KOREANS DRIVING FOR PUSAN

Bonuses Set For 1st Loads

The Agriculture committee of the chamber of commerce voted today to give $50 to the farmer bringing in the first bale of cotton for ginning in Ranger.

The committee also voted to give $50 to the planter bringing in the first load of peanuts to the Ranger Peanut company plant, here.

The money will come from local merchants.

The load of peanuts must weigh 10,000 pounds or more, grade 70 or better, have sound mature kernels containing less than nine per cent moisture. The test will be made by a federal-state approved grader, stationed here.

W. H. Creager, chairman of the agriculture committee, said that $200 would be asked of merchants. The first hundred goes for the cotton and peanut bonuses. The second $100 goes to help finance the Eastland county peanut exhibit at the state fair in Dallas.

For the past ten years, Ranger has been one of the better peanut markets, handling nuts from Eastland, Brown, Callahan, Erath,

Services Slated For Mrs. Osteen

Services will be held for Mrs. R. W. Osteen, mother of C. B. Osteen, at Rockdale, Tenn., either Friday or Saturday. Osteen will attend the funeral.

Seven-Year-Old Flies Continent To Visit Ranger

Little seven-year-old Claudia Tate, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Dockery, flew from Oakland, Calif., to Dallas by herself.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Tate is visiting her aunt and uncle here.

Promenaders Set Friday For Roundup

Outstanding Callers To Attend Square Dance Meeting Here

Helen Wisdom, head of the Ft. Worth recreation department, will call the Grand March at the square dance round up here.

The Roundup will be held in the Recreation building from 8:30 p. m. to 11:30 p. m. Friday.

E. N. Varner, Dr. Carl Straley, Bruce Maddox, Dr. W. P. Watkins and Nicol Crawford will emcee the dance.

Thirty-five or more couples are expected. Callers are Mrs. Wisdom, Dr. Straley, Milton Lattrell of Eastland; Albert Bronner, of Brownwood; J. D. Browning, Cisco; Bill Sledge, Byrds.

Dad Blue, Perrin; Johnny Winters, Palo Pinto; Dale Hitchcock, Breckenridge; Grady Williams, Hamilton; Hap Wisdom, Fort Worth; Bill and Kate Palmer, Ft. Worth; Abbey Van Hoy, Eastland; Jimmy Phillips, Jr., Byrds; J. Van Arsdell, Brownwood; Doc Hennessey, Meridian; H. T. Bass, Meridian.

Fat-Lean Game Slated Here Monday Night

A forfeited game by Albany Tuesday night gave the Ranger softball team three games out of a five series and put the local team in position to play the winner of the current Cisco-Gunatun feud for the inter-city softball championship.

Gustine has beaten Cisco twice. The third game will be played at Gustine, Monday.

A Fat and Lean benefit game has been scheduled for 8:15 p. m. Monday at the local diamond. Funds raised at the game will be used to pay for painting the football stands. Bruce Maddox will captain the Leans. H. C. Henderson will captain the Fats.

The Ranger junior team beat Cisco 14 to 8 Tuesday night.

Food Prices Drop Slightly

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (UP)—Consumer food prices dropped slightly in the last two weeks of July because of lower costs for fresh vegetables and pork, the bureau of Labor statistics reported today. But the bureau said July 31 food prices still were 2.7 per cent higher than before the Korean war began.

Truman Says Doesn't Like Filibusters

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (UP)—President Truman today criticized Russian behavior in the United Nations Security Council as a filibuster.

THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE was asked at a news conference about his evaluation of the current Russian attitude in the Security Council where Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik, as the presiding officer, has conducted a running battle with the United States and British representatives over UN efforts to restore the independence of South Korea.

Truman said that he does not like filibusters in any form and that there is no doubt that this is a Russian filibuster.

THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE elaborated by saying that he's not nearly as interested in the Russian delegation as he is highly pleased with the performance of the American and English delegates.

At the same time he ruled out any prospect of his participation in any meeting of Eastern and Western heads of state. He said the UN is the proper forum for international discussions. There have been no official proposals for a meeting of heads of states so far as is known.

Brooks Asks Opponent If Favors Tax

ABILENE, Tex. Aug. 10 (UP)—Percy Brooks asked in a statewide radio broadcast last night whether his runoff opponent for Lieutenant Governor, Ben Ramsey, favored a state income tax.

Brooks charged that while Ramsey was a state representative he "voted for and supported a state income tax bill. The bill would have slapped a personal income tax on the people."

"Does he still feel that way?" asked Brooks. "And does he favor the income tax companion, the sales tax?"

Brooks, a Dallas insurance man, pledged his opposition to additional state taxes and warned that "unseen forces are seeking to seize control of a high state office and set up a puppet regime."

"An all-out attempt," he said, "is being made... to seize control of one of the most powerful offices in state government—that of Lieutenant Governor."

Another Texas Law May Get Federal Test

FORT WORTH, Aug. 10 (UP)—The Texas law forbidding marriages of Negroes and whites may get a legal test in federal court in a case involving a Filipino "GI bride."

She married a Negro soldier, a non-commissioned officer now stationed at Carswell Air Force base, while he was on duty with the armed forces in the Philippines. G. A. Torrence, of Dallas, examiner of applicants for naturalization, heard witnesses yesterday on the 24-year-old woman's request.

Final decision on the case probably will be made by U. S. District Judge T. Whitfield Davidson, who presides at the next naturalization class in December.

North Koreans Break Out Of Beachhead, Threaten Marines

By Earnest Hoherecht
United Press Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Friday, Aug. 11. (UP)—Communist forces burst out of a bridgehead in the elbow of the Nakdong river today and raced several miles southward, threatening the flank of American columns on the march less than three miles from Chinju.

But in other sectors the allies wiped out a bridgehead over the Nakdong near Taegu, trapped 800 to 1,000 Communists east of Chinju, scored gains up to 12 miles on the south coast and drove the enemy back on the northern front.

A lightning thrust by counter-attacking North Koreans from the bridgehead some 30 miles northeast of Chinju threw out of balance the otherwise firm stand on the Nakdong line.

About 300 or 400 of the Communists boxed in for five days on the Nakdong where it turns eastward to Pusan slashed through the southeast corner of the box.

They struck out southeastward, seized a bridge over the Nakdong about 15 miles north of Masan, and sent feeler patrols down the highway leading to that port 25 miles behind the spearhead of the American push to the gates of Chinju.

A spokesman at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said the U. S. 35th regimental combat team was "advancing on Chinju," big transport center at which the first American offensive of the war was aimed, and were less than three miles from it.

The U. S. Marines on the coast southeast of Chinju were mopping up isolated Communist pockets and moving forward virtually at will, with a 12-mile gain reported by supreme headquarters.

The midnight communique said the Communists in the elbow bridgehead were under mounting attack and artillery fire. But front reports and an 8th Army headquarters statement disclosed that shock troops of the estimated 4,000 men in the pocket had counter-attacked.

THEY DASHED SOUTHEAST down the Nakdong valley, grabbed a bridge over the river, and took at least temporary control of the road south to Masan.

A front dispatch said it was too early to guess just what the enemy thrust might develop into. It said that perhaps 300 to 400 North Koreans were moving southward, "but how many more will try to follow them has not been determined."

The late communique added nothing to front reports from the Taegu area, which said a Communist bridgehead about 10 miles from the provincial capital had been wiped out. Three hundred enemy dead were counted, and the U. S. 1st Cavalry division units took 20 prisoners.

NEITHER HEADQUARTERS nor front reports had clarified the overall situation around Waegwan, northwest of Taegu. Whether the shattered bridgehead was the only remaining Communist foothold on the east bank of the Nakdong there was uncertain. MacArthur's communique said only that the Waegwan bridgehead was "contained and under attack" and another five miles north of Waegwan was isolated by Korean Republicans. The South Koreans smashed one bridgehead earlier.

South Korean troops counter-attacked and drove the enemy back in the area of Uisong, northeast of Taegu, the communique reported. But Communist pressure continued in that sector.

On the east coast, Communist troops moving south from captured Yongdok were checked just south of the port by the South Koreans.

Methodist Revival In Desdemona Set

Teagu Front Yank Battalion Surrounds 200 Koreans And Begin Wipeout

By Gene Synmonds
United Press Staff Correspondent
ON THE TAEGU FRONT, Korea, Aug. 10 (UP)—A Yank battalion surrounded about 200 North Koreans on a commanding hilltop behind the American Nakdong river line today and began an "operation wipeout."

Tanks and mortars poured withering fire on the Reds, and the infantry attacked repeatedly during the night, morning and early afternoon. But the enemy, estimated at reinforced company size, still clung to the battered hill.

Division Commander Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay directed the attack personally.

The hill, four miles southeast of Waegwan, gave the Reds a full view of two supply roads leading to the American and South Korean defense positions. Their machine gun and mortar fire had made the roads unpassable and caused some casualties.

INFANTRY ATTACKS WERE alternated by bombardment. A heavy mortar battery threw several rounds of white phosphorus into enemy positions to mark them for the .75 millimeter guns of the tanks.

The tanks poured round after round into the hilltop as fast as the NORTH KOREAN REDS RETREAT—U. S. and South Korean troops sent Reds retreating for first time at two points (large arrows) on the Nakdong River line. Army and Marine units pushed within 7 miles of Chinju (1), while further North, near Waegwan (2), South Koreans with U. S. Air Support threw Reds back in disorder across the Nakdong, easing for a time the threat to Taegu (3). Some of the heaviest fighting raged around Red bridgehead at Sinam-ni (4), where fresh troops of U. S. 2nd Division went into action for the first time. Another serious communist threat came with drive of 6,000 Red troops to within 10 miles of Pahang (5). (NEA Telephoto).

Large Crowd Turns Out For Dress Revue Sponsored By Civic League

The Civic League sponsored a colorful display of fashions Wednesday at a Smart Shop directed dress revue in the Arcadia Theatre.

The show was held in connection with the Civic League's membership drive.

Mrs. Andrew Yonker of the Smart Shop directed the showing of the 1950 lines of Back-to-Campus clothing and fall clothing.

Many attending the show came from out of town to see the array of suits, jumpers, hats, coats and blouses with their accessories.

Mrs. Jim Morris, president of the club, welcomed the guests, introduced Mrs. Yonker and thanked the people who had contributed their time, talents and facilities in producing the revue.

Mrs. J. B. Scott and Miss Mildred Balch and Miss Rosemary Bruce played the background music for the showing.

Betty's Flower Shop furnished the background decorations and corsages worn by the models.

Mrs. Hal Hunter, commentator for the revue, introduced the models as described the various costumes.

She pointed out that 1950 fall clothes tended toward simple lines, tight skirts, and push-up sleeves. Colors were generally rich and warm with perhaps plaid and checked designs dominating most of the styles.

The first group of models showed corduroys, designed for the high school and college campus wear. The combinations were bright in color.

Deanna Pulley led off the fashion parade, modeling a red corduroy.

One of the favorites of this group was a combination wool jersey in a new shade of taupe and bottle green pinwheel cord worn by Carolyn Pruet, high school senior in Ranger.

Doris Peristein wore a checkered model. The blazer jacket by Ike Clark matched with a tailored skirt by Dan Getzman of California made a winning combination of the pinwheel corduroy and jersey.

Many white gloves were displayed with the casuals. Gloves go with the new fall fashions even when the hats are left behind, Mrs. Hunter said.

Joyce Cole modeled a combination of the popular scotch plaid

Good Tax News INCREASED OIL PRODUCTION MAY RELIEVE FORECASTED $26 MILLION STATE DEFICIT

By Lloyd Larrabee
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Aug. 10 (UP)—State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert indicated today that forecasted $26,000,000 deficit for the current biennium may be reduced as a result of boosted oil production.

However, he pointed out that the legislature convening next January still faces the task of raising a huge amount of money as it plots state finances for the next two years ending in August, 1953. The amount to be raised has been estimated at $165,000,000.

Calvert forecast last January that Texas would have an anticipated deficit of $26,000,000 by the end of the current biennium on Aug. 31, 1951.

However, since that time Texas' allowable oil production has been boosted a total of some 500,000 barrels daily to the present allowable of 2,580,328 barrels.

The increase means that about $1,800,000 more a month is available to the state in revenue, based on the state tax of some 12 cents per barrel.

"I'm pretty sure," Calvert said, "that $26,000,000 figure is going to change."

He added that the change likely would be "for the better."

But the Comptroller said that no revision would be made until January when he is required to submit an estimate of the state's financial situation to the legislature.

ture. The expected shortage in state finances which the legislature must make up by economies or higher taxes has been pegged at about $165,000,000.

At the present rate of spending, about $150,000,000 would be needed in the next biennium for the operation of the state government. To that must be added the $26,000,000 forecast deficit, and an expected $34,000,000 shortage in the state's omnibus tax clearance fund, to meet needs of the $15,000,000-a-year rural road program and the minimum foundation school program. The total need comes to about $210,000,000.

HOWEVER, FOR THE 1951-1953 biennium, only about $45,000,000 in revenue is in sight, with some $39,000,000 expected to come into the general revenue fund, and $6,000,000 from the penny-a-pack cigarette tax enacted last February for a hospital building program.

While economy moves could cut the total it was not expected that any appreciable amount could be hacked. Ninety per cent of the state's money goes to schools, highways and public welfare.

Calvert's report of state finances for July showed that more revenue was brought in that was spent. Cash receipts amounted to almost $46,000,000. While $35,000,000 was being spent.

However, at the same time only about one-half of the "surplus" went into the general revenue fund. As a result, the general fund showed a net drop of about $500,000, dropping to $29,612,000.

CALVERT POINTED OUT that the month's showing in the black was primarily seasonal, because money was not being transferred to the minimum foundation school program.

While costs have been mounting, some sources of revenue have been choked off.

A 30-cent ad valorem tax levy which has netted the state some $11,000,000 annually will be lost to the state under a constitutional amendment approved by the voters two years ago.

However, a continued rise in oil production would offset some of the shortage.

Railroad commission officials have predicted that Texas fields could produce close to one million more barrels of oil daily in the event of war. That would mean about $3,600,000 in additional revenue a month.

HOWEVER, UNDER A WAR time economy and controls, revenues from such items as the automobile sales tax and the state gasoline tax probably would decline.

But if a full-scale war came, construction of state buildings would come to a standstill and the state possibly would pile up a surplus similar to that which accumulated during World War II years.

The surplus amounted to about $45,000,000 in 1947, two years after the state emerged from a 15-year deficit period.

How To Weed With Geese
 HAZARD, Ky. (UP)—Five geese were used by the Buckhorn school farm to weed an acre of strawberries. Howard Burdine farm manager and vocational agriculture teacher, said his formula for weeding with geese is simple. "Just fence the geese in," he said. "If they fly out crop one wing."

DANCAIRE and Pablo removed from their pockets the valises they had taken from the stage coach passengers and piled them on a blanket. The furious voices of Carmen and Don Jose could be heard from inside the cave. The words were undistinguishable but the yelling left no doubt as to the ferocity of their quarrel. Pablo gave a thin smile of pleasure as he listened.

Dancaire said, "Dog and wolf. It's beginning, just as I said. Dog and wolf." He peered into the dark cave.

Against the far wall Carmen stood in the firelight, shouting, "I knew you would be soft! I said it! Take your conscience and make some other woman a present of it. I tell you I want none of it!" She turned her back on him. Jose took her by the shoulders and spun her around to face him. "You would do well to borrow part of my conscience."

His fury was so real that her own anger died. She slid her arms around his neck. "You wouldn't love me nearly so much if I had a conscience, Joseito. It is sufficient excuse just to say I am a gypsy." She kissed him teasingly. "And I don't know right from wrong." With her lips against his face, Carmen said, "Tell me what is right, Joseito. What is wrong?" She kissed him again, talking against his mouth. "Is this wrong, little soldier?"

He clutched her in his arms, defeated.

Dancaire and Pablo noticed that the shouting from inside the cave had ceased abruptly. There was a long silence during which Pablo looked toward the cave, the smile disappearing from his face, his eyes sullen.

Dancaire laughed at him. "What is the matter, Pablo?"

Pablo looked at him defensively. Dancaire taunted him, amused. "You enjoy listening to their quarreling, but you can't stand to listen to their silenca, can you, Pablo?"

"THE next day Carmen on her mule came riding leisurely along the high road. She had large empty baskets slung on either side of the mule for she intended to buy provisions in the city. A carriage with a driver and a footman overtook her and was forced to stop because she held blithely to the center of the road, blocking the way.

The footman shouted, impatiently, "Get out of the way, gypsy! We're in a hurry!"

Carmen's eyes danced with malicious amusement and she grinned broadly. "Well, now. In a hurry, are you?" She leaned back on the mule on her elbow, carelessly. Carmen slid from the back of the mule, stooped and picked up a stone, ready for combat, when the passenger of the carriage, wondering at the delay and commotion, stuck his head out.

It was Lucas, the matador. He was surprised and delighted as he shouted, "Carmen!"

Carmen looked startled, then amazed. The stone fell from her hand and she threw her arms wide in a gesture of greeting. "Lucas!"

The mule was hitched to the back of the carriage and Carmen rode into town on soft cushions at the bull fighter's side.

XXVII

IN Lucas' house late that night, Carmen laid out the fortune-telling cards with great care. She said, "The cards never lie to a gypsy, my friend." But she looked moody, and her mind was not on the cards. Lucas watched indulgently, more interested in Carmen than in the fortune. "They always tell the truth, Lucas," she went on.

He leaned forward, casually. "And what are they telling you at this minute that makes you look like such a beautiful thundercloud, my Carmen?"

She touched a card, her voice low. "They tell me that the thing I have been expecting is coming nearer, Lucas."

Pablo's face appeared at the edge of the window. Only his eyes were showing. They saw but were not seen.

"They tell it might be soon now, Lucas," she said.

Pablo's face slid away from the window, with narrow-eyed satisfaction.

Lucas smiled. "You're really afraid of something you see there, aren't you, Carmen?"

Carmen patted his hand. "You are not the only one who has seen death for a business partner, little bullfighter. Death travels with me, too, in the shape of a man who loves me. The cards have always said that, Lucas. They said that such a man would kill me." Her voice rose restlessly, became harsh. "And I know such a man."

IN the cave Don Jose's face was reflected in the broken piece of mirror resting on Carmen's shelf. His face was a bad face, changed and ugly. His eyes were tortured and cruel.

 and corduroy, called the Swap-about.

Miss La Nita Creager, a Ranger Junior College freshman, modeled a wool scotch plaid jacket, with slim trouser pleat skirt, by Huffman. Amy Wolford modeled an Irene Karol Jr. by Nathalie Nicol, in gold and navy plaid, one piece, fashioned with a fly front and navy leather belt.

One of the most popular weait types was displayed by Nancy Phillips, Ranger Junior College. It featured the nipped in waistline, was fashioned of hounds tooth check of brown Frostman wool, with companion blouse of tissue faille crepe by Gay Originals, with clever studs, and the popular new push-up sleeves.

Barbara Wylie wore a lipstick red gaberdine jumper, by Trudy Hall, with chapeau blouse by Gay Originals.

Carolyn Pruet displayed the two piece gaberdine suit dress, a campus favorite, by Minx Mode, fashioned of soft continental green wool. A gay rust velvet flower contrasted with the continental green gloves.

Suits are fall favorites. Beth Pearson modeled a Barney Max

Casual suit in mink brown a gaberdine skirt with coffee brown jacket. Miss Pearson wore Jan Leslie's milicene hat, with the new fish net veil, to complete her costume.

Mrs. C. W. Harris modeled Bagonsu of California's desert tone smart swagger finger tip coat, fashioned with a bias fold, which gives an easy sway. Her gold and pearl trim cloche, by Dolly Madison formed a combination fitting for any smart occasion.

One of the cleverest three piece suits created for the fall of 1950 was worn by Mrs. C. L. Wolford. It was fashioned with a red check top, with fling collar over a black milicene suit with cuffs and collar of the check. A smart black velour hat with jet buttons and leather trim, worn with black accessories completed the costume.

Another smart model well suited to the smart matron as well as the popular college co-ed was a cape suit of desert tone check. A removable belt was shown. The cape is also removable. Jean Valentine, modeled it.

Betty Penn, Ranger High School Junior, modeled a short over coat of lip stick red.

Jean Crawley modeled a Coachman's coat of Navy Chinchilla by Kay Saks. Smoothly made up with a sheer wool check skirt by Korset of California. Miss Crawley wore the nylon string gloves by Korset.

Elaine Brazda displayed a Kay Saks model of imported tweed flecked with purple, gold and brown, fitted with a brown leather belt and designed to be the co-ed's favorite coat. Miss Brazda also modeled a soft wool jersey dress with grosgrain trim in the new imported fabric from Great Britain tweed in checks, featured full wrist sleeves with wide cuffs, designed by Country Club.

A group of three dressy type models were shown by Misses Creager, Valentine and Wolford. Miss Creager and Miss Valentine both wore red wools showing the slim 1950 silhouette. Betty Wolford's kasha wool coat was trimmed with the popcor' knit and fashioned with removable shawl collar and push-up sleeves.

Another group of clothes modeled by Ranger's young matrons were feminine, supple suits with an elongated torso and the pencil slim skirt. Mrs. Ann Loper modeled a cherry bounce suit of sheer wool by Kay Saks, fashioned with deep hip flange collar and circular hip flanges.

Mrs. E. P. Brasher, jr. displayed Kay Saks milicene gaberdine, worn with blouse. The four button coat had old fashioned tating trim. A black velour hat with feather trim matched the blouse creating a smart ensemble, charmingly displayed.

Mrs. J. B. Houghton, jr. modeled a milicene gaberdine suit in brown with velvet trim collar and cuffs. Six bone buttons with gold trim closed the front. Fashioned of Forstam fabric, impeccably tailored and complimented with a beaver brown velour hat, with bird trim.

Mrs. Linda Forney modeled an excitingly beautiful creation by Christian Dior. The pencil slim skirt was accented by the populum of unpressed pleats.

Mrs. James Ratliff also modeled a Christian Dior creation, fashioned of purple and brown satin black crepe. This model, French in every detail, featured push-up sleeves, sloped shoulders and extremely narrow skirt. Mrs. Ratliff completed her costume with a hat of satin finished milicene, with rhinestone clip.

Mrs. Yonkers next presented an after-five group. Joyce Cole showed a siesta crepe by Marjorie Joy. The Bertha collar outlined a dotted marquisette yoke, on a princess dress with full shirred back and straight front. Miss Cole's black velvet hat was decorated with a simulated diamond placed above the right eye.

One of the most tailored and stunning of the group was in black crepe with V-shaped Bertha outlined in velvet, and finished with a rhinestone button. The full blossomed back and nipped in waist combined to show the new look. A small black hat was finished with the new removable veil. Mrs. Brasher, modeled the outfit.

Mrs. Houghton modeled the velvet look and the velvet touch, by Colin of California, trimmed with small rhinestone buttons, beautiful in its simplicity. A mushroom velvet hat with pearl trim completed the ensemble.

Beth Pearson appeared in a pin stripe nylon taffeta with black sequin trim, a black wool jersey bodice, featuring a scooped out

Fusari Proves That Decency, Cleanliness Can Survive In Toughest Of Sports Rackets

By Oscar Freley
United Press Sports Writer
GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 10 (UP)—The fight racket is a cruel and pitiless game where all too many of its victims wind up with scarred faces and marbles in their mouths but nobody is ever going to have to run a benefit for Charlie Fusari.

Charley is a lithe, clean-limbed young man who won't be 25 until late this month. And as he trains here in the scenic Ramapo mountains for his Wednesday night crack at Ray Robinson's welterweight title, the camp is somewhat typical of Fusari and his career.

Most fighters train in dirty, evil-smelling gymnasiums where the light is dim as if to hide the crumminess of a business built on pain and mental darkness. There sanitation is regarded as softness and the athletes perform preparatory labors in dead air stained by sweat and colored by the hazy blue of stale cigar smoke.

Fusari's camp has a sharp contrast. Charley's quarters are light and airy and cleanliness is the keyword.

All of which follows the pattern of Fusari's boxing career. The Sicilian-born blond with the tawny skin is the closest thing to a mama's boy that the ring has ever seen. There's nothing uncomplimentary intended. A son of immigrant parents, Charley still is a little boy to mama and papa Fusari. The beauty of it all is that Charley is a dutiful son.

WATCH YOUR STEP—Sculptured from a single piece of leather and clinging to the foot by "tobler's magic" are these "Twenty-First Century" shoes shown in a New York fall fashion show. Made in gold kid, the slipper has high heels and ankle straps for formal wear.

When he strated boxing, Charley kept his job as milkman in the neighborhood around his Irvington, N. J. home. And when the money started rolling in, Charley didn't hit the primrose path which bled so many fine fighters of their fistie inheritance, and left them broken, battered wrecks at journey's end.

Papa Fusari put Charley on an allowance.

Not did Charley squander that, as slender as it was. For instance in 1948 he was given $10 a week. Last year it was raised to $20 a week, as his earnings increased. Yet, out of that $1,560 in allowances over the last two years, Charley managed to save $1,000.

Meanwhile his earnings were invested in annuities and in real estate. He now owns an 18-family apartment house in Newark, from which there is a $6,000 net annual income, and he will have $70,000 in annuities maturing at the age of 34.

A "good boy," Charley is the milkman who used his own products and steered clear of wine, women and song. His first romance is budding now, with Vicki Dickey, daughter of the former New York Yankee catcher.

Wednesday night at Roosevelt stadium in Jersey City, N. J., Charley gets his first big chance. He'll attempt to strip the welterweight crown from Ray (Sugar) Robinson.

His chances, despite his usual confidence, are dubious. Most of the hopes in his camp are based on the fact that the 155-pound Robinson may have weakened himself to much making the 147-pound title limit.

But win or lose against Sugar Ray, Fusari is a long-run winner who proves that decency and cleanliness can survive and flourish in the toughest sports racket of them all.

Sisters Keep Pace
ST. LOUIS, (UP)—For the second time within two years now, two sisters here have given birth to children within hours of each other. In July, 1948, it was a boy and a girl, respectively, for Mrs. Norman F. Murphy and Mrs. Harry A. Hall. They came 31 hours apart. Now they have given birth to sons 28 hours apart.

RODEO GETS ROUGH—Such action as this will be a common sight to all who attend the Pre-Madison Square Garden Rodeo to be held in Dublin, Texas, Aug. 23-24-25-26. The rider pictured here is Harry Tompkins, son-in-law of Everett Colborn, producer of the Dublin show, and the horse is one of the Lightning C string of bucking broncs, the meanest and toughest rodeo stock in the world. This stock will be used at Dublin this year as it has for the past ten years, before leaving for the New York rodeo. Everett Colborn is on the horse in the back round

Doak Walker Chosen Co-Captain To Lead All-Stars Against Eagles

DELAFIELD, Wis., August 10 (UP)—The college All-Stars have chosen Doak Walker, speedy halfback from Southern Methodist, and Clayton Tonnemaker, lefty center from Minnesota, to lead them against the Philadelphia Eagles in the annual football classic in Chicago's Soldier Field Friday night.

Walker and Tonnemaker were elected co-captains yesterday after head coach Eddie Anderson instructed the collegians to name both a defensive and offensive leader.

Walker will lead the attack when he's operating from the left half position, and he'll have ample opportunity to exhibit the field generalship and flashy running and passing which he displayed during a spectacular college career.

Tonnemaker, 235 pounds of wall on defense, will spark the All-Stars when they deploy to meet the attack of the National Football League champions. The former Gopher Pivot was rated one of the best of modern college centers.

Other members of the 1950 squad who received votes for captain were Jim Martin, Notre Dame end; Hall Haynes, Santa Clara halfback; Dick Kempthorn, Michigan line backer; and Tom Novak, Nebraska center.

The All-Stars got two practice sessions today and are scheduled to have a tapering off drill tomorrow. They will break camp Friday morning.

Anderson put the Collegians through two workouts yesterday. Gordon Soltan, Minnesota end, missed the sessions because he was confined to a hospital with a head injury.

Also absent were Hillary Chollet, Cornell halfback, and J. D. Ison, Baylor end. They were in Chicago for selective service physical examinations.

That's Salesmanship
GOSHEN, Ind. (UP)—Many housewives complained to police Chief Ray D. Auer that this summer crop of magazine salesmen are bolder than usual. Said one woman: "Two men practically forced their way into my home. While one gave me a sales talk, the other turned the potatoes I had frying on the kitchen stove."

Preliminary figures indicate that 1,610,000 acres of land were reforested in new Japan in 1949.

Ferguson Says

General Feeling In United Nations That Russia Winning Propaganda

By Harry Ferguson
(UP) Foreign News Editor
There is a general feeling in the corridors of the United Nations that so far Russia has won every round against the United States in the propaganda battle to capture men's minds.

There is a feeling, too, that Russia will continue to "score" successes until some American or British arises and asks the $64 question: "Who started the Korean war?"

The American or Briton will then have to answer his own question in one word—"Russia." Furthermore, he will have to introduce a proposal to condemn Russia for instigating aggression.

No well informed person inside or outside of the U. N. doubts that Russia gave the signal for the start of the Korean war and supplied the North Koreans with weapons. But you can search the record proceedings of the U. N. for the last week without finding even a hint that anybody suspects Moscow.

You will find plenty of accusations that the South Koreans, aided and encouraged by the United States, started the war. That is the propaganda line that Jacob Malik, the Russian delegate has been hammering ever since he assumed the presidency of the Security Council. He wants to get that story across to the Asiatic peoples so they will be convinced that America is an imperialistic power bent on world domination and that Russia is a peace-loving country that sympathizes with down-trodden nations everywhere.

Malik has not sold his propaganda line any place where the

Sears Pig Tour Is Held Tuesday

The Sears Pig tour was held Tuesday with Ed Steele, assistant county agent in charge.

Steele reported that all the pigs, 8 girls and one boy, are doing well and look as if they will be in excellent condition for the Sears Pig Show for the county on September 27.

The tour is to give the boys who are participating in the event to see how their pig is progressing in comparison with the others.

At the county show, the eight girls will participate with the winner earning a trip to the district show at Breckenridge along with the Sears boar of the county.

Making the tour Tuesday were: Carol Sandlin, Carbon; Leon Rodgers, Cheaney; Mack Jones, Colony; Donald Starr, Scranton; Dan Jobe, Scranton; Charlie Rice, Scranton; Lawrence Ingram, Nimrod and Glen Fleming, Pioneer.

Steele said that the tour covered a distance of 160 miles, through out the county.

The tour had been originally slated for July, but rain caused postponement until yesterday.

Security Council meets

Trygve Lie, Secretary-General of the U. N. was asked by reporters yesterday whether he thought the Soviet Union was the aggressor in Korea and whether the Russians really wanted peace. He replied, "I really think that the Soviet Union wants peace."

Lie, by the virtue of his position, is neutral in U. N. controversies. He has to stick to the record. And all the record shows so far is that Russia is just what Malik claims it is—a peace loving nation trying to block the aggressors.

Almost one-quarter of the nation's farm land lies in the ten states that contain the Missouri River Valley.

It Was An Error In Judgment—
... when the rejected candidate was led to believe that he had his race in the bag because every voter he met told him so. And about as disillusioned is the person who is convinced that an abstract is a lot of extra expense, and unnecessary, in a real estate transaction. There's another error in judgment. He stands to lose more, perhaps, than the candidate who lost the election. A winner always insists on an abstract when he buys real estate, and you can't beat that for good judgment.

Four Hundred Entries In For Old Rip Derby

The whistles and bells sounded for the fourth time this year Wednesday, indicating that the entry total in the Old Rip Horned Toad Derby had advanced another 100 to the 400 mark.

Entries have now passed the original goal for the derby this year by 100, and achieved the second goal of 400 set about two weeks ago.

H. J. Tanner manager of the chamber of commerce, said that this is not all. Entries are still being received for the derby. One of the latest entries came from T. C. U., home of the Horned Frogs, which are somewhat like Horned Toads.

Tanner said that more toads are needed for the race and requested anyone to bring their toads into the chamber of commerce office and receive 10c a head. About 300 have been purchased to date.

Souvenir programs are off the press and ready for distribution, Tanner said. A program and race form will be given with each ticket purchased to the derby Saturday night.

News From GORMAN

By Buena Van Winkle

Mrs. Bob Burton and daughters have been visiting her mother, Mrs. Bob Moseley for the last few days.

Mr. and Mrs. George McCormack celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary Monday, August 7th.

Robert Frank Perry has been spending a week with his grandmother Mrs. Bob Moseley, and his grandfather, F. S. Perry and his auntie, Mrs. Callie Lowe. His mother, Mrs. V. L. Perry of Hay City came for him and spent last week-end with relatives.

Peanuts are occupying the center of the stage for all farmers, and indeed, for most everyone in this area at the present. So much of the crop was at least a month later than usual, and a good percentage of the crops are still having to be hoed. Hands are almost at a premium.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Guyer and children, Sharon, Ronald and Rebecca of Denton are spending a few days with F. S. Perry and Miss Callie Lowe.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Lowe of Lometa, Mr. Lowe publishes the Lometa Reporter and the Lampasas Dispatch, spent the week-end with his sister, Miss Callie Lowe.

The vote on the School Bond Election held Saturday was 261 against and 101 for the bonds.

The Baptist meeting is in progress with Brother Dick O'Brien who used to be pastor at Gorman, and other churches in the vicinity, he grew up at Elm, we understand, and is now pastor at Big Spring. Brother O'Brien has a powerful message, and the attendance is good. He has been at Big Spring for the last 9 years. Helping with the singing is "Red" Bryant who is the son of Levi Bryant who lived in Gorman some 35 years ago.

Numbers of people from surrounding territories, including Cisco, Eastland, Desdemona are in the services every evening, com-

Conway Perry was home for the week-end from Stephenville. Conway is one home town boy who feels it is worth his while to drive home each week-end for his worship service in his home town church.

Melvin McCormack was home this week-end from Eastland where he has recently become affiliated with the Victor Cornelius Printing Co.

C. M. Van Winkle was in Comanche this week-end visiting friends and relatives.

John Ryan of the Desdemona Community was in Blackwell Sanitarium this week suffering with a snake bite. He was weeding some tomatoes in his garden and a small copperhead bit him on his little finger. He is getting along all right now, however.

BOYCE HOUSE

Six-year-old Willie, smarting under a switching administered by his mother, decided to run away from home. He went no farther than a playmate's home, three doors down the street. Of course, the playmate's mother notified the mother of the lad but, contrary to Willie's expectation, no one came for him, so after an absence of two hours, he decided to return.

His parents had agreed that the silent treatment would be the most effective so, when the prodigal son entered, father continued reading the paper and mother kept on sewing. Several minutes passed, then the boy cleared his throat and remarked:

"Well, I see you've got the same old cat."

Officers Hunt Teen-Age Girl; Fear Murder

FREMONT, Mo., Aug. 10 (UP)—Officers who tracked down and killed ex-convict William Harris, slayer of three persons, today intensified their search for a 15-year-old girl who may have been abducted by him.

A state highway patrol spokesman said Lola Fansler may have been a fourth victim of Harris who killed her father and brother and his own four-year-old daughter earlier this week. Two other persons were wounded in the shooting affray at the Fansler home near Eminence, Mo.

Harris, 39, was shot to death yesterday by special deputy sheriff Harold Frey in the "Irish Wilderness" of the Clark National Forest where 300 officers, deputies and volunteers had hunted for the killer.

Harris killed Lola's father, R. N. Fansler, 65, when the farmer accused Harris of running off with the girl. Lola disappeared from home last Friday, the same day Harris disappeared from his house at a nearby farm.

In addition to killing Fansler, Harris fatally wounded his son, Homer Fansler, 27, and Barbara Wanda Harris, the gunman's daughter.

The state highway patrol at Willow Springs, Mo., said police throughout the region had been notified to watch for Lola.

"The people present at the shooting scrape haven't been able to help much," a patrolman said. "We're investigating the possibility that Harris may have killed her too."

He declined to say whether police considered it probable that Harris had killed her.

Colonel Decides Easier To Move Train By Engine

WITH 1st CAVALRY DIVISION, Korea, Aug. 9 (UP)—Lt. Col. William C. Holley, of Corvallis, Ore., got orders to blow up an American train.

It was stranded just outside the 1st Cavalry sector. Fifteen freight cars loaded with gasoline and munitions in imminent danger of falling into North Korean hands.

Holley planned everything just right. Twenty tired riflemen set out ahead in jeeps for the railway station, 15 miles east of Kumchon. The main body of his engineers' battalion followed in trucks mounting machine guns.

The riflemen seized the station and threw up a defense. The demolition was ready.

It was at that point Holley decided to heck with his plan.

He telephoned back to headquarters and said he wanted a locomotive. The officer he spoke to said maybe there was one he could get farther south.

From 2 a.m. to 4 a.m. the engineers held the station against enemy attack. Then in came a locomotive and hauled the train out.

A new hospital bed can be operated by the patient without the aid of a nurse. The inventors claim that the electricity and hydraulically controlled bed is foolproof.
