Withdrawal Of Red 3rd Army Reported

Texas Extends NG Enlistments

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 19 (UP)—Texas National Guard enlistments terms were automatically extended today by executive order.

Gov. Allan Shivers issued the order tacking one year on all enlistments. It applied to both air and ground units of the Guard.

Issued by Shivers in his capacity as commander-in-chief of the Texas National Guard, the order applies to all enlistments "which shall expire at any time after the date of this order and prior to July 9, 1951."

A spokesman for Shivers said members of the Guard previously had been able to leave service in their unit at the termination of their enlistment.

Adjutant Gen. K. L. Berry issued an order to all unit commanders, directing that all officers and men be kept in the Guard unless special permission is granted for them to enter the regular armed forces.

Texas became the 34th state to take action. The Governor's office said it was necessary "to keep the National Guard units at required strength," and "was in line with national policy."

State's Papers Back March of Dime Campaign

AUSTIN, Jan. 19—Substantial editorial support for the crucial 1951 Texas March of Dimes marked this week's campaign kickoff.

As Texans face a tremendous financial task because of the record incidence of polio the last three years, the Austin American predicted that the appeal "will receive a warm-hearted Texas response."

The Houston Post, under the heading, "Let's Redeem Ourselves," cited the Texas predicament of having to accept vast sums of outside aid for polio patient care admonished Texans to compensate for "this lamentable record" by over-subscribing the quota.

The Post chided "Harris county, boastful of its fabulous wealth its prosperity and its open-handed generosity," noting that it has let people of other countries and other states pay part of its polio bill the last three years.

"Shouldn't we be ashamed?" the editorial continued. "Funds for the treatment and hospitalization of polio victims are raised through the annual March of Dimes. One-half of the amount raised is retained by the local chapter; the other half is sent to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, for use as an epidemic fund and for research work."

Ed S. Etewart of Abilene, Texas March of Dimes chairman, said that while Houston's "soul-searching, self-appraisal is admirable and shows a true Texas quality, most other Texas counties also have outside aid because of unprecedented polio incidence."

The Austin American printed out that "the cost of providing treatment for the children and the others who still suffer from the lingering effects of the illness in the past will continue, along with the need of providing care and treatment for those who became polio victims this year. So the appeal is made to all Texans to respond in a cause of protecting human life, alleviating human suffering, and restoring the crippled bodies of Texas children. It is an appeal which will receive a warm-hearted Texas response."

VFW Post In Hot Water Over 'Dry' Petition

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 19 (UP)—The state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars warned today that either a Ft. Worth post must disown a petition calling for a prohibition election in Tarrant County or get booted out of the VFW.

J. T. Rutherford of Odessa, state commander of the organization, said that members of Polytechnic Post No. 2137 will meet tonight to "iron this thing out."

Rutherford said the post is accused of circulating petitions for a prohibition election and "if they affirm this action, I will suspend the post."

However, Rutherford explained he had received a letter from F. E. Covey, commander of the Polytechnic Post, saying he was absent when the action was supposedly taken on the prohibition petition, and denying the membership went on record as favoring its circulation.

No discussion of partisan questions, Rutherford said, is "permitted at any VFW meetings."

"Prohibition," he added, "is definitely a partisan issue. Some of our members favor legalized sale of alcoholic beverages. Others do not. The VFW definitely is not interested in the personal beliefs of any of its members. They vote 'dry' or 'wet,' they can drink alcoholic beverages or not, they can vote 'dry' and think 'wet,' or vote 'wet' and think 'dry'."

State Of War Ends FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 19 (UP)—Tanjung, the official Yugoslav news agency, announced today that Yugoslavia has decided to end its state of war with Austria.

THE WEATHER

A mass of cool air from the Rocky Mountains was expected to move into northwest Texas late tonight and bring an end to resort-like weather.

A hot sun sent the mercury to a high of 86 degrees at Alice yesterday, with most stations reporting highs in the 70's and low 80's. Similar readings were expected today. Yesterday's afternoon low was 61 degrees at El Paso.

Overnight, temperatures dipped as low as 22 degrees at Ozona. Other stations reporting freezing weather overnight were Lubbock 25, Presidio and Marfa 28, Junction 24 and Dalhart 30. Overnight high was 61 degrees at Palacios.

At mid-morning skies were clear over the State except for an area south of San Antonio which was overhung by clouds.

'Bomb Hell Out Of China' Says Gen. O'Donnell

MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, CALIF., Jan. 18 (U.P.)—Major Gen. Emmett (Rosey) O'Donnell said yesterday Communist China should "get the hell smacked out of it" by U. S. bombers.

O'Donnell said United Nations forces should "fight with every weapon at their disposal."

"We could put the hex on them with either conventional-type bombing or A-bombs," he said.

But, the outspoken airman refused time after time to say he favored atomic bombing as a means of crippling Chinese war industries.

"That is beyond the scope of my book," he insisted. "That is a question for higher commands. It is up to the United Nations."

The government, fearful that the officer's remarks would hamper U. S. attempts to brand Communist China an aggressor in the UN, was quick to say O'Donnell spoke on his own authority.

In Washington, White House press secretary Joseph Short joined Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg and state and defense department spokesmen in denying that O'Donnell's statements reflected the government's policy.

During the press conference, the ruddy-faced former West Point athlete severely criticized the policy of "fighting a war under wraps."

US TANK COLUMN, INFANTRY REOCCUPY FLATTENED WONJU

TOKYO, Saturday, Jan. 20 (UP)—An American tank column and a company of white-clad infantrymen reoccupied burned-out Wonju in central Korea Friday in the wake of a reported Chinese Communist withdrawal.

Chinese Nationalist reports said the Chinese Communist 3rd Field Army of 100,000 men had withdrawn back into Manchuria to recover from 10-to-1 casualties inflicted by the U. S. 10th Corps in the battle of the Hungnam beach-head.

In their withdrawal the Reds abandoned Wonju after suffering even more severe losses there under an eight-day pounding by American planes and guns.

American patrols moving in and out of Wonju during the last two days decided Thursday to spend a night in the flattened city for the first time in 12 days.

They were unmolested by bands of Reds roaming the surrounding ridges. Early Friday afternoon the patrol was reinforced by the U. S. armored column.

The five-day lull throughout the Korean front continued, with no major fighting reported from any quarter.

Reoccupation of Wonju thrust a new United Nations salient deep into the fluid Communist lines on the central front. UN troops abandoned the entire area last Monday, moving an undisclosed distance south to shorten and straighten their lines.

But military sources said large Communist forces still were in the frigid mountain ranges around Wonju. A Chinese Communist regiment was seen in the Paegun Mountains due south of the crossroads city.

Chinese Nationalist sources said the crack Chinese Communist 3rd Field Army was withdrawn to Manchuria at least temporarily to reorganize after being badly mauled by U. S. Marines and Infantrymen in northeast Korea last month.

If true, the withdrawal left the Reds with some 300,000 or more Chinese and North Koreans facing United Nations forces believed of only slightly less strength.

U. S. Army intelligence officers in Tokyo expressed interest in the Chinese Nationalist reports, but would neither confirm nor deny them. It was noteworthy, however, that none of the 3rd Field Army's Division has been definitely identified on the South Korean fighting front.

Shelton will ask a grand jury Tuesday to indict Cook. He said "10 or 11 witnesses" would testify before the jury but the hearing was expected to take only about three hours.

Shelton set Feb. 5 as a possible trial date.

The government was expected to present witnesses who saw Cook get into the Mosser's car and saw him later with the family. The car, smeared with blood and its upholstery punctured with bullet holes, was found Jan. 2. The bodies of the Mosser and their three children were discovered Monday in a Joplin, Mo., mine shaft.

Joplin detective chief Carl Nutt revealed that a .32 caliber Italian-made automatic was found in a partially destroyed building there. Cook's father allegedly identified the pistol as his son's.

Told that the gun had been identified as his, Cook said: "I don't have a father, I don't think. They tell me I have, but I don't know."

While federal authorities paved the way for his trial, the gunman sat quietly in his cell reading the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam. He said he enjoyed the poetry because it "has adventure" and "deals with Death."

The five largest cities of the South, in order of population rank, are Baltimore, Md.; Washington, D. C.; Houston, Tex.; New Orleans, La., and Dallas, Tex.

The widow, left with nine young children at the death of her husband, said Howard's automobile bumped the Boyd car, which was parked on a gravel road at the outskirts of Houston last March 11, to touch off a violent argument that ended with Boyd's death.

She said he was attempting to run away when two bullets struck him in the back.

Howard, 25, a gunsmith and a student at the University of Houston, listened carefully as the presentation of evidence against him opened.

Defense attorney Percy Foreman subjected Mrs. Boyd to an intensive cross-examination, which covered about 2 1/2 hours of the three she was on the witness stand.

The Howard trial was moved from Houston to Belton on a change of venue.

Strangled Body of 13-Year-Old Illinois Boy Thrown Into Ditch

CRETE, Ill., Jan. 19 (UP)—Little Billy Rodenberg, 13, was kidnapped and strangled by two persons who pitched his body into a ditch from their car, officers said today.

"There are so many strange angles to this case that it reminds me of the slaying of Bobby Franks by Leopold and Loeb," coroner Willard Blood said.

All roads were blocked in the belief that Billy's slayers were still in the vicinity. Sheriff Charles Overbey alerted all police departments in the northeast section of Illinois.

Kenneth Scholz, 17, was interrogated on his story of how he saw Billy's body tossed from a 1946 blue Plymouth sedan on the south outskirts of town about 10:30 last night.

Scholz and his mother had just returned home. The mother went into the house and Scholz returned to the garage to fix his car lights.

"I was near the garage when I heard the Plymouth pull up nearby," he told Crete acting police chief Michael Murphy. "I heard two persons talking, then I saw the rear door open and saw the body thrown out."

"Just about then, the people in the car must have noticed me. They threw a spotlight on me. I ran into the house and the car drove away, fast."

Scholz called police who recovered Billy's body from the ditch. Alongside him lay his saxophone, in its case, and a small kit of basketball equipment. These were the same articles he was carrying when he disappeared late Tuesday while walking home from the Crete-Monee community school where he was in the eighth grade.

Billy's body was found on Falthorn Road, a well-populated area just three blocks east of Illinois Route 1, the Busy Dixie Highway.

Officers said the spot was near a street light and that a bright moon enabled Scholz to see the boy's body tossed from the car and to distinguish the auto's model.

Blood said officers were mystified by the lack of motive and by the fact that two persons apparently were involved. The boy's parents are not wealthy and no attempt was made at ransom.

"The only thing I can think of is that it may have been a thrill slaying," he said.

He pointed to several parallels with the case in which Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb killed Bobby Franks in the 1920's. In that case, however, the murderers and victim were members of wealthy families and the Franks boy was assaulted sexually.

An autopsy showed Billy had not been attacked sexually, however.

Joy Hull Named Band Sweetheart

Ranger High School band members presented Joy Hull as their Band Sweetheart at the banquet honoring school musicians Thursday night at 7:30 in the First Baptist Church.

Band boosters, parents of students in the band, band members and their guests attended the banquet. The program gave recognition to all band members and special recognition to senior members.

Speakers were Supt. G. B. Hush, Principal H. Coody and band director R. R. Gans. Barbara Healer sang and Clara Mae Jacoby recited two poems.

Band boosters and parents of band members were commended for their successful efforts in purchasing two new instruments for the band, an alto horn and a tenor saxophone. The marked improvement of the band's performance this year and the junior band which started this year by bandmaster Gans received recognition.

Plans were discussed for the financing of new twirlers' uniforms. The ones in use now are in deplorable condition and will have to be replaced soon, Gans stated.

The school board does not appropriate funds for the purchase of twirlers' uniforms, thus money must be raised from other sources, Gans said.

Passing, Fast Break of RJC Beats WJC 59-49

While Weatherford Junior College chose to try for the long shot, RJC methodically whipped in and out and around the unsteady defense of the Coyotes to coast to an easy 59-49 conference win in Ranger last night.

Ranger's victory proved that their loss to Cisco was a fluke. The highlight of the Weatherford game was the fast and accurate passing of the Rangers. With split-second timing, the boys used teamwork almost to perfection at times.

T. Wilson, who scored 15 points before a sub took his place, was the favorite target of the Rangers' smooth passing. Weatherford's standout was Bridges, the hottest player on the court. He scored 24 points before leaving via the foul route. His two-handed, jumping, crisp shots bordered on the phenomenal.

Harper, Cook and Moseley worried the Coyotes constantly with good defensive play. Cook and Moseley tipped sank 11 points each, bucketing some beauties from about 15 feet out. Harper, who did a good job of blocking attempted shots, scored 9 points, his best being difficult backhand, overhead throws as he was pulling away from the basket.

The score was tied only three times during the game, in the first half. Ranger led 39-20 at halftime. With the count 14-14, Ranger began pulling away as deceptive screening and good passing succeeded the Coyotes out of defensive position and left Wilson open for his tip-ins.

Coach Yarrrough used all 13 players in the game. Scoring for RJC besides Wilson, Harper, Cook and Moseley were Ford with 4 points, Percy with 3, B. Wilson with 3, Ferguson with 2 and Whitis with 1 point. Gordon, Ashley, Rogers and Warren also saw service in the game.

The Rangers play again Saturday night here, meeting the Graham Jaycee team.

Congress Asked To Give Combat Pay For Army

Washington, Jan. 18 (U.P.)—The Defense Department asked Congress today to provide extra pay for Korean combat of $109 a month for officers and $50 a month for enlisted men.

The combat pay would retroactive to last June 27 when Americans joined the fight in Korea.

Fliers, paratroopers and submariners would not be eligible because they already receive extra pay for "hazardous duty."

Defense officials sent the proposed legislation to Congress with these cost estimates:

About $500,000 per month for each Army division in combat. About $1,171,000 per month for a war-strengthened Marine Corps division, including attached Navy personnel.

To be eligible for the extra pay, a serviceman would have to have at least six days of combat duty in the month. If a man were killed with less than six days of combat duty, however, his next of kin would receive the extra combat pay for that month.

No Meat In This Cooking Contest

TORQUAY, England, Jan. 19 (U.P.)—There will be no meat dishes at an international cooking contest in which chefs from all over Europe compete here next month.

Basketball Is International; Now Played in 60 Countries

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—Young America didn't care too much about calisthenics and gymnastics imported from Germany and Sweden. The American boy wanted a competitive game that could be played indoors between the baseball and football seasons.

So it was that Dr. James Naismith in the winter of 1891 invented basketball in the gymnasium of the International Y. M. C. A. Training School in Springfield, Mass.

Young men of foreign lands only had to see basketball to adopt the American way of getting away from dull formal exercises.

The doughboy of World War I left as ever so faint imprint of the truly American game on Europe. The GI of World War II sold it around the globe.

That a game, originated in the United States only 60 years ago, should be played in at least 60 countries with 20,000,000 participants is almost unbelievable even to Nat Holman, who grew up in it. Yet those are the statistics.

OLYMPIC GAMES stress the progress made in other nations. "In 1948 France placed second in the Olympics, whereas in '36 no European team made the first three," says Coach Holman of City College of New York in his splendid new book, Holman on Basketball (Crown, $3).

"In the semi-finals, the United States nosed out Argentina by two points, 59-57. That this was no fluke was proved when Argentina defeated the Denver Chevrolet team, representing the United States in the World's Championship Games in Buenos Aires last year.

"Testifying to the popularity of basketball in South America is the fact that the audience witnessing the triumph of the home team in Buenos Aires' Luna Park Stadium consisted of 25,000 persons. "Not only in Argentina, but throughout South America, basketball is rapidly achieving first place among amateur sports. Soccer, by far the most popular game, is largely professional.

"Since most of the outstanding players are members of club teams rather than college squads, well-knit teamwork, which results from years of playing as a unit, will probably become more closely identified with South American amateur teams than with those of the United States. As long as the current interest continues to grow, we can look for keener and keener competition from our southern neighbors."

Nat Holman—not long ago accepted an invitation from the Israeli government to train a group in the intricacies of basketball. Young men and women around the world are popping the ball into baskets. Basketball truly has become a thoroughly international game.

Lord Bless And Keep You," and "My Twilight Prayer," are the result. Decca records even announced a "faith series."

Shaw and Levy both denied that anything really surprised them in the music publishing business, with the fickle and unpredictable tastes of the listening public.

"There was one thing that seemed pretty unusual," Shaw confessed cautiously. "You know this whole thing started in the midwest, in the so-called Bible belt, which wasn't surprising. But I never expected the demand to spread so rapidly into the cities."

Everybody, it seems, goes along with religious but the juke box operators.

"We feel," said one publisher, "that juke boxes are not too sympathetic."

A midwest housewife wrote the serious song that first showed the public's leanings toward religious tunes. That song "Our Lady of Fatima," was followed by "It Is No Secret What God Can Do," written by Stuart Hamblen, singer and former race horse owner who recently joined Billy Graham's evangelist movement.

"That was number nine, on the list of best selling music this week in Billboard," Shaw said proudly, since his company published it. "There are 19 different recordings of it. Goodnight, Irene only get into the 20's."

Nobody's predicting how long this trend will last.

"It may be six months," Lou Levy, president of three music publishing companies, said with a shrug. "A tremendous number of professional song writers are concentrating on religious now," he added. "One put out of every three, comes in here with a religious tune." Songs like "Mistle To The Angels," "May The Good Speeders in a Texas town are brain tests. Is there much indication of a train when you speed?

Boyce House Gives You Texas

Early days in Texas are described by Mike Campbell of Lockney, well-known newspaperman: "My maternal grandparents settled at Dresden, Navarro County, in 1844, on land granted them by the Republic of Texas. Our family still has that old document with Anson Jones' signature. The settlers made annual trips to Houston in wagons drawn by oxen for supplies, usually taking two months to make the round trip. There was not a fence between Dresden and Houston, except rail and brush fences around small fields and corrals.

"In those days, wild horses, cattle and wolves roved over the prairies. Prairie chickens were plentiful.

"My grandfather owned a slave who made all the shoes and boots. Cowhides were of the utmost use in the early days. They furnished shoes, harness, bull whips, chair bottoms and hinges for doors; and sometimes vessels for carrying water were made of leather.

"The Mexicans were also early settlers in that section. Ethan Melton married my grandmother's sister. My great uncle, John Welch, told me of the Battle of San Jacinto, and the capture of Santa Anna. He related: 'Deaf Smith and I had been looking after some pack mules, and as we walked up to where General Houston lay, some of the boys led up a Mexican, dressed in the uniform of a private, facing the general. The Mexican made a sign with his hand and General Houston answered with his hand. About that time, some other Mexican prisoners exclaimed, "El Presidente! El Presidente!" Then we knew we had Santa Anna!'

"Now nesting in a little valley north of Old Dresden lies the Melton cemetery, fringed with wild plum and persimmon thickets. There sleep pioneers, including my maternal grandparents. The song of the mocking-bird may be heard in the stately elms, but no more mournful howl of the timber wolf and the haunting notes of the horned owl boom out in the dark hours of the night. Yes, in North America, frontiers have vanished forever."

KOREAN DDT TEAMS POWDER REFUGEES IN UN EFFORT TO FIGHT SPREAD OF TYPHUS

BY H. D. QUIGG

A CITY IN KOREA, Jan. 18 (U.P.)—This is a refugee "camp"—one of more than 40 in this refugee swollen city. It was the first to be established here and now it's one of the largest, dirtiest and most crowded.

The "camp" is a former warehouse close to the railroad tracks. In one big room with bare wooden walls more than 500 persons—Korean men, women and children who have fled south and have no place to go and no way to procure food—live on the floor.

The room is about 30 by 100 feet in size. You approach it along a dirty oily lane. As you approach you hear faintly the squalling of babies inside the warehouse and the coughing of persons.

Then, as you near the entrance you encounter a "DDT team." The team is composed of several smiling well-dressed Korean girls. Each carries a DDT "dust rig" about two feet long. The big barrel of the duster is filled with DDT powder. It has a nozzle and a plunger and when the plunger is shoved in a cloud of DDT whooshes out of the nozzle.

The girls go from person to person. I watched one approach a middle-aged man. He held his arms forward. She squirted powder up first one sleeve and then the other, then she put the nozzle down inside the front of his collar and squeezed and did the same thing down the back of his collar. She pulled out his pants both front and back and sent down puffs of DDT. Finally she turned the duster on his head and left his straight black hair powdered white.

Another girl nearby was dusting a woman refugee. A person who has been thus treated is pretty thoroughly saturated in clothing and body with the insect killing powder.

When you go into a refugee camp you notice most of the families seem to have body lice.

Lice carry typhus. Some cases of typhus already have been reported in this city.

The Army civil assistance command which helps the Korean government deal with the refugee problem, is determined to nip off any tendency toward a typhus epidemic before it has a chance to start. Hence the DDT.

We went inside the warehouse. The floor was entirely covered with refugees and with the big bundles into which they fastened their belongings for the long harrowing trip south. The refugees sat on rice straw mats which they had carried with them. We questioned one young woman through an interpreter. She said her husband was in the Army. She had brought her three children with her, smiling she said it was "pretty cold at night" in the unheated warehouse. We asked if her family had enough blankets.

"Three days ago we got one blanket," she said. "I had none with me."

"One blanket for each of the children?" I asked.

"One blanket for one family," she said. She did not complain. But another woman with a child in her arms said simply: "One blanket is not warm enough for me and my baby."

Don't Talk About Troubles; Correct Them Says Mother

When many folks get to feeling badly they just don't know what to do. They fret and stew around, tell their neighbors, their friends and their family how badly they feel—and they usually do feel miserable. But it's not that they don't help matters, any by telling other folks how badly they feel all the time, because most folks don't want to be around them when they act that way. Now, for example, take Mrs. Zina Lee Bowman, Route 6, Cross Ferry Road, Nashville, Tennessee. When she got to feeling badly, she began taking HADACOL and found that by taking HADACOL she gave her system Vitamins B1, B2, Nicotin and Iron in which she was deficient.

Here is Mrs. Bowman's own statement: "I was so weak I could hardly do my housework. I am 30 years old. I am the mother of 9 children. I was so nervous I hardly wanted the children to speak. I had to rest after I got breakfast and before I cleaned my house. I have taken almost 4 bottles of HADACOL, and I feel fine. The children can make all the noise they wish, and it doesn't bother me. In fact, I join them in their ball games and other games. We are a happy family, thanks to HADACOL." (Adv.)

ALL-STAR LINE-UP FOR '51!

FIRST DISPLAY SATURDAY

Your first eye-smacking look at the line of lovelies pictured here tells you that they've got what it takes in visual charm.

But the fellow who said a picture speaks louder than a thousand words wasn't talking about these superbly able 1951 Buicks.

Sure, they're smart to look at—smart in style and smart in dress.

But they're also smartly powered—smartly engineered—smartly priced. And it would take a book to describe in full their deep-down goodness.

What's been done for '51 is to take the best automobiles that ever bore the Buick name—and top them.

Come, look them over, and you'll see what we mean.

There's the SPECIAL which can accurately be titled "the newest car in the world"—new in structure, new in power, new in dimensions, new in thrills—and potent in price appeal.

There's the SUPER—that looks and is a smart new edition of its "best seller" forebear.

Then there's the ROADMASTER—that coddles your anatomy on luxurious new fabrics and cloud-soft cushions—pampers your pride with its lordly bearing—shoots a delicious tingle right up your spine by the exuberance of its power and action.

We could go on and on. This is the car that "breathes through its nose." This is the car that sports a brand-new front-end styling. This is the car with new high-visibility instrument dials, more easily read at night. This is the car with glare-and-heat-reducing glass and a host of other news-making features you can't afford to miss.

So your No. 1 date this week end is with your Buick dealer. It won't take you long to conclude that he's offering the smartest buys of the year.
