A Million Minnows Are Lots Of Fish Bait, But He Has 'Em

A million minnows are a lot of fish bait, but that is the amount of the tiny fish J. L. Whisenant estimates that he has in his tanks on his vegetable farm near Olden. Whisenant moved to Olden in the fall of 1920 to go into the vegetable raising business. He irrigated his 10 acre patch from a well which he drilled on the place, and was satisfied with his vegetable business until he began raising minnows; a result of not being able to find fish bait when he wanted it.

"If all started late in the fall of '49," Whisenant recalls. "My son, Lamar, and I got everything together for a fishing trip, including camping and cooking equipment and bedding."

"The next thing was the bait. After about an hour of making ready, we went out to catch the bait. Well, about five hours later we had made very little progress so Lamar struck upon the idea of building a pond in which to raise our own bait."

From this idea, Whisenant started what is turning into a lucrative business. A tank was dug and minnows were put into it in early spring of 1950.

Water was supplied for the tank from the same well which he used to irrigate his vegetables. In a short time, there were so many minnows in the tank that the Whisenants could not begin to use them all, so he decided to put up a sign and see if he could sell a few of them.

The result was so amazing that Whisenant decided to go into a full scale minnow raising and selling business. Four more tanks have been dug on the little farm.

Whisenant sent for government booklets on raising minnows, and met all the specifications in his tanks. Only one of the new tanks has been stocked, but the others are to be filled with water and stocked this year.

Whisenant estimates that in a year or two he will have five million minnows for sale yearly. He plans to get a license to wholesale his crop to the various fishing spots in the state.

He ordered a booklet on raising minnows from the State Fish and Oyster commission. After careful study he was ready to build a tank.

Brann Garner Went Anyhow

LOUISVILLE, KY., May 2 (UP)—It'll cost you $100—plus plane or train fare—for a three-minute thrill if you want to see the Kentucky Derby.

When it's over, you'll be agonized by nightmares of waiters directly descended from Jesse James, hotel clerks who got the mistaken impression you were John D. Rockefeller, and tramping crowds which thought you were a discarded newspaper. You'll also be able to spellbind your friends with a recitation of America's most dramatic classic.

If you haven't had a night's rest, forget about the Derby Saturday and start worrying about next year. But if you have those reservations, withdraw your life's savings and come along for the merry ride.

Unsportsmanlike And Illegal Too

BEAUMONT, May 2 (UP)—Three Beaumont men have discovered that fishing by telephone is not only unsportsmanlike, it's illegal.

The three were fined a total of $336 after pleading guilty in Justice of Peace Horace Blade's court to electrocuting fish in the Neches River with a device rigged from an old crank-type telephone.

Authorities said the men had taken a magnet-and-rank works used to generate electricity in an old-fashioned telephone and dropped wire from it into the water, about 60 feet apart.

Praise Papers On Their Stand

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UP)—Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D., Ill., praised the Scripps-Howard Newspapers and the Chicago Tribune today for "courage" in proposing higher newspaper mailing rates.

Douglas told the United States Chamber of Commerce that the Post Office Department faces a $450,000,000 deficit in the fiscal year ending June 30. Most of it comes from second, third and fourth-class mail, he said.

Mother Wants Son Behind Bars The Rest of His Life Not Killed

PAMPA, May 2 (UP)—Mrs. H. H. Stull launched a Panhandle-wide campaign today which she hopes will save her doomed son from the electric chair for murdering his sweetheart's father.

Mrs. Stull said she would work principally through veterans' organizations with petitions asking Gov. Allan Shivers to commute the sentence of her son, Richard McGee, from death to life imprisonment.

McGee, 25, was convicted of shooting to death A. L. Allison, Lubbock groceryman, on July 7, 1948. The shooting stemmed from an argument at Allison's home as McGee sought his permission to marry Allison's daughter, Betty, 18.

The first tank was dug to cover three-fourths of an acre, nine feet deep.

Several trips were made to the Possum Kingdom and Lake Cisco fish hatcheries, and even into Oklahoma to study a minnow farm. Then he was ready to raise his minnows.

A final trip to Possum Kingdom to obtain 40 large Golden Shiners and 100 small Steelheads and a small number of Red Horse minnows to stock his tank and Whisenant was a minnow raiser.

Whisenant estimates that there are half a million minnows in the tank now, several thousand of which are ready for market. In another tank there are about half a million more. Each of his other three tanks has been stocked with 400 spawners.

The minnows grow very swiftly, Whisenant explains, because they are well fed. Each day he places a pound of ground beef and about three loafs of bread in the ponds which have a large number of minnows.

Spawning boards have been placed in each tank and Whisenant explains that the minnows will begin spawning when the water in the pools reaches 55 degrees.

But there is still more to be done. Whisenant says that he plans to dig still more tanks and go into the business in a huge way. He still intends to raise vegetables also, but his heart is in the minnow business right now.

Western Union Denies Charges Of Aiding Thugs

NEW YORK, May 2 (UP)—Western Union said today it did not consider dissemination of racing news illegal.

The telegraph company issued a lengthy statement in answer to a charge in the Senate Crime Committee's report that Western Union had not been "fully cooperative" with law enforcement agencies.

"The furnishing or receiving of racing news does not constitute 'gambling' and is not illegal, no more than is the publication of such news in our daily newspapers, or the broadcasting of such news by radio or television," the company said.

It said that "so far as we know" operations of the Continental Press, described by the committee as a crime syndicate-dominated organization having a monopoly on distributing racing information, are legal.

Correction

Yesterday's paper stated that the Alameda Grave Yard working would be held Friday. This had previously been stated to the Times. It was learned yesterday after publication that the affair will be held Saturday, May 5. The Times regrets this error.

Girl-Slayer Is No-Billed

DALHART, May 2 (UP)—Anna Lou Davenport, 18, charged with a shotgun slaying of her father on their farm west of here April 17, today was no-billed by a Dallas County Grand Jury.

William Frank Davenport, 53-year-old stock farmer, died from a shot in the mouth fired from a 12-gauge shotgun through a small front door glass pane.

Sheriff W. L. (Dick) Stout and District Attorney Floyd H. Richards said Davenport was killed as he kicked on his own front door, cursed, demanded entrance and threatened to kill members of his family.

Amarillo Man Admits the Murder Of Estranged Wife Who Lay Nude

AMARILLO, May 2 (UP)—R. J. Hulien, 43-year-old truck driver, was held without bond today and authorities said he confessed beating to death his estranged wife with an iron pipe as she lay nude on her bed taking a sunbath.

District Attorney Herman Pitkin said Hulien made a "full confession" of the murder yesterday after being returned from Austin where he "failed" weekend lie detector tests.

Until yesterday, Hulien had repeatedly denied any knowledge of the murder and told officers he suspected "another man" with whom Mrs. Hulien had been keeping company.

Pitkin said Hulien directed officers to a spot in an alley, about two doors from where Mrs. Hulien lived, where the iron pipe was hidden.

Pitkin declined to reveal the full content of Hulien's confession saying "we don't want to brief the opposition lawyers any more than necessary."

The body of the 40-year-old woman was found last Wednesday night. She was lying beneath a sunlamp, her head badly battered.

Mrs. Hulien had been separated from her husband about six weeks and had filed suit for divorce.

Striker Under Indictment Now

FORT WORTH, May 2 (UP)—A striking truck driver was under indictment today because of an alleged picket line disturbance at a Fort Worth Packing Company plant.

Otto Seaton was indicted on charges of preventing others from engaging in a lawful vocation. The indictment was returned by the Tarrant County Grand Jury under the O'Daniel Anti-Violence Law.

The indictment was the outgrowth of a complaint by Forrest Edward Seaton, a non-striking worker at City Packing Co. and no relation to the indicted man.

He contended he was hit on the leg by a rock last month at the plant where members of a United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO) Union have been on strike since last January.

An injunction suit against the union is pending in District Court.

New Mayor Is Handed Setback

DALLAS, May 2 (UP)—The City Dallas Council handed new mayor J. R. Adoue, Jr., a setback yesterday, less than an hour after he had taken his oath of office, by voting 8 to 1 to reinstate Charles C. Ford as city manager.

Adoue's vote was the lone dissenting one.

Fly Urges Full Investigation

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UP)—James Lawrence Fly, former Chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, today urged that Congress investigate fully the "extraordinary" and "preferential" treatment which the RFC gave Industrialist Henry J. Kaiser and his enterprises.

"At no time in history has another single group been so favored by government largesse," Fly told the Senate Banking Committee.

He said "the public interest requires a full airing of the role played by RFC funds and other governmental largesse in the extraordinary creation, expansion and maintenance of the far-flung Kaiser enterprises."

Fly, now a New York attorney, testified at hearings on bills to abolish or alter the RFC. But he took no stand on abolition.

Fly said he represents a group of Kaiser-Frazer dealers "mistreated" by the automobile firm. "But neither they nor I have any interest in the outcome of these hearings," he said.

He said that "if the committee will delegate its subpoena power to me, I believe I can turn something up." Fly promised to give the committee a memorandum he said would show the need for a congressional investigation of Kaiser's deals with the government.

He said the dealings not only involved the RFC but other government agencies.

Resign Job Or Clear Charges

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UP)—Republican pressure built up today for Ambassador William O. Dwyer to resign or clear his name of charges that he helped the New York underworld.

Democrats were silent for the most part, but it was apparent that many felt some move had to be made by the ambassador to Mexico and former mayor of New York to remove what one Republican called a "cloud" over his head.

Neither the White House nor O'Dwyer had any comment on the Senate Crime Committee's charges yesterday. But O'Dwyer indicated he might have something to say later.

In the Senate Crime Committee's 195-page report, the committee charged that O'Dwyer—both by action and inaction—"contributed to the growth of organized crime, in New York and racketeering and gangsterism" in New York City.

The council action climaxed more than a week of charges and counter-charges during which it was claimed that Adoue's prime objective was to get rid of Police Chief Carl Hanson. Adoue denied having any desire to fire the popular police chief. He also denied rumors that he intended to open the city to gambling.

Mrs. V. Greeg Services Set

Funeral services for Mrs. Vanna Greeg will be held at 4 p.m. Thursday at the Church of Christ in Eastland.

Mrs. Greeg died at 7:30 p.m. Monday at her home on North Dougherty.

Mac Bartes, minister of the Church of Christ in Eastland, will officiate at the services.

Survivors include her husband Robert J. Greeg.

Burial will be in the Eastland cemetery with Hamner Funeral directors in charge.

Texas Cattle Grower Lashes Out At OPS Price Rollback On Beef

KINGSVILLE, May 2 (UP)—Robert J. Kleberg, Jr., president of the King Ranch and the world's largest cattle grower, lashed out today at the OPS rollback on beef, and charged that "another Korea is being planned in Washington."

Kleberg said the "Washington Korea" was being planned for the consumers of beef and the industry which supplies the country's beef.

"The planning is being done by politicians, their economic advisers and their wise-cracking administrators who know nothing of the intricate problems involved," he said.

The Texas cattleman said that legitimate packers are already having difficulty in filling the needs of their customers, and said that shortages of beef now developing in legitimate channels are going to be far beyond anything "we ever dreamed of in OPA days."

"Federal planners are asking beef producers, whose own costs are fixed by the price of necessary feed and labor to sell beef below the cost of producing it," he said. "The result will put many cattle feeders out of business and set up vicious black markets."

Kleberg said an average 800-pound steer gains about two pounds a day on efficient feeding. Simple arithmetic shows that it now costs the cattleman 96 cents to put those two pounds of beef on that steer for meat that will grade prime, choice or good.

He explained that a fattening steer will eat each day approximately 20 pounds of cottonseed cake or meal and 10 pounds of hay.

"On the basis of present-day feed prices it will cost a total of 84 cents," he said. "To the 84 cents cost for feed must be added 12 cents per steer per day for labor and other operating costs. The total cost of putting the two pounds of beef on the steer is therefore 96 cents, or 48 cents per pound."

"The OPS ruling of April 30 rolls back prices all the way to 37 cents per pound for prime beef, 34.20 for choice, and 31.50 for good," he said. "Another four and one-half per cent rollback is due Aug. 1 and still another Oct. 1."

Had to Do It Cohen Asserts

LOS ANGELES, May 2 (UP)—Gambler Mickey Cohen, facing trial for income tax evasion, said today that he must sell the lavish furniture from his Brentwood home at auction "to raise the dough to get me an attorney."

The dapper little gambler and his wife, Lavonne, go on trial June 4 for allegedly failing to pay $156,123.18 in income taxes. They pleaded not guilty at their arraignment Monday.

Cohen said he had turned all of his furniture over to an auction firm.

"It is very embarrassing to me and to Lavonne," he said, "but I had to do it. I had to raise the dough to get me an attorney."

Joe Louis Will Fight Tonight

DETROIT, May 2 (UP)—Joe Louis tries for a fifth time to recover his once famed knockout punch tonight against Emilio Agramonte in a tuneup for a proposed September title rematch with heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles.

The Brown Bomber has gone 34 rounds in his comeback campaign against Cesar Brion, Freddie Besore, Andy Walker and Agramonte without flooring an opponent.

Louis rules a heavy 3 to 1 favorite to beat Agramonte a second time but the big question was whether he can come up with some of his old-time punching power.

Funeral Rites For Mrs. Truly Held Tuesday

Funeral rites for Mrs. Bessie Stewart Allingham Truly, 65, were held at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the First Christian Church, Eastland, with Rev. Otto F. Marshall, pastor, conducting.

Burial was in the Eastland cemetery with Hamner Funeral directors in charge.

Mrs. Truly was born March 26, 1886, in Rumford, Scotland. She died at her home in Eastland, April 22.

Her childhood was spent in Scotland. In 1898 she came to the United States with her parents settling in Illinois. From Illinois the family moved to Colorado and later moved to Texas.

In 1905 she was married to Horace B. Truly of Eastland. The family lived in Strawn, Thurber, and Brownwood, moving to Eastland in 1921. She made her home in Eastland until the time of her death.

Surviving are her husband, Horace B. Truly, Eastland; six sons, W. A. of San Angelo; R. H. of Chelan, Wash.; P. A. of Dallas; M. W. of San Antonio; Ben E. of Irving and Robert of Dallas; four daughters, Mrs. Jeanne French, Iraan; Mrs. L. W. Schneider, San Antonio; Mrs. Jack Anthony, Holden, Wash.; and Mrs. Dan Tagle, San Antonio; three brothers: William Allingham, Dodge City, Kan.; and P. S. and Crawford Allingham of Las Vegas, New Mex.; and two sisters, Mrs. Marjorie Weaver, of Mineral Wells and Mrs. Dan Joseph of Las Vegas.

Cemetery Working Friday Morning

There will be a cemetery working Friday morning, May 4, at Bullock when all interested persons are urged to be present to help clean it and to discuss plans for a fence.

The Cemetery Committee, wishes to thank everyone who aided in their recent paper drive.

Getcha Press Program Here! It Makes D. C. Fathers Pickers

BY PETER EDSON, NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—While waiting for Gen. Douglas MacArthur to win his way out of the west, members of the Washington press corps dreamed up what they thought would be a much more fitting and hysterical reception program than the one the D. C. Fathers arranged.

This is it: 12:30 p. m.—General MacArthur wades ashore from snorkel submarine in the Potomac. 12:40—MacArthur riding GOP elephant with Joe Martin as mahout, leads parade to the Capitol, followed by President, Truman drawing ricksha containing several Marines.

GREATEST tragedy in the death of Sen. Arthur A. Vandenberg of Michigan is that there is no one on Republican side of the Senate to replace him. This fact that he had no real successor was fully appreciated by Senator Vandenberg.

At one point during primary campaigns, after Governor Dewey of New York had lost several midwestern state ballots, there was a small boom for a Vandenberg-Dewey ticket.

Maj.-Gen. William C. Chase, new head of U. S. military advisory mission to Chiang Kai-shek Nationalist Chinese army on Formosa, made his reputation as commander of U. S. First Cavalry in the Pacific. It operated brilliantly as an armored division.

Assistant Secretary of Defense Manpower, Anna M. Rosenberg, was on the stand before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

THE SCOREBOARD Quick Start Makes Dressen Peepul's Cherce in Brooklyn

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It didn't take Charles Walter Dressen long to sell himself to the Brooklyn crowd.

Charles Dressen was in like Flynn when the early-season winning streak was made sweeter by the sweeping of a three-game, week-end set with the highly publicized Giants at the Polo Grounds.

There are a number of reasons why Chuck Dressen has become the new Peepul's Cherce across the bridges.

He is quick on the trigger with winning ways. He started well acquainted with the Brooklyn stars, knew Palica, Hodges, Jackie Robinson, Snider and others in the chain.

Dressen is personally coaching at third base, where the big base-running decisions are made.

THE Ebbsfield faithful like to see their guy out there running the works and fighting for them.

He believes that, with proper handling, the Superbas will be strongest where a lot of people suspected they would be weakest—in the pitching department.

He is confident his side will get ample pitching from Newcombe, Roe, Palica until he is called by the military, Hatten, Erskine and Van Cuyk, backed up by Branch, Bankhead and Clyde King.

Under Burt Shotton, Brooklyn pitchers warmed up without a coach. Now when it's time for a change, Dressen telephones Sukeforth, and asks who has the most stuff.

Under Barney Shotton, Sukeforth wasted his time in the dugout, giving signs. Now he's a cog in the machine.

Shotton, in street clothes, had to send Sukeforth out to talk with a wobbling pitcher.

Now the uniformed Dressen is in the box quicker than you can say Jackie Robinson, to find out and judge for himself.

POPS BACK INTO BUSINESS—This street vendor in Seoul, Korea, is back in business with his weird-looking contraption, which happens to be a popcorn popper.

Tricky Travelers Budget Suits Are Hard to Resist

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The budget suit, trimly tailored and priced under $20, is clothes bait to many women these days. It becomes even more tempting when it's made of worsted-and-sheen gabardine, or nylon-and-acetate cord that washes with spectacular success.

The suit that's a perfect travel companion (right) is washable, is in gray and white stripe nylon and acetate cord, is a Lampl design. This is a suit classic, butting from stand-up collar to the waist with pearl buttons.

Senate Interior Committee Defeats Bill To Return Tideland Ownership to Texas

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UP)—The Senate Interior Committee today defeated a bill to return ownership of Oil Rich Tidelands to California, Texas and Louisiana.

Chairman Joseph C. O'Mahoney, D. Wyo., announced. The committee in a closed session voted 7 to 6 against substituting the bill for an "interim" measure he is sponsoring.

O'Mahoney also disclosed that Sen. Russell B. Long, D. La., had brought in a series of amendments to the Interior bill, substituting state administration of Tidelands for federal administration until Congress votes a permanent settlement of the issue.

He said the long amendments would be considered along with some of his own at a meeting next Tuesday.

The long amendments, O'Mahoney said, would allow the states to collect and impound revenue from oil leases on the tidelands under conditions approved by the Secretary of the Treasury.

They also would allow the states to issue new leases, subject to approval of the Secretary of Interior, he said. His bill continues similar authority for the secretary of interior.

O'Mahoney's only comment on the long amendments was that "I am a man with a very open mind."

He said the vote of the state ownership bill showed Sen. Long, Snathers, Butler, Milkin, Cor

The Grim Debate

Senate Approves Bill to Ban Punch Boards in State of Texas

AUSTIN, May 2 (UP)—The Senate today gave final approval to a bill banning punch boards in Texas.

The action was taken on voice vote. But an earlier vote allowing the measure to be brought up for final approval carried 24-6. The bill now goes to the House.

A second anti-gambling measure, one banning slot machines in Texas, also was carried for Senate action.

Sen. Rogers Kelley of Edinburg peppered the punch board bill with proposed amendments. All of them failed.

The measure would allow confiscation of all punch boards, whether exhibited for use or simply stored. Possession would be a misdemeanor. Conviction would carry a fine ranging from $100 to $1,000, together with a jail sentence up to one year.

Kelley, assisted by Sen. Gus Strauss of Hallettsville, attempted to attach a ban on all playing cards to the punch board bill.

Dramatically exhibiting a deck of cards, Kelley had a page carry them one-by-one across the Senate floor to Strauss' desk.

The cards pictured a caricature of a wolf on the back. A full color photograph of a nude woman was on the front.

Communist Book In Texas School

HOUSTON, May 2 (UP)—A 94-page book with a so-called Communist slant titled "Land of the Soviets," has been uncovered in several Houston Junior High Schools and School Superintendent M. E. Moreland said today he had ordered it removed.

Miss Elenora Alexander, supervisor of library, said the book was purchased in 1948 and had been in the system since then.

But she said that in the past few days "we have had a number of complaints and Dr. Moreland asked me to check on the book. I did, and found that it was exactly what you'd call Democratic."

Miss Alexander said the book referred to one of Russia's five-year plans as being "democratic," and said she feared anyone reading the book might be misled.

"I have asked all the schools having the book to let me know about it so we can eliminate it," she said.

Chapter VIII

The Texan rode out of the border town in a blaze of fire, dropping Blue-coats everywhere. Once out of town they scattered and went back to their hundreds of homes.

Wiley and Lance hit it hell-to-leather for the river and galloped across. Once in Mexico, they sat down to rest and to talk over old times.

"Boy, was I glad to see you Wiley."

"Not any gladder than I was when you rode back to pull my cheatin' out of the fire in '63 when you got yore durn foolself all shot up," Wiley drawled.

"No place special, I don't guess. Remember, I got a war to fight."

"Now look sonny, yore luck can't always hold out."

"Might not too, look a here sonny, you got on yore hoss and ride like all thunder to some place away down in Old Mexic till this blows over."

"Kinda though about Wyoming once but there was Yanks there who fought us. Nevertheless, there is some mighty good looking grass land up there. Might get me a spread. But I don't wanta leave Texas."

"Well, there are places in West Texas where you aren't known. Nice land out there too though not much water in lots of places."

"Where are you going?"

"No telling. I'm getting married next week. Guess I'll just settle down someplace. Quiene Sabe."

"Think I will drift out to Calif or someplace for awhile. I'm just beating my head against a brick wall here. I got enough of my friends killed by leading them into battle."

"Lance, you are tops in my book, but you're worn out yore stay in Texas. You better get going. I'd advise staying in Mexico until I got near the Calif border. Don't ride through the U.S. Some Yanks might want that $5,000 reward money."

"Well thanks again, buddy," Lance drawled, "Guess I'll be off for the coast."

"Adios Lance,"

"Adios cowboy."

For three days Lance rode. He didn't like the horse he was riding but the Yanks had taken Pacos. Oh well, he would trade for something when he got out of Mexico. He had almost $200 in his pocket and had heard that you could really make the dough in Calif. He never got to California but out up into Texas three days later. He was close to the New Mexico line. He came in near the west end of the Big Bend Country. He was tired, hungry, unshaven, and billigerant. He rode back northeast and came into Alpine, some sixty miles from the border. He didn't see any Yankee uniforms.

He went into a bar and washed the trail dust from his throat. Then got a room at the hotel and slept for several dozen hours. The only clothes he had were the ones he was wearing. He had no holster for the pistol which he had taken from a dead (good) Yankee. He slept until the music from the dance hall woke him up. He pulled on his dusty boots and took the pistol from under his pillow. He stuck it in his belt and walked out of the room and into the dance hall downstairs. No one paid any attention to him.

He walked to the bar and ordered a drink. He felt a hand touch his sleeve and whirled around with his gun in his hand.

Remember

The following poem, "Not for Sale," by Will Ferrell is not new to the people of Ranger. But because of its beauty and because it gives a tender, word-picture of the kind of people who make up Ranger, it is my belief that it should appear from time to time in print in the Ranger Daily Times. It makes me glad to know these people and the sons and daughters of that Board. To me this poem is a banner lifted proudly above us, something to be looked up to; something to be lived up to. It gives me great pleasure to publish it again in this paper. Will Ferrell's, "NOT FOR SALE," Derrell F. Holmes, Jr.

There's a church-yard down in Texas, just an acre, more or less,

Where the south winds kiss the headstones in a lazy, soft caress.

Where the chinaberry shelters all that sleep beneath its shade,

'Neath the mounds grass-grown and hidden 'neath the fresh ones newly made.

Some are there who fought for Texas in the tragic long ago

When the swarthy Santa Anna brought his hordes from Mexico.

And there's some who risked the desert when the great red west was young

And whose deeds are still unwritten, seldom told and seldom sung.

Flowers bloom and die at Ranger in that sacred acre lot,

Jasmine and wild rose linger 'lest the sleepers be forgot.

Here and there a broken bottle holds a spray of withered bloom.

Bits of colored glass and china brighten up some sinner's tomb.

And, above it all, a belfry casts its shadow on the stones.

Remember those who risked the desert when the great red west was young

Remember those who risked the desert when the great red west was young

Remember those who risked the desert when the great red west was young

Remember those who risked the desert when the great red west was young

Remember those who risked the desert when the great red west was young

Remember those who risked the desert when the great red west was young

Remember those who risked the desert when the great red west was young

Remember those who risked the desert when the great red west was young

Remember those who risked the desert when the great red west was young

Remember those who risked the desert when the great red west was young long, lean shadows down Like a hand outstretched for silence to the clamor in the town.

When the western dusk has fallen, springs a ring of garish light,

And the fevered pulse of progress beating tireless through the night.

All around the quiet church-yard and the meetin' house beyond, Is a hedge of blackened derricks where the monster drills respond.

To the tug of groaning cables as the beams nod to and fro, Delving deeper, ever deeper, to the treasure far below.

Tanks attest the wealth of Midas, pipelines strain to hold the flood.

There's a prince's ransom wasted in the slough of amber mud. Yet the cry is, "Give us leases; Every acre means a well, Crowd the grave-yard over yonder. Force the board to lease or sell."

All of olddom knows the answer, when the chairman shook his head, Gazing past the man of millions, at the City of the Dead.

"There is room enough in Texas —here he waved his palsied hand—

There are countless acres open and there's oil in every sand. Why disturb the weary tenants in your narrow strip of sod?"

'Tis not ours, but theirs—the title vested by will of God. We, the Board, have talked it over, per and con without avail. We reject your hundred thousand. Merriam is not for sale."

Down the land and sand trails of Texas, when the great red West was young,

Men have fought the savage desert where these martyrs fell asleep.

Yet above the trampled prairies and the oil man's reckless tread Texas still may flaunt her banner.

All her heroes are not dead. And that Baptist Church at Ranger, old and dingy, half decay,

With its belfry shadows, falling on its plot of precious clay, Is a monument eternal, on that long, dim Texas trail.

Methodist Revival Is Showing Increased Interest Daily

The two weeks revival meeting at the First Methodist Church is off to a good start with excellent crowds and interest. The Tuesday evening attendance more than doubled that of the previous evening, and they expect the crowds to continue to grow as the meeting progresses and as the influence of the gospel preaching and singing reaches out to touch the entire life of the city.

The thirty-five voice choir, under the very able leadership of Earl Ward, did a splendid job of leading the congregation in the spirited song service. Miss Mildred Balch is at the organ while Mrs. Fred Baumgardner assists at the piano. Mr. Ward expresses his appreciation of the co-operation that he is getting from this fine choir.

The evangelist spoke to more than 200 people in this second night service of the revival on the subject: "Prepare to meet thy God." He drew the parallel between our day and that of ancient Israel, and pointed out the danger of judgment from God upon America unless she repents of her sins and ceases to do God's will. He used Amos 4:12 for his text.

This evening's service has been set aside as "Steward's Night," and a 100 per cent attendance of the Board of Stewards is expected.

The cottage prayer services for Thursday morning will meet at 9:30 in the following homes: Mrs. R. L. Willis, 1201 Blackwell; Mrs. S. N. McAnelly, 901 Spring Road; Mrs. A. W. Brazda, 592 Pine.

The people are invited to attend the cottage prayer service that is nearest their home.

Board of Stewards To Meet Tonight

The Board of Stewards of the Methodist Church will meet at 7 o'clock this evening for the purpose of election of officers and to set up the church budget for next year.

It is imperative that we get started in our meeting at the appointed hour, since we must be finished with the business items in time to get to the 7:45 revival service. We are asking for a 100 per cent attendance since the Stewards will sit together in a body in recognition of our special "Stewards Night" service, states Arthur Deffebach, chairman.

Author's Poems Published

Mrs. Brice Elizabeth Walker received yesterday the first quarterly of the "American Post Magazine" and found in this issue a copy of her poem "Your Book".

Another thrill came to Mrs. Walker when she found in the Quarterly "Peggy's Club Magazine," of International publication, two other poems of hers, "Your Letters" and "Living These."

Inflation Will Be Inevitable

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UP)—President Truman's "path to peace" defense budget of $62,104,254,390 was expected to be approved without any substantial cuts although there were some misgivings in Congress today as to its effect on the economy.

President Truman's proposed military budget actually calls for spending about $40,500,000,000 in the fiscal year starting July 1. The remaining $21,600,000,000 would not be spent until later years.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., took issue with the president's estimate that the military budget would fit in with his proposed overall fiscal 1952 budget of $71,000,000,000.

Taft thought the president was underestimating how much the nation would have to spend to gird its defenses and maintain other functions of the government.

Taft estimated that the cost of supporting Mr. Truman's goal of a 3,500,000 man military establishment—plus other government functions—would add up to an $85,000,000,000 federal budget.

"If we balanced such a budget, inflation would be inevitable," Taft said.

Electric Iron May Be Weapon

AMARILLO, May 2 (UP)—The death weapon in the sunbath slaying of Mrs. Mabel Hulien may have been an electric iron, investigators disclosed today.

Officers said one of two instruments sent to Austin for laboratory examination is an iron taken from the bungalow where Mrs. Hulien's nude and beaten body was found under a sunlamp last week.

Texas Ranger Frank Probst and sheriff's deputies who searched the apartment of R. J. Hulien, 43, estranged husband of the slain woman, now charged with her murder, said "another instrument" also is being examined.

The 40-year-old woman's head was crushed by a killer who apparently surprised her as she napped under a sunlamp in her bedroom. Hulien was charged after laboratory tests proved stains on his shoes and trousers to be human blood, and lie detector report was found inconclusive.
