Company of S. A. N. Antonio is to drill the No. 1, H. I. Stapp, 670 feet from the south and 94 from the west line of the Latham survey. To go to the Marble Falls section, it is on permit for 3,000 feet with rotary.

Texas Tax Income Greater Than Expenditures

Revenue receipts for the State of Texas are up 38% over last year, said Comptroller Geo. H. Sheppard. This reverses the national trend. Tax Administrators news said "state Expenditures rise faster than revenues."

Sheppard released his monthly financial report today which disclosed that Crude Oil Tax was the big factor in Texas prosperity. It hit an all time high during June of 8 million 3 hundred thousand dollars.

The Motor Fuel Tax is far ahead of last year and almost all the increase of 77 million dollars received from this source accrues to the Treasury as refunds are only slightly above last year. This means the increased consumption of Motor Fuel was for highway travel.

Only one major item of revenue, Store Tax, showed a decrease from last year. This apparent reversal of trend was caused by heavy collection of delinquent taxes during the prior year. Most of these delinquencies have now been liquidated and future year collections will not be inflated thereby. Collection of current store taxes this year is ahead of last year.

The General Fund balance at the end of June before allocations of June receipts were made was Sixty-Six million dollars. This will probably rise to Seventy-Five million by the end of the fiscal year. It is obvious that an Ad Valorem levy for the General Fund will not be made for the coming year with revenue exceeding spending and this whopping big surplus on hand.

Sheppard added a new section to his report this month, which gives registrations in the bond department. This shows bonds of Political subdivisions registered during June, of over forty million dollars, highest in history. Bonds registered to date of 194 million is almost twice that of last year. The indication is higher activity in the rebuilding of schools, streets and public buildings and the great expansion of public facilities made necessary by our rapid industrial growth.

Nobody Loves Forever

THE STORY: Jessica Gordon, aristocratic southern belle, has eloped with Yankee soldier Tom Blake in defiance of her father and in spite of her own qualms. Tom has a few days furrough before being shipped overseas. He tells Jessica he is taking her to his home in Akron to stay with his folks until he is discharged from the army.

VII

It was late afternoon of a stifling June day when Tom and Jessica reached Akron.

Tom's sister Lucy met them at the station. She was a small girl with a neat figure disguised by a cheap navy blue suit. Her blond hair was drawn back primly from a broad forehead. She wore no make-up.

Lucy viewed Jessica with cool detachment and extended her hand for a limp shake; then offered her cheek to Tom for a brotherly kiss, and remarked that they must hurry, for the train was late and her mother had already prepared dinner.

"How's Mom?" asked Tom.

He and Lucy talked in low tones and ignored Jessica as she climbed into the front seat of the car. Once Jessica caught the girl's glance fixed upon her curiously but Lucy quickly looked away and continued her conversation with her brother.

The evening air was close and weighted with a queer heavy smell.

Tom took a deep breath as they passed a row of factories. "Rubber!" he turned to Jessica. "This is Akron, baby. Rubber capital of the world. Not much like Titusville, is it?"

No. It wasn't like Titusville or any other spot she had ever visited. The sidewalks were jammed with men and women hurrying home from work. Crowded buses and men on bicycles. Men in dirty grease-stained overalls, and women looking little better. Tired men. Tired women.

The confusion made Jessica's head ache.

THE car carried them through the town and out into a district of old frame dwellings and finally stopped before a tall gray house. An uncompromising type of house, painted a serviceable color.

Tom escorted Jessica as far as the porch steps and then ran ahead and opened the screen door. He shouted, "Mom—I'm home!"

Home. Jessica sickened as she waited. Tom disappeared within and left her standing by herself while Lucy put the car away. When Lucy came around the house she asked, "Where's Tom?"

"Inside."

Lucy's glance told her that she knew what Jessica guessed—that Tom was breaking the news of their marriage to his mother. She said hastily, "Tom sent Mother a wire this morning. She expects you." Her gray-blue eyes warmed a little as the two girls mounted the steps together.

Inside, the house was cool, the air stagnant. No sunshine. A flight of long dark stairs led upward and as Jessica hesitated in the hall Tom came through the house from the rear and said awkwardly, "Mom's coming."

As he spoke a woman came toward them. A small woman, thin and wiry with graying hair pulled back severely from a broad, high forehead. A pair of cold, colorless eyes regarded Jessica with no hint of welcome.

This was Tom's mother. "How do do," she said.

Tom said, "When do we eat?"

Which broke an awkward silence. "Take your wife upstairs to the front room, Tom," said his mother. "No one ever sleeps there," said Tom.

"She will."

The woman's mouth tightened grimly. She turned her back on them and returned to the kitchen.

Tom picked up the bags he had dumped on the hall floor. "Come on," he told Jessica. "Mom's having chicken and noodles. Regular celebration."

UPSTAIRS Tom opened the door of a bleak high-ceilinged room which faced the front street. Jessica looked at the ugly heavy golden oak furniture, a dresser and a washstand, two chairs, a huge wardrobe towering in one corner. Suddenly, without warning, she began to cry. Silently, the tears running down her cheeks and splashing on her tightly gripped hands. She sat down on the edge of the big bed.

Tom's eyes showed alarm. "What the dickens!" He sat down beside her and she turned her face against his khaki blouse. "Tom, don't go away and leave me here."

"Don't go! Why, I'm in the Army. I have to go, and where would you stay but here? I don't imagine your father would rush to take you back. It's pretty swell of Mom to be willing to give you a home—"

"Please, Tom, please!"

He stood up. "Look," he said flatly, "we're married. I have to go away and you have to stay here and wait for me to come back. You're doggone lucky, if you only knew it. Come wash your face and let's go down to dinner. Mom will be all upset. She hates hysterics."

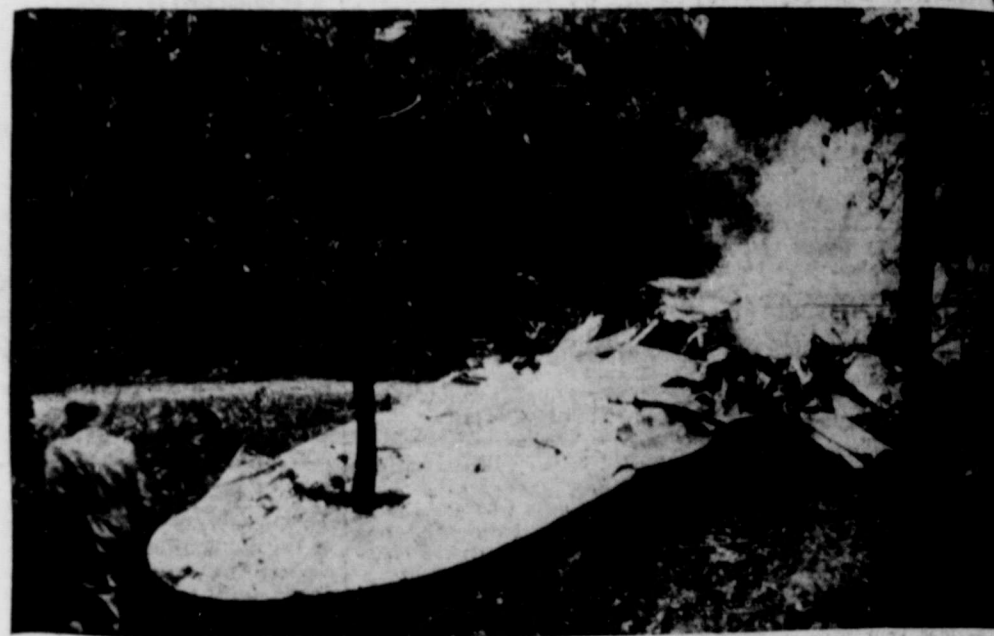

Jessica arose. She said in a low strangled voice, "I'm not hysterical, really. Please be patient with me, Tom."

He grinned. He caught her shoulders and turned her about and kissed her. "That make it well?"

She could not answer. How could a man be so lacking in understanding? Treating her like a hysterical child who would be comforted by a kiss.

Britain Beckons Tourists To Get Needed Dollars

By GERRY HILL
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON (UP)—Britain expects about 500,000 tourists this year to spend between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000 ($140,000,000 to $160,000,000).

Britain expects at least 100,000 tourists from America to spend £70 to 80 ($280 to $320) per head in this country.

"We make no bones about it," an official of the travel association said. "We want the dollars." In 12 months Britain turned out 6,000,000 pamphlets and more than a dozen travel firms had spent thousands of pounds to lure tourists to these shores.

With an annual grant of £300,000 ($1,200,000), stepped up from £5,000 ($20,000) pre-war, Britain's holiday board allotted a large sum to the travel association and the propaganda machines to propagate.

From the energetic travel association headquarters in Piccadilly, "Come to Britain" literature poured by the ton. Overseas travel agencies, shipping companies and airlines displayed the colorful literature, slapped up "Beautiful Britain" posters and awaited results.

The 20-year-old travel association promised no beefsteaks or ice cream sodas. In fact, it emphasized that Britain is poor, her hotels drab. But it pointed out the blitzy scenery, the sporting events, including the Olympic games, salmon fishing in Scotland, hiking everywhere.

The bait has been successful. The tourists are flocking in by sea and air and eastbound passage before late autumn from the United States is hard to get. Travel from the continent is well-booked too.

As well as its financial grant from the government, the travel association has many voluntary subscribers among the hotels, travel agencies and local councils.

The government has done its bit to encourage tourism. Tourists from hard currency countries— which means the United States—now are allowed gasoline for 1,600 miles of motoring. That is a major boon in a country whose natives are refused petrol for pleasure driving.

In addition, when he exchanges the equivalent of £25 sterling ($109.88), the tourist is given a "tourist voucher" book which entitles him to make six purchases of rationed merchandise, excepting food, for immediate delivery.

But if he wants beefsteaks, the tourist must bring them.

Childbirth Made Less Painful

ANN ARBOR, Mich (UP)—Childbirth pains are just an old wives' tale to 80 per cent of the mothers who have babies at the University of Michigan hospital.

The hospital's maternity ward anesthesia, which virtually eliminates pain while the mother remains awake all during the birth process.

Dr. Reynold L. Haas, assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the university medical school, pointed out that caudal anesthesia is entirely different from spinal anesthesia, an alternate method of reducing labor pains.

"In caudal anesthesia, the drug is injected in the lower end of the spine and blocks the nerves to the organs of birth. In the spinal method the drug is put directly into the spinal fluid," Dr. Haas said.

Dr. Haas said caudal anesthesia is not routed through the lungs and does not interfere with either the mother's or the baby's breathing process.

The use of caudal anesthesia has not become extensive because of the special training required to administer it, Dr. Haas said.

"Atrocity" Incident In '76 Disclosed

PEORIA, Ill. (UP)—Mrs. Jean-etter Baechler, East Peoria, has asked the Library of Congress to verify a letter supposedly written by George Washington, denouncing the British for hanging one of Mrs. Baechler's ancestors.

The letter, written to the president of the Continental Congress, asked permission to hang a British officer in retaliation for the death of Capt. Joshua Huddy, an officer of the American Army.

According to the letter, Huddy was a prisoner of the British for several days and then "most cruelly and wantonly hanged."

The letter said Washington asked Sir Henry Clinton, commander of the British forces to turn over "the actual perpetrators of this horrid act."

"If by Sir Henry's refusal I should be driven to an act of retaliation," the letter went on, "a British officer of equal rank must atone for the death of the unfortunate Huddy."

Mrs. Baechler said the letter has been in her family for generations. She has never learned whether the British honored Washington's demand.

No Funds Now Available For Some GI Courses

The Veterans Administration has prohibited the expenditure of any government funds for veterans' training courses of a recreational or avocational character after July 1, 1948.

The new VA policy is in compliance with the Independent Offices Appropriation Act for 1949 in which Congress directed that VA provide no further payments for courses of this type.

These include dancing, photography, gliding, personality development, entertainment courses, sports and athletics, bartending, certain music courses and others.

Training veterans to fly or related aviation courses will be paid for by VA only where the veteran establishes that the training is in connection with his present or contemplated business or occupation and can pass required medical examinations.

The new policy does not mean that all of these courses are completely eliminated from the veteran training program, but after July 1, prior to enrolling or re-enrolling for such a course, veterans must submit complete justification to VA that such training is in connection with their present or contemplated business or occupation. VA must determine that the training is not avocational or recreational before authorizing enrollment in the courses.

Other courses listed in VA's instructions as avocational or recreational are:
