

Court orders EPA to change dump standards

Texas and six other plaintiffs won a suit against the Environmental Protection Agency this week when the US 1st Circuit Court of Appeals invalidated some of the EPA's standards for disposing nuclear waste and ruled that the EPA did not provide sufficient protection to ground water resources.

A site in Deaf Smith County, located near Hereford and Vega, is one of three selected as finalists for the nuclear waste repository. Other proposed sites include Washington state and Nevada.

Other plaintiffs that joined Texas in the suit included Maine, Vermont, Minnesota, the National Resources Defense Council, the Conservation Law Foundation of New England and the Environmental Policy Institute.

The plaintiffs challenged the EPA standards set for the disposal of high-level nuclear waste from military and nuclear power plants and also questioned the agency's proposal for regulating the release of radioactive waste into the environment from underground sites.

The court ruled the EPA failed to give the public a fair opportunity to comment on those standards.

The court also ruled that the EPA did not take the principles of the Safe Drinking Water Act into enough consideration when setting standards for how much radioactive waste is released from sites underground.

The EPA established its standards based on the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982, which calls for the construction of at least two high-level waste underground disposal facilities in the nation.

According to agency officials, the EPA sets the standards for the underground repositories.

The EPA did not establish standards for the disposal sites until September, 1985, and petitioners challenged some of the agency's plans soon afterward. The petitioners charged that the standards were not strict enough.

EPA officials have set two general sets of standards, one group relating to waste management setting limits on radiation levels. The second set of standards involved general design criteria for the underground storage sites, including limits for the release of radiation into the air and groundwater.

According to Attorney General Jim Mattox, in order for nuclear waste to be buried at the Panhandle site, the Department of Energy would have to drill through both the Ogalalla and the Santa Rosa Aquifers.

"Based on the court ruling, it is my view that all of DOE's actions thus far are invalid," Mattox said.

DOE officials are responsible for choosing the disposal sites and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission must oversee their actions, under the guidelines set by the act.

4-H FASHIONS—One of the most challenging projects for a 4-H girl is to make her own clothing ensemble, then model it. Thirty-nine county girls modeled their fashions with a flair Saturday at the annual 4-H Fashion Revue. Winners in the Senior Division were (from left) Lorealea Acker, first place non-tailored garment and Best Model award; Debbie Tilley, alternate, sports and specialty wear;

Tammy Leatherwood, first place evening wear; Danna Ralston, alternate, non-tailored garment; Bobbi Hochstein, first place, sports and specialty wear and Cotton Award; and Kara Schulte, first place, tailored garment. First-place winners will compete Aug. 3 in the District Dress Revue in Lubbock. For the complete list of winners, see Page 7.

DISD board fine-tunes policies; picks suppliers

From now on, students in the Dimmitt Public Schools will be escorted out of the classroom before the "drug dog" comes in to sniff the room.

The new procedure, recommended by the Texas Association of School Boards and adopted by the Dimmitt School Board Monday night, stems from a recent ruling by the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals that a drug dog cannot randomly sniff a student in a classroom because it amounts to a search without "reasonable cause."

Supt. Robert Ryan said students will be asked to step outside the room during a drug-dog search but to leave their coats, purses, notebooks, etc., in the room. Then, if the dog were to alert to a suspicious odor on or in any of these personal items, only then would school officials have "reasonable cause" to search the personal items or the student who owned them.

That was one of several policy updates which the board adopted during a mixed-bag session Monday night. Others dealt with unexcused absences, uniform discipline management and chronic diseases.

Castro Oil & Gas, Rainbo Baking Co. and Plains Creamery won the contracts to supply the local schools with their products during the coming year.

Castro Oil & Gas will supply gasoline for school vehicles at five cents below the posted per-gallon price. Rainbo will supply bread products for the cafeterias at 59 cents per loaf of white bread, $2 per 30-pack of hamburger buns and 80 cents per 12-pack of hot dog buns.

The only contested bidding was on dairy products. Borden, Inc., submitted a bid of 16.45 cents per half-pint of regular low-fat milk and 17.5 cents per half-pint of chocolate low-fat milk. Plains Creamery's bids were 16.85 cents per half-pint of both kinds of milk.

The board voted to accept Plains Creamery's bid because Plains has a local cold storage warehouse. Borden's products would be delivered out of Hereford.

Ryan noted that Borden had the contract one year "and there were several occasions during the winter when they could not get here with the products. Also, a local supplier can get extra supplies to us on short notice when we need them."

On insurance, the school district got a break on blanket secondary accident coverage of students in grades 7-12 because of its record of "extremely low claims." But the rates on health insurance for school district employees will go up because local claims exceeded premiums by 33% last year and by 2% for the past three years.

Last year the school carried blanket accident coverage for students in grades 7-12 who participated in UIL, industrial arts and vocational agriculture activities, at a cost of $9,400. But this year, for the same price, Southwestern States of Dallas will provide blanket coverage for students taking part in all extracurricular activities. Students also will have the option of buying individual policies providing further secondary accident coverage if they wish.

The Southwestern States offer was one of three proposals considered.

On group health insurance, school employees are currently paying $68.60 per month for individual coverage and $184.64 per month for family coverage. But the rates for the coming policy year will go up to $71.34 for individuals and $192.03 for families, with a $100-per-year deductible feature. It was the least expensive of three options offered to the district by the state school-employees insurance foundation.

The DISD pays half of the premium for a certified employee (teacher or administrator) and 100% of the premium for an uncertified employee (custodian, cafeteria worker, etc.). The increased cost

Crime Line gets results

A call to the Castro County Crime Line has resulted in the arrest of Tyson Gary Cowley, 17, of Hart, and led to the recovery of several items which had been taken from the Castro County Recreation Association in the July 1 break-in.

Cowley was indicted for burglary by the 242nd District Court Grand Jury last Thursday.

Sheriff Lonny Rhynes said several items from the Pro Shop had been recovered thanks to a Crime Line caller who received a $500 reward for the information.

Other indictments handed down were Jerry L. Spencer, 19, of Earth, forgery; J. R. Monreal, 23, of Earth, forgery; and Adam Rios, Jr., 27, of Bovina, driving while intoxicated.

Aldermen agree to consider drainage problems on Eleventh

Monday night, Gloria Hernandez and Corina Montalvo, representing homeowners on Northwest Eleventh Street in Dimmitt, asked the Dimmitt Board of Aldermen to give further consideration to the drainage problems in their area, claiming that several homes have already been damaged by flooding.

"It's really bad because we can't even get insurance coverage for flood damage since it is designated a flood area," Hernandez said, adding that "We weren't told that when we bought our homes, and now we can't even sell them. No one would want to buy a house that may be flooded and can't be insured."

Alderman Jack Thompson told the women, "You're right. Not enough has been done about the problem, but the solution is going to be a big ticket item."

He called on Bill McMorries of McMorries and Associates, city engineers, to explain the problem and present possible solutions.

McMorries said the options include installing a storm sewer system in the alley behind Eleventh where it meets Halsell at an approximate cost of $86,000.

Another choice would be tearing up Northwest Eleventh and a portion of West Andrews and installing concrete streets with an inverted crown, which would accommodate more water. Estimated cost would be $120,000.

McMorries noted that these two options would not change the natural drainage and therefore would pose less hazards than any solutions that would change the drainage patterns.

He said the city might ask the State Highway Dept. to see what could be done about the problem, including possibly installing ditch blocks, regrading the bar ditch, or contouring the ground north of Halsell, from which much of the excess water drains.

McMorries noted that additional future problems could be avoided by requiring all new construction to be built 18 inches above the flood line and requiring a drainage study be furnished by developers along with any proposed plats.

Thompson asked that the matter be put on the agenda for the board's next meeting. City Manager Reeford Burrous said he would go ahead and get the ball rolling with the state highway department and ask them to have a representative present at the next meeting.

In his report to the board, Burrous asked that special commendations be presented at the next meeting of the board to Paul Dannevik, Scott Killough and Jeffrey Hutson for their fast action in rescuing a swimmer at the city pool Saturday. The board agreed.

Burrous voiced concern that a retirement home advertised to be constructed off of Butler Boulevard in Dimmitt could present a problem in zoning and construction codes

Dimmitt men rescue drowning woman at pool

Three young men from Dimmitt were instrumental in saving a life Saturday afternoon at the city swimming pool in Dimmitt, according to reports from observers.

Pool lifeguard Paul Dannevik, 18, retrieved the limp form of Lucy Casares from the bottom of the pool and attempted to remove her from the pool, but was unable to.

Substitute lifeguard Scott Killough happened to be driving by and was signalled by a girl at the pool. He and Jeffrey Hutson helped Dannevik lift her to the side of the pool. Dannevik had already been performing artificial respiration on the victim, who reportedly was not breathing.

Killough used a water removal technique, and the victim began coughing. Meanwhile, Hutson had summoned an ambulance.

Ambulance driver James Killough said that when he arrived Casares was breathing, was semiconscious and seemed to be having a seizure of some type. Oxygen was started and she was taken to Plains Memorial Hospital.

City Manager Reeford Burrous said he was told that a doctor remarked that the fast action of the lifeguard possibly saved her life.

James Killough said that Monday Casares was reportedly doing fine and tests were being run to find out what had caused her to lose consciousness in the first place.

The Dimmitt Board of Aldermen plans to present a commendation to the three young men at their next meeting.

James Killough, Director of the City Works Dept., said that Scott Killough had just completed a Red Cross life saving course in May, and that Dannevik had taken the course last year.

"My feeling is that if these young men hadn't used their training, Casares might not have made it," he remarked

Baldivia to stand trial

An Aug. 3 trial date has been set for Ruben Naranjo Baldivia, 41, of Hart. Baldivia will be tried on a charge of burglary of a habitation in the 64th District Court in Plainview with Judge Jack Miller presiding.

In April of 1986, Baldivia stood trial for the June 6, 1986 murder of Robert Ballard of Dimmitt. He was found not guilty and was subsequently re-indicted on the burglary charge that same month.

Baldivia has since filed repeated appeals, each of which was overturned by the higher courts.

If we make it through September...

Most local farmers are waiting to see what September drops, or doesn't drop, on them before they'll know what kind of yields to expect.

Recent storms have left spotty hail damage on all sides of Dimmitt, according to area gin and elevator operators. But they say there is still hope for some good crop yields, if we have a mild September.

Most of the hail damage in the Flagg area was to the west and north, and Clay Davis, operator of the Flagg Farmers Gin, said with a mild, dry September some Flagg farmers will see good cotton yields.

J. R. Brown of Flagg Grain Co. reported good corn crops. Some had been damaged by the hail, though the damage didn't seem to cover a large area, he said. Brown also said the Dodd area had some of the best corn crops he had ever seen.

Along Highway 385 there has been some heavy hail damage north and south of Dimmitt. Eddie Matthews of Easter Grain said the hail had missed the Easter area, but there is a strip along the highway north of Dimmitt about seven miles long which received heavy damage.

Sunnyside farmers have been pretty fortunate, according to Rickey Byers of Sunnyside Grain and Supply. They have received little hail damage and crops in the area look excellent, Byers said.

The Hart area has also escaped most of the heavy hail damage, said Scott Rice of the Hart Producer's Co-op Gin, but Hart farmers also need some good weather through September before they can tell how things will produce.

The Nazareth area hasn't had much hail either, and crops in the area look very good, according to Rocky Wilhelm of the Dimmitt Agri Industries Farm Store. Nazareth needs some more rain, Wilhelm said, but crop prospects look good.

Potatoes and onions are being harvested and the quality looks good, according to Allan McClure of Dimco Industries Inc. McClure said the movement on onions is good right now. The demand for potatoes is a little slow, but should pick up next week, he said.

Cucumber harvest will begin a little late this year. Hail and rain last May postponed cucumber planting until June, said Lee Kimball of Western Food Products Co., Inc. Kimball said they are only working one field right now and harvest won't really get underway until after July 28.

The Eddie Sutton family is making a vacation of visiting their relatives in the Sonora-San Antonio area this week. They will probably pass Gainell and Jody Minnick since they are visiting grandchildren and doing some fishing in the San Antonio area.

Louisiana is the destination for the Winston Waggoner family. Winston plans to do a little cattle business, but Judy and the girls have closed the Calico Teapot briefly to have this diversion.

Richard Stahl has taken some of his staff to Boston for a computer training school, so Sue and the kids went home to visit relatives.

Danny, Shelly, Brandi, Tisha, and Ramey went to Waco for their vacation. They can return with a report from the Jim Naylors.

About 23 people gathered in the small ante-room at K-Bob's to celebrate Don Ethington's "double nickel" birthday Thursday. The Bill Murpheys, Pete Stewarts, Bob Vilases, Ray Joe Rileys, Bill Clarks, and the Bob Wests were there as were Martha Hyman, Beral Hance, Edna Riley, Loranel Hamilton, Jamie Hamilton, and Don and Ann. Humorous cards and a cake with "mad inventor" icing decor were shared by all. Afterward some of the ladies went to see the new gold fish pond at the Bob Duke residence.

Tina Rawlings shared a report of her trip-cruise to London with the Bill Clarks, the V. C. Hopsons, the Percy Parsons, the George Sides and Carolyn Jones after a fondue dinner at the Clarks.

The Davis Mountains and, more specifically, Indian Head Lodge, were the destination of George and Carolyn Sides for a few days away from it all.

Michael and Blair Parsons are in Dimmitt visiting their grandparents, Percy and Margaret.

Emily Clingsmith and Bea Hawkins flew to Seattle enroute to Vancouver where they boarded the Island Princess for their trip to Alaska.

The first port of call was Juneau, Alaska's capitol. They took a motor coach bus trip to the Mendenhall Glacier.

Then they boarded the ship and cruised to Skagway and boarded a school bus and went to the Eagle's Hall where they saw the Soapy Smith Show and ate an Arctic lunch.

After lunch they went by motor coach to Whitehorse along the historic Trail of '98.

They spent the night in Whitehorse and continued on to Tok via the scenic Alaskan Highway enroute to Fairbanks.

The sightseeing tour of Fairbanks included the University of Alaska Museum and the Trans Alaskan Pipeline.

That afternoon they took an authentic cruise on the Chena and Tanana Rivers aboard the Discovery.

On their way they met Mary Shields and her dogs who had competed in the Iditorod. A restored Indian village was the highlight of the day.

The next morning they boarded the motor coach for Anchorage. In the afternoon they took a sightseeing tour to Alyeska, Alaska's famous ski resort. Then on to Portage Glacier for views of its massive wall and sparkling blue lake.

The left the next day for Seattle and their return trip home.

Charles and Betty Vaughan, Sherri and Kevin Baldrige were at the Bob and Vicki James' home in Lancaster this weekend. They had a good visit with Vicki and family and attended the dedication of the new sanctuary of the First Christian Church. Bob James was the building chairman.

It was beautiful and they reported hearing good talks. The sanctuary was dedicated to Jesus as the corner stone for the building of God's church and kingdom.

Mandi Vaughan was thanked for leading the family to the church.

Sherri and Kevin returned Wednesday after visiting Six Flags.

David, Sue and Brent Vaughan came to Vicki's for a lovely evening telling about their newly adopted daughter, Kristin.

Oleta Gallehon honored Irene Carpenter on her birthday July 11 with a luncheon at the Sirloin Stockade in Hereford. Other club members joining them were Geneva Dennis, Hazel Bagwell, Connie Ivey, Ruth Hays, Mauzee Youts and Mary Edna Hendrix.

The waitresses brought out a birthday cake and sang "Happy Birthday" along with the club members. This was a special occasion for Irene since this was the first time she was with all the club members since her accident in early April.

I have many friends playing in softball games, so after several invitations to go and watch, I went to the ball park. First I watched my neighbors, the Murdocks, play with the Church of Christ team against the Lee Street Baptist Church team and the Mexican Baptist Church team. Then Mary Mays invited me to watch her son, Wesley, play T-ball, which is a very different kind of game.

Those little boys take their game very seriously. Then Herminia Salinas invited me to watch her son, Nicholas, play softball. The next night I watched the First Baptist Church team play against the Fellowship of Christian Athletes team. This was an interesting game.

Susie Reeves was hostess to the Thursday Bridge Club that met at the Senior Citizens Center for lunch and a day of bridge. Susie won high score and Edith Graef won second high. Others playing were Opha Burks, Elizabeth Huckabay, Era Heckerson, Virginia Crier, Helen Braafladt, Alice Collyer, Cleo Forson, Louise Mears, Neva Hickey and Jo Gregory.

Out of town visitors at the museum last week were Mearle Morgan from Bovina and her granddaughter, Amy Harris of Oklahoma; Heather Gray of Cushing, Okla., Elsie Smith's granddaughter and her friend, Joy Long; Jenny and Jeremy Seely of Dallas and their friend Tiffany Baldwin.

I attended the Tulia Birthday Celebration Saturday. I enjoyed the barbecued lunch and a get-together with former classmates at K-Bob's there Saturday evening. I went to the Methodist Church Sunday morning where Dr. Bruce Parks was preaching. Mary Parks, his wife and my cousin, was unable to attend. Their daughter, Ruth Jones came with Bruce. I went on to Amarillo and visited my daughter and her family and went with my grandson, Kevin Lankford to a tour of homes since he had worked on one of the homes being displayed. He helped install all the inside trim, the fireplace and kitchen cabinets. We saw Gerald and Janice Davis in one of the homes.

Sunday night I attended the First Baptist Church in Amarillo where the choir was presenting a miniconcert of some of the songs they sang while they were in England, Scotland and Wales. My daughter, Mary Lynn and her daughter, Lauren were in the choir. Janice Davis was the pianist.

Maricela, Jennifer and Jonathan Garcia of Monahans were here for the weekend visiting Maricela's mother, Concepcion Quinonez, and to shop in the area.

Jenni and Jonathan enjoyed playing with their "favorite and prettiest" aunt, Hortencia Quinonez. Jenni got to go on a "photographic shoot" with Hortencia on Friday. They took pictures of the Kid's Inc. Awards presentation in T-ball and baseball at the George Howell Memorial Park. Hortencia said Jenni made a great assistant.

More about

to the district for the higher premiums next year will be $4,257.96, based on current participation.

School employees will be able to save a little money on their group health, disability and group term life insurance coverage because of a new section in the Internal Revenue Code called the "cafeteria plan" of deductions, approved by the board Monday night.

Under the "cafeteria plan," DISD employees will be given the opportunity to purchase these fringe benefits with pre-tax income. The IRS will view the fringe-benefit costs as income reduction instead of payroll deductions, saving the employee the tax on that amount of income (the same as with an annuity plan).

The "cafeteria plan" is available for a potpourri of fringe benefits, but the board decided to adopt it on a one-year trial basis for these three fringes only, to see what its effect would be on bookkeeping.

During an executive session, the board accepted three resignations and hired seven teachers.

Those resigning were David Willis, former middle school assistant principal, who has accepted a principal's post in New Mexico; DHS vo-ag teacher Randy Waldrip; and Ken Cole, who had been hired as the middle school assistant principal but resigned to take a similar post at Hereford High School.

The board hired Cheryl Glidewell, Debbie Harris, Sara Hunter and Karen Robertson as elementary teachers, subject to assignment. Hired for specific posts were Marty Hursh, junior high boys' coach and physical education; Lucrecia Shropshire, junior high girls' coach and computer literacy; and Melody Willis, early childhood development at Richardson Elementary.

Supt. Ryan said the local school system still needs to hire an assistant principal and a vo-ag teacher for DHS and an assistant curriculum director before the new school year begins.

Who's New?

Teresa Ann Rodriguez was born July 3 to Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Rodriguez of Hereford. She weighed 6 lbs., 13 oz., and was 17 inches long. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Orelia Rodriguez of Pharr and Refugio Claudio of Hereford.

OUT OF TOWN

Jeff and Jennifer Bell of Lampasas are the parents of a son, Jordan Thomas Bell, born July 13. Jordan Thomas has a brother Joshua, 4. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Bell Dimmitt, and Dr. and Mrs. Tom Young of Killen.

for the city.

City Attorney Jack Edwards said that any problems could be worked out when and if the development inquires about possible annexation into the city.

Reporting on the current budget, Burrous said that income had been a little more than expected and expenses have been a little less. He added that preparations are almost complete on the general fund portion of the 1987-88 budget, which he will present at the next meeting.

A discussion on the waterlines in the southwest part of town was postponed until the next meeting of the board because a quorum was not present.

Marketplace
29 A. D. or Dimmitt 1987

Children attending Vacation Bible School at the Fourth and Bedford Church of Christ did a little time-traveling back to First Century Judea and a place called Marketplace A. D.

As the children arrived, they were assigned to a family, one of twelve, named after the twelve tribes of Isreal. Each family had a banner displaying its name in Hebrew and English, and each child was given First Century attire.

The marketplace was built on the lawn of the church and consisted of a brick making shop, weaving shop, bakery, candle-making shop, money minting shop, pottery shop, carpenter shop and an area to play First Century games.

Dramas from the Bible were enacted throughout the day, and the children watched and participated in the craft making at the various shops.

The children were served a First Century meal of grapes, dried meat, raisins, and cheese, and even payed taxes to Zacheaus.

WATCH

Out on the job, power lines bring needed electricity to the site. But they can be dangerous . . . if you don't watch up! You need to be especially careful when you are handling re-bar, pipes, scaffolding, or tools that are long enough to contact overhead lines. Contact with power lines is also a potential danger to operators of front-end loaders, dump trucks and any other equipment of unusual height.

Keep an eye up for power lines. Watch up, for safety's sake.

Stanford and Summersgill read wedding vows July 11

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Alan Summersgill are home after their July 11 wedding and a wedding trip to New Orleans, La.

The bride is the former Tammy Lorraine Stanford, daughter of Johnny and Janet Stanford of Dimmitt. Parents of the groom are Paul and Virginia Summersgill of Winslow, Ariz.

The couple were wed in a formal, double ring afternoon ceremony at the First Baptist Church in Dimmitt with the Rev. Ken Cole officiating.

Two flaired candelabras and a heart candelabra each entwined with greenery and accented with mauve satin bows, flanked the altars. The unity candle was placed on a brass stand in front of the heart candelabra.

As the couple lit the unity candle, Richard Young, minister of music at the First Baptist Church, sang "Make Us One." Soloist Faye Tilley sang "The Lord's Prayer." Jerre Shultz played the organ and pianist was Walter Maynard.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a candlelight formal gown of imported bridal satin and Schiffli embroidered lace featuring a high wedding band collar encrusted with hand-beaded sequins and seed pearls. A cluster of pearls decorated the center of the neckline. The fitted bodice featured a sheer illusion yoke that dipped in a V at the front and back. The bodice was designed with an overlay of Schiffli embroidered lace hand-beaded with sequins and seed pearls. The Renaissance puffed sleeves were created with shirred insets of clustered drop pearls and featured long fitted extensions which formed petal points over her wrists. The sleeves were accented with lace appliques and pearl accents. The full satin skirt fell from a basque waistline and was highlighted with Schiffli embroidered cut-outs around the lower skirt and the cathedral length train. Sheer petal scallops and embroidery edged the hemline.

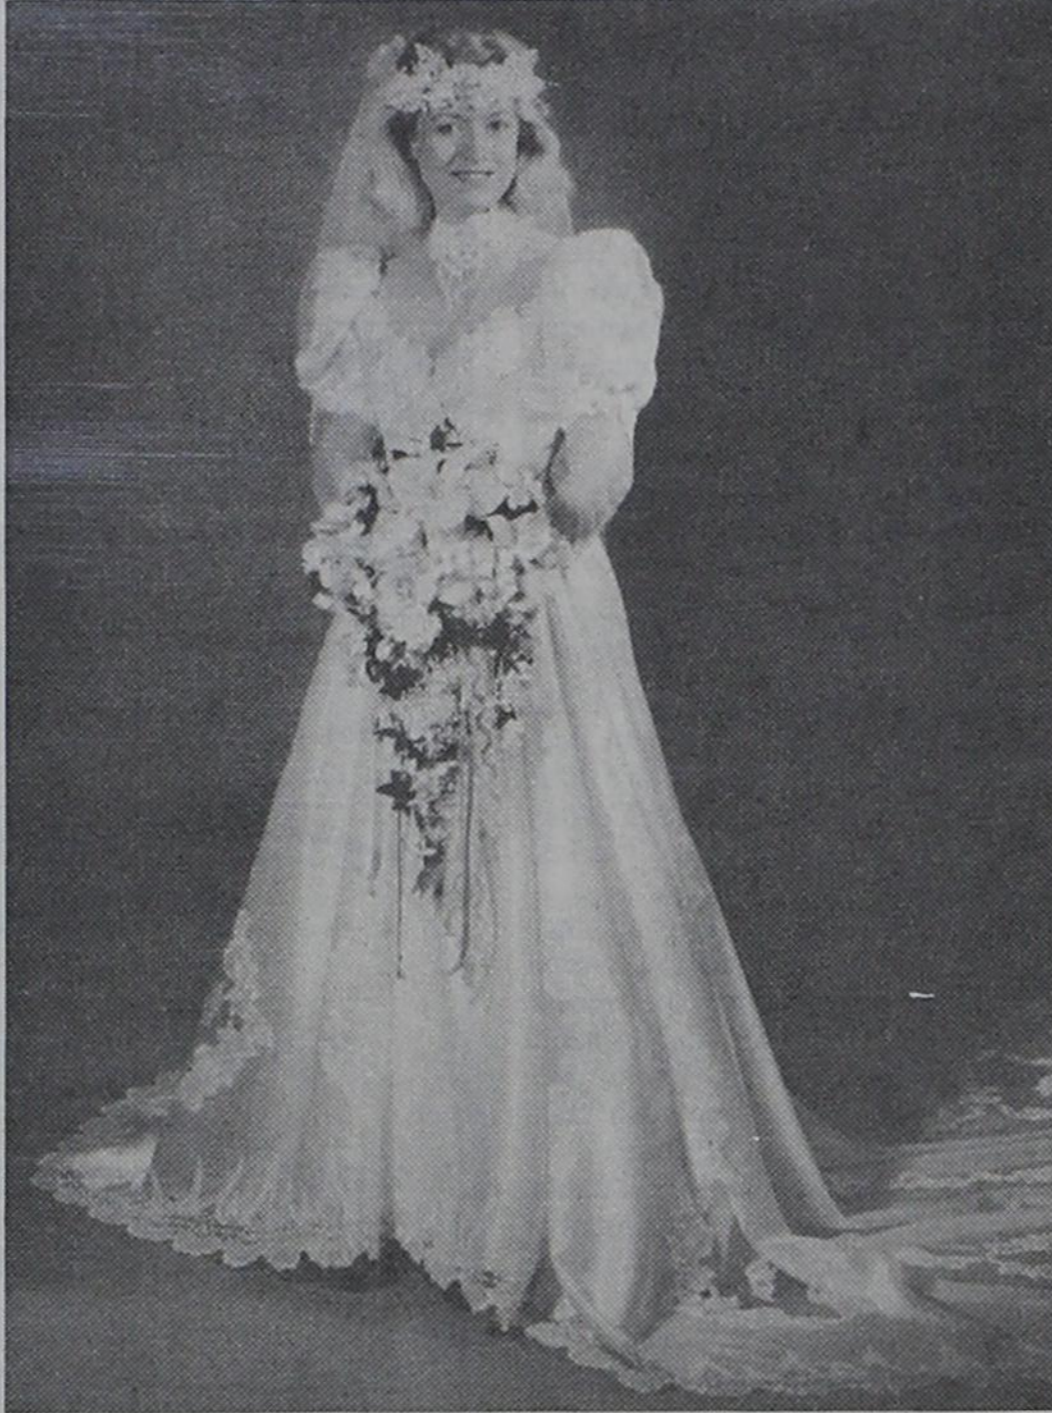

She wore a two tiered fingertip veil of bridal illusion designed with a ruffled pouf. The pencil-edged veil was attached to a headpiece wreath designed of Venise lace and silk flowers highlighted with pearls, crystals and pearl filament stamen.

The bride carried a cascading nosegay bouquet of orchids, roses and cymbidium orchis highlighted with baby's breath, stephanotis, English ivy and mauve, white and silver ribbons.

Lori Rickenbrode of Enid, Okla., friend of the bride, was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Rita Ramos Varela of Dimmitt and Shayla Armsrong of Amarillo, friends of the bride.

Each attendant wore a satin teal-length mauve dress designed with long lace sleeves. A lace ruffle and

They each wore combs of cymbidium orchids and mauve and silver and silver ribbons in their hair.

They carried nosegay bouquets of silk cymbidium orchids, roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and English ivy with mauve and silver ribbons.

Best man was Doug Summersgill of Baltimore, Md., brother of the groom.

Groomsmen were Jim Summersgill of San Angelo, brother of the groom and Terry Vance of Tempe, Ariz., friend of the groom.

Mike Stanford and Chris Stanford, brothers of the bride were candlelighters.

Sara MacClaskey was flower girl.

She carried a basket hand-crocheted by Alene Thomas, friend of the bride's family. Her hair was braided and baby's breath was worked into the braids.

Ring bearer was Brian MacClaskey. He carried a pillow decorated with needlepoint work by the bride's mother.

Guests were seated by Mike and Chris Stanford, brothers of the bride and Doug and Jim Summersgill, brothers of the groom.

A wedding reception honoring the couple was held in the Fellowship Hall following the wedding.

The bride's table featured a silver punch bowl. An arrangement of porcelain rosebud candleholders with pink candles on a mirror centered the table.

The serving table was covered in a mauve and white cloth and was tied at the corners and middle with pink rose corsages and ribbons. The multi-tiered wedding cake centered the table and was surrounded by the bridesmaid's bouquets. The cake featured a fountain surrounded by a ring of orchids, fern and leatherwood at the base. The bottom layer held a Precious Moments figurine given to the couple by the bride's parents. The middle layer was separated with cymbidium orchids and stephanotis. An orchid corsage decorated the top layer.

Apricot nectar punch, nuts and white chocolate mints were also served from the table.

The groom's table was covered with a mauve and white cloth and featured a penguin bride and groom figurine on a mirror with Christmas trees and snow. A traditional German chocolate cake was served with brass appointments from the table.

The couple enjoyed a wedding trip to New Orleans, La.

For her traveling attire, the bride wore a two-piece silver and pink polished cotton outfit with matching shoes and handbag.

Hund, Birkenfeld wedding follows family traditions

The main altar of the church was adorned with bouquets of white gladioli and rose Stephanotis. Baskets of silk raspberry roses, white roses, and rose Stephanotis were on the side altars. Two spiral candelabra stood on either side of the main altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white crystal taffeta which featured a high neck with a collar of Alencon lace and hand sewn pearls and sequins. The fitted basque bodice dipped to points at the front and back, with appliques of lace, hand sewn pearls and sequins forming a border from the point up and over the shoulders to the back. The sleeves were fitted to just above the elbow where they formed a full gathered puff at the top. The lower part of the sleeve was made of embroidered Alencon lace with pearls and sequins. The full skirt had appliques of lace, pearls and sequins and sequins with wide scalloped lace forming the hem. The cathedral length scalloped train was adorned with three teardrop inserts with lace edging and appliques of lace, pearls and sequins. The bride wore pearl earrings.

Calico

By Terri Loudder

"Let's spend the day together," he said. "It will be 'your' day."

I should have known better. The first two hours of "my" day were spent looking at spray rigs and rope wicks.

Most women have to spend their free days in dull old shopping malls. But, lucky me, I get to tour the fun sections of a city with businesses like U-Joints, Inc. or Pipe World.

And if I complain about blowing a Saturday making an extensive study of farm equipment he says, "Now you know how I feel when you drag me shoe shopping!"

The last time he went shoe shopping with me was 7 years ago, and he picked out a pair of hideously ugly navy pumps that I still don't wear. Since then he doesn't go in any store that doesn't have the word "parts" in the name.

But still, I held out hope for the day. When I optimistically pointed out a sidewalk sale at a large shopping center he said, "What do we need with a sidewalk?" There went another 7 years!

And different taste in stores isn't the only reason I shouldn't shop with my husband. Directions are another big point of contention. I, unfortunately, was born without a sense of direction. All dirt roads look alike to me, and I speak left and right instead of east and west. Still, I manage to find my way around, a fact which never ceases to amaze my husband.

He, on the other hand, was raised on the farm, and worked his way through college driving for a freight company. He thinks he could find the hostages in Iran with a compass and a can of snuff.

But, my husband and I aren't unique in our shopping differences of opinion. All men and women face the same dilemma.

Men think of shopping as functional. You need something, so you go out and buy it.

To women, however, shopping is an art. It is a finely honed skill, developed by years of elbowing your way through hoards of handbags and high heels at January white sales. Shopping is being so proud of that precious dress you found for $19.95, that you spend $85.50 on a belt and earrings to go with it.

Men simply cannot grasp the concept. And my husband is no exception.

At least he asked me to go with him though. "Let's spend the day together," he said. And, you know, those parts stores sometimes have lovely sales.

The couple read their vows before altars flanked by candelabras and flower arrangements.

Music was provided by soloist Mark Watt, brother-in-law of the groom. He was accompanied by organist Marian Lane as he sang "Flesh of My Flesh."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal, ivory gown designed of satin and lace. It featured a high lace collar and sheer, lace covered bodice. The full length fitted sleeves were fashioned of lace and formed petal points over her wrists. Tiny seed pearls accented the bodice and sleeves of the gown. The full skirt of satin featured lace appliques and flowed into a cathedral-length train.

She wore a scalloped hat decorated with seed pearls. It featured ribbon streamers and ribbon bow in the back.

Red roses accented with carnations and baby's breath formed the cascading bridal bouquet.

High Plains crop tour set

Crops in Castro county along with crops in Hereford, Muleshoe and Eastern New Mexico will be on display during a three-day High Plains Specialty Crop Tour July 28 through 30.

Sponsored by the New Mexico and Texas Extension Services, the tour will include stops at farms, packing sheds and other marketing operations.

"We have oriented our tour around production, marketing and variety," said tour organizer George Dickerson, NMSU Extension horticulturist. "We are trying to expose everyone to a variety of ideas. Some farmers like the challenge of developing their own markets, and others prefer working with commercial sheds."

Each daily tour will originate from the parking lot of the Clovis Holiday Inn. Participants will drive their own vehicles, so a full tank of gas is recommended at the start of each day. Car pooling will be encouraged to minimize the size of the car caravan and to economize.

On July 28, registration will begin at 8 a.m. with stops to tour blue corn, green beans, summer squash, watermelons and direct-seeded onions.

The tour will concentrate on packing sheds and processing after lunch.

A hospitality tour will follow at the Holiday Inn.

Registration starts at 7:30 a.m. on July 29, with the tour leaving the Holiday Inn at 8 a.m. The tour will include a look at peanuts, pecans, sweet potatoes, grass and alfalfa operations. After lunch, tour participants will view an ethanol plant, a mixed vegetable operation and the Melrose Fruit and Vegetable Market.

July 30 will be a long day, with registration starting at 6:30 a.m. and leaving from Clovis at 7 a.m. to go to Hereford.

The final day will include Larry Malamen's mixed vegetable production farm near Hereford, a tour of Arrowhead Mills, a stop at Easter where Kenneth Frye will explain cabbage production from the field to the market, and two stops in Muleshoe.

"I believe the most exciting element of the tour is the cooperation of everybody concerned," said Dickerson. "I think it will be an exciting three days."

Phil Lemons
GroAgri names Lemons district sales manager

Phil Lemons, of Dimmitt, has been named GroAgri's District Sales Manager for the Central High Plains of Texas.

Lemons is a 1982 graduate of Texas Tech University with a BS degree in Mechanized Agriculture. He has worked in sales for an equipment company in Dimmitt and as an assistant plant supervisor for a cotton seed delinting plant. Most recently, Lemons was in sales with another national seed company, covering the Central High Plains area.

Lemon's wife, Lori, is a teacher with Dimmitt Independent Schools.

GroAgri Seed Company, headquartered in Lubbock, markets cotton seed, hybrid grain and forage sorghums, hybrid corn and hybrid sunflowers throughout Texas, Kansas and Missouri.

Proposed USDA regulations could affect disaster payments

Recent and continuing crop losses on the High Plains have heightened interest in the possibility of disaster payments. Congress in the 1985 Farm Act gave the Secretary of Agriculture authority to institute such payments.

However unless changes are made, rules proposed by the USDA make it highly unlikely that the authority will be used.

"Even if a program were announced, the proposed regulations impose such stiff requirements that it would be a rare producer who could qualify for payments," said Murle D. Mitchell of Lenorah, president of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., in Lubbock at a meeting of the PCG Board of Directors July 8.

Farm law permits, but does not require the Secretary to make prevented planting and reduced yield disaster payments under certain conditions. Production losses have to be "substantial" and have to create an "economic emergency" that "all other assistance made available by the government" would alleviate.

The PCG reviewed USDA's proposal for effectuating this section of the law for the 1987 through 1990 crop years and developed comment outlining specific objections. The comment was sent to USDA in Washington July 9 with copies to appropriate representatives and senators.

The proposal would give payment eligibility only to producers who could show both production and economic losses of 60% or more, a loss level that is far in excess of the 1985 law's requirement that production losses be substantial and well above the economic loss necessary to create the economic emergency required by law.

Also, USDA would mandate that disaster payments be available only to producers in a county that has at least 60% production and economic losses and is declared an emergency disaster area by the Secretary at the request of the Governor. PCG objects that such a requirement is not imposed by the 1985 act and proclaims that "the intent of Congress was to provide relief precisely to those producers unable to get relief from other government assistance, which certainly would include producers who suffer severe losses outside a county eligible for emergency disaster loans."

In calculating economic loss above relief available from other government assistance, USDA proposes to include as relief the total value of available federal crop insurance indemnity payments and the total value of FmHA emergency loans.

PCG contends that since only about 30% of indemnity payments should be considered as "made available by the government."

On FmHA loans, PCG requests clarification of what constitutes their total value, suggesting that the savings realized from subsidized interest rates are the only true value involved.

CRP sign-up in progress

The sign-up for putting cropland into the government's Conservation Reserve Program is underway. This sign-up period ends July 31.

Land accepted into the CRP must be kept out of production for 10 years and prescribed conservation practices must be followed, points out Seth Ralston, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. This includes planting the land to grass or trees to prevent wind and water erosion, with costs shared by the government.

Landowners must submit a bid on eligible land to their local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office during the sign-up period. Land eligibility is determined by the Soil Conservation Service. If the bid is accepted, landowners will be paid that price annually over the 10-year period provided they follow the prescribed conservation plan.

Because several new phases of the CRP are being enacted this year, including sodbuster, swampbuster and conservation compliance, interest in the CRP should increase, says Ralston. Details on the total program are available at any local ASCS office.

The CRP is part of the 1985 farm bill and was initiated during the spring of 1986 as a five-year effort to take some 45 million acres of highly erodible cropland out of production across the United States. Some 11.5 million of these acres are targeted in Texas.

Farmers interested in learning more details about the CRP and about the type of land that is eligible should contact local offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service or the Soil Conservation Service.

Meeting is set

A meeting to discuss the need of Castro County becoming a herbicide regulated county under the provisions of the Texas Agriculture Code, Chapter 75, will be held at the Easter Community Center from 10 a.m. to 12 noon Monday.

Jimmy Bush, pesticide specialist of the Amarillo District, Texas Department of Agriculture, will give a program on current herbicide laws and regulatory provisions, how regulatory county status would affect producers and to answer questions.

All Castro County producers and agri-business persons are invited to attend the meeting.

Boulter to hold town meeting

US Rep. Beau Boulter will hold a town meeting in Happy Friday at 7:30 p.m. to focus on local, state and congressional efforts to bring the Superconducting Super Collider to the area.

The meeting will be held in the Happy High School cafeteria.

"I'm looking forward to a large crowd," Boulter said, "so that we can fully discuss this and any concerns or problems that I may be able to help with."

Lloyd Blanton had a difficult first part of the week in Plains Memorial Hospital in Dimmitt, but was dismissed Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Terry Blanton of Arizona came in last week-end to be with him.

Jimmy Cluck was admitted to High Plains Baptist Hospital with a blood pressure problem. They have been running tests and monitoring his heart this week. His aunt, Mrs. Loyd Farris was admitted last Saturday, but got to come home Sunday. They were on the same floor.

The family of Nora Loudder was called to Canterbury Villa in Dimmitt Wednesday morning when she began to develop a high temperature and collect fluid in her lungs. Verba Sadler and Teeny Bowden both spent Wednesday night with her. Rev. Bentley Gwyn stayed with them until midnight and took L.B. to Amarillo for his dialysis Thursday so Teeny could stay with her. Goldie Thompson stayed with them awhile Thursday, and Verba spent Friday night with her. Alton Loudder stayed with her Saturday morning and Goldie stayed Saturday afternoon while Teeny took L. B. for dialysis. Alton, Betty, Goldie, and Teeny spent the day with her Sunday. Her condition has not improved.

1.25 inches of rain was received Tuesday night in an electrical storm with high winds and small hail. Doug Loudder's pressure pump and microwave oven were burned out. Quite a bit of hail damage was reported. Another .60 was received Saturday night with high winds but no hail.

Gale and Verna Sadler flew from Lubbock Sunday morning to begin their study of Swahali in Limuru, Kenya. Embree Roy and Willie Mae Sadler took them to the airport.

Ruby Maude Ferguson (Tooter) called Teeny Bowden from Martinez, Calif. Tuesday night. She had seen Gale and Verna's picture in the Foreign Mission magazine "The Commission", and wanted to know more about where they would be in September. Her husband, Rev. Norris Fuller and son Craig will be going to Kenya Sept. 2 or 3 to meet friends who are missionaries serving in Tanzania. They are Dan and Peggy Rorabaugh and their three children.

The Rorabaughes worked in the church Norris pastored 20 years ago. They serve in the village of Biharamula while their children attend school in Nairobi. The village of Biharamula is located west-southwest of Lake Victoria.

Ruby Maude was born and raised in Sunnyside. She graduated from Dimmitt High School in 1942 and is anxious to attend a homecoming of that class. She asked to say "hello" to her friends in Sunnyside, Dimmitt and elsewhere.

side, Dimmitt and elsewhere.

She and Norris met while attending Wayland and have tried to go as foreign missionaries more than once, but they have been turned down because of her eyes and related health problems.

She was a Ferguson and is the niece of Howard Bridges of Dimmitt. Her father and grandfather were charter members of the Sunnyside Baptist Church, and her mother wrote the first history of the church.

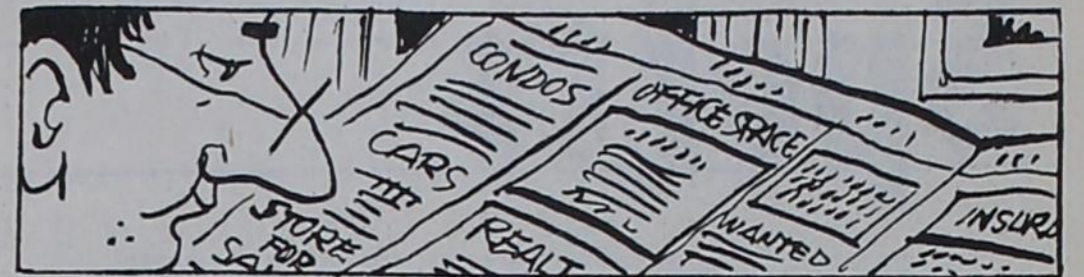

Verba and Ezell Sadler, Larry Sadler, Randy Powell and Nita McWilliams of Plainview attend the McWilliams reunion at Hubbard Creek Lake near Breckenridge over the weekend.

Judy Damron took Justin and Tracy to the plane in Lubbock two weeks ago and they flew to Austin for a visit with Clyde's sister and family. They flew home Friday evening.

R. S. and Merdell Rogers of Gustine spent the weekend with her sister, Dorothy Gilbreath, Matt and Hal.

Dorothy Gilbreath visited with Jimmy and Mary Cluck last Saturday in High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo.

Carl and Jeri Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Lewis, and Linda Sadler, Gregory and Amy, all of Lubbock, saw Gale and Verna Sadler off with E. R. and Willie Mae Sadler Sunday morning at the Lubbock airport. They will fly to Houston and then to Amsterdam, Holland, and then to Africa.

May and Bernie Hochstein and Nikki Schulte returned recently from Oregon where they spent ten days visiting their family, Susie and Floyd Walker and children, Sarah and Michael. Susie works as a C.C.R.N. in the Kaiser Sunnyside Medical System in Clackamas, Or., a suburb of Portland, Or. Joining them there was Alice Hochstein of El Paso. They spent much time sightseeing and the girls played and swam in the Milk Creek, a gathering place for all the neighborhood children, just below the Walker home.

On Sunday, they toured the Grotto of the Sanctuary of Our Sorrowful Mother in Portland, where they visited the outdoor Stations of the Cross, the wood carvings of the Seven Sorrows of Mary, the Joys and Sorrows of Saint Joseph and many other statues and carvings. The main attraction is the huge, outdoor Sanctuary, with a replica of Michaelangelo's famed "Pieta" in a cave-like setting above the altar where Holy Mass is celebrated daily.

They visited Fort Clatrop, where Lewis and Clark spent the winter of 1806 on their way from the Mississippi River to the Pacific Ocean. Frontier skills, demonstrated by the park staff in period costume told the story. Going on to the Pacific beach at Astoria, Or., they shivered through their visit to the wreck of the Peter Iredale and played in the cold, misty Pacific Ocean. They then crossed the four mile long Astoria Bridge over the Columbia River into the state of Washington. One day was spent in Silver Falls State Park near Salem, Or., where they hiked the canyon trails and viewed the many waterfalls. At the Bonneville Dam they watched the fish come through the viewing windows and toured the hatchery where fifteen million salmon are hatched every year. They drove on the Multnomah Falls, which is the second highest falls in the US. The falls are located 30 miles east of Portland in the Columbian River Gorge.

While looking for snow on top of Mt. Hood, where Olympic skiers hang out in the summer, they visited the Timberline Lodge built during the Great Depression with WPA labor by hundreds of master craftsmen hired by the government. Everything in the lodge is hand-carved from massive, hand-hewn beams, from stairways to furniture and decorations. On July 4, they attended a great parade, similar to ours — only larger, with logging equipment instead of farming equipment. They had the same beer trucks though. In the evening they watched a fireworks display in Molalla, Or., where they Walkers are members of the Catholic Church. It is only a few miles from Colton, Or., where they live and attend school.

Floyd Hoelting, his wife Jo Ellen, and their sons, Jason and Ryan spent a few days here visiting relatives. They were on a vacation-business trip coming from California and returning to their home in Towanda, Ill.

Several friends from Nazareth attended funeral services for Ricky Lupton, Jr., 40, in St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Hereford. He is survived by his parents, Richard and Katie Lupton of Hereford, a brother, Tony, and four sisters.

Tim and Rena Hellstein and children, Valerie and Tamara of New Braunfels, enjoyed several days here with their mother, Brigetta Dobmeier and other family members and friends.

Many relatives and friends attended the wedding for Jon Wych and Lori Gerber in Holy Family Church with Rev. Brendan Sherry officiating, assisted by Deacon Darryl Birkenfeld. Reception and dance followed at the Nazareth Community Hall.

Jack and Jean Kenneron, Sean and Shannon of Cincinnati, Ohio, are spending two weeks here with Jean's mother, Dora Albracht and family. A dinner was hosted at the home of Edd and Leola Ramaekers, celebrating Dora's 82nd birthday. Those enjoying the evening were Vincent and Rosie Ramaekers of Umbarger, Francis and Betty Wilhelm, Ralph and Evelyn Albracht and Jack and Joan Kenneron.

This past week the Kennerons and Dora Albracht enjoyed a trip to Carlsbad, Caverns, El Paso, and Wite Sands, N.M.

On Sunday, Jack and Jean Kenneron hosted a spaghetti supper for the family. 50 people enjoyed the evening.

Delese Ellison and Bernie Hochstein have returned from Dallas where they spent three days with Delese's sister-in-law, Bette Porter. A niece, Holly Houston of Ralls, accompanied them. A day at Six Flags and Wet and Wild highlighted their trip.

Relatives and friends attended the wedding of Phillip Birkenfeld of Nazareth and Mary Ann Hund of Hereford in St. Anthony's Catholic Church at Hereford Saturday afternoon.

A reception and dance followed at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Hereford.

Terry and Julie Hutson and family of Alvaredo, Greg and Mary Lou Venhaus family of Friona; Ed and Eileen Gerber and family of Yukon, Okla.; and Analene Lane and girls of Shallowater, visited with the Paul Venhaus family over the weekend. Lacy Venhaus, Danene and Jennifer Lane are spending the week with their grandparents, Paul and Lillian Venhaus.

Visiting with Darryl Birkenfeld and his family last week were Cecile and Miceal Appels of Herse-ldt, Belgium and Mireno Aguirre of Michelin, Belgium. While here, they enjoyed seeing the musical TEXAS, touring a feedlot, attending a local rodeo and helping with various farm and garden activities. On Saturday afternoon they attended the Gerber-Wych wedding at Nazareth and in the evening, they attended the Hund-Birkenfeld wedding dance at Hereford. They enjoyed learning various local dance steps and the Rough Riders Band.

On Saturday, Darryl and Joel accompanied the group to Albuquerque and Santa Fe, N.M., to visit friends. From there the Belgians will fly to California to visit relatives in Burbank and Los Angeles and Cecile's American host family in San Francisco. Cecile was an exchange student in 1982.

The Belgians were very impressed with the vast open spaces of Texas and the friendliness of the people here.

Participating in New Mexico's AAU State Tournament in Basketball this summer were Janay Johnson, Tami Ball, Darla Leavitt, Jennifer Brockman, Shana Birkenfeld and Stephanie Brockman.

Darla and Shana made the All-Star group at their age-levels. Janay's team, the South Plains Dusters lost the the Clovis Blue Angels in the state tournament and will represent Texas in national competition in Mississippi.

Jennifer, Stephanie and Shana's team, the Wes-Tex Sandies, competed at Clovis in the nationals tournament July 3 to 10 where they were defeated by teams from Georgia and North Carolina. Their team was proud to win the sportsmanship trophy for the tournament. After their 93-79 and 81-70 defeats, they played in the friendship tournament and won third place.

Darla and Tami's team, the Wes-Tex Stars, lost twice to the Clovis Blue Diamonds, which put them in second place in the 15-year-old division. Their team chose not to attend national competition.

Spotters find increase in insect populations

Cotton
Fleahopper infestations have increased dramatically in cotton fields, especially in southern Castro and northern Lamb counties. Fleahopper nymphs (immatures) are most common while adult numbers are low, often 10 or less per 100 plants. Since nymphs are much smaller than adults and don't fly, "quickie" scouting methods such as beating a cap against the plants to scare out the fleahoppers just won't work for nymphs.

The older cotton seems to have more fleahoppers at this time than the late May and June cotton.

Infestations have typically ranged from 20 to 40 nymphs per 100 plants, with some fields having 100 nymphs per 100 plants. Remember, the treatment threshold is 25 to 30 fleahoppers per 100 plants.

Fleahopper nymphs are commonly seen in the terminal area and on smaller squares lower on the plant. Newly-hatched nymphs are whitish until they feed, while older nymphs are pale green to green. Nymphs have long legs in proportion to their body and run very quickly. Since the nymphs are so small, it is necessary to carefully examine each square and the terminal to detect nymphs. Immature pirate bugs, a valuable beneficial, can be confused with fleahopper nymphs. Pirate bug nymphs are yellow-orange in color with a tapered head. The fleahopper has a broad head and longer legs than the pirate bug nymph.

Fleahopper nymphs and adults feed on pinhead size squares, causing the squares to shrivel and die. The cotton crop still needs to set squares for several more weeks, so square loss at this time cannot be tolerated without significant loss in yield. Once squares are 1/4 inch in diameter, they are no longer susceptible to fleahopper injury.

Fleahoppers reproduce on weed hosts (silverleaf nightshade, evening primrose and others) in layout fields and pasture. Fall and spring rains encourage weed growth and fleahopper reproduction. As weather turns hot and dry in June fleahoppers can fly from the maturing weeds into succulent squaring cotton.

Spider mite colonies are beginning to develop within corn fields. Colonies are very small, often with 5 to 10 mites per colony. Predatory mites, which eat spider mites and their eggs, have been observed in some mite colonies.

Western corn rootworm beetles are now commonly seen in corn. Large numbers of beetles sometimes create concern that pollination may be reduced as beetles chew back silk. Poor pollination may result if green silks are chewed back to within 1/2 inch of the shuck. This usually requires 8 to 10 beetles per plant, which is an unusually high number. Once silks turn brown, pollination is complete and rootworm beetles are no longer a concern this year. However, a large number of beetles could infest the field with eggs laid in the soil. Crop rotation or at-planting insecticide should then be considered if corn is planted next year in the same field.

Insecticides applied now for rootworm beetles should be used only when necessary. These treatments can result in an outbreak of spider mites by destroying beneficial mites and insects in the field.

Is it fair to tax insurance?

"Texas would be the only state in the nation to charge consumers a sales tax for insurance if legislation being considered by the Senate is approved," stated Tom Bond, Insurance League of Texas.

"Consumers are responding to Representative Dan Morales (D-San Antonio) tax proposal, H.B. 61, the same way people in Pennsylvania reacted when its Legislature passed an insurance sales tax," Bond explained. Pennsylvania legislators repealed the tax six days after it was passed as a result of over one million letters of protest from the insurance-buying public.

"Texas insurance consumers recognize an insurance sales tax is regressive," according to Bond. "This tax would be applied to all insurance in force and any new insurance purchased after its effective date. This means that consumers who pay premiums for life insurance they purchased years ago would pay the tax in addition to paying taxes on new insurance purchased."

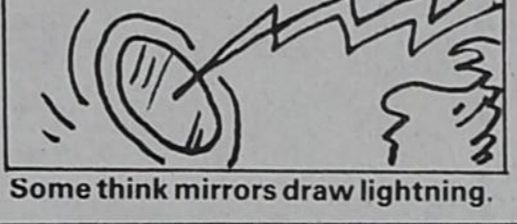

"Young families, those who earn average salaries and people on fixed incomes would be forced to pay an estimated $200-$300 more for insurance if H.B. 61 becomes law," Bond said.

"Insurance is virtually a necessity," Bond explained. He stated that insurance is the third highest cost people experience behind lodging and food.

"Health insurance is the means by which many people pay for their medical care, and together with life insurance provides the basic security on which young families make future plans. It also provides the foundation on which our senior citizens often times stake their very survival," Bond emphasized.

"A sales tax on insurance amounts to a substantial burden for hundreds of thousands of people in Texas," Bond concluded.

Social Security in Castro County

By TERRY J. CLEMENTS

Do you receive Social Security or supplemental security income (SSI) disability checks? If so, you should know that your case will be reviewed from time to time to make sure you continue to meet all requirements for benefits.

The timing of your review will depend on the nature and severity of your impairment, the likelihood for improvement, and other factors. A review could be scheduled as early as six months after your first month of eligibility if you have an injury or illness that is expected to improve. Or you may be reviewed only once every five to seven years if your impairment is considered more permanent and less likely to get better.

After you get a written notice, someone will interview you in person or by phone to explain the review process and your appeal and other rights. You will be asked how your impairment now keeps you from working and about your medical treatment and any work you may have done since the latest decision.

Your case will then be reviewed by an agency in your state that makes disability decisions on behalf of the Social Security Administration. The people there will request medical reports from sources that treated you. If additional medical evidence is needed and it is not available from your sources, you may be asked to take a special examination or test at government expense.

You will be notified in writing when a decision has been made. Benefits generally will continue unless evidence shows that your impairment has improved and you are able to do substantial gainful work. There are some limited exceptions, but they apply in relatively few cases.

For more information about disability reviews or other matters, contact us at 1401-B W. Fifth St. in Plainview, or call us at 293-9623.
