Russian Tricks Feared At Treaty Signing

RED DELEGATES EXPECTED TO STAGE WALKOUT TOMORROW

BULLETIN
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7 (UP)—A plot to kill Andrei Gromyko and other members of his delegation through a planned traffic accident on the Bayshore Freeway was revealed early today.

San Francisco and Peninsula law enforcement agencies quickly maneuvered themselves into a large convoy of heavily armed officers. Their mission was to watch for and stop a beer truck which was supposed to be smashed at high speed into the car bringing the Russian delegation to the Japanese peace conference this morning.

San Francisco officers heard of the plot from Sgt. Otto Schramm of the Redwood City office of the California Highway Patrol. Schramm phoned Inspector Michael Crystal shortly after midnight to tell him he had received a call from an FBI agent, who identified himself as H. W. Baker. Schramm said Baker told him the FBI had just received a tip from an informer that White Russians in San Francisco were planning to kill Gromyko and his associates.

The informer told the FBI that the White Russians knew when the Soviet delegation left its Hillsborough mansion for San Francisco and what route they used. Their plan was to ram the official limousine with the beer truck. Crystal alerted law enforcement officers in Hillsborough, San Mateo, South San Francisco and Redwood City.

A protective cavalcade was formed to escort the Soviet delegation to San Francisco. The usually leave Hillsborough about 7:30 or 7:45 A.M. CST.

Bulldogs Get Final Workout Thursday Before Game Tonite

Coaches "Stubby" Warden and Sam Allis gave the Bulldogs a light workout Thursday as the last contact work before the game tonight with the Jacksboro Tigers.

A "skull practice" was held at the field house last night to give the team a thorough grounding in the plays to be used this year. A study was also made of the offensive tactics of the single and double wingback Tigers.

The Bulldogs have a freshman defensive lineman out this year that tips the scales at 260 pounds. He is Bob Smith. Smith has been showing a lot of improvement the past few days on defensive work and may see some action in the game tonight. The coaches think Bob has a good chance of developing into a top-notch football player by the time he finishes his high school career, if he puts out the needed effort in that direction. Ask any of the starting linemen on the team about Smith and they will tell you that he is not only big, but that he can be plenty tough if he wants to. In the district the Bulldogs are complete in a man that big with a little desire to play can wreck havoc with these other teams when he has had a little experience.

Another Bulldog that is out of the line-up because he was in the right place at the wrong time, Herbert Williams, has started getting in condition to be able to get back in action soon. Herbert was at the field yesterday afternoon running to build-up his wind and legs. The head injury that he suffered in the accident before school started will keep him out of the line for at least two more weeks. Herbert is a converted end from last year's team. He will be a tackle as soon as he is able to become an active member of the team.

The fans from Ranger and Jacksboro will see a hard fighting team when the Bulldogs take the field Friday night at 8:15 p. m.

The starting backs, Jimmy Comacho, Jimmy Cole, Billy Moreland, and Charles Masegee will combine their speed, running ability and desire to win, to give the Tigers fits for sixty minutes of ball, with the help of their fellow backs and linemen.

Credit should go to both the coaches and the 27 men on the Bulldog roster this year for their hard, endless work to make the 1951 Ranger Bulldog team a winning one. The boys that have to spend their time on the bench are needed, because someone else may be a little better, are due just as much credit as the ones that actually participate in the game.

The fans can show their consideration of the effort put forth by the coaches and the team by conducting themselves as good sports at the hall game tonight. Make every effort to insure order at all times, one slip on the part of the fans can cost the team a year's penalty out of district play. Ranger has a bad name caused by incidents at other athletic affairs of recent years, and naturally the officials are going to be on the lookout for any infraction of the rules of sportsmanship by the fans. If you are going to the game to start a fight, or argue with the decisions of the referees, don't go.

Let's everyone turn out for the game tonight to see a hard working team win a good ball game.

Surprise Red Attack Halted By UN Forces

8th ARMY HEADQUARTERS, KOREA, Sept. 7 (UP)—Allied troops lashed back with a violent counter-attack today against tanked Chinese forces on Korea's western front and drove the enemy into retreat with an estimated 2,000 casualties.

The surprise Chinese thrust down the ancient war road to Seoul cut off three advance United Nations patrol bases before the allies uncoiled their own drive. The entrapped allied units fought their way back to their own lines with the dead and wounded and then turned to join the counter-attack.

Allied troops regained a hill northwest of Yonchon and west of that city 1,100 Chinese Reds were reported in retreat.

The surprise Red assault may have been a softening-up blow before a full-scale offensive, but the Reds found no soft points in the allied lines.

Far to the east, defeated Communist troops who gave up Bloody Ridge and the hills above the hotly-contested "punchbowl" valley streamed northward, and an allied officer said there were reports of many Communist desertions and assassinations of Red officers.

The western front assault cost the enemy at least 400 counted dead and 23 prisoners in addition to an estimated 1,600 wounded while warplanes knocked out at least five of the Russian-built T-34 tanks aiding the Red attack.

Despite the setbacks on the western and eastern ends of the Korean war front, the Reds were desperately jamming supply trucks and carts through a day-and-night UN air blockade. Thursday's non-stop air patrols destroyed or damaged a record 857 enemy vehicles, to bring their 12-day toll of enemy trucking to 5,657.

One of the war's biggest air strikes against enemy troop concentrations also came Thursday when Navy planes from the USS Boxer ripped a column of 3,000 Red southwest of Majon-ni, 15 miles west of the Communist east coast port of Wonsan. At least 100 soldiers were killed.

Other Navy pilots in that region struck at Red troops too and brought the fleet air arm's toll for the day to about 340 Reds.

WIERBLOWSKI CONGRATULATES GROMYKO—Polish delegate Stefan Wierblowski (light suit) congratulates Russia's Andrei Gromyko following the latter's hour-long address before the Japanese Peace Treaty Conference at San Francisco. Earlier in the session, Wierblowski was at odds with the conference chairman when he refused to yield the speakers platform to British delegate Kenneth Younger, already recognized by the chairman. Congress Expected To Approve Money For 95 Group Air Force

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP)—The nation's defense spending moved closer to all-out-war proportions today with emphasis on building mighty air power—possibly to deliver "fantastic" and "terrible" new weapons.

The senate appropriation committee was scheduled to meet (at 10:30 a.m. EDT) to approve a military money bill of something over $61,000,000,000. Chairman Joseph O. Mahoney, D., Wyo., of the sub-committee which drafted the measure, said he anticipated no major changes.

The bill is $5,000,000,000 higher than the money approved by the House. The additional $5,000,000,000 is for the Air Force and the Air Arm of the Navy. It is virtually a "blank check" to build air power superior to Russia's.

Sen. Milton R. Young, R., N. D., said secret testimony concerning "fantastic new secret weapons" could have been a contributing factor influencing the extra boost. His words were cautious.

Young called the weapons "even more startling than germ warfare" and said they were not a tonic. But he would give no hint and no other comment.

Young said President Truman was speaking "authoritatively" when he said at San Francisco Tuesday that the United States is making "fantastic new weapons."

O'Mahoney said the subcommittee believed Air Power was growing more important in view of the improvement in atomic weapons.

"We believe the Russians have refrained from precipitating the world into another conflict because they know we have the atomic bomb," O'Mahoney said.

"We want Russia and all the world to know we also have the most superior airpower in the world to carry it."

The $61,000,000,000 military measure, for the defense department and related agencies, carried nearly as much money as congress appropriated for the entire government in the fiscal year which ended in June.

The subcommittee set a minimum of 95 wings for the Air Force. It is building upward that 950 earmarked for air power could be used to go over 95 wings.

Gonzales Polio Fund Drive Set For Sept. 16-30

Dates for the state-wide drive to raise funds for Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation for Crippled Children, Texas' own treatment center for physically handicapped youngsters, have been set for September 16-30, according to an announcement by Ross Boothe, Foundation President.

Governor Allan Shivers is serving as general chairman of the Gonzales Foundation committee, spearheading the appeal for funds to expand the facilities of the non-profit, non-sectarian hospital.

Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation operates a 115-bed hospital, chartered by the state but built by contributions from generous Texans from every corner of the state and dependent upon them for support. It bears the stamp of approval of the American College of Surgeons, emblematic of the high calibre of the treatment program offered to any Texas child regardless of color, creed, or financial condition.

A building program is under way at the Foundation which will add approximately 30 beds to its capacity, providing space for the treatment of about 100 more children each year. Money raised by public subscription during this September campaign will be used to provide these and other facilities to extend its medical program to many more physically handicapped little ones in Texas.

Youth's Fate In Slaying Left To Judge

FORT WORTH, Sept. 7 (UP)—The future of a 15-year-old Ft. Worth boy, found delinquent at his trial in the fatal shooting of another teen-ager, will depend upon a hearing next week by Judge Harris Brewster.

James Bryant Walker, a 15-year-old delinquent who was charged with the slaying of Paul Benavides, also 15.

The shooting climaxed a ride in the Walker family car, driven by young Walker, and occupied by several youths including Benavides. Young Walker testified Benavides threatened and cursed him during the ride. Other youths in the car testified Benavides was "joking and kidding."

The hearing next week will decide whether the youth will be committed to custody of the Texas State Youth Development Council, or left with his parents on probation.

Football Hopes Blasted By Thief

A burglar blasted the football plans of a fifteen year old Fort Worth youth.

Darrell Hardin, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Hardin, 4313 Lubbock Street, had saved $15.00 during his summer vacation to help outfit himself for the Rosemont Junior High football team this fall. While the family attended a movie, a burglar slashed a window screen, rifled the house and made off with the cash Darrell had hidden in a sock in his dresser drawer.

Darrell is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mace of Ranger.

Enlistment Deadline Is Extended

Sgt. Frank Lockman of the Eastland Air Force and Army Recruiting Station in Eastland stated that the time had been extended to November 1st for any man who has had a medical examination and is waiting for a call from his draft board to enlist in the Army Air Force or in the Army.

The time was extended from a former deadline of Aug. 31st. Lockman said.

REV. HOMER J. STARNES
Area Baptists Will Study 10 Million Budget

A proposed ten-million-dollar mission budget for the Baptist General Convention of Texas in 1952 will be up for discussion when Baptists of this area meet Monday, September 10, for the annual conference of the Cisco association. The meeting will be held at the First Baptist Church, Eastland.

Rev. M. D. Rexrode, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Haskell, will represent the denominational headquarters in Dallas at the conference. He will present the need for the multi-million-dollar budget.

Half the ten million would go for denominational work in Texas; the other half, to Baptist work in other parts of the United States and in foreign countries. This is the fourth year the ten-million-dollar objective has been set up by Texas Baptists.

Representatives from the 34 churches in this association will report on their progress during 1951 and will make plans for the coming year.

Rev. Rexrode will urge the individual churches of the association to follow the Baptist General Convention example by designing fifty per cent of their own budget for state and worldwide missions.

The Baptist churches in this association have a combined membership of 10,962. The 3,300 Baptist churches in Texas now support 12 colleges and professional schools, six hospitals, and three children's homes.

Rev. Homer J. Starnes, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Weatherford will bring the closing message of the evening. He was formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church of Eastland and served as chaplain during World War II.

Dangerous Hurricane Moving Slowly Toward Florida Now

MIAMI, FLA., Sept. 7 (UP)—A "large and very dangerous" hurricane moved slowly west-northwestward across the Atlantic toward the Florida peninsula today, still more than 1,000 miles from the U. S. mainland.

Forward speed of the storm slowed down during the night. Forecasters said that might mean a change in direction away from Florida and the mainland.

In a 4 a.m. CST advisory, the Miami Weather Bureau located the storm—fifth of the season—about 350 miles north northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico. It was moving west northwest at about 12 miles an hour, in contrast to a forward speed of 16 miles an hour last night.

"Highest winds have been estimated above 140 miles an hour by aircraft," the advisory said.

"Hurricane force winds extend outward 100 miles north and 60 miles south and gales extend 250 miles north of the center."

The Weather Bureau said the storm probably will continue to move at about the same speed for the next 12 to 18 hours.

"This is a large and very dangerous hurricane and ships should avoid it," the advisory warned.

Chief forecaster Grady Norton said last night that although the storm is increasing slowly in size and intensity "it will churn water for a few more days before threatening any land area.

"It's still a long way off," he said.

Meanwhile, far back in the Atlantic, a sixth hurricane was beginning to build strength and speed. This storm, located at midnight, EST, about 875 miles east northeast of Antigua, British West Indies, had winds of about 85 miles an hour and was a little more than 100 miles in diameter.

It was moving west northwest at about 18 to 20 miles an hour and the Weather Bureau which ordered hurricane hunter planes to scout it during the day, said it is expected to increase in size and intensity by nightfall.

For Good Used Cars (Trade-ins on the New Olds) Osborne Motor Company, Eastland year, said he "assured" the Russians, Polish and Czech delegates would walk out of the 52-nation conference before the treaty is signed, probably tomorrow.

"I doubt that they will sign the treaty, and they surely won't want to be spectators at the signing," Dulles said.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson, parley president, hoped speeches on the treaty could be wound up this evening with signing ceremonies set for tomorrow.

Poker-faced Andrei Gromyko alone stood in the way of meeting the schedule that is expected to see 48 or 49 nations signing the Japanese treaty.

Twenty-five countries already have disclosed their plans to sign and the remainder of overwhelming majority support will pile up during today's morning, afternoon and evening sessions. So far, only the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia have indicated they won't sign. Poland will wound its Red echo near the end of the speaking list.

Sen. Styles Bridges, R., N. H., said he had information from a foreign delegation that the Soviet bloc would walk out. Gromyko asked for comment on Bridges' statement, said—"not interested!"

Five hours of talk yesterday was highlighted by the 63-minute effort of the only woman delegate—Dr. Gertruda Sekaninova, Cakrova of Czechoslovakia and attacks on the Communists by the New Zealand and Ceylon delegates.

When the Czech delegate ended an hour of complaints against the treaty and the United States, Acheson banged his gavel and said "your hour is up."

The 43-year-old former school teacher promised to conclude quickly. Acheson let her go on. Spectators tried to cut her off with hand-clapping. Acheson finally restored order.

Through - talking Sir Carl Berendsen of New Zealand gained the lion's share of the day's applause for jibing at the Russians. Pointing to Gromyko, he said the Soviet delegate was here "to do mischief."

Berendsen branded the Soviet Union as "the prime and only instigator of world disruption and dissension." He challenged Gromyko to "lift the mystery" on the fate of some 370,000 Japanese prisoners of war held by the Soviets at the end of the war.

"These people have not come here with any intention of assisting Japan or advancing the cause of peace," he said, pointing again at Gromyko.

The dapper Ceylonese delegate, J. R. Hayward, also scored against the Communists in his British accent. He said Gromyko's amendments to the American-British draft treaty would endanger Japan's security.

"It is also interesting to note that the amendments of the Soviet Union seek to insure to the people of Japan the fundamental freedoms of expression — freedoms which the people of the Soviet Union themselves would dearly love to possess and enjoy," the Ceylon delegate said.

High School Coaches Speak At Lions Club

Archie Carver and Reverend Ralph Perkins sponsored the entertainment for the members of the Lions Club at their Thursday meeting.

Coaches Warden and Allis gave the Lions a report on the Ranger High School Bulldogs prospect for the football season. Bill Bullock, education director of the First Baptist Church, accompanied by Miss Joy Hill, was featured in two local numbers at the meeting.

L. A. Fabian, new manager of the Gholson Hotel, was introduced as a new member of the Lions Club.

Garland Lavender, pastor of the First Methodist Church, was the guest of Lynn Robbins, pastor of the First Christian Church.

The members of the Lions Club have designated the next two weeks as one-hundred per cent attendance weeks. The members are urged to continue their showing they had yesterday with 38 members present, only make it 100 per cent during those two weeks.

MacArthur Blast Truman Set-up In Speech At Cleveland, Ohio

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 7 (UP)—Japan stood commended by Gen. Douglas MacArthur today as a new nation in which "we of the free world may find an alliance which shall merit our full faith."

MacArthur, who headed the Allied occupation of Japan but was not invited to attend the Japanese peace conference, said in an address last night that his "guiding hand" in that country had been committed to "helping a defeated, bewildered and despairing people recreate in the east a nation largely designed in the image of the west."

Now, he said, the new Japan is about to be "restored to a position of international dignity and equality."

The Japanese peace treaty is expected to be signed in San Francisco Saturday.

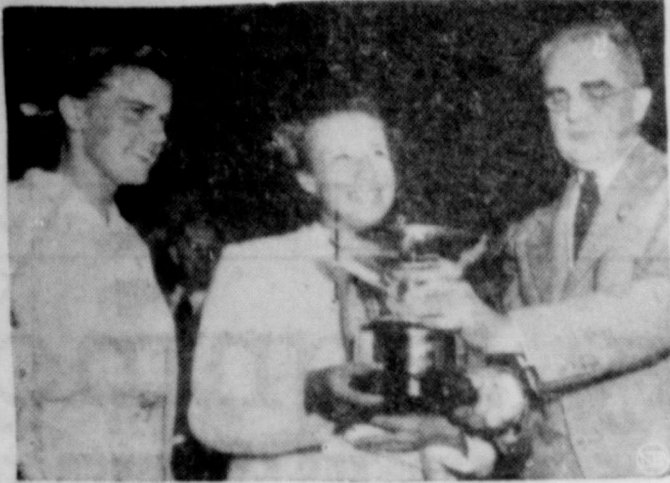

That treaty "while far from flawless, embodies much of human justice and enlightenment," MacArthur said.

"It is a Japan which may now assume the burden of preparing its own ground defense against predatory attack and thus in short time release our own beloved divisions for return home," MacArthur said. "With our air and naval support, Japan can with no great difficulty defend its own homeland which forms so vital a sector of the island defense system buttressing freedom and a new peace on the Pacific."

MacArthur spoke before 9,600 persons in Cleveland's 10,000-seat public hall. It was the climax of a civic reception in which 250,000 had cheered the MacArthur motorcade through confetti-clouded streets.

I TOLD what had happened at Larry Stone's apartment. Inspector Merica made a deprecating face. "Now you're insulting my intelligence, Marshall! Even a guy that's been creased on the head would be able to spot the skull fracture Stone died of."

I half-rose out of my chair.

"Stone had no skull fracture when Sonya and I left him! If he did have one when he was found, neither Nanabarro nor Lou is responsible for his death! Someone else got in there, deliberately took advantage of his condition and murdered him!"

"There you go again, talking about people getting in and out of the Brentwood Arms without the clerk seeing them."

"There's a service entrance to the place!"

"And it's kept locked at night. Try again, Marshall!"

"Well, that's the way Al Nanabarro and his lieutenant got in! Ask Sonya. Ask them!"

"I will. I've already sent for Nanabarro and Lou Brisco."

I knew they weren't the type to admit even assault and battery. Sonya's testimony and mine would sound sour in view of the fact that nobody had seen the night club manager and his lieutenant enter the Brentwood Arms.

"Mind telling me who found Stone?" I asked.

"Not at all. Your friend Smiley Wetlauffer found him. Does that answer your question?"

"Not quite. I saw Wetlauffer and a girl enter La Jolla Club earlier in the evening. The girl was Clara Mayhew, receptionist at the Prater offices."

"Sure. She was with Smiley when he decided to call on Larry Stone. They were pals. He and the girl are in the next room signing statements now."

Merica eyed my impatience. His phone rang. He answered it, listened and said: "Send them right up." He put down the phone and looked at me. "Now we'll get to hear what Nanabarro and Brisco have to say about it."

A FEW minutes later a patrolman ushered in the night club man and his aide. Both regarded me with fleeting glances; neither betrayed a sign of recognition. They denied everything, of course.

"I've never been in Stone's apartment in my life! As a matter of fact, I don't even know where he lives!" Nanabarro said.

"Get Sonya in here!" I told Merica. "She'll back me up!"

Merica grinned. "Maybe she would at that! You two have been pretty cozy lately, haven't you, Marshall?" He turned to Nanabarro. "Got an alibi for tonight?"

Nanabarro nodded. "Ask any of the help at my place. They'll tell you Lou and I've been in the office all evening."

"A fat alibi," I scoffed. "Any of those punks out there would back up Nanabarro for an extra ten in his pay check!"

Merica eyed me coldly. "Tell that to the jury that tries you for the murder of Larry Stone. That's what I'm holding you for. That and falsifying and tampering with the evidence in the murder of Rose Bidault. It may interest you to know that Carl Prater is across the hall swearing out an affidavit for Andy Tanner at this moment!"

"You're kidding, Merica. Prater's in the hospital."

"He was, but he has been released. He had only a mild heart attack after your assault on him. Tanner's fixing up an assault and battery charge and an assault with a deadly weapon charge for that little session. Add breaking and entering the Prater offices and assault upon Werthem, and you have quite a package. Star Williams will certainly have his hands full defending you—if he has any time off from defending himself!"

"Somebody mention my name!" We all turned at the sound of the voice from the doorway. Star stood there.

The patrolman at the door stood docile as Star shoved open the door wider to permit the entry of two other men. They were the two Valleyville morticians, Esplin and Brayton. They entered sheepishly, giving me barely any recognition.

"What's the idea?" Merica thundered. "Who are these men, anyway?"

Star produced a folded paper from his inside coat pocket with a flourish.

"These gentlemen have just signed this affidavit. I think it would profit you to read it before proceeding further with charges against my valued assistant."

Merica picked up the paper, unfolded it and began to read. His expression tightened progressively when he had finished he eyed Brayton and Esplin and demanded:

"Did you men sign this affidavit?"

They nodded. "Yes, sir, we did."

Merica placed the affidavit on his desk and eyed Star, who regarded him amusedly.

"I'll concede that this places an entirely different light on what has happened. I'll get Werthem in here, also Prater. Prater is with Andy Tanner. Any objections if I bring in Tanner, too?"

"As a matter of fact, while you're at it, I suggest that you bring in all the parties concerned. Including Madam Sonya Sareeta." All the while, Star didn't give me a look at the affidavit.

Merica started to say he didn't mind a bit; then he saw the grin on my face and demanded: "Why do you want that magician dame in here?"

"So I can complete my case against the murderer of Barney Bidault," said Star Williams.

Insurance Men Told US Faces Economic Danger

HOUSTON, Sept. 7 (UP)—Lewis Douglas, former U. S. ambassador to Great Britain, believes there is as much danger of permanent impairment to our economic system from within as there is danger to the nation from without.

Douglas, now chairman of the board of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, was quick to point out, however, that his viewpoint is "superficial" since he is no longer connected with the government.

Here to address a nationwide meeting of field representatives and officials of the company tomorrow morning, Douglas said in his opinion if it is necessary to spend as much on defense as the American government now contemplates, then non-defense spending ought to be cut to the bone.

He also believes the "tax structure and system of taxation" ought to be modified "so as to impose automatic restriction upon individual consumption."

"From my experience and knowledge of other countries, a system of very high taxes prevents the formation of capital and prohibits increased production," he said, adding, "production is what we need at this time."

Some 600 delegates are attending the four-day meeting which ends Saturday.

Company officials on the program yesterday were Louis W. Dawson, president of the company, and Roger Hull, executive vice-president.

In a speech, Dawson touched on the company's strength, the international situation, inflation, rise in federal income taxes and improvements in the company.

Cease Fire Talks May End Up On A Neutral Ship

TOKYO, Sept. 7 (UP)—A meeting on a neutral ship at sea appeared today to provide the only conditions under which either the Communists or the United Nations will agree to resume the Korean cease-fire talks.

The Red leaders still were silent today on the UN demand for a new conference site. Their truce team rejected as "unsatisfactory" the latest Allied notes about Kaesong neutrality violations. But the Communist delegation made no new protests.

Failure of the Reds to make an immediate reply to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's proposal for a new meeting place brought neither pessimism nor optimism here. The official view is that it is up to the Reds to make the move that will either get the talks back on the road or end them for good.

Truman Prefers Donkey Of Course

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP)—President Truman, who prefers a donkey anyway, won't be getting that elephant after all.

The animal is dead, and the White House has announced its official regrets. The State Department was considering getting out an appropriate statement.

The elephant, a fine, 7-year-old bull notable for its unusual tusks, was dispatched to the president as a gift recently by the King of Cambodia, a small country in Indo-China where elephants are something special.

In this country the elephant is an object of interest in zoos, a large consumer of peanuts, and the symbol of the Republican party. Mr. Truman, a well-known Democrat, has a pronounced preference for his party's symbol,

Thief Honest But Hungry

AUSTIN, Sept. 7 (UP)—When police officer G. W. Kilian asked for an answer last night, he got it.

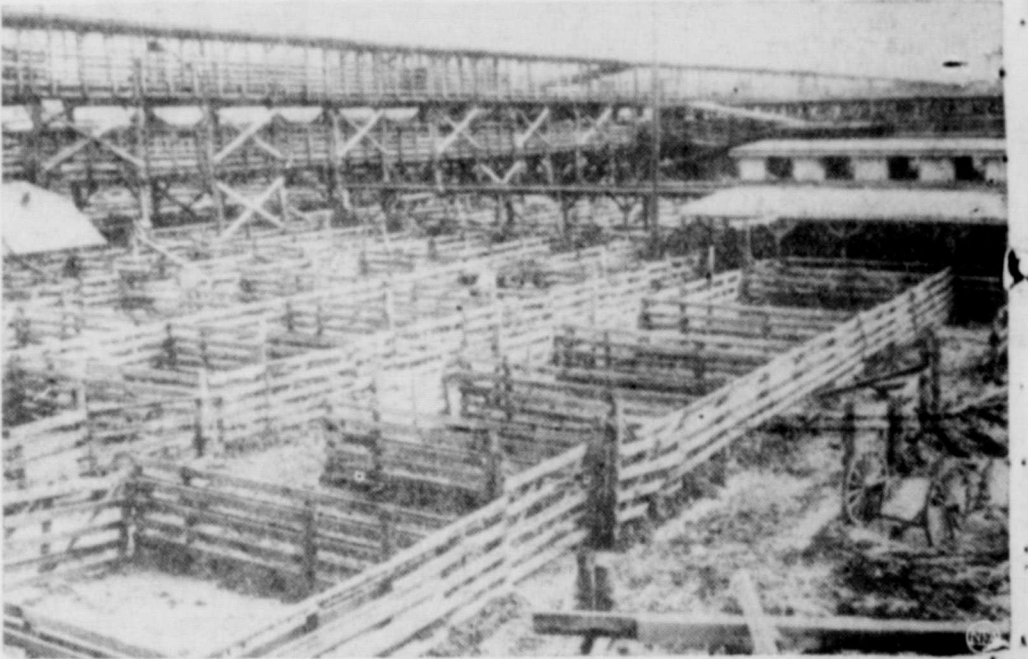

The policeman found a man banging with a large stick on the door at the rear of a business establishment. A screen had been torn.

"What are you doing there?" Kilian called.

"Trying to break in to get something to eat," the man snapped back.

Kilian conveyed him to headquarters for a sample of police rations.

Special Session May Come From Nov. Election

AUSTIN, Sept. 7 (UP) — A special session of the legislature was strongly indicated today if voters approve a constitutional amendment lifting the ceiling on old age pensions to $42,000,000 a year.

Gov. Allan Shivers, who returned yesterday from a vacation trip to his East Texas farm near Woodville, said that if the amendment, one of several to be voted on Nov. 13, carried, he would "consider it a mandate of the people that they wanted the money as quickly as possible, and it would take a special session to do it."

Lawmakers, if called into special session, would be asked to allocate additional funds to increase public welfare expenditures from $35,000,000, the present ceiling, to $42,000,000 a year.

In any event, Shivers said, the special session would not begin until after new year's.

The governor, mentioned frequently as a possible candidate for Sen. Tom Connally's seat in the U. S. Senate, said in his vision no new taxes would be needed.

He said the state was in "very good financial condition" with a surplus at the end of the fiscal year of some $29,000,000. A year ago, it had been said the state would have a deficit of $26,000,000.

He said, also, that he would ask the legislature to consider the overall water situation in the state if the special session was called.

But he added: "I don't think the legislature could make it rain."

He aired his own views on special sessions. "Personally," he remarked, "I don't like special sessions, but there are a lot of things that we don't like that are necessary."

Legume seed should be planted as soon as possible after inoculation because exposure to bright sunlight may kill the bacteria.

HOUSTON, Sept. 7 (UP) — Houston residents used an average of 93,588,000 gallons of water a day during August, an all-time high. The previous high was 86, 120,000 gallons a day in July.

City water officials said lawn watering in August, one of the hottest and driest months in Houston history, was responsible for the increase.

Auxiliary Considering Civil Program For Local Community

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Ralph McKinley Post 5873 Veterans of Foreign Wars met Thursday night with the president, Mrs. Vivian Butler, presiding.

A report was given on the contribution made toward the outfitting of three school children, and the gift of a quantity of funnybooks sent by Mrs. R. C. Crawford.

Mrs. Julia McClosky read excerpts from a letter received from her grandson, Robert Butler, who is serving in Germany.

Butler RA 18250405, OPN CO. 97th s6 OPN Bn, 154 5/8 P M, N. Y., N. Y.

Mrs. Butler read the following letter from William L. McGill, State Civil Defense Coordinator.

"We were very pleased to have your letter and to know of the interest which your organization has in the civil defense program.

"Our conception of civil defense is that it is an extension of the disaster relief work in each community and that the organization when formed will be available for relief work in case of natural as well as man-made disaster.

"It is our recommendation, therefore, that the first step which your group should take would be to enroll all the members in a standard Red Cross first aid and home nursing course which can be given through your local Red Cross chapter.

After the meeting the members were served refreshments at Swoveland's Cafe.
