Warn Against Mex Remedy

WASHINGTON, July 5 (UP)—The Food and Drug Administration warned the nation's 1,000,000 diabetics today that use of a "diabetes remedy" produced by a Mexican company could prove fatal.

The agency said about 20 packages of the preparation have been intercepted en route to diabetics in various parts of the United States.

Authorities said the preparation was "worthless and dangerous" if used as a substitute for insulin and that diabetics would risk their lives by taking it.

The remedy, called "Cacalia Composita, Mexican-Indian Root," is offered by the Mexican Indian Root Co., Mexico City. The firm's circulars give the name of

"Police Action"

WASHINGTON, July 5 (UP)—The Defense Department today reported a new total of 78,116 American battle casualties in Korea. This was an increase of 1,361 in week. The weekly total, however, was less than half of the more than 3,000 in each of the previous two weeks. The total represented casualties whose next of kin had been notified through last Friday. The actual number of U.S. battle casualties is higher because one to three weeks are required to notify next of kin. Today's total included 13,000 dead, 52,975 wounded, 10,649 missing, 159 captured by the Reds and 1,327 who once were missing but have since been found. The cardinal is one of the comparatively few bird species whose females can sing. The state bird of Nebraska is the western meadowlark.

WTCC Trying To Create Dollars

ABILENE, Tex., July 5—What West Texas chamber of commerce are doing or can do to create more dollars for their towns and the cotton growers of their trade territories by assisting with a sound cotton insect control program was outlined by George Logan, manager of the Agriculture and Livestock Department of the WTCC, at a project and activity report chamber managers of the area.

In cooperation with the Texas Cotton Seed Crushers Association, the Statewide Cotton Committee, George R. Gilbert, Gil Gilbert and Ella Jane Gilbert of Goldthwaite; Mr. and Mrs. Gaston T. Gooch, Corsicana; Joe Richardson, Spur; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Copeland, Waxahatchee, and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wyche, Gustine.

Logan stressed the insect control phase of the 7-step cotton program, pointing out that cotton farmers and agricultural agency representatives of each community have the know-how; that local chamber can help by arranging meetings, handling publicity and necessary correspondence. In this connection, special cotton insect control editions for local newspaper have been used successfully.

Of prime importance to cotton growers, it was pointed out, were insect recognition instruction, latest information on new insecticides, application methods including preventive control, as well as late application and credit needs of the grower who carries on a complete insect control program.

The minnow is the largest family of North American fresh water fishes.

Fish and rice are the chief staples in the diet of the peoples of southeast Asia.

Negro Killed In Car Wreck

ROSENBERG, July 5 (UP)—Raymond Green, 24-year-old Negro from Taft, Tex., died a fiery death today when the heavy truck he was driving crashed into the rear of one driven by his brother, James A. Green, and burst into flames.

The Texas Highway Patrol said the accident happened three miles southwest of Rosenberg when an automobile pulled in front of the trailer-truck driven by James Green forcing him to stop quickly. The truck driven by Raymond crashed into it.

The victim was pinned in the truck and was burned to death when the gasoline tank exploded, setting fire to the load of maize on the truck.

The Gold Mannequin

By Myles Connolly
COPYRIGHT 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

XXVIII

TIM REESE relaxed slightly, found words. "Hece." He gave the tiny mannequin to Jean. "I've had all I want of gold mannequins for a while."

"Won't you believe I love you?" She was emotional, pleading now. "No, Jean." His words had a cool, quiet finality to them. "Even if it were true, I couldn't believe it. I could never believe you again."

He passed by her, moving clumsily to the door. He stumbled once but did not fall. He went out, closing the door quietly after him.

Jean, stunned, watched him go. It was a long moment before she recovered. Then, in panic, she raced for the door.

"Tim! Don't go! Please don't go!" She cried out into the hall, pleading wildly. "Believe me, Tim! Please don't go!"

The only sound in answer was the white of the elevator on its way to the ground floor.

Jean whirled back into the room, ran for the rear of the apartment.

"Martha!" she screamed as she ran. "Martha! My shoes! Stockings! A dress! Hurry, Martha! Hurry!"

TIM REESE, rushing away from the shop, as if in some wild hope of leaving his heartbreak behind him, moved with painful and clumsy speed along the slippery sidewalks. Twice he slipped and only the quick hands of passers-by saved him from falling. Once he stumbled and fell to one knee. It was only with torturing effort, holding to the sill of a store window, that he was able to get back on his feet. People passing him on the curb, cold day thought him drunk or demented, or both.

His hurt now blinded him and his mind was blurred with madness. He wanted to move faster, faster. He weaved, tottered, slipped. Cars barely missed him and horns cursed him as he stumbled across traffic-crazy streets.

He was headed for his hotel, but only vaguely. He went south, then west, then south, then west. His one clear purpose was to get away as quickly and completely as possible from Jean and the past.

He came to Fifth Avenue. The lights flashed red against him as he reached the curb. Traffic leaped forward. But Tim did not stop. He lunged forward through the moving cars. One car avoided him, then a second car. A third, a cab, turned sharply as it bore down on him. Tim stumbled.

A horn barked wildly, brakes screeched. The cab skidded. Its front wheels swerved, avoiding Tim as he lurched about trying to regain his balance. But the body of the swerving cab sideswiped him, threw him to the pavement.

The cab driver slipped out of his cab, made his way through the crowd that had immediately ringed Tim on the pavement.

"Drunk as a boot owl," the cab driver muttered.

Tim, struggling painfully, got to his knees. "I'm all right," he said. "Just give me a minute."

A traffic officer on duty at the intersection, pushed his way through the crowd. He came as Tim, holding to the cab, had grimly worked himself halfway to his feet.

"Take it easy, bud," the officer said. "Better lay where you are."

"I'm all right," Tim said.

Then, his knees crumpled, and he pitched forward to the street and lay there.

A few minutes after the ambulance had taken Tim off to the hospital, and the crowd had hardly dispersed, a cab came to a stop at the same crossing. In the cab was Jean, hurrying to Tim's hotel. Every hair in her silvered head was wild still in place but her lovely young face, usually relaxed and luminous, was strained and dark with impatience and anxiety. She leaned forward in her seat unable to understand why the cab had stopped. "What's the matter?" she asked the driver.

"Traffic light, ma'am," he replied.

"Hurry, won't you?" she pleaded with the driver. "I have to get to the hotel immediately. It's terribly important! Please!"

CHRISTMAS had come to Cedarbrook, and gone. At the hospital, Midge stood on a tall stepladder, taking down the ribbon-bowed green fir sprays from over the fireplace in the recreation room.

Tim, in his wheel chair, was back a distance, watching her. The two were alone in the room.

"Be sure to keep the red ribbon," he called to her. "We're going to need it next year."

"Thought you were going to be rich next year," Midge called down to him over her shoulder.

"Yup. But come here a minute." He held up a booklet. "Just take a look at this."

He wheeled the chair over to the foot of the stepladder. She climbed down, joined him. The booklet was from a real estate agent, and in it was a picture of an avocado ranch. The white, red-tiled ranch house stood on a little rise commanding a slope dark green with an avocado grove.

"For sale," Tim grinned. "Back in my old stamping ground, California."

Midge whistled. "I guess I'd better save more than ribbons."

He put his arm around her. "Not worry, hon. Cochet is going to pay me plenty. And so far as running the ranch is concerned, I'm one of the best ranch hands in the business." He saw her glance down at the wheel chair, smile. "You look at me," he reproved her, "not at the wheel chair."

"Mad man." She ran her fingers affectionately through his hair.

"All right. You wait and see." He looked around to make sure they were alone in the room, then, quickly he kissed her. "Remember," he said with his grin, "I still wiggle my toes."

Cash Market Available For Dry Peas In Eastland County

Farmers who may wish to plant late blackeye or other varieties of peas are assured a ready cash market for their dry peas at Gosman, Boyd Hilley of that city informed the County Agent's office in Eastland this week.

Hilley, manager of a feed store in Gosman, bought over 30 tons of dry peas for an East Texas concern last year to establish a cash market for dry peas in the county for the first time.

A larger average of early peas has been planted in the area and a number of fields of the peas have reached the bloom stage. J. M. Cooper, county agent, said. According to reports these fields look good at the present time. Yields last year ranged from 400 to 800 pounds per acre, and yields this year are expected to be better.

Due to rains in late May and early June it was thought that other farmers may have changed their crop plans and would have some acreage they would like to plant in peas, especially if they knew there was available a ready cash market for them.

There is no contract to sign for those who wish to plant and sell their dry peas. Growers may secure seed from anyone they wish. According to Hilley, the highest prices are paid for peas of the edible varieties such as blackeye purplebell and cream. Stock pea varieties such as New Era, Clay Whipperwill, Iron Brabham, Chinese Red and others bring somewhat lower prices.

The peas are a soil building crop, it is pointed out, they are well adapted to this area, lend themselves to combine, harrow, and are suitable for human food or livestock feed. It is anticipated that they will become a permanent cash crop in the county since a market for dry peas has been established.

Seed pea prices are higher than normal and it is expected that the

Missouri River On A Rampage Today As Families Are Chased From Homes In Flooded Area

ST. CHARLES, MO., July 5 (UP)—The rampaging Missouri River broke through a railroad embankment north of here today, forcing 80 farm families out of their homes as it swept across 20,000 acres of rich bottomlands.

Helmuth Dalmeyer, Red Cross Disaster Worker, said the swollen "big muddy" cut a 40 foot breach in the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad fill about 5 a.m. CST.

The break dashed hopes of Coast Guard, Engineer Corps and Civilian Flood Workers, who had worked a week to strengthen the embankment, to save the area from a complete flooding. They turned their efforts after the break to getting out the few families which had remained behind in hopes the improvised levee would hold.

One optimistic farmer, George Ander had remained in his home with his family although they lived only a stone's throw from the spot where the embankment finally gave way. They were removed by Coast Guard Boat after the levee broke.

Dalmeyer said others in the area had more time to evacuate. It would take all day for the water to sweep over the bottomlands between here and the Mississippi River, he said.

He said it was hoped that several large lakes in the area would prevent the floods from reaching the villages of West Alton and Orchard Farms. However, the swirling waters were expected to isolate the community of Black Walnut.

The waters also would reach the northern city limits of St. Charles, Dalmeyer said, but the main section of the city, which is located on a high hill four miles south of the levee break, would not be endangered.

Mexico Might Modify Stand

MEXICO CITY, July 5 (UP)—Sources close to the government indicated today that Mexico may be willing to modify its stand against further importation of Mexican farm workers into the U.S.

Until now, the government has said that the new labor pact provided in Congress is unsatisfactory and that Mexico will not allow the flow of "braceros" across the border after the 15th of this month.

But official sources hinted that if the U.S. Government would do the contracting and assume responsibility for distributing braceros among the farms, well as for their well being, Mexican government may be willing to enter negotiations for new labor treaty.

POAGE WARNS OF A TRAP

BELTON, July 5 (UP)—The Communist offer to talk peace in Korea was described as "a trap" by Rep. W. R. Poage, D. Tex., in an address yesterday at the annual July 4 celebration here.

"I believe the Communists are using this peace move to trap the United States," Poage told a record crowd attending the celebration. "We had better profit by our experiences in the past and make sure any peace is a lasting peace."

The Waco Congressman said if a settlement of the Korean War cannot be made, "when we are sure we are not being trapped," then the U.S. should "meet the enemy who we are the strongest—in the air and on the sea."

He advocated "blasting basis with air power and using a Naval blockade along their coastlines."

"I am not in favor of any invasion of the Chinese mainland," he added, "because the Communists have a larger army—and we would lose too many American lives."

In a speech keynoting the celebration, Texas Attorney General Price Daniel said the signing of the Declaration of Independence was "the greatest event next to Christianity the world has known."

He said "we get our rights from God, and the rights of man and freedom of the people are founded on these."

Attendance Is Slightly Down

ARLINGTON, July 5 (UP)—Longhorn League attendance for the first half of the 1951 season was down slightly from a year ago, league officials announced today.

President Hal Sayles said the total attendance for the period was 212,490, but he added the outlook for the second half of the season was brighter, noting hopeful increases in gates in some of the circuit's cities.

For the first half of the 1950 season, attendance was 215,428, or 2,938 more admissions than during the first half of the current season.

Sas Angelo, with 58,018 fans for its first 31 games, led in 1951 attendance at the halfway mark.

That Drunk Was Really Loaded

PERRYTON, July 5 (UP)—Before inking up a mall arrested for drunkenness, Highway Patrolmen Jack Shields and Bob Loving wrote him a receipt for $81.84 they found in his pocket.

Then the man reached into his sock and pulled out 28 $100 bills and told the officers: "Well you might as well hold this for me."

Dallas Girl Dies Of Injuries

DALLAS, July 5 (UP)—Miss Mary Cabell, 20, died yesterday at Dallas Hospital from injuries received in an automobile accident in Grand Prairie Early Sunday.

The official flag of the province of Nova Scotia originally was authorized by Charles I in 1625.

WRONG CAR

DALLAS, July 5 (UP)—Boys will be boys, especially on July 4.

A thoroughly grown "boy", 40 years old, tossed a firecracker into a passing automobile yesterday. The policeman in the auto, a squad car, took him to jail.

Wainwright, famed hero of the Pacific War, told the crowd in Belton City Park that he believes "this nation would be a complete unity against any foe which might attempt to invade it."

Do You Know the Answer—

... to the little boy's question—"Daddy, what is an abstract and what kind of an abstract do we have to our plane?" That's a searching question. If the answer is—"I don't know. All abstracts are about alike and one is as good as another"—it isn't a satisfactory reply. But if the answer is—"Son, we have a dependable abstract because I know the people who made it are dependable, and we won't worry about the rest", that's a good answer.

Texans Die Over 4th

At least 14 Texans died by accident and violence during the 30-hour fourth of July holiday. The toll was far below that predicted by Department of Public Safety forecasts.

Five died in traffic accidents, three persons drowned, one man was killed in a plane crash, and five others died in miscellaneous accidents and violence.

The National traffic toll was at least 91, far less than the 130 predicted by the National Safety Council.

At least 160 persons were killed across the country. In addition to the traffic deaths, 37 persons drowned, six were killed in plane crashes, two were killed by fireworks and 24 died from miscellaneous causes.

Worst holiday tragedy in Texas occurred at Dallas where four young Negroes were killed in an auto collision near Fair Park Tuesday night, just as the holiday began.

The fifth traffic victim was a Negro child killed in Navarro county when a hay truck overturned, pinning him underneath.

Ray Wright, 26, of Plainview, a crop dusting pilot, was killed near Memphis, Tex., when his Piper Cub crashed and burned after hitting power lines bordering a farm field.

Melvin Lee Vest, 11, drowned in Red River near Denison. A 15-year-old Vidor youth, Ernest Gilbert, was believed drowned in the Neches river near Lakeview. He was seen to dive into the water and his clothes were found on the bank of the stream, but searchers could not locate his body.

The Department of Public Safety had predicted 38 deaths in Texas during the holiday period.

Freak weather added to the holiday damage. A tornado cut through Webb City, Mo., but no one was seriously injured, and a 10-day old fire in the Black Range Mountain area in New Mexico was reported under control after charring 40,000 acres of virgin pine.

A storm swept Lake Michigan, disabling the 72-foot yacht Baccaneer off Holland, Mich. A Coast Guard cutter reached the vessel today six hours after it sent out distress signals.
