REJECTED TAX BILL

It is difficult to reconcile the House rejection of the compromise tax bill with the concept of serving the best interests of the state and its people. It looks as if the House was pressurized or mesmerized by a group whose zeal for special aims outweighed its concern for the general good.

That group seeks to put on a big rural road building program, all out of proportion to the development of state highways, and to saddle the burden of the expense largely upon one industry.

Gov. Shivers charged Tuesday, and he doubtless had ample grounds for the assertion, that county judges and commissioners are behind this movement, seeking to gain control of rural road building and the funds therefore, so that, as the governor expressed it, we would have 254 different road building programs. Surely this movement does not represent the wishes of the people of Texas, or any substantial fraction thereof. We believe the governor was eminently correct when he said:

I don't think the people of Texas want the county commissioners to build their roads in preference to the Highway Department.

Nor do we believe the people sanction the attempt to sock that one industry — natural gas—for the cost of the rural road scheme, with a 200 per cent tax increase. For one thing, it is inequitable, and the vast majority of the American people believe in fair play. For another, the tax would be passed on to the consumers, added to their gas bill.

Those who want to mulct natural gas for the cost of this abnormal rural road activity because there is no considerable natural gas business in their rural districts take a short-sighted view. The industrial centers of the state contribute a large share of the cost of schools, highways and other state services throughout the state. Indeed, but for the gas industry, the oil, sulphur and other major industries, the state would not be enjoying the general prosperity it does, and the rural sections would be impoverished.

The compromise tax bill, rejected by the House, fell short of the equality and uniformity prescribed by the Constitution. It imposed a 10 per cent tax on natural gas—a higher rate than any other industry pays—and it overlocked some untaxed industries. But it was about as equitable a bill as could be hoped for. By turning it down the House has marred an otherwise fairly good legislative record for the session. It should either reconsider its action or adopt a substantially similar measure.

R. D. Townsend Put In Jail

R. D. Townsend, well-known Cisco bootlegger, had a busy time and handled a lot of liquor Sunday before officers decided that it was best for him to spend the night in the Eastland County Jail in lieu of bond.

Sheriff Frank Tucker said that Townsend, who operates a service station and bootlegging establishment, for Doyle Gilmore in Cisco was arrested Sunday by Constable H. G. Wooten of the sheriff's department and Cisco City Police officers on three charges concerning the illegal handling of whisky and other liquors.

Tucker said that officers seized 17 half pints of gin, 32 half pints of whisky, and seven pints of whisky in the first raid. Townsend made bond and was released by the officers. Later that evening, Tucker returned to the station on another raid and seized 2 pints of whisky and four half pints. Townsend was taken to jail and lodged there for the night when he failed to make bond.

The sheriff stated that his department is going all out to give the people of this county honest and vigilant law enforcement. He said that he is not going to tolerate any illegal actions within his county. He warned all things to get out of the county or get arrested. The sheriff and his department are working day and night to rid the county of crime. The sheriff said that his job would be made easier with the help of the proposed police radios.

Wooten Leads Gambling Raid

Eastland county officers said today that six men had been arrested and two were wanted, following a gambling raid on a Cisco disposal plant.

Constable Wooten said that Travis Thomin, Pete Segales, H. D. Hollis, Roy Townsend, Andrew Harrison and William Morrow played gully and paid fines for gambling. Wooten said that two men ran and would be arrested later.

Fred Anderson and J. M. Tension were released after investigation.

Seamen Are Honored

BOSTON, May 29 (UP)—An officer and four enlisted sailors were honored today for their Korean service aboard the destroyer escort USS Norris, now undergoing repairs at Boston Naval Shipyard.

Fire Destroys Baptist Church

HOUSTON, May 29 (UP)—A fire destroyed the Bellaire Baptist Church last night. The fire was televised for 10 minutes by KPRC-TV.

Two firemen were burned slightly while fighting the blaze. The Rev. H. O. Wynne, pastor of the church, at the risk of his life saved church records by running into the flaming building and carrying them out.

He estimated the loss at some $50,000. The fire started from an undetermined cause.

Four Eastland Citizens Injured In Merkel Crash

Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Kernell and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. James, all of Eastland, are in a Merkel hospital under treatment for injuries received in an automobile accident Sunday night.

Apparently, the driver of the car lost control of the car in the group was riding and it struck the concrete wall of a railroad underpass six miles west of Merkel, wrecking the machine and jamming the passengers in the car against the side of the underpass, according to reports.

Mr. and Mrs. Kernell are reported to be suffering from fractured ribs and chest injuries. Injuries to Mr. and Mrs. James are reported to be not serious.

Bet That Was A Cool Two Hours

HOUSTON, May 29 (UP)—Mrs. Anna Davidson, a cook at the Jefferson Davis Hospital, spent the coldest two hours of her life last night, she said today.

Mrs. Davidson was locked inside a big refrigerator when the door slammed behind her after she had entered it.

A helper finally heard her pounding on the door and opened it. She was not hurt, but "I was pretty cold."

McDonald was elected in 1940, taking office Jan. 1, 1941. He was re-elected without opposition in 1946, and currently is in the fifth year of his second six-year term.

DR. BOSWELL WRITTEN UP

Dr. Grover C. Boswell, president of the Ranger Junior College has broken into the headlines again. This time it was the Texas Junior College Bulletin that wrote up the famous educator in their current issue.

The bulletin which carries the most important news of Junior colleges all over the state, carried a feature article on Boswell and his career in Texas education.

According to the bulletin Boswell has taught junior college education in Texas for almost two decades. He was administrative head of Weatherford Junior College prior to taking over the presidency at Ranger. Previous to his entry into college administration, Dr. Boswell served as superintendent of schools at Petrolia and McLean. He holds BA, MA, and LLD degrees.

Until this year, Boswell's duties included the superintendency of the Ranger School system. Last September he separated college and high school administration and became simply president of RJC.

Ranger is proud of Dr. Boswell and of the school he represents. He is helping to put Ranger on the map.

Vandenberg To Challenge Mac

WASHINGTON, May 29 (UP)—U. S. military chiefs appeared today to be challenging Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Korean war proposals by disputing his claim that little extra power would be needed to carry them out.

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg was scheduled to return before the Senate Armed Services-Foreign Relations Committee investigating MacArthur's dismissal (at 10 a. m. EDT) for further questioning. He testified yesterday he would want a U. S. strategic air force about double the present size before undertaking MacArthur's proposal to bomb Red Chinese bases outside Korea.

Vandenberg also said the U. S. Air Force, by using its "full power," could "lay waste" to the war industries and cities of China or Russia, but not both, in case of a major war with Russia comes. Even so, he said, the blasting of China might not be conclusive.

Describing the Air Force now as "a shoe string Air Force," Vandenberg said he wanted to keep it intact for use in a major war. He referred to the present Air Force goal of 95 groups as just "a stepping stone" to a bigger force to be sought later.

Some Republican committee members indicated they wanted testimony about what use of the air power now in the Far East would do to China if the Air Force were allowed to bomb outside Korea.

Voice Says Surrender

A KOREAN AIR BASE, May 29 (UP)—"The Voice," a C-47 equipped with loudspeakers, talked more than 1,800 Communist troops into surrendering to 8th Army forces near Chunchon.

Overnight temperatures ranged from 76 at Palacios, Galveston and El Paso to 61 at Junction.

Justice McDonald Gives Resignation

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 29 (UP)—Chief Justice Atwood McDonald of the Second Court of Civil Appeals today announced his resignation to enter private practice of law.

Judge McDonald said he gave Gov. Allan Shivers his letter of resignation last night when the chief executive was in Fort Worth to speak at commencement exercises at Texas Christian University.

McDonald, who has served 11 years in the court, said he wanted to leave May 31, but would serve a few days beyond that if necessary to permit the Governor to name a successor.

McDonald was elected in 1940, taking office Jan. 1, 1941. He was re-elected without opposition in 1946, and currently is in the fifth year of his second six-year term.

Final Action Is Predicted

WASHINGTON, May 29 (UP)—Sponsors of a compromise draft and universal military training bill predicted today quick final action by Congress to send it to the White House.

The measure would lower the bottom draft age from 19 to 18½ (with men 19 through 25 to go first), lengthen draft service from 21 to 24 months, and set up the framework of a post-emergency UMT program.

Actually Congress would have to enact more legislation before UMT could go into effect. However, Congressional military leaders predicted Congress would do this within six months. Anyway, they said, the watered-down UMT plan was the best that could be put across at this time.

The Army meantime cut its draft call for July to only 15,000 men, the lowest monthly quota since Korea. It asked for only 22,000 in August, January, February and March calls were for 50,000 men each.

The reduced calls were credited by the Pentagon to lighter casualties than expected and to stepped-up volunteering.

The compromise draft and UMT measure was approved late yesterday by a House-Senate conference committee which had wrangled on and off for a month to iron out differences between separate versions passed by House and Senate.

Mine Explosion Rocks Easington

EASINGTON, England, May 29 (UP)—A shattering explosion 900 feet underground collapsed a branch tunnel in the Great Easington coal mine early today, and at least 79 men were trapped by falling debris and choking black gas.

The explosion rocked the countryside at 4 a. m. (10 p. m. EDT) last night. Forty-three miners who were in another section of the mine rushed to the rescue and eight hours later reached six bodies.

There was only one known survivor among the 79, who included three mine officials and three deputy supervisors. The blast occurred during a shift change.

More than 1,000 relatives and friends of the entombed men prayed for hours for the safety of the miners. They watched in silence when the first blanket-draped bodies were brought to the surface and carried to a temporary morgue. Some wept when rescue workers staggered to the surface, choking from the dead gas.

Official bulletins were issued every three hours at the mine entrance on the progress of the rescue work.

No Fifth Tire

WASHINGTON, May 29 (UP)—The ban on the "fifth tire" on new passenger automobiles will continue at least until fall.

The National Production Authority (NPA) said that other curbs on civilian use of rubber also would continue until that time it said government stockpiling of natural rubber has not yet reached its goals.

Senate-House Conferees Agree To Major Provisions Of Bill

WASHINGTON, May 29 (UP)—Major provisions of the draft bill agreed to by Senate-House conferees:

Registration—all males at age 18.

Induction—Age 18½ through 25. Local boards to call first available men 19 through 25.

Service—24 months, with an additional six years in the reserves.

Married men—Dependency of a wife alone no longer are grounds for deferment; otherwise the president could continue to make rules for dependency deferments.

4-F's—Mental standards for induction would be cut from passing score of 70 to 65; physical standards must be set at a level no higher than those prevailing for the same age groups in January, 1945. (This means induction of about 150,000 men now classed 4-F who would have been classed later under present standards.)

Limit—Total military strength could not exceed 5,000,000 men (present goal is around 3,500,000-draft law, new due to expire July 9, would be extended to July 1, 1956).

Conscientious objectors—Could be required to take jobs supporting the national defense, under penalty of fines and jail terms.

Women—Present two per cent limit on women in uniform would be suspended until July 1, 1954.

Training—No drafts, or volunteer, could be assigned to land duty outside the U. S. without 4 months training. This safeguard also would apply to reservists who had not previously had four months active duty.

College deferment—Local board would have the last say, although National Deferment tests (like one

SIX OF 13 RETURNS ARE RETAINED; OTHERS STAND

ROME, Italy, May 29 (UP)—Italian voters have thrown out Communist or left-wing Socialist governments in six provincial capitals, the interior ministry announced today, and early returns indicated similar results in the big cities of Genoa and Venice.

The Ministry reported that candidates of the Christian Democrats and other Anti-Communist parties won 13 of the 27 capitals involved in the two-day election that ended yesterday.

Six of the 13 for which complete official returns were available were wrested from the Communists or left-wing Socialists while Anti-Communists retained the other seven from previous elections.

The Anti-Communists also threatened to gain control in Bologna, the largest city in northern Italy's "Red" belt. The issue there was in doubt as the Communist bloc clung to a tiny lead over Anti-Communist candidates, with 95 per cent of the returns in.

Candidates of Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Pro-Western Christian Democratic Party wrested control from the Reds in Venice and Genoa.

They also won in Milan, now governed by a right-wing Socialist but with a split left-right administration which made effective work impossible.

Memorial Day To Be Cool

Most of the nation looks forward to a cool Memorial Day today and the National Safety Council predicted auto accidents might take more than 110 lives.

The weather bureau said only the East Coast and the Pacific northwest would be sure of a fair, warm holiday.

In most of the rest of the country it was going to be cool, with thundershowers in New England, the Middle West and Texas.

On the Pacific Coast the prediction was for partly cloudy weather and cooler temperatures a way from the ocean.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council said "immediate traffic deaths over this Memorial Day holiday may reach 110 or more."

"We are hoping that the toll may be held to 85 traffic fatalities," he said. "That would be the lowest toll for any holiday since World War II."

Dearborn said the 82 maximum could be achieved if motorists took advance of the one-day holiday by "using extra care, common sense and courtesy."

Public Invited To Recital Here

Living Presents A Challenge In The Atomic Age

FORT WORTH, May 29 (UP)—Living in the Atomic Age presents a "desirable and a challenging combination of circumstances," Gov. Allan Shivers told graduating students at Texas Christian University last night.

The desirable circumstances described as "no limit now known to mortal man that you may not exceed in your lifetime."

But he cautioned the 458 students receiving degrees that they also "may achieve a highly undesirable record—that of being blown higher and farther than any man

Your home telephone is good insurance... in emergencies, one call to the doctor, the police, or fire department, is worth far more than the cost of many months' telephone service.

Your telephone is a friendly companion... ready to let you chat with friends and neighbors... helps you plan your parties... do your club work... and often makes shopping easier.

To offset losses of more than $1,000 a month which the telephone company is suffering in Ranger, we are asking for new telephone rates. These new rates will help pay for today's much higher costs of handling your calls... and help put the telephone system in Ranger on a better financial basis so we can continue to provide good telephone service.

At the proposed new rates, a private-line home telephone for the whole family would cost only 14 cents a day.

Chapter 9

It was after 11 o'clock when Cassidy left his apartment and hailed a cab for the trip down town. He ordered the cabbie to drive him to the First National Bank where he could get a check cashed. The cabbie had to wait with the meter running for his fare while the suspended detective was getting the check cashed.

With the money in his pocket Cassidy ordered the driver to take him to a street which was in one of the worst sections of the local Skid Row. He paid him and got out. This was a part of town in which he hadn't worked since he was a uniformed patrolman his freshman year at college.

He walked into a cafe which had several years ago been a pretty thuggy place. According to all official police reports, it hadn't changed unless it was to get worse. He sat down and ordered a cup of coffee.

The waitress was an unusually pretty girl with a shapely body. She couldn't be over 18 or 19 although her face showed signs of having been around quite a bit. She looked at Cassidy while pretending to wipe off the already clean counter.

She looked at him while he drank his coffee. He elected to play her for what information she may have on hand. But, realized, it would have to be done just so. She was the type who could probably spot a line or smell a cop a mile off.

He wasn't a Don Juan but he wasn't conventional enough to start off with a, "Nice day outside," or "Boy I'm tired," or

"What's a pretty girl like you doing here? You should be in show business." No sir Jim Cassidy was a good cop. He knew how to get information.

"They make good coffee here," he remarked as though he was talking to himself. He didn't look at her but stared into his coffee cup. The girl answered his remark.

"I'm very glad that you like our coffee, sir." Her tone was a come on. Apparently she liked his looks, or— Naw, she couldn't possibly know that. Cassidy pushed his hat to the back of his head and smile his warmest smile.

"Of course I like this coffee. Did you make it?"

"Yes, I did," she admitted with a slow smile.

"I'll have to come here more often." The coffee tasted so bad he could hardly drink through his bluff.

"You are always welcome" Cassidy's eyes cut around the room. He recognized no big timer or any petty thugs to whom he had run in. He saw one man that he knew was a petty gambler but the thug had never seen Cassidy to know who he was. Cassidy knew him from his pictures and the police line up roll.

"I don't guess that I will be able to come here for a long time." Cassidy remarked in a sad tone.

"Aw," the girl really sounded disappointed.

"Nope," Cassidy went on, "I'm just a couple of jumps ahead of Johnny Law."

"Yet," the girl sounded disbelieving, "you will tell me about it?"

"Shore," he growled, "you aren't the type to turn me in."

"How do you know what type I am," she swayed her hips.

"You are the type that knows how to keep her mouth shut."

"That's right," she boasted, "if I was to tell every thing that I know, I could get a dozen guys in the jug if I told what I knew!"

Cassidy made a mental note that she would do a lot of talking under the dix of a few drinks. Of course he was playing a million to one shot that she knew anything. But that is how good police work is often done, playing your million to one shots. He elected to play it.

"Look," he continued, "I came down here because I knew that you people can arrange for me to hide out."

"Look copper," she threw her head back with a toss, "You gave your pitch away. You ain't so smooth. What do you think you are? I ain't done nothing! You can't take me in and slap me around. I know my rights." She was yelling in a loud voice now.

"Okay sister," I knew you didn't know anything at all. Just wanted to see. But look, just for the record, how did you know I was a cop?"

"I won't tell you nothing!"

"Okay baby, adios."

Cassidy didn't have a starting point. He was still mused-up. This was the most damnable case he had ever seen. No real leads and the partial leads which he had picked up had no place to go. Suddenly he got an idea. He knew a boy with whom he had served in the Navy. The guy was an Italian kid from up north. The boy was now in the FBI. He decided to ask the help of the FBI in getting this mess solved and asking for Johnny Cascio to be assigned to the case.

Two weeks later, the police had almost no leads. Nothing else had been worked out by the inspector. All Cassidy knew was that the Italian Black Hand organization was asserted to have done the killing and was supposed to be moving into Center City from points North and East. A new series of killings had broken out to which there were no clues. Duke was eliminated as a suspect in the killings when his body was found in the river along with those of his top men. Cassidy was talking to the inspector.

"Well buddy, I guess this one has us stumped."

"Ever hear anything from the FBI?" asked the inspector.

"I guess those things take time," Cassidy reminded him.

Meanwhile in a back room of a thuggy cafe a prospected member of a gang was getting a rough going over. The three men whom he had contacted were looking over his introduction from a former member of their organization who had been killed in a gun battle.

The leader was talking to him. "So Mike De Salle told you a week ago to come here and gave you the note?"

"That's right," the tall, dark youngster of 28 told him.

"Strange," the leader told him, "I never knew him to work that way. We usually hand pick our members."

"I did him a favor when we were in the pen."

"Where?"

"Huntsville, I was only there a week. I escaped. It's on that record you have in your hand. Where did you get that record?"

"Look I ask the questions here. But for your information, we have some very nice friends in the police department's all over this country. Now lets see, you were first arrested at 14 for a break-in up at Chicago which says here is yore home town."

"Why you know all about me," the man who was trying to get in the gang said.

First Jet Ace Returns Home

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29 (UP)—Capt. James Jabara, history's first jet ace, returned to the United States today, more eager to embrace his honey-haired wife than to talk about his feats in Korea.

Jabara arrived at Travis Air Force Base near San Francisco shortly after midnight after a flight from Tokyo. As he stepped down the runway, his wife, Nina, rushed to him and threw her arms around him.

The 27-year-old airman tore off his cap, kissed her soundly and placed a violet-colored lei around her neck, seemingly in one motion.

With Jabara grinning, Mrs. Jabara tried to repair the damage to her lipstick.

"They told me it was supposed to stay on," she said, "but maybe they don't mean for your husband."

Mrs. Jabara flew here from McKinney, Tex., leaving their two children, Carol Ann, 7 months, and James, 2 years, at home.

Jabara knocked down six enemy jets over Korea. An airman becomes an ace when he shoots down five planes. Jabara already held an ace's ranking for propeller-type ships, having shot down nine German planes during World War II.

The record said that he was 28 years old, had served in several prisons. Was expert with a pistol and good with a knife. He—the leader stopped. This was pretty smooth. All this fake record fixed up and put in a police station. This guy was a Fed. The tip off came when it said that he served in the New York State Penn in 1944. The leader was there and would have known this guy. He gave the sign and two burley men went for the slender FBI man. His body was later to be found in the river.

The next day when Cassidy found the body and saw what had happened to his friend, he elected to call in the Texas Rangers.

Oklahoma Won't Need Any Help

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 29 (UP) — Combines started rolling in wheat fields today, with the first load already delivered, but the State Employment Service said there won't be enough of the golden grain to require any out-of-state help.

The service said that for the first time in years, no large-scale call will be issued for combines, trucks and harvest hands from other states because so much of the crop has been abandoned.

Unofficial honors for delivering the state's first load went to Vernon Friels, who harvested 53 bushels from three acres of his Cotton County farm and brought it to a Walters elevator.

Cotton County Agent Jasper Hart said the wheat tested 15 per cent moisture content and weighed 53 pounds per bushel. He said, however, that Friels was forced to stop combining because the ground was too wet.

NO ANSWER TO DEMAND ANNOUNCED

GLENBROOK, Nev., May 29 (UP) — Glamorous Rita Hayworth refused to say today whether she has reached an agreement with Prince Aly Khan on her demand for a $3,000,000 divorce settlement.

"That's what you have attorneys for," Mrs. Khan said as she basked in the sun at the Lake Tahoe resort where she is fulfilling the six weeks required by Nevada law for a divorce.

She is approaching a midway point of her stay. Her two daughters, Rebecca, 6, and Yasmine, 16 months, are with her.

"Please don't ask me any questions," she said. "I can't answer them."

Mrs. Khan has demanded $3,000,000 from the prince for the support of Yasmine, their daughter. In return, she has pledged herself to rear the child in the Moslem faith.

Her New York attorney, Bartley Crum, said 10 days ago that Mrs. Khan was still awaiting a reply from Aly or his attorneys.

William Woodburn, her Reno attorney, said he was "quite certain nothing has been heard yet from Aly."

Meanwhile, Paris sources reported Aly had disappeared from his usual haunts in that city and no one else could say for sure where he was.

There were rumors saying he had headed for the United States and had even reached New York. Rita said this was all news to her.

"I haven't the faintest idea where he is," she said. "But if he comes here I'd be very glad to talk to him."

Honorary Degrees Are Conferred

GEORGETOWN, May 29 (UP) — Five honorary degrees were conferred last night at commencement exercises for one of the largest graduating classes in the 111 year history of Southwestern University.

Those receiving the degrees included Arthur Gayle Waldrop, director of the School of Journalism at the University of Colorado; H. William Nordin, choral director and professor of music at Wheaton College Conservatory of Music; Rev. J. Chess Lovern, pastor of Laurel Heights Methodist Church, San Antonio; and Rev. Stanley Carter, superintendent of the Methodist Church's Houston East District.

Dr. W. C. Finch, president of Southwestern, delivered the commencement address.

He told the class that "it isn't national leaders we need so much as good citizens in every community."

He said the graduating members were living in a time of internal decay and external apathy.
