Listen For The Horns Tonight; Give To The March Of Dimes.

By two honks of the horn you shall know them. When you hear the toot of the horn tonight, you'll know that the "Lions March" is underway and it's a signal for your voluntary contribution to the final phase of the March of Dimes polio campaign.

The Lions aren't even bothered by the weather. Come, sleet, snow rain, thunder or hail, the "Lions March" will take place tonight at 8. To start things rolling, the Lions will meet tonight at 7 in the lobby of the Gholson Hotel to organize for their polio fund drive, which has shown signs of lagging.

Scout Work Is Fulltime Job For Shockey

If any awards are being given scout masters for attendance at scout meetings, then H. A. Shockey should have first claim on them. Local Boy Scouts would do well to follow in the steps of their leader—he's the kind of guy that practices what he preaches.

Shockey has missed only four meetings in six years of scout service. And on three of these nights he was attending scout meetings out of town. The other absence was due to illness.

Shockey devotes approximately 75 nights a year to his scout work and two weeks working at the annual scout camp. All told, this adds up to three months of every year that Shockey spends on Scout work during his free time.

In addition, Shockey is a deacon of his church, a member of his church choir, teaches Sunday school and is active in the training union. His son Gerald can vouch for his dad's work. Gerald is a Boy Scout, himself.

Two Locations In Jackson Pool

Two new locations have been filed for the Jackson Pool, 12 miles northeast of Ranger. R. F. Weekley of Fort Worth is to drill his No. 1 Robert Jackson as an offset to production. Location is 200 feet from the north and 600 feet from the west lines of Section 90, Block 4, T&P Survey. Slated depth is 1800 feet with cable tools.

Roland S. Bond, et al, No. 8 Jackson is to be an offset in the same field, and will be 1000 feet from the west and 1100 feet from the south lines of Section 80, Block 4, T&P Survey.

R. J. Fryer No. 1 Maud Beck has set pipe and cemented to the Lake Sand and is slated to receive Hydracraft treatment in the next few days.

Ranger, Eastland Golfers Play In Ranger Sunday

A golf match has been scheduled between Ranger and Eastland players for 1 p.m. Sunday at the Ranger Country Club. Twenty-five players from each city will compete in the match. The games will be postponed if the weather turns bad.

Mrs. Heffner's Sister Die In Cisco Friday

Mrs. Ima Martin, sister of Mrs. S. J. Heffner of Ranger, died in Cisco this morning. Funeral services will be held at the First Baptist Church in Cisco at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Boat Sinks In Storm
PORT ISABEL, Tex., Feb. 16 (UP)— Coast guard cutters today stood by to aid small craft damaged by a fierce Gulf storm, which sank at least one small boat, and possibly two.

in Ranger. After the meeting, each Lion member will cover the district assigned to him and by 8 o'clock the entire residential section of Ranger will be covered. In addition to covering the city itself, other areas to be covered are the Gulf camp, the Premier camp and the two Lone Star camps near Driehofers.

Lions president Wilson Guest, asks everyone who wishes to contribute to have their porch light on or a white cloth tied to their front door knob. This will be the signal that you wish to march into the heart of some polio victim by contributing to the Dimes campaign. It's strictly on a volunteer basis. There will be no high pressure salesmanship. Just two honks of a horn, a porch light and a generous heart.

Falling Chunks Of Ice Snow Worry Dallas

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 16 (UP)—When the "big thaw" began in downtown Dallas today, large chunks of ice snow started dropping off the 568-foot tower atop radio station KRLL.

An office worker in the area called police headquarters and reported the falling ice. At least one car in the vicinity was dented. "Can't the police do anything about that ice melting?" the caller demanded.

The dispatcher assured the woman that melting was a natural result of warm temperatures and that nothing the police could do would change that.

But he promised the next best thing. Several wreckers were sent to the area and cars parked along the tower were picked up bodily and deposited at a safe distance from the snowfall.

LONG-HANDLE WEATHER IN DALLAS

Water service was temporarily curtailed in the Young Addition when a six-inch water main broke at 11 p.m. Thursday. Service was expected to be restored by noon today.

City Water Main Breaks Thursday

Water service was temporarily curtailed in the Young Addition when a six-inch water main broke at 11 p.m. Thursday. Service was expected to be restored by noon today.

THE WEATHER

A bright sun and maximum temperatures in the 50s were expected to wipe away most of the sleet and ice covering North Texas today but the job of repairing an estimated $850,000 damages was only begun.

The weatherman forecast warmer temperatures over the entire state through Saturday and expected the bulk of the snow to disappear by tonight.

Reds Outflank Wonju, Enter ROK Defenses

By Earnest Hobercht
TOKYO, Feb. 16 (UP)—Chinese Reds shifted their faltering central Korean offensive east today, outflanked Wonju and drove within five miles of Chechon, rail and road gateway to the Pusan beachhead.

Three Communist columns of 2,000 men each converged on Chechon, 20 miles southeast of strategic Wonju, in a blinding snowstorm. Spearheads already had penetrated South Korean defenses on the approaches to the town.

On the central front, the Communists pulled back to lick their wounds and regroup after hurling an abortive torchlight banzai attack against Chipyong, 20 miles northwest of Wonju, before dawn.

Murderous American artillery and tank fire cut down hundreds of the 1,000 Reds who swept down a hill toward American and French positions brandishing flaming torches. The attack was stopped cold before it reached the Allied line.

The 8th Army killed or wounded 4,955 more enemy troops all across Korea yesterday and the Air Forces accounted for another 1,000 to run the two-day enemy casualty toll to nearly 18,000.

The new Communist drive east of Wonju reached points at least nine, 11 and 15 miles southeast of that city. The deepest penetration was by an 800-man spearhead which knifed to within five miles of Chechon, a mining center as well as an important highway and railroad junction.

South Koreans battled the enemy hand-to-hand in one sector. American artillery engaged a 1,000-man spearhead in another.

An American spokesman called the threat serious. From Chechon, the Reds could strike either south across one of the 8th Army's two main highways from the supply port of Pusan or west across the main escape road from Wonju.

At the other end of the Korean front, an American infantry unit stormed a hill directly south of Seoul and killed 65 Chinese Reds with bayonets, rifles and automatic weapons.

Britain Gives Tip On How To Buy Horsemeat

LONDON, Feb. 16 (UP)—Strange things go into the pot these rationed days in Britain and today Renee Smith, a newlywed, disclosed that unfamiliar items such as horsemeat call for a new technique in shopping as well.

Like many another home-maker little Mrs. Smith has been trying to reconcile the postage-stamp size cut of beef or lamb she gets on her weekly rations with the healthy appetite of her laborer husband.

So—there's horsemeat. Just under 28 cents a pound and plenty of it, too, but—well . . . "I don't know why there should be anything WRONG in eating horse," said Mrs. Smith. "The continentals do it all the time, don't they? But over here your neighbors look down their noses at you."

"There's an 'out,'" said Mrs. Smith. "Take your dog with you," she advised. "Then, if anybody sees you shopping, you can say you're buying the horsemeat for the dog. Most of my friends do the same thing."

Submarine Damaged

TOKYO, Feb. 16 (UP)—The U. S. submarine Bugara, driven aground by a near hurricane storm in Tokyo Bay Wednesday, was refloated today with only minor damage.

Whistles Of Honey-Blonde Sun Bather Sure Slowed Down US Mail

HOUSTON, TEX., Feb. 16 (UP)—A helicopter pilot sought a divorce today from his pretty, honey-blonde wife, charging she took sun baths in the front yard and whistled at a passing mailman.

Wayne Schlesinger, 29, claimed his wife, Barbara, 26, displayed her scantily-clad form in their front yard "to give men a thrill." He also contended she often left their two small children while she went out to drink beer.

Displaced Kakulia Family Arrives At Rising Star To Make New Home

Leon Kakulia and his wife Helen of Salzburg, Austria, arrived in Cisco, Thursday noon, February 15 and went immediately to their new home near Rising Star. They came under the sponsorship of the Methodist Young People of the Cisco district, which includes Ranger and Eastland who provided their transportation from New York City and secured the home and job on the farm of Ray Agnew at Rising Star, according to the Rev. Leslie Seymour, district superintendent.

Leon, a native Ukrainian and Helen, a Czechoslovakian, were victims of political persecution and fled their native land to take up temporary residence in Austria. From there the Methodist Church through special offerings

Jerry Belknap Reported To Be In Critical State

Jerry Belknap was reported in critical condition today by hospital attendants at Baylor Hospital in Dallas. Jerry, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Belknap of Ranger, had been taken to Dallas Wednesday where he underwent an operation to drain a brain abscess.

The youth had been ill since suffering a serious head injury when struck by a car in Ranger in 1949. Doctors said the boy is "very ill" and that it would be some time before they can determine the results of the operation.

Boxing Match Ends In Death For Boy

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 16 (UP)—A 13-year-old boy suffered a fatal brain concussion during a neighborhood boxing match, Coroner Russell Helm said today.

David D. Zimmerman, Kent, Minn., died Wednesday night at Northwestern Hospital here after an emergency brain operation failed to save his life.

Helm said the boy "definitely" suffered a brain concussion as he boxed with some friends at a neighborhood filling station Monday. David boxed three one-minute rounds and then complained of a headache. Within 20 minutes showed signs of paralysis and was rushed to a hospital.

Dublin Rancher Dies

DUBLIN, Tex., Feb. 16 (UP)—Funeral services were scheduled today for James Aaron Land, 87, step-father of State Rep. Grady Perry of Stephenville. Land, a rancher and stockman, died at his home near Dublin Wednesday.

ACHESON URGES TOTAL GOVT. SUPPORT OF ARMING EUROPE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (UP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson declared today that it would be "a short cut to suicide" not to rush more American troops to Europe "now."

If the United States fails to bolster Western European ground defenses against Soviet aggression, he said, "we might once again hear the bitter refrain: 'too little and too late.'"

Acheson said "the combat forces of our European Allies may be expected to double in the next year" and that "the time for our contribution is now."

The Secretary, in a solemn statement to the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees, said the United States dares not rely on any policy of purely western hemispheric defense through air and sea power.

Airman Causes Uproar With His Made-Up Story

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 16 (UP)—The strange story of an Air Force corporal whose only flights were flights of fancy was told today at Randolph Air Force Base.

Maj. James Fussell, public information officer, said a 20-year-old Kansas got bored with the prosaic life on a non-flying corporal and wrote his mother a letter that caused an uproar, complete with threats of senatorial investigation.

The soldier, who was given anonymity by the same military brass he only recently had done tailspin, wrote that he had been shanghaied by the military and ordered to Korea in a case of mistaken identity.

Furthermore, said the letter to Mama, the corporal got to Hawaii before the awful mistake was righted. Then, through another mix-up, air police slapped him in the brig for 36 hours before he was put aboard a plane and returned to the mainland, he said.

The errors were compounded in the fantastic journey of 14 hapless corporal. According to his letter, the plane from Hawaii was supposed to return him to Randolph Base here. But the letter said:

"Because of things I cannot say, I wound up in Washington, D. C., and finally at Scott Air Force Base, Ill."

At long last—by the corporal's calculations some 15,000 miles and many days later—he arrived back at Randolph, broke and weary.

"Where else can I get 15,000 miles for $11.35?" the letter asked.

His mother was outraged. She demanded that her U. S. Senator explain, Maj. Fussell said, and the Senator, in turn, demanded that the Air Force explain.

The Air Force confronted the corporal with the letter, Fussell said, and he admitted it was all false—every word of it. It was a good story, but it was just not true.

He had broken no Air Force regulations, so officers let him off with a long and stern lecture.

RJC Establishes 'R' Association

Ranger Junior College athletes have established the "R" Association, the first organization of its kind on the campus. Male students who have earned a varsity letter in any of the school's major sports are eligible for membership.

The following men were elected as the "R" Association's first officers: Lewis Boynton of Quanah, president; Jack McWhorter of Mineral Wells, vice-president; Bob Gene Boynton of Quanah, secretary-treasurer; Weldon Whitte of Langston, reporter; Jimmy Patterson of Ranger, sergeant-at-arms. Coaches Boone Yarbrough and Richard Henderson are sponsors of the organization.

Services Held For Janes Today
Services were held at 2 p.m. today at the Second Baptist Church for George W. Janes, 80, who died in a local hospital Wednesday.

Among the survivors of Janes, is a brother, A. J. Janes of Stephenville, whose name was inadvertently omitted from yesterday's story.

Sweetwater Women Set Buyers' Strike

SWEETWATER, Tex., Feb. 16 (UP)—Housewife members of a "No Meat" club kept telephone wires humming here today as they asked other women to join them in a buyers' strike to bring down meat prices.

Members of the club agreed not to buy meat for a week.

"The government isn't going to do anything about high prices," said Mrs. W. E. Kirkpatrick, "but housewives can curb prices by stopping buying."

Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. G. A. Adams and Mrs. Dudley Wilson said they hoped the idea would spread to other towns.

Largest Anti-Moscow Forces Are Not in the Atlantic Pact

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Now that General Dwight D. Eisenhower has returned from the first inspection of his new command, the hard work really begins. This is the task of carrying his recommendations into effect.

An examination of the North Atlantic Treaty organization reveals easily its strengths and weaknesses. It sounds good—12 nations united for common defense. But when you start checking the assets and liabilities, the soundness of the institution is open to some question.

The United States and Canada are 3000 miles away. The United States is budgeted to spend about $4 billion on European arms aid in the present fiscal year. This is out of total arms aid appropriations of $6.5 billion. For next year, another $7 billion is budgeted for all foreign military and economic assistance. Canada has budgeted $300 million for foreign military aid this year.

The combined Canadian-American contribution is roughly 70 per cent of the $6.25 billion which the other 10 Atlantic Pact powers are spending for their own defense this year. For next year, the American contribution will equal the western European outlay.

THIS is not true, however, in terms of manpower for the western European defense forces. U. S. forces by the middle of 1951 are expected to number some 2,700,000 men. If as many as six U. S. divisions are sent to Europe this year—there are two in Germany now—the force will total something over 100,000 men.

This 100,000 men would be equal to about five per cent of the more than 2,000,000 men which the European North Atlantic Pact countries will have under arms this year.

British and French are of course making the greatest contribution. Both governments have recently stepped up their military budgets. Britain will spend $3 billion on defense this year, $4 billion next year. France is budgeted at $4 billion for this year. This British-French outlay of $3 billion for this year is 80 per cent of the $6.25 billion budgeted for defense by the 10 European North Atlantic Treaty countries.

In manpower, Britain is putting 1,000,000 men in uniform, France 800,000. France now has five full divisions, will have 13 by the end of the year, 20 by 1953, says Premier Rene Pleven.

Armed forces of the other eight European countries in NATO—the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—are relatively small because the countries are small. Their total military budget is $1.25 billion, their total armed forces 600,000 men.

WHAT this summary indicates is that, aside from the British and French, the strongest forces in the anti-Moscow countries of Europe are not in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. They are in three categories. First are the neutrals, Sweden and Switzerland. Second are the particular enemies of Soviet Russia—Spain and Yugoslavia. Third are the Middle Eastern countries of Greece, Turkey and Iran.

If all of them were in NATO, it would increase the anti-Communist military potential by over 2,500,000 men and military budgets for this year totaling $1.5 billion. This is the line-up:

Country	Military Budget for 1951 in Dollars	Reserves and Armed Forces
Sweden	100,000,000	500,000
Switzerland	75,000,000	500,000
Spain	275,000,000	425,000
Yugoslavia	380,000,000	390,000
Greece	304,000,000	200,000
Turkey	178,000,000	350,000
Iran	100,000,000	150,000

★ THE SCOREBOARD ★

This Is a Record Season For Those Violent Holdouts

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—With baseball costs skyrocketing and attendance slipping, the players still squawk for more.

They obviously take the position that the international crisis is the owners' problem, not theirs.

Anyway, this is a record season for violent holdouts.

They'll all be in, of course, but the number missing part of the training season threatens to set a new high.

The situation is general, the exceptions being the Dodgers, Giants and, oddly enough, the Athletics.

Major league attendance was off 2,732,388 in 1950, or 13.6 per cent, but the noble athletes see only the larger turnouts.

The bonus system didn't do the situation any good. Established stars hear of unknown kids collecting $40,000 and up, for merely showing up, decide to get some of that kind of important money belatedly. Owners getting out after making a quick touch of a million or two further opened the players' eyes.

The players' idea now is to get in the big brackets in three or four years.

The Yankees turned out to be more stubborn this trip.

With only two weeks remaining before the pitchers and catchers were to report in Phoenix, Feb. 22, only four regulars had signed—DiMaggio, Rizzuto, Coleman and Mize.

THE entire pitching staff was out—Raschi, Reynolds, Lopat, Ferrick, Page and even Byrne and Sanford. Whitey Ford is in the Army.

The New York Americans have the strongest argument despite the fact that a 10 per cent increase in the payroll skyrocketed it to a total of something like $600,000.

While the Bombers' attendance was off 202,296 in 1950, they still played before 2,283,076 paying guests at the Stadium. They have played to more than 2,000,000 for five consecutive campaigns.

The Yankees have won two straight championships, three in four years.

They lost only one World Series game the past two falls.

The general reluctance to sign was so pronounced that a club official expressed the suspicion that some of the laddybucks might have gotten together.

There is no chance of that. Ball players have never joined ranks in asking for raises. One doesn't care what another is getting, more often than not doesn't even know. Each player to himself is number one all the while.

True Prospect—About the only thing that can't be stopped by an atom bomb is a press agent. To these gentry an atom bomb is just a peg for a gag. So it's not surprising that after the recent A-bomb test explosions in Nevada, this picture promptly popped out of Las Vegas. If you'll look to the left for a moment, you'll see a bewhiskered guy who is supposed to be Smiley Washburn, prospector, who has been seeking uranium ore with a Geiger counter for years. He's supposed to be Geiger—counting Terry Truitt to learn if she had become radio-active as a result of the nearby tests.

American Soldier Planning To Write Song of War in His Korean Rhapsody

BY H. D. QUIGG
SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, Feb. 15 (UP)—When Ben Tufts was a kid driving a delivery truck for his mother's grocery store in Crystal Falls, Mich., he'd hear music inside his head.

He'd stop the truck on the roadside and write the music down in a little pad he carried in his pocket.

Sometimes, clerking in the Tufts grocery store, he would lay the pad on the counter and hum a tune he had just composed.

"This may sound crazy to you," he would say to the clerks, "but some day it'll mean something to me."

Ben had started playing the violin at six and the piano at eight, and when he was in high school he used to make up music on the piano. He graduated from Oberlin College with honors and a Bachelor of Music degree and he began doing piano recitals and playing for the radio.

He taught music at a private school for a while, and every night he wrote music. In 1940 a fire burned up his manuscripts.

In the Second World War he served with a tank battalion in the Pacific. Then, out of the Army and with a couple of volumes of tunes completed, he sent them off to a conservatory for a critique.

The conservatory wrote him he had talent for composition. But somewhere in the shuffle they lost his two volumes. They have never been found.

Ben got back in the Army. Last July 2, when Gen. William F. Dean flew into Korea to take over Capt. Ben Lee Tufts, of notes in a minor key. And he heard grimy kids on grimy streets calling a sing-song sales talk for their black market wares of cigarettes and soap and gum spread out on little tables.

"Ideas kept running through my mind," Ben says. "I'd hoped to write it for orchestra but I'll write it first for piano. I want to give an idea of Korea in the music—something about the situation—maybe a folk song strain to give the idea of the land of the morning calm—and then the war."

"I probably will open with the newboys' call. And the folk song would recur throughout."

Carpenter Feels Good Once More

Gets Appetite Back and Feels Fine. HADACOL Supplied Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron Which His System Lacked

W. L. Berry, 5420 West 33rd Ave., Little Rock, Ark., is a carpenter and a good one and he's mighty proud of his work. Mr. Berry says that to do a good day's work and do it right, a man has got to feel good. That's why Mr. Berry began to worry when he began losing weight, had no appetite and felt just generally run-down. But Mr. Berry didn't sit around worrying; he did something about it. Mr. Berry started taking HADACOL. In a week's time he noticed a wonderful improvement. Many folks from all over the country have found that HADACOL has relieved the real cause of their troubles, when they are due to deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron, and continued use of HADACOL helps keep these troubles from coming back.

Here is what Mr. Berry says about today's great HADACOL: "I was run-down, had lost weight and just didn't have an appetite. I just couldn't even force myself to eat at all. I heard about HADACOL on the radio and tried a bottle of it. In a week's time I noticed a big improvement in my appetite—was actually hungry and wanted to eat. I have now regained the weight I had lost, and have an amazing appetite. I have since taken about twenty-five bottles of HADACOL and do recommend HADACOL to all my friends. I always have HADACOL in the house and just wouldn't be without it."

This Last Night

By Ferd Nushelm
Copyright 1951, by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Paul Twing, a former Navy officer, has kidnaped Judy Twing, 8-year-old daughter of his dead brother. Judy had been living with her stepmother who had been mistreating her and in spite of the fact that Paul is a kidnaper, much public sympathy has been aroused in his favor. He meets May Jenkins, a waitress in a coal mining town, and when May expresses sympathy for Paul, he discloses his identity. May has a plan to get to New York, where Paul has a friend, Martin Jaboo, a sea captain who might take them somewhere to begin a new life. Judy is to be dressed as a boy and May will pose as her mother. If Steve will be looking for a man and a small girl, instead of a man, woman and boy. As they start out for New York, they read the papers and learn that authorities are tracking down more than 1000 children—more than 1000 "Justified for Twing" girls have been formed for Paul's defense, should he give himself up or be apprehended. "Will you give yourself up, Paul?" May asks.

PAUL TWING shook his head in answer to May's question. "No," he said. "I won't give myself up. I decided what I would do when I started this thing."

"But," May Jenkins declared, "everybody is for you."

"Yeah," Paul smiled at her, "then you turned in the hundred leads?"

"Crackpots,"

"What are crackpots?" Judy asked.

Paul laughed. "Your question, May, you answer it."

"It isn't a very nice word. I shouldn't have said it, but a crackpot is somebody who hasn't very good sense. They aren't very nice people. They don't know how to run their own lives very well, so they try to run other people's lives."

"But why do you call them crackpots? That's a funny name."

"They're funny people," Paul laughed.

He became serious then and turned to May to discuss their next move. He feared that the approaches to New York might be watched. His suggestion was that May drop him off in Jersey City and then take the Holland Tunnel into the city. He would cross by ferry.

"When you get into New York, drive around uptown until you find a place with a furnished room of some kind, or a little out-of-the-way hotel. I'll find some place to put up. Tomorrow I'll see what I can learn about the ship and I'll meet you in the evening." He fished his wallet out and gave May $50. "This ought to take care of you until we get together. You two go out and have a good time tomorrow. Neither of you has seen New York. There's plenty to see. We'll meet at 5 o'clock. There's a little triangular park, it's just a block long, up at 196th Street and Broadway. You be there on one of the benches at 5 and I'll join you."

THE endless tiled tunnel they sped through under the Hudson River frightened Judy. May was intimidated by it too, but she didn't admit it. They rolled out into a confusion of cars, trucks, and white-marked traffic lanes, into the roar of New York at night. May was completely bewildered, but, just in time, she saw an overhead sign, "UPTOWN—WEST SIDE."

She swung into that lane and followed the cars ahead of her. With growing panic she drove upward. The careening cabs, the distracting electric signs, the darting pedestrians, and the bedeviling traffic lights had her dazed.

Judy bounced up and down on the seat beside her filled with wonder and delight. Everything she saw elicited a dozen questions.

though the answers were few and not too satisfying. After driving for what seemed like hours, the traffic thinned out, the great electric signs became smaller and fewer. May saw a policeman standing at an intersection directing traffic. She pulled up beside him and asked where they might look for a room.

The policeman put his weather-beaten face into the car and glowered at her. "Watcher looking for lady, a hotel?"

May gulped. "A furnished room if I could find one."

"Well, you ain't gonna find one on Riverside Drive. Go over to Amsterdam or Columbus. Run up and down the side streets. Look for a sign in a window."

May guessed from the direction in which he had pointed where Amsterdam and Columbus might be. After an hour of cruising, watching for signs in windows, May finally rang the doorbell of a brown stone house that had a card in the front window reading "VACANCY."

A stout, matronly woman responded to the ring. As the door opened, a stale, dank smell assailed May.

WHILE May and Judy climbed the stairs to the second floor and they stood inspecting the diminutive front room and its dowdy furniture the landlady kept up a running string of comment on the rarity of a vacant room these days, offering not one but several verbose explanations as to why this room was unoccupied, and what clean, neat tenants it had had before. May was worn out from the long drive and the terrifying experience of confronting Manhattan traffic.

"How much is it?" she sighed.

"And where's the bathroom?"

"The bath's down the hall. I'll show you. The room's $14 a week. You pay a week in advance."

"What if I don't stay a week?"

The woman sniffed. "We rent all our rooms on a weekly basis. She looked at May appraisingly.

May fumbled in her bag and took out her purse. "All right. We'll take it."

(She counted out $14.)

The "Z" Key Wz Lzcking On The Mzrine's Typewriter; Thzt's Why This Tzle Rezds Like Z Mzdhztter's

By H. D. Quigg
WITH THE MARINES, Korea Feb. 16 (UP) — Our hero today is S-Sgt. Mike E. Shatak, of Eynon, Pa., a pipe-smoking Marine corps regular.

Shatak is a Marine combat correspondent. He stays with a regiment in the field and writes stories about the men therein. But he works under a handicap. His typewriter has a part missing. The Marines have nine correspondents in the field and no typewriters for them. They borrow or scrounge from the outfits they are with. Shatak apparently has borrowed a typewriter.

It has no "A" key, but that doesn't bother him. He plunges ahead, using the "Z" key, which is right next to the "A." The effect is enthralling. His most recent masterpiece was this:

With the 1st Marine Division in Korea (Delzyed)—Even in combat life hzs its embarrassing moments, and zs most zlwzys, women were the cause of it in this particular instance.

Choosing z location for his mzhine gun position, Corporal Joseph Z. Zlvino, of Lawrence, Miss, sighted down the gun barrel right into the face of z pretty Korean girl wezring z uniform.

Turning to his gun-mzte, Cpl. Robert R. Hutchison, of Zshland, Ohio, he exclaimed:

"Hey, Hutch, look — Korezn WZCZ!"

Then he gleefully shouted down to the two uniformed girls who he assumed were unable to understand English.

"Hey Bzby, come on up here and I'll show you how to operzte z mzhine gun."

Open-mouthed, the two Lezthernecks wztched the giggling girls climb up the steep embankment to the gun emplacement. Each of them WZS armed with z rifle, and one even carried an additional 45-caliber automatic in z shoulder holster.

"Guess, they understood my motioning to them," Zlvino grunted to his companion zs the two Marines lent z helping hand and zided the girls in getting over the final rise to the top.

The girls giggled and moved to inspect the gun zs Zlvino began his talk in z language he thought they understood.

"This is mzhine gun, you know, Rzt tzt-tzt-tzt," he chattered. The girls continued their giggling while he pointed to various parts of the gun.

"Pullez - pulleez bolt bzck, puttie - puttie belt in," he zdded in his Brooklyn - like voice, vainly trying to hid his smile.

The two Lezthernecks winked at each other and Zlvino continued his lecture with, "lookie here, cookie . . ."

But their smiles quickly faded and their faces took on z look of embarrassment z n d zmmzement when one of the girls interrupted in perfect English, "when you're done, I'll show you how to field strip this 30-caliber mzhine gun."

Strip Teaser Claims Scanty Models In Magazines, TV, Busting In On Burlesque Bump & Grind Business

BY VIRGINIA MACPHERSON
HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16 (UP) — A strip teaser complained today the half-naked ladies in magazines and all those low necklines on TV are keeping the customers away from burlesque.

"Those girls show more than we do," pouted Betty Rowland, the "redheaded ball of fire." "The worst ones are the lingerie models. Honestly, it's embarrassing. There's one corset ad that shows a girl with absolutely nothing on except a girdle."

Next to scanties, she said, come the ads for towels and shower curtains.

You've seen those pictures of girls stepping out of bathtubs. Miss Rowland shrugged. "Or silhouetted against transparent shower curtains."

And how about some of those perfume ads? Black chiffon nighties you can see right through!

"If we tried that we'd have the vice squad on our necks in 20 minutes."

Girls who take their clothes off for a living have to be extra-careful when they pose for photographs, Miss Rowland said.

"We're fully covered up too," she explained. "And we have to wear a shirt. The pictures that go looked fine and did a good job." Two college professors were Levine's most nervous guest stars. The people he has to worry about least, he said, are politicians and labor spokesmen.

"They're, ah, very articulate," he said thoughtfully. "I guess you could say that what I need most right now are articulate spokesmen for business and women who have definite views on political and social questions."

Even in these days of feminine opportunity, Levine says he has a tough time finding a lady speaker.

"Women have less tendency to be opinionated," he claimed. "People who see both sides of a discussion won't fit into a debate. And besides," he added, looking down the list of names he uses for guest star. "There aren't enough women who talk with the glibness and the assurance of men. Right now I'm planning a debate on the Hoover Plan for defending Europe. How many women do you know who could discuss that issue?"

Once he finds a suitable woman, Levine dismally commented, his troubles still aren't over. Men, he said, sometimes refuse to go on a program if they have to debate same thing in his own living room?" She demanded. "It's really hurting our business. And if they don't have TV sets they can always stay home and look at their magazines. You can't blame 'em. Those high-class models put on a better show than we do."

We Like To Talk About Abstracts—

... because making abstracts has been our business for many years. And it is an interesting subject. Every day people come to us with their title problems. Some cases are tragic. Take the example of the couple who have spent their all for a home to find out later they have no title. Most title problems are simple and the abstracts helps to make them simple. So before buying real estate of any kind have the title examined.

Sweetheart Banquet For Methodist Young People Held Thursday Night

The Methodist Youth Fellowship Valentine banquet was held Thursday evening at the church with 68 in attendance. The tables were laid in a huge U shape, gaily decorated with bright red hearts and darts on white linen tablecloths. A huge red heart shaped box with a silver dart thrust through leaped against the wall behind the head table. Red and white carnations and bright red gladioluses completed the decorations. Heart shaped baskets, trimmed in dainty lace, folded in a manner so they could be opened, carried the place, time, and date of the banquet. On the inside of the red baskets, were the menu and the program for the evening entertainment.

Gene Ready served as the toast master, and the invocation was given by Dena Pulley. A "sing-song" was held in which all participated with Robert Gans at the piano and Rev. Garland Lavender leading the songs. Ann Doris gave the popular reading, "That old Sweetheart of Mine", after which Beth Garrison sang a solo, accompanied on the piano by Mr. Gans. After a piano medley, the young people asked Mr. Gans for an encore. Mrs. Roscoe Hepper gave the address, using for her subject: "Change your Thoughts." The M.Y.F. then showed their love and appreciation to Mrs. J. D. Drennan, their counselor, by presenting her a beautiful blue and green table lamp. The meeting closed by all singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds."

The following menu was served by eight ladies:

Chicken a la king in timpale shells, New potatoes, Buttered peas, Cranberry Sauce, Hot rolls, Tea, and Cherry pie a la Mode.

Cisco Baptist Asso. Sponsors Revival

The Cisco Baptist Association is sponsoring through the Training Union Department, under the leadership of Mrs. B. R. Jones of Cisco, a Training Union Revival with fourteen returned foreign missionaries having the principal part on each program. Some twenty-five churches in the Association are participating in this week of intensive training and missionary efforts. These missionaries are from all countries where Southern Baptist carry on missionary work. Many of these missionaries have been held prisoner by the Japanese and Chinese Communists. According to the Rev. Ralph Perkins, pastor of the First Baptist Church, these missionaries have a message that will bring to the hearts of man a realization that only God can bring peace and happiness out of chaos and misery.

The South African diamond industry was born when a Boer farm boy in 1866 picked up one on the veld near Kimberley, says the National Geographic Society. It has produced more than a billion dollars worth of diamonds.

Sugar Ray To Try For Light Heavy Crown

CHICAGO, Feb. 15 (UP)—The amazing Sugar Ray Robinson jauntily placed the middleweight crown on his head today after wresting it from Jake La Motta, and began negotiations for a shot at Joey Maxim's light heavy weight championship at New York's Madison Square Garden in late March.

Robinson—the slender, sepiu sensation who vacated his own welterweight (147 pounds) throne at the instant of stopping blood-smeared La Motta before 14,802 in Chicago Stadium last night—may defend his new 160 pound title in a return bout with La Motta in June. But meanwhile he will try for Maxim's 175 pound bonnet.

Sugar Ray came from behind last night to give La Motta a merciless and bloody battering before stopping him on a technical knockout at 2:04 of the 13th round.

He became the first welterweight champion in pugilistic history to win the middleweight diadem when referee Frank Sikora mercifully intervened to prevent helpless La Motta from suffering more punishment.

Matchmaker Al Weill of the International Boxing Club, pleased at last night's better-than-expected gate of $180,619, announced he would try to pair Robinson and Maxim for a light heavy title at the Garden in late March.

Referee Sikora favored Sugar Ray, 63 to 57. Judge Frank McAdam favored him, 65 to 55, and judge Ed Klein favored him 70 to 50.

Texas Tries To Regain Lead In SMU Game

By United Press
Texas University's Longhorns get a chance tonight to regain undisputed possession of the No. 1 spot in the Southwest Conference basketball race as they take on fourth-place Southern Methodist.

Texas Christian gained a share of the lead by defeating the front-running steers Monday night.

In the only game scheduled last night, the Arkansas Razorbacks used ball-control tactics to score a 64 to 50 victory over Louisiana State University in a non-conference tussle.

The Tigers never came closer than 10 points after the first half, which ended with the Hogs boasting a 34 to 18 lead.

Bob Miller gladdened the hearts of Arkansas rooters in the Little Rock gymnasium by dropping 20 points through the net and turning in an outstanding floor game.

Mark Freeman topped LSU scorers with 14 points.

If Texas wins tonight, TCU could once more slide into a first-place tie by defeating Rice in a game scheduled tomorrow night.

Baylor meets Arkansas at Waco tomorrow night to conclude the week's schedule.

The lies children tell are not always lies, according to Childcraft Advisory Service. They are often signs of a lively imagination which parents would do well to encourage.

OUT OF HOT WATER AGAIN, LADY?

Get a gas water heater that's BIG ENOUGH!

Come in and let us show you the new Ruud and Rex water heaters now on display!

It's irritating to run out of hot water when you need it. But it happens often where the water heater is not sized to fit the family's needs. In buying a gas water heater, consider the size of your family, the number of bathrooms and hot water outlets in your home, the type of laundry equipment you use and the amount of laundering done. Remember, too, that it's better to have a heater that's a little too large than a little too small... and be sure to specify only a top quality heater for long life and trouble-free service. The best is the cheapest in the long run!

USE THIS WATER HEATER SIZING CHART

- 20 gal. Families of 2 or 3 with average general demands, one bathroom, and below average laundering demands.
- 30 gal. Families of 3 or 4 with average general demands, one bathroom, and normal clothes washer demands (3 successive loads); or with two bathrooms and below average laundry demands.
- 40-45 gal. Families of 4 to 6 with average general demands, above average laundering demands, one bathroom; or with two bathrooms and average laundering demands. Will supply hot water for continuous operation of nearly all automatic washers.
