Russia Jumps Blockade Lifting Deadline 40 Hours

Ranger is the center of the agriculture and livestock industries of the area with relative industries bringing much business to the town. It is also the home of Ranger Junior College, one of the best public junior colleges in the state.

Well...
I Dunno,
But...

Well, this is a changing world. Read this morning where a Harvard professor has predicted synthetic ham and eggs and sugar. Of course, that will likely come too late for us to have to get used to 'em but the idea clings that Texans particularly won't like that kind of fare.

The same professor believes that the world's population may grow to be 16 billions and the United States may have as many as one billion. That'd make Ranger's population ten times as great as it is now or about 70,000 people. (City commission please take note.)

Furthermore, the professor believes that man will have to do without meat and eggs because the animals and fowls that produce them will consume too much food that man will need.

To say the least of all of this, it's highly speculative, and synthetic ham and eggs doesn't sound very filling.

But synthetic bids fair to become as common a term as plastic. The latter has touched practically everything that man uses except his food and it may get around to that.

I heard a man say the other day he'd be glad when he could pick up a newspaper that didn't have Shanghai and Russia spread all over the front page. Ditto, to the sentiment, but we're afraid that man won't get his wish very soon. Both at the present seem destined to keep a spot on the front pages for sometime. Or maybe we should say a "blot on the front pages."

The parking meter argument goes on. But like anything else that's a debated question, there's one sure way to find out and that's to try it. It costs nothing to give the meters a trial and after the trial, the people themselves could determine whether they wanted 'em or not.

By way of debunking some arguments against the meters, it seems perfectly obvious an empty threat that citizens would drive out of their way to go to some other town to shop simply because they were mad at the town for having parking meters. Furthermore, there'll still be meterless parking space in Ranger and if there are those who don't want to spend a penny to park, they can seek those places. Most parkers complain that they can't get close to Main Street anyway, because space is already filled.

Anyway, we never will know 'til we've tried 'em.

Mercedes Gets Aid On REA Line

WASHINGTON, May 10 (UP)—The Rural Electrification Administration today loaned $385,000 to Magic Valley Cooperation, Mercedes, Tex., for construction of 155 miles of line to serve 757 new rural consumers and for improvements in its rural electric service.

Rhee Says He Has Solution For Uniting North And South Korea

SEOUL, May 10 (UP)—President Syngman Rhee said today that he has been advised not to be aggressive but that if he had a free hand he felt he could unite North and South Korea.

This could be done, he told the United Press in an exclusive interview, by calling for an uprising of anti-Communist elements in North Korea on a fixed date. Only moral or military support would be needed, he said.

However, he said he first would have to be sure that the "dikes" would hold against an impending Communist invasion from China and Russia.

"And on that score I continually counsel my people to have patience," he said.

Rhee said the United States has left the newly-born Korean Republic with an almost insoluble problem.

HOUSE OPENS DEBATE ON APPROPRIATION BILL

AUSTIN, Tex., May 10 (UP)—Debate opened today in the House on a $50,000,000 (M) departmental appropriation bill, the third of four major spending bills to be offered to the lower chamber.

The House previously has passed, and sent to the Senate, "must" appropriations covering the operation of eleemosynary institutions, and the state's judiciary system for the next two years.

The departmental appropriation for the coming biennium, bearing the name of Rep. Ray Kirkpatrick of Trenton, appropriations committee chairman, would continue emergency pay raises granted to state employees.

The bill would authorize expenditure of $50,000,000 to meet appropriations totaling $9,500,000 were beaten down.

But efforts to trim a biennial appropriation for the states junior college failed. The junior college bill was prepared for final action on a figure of $4,200,000 compared to the $3,025,000 in the committee-approved version.

Failing to gain a two-thirds vote for final action were: A $2,000,000 appropriation to create a medical branch of the University of Texas at Dallas and a $500,000 stipend for a similar branch at Temple, as well as a $1,000,000 appropriation for a third branch at San Antonio.

A $5,000,000 soil conservation program.

A $1,000,000 appropriation to convert Lamar Junior College at Beaumont into a four-year school.

But a plan to appropriate $4,

015,614 for the next two years on vocational education was approved by the House and sent to the Senate.

Bonus Hopes Fade—AUSTIN, Tex., May 9 (UP)—Veterans' hopes for a Texas soldier's bonus grew dim today.

A proposed constitutional amendment, by Rep. J. A. Benton of Wylie, to pay a $300,000,000 in bonuses to Texas veterans of three wars was sent to subcommittee last night by the House affairs committee. Benton would raise funds by a bond issue.

A "two-week" time limit was set for the subcommittee to report back, which virtually sounded the death knell for the bonus, as far as the 51st legislature is concerned.

Under Benton's plans veterans of the Spanish American War and two World Wars would have received $40 for each month's domestic service and $15 for overseas service, or a maximum of $500 whereas prisoners of war and dependents of deceased veterans would have received up to $750.

Communist Push Shanghai Drive

SHANGHAI, May 10 (UP)—Powerful Communist forces estimated at 200,000 men renewed their drive on Shanghai today while other Communist columns reportedly forced the start of a Nationalist withdrawal from Hankow in central China.

Press reports said that Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi, commander of the Hankow garrison, had started to move his 300,000 troops southward toward Canton to avoid being trapped by the Communists.

The renewed Communist drive on Shanghai's approaches started last night and was reported still raging furiously 12 hours later. The Communists were reported hitting hardest at Kaiting, only 22 miles northwest of Shanghai, and Kunshan, 30 miles west.

At Kaiting, the Communists were only 15 miles west of the Wousung forts guarding the Whangpoo river, Shanghai's only outlet to the sea.

Military authorities ordered the Shanghai population to prepare for a state of siege by laying in emergency food supplies sufficient for several months. City police were placed on a wartime footing.

Rancher To Give ACC $50,000

FORT WORTH, May 10 (UP)—Abilene Christian College stood today to receive a $50,000,000 gift "on certain provisions," from a retired Fort Worth rancher and implement man.

He is George W. Birchfield, former trustee of the college. Announcement of the gift was made yesterday in a report on the school's proposed $8,350,000 expansion program. Donations to date total $250,000.

Roanoke Police Search For Clue In Girl Slaying

ROANOKE, Va., May 10 (UP)—Police today delved into the love life of beautiful blonde Dana Marie Weaver in an attempt to establish a motive for her savage parish house murder.

Every sleuth in the Roanoke police department was assigned to the baffling slaying.

The broken body of the slender, 16-year old high school junior was found yesterday in the parish house kitchen of Christ Episcopal Church. She had been beaten to death with a soft drink bottle and choked.

Police learned that Dana broke off with her "best boy friend" a few days before she was killed Sunday night.

But the youth is not an active suspect, they emphasized.

"We've checked that already," said detective Capt. Frank H. Webb, "but there are a lot of things we haven't found out as yet about her background."

Webb said the youth is a student at Jefferson High School where the pretty little blonde was a popular coed.

Earlier today police questioned an unidentified suspect in the slaying but released him on bond pending trial on other charges.

Webb said the man was arrested several weeks ago for accosting women along the shady streets near the ivy-covered stone church and suggesting obscene affairs.

Webb said most leads have led to a blank wall but that he is working on a "definite possibility" that Dana was "attacked by" a would-be rapist who saw her enter the parish house alone.

Vet Pension Gets House Group Nod

WASHINGTON, May 10 (UP)—The House veterans committee today tentatively approved a compromise "low-cost" pension measure under which all needy veterans of both World Wars would get $72 a month at age 65.

The committee rejected all proposed amendments to the measure but put off a final vote on approval until tomorrow.

The compromise would add only about $12,000,000,000 (B) in the next half century to the cost of pensions provided in existing regulations, according to committee staff estimates. A pension bill defeated earlier in the House, by one vote would have cost an extra $100,000,000,000 (B) to $125,000,000,000 (B).

Under present regulations needy veterans may qualify for pensions if they suffer at least 10 per cent disability.

The compromise bill would write these regulations into law but it would eliminate the disability qualification for veterans aged 65.

Two Injured In Collision Near Ranger Today

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Nardulli, Pomona, California were injured about 6 o'clock this morning when their car was in a collision with a cattle truck about three and a half miles east of Ranger on Highway 80.

Both received cuts and bruises and Mrs. Nardulli sustained a fractured bone in one shoulder, it was reported at the Ranger General Hospital where they were taken for treatment.

Highway patrolmen who investigated the accident stated that the Nardullis were enroute to Chicago to visit a son and the truck which belongs to Jimmie Trigg of Cisco was headed west.

The truck driver swerved the truck over on the right hand side of the highway, striking the Nardulli car which is completely demolished.

E. E. Taylor of Cisco is also in the Ranger General Hospital being treated for a slight head injury, but patrolmen stated that Taylor denied being the driver of the truck, and disclaims any knowledge of anything that has happened since about 10 o'clock last night. The truck, though damaged, can be repaired, it was stated today.

NEGRO HEALER WANTS TO GO ON "COMMITTIN" HIS MIRACLES

HOUSTON, Tex., May 10 (UP)—"Bishop" Elder A. Bonds, negro faith healer, announced today from his swank trailer home that he planned to stay on here "committin'" miracles regardless of outside interference.

His actual "committin'" won't be hard, said the bespectacled "bishop," if police and doctors would let him move in his usual paths.

Bonds, who has casually announced he first started praying when he was one day old, said his "usual paths" didn't include courtrooms, where he was forcibly side-tracked yesterday.

He appeared in answer to a corporation court charge of "assembling on a sidewalk" and "obscuring of a faith healer." Hundreds of his followers jammed streets for ten blocks around the courthouse, creating a traffic jam that lasted an hour.

Later, at a gigantic "healing" meeting, thousands swarmed around his trailer and 15 ambulances drove up believers to be cured.

Bonds' self-designated title of "The Divine Healer Of The World" is no accident, he explained.

His exploits, he noted, included saying a few words like, "Lord, have mercy," when he was one-day old; preaching a sermon at the age of three, and dying when he was 33, only to be resurrected three days later.

"I died when I was 33," said Bonds. "Strong and healthy, but I just died. Then I heard the voice of the spirit, saying, 'awake from your sleep and go unto the gospel.'"

The "bishop," unable to read or write, said his "miracles" had come to rest on Houston ever since the day six weeks ago that "the voice of the spirit" spoke to him in Miami, Fla.

He was drawn to Texas, he avowed, by his prognostications of the tragic Texas City disaster of 1947.

It was in one of his "five-day trances" that Bonds forecast

Former Frankell Resident Dies

Funeral services for Clarence Walter Breckenridge, a former resident of Frankell, will be held at Evergreen Cemetery Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Killingsworth in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Breckenridge died in Hollywood, California, Monday, May 9.

He had resided for the past six years in Hollywood and prior to that had made his home for a number of years at Frankell. His wife, Mrs. Maud Breckenridge preceded him in death in 1934.

Survivors are two sons, Walter Breckenridge and Aaron Breckenridge, both of Hollywood.

In 1880 the average farm worker in Illinois produced 23 acres of harvested crops. Now the average is three times that.

both the first and second Texas City blasts, he claimed.

In his trailer, currently resting on "God's Holy Ground," the preacher's evangelist wife nodded agreement in placing only minor interest in finances.

"The Lord has blessed us," she said. "Our income isn't continuous, but sometimes it's as much as $98 a day. It's nice work, but it's compellin'."

Blockade Is About To End

BERLIN, May 10 (UP)—Russian authorities began lifting the Berlin blockade 40 hours before the deadline today when they restored electric power to parts of the western sectors.

The Soviet action gave American sector housewives unrationed electricity in the middle of the morning for the first time since power rationing was forced upon Western Berlin by the Soviet blockade last July 9.

Radios played and electric stoves glowed as the power flowed into American sector lines from the Soviet sector. All of Berlin's major power generating stations are in the Soviet sector.

German electric power authorities said the restoration of electricity to the western sectors would take place gradually.

Full service, such as extended before the Russians cut off the power during the first weeks of their blockade, will not be effected until some time Thursday, they said.

Restoration of power was started 40 hours before the official time set for ending the blockade—12:01 A. M. Thursday, (6:01 P. M. EDT, Wednesday.)

At that minute the first of 16 Allied trains a day will begin to roll into Berlin for the first time since the Russians cut off all surface transportation 11 months ago.

The number of trains a day was set under an order by Gen. Vassily C. Chuikov, new Soviet military commander, providing that traffic regulations between the east and west zones return to the status of March 1, 1948.

The 16 trains will supply the western sectors with about 16,000 tons a day, somewhat less than the Anglo-American airlift achieved at its highest point.

All freight and passengers on the trains will be passed without restriction. However, the Russians still will retain the privilege of licensing freight shipments going westward out of Berlin.

Western authorities meanwhile instructed Lord Mayor Ernst Reuter to lift Allied counter-blockade measures against the Soviet Zone at the same time.

The directive was issued in the name of the Berlin Kommandatura. The Soviet Berlin commandant walked out of the Kommandatura July 1, 1948, leaving only the American, British and French commanders in Berlin represented.

In addition to the trains getting ready to enter Berlin, large convoys in Hamburg announced that boats capable of carrying 60,000 tons of supplies were standing by to resume shipments to Berlin on the Elbe-Havel river.

Barges with a capacity of 40,000 tons also were waiting in Hamburg for resumption of traffic with Czechoslovakia as soon as the blockade ends.

Oil Development To Rest On U. S.

COLLEGE STATION, May 10 (UP)—A heavy load in world oil development will fall to American oil companies, John R. Suman, vice president of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, believes. Addressing Texas A&M College students last night, Suman said, however, that the export of American capital and technology must find "favorable political, legal and economic conditions" in the "receiving" countries.

Gorman Oil News

By Buena Van Winkle

Several interesting sales and trades have been in progress in the oil developments in our area within the last ten days or so. Perhaps one of the most interesting—one which has caused some comment more than others is the sale by Star Oil Co. of their Buck Anderson well out in Deaf and Dumb Asylum lands Survey, Sec. 21, the northwest quarter of the section, and Edwards Oil Co. their J. C. Cook well in the northeast quarter of the same section down in Comanche County—just over the line from Eastland County—to Mr. Hoffmann of Eastland. Hoffmann intends to make wells out of both operations, we understand. These holdings are about 5 or 6 miles southwest of Gorman and both wells show promise.

The Jay and Parker Company are still doing a fishing job, the only difference between today's and yesterday's reports is that they lost the grappling tools in the hole, and now have two strings to pull out instead of the one reported yesterday. If they were not as deep as they are, it might be the smart thing to do to skid over and drill a new hole, however, 2390 feet is a lot of hole to have to give up, especially when it was drilled the slow cable tool route.

Commercial Production Co. are having several more locations drilled in the very near future.

McClung No. 1 Miller Estate do have some pretty show in their well out north of Stephenville, in the Hannibal community, but we do not know just how much it will run into. The present drilling is slightly more than 3,200 feet in the Marble Falls. Pust was topped at 3,149.

Quite a bit of bustle is being occasioned in a quiet way about a possible Ellenberger test south of Gorman.

SUPREME COURT STUDIES TIDELANDS CASE PLEA

WASHINGTON, May 10 (UP)—The Supreme Court today studied a new plea by the justice department that it should be allowed to sue Texas and Louisiana to establish federal rights over wealthy oil lands in the Gulf of Mexico.

F. D. Glass Jr. has moved some of his machinery to his No. 2 location on the B. A. Hirst tract, but he is hampered by the weather, also. Apparently the rigging will not be continued until the roads are not so bottomless. The No. 2 B. A. Hirst well is south and east about 2 locations from the No. 1 first thought. That way Mr. Glass is going back down toward the Jeff Smith and the Jay and Parker T. N. Watt operations.

The court took the case under advisement late yesterday after hearing three hours of arguments by Solicitor General Phillip B. Perlman, for the federal government, and spokesmen for the two states.

The states claim that the lands underlying the Gulf of Mexico are their own property and do not belong to the U. S.

The court is expected sometime during the next six weeks to announce whether the justice department may file original suits in the high court. It could, as urged by Texas, rule that any such suits should be brought in a U. S. District Court.

Texas Attorney General Price Daniel challenged the authority of Attorney General Tom Clark to "determine the national policy" over the controversial tidelands. He said the question of state-versus-federal title to the oil lands should be settled by Congress.

Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson asked Daniel:

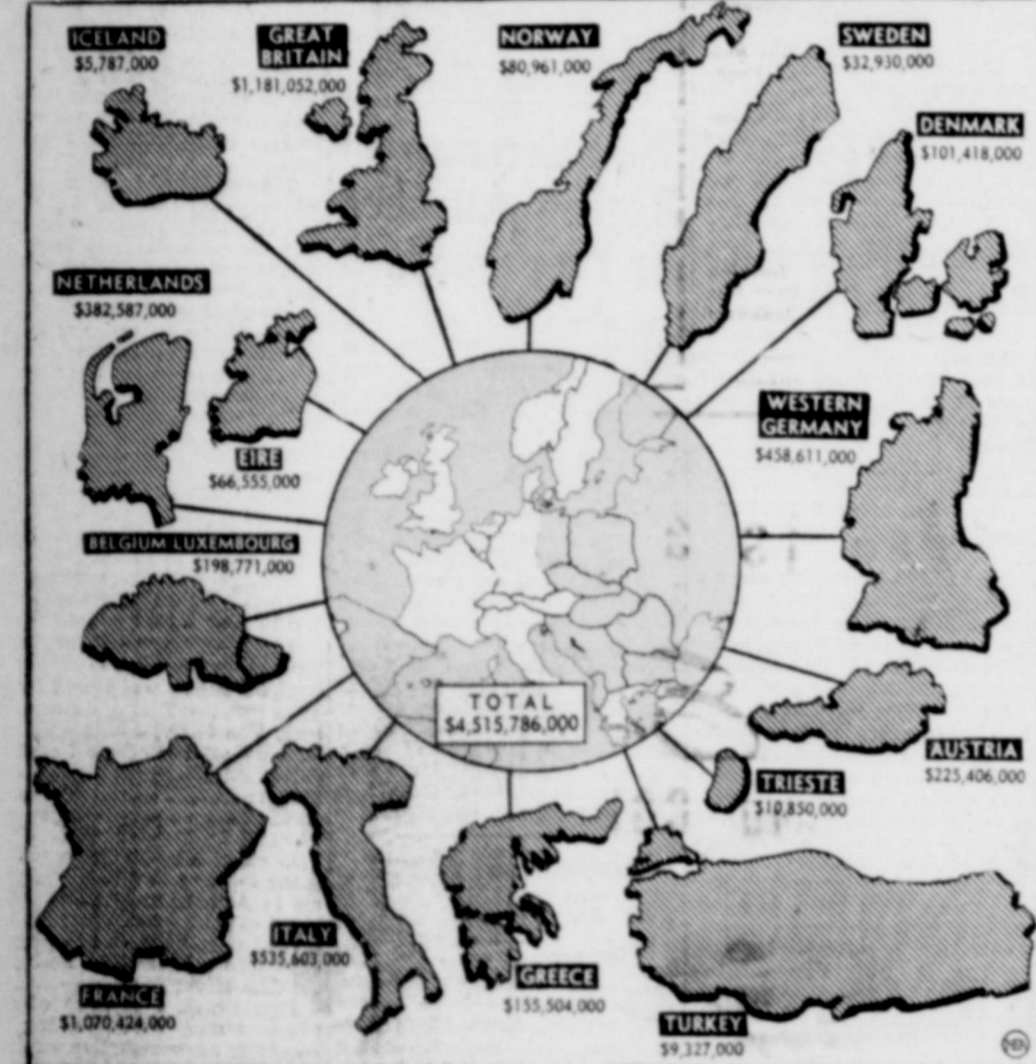

"How could this court stand still and do nothing with the government claiming it is entitled to benefits flowing from the oil classes?"

Louisiana, through Attorneys L. H. Ferris, New Orleans, and F. Trowbridge Von Baur, Washington, argued that the United States cannot sue a sovereign state without its consent.

Daniel said he believed the court had overruled such an argument in past cases but that Texas was willing "to take a free ride on the state of Louisiana" if the court chose to reconsider this question.

Marshall Plan Has Its First Birthday

Waltz into Darkness

BY WILLIAM IRISH

THE STORY: Waltz into Darkness centers on a correspondence between a Miss Julia Russell, whom he has never seen. She comes from St. Louis to New Orleans by boat to meet him. She is young, ravishing, blond. Within a month of their marriage, she withdraws $200,000 from his bank account and disappears. Investigation proves her an impostor. Darned retorts Walter Downes, detective, to prove that a woman was committed against the real Julia Russell, who vanished on the boat trip to New Orleans. A year later, Downes is alone in Biloxi. He makes the acquaintance of a Colonel Worth in a hotel bar, accidentally discovers that the colonel's name is Miss Julia, to the woman he knew as Julia. A case gets him into her empty hotel room. He spies behind a screen at her approach. She enters, sits down at a desk to write a letter. He walks over and puts his hand on her shoulder.

XXV

HER fright was the fright of guilt, and not innocence. Even before she could have known who it was. For she didn't turn to look, as the innocent of her would have. She held her head rigidly as it was, turned the other way, neck taut with suspense. She was afraid to look. There must have been some guilt strewn behind her to her life, that anyone's sudden touch, in the stillness of her room, she must have known could bode no good.

Her one hand dropped the pen lifelessly. Her other claved secretly at the sheet of notepaper, sucking it up, causing it to disappear. Then dropping it, crumpled over the desk side.

Still she didn't move; the sleek tawny-colored head held still, like something an axe was about to fall on.

Her eyes had found him in the mirror by now. It was over to the left of her, and when he looked at it himself, he could see, in the reflection of her tawny-white face, the pupils darkening to the far corner of her eyes, giving her an ugly unnatural appearance, as though she had black eyeballs.

"Don't be afraid to look around, Julia," he said ironically. "It's only me. No one important. Merely me."

SUDDENLY she turned, so swiftly that the transplacement of the silken back of her head by the plaster-white cast of her face was almost like an apparition.

"You act as though you don't remember me," he said softly. "Surely you haven't forgotten me, Julia. Me of all people."

"How'd you know I was here?" she demanded granularly.

"I didn't. I was the other man who was to have met you at the restaurant party tonight."

"How'd you get in here?"

"Through the door."

She had risen now, defensively, and was trying hard to reverse the desk chair to get it between them, ready as it was, but there was no room to allow for its insertion.

He took it from her and set it to rest with his hand.

She stroked one arm, shivering, all the way up to the top.

"What is it, Lou? What are your plans for me?"

His hand rose slowly to that part of his coat which covered where the gun was resting against him. Remained there a moment. Then crept around to the inside and found it, by the handle. Then drew it out, so slowly, so slowly the home handle, the nicked chambers and fluted barrel seemed never to stop coming.

"I came here to kill you, Julia."

A SINGLE glance she gave it. Just enough to identify it, to see that he had the means to do it on his person. Then after that, her eyes were for his alone, never left them from then on.

She moved toward him slowly.

closer step by step. Then halted as the gun touched her.

"All right, Lou," she whispered. He withdrew the gun from between them.

She came a step closer with its removal.

"Don't hesitate, Lou," she breathed. "I'm waiting."

His head edged backward, carrying him a hair's breadth off. He stuffed the gun into his side pocket, to be rid of it, hastily, fumblingly, careless how he did so.

And there was the answer. If she'd been a gambler, she'd won. If she'd been no gambler, she'd read his eyes right the first time.

She gave no sign. Not even of having triumphed; which is the way of the triumphant when they are clever as well. His face was bedewed with accumulated moisture, as though it were he who had taken the risk.

"Then if you won't kill me, what do you want of me?" she asked.

"To take you back to New Orleans and hand you over to the police," he said grimly. "Get yourself ready."

"If it's the money, wait—I have some here, I'll give it to you. And if it's not enough, I'll make it up—I swear I will."

"Not for that. You were my wife, in law, and there was no crime committed, in law."

"Then for what?"

"To answer what became of Julia Russell. The real one. You're not Julia Russell, and you never were. Do you pretend you are?"

She didn't answer. He thought he could detect more real fright now than at the time of the gun. Her eyes were wider, more strained, at any rate.

"To tell them what you did with her," he said. "And there's a name for that. Would you like to hear it?"

"No, no!" she protested.

"Mur—" he began.

And then her hands had found his mouth and stopped it, terrifiedly. "No, no! Lou, don't say that! I had nothing to do with it. I don't know what became of her. Only listen to me, hear me; Lou, please listen to me!"

ELECTRA PASSES ORDER TO SLOW STREAMLINERS

ELECTRA, Tex., May 10 (UP)—A sleek Fort Worth & Denver Zephyr streamliner will get a circus-style welcome Friday in this town which refused to become a "whistle stop" without a fight.

Major T. Leo Moore, cigar-smoking former circus press agent, confidently told city councilmen last night that the streamliner would halt at the Electra station.

The council passed an ordinance that Moore thought would turn the trick and a brass band will be on hand to welcome the train and its passengers. Other appropriate ceremonies will be conducted at the station.

Moore's announcement came only a few hours after the Texas Railroad Commission had ordered eight northwest Texas towns classified as "conditional stop" for the railways two crack streamliners.

The commission order said the Zephyrs would discharge and pick up only long-haul passengers and that a slower passenger train would serve those traveling interim distances.

But Electra's council hurriedly assembled and passed an ordinance requiring the Zephyrs to slow down to 15 miles per hour within the town's corporate limits.

The ordinance also requires the railway to place flagmen at certain crossings and safety signals at others, in addition to installing railway crossing safety gates.

Violators of the ordinance will be fined $5 to $100 after Thursday midnight, when the new law becomes effective.

Electra and the seven sister towns protested last month that they would become mere "whistle stops" if streamliner service is discontinued.

Moore said last night that the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, through Joe Stidham, its legislative council, would join Electra in Travis County District Court to help the commission order.

PRINCESS MARGARET TO VISIT POPE PIUS TODAY

ROME, May 10 (UP)—Princess Margaret Rose of Great Britain is scheduled to visit his holiness, Pope Pius XII, at 5:15 P. M. today (11:15 A. M. EDT) for the first papal visit by any member of the British Royal family in 26 years.

Margaret is scheduled to chat for 15 or 20 minutes with the pontiff in the papal library. It will be the first visit by a member of Britain's ruling family since Margaret's grandparents, George V and Queen Mary, visited the Vatican on May 9, 1923.

News of the visit raised a murmur of protest among English Protestants but Buckingham Palace sources in London disclosed that it has the tacit approval of Margaret's father, King George VI.

The British royal family severed religious relations with the Roman Catholic Church during the reign of the much-wed Henry VIII in the 16th century.

A spokesman for the Archbishop of Canterbury, head of the protestant church of England, said the Archbishop had "no statement to make" when informed of Margaret's visit to the pope.

Only a handful of papal attendants will be present when the

A Vatican source stressed that the occasion will be a "visit, not an audience." The Princess will arrive in Vatican City by automobile and will be taken to the papal library from the high-walled courtyard of St. Damasus.

She will be attended by her chaperone, Lady Mary Harvey, and will be presented to the pontiff by John Victor Thomas Perowne, British minister to the Vatican.

The pontiff, it was believed, will have only a couple of his closest advisers with him. According to custom, the pope will present the princess a silver medal coined during his pontificate.

"The visit will be contained within the limits of a private nature," a Vatican source said. Buckingham Palace sources said the possibility of the visit was discussed before Margaret left for Italy and no objection was raised in the royal family.

Horse Not Fast Enough WELCH, W. Va. (UP)—It was the battle of the machine and the horse and once again the horse lost. This time it cost an alleged Army deserter his freedom. The serviceman was on horseback when police spotted him. They flagged a passing switch engine and chased the horse for a mile up the tracks. The horseman was nabbed at his home.

First Softball Game Friday

The first softball game of the season will be played in Ranger Friday night at 8 o'clock when the Rangers meet the I&X team from Breckenridge. The game will be played on the City Softball Field. E. F. Arterburn, president of the Quarterback Club stated today that so far Ranger does not have enough teams to form a league and that the time for registering a team is getting short. He urged that fans make up as many as four teams in order that Ranger may have an intra-city schedule. Otherwise, Arterburn pointed out, the Ranger team will have to play out-of-town teams.

Nelson May Enter U. S. Open Tourney

FORT WORTH, May 10 (UP)—Rumors were strong here today that Byron Nelson, famed linkman, will come out of his semi-retirement in June to compete in the U. S. Open.

Friends close to the golfer said he may make a definite announcement this weekend.

The 1939 Open king has not played in the tournament since 1946, when he tied with Lloyd Mangrum and Vic Ghezzi, losing to Mangrum in a second playoff.

People Offered Revelation Ride In New Hudson

More than 25 county residents have accepted invitations from the Fuller Motor Co. to take a demonstration ride in the new Hudson as part of Hudson's nationwide "Revelation Ride" campaign according to Bud Fuller, president of the dealership which serves the Ranger and Eastland areas.

Thousands of Americans took "Revelation Rides" in cities and towns throughout the United States last week, Fuller stated. "Millions have voted the new Hudson America's most beautiful car," Fuller said. "But those millions of people can never know the exciting advantages this beautiful automobile offers them until they drive and ride the new Hudson."

"That's why we are setting out to take the people for a Revelation Ride — to thrill them with the knowledge that their visions of a great postwar car have been fulfilled."

The "Revelation Ride" campaign was launched with a nationwide broadcast celebrating Hudson's fortieth anniversary and carried by 513 stations of the Mutual Broadcasting System.

"Our invitation for a Revelation Ride will be extended to our friends and neighbors over the radio, in the magazines and newspapers, on outdoor display boards and through the mail," Fuller said.

"This Time It's Hudson"

"It is our intention to help the public to understand and appreciate all the remarkable advantages the new Hudson brings them, by making it possible for them to ride in, and drive, the Hudson."

He pointed out that the new Hudson is a new type of automobile.

able, advanced in design and construction beyond the experience of many motorists. Millions of motorists will therefore be happy to avail themselves of the opportunity to become acquainted with the new Hudson, he declared.

DETROIT, (UP)—Robert L. Southern forced three automobiles off the road but did not notice that one was a patrol car. It cost him $50.

The "spitting cobra" is perhaps more dangerous than other cobras, since they not only bite at close range but some species may "spit" venom from a short distance.

Temperatures at Fairbanks, Alaska, range from 90 degrees above zero to 60 degrees below, a variation of 150 degrees.
