Chinese Commies Pour Into Tibet

MOUNTAIN NATION APPEALS TO INDIA FOR ASSISTANCE

NEW DELHI, India, Oct. 30 (UP)—A Chinese Communist army of 100,000 men has plunged across the borders of Tibet and advanced within 10 days' march of Lhasa, capital of the Shangri-La state, the Indian government reported today.

The Dalai Lama, 15-year-old priest-king of the tiny mountain nation, was reported preparing to flee to India.

The Indian announcement said Red spearheads were within 200 miles of Lhasa, advancing steadily against meager resistance.

The official announcement confirmed reports of a Communist invasion of Tibet which had been circulating here for six weeks.

The Tibetan government has sent an urgent plea to New Delhi for "diplomatic help"—intercession with the Communist People's government to call off its legions. The Communist columns presumably drove into the ancient and fabled land at the top of the world from China's Szechwan Province, which borders Tibet in the east.

An official Indian spokesman said that Lho Dzong in eastern Tibet fell to the Communists Oct. 22.

Five days later Tibetan forces were driven out of Shoshado and fell back 50 miles along the road to Lhasa, the spokesman said.

The Tibetan government's plea for help was relayed to New Delhi by Dr. S. Sinha, head of the Indian trade mission in Lhasa.

Sinha said the Chinese had thrown considerable forces into the Tibetan invasion.

He said also that Communist propagandists already were active inside Tibet, urging the population to revolt against the Dalai Lama's government.

The terrain en route to Lhasa is extremely rugged, with an average elevation of 12,000 feet.

But the weather was reported to be good for military operations—cold but snowless.

Members of a Tibetan trade mission in Calcutta said Tibet was not likely to invoke United Nations aid. They said Tibetans felt that the peace-loving world should automatically come to Tibet's aid because it was in their interests to keep Tibet a neutral and independent state.

Reds Using US Arms To Fight In Indo-China

Russ Army Officers Reported In China

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (UP)—Ho Chi Minh's Communist forces are using some American-built weapons to fight French and Indo-Chinese troops, according to American and French intelligence sources.

The Communist rebel army drove across the Red River above and below Laos today in an apparent attempt to encircle that battered western anchor of the French defense line.

Reports said the weapons are part of Chinese Communist supplies seized during Nationalist retreats from China to Formosa. From V-J day to 1949, the United States turned over to the Nationalists surplus military and civilian equipment valued at $1,000,000,000.

Reports so far do not indicate the amount of American arms being transferred to Ho's forces at border outposts. But strategists believe the captured weapons are being used in the Red River, although lack of repair parts undoubtedly will curb their value.

Intelligence reports also reveal the presence in South China of Russian army and air force officers, technicians and Soviet planes. The center of Soviet interest is believed to be Nanning, China, about 125 miles from the border. Soviet technicians and officers are supervising extension of runway strips at Canton, Nanning and other South China air bases. There also is a report that Soviet jet fighters are based on a Chinese airfield near Indo-China.

Pups Will Play Tough Mineral Wells Tuesday

Ranger Junior High's undefeated, untied and unscared Pups meet their sternest test of the season, Tuesday night, when they clash with a powerful Mineral Wells junior eleven.

The Pups had had easy going in two of their four games. They walloped Eastland twice by 64-0 and 61-0 scores. Tighter games were played against Breckenridge 7-6, and Cisco, 15-0.

Coach Warden said the Mineral Wells game will force the Pups to show their best if they expect to extend their undefeated streak. They unscared on record has a good chance of being broken. All five Pup squads are ready to play, Coach Warden said.

KoReds Hit Back As Chinese Troops Fight

By Earnest Hogerecht
TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 31 (UP)—North Korean and Chinese Communist forces massed in the snow-capped mountains of northeast Korea threatened the great industrial center and allied base of Hamhung today.

A vicious counter-attack not far northwest of Hamhung showed the South Korean back two and one-half miles in their first withdrawal under fire since the middle of September.

The U. S. 10th Corps headquarters announced that reinforcements—probably including units of the U. S. Marine 1st Division, which was fanning out in that area—were being rushed to meet the growing threat to Hamhung.

A U. S. military spokesman confirmed that Chinese Communist troops were fighting the United Nations forces. He said a Chinese Communist regiment was in action south of the Chosin reservoir, in the area northwest of Hamhung where the South Koreans were under attack.

The sudden threat to Hamhung, center of the greatest industrial concentration on the east coast of Korea, was acknowledged in a dispatch from the city itself. It followed word that prisoners reported the Communists had orders to retake the city by Nov. 1.

U. S. Marines and South Koreans north of Hamhung were bracing for a position less than 25 miles from Hamhung, ready to slash through to the sea. Any such actual move would cut the allied communication lines along the north-east coast, where the South Koreans had pushed far beyond Hamhung.

The ugly turn in the east coast situation coincided with an American thrust to within 33 miles of the great Suho hydroelectric plant on the Manchurian border of northwest Korea.

Mounting resistance in sectors scattered all across northern Korea.

Football Squads Resume Practice After Win, Loss

Ranger's football teams resumed practice after a split week of victory and defeat. The Ranger Junior College eleven set itself for a gradual warming-up for the Decatur game two weeks away.

The Rangers' 21-0 victory over the NTSC freshmen put them back in the win column after three straight shutouts. The pleasing win, along with an improved showing of backs and linemen, pointed to what the fans hope will end in three more victories—over Decatur, Weatherford and Cisco.

The Bulldogs, smarting from the 25-19 loss to Hamilton, get ready for their fifth consecutive conference tilt, against last place DeLeon, Friday. Their final game of the regular season comes Nov. 11 against an improving Eastland squad.

59 Murderers Still At Large In Mass Escape

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Oct. 30 (UP)—Heavily-armed police pushed an island-wide search today for 59 murderers and other hardened criminals who escaped from Rio Piedras penitentiary.

The hunted men were among 112 inmates who killed two prison guards, blasted open a weapons room and shot their way out of the overcrowded prison on Saturday while 60 women and children visitors screamed in terror.

Fifty-three of the convicts have been captured and returned to prison.

Police, mobilized from all over the island and armed with sub-machine guns, carbines and tear gas bombs, probed through city slums and sugar cane fields in search of the convicts.

Authorities said it was the biggest manhunt in the 100-mile-long island's history.

Police said the break was started when one of the prisoners summoned a guard on the pretext he was needed to stop a fight between two inmates. The convict then smashed the guard's skull with a lead pipe and stabbed him in the neck.

As the guard went down, the prisoners grabbed his gun and started disarming other guards in the area.

The prisoners then smashed open the prison's weapons room, seizing knives, machetes, carbines and shotguns, and engaged guards in a one-hour gun battle inside the prison walls.

ANCIENT FESTIVALS, CHRISTIAN BELIEFS MEDIEVAL SUPERSTITION PROVIDE HISTORY FOR SPOOKY HALLOWE'EN CELEBRATION

The history of Halloween might well have been brewed in a bubbling cauldron by a chanting, black-robed witch—for Halloween is an unbelievable mixture of ancient festivals, medieval superstition, and Christian belief.

According to The World Book Encyclopedia's research experts, Halloween is the direct descendant of a harvest festival eve celebrated in Britain by the Druids long before the Christian era. The night before the festival was called "All Soul's Eve," and in this night "Samain," the Lord of Death, called together all the souls of wicked men who had been condemned to inhabit the bodies of animals. The Druids believed that Samain then decided the forms the condemned souls should take for the next year.

The belief that evil spirits roam among men on Halloween can be traced to the Druidic "gathering of the souls."

The World Book researchers claim that the Druids were responsible for linking the cat with evil on Halloween. The Druids believed that cats were human beings who were changed into animals for some misdeed. This superstition took many forms, and, later, cats became standard equipment for anyone who practiced witchcraft.

When Caesar's legions invaded Britain, the Roman Feast of Pomona mingled with the Druidic celebration. Pomona was the Goddess of the autumn harvest—and nuts and apples were eaten at her festival. To this day, nuts and apples have a place in Halloween festivities.

In an effort to curb the pagan aspect of the evening, the early Christian Church set aside November first as "All Saint's Day." The evening before was then called "Hallowed Evening"—which was corrupted to "Halloween."

Throughout the years the legends and superstitions grew. The origin of the jack-o-lantern can be traced to Ireland. The legend says that a man named Jack was barred from heaven because he was stingy. When Jack got to Hell, the devil refused to admit him, because as a human Jack had played practical jokes on Satan. So the stingy practical joker was condemned to walk the streets with a lantern until Judgment Day.

Waxing windows comes from the British "Chalk-Black" day. Street ruffians would chalk the backs of adults with circles to indicate that the rule of the summer sun was over.

Children in ancient times were quick to see that Halloween superstition offered many opportunities for mischief. If gates disappeared and horses and cattle were mysteriously turned loose, the townfolk blamed it on spooks and ghosts. At the time, it was believed that wicked souls took the form of adults, so the children began dressing as grownups. If anyone saw the costumed youngsters engaged in a prank, the spook would be blamed. The World Book researchers say that this was the beginning of costumes for Halloween.

GIRL SCOUTS, A COMMUNITY CHEST RED FEATHER AGENCY, PLAN BIG EVENTS IN CELEBRATION OF NATIONAL GIRL SCOUT WEEK

Ranger's Girl Scouts will be celebrating a double even this week. The local organization registered a year ago and Oct. 29 through Nov. 4 has been proclaimed "Girl Scout Week."

A million and a half Girl Scouts will be busy all week with activities commemorating the special occasion. Ranger Girl Scout troops are one of the Red Feather Agency that will be aided by the city's first Community Chest drive now under way. Service and international friendship are keynotes of Girl Scout activities. Girl Scouts, Inc., is the national organization which provides, for girls in the United States, leisure-time opportunities to gain wider interests and become better citizens. Membership is open to all girls from ages 7 to 18.

Activities are planned for three age groups: "Brownies," from 7 to 10; Girl Scouts from 10 to 14; Senior Girl Scouts, from 14 to 18. Ranger Girl Scout troops have no Senior members as yet but the 1-year-old groups now count about 80 Brownies and Girl Scouts.

The United States organization is part of the world-wide Scout movement founded by Lord Baden-Powell of England. Home-making, arts and crafts, community life, sports and games, nature, the out-of-doors, music and dancing, literature and dramatics, health and safety, international friendship, agriculture, and (for Senior Girl Scouts) vocational exploration are the types of activities in which the Scouts engage.

Ranger's Girl Scouts have set aside each day during Girl Scout week to perform some specific activity such as "Citizenship Day" on Tuesday and "Out of Doors Day," Saturday when they will go on a hike.

Ranger is included in the Heart of Texas area with headquarters at Brownwood. A portion of the Community Chest Drive will be given to the Girl Scouts. In the near future a Court of Awards will be held in Ranger. At that time awards and badges will be presented to girls who have earned promotion.

The classes of Girl Scouts are tenderfoot, second class, and first class. Most of the local Scout members will be ready for their second class badges. Advancement is based upon proficiency performance in the above activities.

Last August, Ranger Girl Scouts out-door activities included swimming, a sunrise breakfast, and scavenger hunt. The activities were climaxed with a church-lawn party.

Yugoslavia Lines Up With West; Marshal Tito Sets Pace With Public Praise Of United States

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Oct. 30 (UP)—Communist Yugoslavia appeared today to have lined up squarely with the United States against Russia in the East-West cold war.

Premier Marshal Tito for the first time publicly praised the United States last night in a speech before the 3rd Congress of the joint anti-fascist women's league in Zagreb.

He indirectly promised Yugoslavia's full support to the United States against any attempted Soviet aggression if America carries out its promise to aid this drought-plagued country without attaching political strings.

He lauded the United States for responding to his plea for help with deeds and criticized Russia for its history of "promises with words." Tito also warned that Yugoslavia will conplain to the United Nations if Moscow-inspired provocations by Yugoslavia's communist neighbors increase.

collaborating for aggression can be certain to have us against them." Authoritative diplomatic sources said Tito's praise of the United States was a major step for Yugoslavia "in the direction of the community of free nations." They called it Yugoslavia's most important foreign policy development since its break with the cominform. They said it would serve as a signal for the country's entire propaganda machinery to follow suit.

SCENES AROUND RANGER

Post-Mortem of the Hamilton Game

A half-game's effort is not quite up to a full-game's try. Ranger reverted to its "hot and cold" playing. The Bulldogs just weren't there the first half. And when they finally got going, it was too late.

Sure, Cole dropped a touchdown pass. Fans were plain-true that that miscue lost the game. But, if a game can be lost on one unsuccessful play then stop and reconsider other plays that didn't quite make it and possibly prevented a potential score.

In the second quarter Ranger seemed on their way. But on Hamilton's 21 with fourth and one to go, the Bulldogs were stopped. That might have been a crucial first-down attempt. Hamilton booted out of bounds on the Ranger 1 yard line in the fourth quarter with only a couple of minutes

"Yes, let's do," Ede said firmly. But Ede felt that the subject of Gil Summerfield's problems was not the principal thing that was bothering Gil Summerfield. Then, as the meal went on, Ede felt that Gil grew constrained, ill-at-ease even. Silences, almost awkward, fell between them.

"Is anything the matter, Gil?" she asked finally. "Matter?" He made a business of stirring his coffee. "What would be?"

Silence again. Ede broke it with a hesitant "Have you seen Peter?" He looked at her, the half-cynical smile gone. "Yes, I've seen him."

"And how is he?" Her voice was casual enough. "Ede," Gil's long fingers traced in the tablecloth, "we're pretty good friends, aren't we?"

Ede started, before his strange tone. "Of course," Then suddenly. "Listen, Gil Summerfield, if you've got anything to say, I can take it."

"Very well." He seemed to make up his mind. "Peter Flood is a rotter, that's all."

"Yes," Ede's head was down. "I'm afraid he is."

"I'm a lot of things I shouldn't be," Gil said. "But a gossip isn't one of them. I hate gossip. However—" He paused.

"Go on," said Ede. "I'll make it easier by saying that I'm not entirely unprepared for this."

"I'm going to tell you something," said Gil, still uneasily, "and I suppose I'll do it badly. But I'm telling you because I'm a friend of yours and I'm not a friend of Peter Flood's."

Ede sat perfectly still, her lips a thin, tight line. She had been prepared for something but not for this.

Nation Observes National Flower Week

The color, form and beauty of fresh flowers have an instinctive appeal for all children... toddlers to teens... and whether the flowers are carried into the house in grubby fists or in florists' boxes, they add warmth to the home environment.

It's a wise mother who encourages her children in their natural appreciation for flowers by keeping a supply of flower containers handy. Storybook figurines are especially attractive to children, and just a few pink roses, pompons and marigolds can be artistically grouped into a lovely arrangement, proudly displayed as your child's handiwork.

For the 6th successive year, the Society of American Florists is observing National Flower Week, and the period from October 29 through November 5 will once more be devoted to a nationwide educational program about flower lore.

Earlier, Ranger tried an on-side kick-off that didn't travel the necessary 10 yards with Hamilton taking over on the Ranger 40. That was a gamble worth taking but because it failed it might have been the play that lost the game. Time was growing short and with Hamilton taking the ball in Ranger territory, the advantage was on their side.

Then in the first quarter pass interference was ruled against Ranger on their 25 yard line that gave Hamilton a first down and eventually their second score.

When you pick out one miscue and tab it as the play that lost a football game, too many other factors are ignored. For one, Hamilton's end sweeps again and again picked up that valuable first down to keep them rolling. They would be stopped for two plays and then grab that first down.

I think, if anything, Ranger's failure to stop those end runs in the first half, lost them the game. Even if that pass had been caught for a touchdown you have to remember that a fumble cost Hamilton a touchdown. If the pass had been completed, we would have made a touchdown, if Hamilton's hadn't fumbled, we wouldn't have made a touchdown.

When you try to find the one play that lost or won a game like the one played Friday, it is difficult to do. The only conclusion I can come to is that Hamilton's powerful line-play in the first half won the game.

A note to Jimmy Cole: Too many fans expect the impossible from a player. They expect him to be the perfect football player—and that creature hasn't been found yet. I've seen you play and I'm satisfied that you are a football player. You've missed passes before, and you'll miss some more.

"So I Says to MacArthur, I Says..."

In the brief span of two weeks, some fans have completely forgotten the 25-yard pass you caught in Dublin. And in the same game, another pass which you caught was good for 53 yards. I usually don't personally address an individual in my column but I heard some bitter and unfair remarks about that pass you missed Friday.

I am firmly convinced that missed pass did not lose the game. Ranger lost the game in the first half when Hamilton's line out-rushed them. Ranger gained only 23 yards net rushing during the first half.

In the second half they gained 83 while Hamilton gained 81. Ranger lost 22 yards in the first half. Their longest gain from scrimmage during the first two periods was 10 yards. Their longest during the game was 14 yards. Hamilton had runs from scrimmage of 18, 16, 25, 12, 13 and 13 yards. Passes can't always win games. You have to mix in ground plays, too.

The FORMER MISS FREY

THE STORY: The former Miss Frey, whose marriage to Peter Flood has not been happy, was placed by her father's will in charge of Frey & Company, an advertising agency. Two accounts are shaky, according to Dan Reagan, one of the executives. Ede calls on Lewis Northeast, advertising manager of News-Tite soap, one of the shaky accounts, and hopes to placate him with a new campaign. In addition Jeff, Ede's older brother, presents taking orders from a woman. Jane, Ede's sister, is running around with a middle-aged man and standing up a nice young man. This causes a letter from Peter Flood, asking Ede for a divorce. The next day Ede is a mess of nerves, but not for long. Mr. Lyons of Lyons & Lyons, the other shaky account, has been on a rampage. Reagan forces a campaign down Lyons' throat. "You've got to be tough," says Reagan.

XVIII The next day Ede got a pleasant surprise. Gil Summerfield phoned. In the excitement of the past few weeks she had hardly thought of Gil. But now his voice brought back memories of the gray world in which she had often moved. And, strangely, she felt a kind of queer nostalgia for Bermuda, the green quiet of it and the stretching blue seas all around. She met him for lunch. His face was even leaner and browner than she remembered, and the faint, rather tired smile still lurked in his dark eyes.

"Well, Gil," she said, giving him her hand, "this is unexpected. I thought Bermuda owned you body and soul."

"It almost does, you know," Gil said. "But I flew up yesterday. I'm going to stay a while too. Sort of—oh, self-discipline."

Ede's eyes widened. "Can this be the elegant Mr. Summerfield speaking? I didn't know you went in for things like that."

He chuckled. "Going to, from here in. I've closed my house down there, indefinitely."

XIX So, in spite of Peter Flood's claim in his letter of "no plans or projects," he was indeed engaged upon a project. Well, thought Edith Flood, her husband certainly hadn't wasted much time after asking her to agree to a divorce.

"I thought," Gil Summerfield finished limply, "that you ought to know."

Ede asked very calmly: "What made you think I didn't know, Gil?"

turned eyes. Pat sat at the window sill, grimed at her looked sheepishly at the glass he held. Then she got it on the floor.

"Now, look," Ede began angrily. "What you do after hours is your own business. But—" She stopped suddenly. She was perceiving that they were not in the least drunk. Only tired, to the point of exhaustion. Then her eyes fell on the layouts ranged all along the baseboard of the wall at one side of the room. There was a piece of copy, typed on yellow scratch paper, clipped to each.

DAT VERNON indicated the misty-eyed Stoneham, whose head had begun to droop again. "The maestro, here, got a brain-wave on Morn-Glo yesterday afternoon. So we decided to stick around last night and work it out. And we got going and couldn't stop. I'm sorry about the liquor, Miss Frey. That was my idea. Chuck chewed the cork a little and I drank the rest. I'll take the rap for that."

"Forget it," said Ede. She looked at them wondering. "Do you mean to say you actually worked all night?"

"That's right," Stoneham recovered long enough to put the bottle away in his desk. "But it was worth it. I think we've got something, Miss Frey."

Ede was bending over looking at the layouts. All at once she straightened up.

"Why, these are wonderful," she said. "Simply swell."

Tennis Player Indicted For White Slavery

LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 30 (UP)—Professional tennis player John Robert Howard, indicted in New York on charges of white slavery, maintained a grim silence in jail here today while awaiting a final bond hearing set for Wednesday.

Howard, former husband of actress Diana Barrymore, was arrested by the FBI on the international bridge as he crossed into Texas from Mexico Friday night.

A U. S. commissioner yesterday set Howard's bond at $20,000 but when the young player was unable to post it another hearing was set for this week.

C. E. Weeks, special agent in charge of the southern Texas office of the FBI, said if Howard is unable to raise bond by Wednesday's hearing, he will be transferred to New York where he must face trial.

Howard refused repeatedly to discuss the charge against him. Weeks said a secret indictment returned July 14 by a federal grand jury in New York charged that an unidentified movie extra was induced by Howard to turn prostitute in Los Angeles two years ago.

King Gustav V Dies After 43 Year Reign

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 30 (UP)—Church bells tolled throughout Sweden today to mark the death of Sweden's "Commoner King," Gustav V, 92, the world's oldest monarch.

At the same time the 67-year-old new King Gustav VI met with the Swedish cabinet to take the royal oath of accession to the throne of his father.

Gustav V, who was photographed more often with his tennis racket than his scepter, died "calmly and silently" yesterday in a bedroom of sprawling Drottningholm Castle near Stockholm.

He had been ill since Friday with a respiratory ailment. Only an hour before his death, the King's physicians announced that the King had spent a quiet night and that there was no marked change in his condition.

The death made 4 1/2-year-old Prince Carl Gustav the Crown Prince. The child is the only son of the late Prince Gustav, eldest son of the new King.

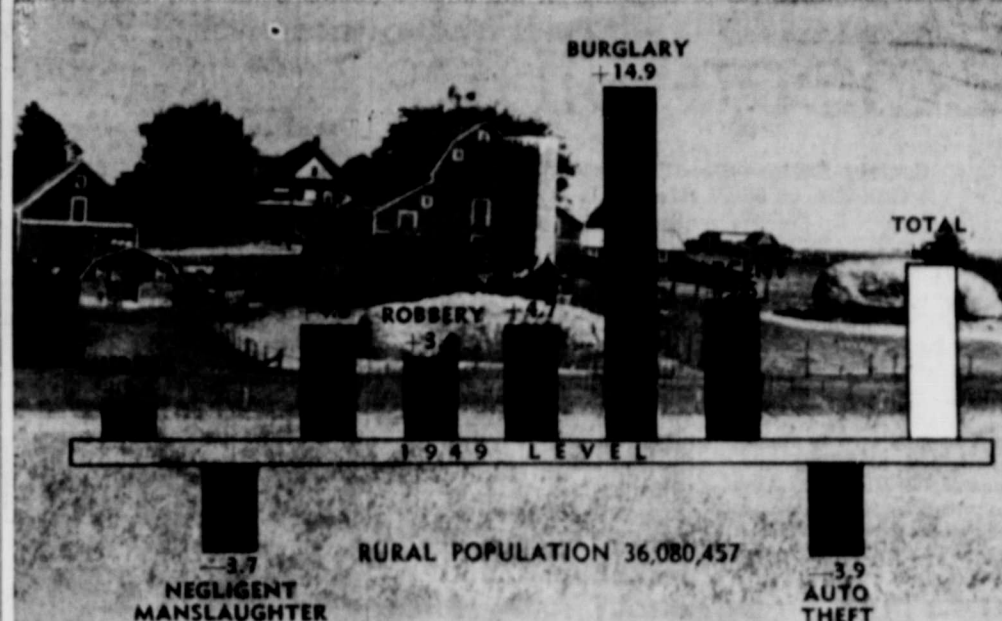

Kings and commoners alike joined in grief for the tall, thin Gustav who had reigned for almost 43 years.

The departed King ascended the throne in December, 1907. He sat on the throne during a revolutionary period during which Sweden got a Socialist government. He also steered the nation through two great wars and was given considerable credit for keeping Sweden out of the 1914-1918 fighting.

The 1950 census reveals that Mississippi is still predominately an agricultural state. The Mississippi economic council reported that 73 per cent of the state's population live either in the country or in centers of less than 2,500 persons.

COUNTRY'S CRIME WAVE MOUNTS—The nation's postwar crime wave continued upward during the first half of 1950, with the total number of offenses known to police up 7.4 per cent for that period over the same period in 1949. Greatest increase, in rural areas, was in burglaries. Negligent manslaughter and auto theft—on the increase in the cities—were each down in rural reports. Data are from the FBI's semiannual reports on crime in the United States.

Texas, SMU Meet In Championship Game This Week; Baylor Muddles Picture With Upset Over Aggies

By Ed Fite
United Press Sports Writer

Stocks on the Southwest Conference market underwent a violent change over the week end with the widest fluctuations affecting the fortunes of undersold Baylor and oversold Texas A&M.

In contrast with their name, the Baylor Bears created a bill market for their stock with a tingling 27-20 verdict over the highly-touted Texas Aggies who had been dreaming of possible championships and bowl bids.

As A&M quotations plummeted, University of Texas stock strengthened on the heels of a very impressive 35-7 walloping handed Rice's Owls in the spotlight game of the week end.

The Texas Longhorns now rate almost on a par with the blue ribbon Southern Methodist issue which was not traded on Saturday because the Mustangs were idle preparing for next weekend's showdown with Texas.

Arkansas Razorbacks even improved their situation a bit despite their 14-13 losing battle to Vanderbilt. Optimism arose over the way the Ozark lads cooled up a pass defense to stop the nation's no. 1 passing combine—Yandy's Bill Wade-Lucky Curtis.

Adversity failed to lower Texas Christian's ratings more than slightly as the crippled Horned Frogs bowed to Mississippi 19-7. The way the Frogs stopped Ole Miss's ransapping John Dettley on the ground bolstered opinions of the TCU line.

Baylor, playing the way Coach George Sauer said he had known they could perform, capitalized on a bushef of Aggie fumbles and wild passes and converted three of them into touchdowns.

The Aggies exploded a touchdown in the Bears' faces on the opening play of the game and stretched the lead to 13-0 before they started throwing the game away.

Larry Isbell tossed four touchdown passes to augment the brilliant running of soph fullback Richard Parma and senior halfback Buddy Parker as the furious Bear line outfought the touted Aggies at every turn.

Texas, too, capitalized on Rice's miscues, but there never was any doubt that the Longhorns had reached the peak predicted of them in pre-season predictions as they ran and passed the Owls' hopes into the ground. The de-

Attractive Girl Makes Effective Political Aid

By Elizabeth Toomey
NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (UP)—A pretty young girl makes an ardent and mighty effective political campaigner, in case any flustering candidates are looking for a last-minute boost.

Jeannette Reichardt, for instance, has been making political speeches since she was 11 years old. Now, at 24, she's back in a cluttered campaign headquarters, far from her hometown of Watertown, Wis., making phone calls for a congressional candidate she barely knows.

"It just sort of gets in your blood," she explained between phone calls to voters in the 17th Congressional District, in behalf of Irving M. Engel, Liberal Democrat who's running against incumbent Frederic R. Couderc, Jr.

Jeannette, who's convincing proof of the League of Women Voters should recruit the pigtails set if she wants politically-minded women, is featured on the three-hour Ted Steele television show every afternoon, as a combination girl Friday and interviewer.

Then she grabs a quick dinner and heads for the campaign phones. "I find it very relaxing," she explained, shrugging off any hint that she was a martyr to her early campaign training.

Her father, Walter F. Reichardt, used to run for assemblyman regularly back in Wisconsin, "just to keep the Democratic party in there, even though he always lost to a Republican."

"When I was 11 he ran for mayor of Watertown and won. And that was when I got my first campaign experience. My sister and I used to stand up and say something like, 'please vote for my father. He's a good man,'" she recalled with a smile.

In high school Jeannette made a few political speeches for other candidates, and volunteered as an office worker for a congressional candidate (unsuccessful) in Arkansas, when she attended the university there.

"Women don't take their political responsibilities seriously enough," she said with dignity. "This is such an important election. I feel everyone should volunteer who can."

Asked if she had any political ambitions herself, Jeannette—pretty, self-assured blonde—said, "umm, yes, I would sort of like to run for an office myself some day. If I do, you can say that I will not go in for a mud-slinging campaign. I believe you should appeal reasonably to voters—whether they're men or women."

Single Ring Ceremony Unites Wyvonne Gordon, H. G. Adams, Jr.

Miss Camilla Wyvonne Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Gordon, became the bride of H. G. Adams, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Adams, Sr. of Ranger, at 3 o'clock Sunday evening in the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of friends and relatives.

The Rev. F. J. Spivy, Church of Christ minister, officiated for the single ring ceremony. Marriage vows were exchanged as the couple stood before the fireplace, flanked by fern and fuchsia gladiolus. An arrangement of roses graced the mantle, while candelabra filled with fascias colored candles flank each side.

The bride wore a dress of winter blue crepe, and her corsage was an orchid. Mrs. J. T. Blackwell of Fort Worth, was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a sanka brown crepe dress with brown accessories. Mr. J. T. Blackwell was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony and was also held in the home. Highlighting the lace covered bride's table was the beautifully decorated, three-tiered white wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. White tapers in crystal candelabra centered the lace-covered refreshment table.

Mary Sue Danley, cousin of the bride, lighted the candles and Katherine Adams, sister of the groom, poured punch. Guests were served slices of wedding cake by Mrs. R. A. Duncan.
