Draft Board Ready To Call Men To Colors

By United Press

Draft boards across the nation are ready to start calling men to the colors as soon as federal authorities assign quotas to each state, a countrywide survey showed today.

Selective service headquarters in most cities were flooded with telephone calls as men hurried to correct their draft status, reporting changes of address and other administrative details.

At San Francisco there was a rush of men to register after failing to do so before. The staff of six clerks was unable to handle the load.

However, there was no general rush of volunteer recruits. The recruiting sergeant in New York's Times Square said he'd received a lot of telephone inquiries.

"Most of them wanted to know how to get commissions," he said.

State headquarters said that most boards have lists of 1-A eligibles ready for the call but that it might take 30 to 60 days to deliver them unless normal regulations are changed.

In Illinois, for example, 90,000 men between 19 and 25 were "acceptable and ready" but under the present set-up they are given a week to 10 days to report for physical examinations and then about 26 days more to wind up their affairs.

Georgia had 240,000 men registered and pre-induction notices were ready for mailing immediately but Col. James B. Shelton said it might take 60 days to get men into uniform.

North Dakota had 44,000 men available but officials said they would have to set up induction stations for them. Wisconsin planned to restore its 80 draft boards to full strength this week end and Iowa was geared to get its 100 boards operating on a full-scale basis.

Other states reporting included: Oklahoma—needs funds and personnel but ready to begin drafting from a "nice supply of men in 1-A."

Texas—ready to boost number of boards from 137 to 438. Kansas—20,000 single men in 1-A and 84 boards have 96 per cent of registrants classified.

Number Drafted Depends Army Questions MacArthur On Number Of Men Needed In Korea

By Dean W. Dittmer

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 8 (UP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur has been asked how many men he will need to drive the Communist invaders out of South Korea, it was learned today.

He has not as yet replied, but his estimate undoubtedly will be an important factor in answering two questions facing the joint chiefs of staff. They are:

1. How much must the armed services be expanded to meet the present emergency?
2. How many men will have to be drafted to bring the services up to the required strength?

Military officials said that, until the joint chiefs hear from MacArthur, they cannot know their exact manpower requirements.

On May 21, less than a month before outbreak of the Korean War, the armed services had a combined strength of 1,458,400 officers and men—48,200 below the budget ceiling of 1,506,600 and 547,482 below the legal ceiling of 2,005,882.

Truman authorized the defense department yesterday to disregard the budget ceiling and to call for draftees if necessary to build up the Armed Forces to the strength necessary to win the war against the North Koreans.

Congressional leaders who attended a briefing session with Truman said he mentioned no figures in announcing the manpower increase. But Sen. Styles Bridges, R., N. H., said the expanded forces would be well below the statutory limit.

It was understood that the exact size of the boost will be kept a military secret.

The Armed Services hoped to meet all their requirements by enlistments. In order to be prepared for an emergency, however, selective service headquarters here ordered state directors to get their local boards ready to handle all draft calls.

At the present time, there are 1,440,000 young men 19 through 25 in class 1-A—subject to immediate induction.

Kiker will accompany the students on the Hammond organ. Miss Pat Bonney will play Beethoven's Concerto Number 1 in C. Major; Miss Scripps Cluck will present Beethoven's Concerto Number 2 in C. minor; Miss Jane Huestis will give Rubinstein's Concerto in D minor.

Jimmie Barrow will give Liszt's Concerto Number 2 in A major; Miss Anita Carlin will give Liszt's Concerto Number 1 in E flat major.

Truman Orders Army To Seize Rock Island RR

Union Is Asking 40 Hour Week From RR

WASHINGTON, July 8 (UP)—President Truman today ordered the strike-bound Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad seized and directed the army to operate it.

"In the strike situation that confronting us," Truman said, "governmental seizure is imperative for the protection of our citizens."

Seizure is effective at 3 p. m. (CST) today.

Striking AFL switchmen have rejected a government demand to end their strike.

The president directed that the terms and conditions of employment in effect at the time the strike started in June 24 shall continue "without prejudice" to whatever retroactive provisions are included in final settlement between the road and the union.

Truman said "it is essential to the national defense and to the security of the nation, to the public health and to the public welfare generally, that every possible step be taken by the government to assure the operation of this railroad."

At the same time Truman asked all employees of the Rock Island to "cooperate with the government by returning to duty."

He also asked officials of the striking switchmen's union to "take appropriate action to keep their members at work."

Federal mediators yesterday sent a virtual ultimatum to the switchmen's union to end the strike on the 8,000 mile railroad. The union rejected it.

The union ended the strike on the Western Pacific, Chicago Great Western, Grand Northern and Denver and Rio Grande Western after President Truman threatened action if the strike was not ended.

Truman's executive orders provide that seizure and operation of the railroad by the army shall remain in effect until final settlement of the strike.

Truman said the union had declined to accept findings of an emergency board he had set up under the railway labor act.

Army Secretary Frank Page is authorized to furnish protection for employees of the railroad and to furnish, if necessary, manpower to carry out its operations.

The switchmen struck June 24. They asked a 40 hour work-week without a reduction in pay.

Government Opens Three Rubber Firms

WASHINGTON, July 8 (UP)—The government today looked for an increase of 88,000 tons in the annual output of synthetic rubber with the reopening of three government-owned synthetic plants.

The plants located at Port Neches, Houston and Baton Rouge, La., are expected to get back into operation within 90 days.

In announcing the reopening of the plants last night, the Reconstruction Finance Corp. made no specific mention of the Korean War. But rubber experts argued that an increase in synthetic production would drive down the price of natural rubber.

They said the price decrease would enable the government to buy more natural rubber for its military stockpiles.

Production from the three plants is expected to increase the total capacity for synthetic production to 500,000 tons of general purpose rubber and 75,000 tons of special purpose rubber.

The action came within 24 hours after leaders of the rubber industry appealed to the White House for a boost in synthetic output.

Industry pressure for stepped-up production began long before the Communists invaded South Korea.

Reopenings of the three facilities will bring to 18 the number of synthetic plants operated by the government. Nine others will be retained as standby plants.

Eastland county was one of three counties among 197 surveyed recently which had farm and ranch real estate taxes decrease as much as five per cent from 1948, the agricultural experiment station at Texas A&M College has reported.

In an overall picture, Texas farm and ranch real estate taxes advanced sharply in 1949. Levies made by state and local governments totaled an average of 25.7 cents per acre, rising from 22.4 cents the previous year. The increase was 3.3 cents or 15 per cent.

Jim Wells and Atascosa were the other two counties surveyed which showed decreases of as much as five per cent.

The station reported that there are some indications that the trend of taxes over the state generally will continue to go up.

Reasons pointed out for tax increases are that operating costs of local governments may rise further, principally because of demands for expanded services and the need for more teachers as school enrollments increase, and capital needs—for roads, school buildings, hospitals and other public improvements—have not yet been fully met.

It was pointed out that the upward trend in farm and ranch real estate taxes may halt, at least temporarily in 1950, but for the long term it is likely that some upward trend will continue, but probably at a slower rate than during the past three years.

United Press Correspondent Miller Praises Late Courage Of Fighting US Infantrymen

Ranger Editor's Note: Copy from the Korean battlefield is now being censored by the Army. Censorship will probably increase as the Korean war grows in intensity.

United Press Staff Correspondent

WITH THE U. S. ARMY AT THE KOREAN FRONT, July 8 (UP)—We lost the rail center of Chonan, 36 miles north of Taejon, to the Communists today after a day of panicky retreat and a night of heroic battle.

It was a story of chaos, confusion, Communist tanks and frightened, green American soldiers who finally learned under fire how to take it and dish it out.

It was the story of a U. S. Army major who almost alone stopped the initial American retreat—then dashed North into a Communist ambush and was killed.

"Operation snafu," as it has become known, began Friday.

The Americans had withdrawn 30 miles in the two previous days to new positions South of rail center. But a patrol sent out to make contact with the North Koreans reported them at least 10 miles North.

Headquarters decided to take advantage of the Red's slow advance and move up the American line beyond Chonan.

By noon Friday, the infantry had gone forward, artillery had moved into advance positions above and everything seemed rosy.

The Yanks were well dug in when the trouble started.

The Red infantry touched it off by infiltrating the American ranks. Many came down from the hills West of Chonan in full view of the troops. But because they were dressed in white, the Americans thought they were civilians.

A hasty order was given the Americans to withdraw, and the panic was on.

Artillery was pulled out without firing a shot. Jeeps raced to the rear loaded with men who had only one ambition in life—to put as many miles between them and the North Koreans as possible.

American casualties were extremely light, but this was the first time these American youngsters had seen blood.

Until then, the war for most of them was a lark. But with rifle fire cracking about their ears and mortar shells bursting in their positions they bolted.

They fled with fear in their eyes and panic in their bellies. Everything was confusion.

There was inadequate communication.

One officer gave orders to unload from jeeps and set up a defense line. Another would cancel it and order jeeps loaded with men and sent to the rear.

A vital bridge that was supposed to be blown up never was touched.

Men who had gone forward only a few hours earlier rushed to the rear, most of them without firing a shot.

But the debacle stopped in the middle of the rail center.

A jeep with three officers raced up from the rear and skidded to a halt in the midst of a group of bewildered troops.

The major in the front seat was boiling.

"We stop here," he shouted. "And we go back. From now on, we go North."

"I'm going forward to do a reconnaissance and we are going back into those positions north of here that we evacuated this noon," he nodded his head to his driver, and the jeep sped off to the North.

That was the last time the Major and the driver were seen alive. The jeep was ambushed a few minutes later, and only Capt. Earl Hill, of Salisbury, Md., survived. He returned to town a couple of hours later and plunged into the fight.

But the major had set the example. The troops rallied.

The rail center defenses were organized hastily, although only a heavy weapons unit was left to hold it.

The unit's commander spread his men out and awaited the attack. It came soon enough.

The main Communist attack came about 8 p. m. The North Koreans attempted to drive a wedge into the town across the railway tracks at the station.

All hell broke loose. Mortar shells burst up and down the streets. Bullets cut through roofs.

But the Yanks held and drove the invaders back with losses.

By now ammunition was running low, however. The second Communist attack at 9 p. m. succeeded in breaking the American front at the railway station.

Again the Americans ran. But not so far this time.

They regrouped on the edge of town, went back in and drove the Communist back across the tracks.

I pulled out at nightfall, but Sgt. Fritz Mayes of Lorman, O., told how American artillery pinned down the North Koreans all night and heavy weapons held the town.

The 43-year-old Mayes called it "a damned good show."

But he said the North Korean tanks came in this morning and finally forced his outfit to evacuate.

Before pulling out, this small American group knocked out one tank with a bazooka and destroyed another with a land mine.

PLUG 'N TRIGGER

By J. Fred Eder
United Press Outdoor Consultant

Fishing reports in general remain in the good to excellent classification this past week, but such is based mostly on the excellent sand bass fishing.

Plugs and flies are coming back into more general use with the advent of summer. Black bass are even more so on the elusive side, according to latest reports, but anglers with the know how are reporting—excellent black bass strings.

Top water burping lures and the deep running violent action lures still head the list on Mr. Bass' menu. Small deep running midge lures and flies are the favorites of the sand bass. Early morning and late evening are still the pay-off periods, each week getting later and later in the evening for the best results.

Many anglers are now reporting their best luck at around ten o'clock at night on both black and white bass. Some sensational strings of white bass have been reported this past week with a rather unique method of trolling.

By taking a small violent action midge lure, preferably shad finish, and tying a three foot leader in to the rear hook screw eye and then adding two or three brightly colored flies to this three foot length of leader, anglers trolling with such a jig have had the unusual thrill of bringing in not one, but as many as three sand bass at a time.

Black bass are definitely slowing their pace in Texas and will become increasingly harder to catch as hot weather approaches. A number of inquiries have been received regarding the use of a mazing new firelacier finish used by some bait manufacturers. Firelacier is the most phenomenal development that has been introduced to anglers in years.

The success of firelacier lures has been so remarkable that such finishes on plugs stand a good chance of literally rendering obsolescent the usual finishes applicable to artificial lures. The effectiveness of firelacier plugs in attracting fish has been proved conclusively and beyond all doubt.

Such lures reflect the ultra-violet rays of the sun, throwing off a fluorescent like glow which is approximately 900 per cent brighter than standard lacquer or enamel finish lures.

During early morning and late evening hours, when ultra-violet rays are strongest, the brilliance of firelacier baits has an irresistible attraction for fish, provoking a strike from greater depths and distances and deeper cover, proving a decided preference for firelacier lures to identical lures in the conventional or standard finishes.

Firelacier plugs will not glow at night. This seems to be taken for granted by a lot of anglers who are confusing firelacier finishes with the old fluorescent night fishing finishes applied to some lures. Firelacier finishes on lures are in their infancy.

The smart angler will watch manufacturers licensed to apply firelacier to their lures for some startling designs will be developed in the near future. In the meantime, keep some handy in your tackle box and greater fish catches will result.

HAIR-BREADTH HARRY

The Loves of Carmen

By SOPHIE KERR

THE STORY: Don Jose, young soldier in a fashionable Spanish regiment, has just come to Seville from the mountains of Navarre. He is given 48 hours leave to familiarize himself with the city. He is on a street corner, trying to make up his mind where to go next, he is attracted by a piece of orange peel which he sees at his feet. He looks up. Seated on a wall above him is an extraordinarily dressed young woman of striking beauty.

"Oho! A Navarre," taunted the girl. "I have heard that the men from Navarre wear little blue berets and tell big black lies and don't know how to make love to a woman."

The girl looked down at him from her perch, her glittering eyes wide and intent over the orange she held to her mouth. With her eyes fixed on him, she slowly sucked the juice from the orange, squeezing it gently with her hand.

Don Jose looked up at her as though blinded by the sun—as though the thousand lights from her copper-colored hair and flashing teeth had caught him and were hypnotizing him.

The girl removed the orange from her mouth, ran her pink tongue over her lips, closed her eyes, opened her mouth slightly and sighed with real ecstasy.

"Ah, there is nothing so good in the mouth as an orange warmed by the Spanish sun." She stretched her body in the hot sun as she leaned over toward him, smiling invitingly into his eyes. "Hah!" she asked.

He just looked at her, dazed. She kept her eyes on his eyes and slowly put the orange to her mouth again. Then she straightened up, alert and astonished, for in the silence a little chiming bell had sounded from somewhere in Don Jose's clothes.

She said with surprised delight, "Well! Not only is he beautiful but music comes out of him."

Don Jose looked confused for a minute, then embarrassed. Hastily he pulled a big gold watch from his pocket and showed it to her.

"It is just a watch." He had to clear his throat to continue. "It chimes the hours."

Her eyes widened at the watch's magnificence. Then she looked back at him sadly. "Oh, too bad. For a minute I thought you were a magician."

Don Jose became awkwardly apologetic. "No, it was just the watch."

"Too bad."

Her tone was absent because her eyes were sharply following the watch as he stumbingly replaced it in his pocket. Then her eyes went from his watch, speculatively to his face.

"Perhaps we can be friends, anyway." She extended the partly eaten orange toward him. "Would you like a bite of my orange, soldier?"

The groom took a firm grip on the bride's forearm and tried to lead her back into the course of the procession, but the bride didn't want to be led. The woman with the broom turned on the gypsy girl and lifted it to strike her but the girl raised one foot and kicked the broom from the woman's hands. The procession gathered itself and began to squarry with its hundred feet of hurt disdain around the corner. The girl threw the half-eaten orange after it in a free, powerful and graceful gesture. She wiped her mouth with the back of her hand, her eyes still shined with an amusement that had back of it an odd kind of anger. The woman retrieved her broom and went back into the house muttering, yanking the child with her. Don Jose stood still, seeing it all with astonishment.

Then as though the incident had never happened, the beautiful girl gestured to be helped down from her perch, her arms extended like a child.

Don Jose had no choice but to reach up and grasp her as she fell into his arms. Her head was about a foot and a half above his as he caught her. She slid down along his body slowly to the ground, holding his eyes with her own and knowing very well the effect she had on him. Oranges spilled from where she had concealed them in her petticoats.

Automatically, the gentleman Don Jose bent and began to pick them up. He straightened almost at once, his hands full of oranges, started by a yell from above. He looked up. A woman was leaning out of the window, waving furiously an empty basket which stood on the sill.

"My oranges—those are my oranges!"

Don Jose turned to the gypsy girl for reassurance, but she was gone. She had completely disappeared. The woman in the window screamed raucously to the street in general. "He stole my oranges! The thief stole my oranges! Catch him—stop him!"

Don Jose dropped the oranges as though they were red hot and ran down the street, not at all like a soldier in the service of the king. As he ran, from somewhere behind him came the sound of gypsy laughter. It was full of the promise of excitement.

THE small dignity of the wedding procession dissolved. The music went sour. The bride and the groom halted and wheeled.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE
"Sacrament" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ,
Scientist, on Sunday, July 9.
The Golden Text is: "Search me,
O God, and know my heart; try me, and know my thoughts; and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way of everlasting" (Psalms 139:23,24).
Among the stations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "He shall receive the blessing from the Lord, and righteousness from the God of his salvation" (Psalms 24:5).
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:
"It is the living Christ, the practical Truth, which makes Jesus
"the resurrection and the life" to all who follow him in deed" (page 31).

Bobby Locke Will Furnish Tough Golfing

TROON, Scotland, July 8 (UP)—American golf pros can expect some tough competition from Bobby Locke, two-time British open champion, when he decides to return to the U. S. for another tour in the future.

The 32-year-old South African golfing master won the British open title yesterday for the second straight year by shooting a two-under-par 68 on the final round over the Troon course for a record-breaking total of 279 for 72 holes.

Re-instated last March by the U. S. Professional Golfers association after a year's suspension for failure to go through with tournament commitments, Locke is expected to cross the Atlantic for another shot at American gold within a year.

The three Americans who qualified for yesterday's final 96 holes of the tournament did not fare too well. Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., the British amateur champion, made the best U. S. showing. Touring the incoming nine hole of the afternoon round in a spectacular four-under-par 31, Stranahan shot a 66 for a total of 286 strokes.

Johnny Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz., the Medalist for the two qualifying rounds, halioned to a 74 on the final round and finished with 288. Jim McHale of Philadelphia, an amateur, shot a fourth round 70 and finished at 290.

Louise Brough After Three Tennis Titles

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 8 (UP)—Blonde, buxom Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., set off in quest of three titles in the Wimbledon tennis tournament today.

The California miss was pitted against Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont in the women's singles finals, teamed with Mrs. Dupont against Doris Hart and Shirley Fry in the doubles title match, and joined Eric Sturges of South Africa in meeting Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd of La Jolla, Calif., and Geoff Brown of Australia for the mixed doubles crown.

Thanks to a thrilling upset staged by Budge Patty, the men's singles crown already belonged to the U. S. for the fourth straight year. Patty, a native of Los Angeles who has been residing in France for the past two years, surprised Sedgman in yesterday's final round, 6-1, 8-10, 6-2, 6-3.

Sedgman, the main hope of Australia's Davis Cup team, went into the match as the favorite, but he came out of it completely weary and baffled young man. Keeping the Aussie in the backcourt most of the time, Patty amazed a capacity crowd of 20,000 with his calm lobbing and pin-point ground strokes.

CLINTON, Mass. (UP)—Informed he was exempt from paying his $2 poll tax because he was 67 year old, Herbert Child said: "I don't want anyone telling me not to pay a poll tax. I consider it a public privilege and duty."

Edwin T. Cox Writes Eastland County History

The History of Eastland County, Texas, by Edwin T. Cox, has been published by the Naylor Company, San Antonio.

Cox stated that he had spent many years compiling the facts for his book. It was ready for publication earlier, but a scarcity of materials prevented its publication.

The book carries the history of the county right up to date. Cox states that he sticks to facts and has personally carefully checked the information he has acquired by examination of available records, and has recorded only what seemed to him the facts.

Cox has lived in Eastland county since 1881, and saw many of the events he describes firsthand. The book is dedicated to the memory of Edwin T. Cox, Jr.

In an introduction to the book, Boyce House points out three things that make Eastland county unique, the oil boom, the Santa Claus bank robbery and Old Rip.

Several pictures showing progress of the county are placed in the front of the book.

The book is divided into seven chapters. The first deals with the background of Eastland county, in which are discussed early settlers, Indians, early homes and other parts of the beginning of the county.

Chapter two deals with the organization of the county, with occupation of the county given in chapter three.

Education in the county is taken up in chapter four, and religion in the county in chapter five.

Eastland county social life is discussed in chapter six, outlaw activities in chapter seven and military activities in chapter eight.

The book is a sound history of Eastland county, and interesting to read. Copies of the book may be purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Cox at their home, 703 South Daugherty, at $4 per copy.

Scotch Foursome Set At Eastland Course Sunday

A Scotch foursome match will be held at the Eastland Country Club Golf course Sunday, beginning at 2 p. m., Hubert Westfall has announced.

Westfall requested that all who wish to participate in the event be at the course not later than 2 p. m. to be paired off.

In a Scotch foursome, a lady and man are paired off together, and two pair will go out each time, forming the foursome.

The Scotch idea comes in the fact that only one ball is used by each pair, with the man and lady alternating at shooting.

Those participating will draw for teams and teams will be balanced out as equally as possible.

Any girl who would like to participate and doesn't understand about the match, may contact Mae Plowman at the Corner Drug and she will explain it.

It will be a nine hole match, Westfall said, with the pair with the lowest total receiving golf ball as a prize.

Any single girls who have just started playing are urged to come out, and will be matched with a partner who will make their team as equal to the others as possible.

Blue And White UN Flag Going To New Battle

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., July 8 (UP)—The historic blue and white banner which flew over United Nations headquarters in Jerusalem during the Holy Land war was enroute today to Tokyo to be unfurled over the headquarters of General Douglas MacArthur.

The United Nations security council late yesterday voted 7-0, with three abstentions, to authorize the United States to designate a supreme commander for the troops of a half-dozen nations committed to action against the Communist invaders of South Korea.

At the same time, it authorized MacArthur's "unified command" to use the UN flag as a battle banner "at its discretion" in the course of operations against the North Korean forces.

MacArthur, in view of objections of some nations to having their troops fight under any flag except their national banner, was expected to confer with his sub-commanders of the various national forces and work out regulations on using the UN banner.

No opposition was voiced as the Russian-boycotted council passed the resolution. The abstainers were Egypt, Yugoslavia and India. Of these, Yugoslavia had opposed, and Egypt abstained on the original sanctions resolution.

India abandoned its traditional East-West neutrality to announce its support of the sanctions resolution. It was understood that Indian delegate Sir Benegal Rau abstained yesterday in line with his previous announcement that although his government supported the idea of sanctions, it was in no position to send troops or material help to Korea. In that event, India was said to believe it should have no part in setting up a unified command or deciding what flag the troops should fight under.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. McDonald and sons, Patrick and Thomas, are leaving for Detroit, Michigan, where they will make their home.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. You in the Church and the Church in you form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

Judas, the traitorous, perfidious, faithless Apostle who, under the semblance of friendship, betrayed Christ. How many good, sound, fair appearing persons do you have on your friendship list who are not friends at all but are worthless, deceptive characters... not to be trusted. How many Judases do you know?

What a chance this man had for greatness! What an opportunity for service to a world in urgent need! One of twelve to walk with the Son of God along life's pathway! What would we not give for his opportunity to do and to be! But Judas "blacked out." He failed and wrote his own name in "DEEP BLACK" across the pages of history for all time. He preferred thirty pieces of silver to the fellowship and blessing of Jesus; he failed to appreciate beauty and goodness and gracious companionship with the highest. His "sights" were low... his interests selfish.

Other men counted it an honor to carry a cross for the Master; JUDAS sent Him to Calvary to die in shameful agony. JUDAS might have followed Christ to the end and shared a martyr's death, but he preferred a disgraceful grave in the field of the nameless or shameless dead.

We have but one life to live, and that one life is too precious to be wasted. "What shall it profit a man to gain the whole world and lose his life?" What is it to lose? What is it to gain? Jesus was thought to have lost, but in that self-sacrifice He saved a world of dying men. This man Judas gloated over his gain, but generations have wept for him as a lost soul. Are you and I really winning, or are we losing? Truly we have but one life to give... shall we not write it credibly on the pages of history for ourselves and for humanity? Shall we not hold it high for the service of men and for the worship of God? Attend your church; be faithful. Don't be a JUDAS.

It Used To Take 1,200 Hours Of Work To Buy Refrigerator; Now It Takes Only 190 Hours, Dealer Says

A glamorized version of an ultra-modern household refrigerator—a gleaming gold-tinted model symbolizing the 12 Millionth refrigerator unit produced by Frigidaire Division of General Motors—was unveiled during a special Frigidaire meeting in Fort Worth attended by D. W. Blackwell of Killingsworth's.

He pointed out that the new 12 Millionth production milestone holds a great deal of significance, not only for the company but the country as well. He cited Frigidaire's broad home appliance, commercial refrigeration and air conditioning lines, together with modern mass production methods employed, as a measuring stick of the tremendous strides made by industry operating under America's free enterprise system during the last one-third of a century.

In describing the progress, he used comparative costs of old and new household refrigerators to

LET'S GO FISHIN'
By Onous Dick

Just wondering where all the fishermen could be haven't heard from any of them lately. Guess every one else had the same luck as this scribe had, no fish, but had to jump about eight feet after a big Diamond Back Rattler sounded his warning early one morning last week while walking from camp to a trotline about two miles from camp on the Pecos River. The way it turned out Mr. Rattler got the worst end of the deal.

On this trip there were only seven catfish caught they averaged two to five and one half pounds.

Bait Seining Stirr Crazy
Varied and at times conflicting local regulations on seining and possessing bait apparently are bothering some Texas fishermen.

This is indicated by requests for information from the game department and its field men and by occasional arrests for violations.

The basic state law permits the use of a 200 foot minnow seine but forbids taking any variety of game fish for bait. There are so many special county laws that fishermen are advised to obtain a complete set of fishing laws or to check with their local game warden.

Most counties permit seining of bait. Many counties forbid seining of bait for sale. Many set a limit on the number that may be taken. The maximum ranges from 125 to 500.

Fishermen, many of whom usually catch their own bait, become agitated by reports conflicting with the law. Recently a rumor circulated that Lake Travis, near Austin, had been closed to seining for bait. Several calls were received by the game department.

Some anglers, possibly through carelessness, are caught with game fish they have taken with their minnow seines. They are reminded that game fish fingerlings have much the same characteristics as the adults. That applies, for instance, to bass and crappie fingerlings. Fishermen familiar with the appearance of the different adult species seldom have any difficulty determining what is legal and what isn't. The authorities suggest that persons in doubt had better return the fish to the water.

Game Molesters Hike June Fines
Fishermen comprised one-third of game and fish law offenders during June but the largest fines were paid by illegal deer hunters and stream polluters.

Total of fines and court costs was $4,450.65 for 202 cases compared to $3,988.30 for 133 cases for June, 1949 and $4,024.85 for 182 cases for May, the preceding month this year.

Twenty persons were charged under the fishing license code, with 62 Texans drawing fines for having no license. The other eight were non-residents.

The alertness of wardens in checking anglers' bait under the new law which permits persons to fish without licenses in counties adjoining their home counties, providing they do not use live or artificial bait was reflected in two cases. One San Antonio man and one Adkins man assured the investigating wardens they were using worms. When the officials checked further, they found they were using minnows. The strategy back fired so badly that both men paid fines and lost their fishing rights for one year.

during the month was $219.75 in fines and costs levied against a Corpus Christi man for operating two unlicensed commercial fishing boats in coastal waters. The pollution assessments included two Rockport cases that produced $342 in fines and costs.

Three Freer men paid $61 each for a headlighting foray that netted them a doe and spike buck. In another case, a Freer man paid a total of $111 when caught hunting at night. A Sour Lake man got off with $21 levy for killing deer out of season. Two Sabinal men paid $113 each for killing deer at night. One was a bartender. Wardens said that after he shut off the spigots at closing time, he rallied the customers for outlaw raids on wild game.
