BY HARMAN W. NICHOLS in Miss Hayworth's coat there Uunied Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31(UP) -Inside of eight or 10 years anyone can own a chinchilla coat -for $8,000 or $10,000.

But right now, the price is a little high. Rita Hayworth wore a toss-around that was worth about $75,000 when she married Aly Khan. Another coat of the same kind once sold for $85,000. These aren't par for the course, because there are cheaper garments. Some come as low as $25,in fine health despite reports that sale, for there are only 25 in the single hair off the back of a show resumed. world at this moment. I got all of this information from the chincilla people who are much since. about to pitch a national chinchilla show here. Stanley W. Pangborn, the chairman, has a "ranch" in the area.

"We are about to go from animals to coats," he said. Pangborn gave out a little history of the chinchilla, which looks tory of the chinchilla, which looks MARCH OF DIMES

The chinchilla is a native of the Andes Mountains of South America. For many years, exporting of the animal was a profit able business for the natives. Then, all of a suden the natives found the little fellows were good to eat. They ate so many that the told of reports that she had enter- critters almost become extinct.

In 1923, a mining engineer named M. F. Chapman went into She laughed again before saying the wilds of the Andes and captured 11 of the cute little animals, three females and eight males. He figured the altitude was too great so he brought them down a little at a time. It took him a long time at the rate of 1000 feet a month.

Chapman found that the animals could go three or four days without food or water, so he cor cluded they could be raised in captivity.

Chinchillas still aren't cheap. If you want to start a ranch, it'll cost you about $1500 a pair to start. You can depend on these to produce from one to two litters a year, with one to five babies in Most ranches of the chinchillas ype are without too much space. Pangborn's space, where he keeps ome 200 animals, looks like a hen house. It's 36 by 58 feet,

"Up to now," Pangmorn said, we have been working on the reeding stock. But this year the industry combined hopes to get out a couple of coats. They won't be cheap-and they won't be for a long, long time. From here on we'll produce enough pelts to nake a couple of coats a year. That's not going to be easy, ither. Or chean. In the ordianry coat, 180 chinchillas have to give up their lives.

Zachry said the company, which serves 41 cities in Texas, New Mexico and Colorado, plans to redeem and retire all of its outstanding first mortgage bonds, which totals $10,790,000.

The company also will redeem 3-one-fourth per cent sinking fund debenture totaling $3,670, 000 and bank loans to $5,000,
