PRICE FIVE CENTS No. 241

Gubitchev To Be Deported Home Monday

Well...
I Dunno,
But...

Mexico and the state of Colorado are certainly going all out for the flying saucers. Even the meteorological observers in Mexico claim to have observed the objects through their instruments. They don't like the word "saucer" but they admit they saw flying bodies.

Two Colorado men claim to have been chased by one of the objects that they say "zipped" around their car when they stopped to try to get a better look. They say it was too fast for a bird and too small for an airplane.

Won't somebody please come up with a logical explanation and let's get the thing over with.

A statement made here recently stands out like a sore thumb in a story we got over the wire today. It was stated here that corporations don't pay the bills on taxes and high wages, they are passed on to the consumer.

And sure enough it comes out today that the coal bill of the United States will be upped $84,000,000 this year because of the increase in miners' wages set forth in the new contracts signed recently by John L. Lewis.

In that case it seems that consumers should get wise to the labor racket and do a little striking themselves. No doubt, those who have to pay that increased coal bill will not have had salary boosts themselves.

It's a mad merry-go-round, if you ask us.

Ugh, here we go again. In our mail this morning was a letter from a man at Gause who claims that he was told by "internationally known experts" (meteorologists, etc.) that the flying saucers or meteorites weren't that at all but probably were guided objects launched by a foreign power from a military establishment.

The incident came up over the famous Navajo meteorite that fell in the Navajo reservation in Arizona in 1948. Then a resident of the Arizona desert, the writer says he witnessed the flight of the meteorite and it was to his home that the experts came to study the situation.

The man who wrote the letter was recently a candidate for the State Board of Education.

As we said before, for heaven's sake, let's get this thing settled.

This young lawyer certainly has our sympathetic understanding. It's happened to us a number of times recently.

TRI-COUNTY SHOW HORSE EXHIBITS DRAW INTEREST

James Ratliff who is in charge of horse exhibits at the Tri-County Livestock Show opening here Friday stated today that there is considerable interest in the quarterhorse division and that many of last year's exhibitors will be back with horses this year.

Ratliff stated that most of the horses brought in the day of the show and it is not possible now to tell the exact number that will be entered.

Winners in this division are awarded ribbons as the cash prizes are reserved for the junior exhibitors.

The show opens Friday morning and all animals that will be exhibited must be in stalls by 11 o'clock that morning. The sifting committee will begin its work at 1 o'clock and poultry judging will be done Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Charles T. Bott is superintendent of the poultry division and Jim W. Control Crew Still Unable To Cap Wild Well

TYLER, Tex., March 15 (UP)—A runaway oil well spewed a black geyser 50 feet in the air today two miles south of Tyler as a six-man crew made a second attempt to cap it.

The well, the No. 1 John Campbell blew in at 8 a. m. CST yesterday and immediately became uncontrollable. A control crew was called in by Bobby Manziel, independent Tylest oilman who owns the well, but made no headway during the day.

John Jobe of Houston, an expert in controlling wild wells, told the crew to get away from the immediate vicinity of the derrick last night. They began machining special tools to use in their new attempt to control the well today.

Highway patrol officers blocked off a mile-square area to prevent onlookers from smoking or striking matches, because the ground had become soaked with the highly inflammable fuel.

Jobe said oil and gas was spewing 40 to 50 feet above the top of the derrick.

The Rice rural school, located two miles to the south of the well was closed for the day, and two farm families living 500 feet away from the danger area were evacuated.

Police said the fire hazard was great because gas began pocketing along the ground last night and a small spark could cause an explosion.

Manziel said the well blew in with a "mighty roar." It got out of control as the crew was pulling a perforating gun from the 8,000 foot hole after the "test" had been shot with nitroglycerin. The cable buckled and the oil surged into the air.

Polio Hitting Valley Fast

EDINBURG, Tex., March 10 (UP)—Polio was on the march at a record rate today in the lower Rio Grande Valley and a call for a general clean-up was issued.

The Valley Chamber of Commerce asked state, county and local health groups to back an organized campaign to eliminate disease breeding conditions.

Maurice Acres, of Mission, a Chamber director, said: "We need to clean house in the valley. With open sewage in the streets and flies all over the place, it's no wonder we have polio."

Thirty-five cases of infantile paralysis have been recorded this year and seven of the victims have died.

In 1948, a record year for polio in the valley, only three cases were reported in a similar period.

City Says 30 Connects Made With Sewer Line

It was announced at the city commission meeting Tuesday night that 30 sewage connections have been made since the recent campaign to connect all out houses started.

Lester Crossley, city secretary, stated that the requests for connections are still coming in and that the connections are being made just as rapidly as employees can get the work done.

The campaign was started after the city, complying with a request from the State Health Department sent out notices to all property owners that connections just be made. Houses without sewage connections are in violation of a city ordinance and the action of the commission was authorized by this ordinance.

Mayor Price Crawley has urged that all persons who have received notices to make the connections, contact the city office at once to make plans for the connections. He explained that the city is making the financial burden of the connections as light as possible.

Other routine matters were taken up at the meeting Tuesday night and the city secretary authorized to pay the current bills.

Movies Deny Morals Charges

HOLLYWOOD, March 15 (UP)—Movie bigwigs lashed back today at a Senator's charges that Hollywood is "depraving" American morals.

The Motion Picture Association of America denounced demands by Sen. Edwin C. Johnson, D. Colo., for licensing controls on the industry as "a police state bill."

And the motion picture industry council called Johnson's attack "unreasonable."

"In the past, unfortunately, there have been congressmen and Senators who have brought discredit and shame to the highest body of the government in the world," an MPIC statement said, "but it would be reckless to attack the congress for the actions of a few."

Johnson, chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, yesterday in a senate speech denounced the recent romance of movie stars Ingrid Bergman and Rita Hayworth, calling the two "Hollywood's apostles of degradation."

He said his committee would begin hearings about April 15 on the serious moral questions raised by movie stars' lurid headlines.

The senator said Eric Johnston, " czar " of motion picture industry, would be invited to testify.

Hollywood does not need a certificate of character from anyone," said the MPAAA, Hollywood. Like every other community, has its share—but no more than its share—of people who violate the moral code."

Attorney Says Russian Ready To Accept Verdict

NEW YORK, March 15 (UP)—Valentin Gubitchev will leave the United States for Russia next Monday as originally planned, his attorney announced today.

Attorney Abraham L. Pomerantz told federal judge Sylvester Ryan that the 33 year old Russian has agreed to the government's stipulation that he renounce all right of appeal from his espionage conspiracy conviction when he leaves the country under a suspended 15 year sentence.

It was the second abrupt reversal of plans in less than 24 hours. Pomerantz announced late yesterday that Gubitchev would stay in the U. S. and fight for a reversal of his conviction.

The attorney was accompanied in court today by Yuri Novikov, third secretary of the Soviet Embassy at Washington, who sat through the trial as Gubitchev's official interpreter.

Pomerantz told the court that when he refused yesterday to accept the government's condition to the Russian's departure he was without authority to accept or reject for his client.

"I have since received authorization from Gubitchev to accept this further condition," he said, "and I hereby communicate to your honor that Mr. Gubitchev has not changed his mind; that he proposes to accept this new condition and to sail for the Soviet Union, March 20, 1950."

He had told reporters last night Saypol's demand that Gubitchev that he spoke for his client when he rejected U. S. Attorney Legig's offer of accepting the government's offer to let him go home under suspended sentence.

However, he told reporters this morning that he had not spoken with Gubitchev until just before this morning's announcement.

To Hold Services Series of Church Services Booked

It was announced today that the Rev. O. R. White of Fort Worth will be at the Church of God on Strawn Road on March 16-18 to conduct special "healing" services.

The Rev. J. W. Hume, pastor of the church stated today that the public is invited to attend the services and receive the blessings of prayer. He said that the visiting minister has been traveling over the state and has met with great success in his healing services.

Services will be held each of the three evenings at 7:30 o'clock.

Farm Census Covers More Than 50 Crops

The 1950 census of agriculture questionnaire, to which farmers of Eastland County will supply answers in April, 1950, will list more than 50 field, truck and orchard crops. However, no one farmer will be required to answer inquiries for all of the crops listed. Usually, an individual farmer will need to report only four or five different crops.

It is pointed out by Mr. J. M. Cooper, county agricultural agent, that while the Census Bureau's questionnaire provides for reporting each kind of crop produced in this section of the country in 1949, only a small proportion of the crop section of the questionnaire will apply to any one farm. The same is true for inquiries on livestock, livestock production, poultry and poultry production, and dairy products.

Under a new procedure adopted by the Bureau of the Census, the 1950 Agriculture questionnaire varies for each state or group of states. Inquiries on crops and on classes of livestock and other farm products are limited to those crops common to each state or group of states. Thus the questionnaire used in a northern state would not include inquiries about cotton or citrus fruit production, nor will a form used in a Southern state have questions about Maple syrup.

FINGERPRINTS Dont Lie By Rupert Hughes

THE STORY: Refusing to believe that fingerprint evidence is conclusive, that her niece Paul Moody killed her father, Azalea Palmer has engaged private detective Martin Queripel to investigate the case. After Azalea tells her story to the detective, she makes a few careless comments on the police investigation which at once arouses Queripel's interest.

WHEN a weary twig of a tree released its fruit and let an apple thump to the ground at the feet of Sir Isaac Newton, it sent his mind along a path which led to the discovery of the law of gravity. It was thus that Azalea Palmer's next words gave the detective Martin Queripel what his French ancestors called "furious to think."

The young lawyer, Harley Kenyon looked at Queripel and smiled at Azalea's quaint notion; but Queripel's intense meditation changed to a look of startled wonder when Azalea added lightly: "Why, didn't that very fingerprint man, when he finished with an old man leaving the room—didn't he call out to somebody in the room above my father's body and say—'Didn't the fingerprint man show at somebody?'" say: "Remember this, I'm never at home—never! when you get a call from that blackmailing..." She paused.

When Queripel and Kenyon and O'Hea exchanged glances now, it was almost as if their eyes were billiard balls careening off one another for an important shot.

"I've taken too much of your time. I'd better leave you a chance to use your brains. Could I ask what's the first thing you plan to do?"

QUERIPPEL answered for Kenyon: "I imagine that the first thing for your lawyer to do will be to get himself accepted and recorded as Paul Moody's lawyer. He'll have to see Paul, of course, and get his consent to our working for him."

"Tell him it was my wish, and the only thing that will make me happy. I couldn't be happy while he is in danger. Tell him it is the only thing that will save me from despair. Shall I write it?"

"If he won't take our word," said Queripel, "I'll ask you to do just that. But I think we can make him listen to reason. Once we have his permission, I think that, while Kenyon here is mapping out the legal steps he has to take, I'll go over and see that fingerprint man in the Crime Laboratory, and look into his collection. I'll ask him about this man Kelso. I still believe that fingerprints don't lie. But it's just possible that they might be misquoted."

Azalea put out her hand to Queripel across the desk and he clasped it in both of his. It was like steel in velvet. She gave her hand to Kenyon, and he barely saved himself from bending over to kiss it. When she put out her hand to O'Hea, he stared at it in surprise and handled it as if it were a little bird. He fell over his feet as he rushed to the door to open it for her.

Judge To Probe Lora Lee's Story

HOLLYWOOD, March 15 (UP)—A juvenile judge set out today to learn whether child screen star Lora Lee Michel was telling the truth or acting when she charged her foster parents starved her so she'd stay small enough for movie roles.

Nine year old Lora ran away from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Michel Monday night and showed up, barefooted and in pajamas, at a friend's home in nearby Burbank.

Hysterically, she told juvenile officers that the Michels had underfed her and that she was exhausted from playing rigorous movie roles.

But after a hearing yesterday, Juvenile Judge A. A. Scott said he was concerned about the differences in the tiny blonde girl's stories. He said he wanted to get them straightened out.

"Lora Lee is a precocious, emotional child who could get a lot of people into trouble," Scott said. "I can't tell when she's acting and when she's telling the truth."

The little star at one point accused her foster parents of whipping her, Scott said. But later she told him:

MEXICO CITY, March 15 (UP)—Mexico will bid for the seat of the second Pan-American Olympic games in 1954, sports quarters said today.

Argentine General Natalio Favelli, here to invite Mexico to the first Pan-American games to be held in Buenos Aires next year, said "Argentina will be an ardent propagandist for Mexico as a seat of the second games."

Members of the Mexican sports confederation, governing body for amateur sports in Mexico, said Mexico would campaign for the games. Mexico recently lost the

"tion" at St. Joseph's infirmary to-day after a skilled—bone surgeon transferred a portion of her mother's pelvis to her leg.

Little Linda Louise has been suffering with a bone tumor, technically known as osteoma.

Mrs. Robert C. Hay, Pasadena, Tex., the child's mother, also was feeling well following the operation, which took two hours.

Mrs. Hay was hospitalized in a room two blocks away from Linda Louise, who is in the large hospital's pediatric section.

Linda Louise started feeling pain only two weeks ago. Bone specialists quickly diagnosed her trouble and suggested the operation.

Do you suffer distress from PERIODIC FEMALE WEAKNESS which makes you nervous several days before your period?

Defective functional ailments make you suffer pain, feel so strangely restless, weak—at such times, or just before your period?

Then start taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound about ten days before to relieve such symptoms. Pinkham's Compound works through the sympathetic nervous system. Regular use of Lydia Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against this annoying distress.

Gen. Favelli, president of the Argentine National Council on Physical Education, said the United States would probably be invited to the Pan-American games. "What we need in Latin America," he said, "is competition and the tougher the better."

Favelli and two other Argentinians, Alvaro Barrera, press officer for the 1951 games, and Dr. Eduardo Ruiz, secretary of the Argentine sports confederation, came to Mexico from the sixth Central-American games in Guatemala to invite Mexico officially to the Pan-American contest. Mexico is expected to send a large delegation.

Soldiers Deny Kidnap Charge

SALZBURG, Austria, March 15 (UP)—Two American soldiers pleaded innocent before a U. S. Army court martial today to charges of "operating a Soviet-sponsored kidnap ring in Austria." The soldiers are Cpl. Paul E. Abel, 26, of Bolivar, Mo., and Sgt. John T. Frankey, 29, of New York.

The two soldiers told a 12-man court martial they were innocent on charges of "transporting" Oswald Eder of Vienna "across political borders against his will." Between 40 and 50 witnesses will testify during the trial, which is being heard in the Tandesgericht court room by five enlisted men and seven officers.

Abel also pleaded innocent to a second charge of larceny involving the theft of a radio.

According to confessions released by the Army, Frankey and Abel said they received 7,000 Austrian schillings ($250) for the kidnaping of Eder.

Both were military policemen stationed in Vienna. They said they picked up Eder in the British sector of Vienna, drove him in an Army jeep along the International highway toward the Army air base at Tullin, in the Soviet sector, where they handed him over to the Russians.

Abel, former farm hand and lumberjack, allegedly said in the confession that he made the first contact with the Russians when he tried to sell a stolen radio.

Review Given By Mrs. Conway

"Coming Up for Air" by George Orwell was reviewed by Mrs. W. D. Conway at the Columbia Study Club meeting Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. L. H. Hagaman.

The book is the story of an Englishman who attempts to recapture his boyhood and, in doing so, because aware of and concerned about the changes that have taken place in the people and the government. Set in 1938, the story pictures the conditions in England immediately before World War II.

In reviewing the book, Mrs. Conway discussed the author and his other books. Orwell died last year, after his book "1984" became a best seller. This book was his picture of the condition of the world in 35 years. He also wrote "Animal Farm" a satire of Communism.

Mrs. M. H. Hagaman was a guest of the group at the Tuesday meeting. Other members attending were Mrs. L. R. Pearson, Mrs. John Thurman, Mrs. P. M. Kuykendall, Mrs. M. L. King and Mrs. J. E. Matthews.

FRATERNITY SYSTEM MAY COME UNDER FIRE AT TRIAL

IOWA CITY, Ia. March 15 (UP)—Many aspects of college life, including the fraternity system, may come under fire at the trial of a university senior charged with strangling his pretty campus sweetheart, it was indicated today.

It appeared that a jury might be completed today to hear the state's charge that Robert E. Bednasek, handsome 24 year old University of Iowa psychology senior killed Margaret "Gee Gee" Jackson, 20, during a forbidden party at his boarding house.

District Judge James E. Gaffney expressed pleasure at the trial's progress and said he thought it would be completed within two weeks. Defense attorney Clair Hamilton asked prospective jurors repeatedly whether they were "prejudiced against fraternities or sororities and whether they had any objections against drinking among students."

County Attorney Jack C. White's questioning implied that he might ask the jurors to fix a death penalty in the case. Shortly after Miss Jackson died last Dec. 11, university officials clamped down on enforcement of campus rules against drinking and many fraternities had to pull bars out of their houses and warn members to stay clear of alcohol. Co-eds were warned that they faced expulsion unless they obeyed rules barring them from the quarters of men students.

Only one prospective juror said she was prejudiced against fraternities. She was Mrs. Molly B. Campbell, formerly of Highland Park, Ill., who is working in the college publicity office while her husband attends school here.

Mrs. Campbell said she and her husband were both against the fraternity system and that neither she nor he had ever pledged to an organization. Hamilton permitted her to join the tentative jury anyway.

At the latest count, 8,000,000 wives—or nearly one-fourth of all married women—have jobs outside the home in the U. S., the American Magazine reports. Half of these working wives are mothers.
