PRICE FIVE CENTS No. 49

Visitors, Welcome

Well...
I Dunno,
But...

Read something last night that struck us as interesting. The author made the statement that neither the Democrats nor the Republicans have any real statesmen any more, that we now have only politicians.

We disagree with the writer. We believe that we have a great many real statesmen but the politicians are in the majority and have things so muddled up that good and able men just don't want to get into the mess. And when they do they usually wish they hadn't.

There's not much incentive for a good man to get into things when he knows that more than likely he'll come out broke and mud smeared.

Yes sir, we think the qualities are there but are latent. And we are thankful for the courageous ones that still brave the machines.

Blue jeans and cowboy hats were in the majority about town today as the rodeo crowd began to gather.

Now we've never quite understood about blue jeans. All cowboys wear 'em and how they get into and out of 'em is something that we can't figure. For the most part the snug fit looks to us as if it'd require something like a shoe horn to make the grade.

Another thing that still gets us is just how do the cowboys achieve that particular roll to their hats. And it appears that they're not satisfied even with a brand new hat until it gets that crushed crown, rolled brim look. In other words, they apparently want even a new hat to have that used look.

No new look for the cowboys, no sir.

We get a laugh, too, out of the loyal souls about town that want to support that rodeo atmosphere, come out in boots, cowboy shirts and hats, and limp around, burning down through the four days of the rodeo, then spend weeks trying to mend blistered feet and a good case of the heat.

That, we'd say, is the ultimate of loyalty.

Saw one man this morning that had his wife standing by at home, to rush in with the old comforter in case the boots got 'im down.

And not all of the cowboys come ridin' into town on horses. We've seen some streamlined model cars that lead us to believe that the rodeo business must be profitable.

In fact, up to parade time the only horses we'd seen about town were those staked at the rodeo arena and the ones mounted by small boys, ridin' around the streets.

Shucks, we betcha we could catch one of those calves for the calf scramble. But do you know, that little as they are, they tell us the little rascals really cost a pretty penny.

Highway Bandit Spurns $56 Loot

CHICAGO (UP) — The robber looked disdainfully at the $56 he had taken from a truck driver, Verne Burbridge. "Not very much," he complained. "All I have," said Burbridge. "Married?" asked the bandit. "Two kids," replied the truck driver. The robber handed back the money. "You need it worse than I do," he said. "Get going."

RANGERS DOWN DESDEMONA BY 10 TO 6 SCORE

The Rangers added another league victory to their string Tuesday night when they defeated Desdemona by a score of 10 to 6. Littlefield pitched for the Rangers and pitched a good game with the exception of the third inning when he walked four men. Littlefield allowed four bases on balls and Keith of Desdemona allowed two. Keith struck out four and Littlefield six. Four hits were scored of Littlefield while Keith allowed 15.

Williams of the Rangers scored a three base hit while D. C. Arterburn, L. Arterburn and Williams each scored two base hits. Umpires were Blackwell, Cole, and Cantrell.

There will be no more games until after the rodeo.

Following are the statistics of the game:

REPUBLICANS SCRAP TRUMAN'S PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, July 28 (UP) — Republicans in Congress scrapped most of President Truman's "urgent" legislative program today and invited the Democrats to renew their family quarrel over racial issues.

Southern Democrats were notified that they must start their Senate filibuster against an anti-lax bill late today or tomorrow. They were not surprised. The filibuster my prevent the Senate from ever getting around to price controls, rationing, housing and the other legislation recommended by the President.

GOP whip Kenneth E. Wherry said the Republicans probably will not try any parliamentary "tricks" to shut off the Southern talkers, and he doubted that they could muster the two-thirds vote needed to impose a "tag" rule. The views of Republican House and Senate leaders were outlined

Veterans Must Act At Once To Save Insurance

Thousands of World War II veterans may lose the opportunity to reinstate National Service Life Insurance worth millions of dollars unless they act before next Saturday, July 31, Scott B. Harrington, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office at Dallas, Texas warned today.

After Saturday, veterans whose NSLI term policies have been lapsed more than three months, must take physical examinations to qualify as insurable risks. Before August 1, veterans have only to sign a comparative health statement.

Eligible veterans may reinstate any amount of term insurance up to $10,000 in multiples of $500 regardless of the length of time it has been lapsed under present regulations if they apply before August 1.

They need only fill out a simple application form, in which they certify that their health is as good as when the policy lapsed, and pay premiums for two months.

Japanese Profs. Go On Strike Despite Warning

TOKYO, July 28 (UP) — Nearly 2,500 professors at Japanese colleges and universities went on strike today despite a warning from a cabinet minister they were flouting Gen. Douglas MacArthur's order forbidding government employees to strike.

The walkouts came a few hours after James S. Killen, chief of MacArthur's labor section, said he would resign because he disagreed with the occupations new labor policy for Japan.

MacArthur last week strongly suggested to Premier Hitoshi Ashida that strikes by public employees would be banned. The Japanese government decided MacArthur's letter to the premier constituted an order.

Education Minister Tatsui Morimoto warned that MacArthur's no-strike warning applied to teachers as well as other government employees, who comprise one-fourth of Japan's unionized labor forces.

Oklahoma rainfall varies from an average of 42 inches annually in the extreme southeast of the state to 15 inches in the western Panhandle.

in a 1,000-word policy declaration issued last night, seven hours after Mr. Truman had read his 11-point special session program to a joint meeting of House and Senate.

Saying that it would take six months for Congress to act on the President's full program, the Republicans promised a short session. Privately they were talking of quitting in about two weeks.

Their policy declaration accused Mr. Truman of calling the special session "solely as a political maneuver" to promote his own re-election. The White House itself was silent on the GOP plans to adjourn "as soon as possible." Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said he had not heard President Truman express himself on Republican reaction to his message.

BIG PARADE KICKS OFF RANGER RODEO

The big rodeo kick-off parade was staged in downtown Ranger Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and passed before thousands of people who lined the route of the parade. Dr. Carl Straley was in charge of the parade.

Heading the parade were bands from Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, Breckenridge and Comanche. Entries of Ranger business people gave a colorful appearance to the parade and cowboys and cowgirls decked out in their best and riding their favorite mounts joined in. The Sheriff's posse from Parker and Palo Pinto counties participated as did the Calumet Indians and the Gold Chain Flour callopo.

Some of the leading rodeo performers of the country were flocking into Ranger today with entries in the events for the four night Jaycee rodeo rolling in fast. As early as Tuesday afternoon over 70 entries had been filed and rodeo secretary, Marge Monroe of Fort Smith, Arkansas was busy today getting in entries.

The opening performance of the rodeo will be tonight at 8 o'clock at the arena and there will be the next three nights. Indications be successive performances for later today that the opening show would perform before a capacity crowd.

Judges for the parade were Mrs. Leslie Hagaman, Mrs. Saunders Gregg and Dr. Bob Hodges. Winners were to be announced soon after the close of the parade.

It was announced today that recordings of each rodeo performance will be made and will be broadcast each following morning from 10 to 11 o'clock over the Breckenridge radio.

Farmhouse Quits Moving When Gusher Capped

NEW YORK (UP) — Farm people, like their city neighbors, are injured within the home more than any place else, according to J. H. Oppenheim, president of the Farm Equipment Institute.

Endorsing National Farm Safety Week, July 25-31, Oppenheim said 4,300 workers were killed and 300,000 injured during 1947, representing 200 fewer deaths and 20,000 fewer injuries than in the previous years.

Jester Says Dixie Proposal Is Not Legal

AUSTIN, Tex. July 28 (UP) — Gov. Jester said today a Dixiecrat proposal to let Texas voters decide at a referendum whether they will support President Truman in November or bolt the party is both impractical and illegal.

The Governor said he had been advised by "competent attorneys" that the proposed referendum is illegal. Also, I have been advised by party officials that the referendum device would be impractical because of the limitations of time and the mechanical difficulties of putting the plan into operation.

The Governor addressed his 750-word statement to members of the state Democratic Executive Committee, the group that has been urged by leaders of the Dixiecrat movement to call a popular referendum on Aug. 28, the date of the second primary election.

The proposal for the referendum was "plausibly stated," the Governor said. However, he expressed doubt that it could "be projected without serious consequences to the democratic party."

Aside From All That, His Job Is A Cinch

CHADRON, Neb. (UP) — You do not have to be a jack-of-all-trades to be a chamber of commerce secretary, but it helps.

Chester A. Allen, secretary of the Chadron chamber, submitted a report of his day-to-day activities. They included:

Putting up flags and banners to welcome various groups to the city. Selling tickets to local events, including the Hereford Breeders banquet and the Chadron rodeo. Welcoming youthful campers to the state park.

Making a house-to-house canvass to arrange rooms for college students. Delivering toys at Christmas to 52 needy children.

Serving as a waiter at a 4-11 club banquet. Arranging booster trips to promote rural-urban relations.

LEADING RODEO PERFORMERS IN RANGER SHOW

Rodeo performers and visitors were pouring into Ranger this morning and before noon today more than 150 cowboys had registered for participation in the various rodeo events.

Some of the country's top rodeo performers have already registered and registrations are still coming in.

Back Jones of Fort Worth, a bulldogger and rodeo judge has arrived and registered for events. Roy Sewalt, 1946 world's all-around cowboy, of Brownwood will be in the show and Bob Mansfield, calf roper from Bandera had registered.

Ted Powers of Ozona, Vic Montgomery of Ozona, George Brown of Keller, N. A. Pitcock of Aspermont, Amy Gambin of Wilson, Oklahoma, all calf ropers have filed their entries.

David Shellenbeger of Marietta, Oklahoma, saddle bronc and bull rider, has registered as has Jake Monroe of Wright City Oklahoma, bareback bronc rider, bulldogger and bull rider.

W. N. Rice, bull rider, and saddle bronc rider of Brooksmith will be in the show and Reno Knicker, (Texas Kid Jr.) has arrived for the rodeo. Herbert Friezel of Beaumont will be in the saddle bronc riding contests and Bo Chesson of Beaumont will be in the bareback bronc riding and bulldogging.

Most of these performers have entered previous rodeos in Ranger and are well known to the crowds. Marge Monroe rodeo secretary, is already on the job and Homer Todd who is furnishing the stock and George Elliott, the announcer have already arrived.

Lots On River Bottom Are On Foreclosure List

BEATRICE, Neb. (UP) — One is likely to find almost anything in the crop of tax foreclosure suits which have been going through the district court here.

Last year, the town of Liberty was surprised when its town hall wound up on the foreclosure list. The most recent discoveries include eight lots in the bottom of the Blue River. Four others barely miss being there; portions of them are on a tiny island in the river.

Taxes on the lots have not been paid since the 1880's.

Life-Saving Attempt Costs Rescuer $50

PEORIA, Ill. (UP) — Sometimes it doesn't pay to try to be a hero.

It cost W. H. Whitehead more than $50.

Crossing a bridge, he saw a 70-year-old man leap to the river in a suicide attempt. Stripping off his outer clothing, Whitehead jumped to the rescue.

Allied Agreement On Next Move Confirmed By Secy. Marshall

FRANKFURT, GERMANY July 28, (UP) — The Farben Plant at Ludwigshafen blew up today, and the U. S. Army released an unofficial estimate that "several thousand persons" were killed and another several thousand injured.

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Marshall confirmed today that the three western powers have reached an agreement on their next move over the Berlin blockade. But Marshall would not reveal at a news conference

Five Injured In Dayton Melee

DAYTON, Ohio July 28 (UP) — Five persons were injured today as violence flared for the third straight day in the Univis Lens Company's attempt to resume production at its strike-bound plant here.

The five injured persons, including two officials of the striking United Electrical Workers Union, CIO, suffered head injuries and were treated at a local hospital.

A melee broke out when a detail of 150 policemen clashed with some 300 pickets and sympathizers.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Here's One Man Who Knows 'How to Predict Elections'

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Louis M. Bean, Department of Agriculture economist and statistician, has had the nerve to write a book called "How to Predict Elections," just published by Knopf. He doesn't handle the subject exactly like a mystery story, with the answer on whether it will be Dewey or Truman revealed in the last chapter. Instead, he gives all the clues, charts and tables on past elections and trends. Then he leaves it up to the reader to dope it out for himself.

Twelve years ago, Louis Bean says he fell in love at first sight with a half page of figures—election figures, that is, in the World Almanac. These figures have been his hobby ever since. That he is good can be attested by this writer. Two years ago he sought out Dr. Bean for a forecast on the off-year congressional elections. No flat prediction was forthcoming. But after looking over all the factors, Mr. Bean made an estimate that the Republicans would win about twice as many seats as they needed to get control of both Senate and House.

The result was so close that it was uncanny. The GOP needed 26 seats in the House and six in the Senate to gain control. Twice that was 52 and 12. What they won was 55 and 12.

In the last chapter of "How to Predict Elections," Louis Bean now takes a flyer on "1948 and the Incoming Tide." He is his considered opinion that 1947 marked the end of the downward trend in the New Deal tide, the beginning of a new one. He backs this up with a chart showing two-party power, as measured by Republican and Democratic majorities in the House for 60 years past.

Democratic peaks came in the years 1890-92, 1912-14, 1932-36. Republican peaks, lasting somewhat longer, have come in the years 1894-1895, 1920-28 and 1946 to—well, your guess? Author Bean's guess seems to be that even if the Republicans do win in 1948, the Democrats will be due for a rise in the 1950's. After that, they'd take another dive in the 1960's.

For short range forecasters, Bean warns that this boiling political pot must be allowed to quiet down before brewing predictions. He himself seems to lean to the belief that the Republican victory of 1946 may be of short duration. He says one result of the third party emergency may be the election of a Republican President and a Democratic Congress.

Other political "experts" have other ideas. Author Bean is fair enough to cite them. Prof. Arthur N. Holcombe is quoted on the theory that whenever a party has lost control of Congress in off-year elections, it also loses the presidency in the next election. This happened in 1882, 1890, 1894, 1916, 1918, 1930.

Prof. Arthur M. Schlesinger, Sr., of Harvard, is quoted on his theory that periods of liberalism are followed by periods of conservatism, each lasting from 15 to 18 years. Under this theory, the 16-year period of New Deal liberalism lasting from 1931 to 1947 would normally be followed by a period of conservatism lasting from 1947 to approximately 1963.

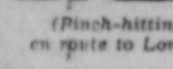

Assuming no recession comes in 1948-49, Statistician Bean charts a possible alternate course to that of Schlesinger. If a depression should hit somewhere about 1952, Bean says that the Democrats—or their equivalents or successors—would dominate the U. S. political scene during the last half of the 1950's.

All this speculation is pretty much of a mental exercise with statistics. Bean says he has given no consideration to personalities. He thereby admits the same kind of error that political bosses do when they talk personalities and political movements without facts and figures.

THE SCOREBOARD

Indians' Formula for Success: Hustle, Plus Good Ballplayers

BY NED MILLS
NEA Staff Correspondent

(Pinch-hitting for NEA Sports Editor Harry Grayson, who is en route to London to report the Olympic Games.)

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Leo Durocher and Branch Rickey may have found a way to stay in the headlines, but apparently Lou Boudreau and Bill Veeck have hit on a formula to keep the Indians in first place. It's really quite a simple prescription. Just good, hard, hustling baseball every game.

Besides being alert on the field, the Indians have in the past year been just as apt in the front office.

Veeck and Vice President Hank Greenberg have supplied Boudreau with adequate reserves at apparently little heed to cost. This has lessened the pressure.

No longer does an Indian feel he is bound to play the maximum 154 games or take the rap that he is letting the club down. This is particularly true in the outfield.

Only Boudreau himself and third baseman Ken Keltner have been in practically every lineup.

Center field Larry Doby has been threatening the .300 mark in recent games. Walt Judnich spells him frequently.

Supporner left fielder Dale Mitchell who banged a respectable .313 last season has the same steaming bat this trip and is second only to field boss Boudreau.

The infield is all hustle and it is here that there is more pressure. First base Eddie Robinson is coming through as Boudreau had hoped he would last year before the Paris, Tex., Irishman was injured in the middle of the summer. He's in a mild slump now.

While Joe Gordon has had a tough time getting above a .260 batting average, he is still the best second baseman in the league.

Johnny Berardino, acquired from the Browns, is added security and can fill in there at any time. He also helps out at first.

Ken Keltner, putting in his 11th season as an Indian, is the club's ranking member and is apparently headed for his best season at third base. He has been off the pace in hitting since his discharge from the service in '45, but has rediscovered the strike zone.

They're there, Boudreau at short, Pushing Ted Williams as the league's top hitter, there is apparently nothing the Illinois star can't do baseball-wise.

Contrary to what Bill Veeck used to think, that, this year, means managing, too.

The club's pitching cannot be overlooked for their record is good, but the real story of the Cleveland club is just good, sound, hustling baseball.

I.Q. Rates High
CHICAGO (UP)—Anthony M. Adams, who didn't attend a day of high school, was awarded a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering by the Illinois Institute of Technology. Adam's high score on an air corps flight test convinced school officials to let him take the entrance examination. He ranked in the upper five per cent, taught himself several high school subjects and was graduated with a "B" average.

These Ancient Indians Were Not Hungry

The fierce Karankawa Indians who lived along the Texas coast must have had plenty to eat, judging by the size of a shell heap found on the Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge.

Dr. T. N. Campbell, University of Texas anthropologist, and a group of students recently spent two weeks salvaging evidences of the fish, birds and animals eaten by the Karankawas. Funds for the investigation were furnished by the Texas Memorial Museum.

They returned to the University with 20 different kinds of shells, and bones of almost 40 different kinds of fish and birds.

"We also got a good idea how the Karankawas lived," Dr. Campbell said. "We found flint tools, arrow points, scraping and cutting tools. We also found quanti-

Nobody Loves Forever

By Margoretta Brucker

THE STORY: Jessica sees David again. She is happy to be with him but feels a sudden upsurge of fear. David is sure everything will turn out all right. Jessica can't seem to fight off her despair.

XXII

LUCY was different. She would come home from work and make a listless effort to eat her supper, help with the dishes as usual, and sit down with a book or her sewing. But her thoughts were not upon the book. She would drop the sewing in her lap and stare vacantly across the room at nothing in particular.

Her gray-blue eyes mirrored alarm when Jessica asked her one evening, "What's wrong with you, Lucy?"

"Wrong?" She tried to speak briskly, picked up her sewing, a dress she was making for Betty, and began to work with almost feverish activity. "What could be wrong?" she demanded.

Blake came in from the kitchen and set down near them. She said, "She's worn out waiting on Betty. It isn't her place to take so much responsibility. When I had children—"

Lucy spoke mildly but firmly. "When you had children the situation was entirely different. Mother. You had a husband in the home who could help you."

Mrs. Blake paid no attention to her daughter but went on to eulogize Genevieve instead. How capable, such a good girl and so helpful. "I really don't know how I could have managed this past year without her," she observed; and, although she did not look up, Jessica felt her mother-in-law's hard eyes fastened accusingly upon her.

Finally, Mrs. Blake, receiving no response from Lucy, and no evidence that her bawling would bring a retort from Jessica, got up and returned to the kitchen.

LUCY dropped her sewing as the kitchen door closed behind her wonders for you. Buy some new clothes—remember you're young—find a boss who isn't a slave driver like Hugh Lintoff.

LUCY dabbed at her eyes, bit her lips. "I don't know why I went to pieces like that," she said apologetically. "Things haven't gone so smoothly at the office lately. I've been nervous and Hugh has been impatient with me—"

She looked up startled. "I mean Mr. Lintoff. And I shouldn't criticize Mr. Lintoff. He's been so generous to me always..." Her voice trailed off and again her face worked pitifully. "I'm ashamed of myself," she said angrily. "Please don't tell Mother, will you?"

"Of course not," said Jessica. "But you work too hard. No man should expect his secretary to spend her evenings bent over a typewriter."

Shortly afterward Mrs. Blake returned, fashing a suspicious glance at Lucy. "Would you like to walk over to Genevieve's, Lucy," she asked, "and see if she can help me tomorrow evening with my jelly? I've never seen a girl so capable as Genevieve."

She rambled on, but Jessica rose and said: "Want me to go with you, Lu?"

"Will you?"

When they were outside together walking down the street, Jessica took Lucy's arm. She said, "I want to tell you something. Something which may upset you, but I think you should know."

Lucy said, "It's about David Gregory, isn't it?"

"He is in your office?"

"Yes. Of course. I seldom see him, for I'm in another office, but he has frequent conferences with Mr. Lintoff."

Lucy knew a David Jessica had never seen. Jessica thought of how little she knew of David except their meetings. She felt a stab of uneasiness. Once before she had been tricked by arid and infatuation. Was she weak and starved for affection and consequently vulnerable when she had met David Gregory?

Not So Very Long Ago

most abstractors were wondering where the next order would come from. Then came the gradual rise in the price of petroleum products, release of more building materials, and increased inflation which swelled the price of lands out of all reason. These factors and others contributed greatly to the demand for title work. But thru good times and bad—for more than 25 years—we have never thought it wise to sacrifice quality for quantity. And that's our business platform today!

Famous Old Clock Runs Once Again

PRAGUE (UP)—The famous clock on the old town hall is in operation again after three years of silence since it was partly destroyed by German bombs at the end of the war.

Wooden figures of the Twelve Apostles once again march across the clock face and a black cock crows three times after the hour has struck, just as they did when the mechanism first was set in motion in 1940.
Czech artisans painstakingly have reconstructed the whole complicated structure in more than two years of steady labor. One painter spent 18 months copying the "Calendarium" from the original painted nearly 100 years ago by the Czech's favorite artist, Josef Mames.

The calendarium registers the date and the signs of the Zodiac, shifting an inch or so each day to come full circle once a year.

INDOCTRINATED BY SOVIET, GERMAN POW'S GO WEST

By Josie Thompson
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOF, Germany (UP)—Thousands of former German soldiers, prisoners of the Russians for at least three years, cross this U. S. Soviet zone border daily to their homelands in western Germany, with the preaching of the Communists still ringing in their ears.

All say they were members of "anti-fascist" groups in the PW camps, but most of them tell American intelligence officers they joined the group only to get better food rations and a speedier return to Germany. A few admit they believe in the Communist theories and teachings.

Intelligence officers concede it is a problem. Obviously some of the ex-prisoners have been repatriated to act as Communist agents in the western zones, but it is impossible to investigate all of the thousands who have returned in the past two months to determine whether they really believe that the Americans and British are war-mongering fascists.

The majority, interrogating officers believe, are just happy to get home again.

A typical group of 600 Wehrmacht soldiers, including six officers, is an example.

Ragged and unshaven, suffering from malnutrition and a war wounds, they shuffled happily off a transport train after a 14-day trip across Russia and eastern Germany.

"Where did you come from?" a Bavarian Red Cross worker shouted at them.

"Siberia," answered one with a broad, toothless grin.
"Stalingrad," answered another. Most wore ragged Wehrmacht uniforms and wooden clog shoes with canvas tops which made walking difficult. Their spirits were not dampened by a cold drizzling rain, no family or friends to greet them, nor by the long queues in which they stood to have their papers checked and to be interrogated.

Ranging in age from youths in their early twenties to old and broken men, the returnees apparently came from prisoner camps throughout Russia.

They told varying tales of conditions in the Russian internment camps.

All agreed that conditions in 1945-46 were "so bad that it was unbelievable." It sounded like a tale of German concentration camps: potato soup and bread three times a day for food, back-breaking labor in construction crews, and men seriously ill with tuberculosis.

However, none died in the pris-

Lesnevich Loses To Mills

Gus Lesnevich rises after being floored for the second time by Freddie Mills in the 10th round of their light-heavyweight title bout in London. Mills became the new champ with a 15-round decision victory — (NEA Telephoto.)

Questions as to whether they had been instructed to join the Communist party on their return to Germany brought loud snickers from the majority.

Asked if they had heard any talk of war between the east and the west, they replied that if one believed what one read in the Soviet press, the Americans are advocating war.

They told weird stories of sudden increases in the POW food ration in recent months, apparently to "fatten up" their undernourished bodies for the trip westward.

Railroad Time Tables Readable At Long Last

CHICAGO (UP)—Transcontinental Santa Fe trains now carry time tables designed to be read with ease by a passenger.
The tables are set up in regular book form with a separate page for each train. It replaces the "read up in right-hand column" for returning trains.
T. B. Gallaher, general passenger traffic manager, said the new tables serve for the line's six trains from Chicago to the West Coast. The old-style tables are used for the short-distance trains.
The new tables list mileage, altitudes and explanatory notes in addition to station stops. Various train connections, correct locations to reset watches, river crossings and tunnels are also listed.

State Studies Hardware-Eating Fish

MADISON, Wis. (UP)—The Wisconsin conservation department is looking for a fish psychiatrist.

This vacation state needs someone who can figure out why its fish are so temperamental about the bait they'll bite on.

The department stocked one 40-acre northern lake with 20,000 rainbow trout and confidently awaited a substantial "fish harvest" this year. So far the fish haven't been biting and the department's experts are stumped.

They analyzed the stomachs of rainbows and found that the fish live on a rather steady diet of plankton and larger bugs. They figured that fishermen who use flies for bait should be reeling in the rainbows. But the fly fishermen aren't.

The most successful lure is a gadget called the "hardware." It's a string of assorted hardware, including 10 spinners, with a gob of worms on the end. The experimental too. They seem to like why the rainbows like it.

Bass in other lakes are temperamental too. They seem to like a new red and white plug with a spinner at each end. It's catching bass where other baits that make a similar commotion fail. But, sighted the experts, the bass may be demanding something else next week.

Singleton of Wichita Kansas.

A Statement From Harley Sadler

Time will not permit a personal letter, so I take this means of expressing my sincere appreciation to all friends in this section for their efforts in my behalf during the recent campaign for the State Senate.

I regret that in the closing hours of this campaign misleading information was distributed through the U. S. Mail and by cleverly designed newspaper ads. The returns of the election established that these tactics resulted in causing me to lose the vote of many of the type of people with whom I have had my most intimate relationship throughout my life and for whom I have always attempted to work for their best interests. Except for this, I have no regrets.

Personally, I feel that great responsibility has been lifted from my shoulders. During my six years of legislative service I took my work seriously and endeavored to give fair and impartial service to all. I did so at a great personal expense and absence from my business. I fully realize that the future of Harley Sadler is of very little consequence, but the importance of the legislative branch of our government means everything to the people, and I urge that the voters, not just during elections but at all times, show an interest in it.

So I ask you, my friends who believe in me please feel as I do. With kindness in our heart and malice toward none, let us all work for a bigger and better world.

Harley Sadler
