Association, Slated To Meet Tonight, Catches Bad Risks

by John Chopelas
Bouncing checks haven't much chance when cornered by the Ranger Merchant's Association. Tracing bad checks and forgers is just one of the many services offered members by this credit organization which will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the association's offices.

Mrs. Mae Belle Oyler, secretary, said that the purpose of the meeting is to work up plans for a bigger and better Christmas program in December. All 54 active Ranger members are expected to be at the meeting but any Ranger businessman is invited to attend, Mrs. Oyler said. The group will also discuss further stimulation of business in the trade area. An aim of the association is to work up information on every merchant in town. When information is needed for a merchant, the association will go to great lengths to get it. Credit information works both ways, Mrs. Oyler said. It is a great aid to members in learning important business facts of credit buyers and to the buyer it offers a record of good standing. Hundreds of cards and papers are kept by the association on the credit standings of members and practically all Ranger businessmen. The card files contain brief information with a reference number corresponding to a more lengthy paper file.

DRAMATIC COLLAPSE—Sen. William Langer is carried to a waiting ambulance on a metal stretcher after collapsing on the Senate floor while filibustering against the Communist Control Bill. The 63-year-old North Dakota Republican, a diabetic, slumped to the floor after talking five hours and 28 minutes in an effort to delay action on the vote to override President Truman's veto of the stringent Red-curb bill. In Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital for a few days' rest, he is reported out of danger. (NEA Telephoto.)

Congress Rejects Truman Veto Of Red Control Bill In Midst Of Election Year Frustration

By Lyle C. Wilson
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (UP)—Congress rejected a veto of the Communist control bill in a nightmare of election jitters and frustration. The bill now is on the statute books.

It has become unusual for a politician to discuss or deal with it for what it is. The problem of the Communist Fifth Column here, of course, actually is the problem of the defense of the republic against defeat and destruction.

Rush Endorses Formation Of Junior League

G. B. Rush, superintendent of schools, has endorsed the forming of a Junior Bowling league here. According to the American Junior Bowling Congress rules, the leagues must be under the supervision of an adult; the proprietor—in this case M. Standish—must give the youngsters a reduced rate for their league bowling. Leagues can be composed of three, four, five or more members of a team with a minimum of twelve members to a league. Leagues may be all boys, all girls, or mixed.

Mrs. Bellah Dies Recently

Mrs. L. D. Bellah, former Ranger resident, died last week in Sunny Vale, Calif. Mrs. Bellah has been living with her son, there, for about a year, Mrs. Ethel Stephens reported.

Walker Says Victory Near

Lieut. Gen. Walton H. Walker said today that "victory is in sight."

But some Republican efforts to tie a Communist tag on the Truman administration and to engrave the hated word on FDR's tombstone have been so outrageous as to dull impartial ears to the real truth when it is offered. Some Democrats, on the other hand, have seemed to be more eager to protect the Party's past, present and future than to look at the record. President Truman's repeated insistence that the Alger Hiss inquiry was a "red herring" has been cited as an instance of such.

AND THERE IS NO DENYING that Communists, their fellow travelers and dupes thrived enormously in Washington during the administration of FDR. For many it was smart to be pink, or red. And for some it paid off well. So it has come to be that the Fifth Column peril is in large measure a matter of party political interest here instead of an urgent matter of internal defense and security. That has been true for some time and it is doubly true today with an election just around the corner.

They are: H. C. Henderson, president; Bruce Maddocks, vice-president; Mrs. Mae Belle Oyler, secretary; W. F. Croager, James Ratliff, Morris Newham, T. J. Anderson, H. G. Adams and Al Larson, directors.

Jaycees Slate Meeting Tonight

The Ranger Junior Chamber of Commerce will meet at 8 p.m. today at the Gholson hotel. C. E. May, jr., president, said that plans would be discussed for attendance at the Mineral Wells rodeo.

Rangers Drop Tilt To Aggies

By Everett Taylor
Ranger Junior College Fangers fumbled away a scoring opportunity in the fourth quarter and with it went their chances to win a football game Saturday night as Arlington State's Aggies won, 13-7, at Ranger.

The fumble came on third down as the Rangers were within scoring distance on the Arlington four. The fall was recovered by an Arlington player behind the goal and the Aggies had the ball on their own 20. Arlington drew first blood in the contest in the first quarter when Tom Wright of the Aggies plucked one of Barrett's passes out of the air on his own 40 and returned to the Ranger 20. From there John Matlock and Milam Simons powered over on four running plays. Simons made the score.

Bobby Williams blocked the try for point and Arlington led 6-0. Ranger tied it up and went ahead in the second quarter. The Rangers started a drive on their own 38 which was climaxed by a touchdown.

Williams and Kenneth E. did some beautiful running to set the Rangers to the Arlington 12. But there the drive almost stalled and the Rangers faced fourth down on the Aggie 18, but Bud Hamrick tossed a pass to Jimmy Gerth in the left flat and outran the defenders for the tally, to knot the count.

Williams added the point and the Rangers led, 7-6. Arlington picked up two consecutive first downs as the half ended.

Rangers Drop Tilt To Aggies

Chick Neal played a fine game for the Rangers at end, and Louis Boynton and Wayne Standridge also turned in some good play in the Ranger line. The loss was the second for the Rangers, having dropped a 6-0 decision in a thunderstorm abbreviated tilt to the Hardin-Simmons Fish the week before.

AGGIE POWER PLAYS FAILED and they punted out on their own 46. Ranger lacked two yards making a first down with fourth coming and a very short time remaining in the game. The Rangers elected to punt, and in addition to kicking the ball, kicked away their last scoring hope as Arlington held the ball until the final gun sounded with the score, Arlington State College 13, Ranger Junior College 7.

A LINE CHARGE LOST 2 AND another gained it back so the Rangers had third and four for a touchdown. On the next play came the heartbreaking fumble for Ranger fans. The ball was carried up to the goal line and fumbled with the Aggie covering behind the line for an automatic touchback, and the ball was taken out to the 20.

THE AGGIES CAME BACK very strongly in the second half with a bruising ground attack which threatened to root the Rangers clear out of the stadium. Power running by Simons, Matlock and Derald Kellelt carried to the Rangers 3 from where Kellelt plunged over. The big Arlington linemen were manhandling the Ranger line on the drive. Point try was no good and Arlington led, 13-7.

But after that drive the Aggie spark fizzled and Ranger threatened throughout the second half. Williams and Holt powered the Rangers to the Aggie 11 in the early minutes of the fourth quarter, but the ball went over on downs.

Arlington took the ball and punted to Jack McWhorter who returned to the Aggie 28. A play lost 8, and then Williams ran to the Aggie 4 yard line.

WARRIORS and Holt powered the Rangers to the Aggie 11 in the early minutes of the fourth quarter, but the ball went over on downs.

School Gets $667.40 In Ticket Sales

Dewey Cox, registrar for the Ranger Junior College, said that the school took in $667.40 on ticket sales, Saturday. The local college lost 13 to 7 to Arlington State. Dr. G. C. Roswell, president, expressed his thanks to Ranger people for their support. He said that the crowd was a large one for the first game of the season.

Pipton, Beck Win Awards In Bowling

Chester Piption with a 256, and C. D. Beck with a 586 for three games, won the City Bowling association championships for 1949-50. H. S. Perry, secretary of the association, said that the bowlers bowled the high game and high series under Bowling association rules. The two men won belt buckles, gold plated and embossed with the American Bowling Congress letters and the number of pins they scored.

The Hard Road Back

James Returns To Seoul On Heels Of Seventh Division; He Had To Flee Town After Scoop On Attack

United Press Staff Correspondent
INSIDE SEOUL, Sept. 25 (UP)—I returned to Seoul today to reopen the United Press bureau. The Marines are fighting within rifle shot of the main business section, and as quickly as possible dispatches again will be flowing from the U. P. bureau I was forced to abandon in the face of the Communist invasion last June. The Marines, driving northeast, are progressing rapidly against moderate enemy resistance. At last reports they were approaching Duksoo palace and the French consulate grounds just west of the city's central and most modern district.

This I returned to Seoul. Units of the Army's Seventh division moved across the Han river into the city's southeastern suburbs in a surprise landing at dawn today and drove inward toward Namsan (South) mountain and another ridge 1,000 yards to the northeast, commanding the eastern sectors of the city. By noon, Army units had taken the ridge against very light resistance and the Red ground panels which marked the front lines for (Continued on page four)

ROK FORCES LAND 75 MILES OF SEOUL ON 38TH PARALLEL; REDS RETREAT FROM SOUTH

By Earnest Hoberecht
United Press Staff Correspondent
TOKYO, Sept. 25th (UP)—U. S. Marines knifed into the main section of Seoul today against moderate resistance, while other American forces advancing almost at will from the south, drove within 40 miles of a junction with the capital besiegers.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported to Washington that elements of the 7th division and the 1st cavalry were 38 miles apart. "They are moving so fast we cannot show you on the map exactly where they are now," a military spokesman said.

The Marines had by-passed strongly entrenched Communists on the bare hills to the west, and with the Army's Seventh division, were clamping a three-way vise on the city. Battle lines were changing by the minute on the exploding former Pusan beachhead.

One probing American spearhead had reached Chongju, an important crossroads city, in an 18 mile advance. Unconfirmed reports reached 1st corps headquarters that an unidentified unit—presumably the same spearhead—had sped another 10 miles to the west and cut the main Pusan-Seoul highway at Chochiwon.

If so, the United Nations forces have cut the last practical escape route for uncounted thousands of Communists fleeing from the southern front toward embattled Seoul and the 38th parallel border between North and South Korea. The enemy had counted heavily on extricating them to help defend Seoul.

The 1st Marines, who crossed the Han into southwest Seoul yesterday, were advancing rapidly against only moderate enemy resistance and at last reports were approaching the Duksoo palace and the French consulate grounds just west of the city's central and most modern district.

THE ARMY'S 7TH DIVISION units took a ridge northeast of Namsan (south) mountain against light resistance during the morning. American aircraft were working over Communist entrenchments on the eastern slopes of the mountain.

The 5th Marine regiment still was meeting furious enemy resistance in the northwest districts, however. More American reinforcements were about to join the battle. A complete American combat unit northwest of the city yesterday was flown into Kimp'o airfield with guns, ammunition and all other equipment.

SOME 75 MILES NORTHWEST of Seoul, a South Korean Naval Commando raiding force landed in Haeju Bay astride the 38th parallel border between North and South Korea. It destroyed enemy installations, wiped out an enemy unit and sank five North Korean vessels.

Hot on the heels of the retreating Reds, American troops captured Chirju, big south coast communication hub 53 miles west of Pusan, and Hyopchon, another road junction 26 miles to the north. They also entered and presumably have captured Kumchon, another important crossroads town 37 miles north of Hyopchon.

THE SOUTH KOREANS, pounding north on a 50-mile front from the northern rim of the old beachhead, seized the strategic east coast port of Yongdok, 26 miles north of Pohang, and the five-way road junction of Andong, 38 miles west northwest of Yongdok and 50 miles north of Taeju.

WINNERS ANNOUNCED
Richard Bonney of Ranger and Miss Wanda Phillips of Eastland rolled high games last week at the Ranger Bowl. Miss Phillips, 16 years old, hit the pins for a 144. Bonney scored 212.

Victory or Defeat—CONGRESS RETURNS HOME FOR ELECTIONS AFTER GIVING TRUMAN WHAT HE ASKS IN WAY OF RED DEFENSE AND FOREIGN AID

By John L. Steele
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (UP)—Congress carried to the voters today a legislative record giving President Truman everything he asked for on foreign policy and defense but little in the way of domestic programs. With the outbreak of war in Korea, the Senate and House with almost no hesitation gave the President vast powers over the nation's resources, plus billions more for the fighting and to add new strength to the arms of this and other free nations.

But they balked on some of Truman's major labor legislative requests at home. Shifted aside were his call for repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, the controversial Brannan plan, compulsory health insurance, federal aid to education and civil rights.

Truman told his news conference, last week that he thought the Congressional record was good. His Democratic leaders in Congress agreed, but Republicans were emphatic in their dissent. The voters will be the final Judge on Nov. 7. All 435 House seats and 36 in the Senate are at stake with political control of Congress riding in the balance. Actually the record of the 81st Congress still is incomplete. It adjourned with an agreement to return Nov. 27 for six weeks more of work. President Truman can call it back if an emergency requires before that date.

The President got at least one law he didn't want—strict controls on Communists and subversives. It was enacted over the President's veto despite Truman's warning that it would help the Reds more than it hurt them.

Here's the record of major accomplishments:
Appropriations
A "single-package" appropriation carrying $36,153,490,425 in cash and contract authority for operating the government; a $17,000,000,000 supplemental defense appropriation enacted after Korea.

Taxes
A tax bill increasing personal and corporate taxes and closing some tax "loopholes" which is expected to yield about $4,700,000,000; a promise to act on excess profits taxes in November; federal tax on oleomargarine repealed.

War emergency, defense
Priority, allocation and requisition powers over materials, along with credit curbs and wage-price controls; military manpower ceilings suspended and selective service law extended; authority granted to federalize the National Guard and call up the reserve components; allowances provided for the families of enlisted servicemen; drafting of doctors and dentists; a 70-group Air Force authorized and a $950,000,000 program to modernize the Navy.

Foreign affairs
Foreign aid programs, including the Marshall plan for European recovery, continued with a $4,387,000,000 appropriation; arms aid stepped up; a start on the point four program of technical aid to backward areas; displaced persons program liberalized.

Agriculture
Commodity credit corporation borrowing power increased by $2,000,000,000; bigger acreage allotments for cotton and peanuts with limits on potato price supports; extension of soil conservation program; price support funds boosted by $2,000,000,000.

Social Security
Extended coverage to 10,000,000 more persons and doubled benefits.

All Laughed At Low's Predictions But They Came True; He's Calling For Moon Landing In 1970

By Robert Musel
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON. (UP) — They all laughed 25 years ago when Prof. Archibald M. Low sat down and prophesied the spitting of the Atom and the achievement of the speed of sound.
Those things and many others were predicted in Low's scientific work called "The Future."
Now, 62-year-old Low is ready for people to start laughing again. In his rambling London home, he is putting the finishing touches on his new work, "It's Bound To Happen." This one lets the world in on what's in store for it through 1975.
"I suppose," Low said, "that they will laugh at this one, too. But I don't mind in the least. I've been having the last laugh for some years and I'm getting rather to enjoy it."
And what does Britain's most prolific inventor see as he peers into the mists of the years?
Well, he thinks there should be a rocket landing on the moon around 1970. He doubts if humans will make the trip before another century has passed.
"We ought to have factories in the next generation or so," he added. "Robot factories? You might call them that."
Gas turbine automobiles will be common in the next 25 years, according to Low. He thinks there might even be cars powered by induction from cables under the ground.

"They are working on that sort of thing now in Russia, you know," he said.
Possibly the most astounding advances Low feels are coming will be in surgery. He would not be a bit surprised if people start buying spare parts for their bodies—corneas for eyes, new ears, and so on.
Low keeps a television set in his home to punish himself. Way back in 1914, he demonstrated a television set at a meeting of the Institute of Automobile Engineers.
"Ah," he sighed, "if only I had only kept working on it."
Low has made many profitable inventions, but like the fisherman lamenting the big one that got away he dwells most on the great ideas that came to him too early.
"You know the V-1s, the secret weapon the Germans used in London six years ago?" he asked.
"I invented one in 1916 and they laughed at me."
They also laughed when I described a gas turbine engine and fluorescent lighting around the same time. You can find in the files how I had a radio-controlled plane in the air during the first World War."
Nobody laughed at that, though.
"They were too busy running," Low explained. "It went out of control during a demonstration and plunged right at the brass hats."
Low gave that up to work on an electrically controlled anti-aircraft rocket. That drew a lot of laughter, but the military got around to using them 30 years later.

Low's inventions include garters that won't run stockings, a hair curling machine, a self-winding watch, unbreakable eye glasses and a cigaret with an ash that does not drop off. He's got about 200 patents all together.

MURIEL HALLECK'S brows, thin arcs, lifted. "This isn't the first time you've taken a lot on yourself, Alice, my dear. With Rick and—Oh, it doesn't matter. But as for having to, I didn't. I simply saw no reason why I shouldn't. Brent is a very interesting personality. I thought so when I married him."
"But to—to crucify him in a novel!"
Muriel slapped the table. "Oh, hush! That's stupid and melodramatic. You'd think I was vivisectioning Brent Halleck in Grand Central Station. Look here! Thousands of people will read the book. But only a handful could even vaguely suspect that I might have had Brent in mind."
"But Brent himself will be terribly hurt. And Chuck Wisner and Molly Tremayne..."
Muriel held up a hand. "Please! Let's not enumerate the local nonentities." She waited a second, then nodded. "Yes, it's time I told you. I hadn't meant to, just yet. But you're forcing me. You may as well know, Alice, that I'm finished with all this around here."
"I do know," Alice said slowly. "You're stopping off at Reno on your way to California."
"Why, yes," Muriel smiled. "But it's interesting that you're so well informed already. Still, Brent would have talked to Chuck. Damon has 'no secrets from Pythias. And Chuck, having nothing better to do, gossips like an old woman."
"He didn't exactly gossip. He... Oh, Muriel, why are you doing it?"
"Divorcing him, I mean!"
"Good heavens, you're 'why-ing' me to death. But if you must know, I've been out of love with Brent for a long time. Years, even. I—I bypassed him ages ago. And now he's a definite drag."
"A drag?" Alice repeated the words in the form of a question.

"Yes, a drag." Muriel's eyes narrowed into bright slits. "And I can't afford drags and excess baggage. I've got things to do and whenever and wherever I see fit. I don't want to be chained to a neck of land in a dull part of New England with a husband who can't make the grade in his profession. And with a child that isn't even my own. It's the—the end of a chapter. Do you see, Alice? Just like in a book—the end of a chapter!"
THE hard, measured words struck Alice like a succession of blows. She felt herself step back involuntarily. Then she spoke:
"I'm not going with you to California, Muriel." The calmness of her words surprised even Alice herself.
Muriel shrugged. "Suit yourself. I'm sorry, though. You're a good secretary. Alice, but in your—er—present condition it wouldn't make sense, would it?"
"My present—"
Alice suddenly checked herself. She was confusedly conscious that Muriel was inwardly laughing at her. Now Muriel visibly smiled.
"Don't look so stunned, Alice, darling. I know darn well that you've fallen, at least halfway, for Brent. And who am I to blame you, considering that I too fell for him once? I did think, though, that it was just propinquity and that getting away from him for awhile would straighten you out. But now I see that you're beginning to carry a torch."
Somehow Alice brushed aside Muriel's words and managed to meet the woman's cool, smiling eyes. "And you—you don't care?"
"Good grief!" Muriel exclaimed, almost testily. "Would I be likely to talk this way if I really cared?"

When I said I was finished—through with Brent—I meant finished. Alice. Finished in every way."
Strangely, the finality of Muriel's assertion, her definite renunciation of Brent, gave Alice Pine no satisfaction. It simply meant that Brent Halleck had been discarded by his wife—the famous writer. He was the next thing to free.
Yet it didn't and couldn't matter to Alice.
ALICE moved to the door slowly. She had to restrain herself to keep from flinging it open and rushing out of the room.
"I guess, then, we've said all there is to say," Alice hesitated at the doorway. "But if you think I'm going to run to Brent the moment you've gone and he's free, you're mistaken, Muriel. I—I don't want to see Brent Halleck again—ever!"
"No?" Muriel sounded mildly surprised. "Not even after I've practically given you a green light? Well! Now, if I may have a 'why' for a change, why not?"
Alice looked steadily at her from across the room.
"Because of something Brent did once. Something terribly cruel. Something that I'm trying to forget."
Muriel opened her mouth, but Alice was gone. Alice had rushed from the room finally. The desire to leave had come suddenly and overwhelmingly. It was a desire to put as much space as possible between herself and the Hallecks, both Muriel and Brent.
Alice Pine left Grosvenor Point that evening, while naive snobs gathered over Long Island Sound. Muriel said a brief and somewhat amused goodbye as Alice left.

AFTER leaving the Hallecks, Alice chose a quiet hotel on the upper East Side of New York City. She was presently sorry for her choice. The very quietness proved a drawback in forgetting the things she wanted most to forget.
She had planned her program soon after she departed from Grosvenor Point. The thing to do was to get another job immediately; let it absorb her. To forget then as quickly as she could her connection with Brent and Muriel Halleck and a summer, once so promising, that had come to such a dismaying end. The program was sensible. But Alice could not seem to make it work.
A disturbing physical listlessness had seemed to take possession of her. It did not, unfortunately, extend to her mind. Her thoughts churned incessantly, going over and over the same ground again and again.
Alice had, she realized, allowed herself to get so far involved in the affairs of the Hallecks that to forget them was next to impossible.
She brooded over the stunning way in which Muriel had revealed a totally unsuspected side of her nature. Her true nature, perhaps. And remembering, she felt a little numb.
She had liked Muriel, grown fond of her; admired her ability and drive. But all along Muriel had worn a mask.
And Brent? Even yet, despite Muriel's cold announcements, her conscience plagued her. While living under Muriel's roof, while she was paid by Muriel, Alice had stabbed her in the back.
Reluctantly and helplessly, Alice knew that she should have left Grosvenor Point after that night on the beach when she had first become—well, acutely aware of Brent Halleck.

For a week Alice dawdled around the hotel, too upset to exchange its unwelcome quiet for the diverting surroundings. She was too busy with self-tear. But one morning, she spoke to a too-pale oval of a face gazing at her from the mirror.
"Now see here, Alice—fine!" Alice muttered. "You're an egotistical ass. You didn't break up your marriage. You're not that attractive. They'd begun to crack up before you ever came on the set. So stop beating yourself and get a job. Heaven knows you need one."
She went downtown that same day, visited employment bureaus and advertising agencies. She filled out application blanks.
BACK at the hotel late in the afternoon, Alice was slipping out of her street shoes when there came a light tap at the door.
"Come in," she called, hastily thrusting her feet into slippers.
The door opened. Muriel Halleck stood there.
"M-Muriel!" Alice rose in astonishment.
Muriel stepped into the room. She was beautifully dressed in a black sheer and small black hat. Her appearance was assured. Yet somehow, Alice thought, Muriel herself seemed subdued.
"I'm very glad you sent me a forwarding address, Alice," she said. "And I charmed your desk clerk here into letting me come up without his phoning. I—I didn't know whether you'd see me, if you had warning."
"But, Muriel, how silly!"
"Oh, I couldn't take a chance. I had to see you, Alice. Something's not quite right."
"Oh," Alice began, "don't let anything bother you."
Muriel stopped her. "But it does, my dear. I'm off for the West tomorrow and I'll be gone a long time. And I'm going to have to live with myself out there and everywhere I go."

"I don't understand."
"You will, Alice. Listen! I knew exactly what you meant that last day when you said Brent had been cruel. Well—Muriel drew a breath—"you were wrong. What ever else Brent may be, he was never that."
"You mean..." Alice checked herself, conscious of having almost shouted.
"I'm afraid I do." Muriel's eyes went to her shoes. "It was I who whipped Rick a little, one night. And if I hadn't been a coward when you found the—that thing in my closet, I would've admitted it then and I wouldn't be here now. But I was cowardly enough, and mean enough, to put you under a misapprehension. Fortunately, too."
ALICE caught her hand. "Muriel! You don't need to say another word."
"Yes, I do. I came to get this off my chest and I'll do it right." "Sit down," Alice said, one night. "Mostly, worrying about my work. And—oh, heaven knows what all. And I couldn't sleep with that confounded storm outside. But Brent sleeps like a log and he didn't hear Rick when he woke up crying. The child was petrified with fear of the lightning. That's what makes what I did so much worse."
"Oh, please!" Alice said. "I understand. You needn't go on."

Texas' Vaunted Line Didn't Look So Good Against Texas Tech With Arterburn Working Well For Tech

By Ed Fite
United Press Sports Writer

Swap-out intersectional games with Big Ten conference teams and the debut of the defending champion Rice Owls spotlight this week's Southwest conference bill of fare.

While Southern Methodist takes its explosive offense to Columbus, O., against Rose Bowl champion Ohio State, Texas will entertain Purdue at Austin and Rice plays host to Santa Clara at Houston.

Neighborhood foes will offer the opposition for the remainder of the conference with Texas Christian going to Stillwater, Okla., against Oklahoma A&M, Baylor meeting University of Houston at Waco, Arkansas playing North Texas State at Fayetteville and the Texas Aggies getting Texas Tech on neutral ground at San Antonio.

Texas' vaunted line was none too impressive as the Longhorns slapped Texas Tech 28-14 last week. The unheralded Red Raiders ripped their way for 235 yards through and around Texas' line and Purdue's ground game might make things even more interesting. Junior Arterburn of Ranger ran and passed well in his senior college opener.

SMU, while sparking offensively on the ground and in the air, displayed a defensive line that leaked badly on Georgia Tech running plays. SMU backers got some more fine news from the 33-13 victory.

TCU, rather important most of the time in beating Kansas 14-7, draws an underdog Oklahoma A&M team which upset Arkansas 12-7 last week.

Arkansas, meanwhile, may again have its hands full against a North Texas team that bounced East Texas 42-20 after losing to powerful Kentucky 25-0 a week earlier.

Rice, still untested, dedicates a new 70,000-capacity stadium against a Santa Clara team that threw a 9-0 scare into California before succumbing 27-9. It will be one of two night games in the schedule.

Baylor, also dedicating a new stadium, seating 49,000, will catch a University of Houston eleven that bowed to St. Bonaventure 29-14.

The Aggies, showing surprising offensive power in bowling over Nevada 48-18, will get a chance to compare itself to Texas in its nocturnal clash against Texas Tech.

Rambling Robert Smith of the Aggies ambled his way into the conference scoring lead with three touchdowns against Nevada, while SMU's Kyle Rote and Rusty Russell, jr., broke in second place

The calendar:

Team	W	L	T	Pct	Pts	Opp
SMU	1	0	0	1.000	33	13
Texas	1	0	0	1.000	28	14
Texas	1	0	0	1.000	48	18

Baylor	0	1	0	.000	0	7

This week's schedule:

Saturday—Purdue at Texas, SMU at Ohio State, TCU at Oklahoma A&M, North Texas at Arkansas, University of Houston at Baylor, Santa Clara at Rice, Texas A. and M. vs. Texas Tech at San Antonio.

WEST TEXAS LEADS PACK ON BORDER

West Texas State stepped out in front of the pack in the border conference football race today. The Buffaloes chalked up their second straight title victory Saturday night when they outscored Arizona 34-26 in a wild game at Tucson.

In intersectional play, Hardin-Simmons lost to Cincinnati 19-7, Temple State defeated Brigham Young 41-13 and Texas Tech lost to Texas 28-14.

This week's schedule pits New Mexico against Tempe in the only conference games. Outside competition finds Texas Tech meeting Texas A & M at San Antonio, Hardin-Simmons entertaining Trinity at Abilene, Laverne playing at Flagstaff, West Texas State meeting McMurry, Texas Western playing host to Loyola of Los Angeles, Arizona at Utah and New Mexico A & M meeting Howard Payne.

Full season standings:

Texas Champion To Have Tough Competition

By United Press

Defending champion McMurry appeared today to have serious competition for its Texas conference football crown.

Most of it probably will come from its cross-town rival, Abilene Christian, but Austin College may have a word or two to say about the crowning.

McMurry defeated Midwestern the Gulf Coast conference champs 19-6 while ACC was coasting to a 34-0 victory over Sul Ross of the Lone Star loop.

Austin College knocked off Southeastern Oklahoma 26-0; Southwestern was nipped 8-7 by San Houston State; Howard Payne, minus eight, men kicked off the squad on the eve of the game, lost to Louisiana Tech 27-0, and Texas A&I fell before Trinity 20-7.

ACC goes intersectional this week with a jaunt to Tennessee against Chattanooga; Howard Payne goes to Las Cruces against New Mexico A&M; McMurry plays the border conference leader, West Texas, at Canyon Southwest; West Texas, S. R. Austin at Nacacoches; Austin College entertains Midwestern, and A&I plays host to Southwest Texas at Kingsville.

North Texas State Beats East Texans

By United Press

North Texas State established itself as the team to beat in the four-team Gulf Coast conference last week.

The Eagles cut loose with a three-touchdown running and passing spurge in the last quarter to defeat traditional rival East Texas 42-20 at Commerce.

This week, North Texas invades Fayetteville against Arkansas. Midwestern moves to Sherman against Austin College. Trinity invades Abilene against Hardin-Simmons and Houston meets Baylor at Waco.

Season standings:

Team	W	L	T	Pct	Pts	Opp
Trinity	1	0	1	.750	33	20

Missions Win Texas League Championship

By United Press

The San Antonio Missions, fourth-place finisher in regular season play and viewed as the team least likely to succeed in the playoffs, slapped down the Tulsa Oilers last night to emerge as Texas League champions.

The plucky Padres—having disposed of Tulsa 4 games to 2—hit the road today, for Nashville, where they open tomorrow night in the Dixie series against the Southern Association champions.

Nashville, which repeated as champion of the Southern Association, will be the site of the first two games of the Dixie series, tomorrow and Wednesday nights. Thursday is an off day, with the teams traveling to San Antonio.

The next three games, if that many are needed, will be played in the Texas city, and if more are required the teams switch back to Nashville for the finale.

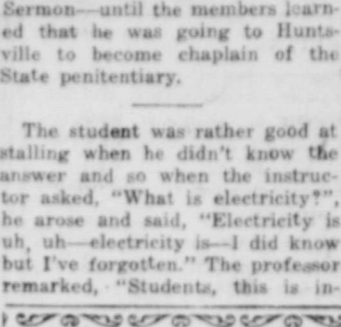

BOYCE HOUSE SAYS

A minister, who was resigning, preached his farewell sermon on the text, "I go to prepare a place for you." The congregation was highly pleased by the sermon—until the members learned that he was going to Huntsville to become chaplain of the State penitentiary.

The student was rather good at stalling when he didn't know the answer and so when the instructor asked, "What is electricity?" he arose and said, "Electricity is uh, uh—electricity is—I did know but I've forgotten." The professor remarked, "Students, this is indeed a tragedy. Here is the only person in the history of the world who ever knew what electricity was—and he has forgotten!"

It Was Just An Accident—
... that Columbus discovered America, or was it luck? He himself said that his journey would be hazardous and he didn't know where he was going. But he had faith that he would discover a great land, and he did. Likewise, the person who buys land without an abstract is embarking on a dangerous course. Like Columbus he must have faith that he won't lose his all and plenty of luck to avoid disaster.

Defense positions in the bare hills west of the city still were stoutly manned, and presented a tough problem to units advancing from the west and northwest. The flanking movement by Marines who followed the shoreline eastward into the southern portion of the city and then struck north, enabled them to progress into the main part of the city and bypass the western defense positions.

Gates For Fair To Swing Open October Seventh

It won't be long now. The gates will swing open soon on the biggest and most spectacular exposition ever produced by any state fair anywhere, anytime. The 1950 State Fair of Texas, Oct. 7-22.

All exhibit buildings on the 187-acre, $35,000,000 showgrounds have been newly painted and being assembled inside are hundreds of thrilling new displays—a galaxy of exhibits the likes of which have never been seen at a State Fair before.

The fantastic new double ferris wheel thrill ride—the 90-foot-high Sky Wheels—was due to arrive some time during the week. It will be set up at the main entrance to the Midway amusement area.

Carnival attractions and side-shows—led by Sally Rand, famous fan and bubble dancer—will arrive next week.

Concessionaires are busy laying in supplies to feed hungry fairgoers—who are expected to consume 140 boxes of fried chicken, 200,000 candied apples, two carloads of potatoes (600 sacks to the car, 50,000 cones of rotten candy, 2,225,000 hamburgers and hot dogs, 1,500,000 sacks of popcorn, 2,000,000 snow cones, 10,000,000 bottled drinks and 50,000 gallons of ice cream.

Entries in the Mid-Century Livestock Exposition, already total 3,851 with stacks of them still to be tabulated. This figure is 489 over the total for the 1949 State Fair.

Mrs. Delores Brown, who was suffering from a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin, 1628 Central Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio, says she wants to congratulate those folks who read this who are feeling first rate—but she has a word of advice for those folks who are feeling miserable. Her advice is "take HADACOL." If you want to feel as good as she does if they are suffering from such deficiencies.

Here is Mrs. Brown's own statement on how HADACOL helped her by relieving such deficiencies: "Before I started taking HADACOL I had indigestion very bad. Sometimes I would not go to sleep at all during the night, and if I did it was only for a couple of hours. When I did sleep I got very little rest. I had just about given up hope—I had tried so many, many things and nothing helped me. Then one day I heard how other folks were being helped by the blessings of HADACOL. I started taking HADACOL and after the first few bottles I noticed an improvement. Now I have no more indigestion. The best thing that HADACOL has done for me is that I sleep all night long—and when I awaken in the morning I know I've rested. I just can't praise HADACOL enough."

"Wonderful" Describes the Way HADACOL has helped thousands of folks whose systems were deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin. HADACOL can give you help, too, if you will just give HADACOL a chance—if you suffer from stomach distress, indigestion or insomnia, constipation, aches and pains of neuritis or a general run-down condition, caused by such deficiencies, let HADACOL help you as it has helped others all over the country. Even hundreds of doctors are recommending HADACOL to their patients who are suffering from such deficiencies.

Give remarkable HADACOL a chance to help you. Remember, you have nothing to lose. HADACOL will make you feel great after the first few bottles you take, or your money will be refunded. Only $1.25 for Trial Size, Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50.—(Adv.)
