THE STORY: Captured by Sioux after the Petermann massacre, John Clayton, former Texas scout, has been permitted to go to visit Star of the North, an Indian holy woman who nursed him to health after his wounds in battle. Star recognizes Clayton, known as Captain Mast, Walking Hawk, as he surprises her in the Black Hills.

WE had not far to go, to where Hussein awaited us, small ears up in curiosity, wicked eyes glaring as he saw I came in company with another. All this time my mind raced with my pulse at a hammering gait, but with a million questions thronging my thoughts, I could not voice so much as a word of one of them.

We stood a moment thus, facing each other, her upturned child's face coming barely to my chest, my head bent forward and down so that her glorious hair lay just beneath my lips. A vagrant breeze lifted one of the soft curls.

Sioux is a language of reality. The Indian mind and tongue do not concern themselves with refined emotion.

"I love you," I said hoarsely, in English. And seized her to smash my mouth against hers.

She staggered back from it as though from a blow in the face, her slim hand held with its back to her bruised lips, nostrils wide, emerald eyes on fire. I was aware then that her features mirrored a look which superseded any possible anger, hurt, incredulity. It was a look of fear, the fear of the unknown.

"Wononkuc," I murmured, employing the sole word in the Sioux vocabulary which may be spoken in apology. Literally it means, "A mistake has been made."

"No!" She whispered her voice thick with emotion. "The thing was not a mistake. But I know not what it was and I am afraid."

"It is a kiss," I said slowly. "It is a sign among my people, sacred to lovers. Its meaning is that I

Major Flying To El Salvador On 1931 Plane, Rests

HOUSTON, Oct. 13 (UP) — Maj. Ewell K. Nold, 31, was resting up at the home of his parents today before continuing his trip to El Salvador in a reconditioned 125-horsepower Savoia-Marchetti that was built in 1931.

The youthful Air Force major, and his 80-pound Alaskan Mongrel dog, Towell, landed at municipal airport here late yesterday and the arrival of the open-cockpit antiquarian caused more stir among the field's mechanics and pilots than if Nold had buzzed in flying one of the jet B-47's he handles on duty.

Nold said he is delivering the plane to a friend, Archibald Baldoechi, a coffee planter in El Salvador.

The trip so far, he said, has not been without excitement. Starting from Camden, N. J., on Tuesday, the major, who is accustomed to idling along at 600 miles an hour in jets, "streaked" down to Houston averaging about 70 miles an hour.

"Coming into New Orleans," he said, "the gas feed fouled up and had to make a forced landing on Lake Pontchartrain with the wheels down."

"We hit the water about 100 yards off shore and nosed under. Towell was out of the plane and swimming almost before we struck the water. The plane, of course, was swamped and all my clothes soaked, so we stayed afloat and drifted in."

The accident broke a wing spar and major Nold is going to pause in Houston long enough to repair the damage—probably until Monday.

"I need some rest," he said. "I'll be vibrating for weeks." He will spend his rest period here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Nold.

Safe Braking Margin Varies ICE WET DRY Importance of driving in accordance with highway conditions is illustrated by this diagrammatic view prepared by Chevrolet in the interest of traffic safety. Standard braking tables reveal 190 feet is required for a stop at 50 miles an hour, allowing three-quarters of a second for a driver's reaction to an emergency. When the pavement is wet, however, the distance increases to 255 feet. On icy pavement 423 feet will be covered before a car brakes to a complete stop.

Railroad Man Keeps Promise Of Car Dinner NEWTON, ILL., Oct. 13 (UP) — Frank Martin is to keep a 38-year-old promise today after already fulfilling a high school prophecy that said he would some day become vice president of the Illinois Central Railroad. Martin brought a special IC train here to pick up his classmates from the 1913 crop of Newton seniors and planned a dinner party in the car. When the prophecy was made years ago, Martin wasn't too confident of success but promised his 24 classmates the dinner just in case. Last August the 56-year-old executive made the grade after working his way through the railroad's ranks. Now Is The Time To Make Repairs Around Farms

COLLEGE STATION, October —The next few weeks are the time to do the maintenance and repair jobs that just seem to accumulate around the farmstead. Winter is just around the corner and most of the jobs should be done while the weather is favorable.
One of the first should be getting the floor furnace, heaters and fireplace in top operating condition. Before the gas is turned on, better get all the heating equipment checked, says E. C. Brown, assistant Extension agricultural engineer of Texas A&M College. Make sure there are no gas leaks and that all burners are in good condition. Moisture condensation can be eliminated, he adds if vents for the space heaters are installed.
The addition of properly installed insulation will make the home warmer and reduce the fuel bills, says Brown. And it will also help keep the heat out next summer.
Check all gutters and downspouts to make sure that leaves, dirt and trash haven't clogged them. If they become clogged and force the water to spill over, woodwork and roofing may be seriously damaged and inside finishes and wall covering may also be ruined.
If the septic tank hasn't been cleaned lately, better check it. Brown says cleaning sludge from a septic tank is a disagreeable job at any time but if done during freezing weather, it's double tough.
All farm buildings should get a thorough checking and a good place to start is with the roofs. Missing shingles should be replaced, loose shingles pushed back into place and reroiled and split shingles underlaid with tin or sheet metal shingles, says Brown.
If trees overhang the building limbs that drag on the roof should be removed. Nails in metal roofs may become loose or even come out during the hot summer weather and these should be driven up and replaced of missing. Small leaks in a roof may be repaired by applying asphalt roofing cement, but if the roof needs replacing, now is the time to get the new roof on, says Brown.
Better check on the drainage around all farm buildings to make sure that water will not drain under them. Water under foundations can cause plenty of trouble, says Brown. When it freezes, the foundations or piers may be pushed out of line or even cracked.
Loose or damaged boards in side walls should be replaced, nailed or repaired. In case the paint is peeling and chipping,

Marine Corps Officers Are Now In Demand

College graduates of the Eastland area have an opportunity to become Marine Corps officers under an expanded officer training program just announced.
Technical Sergeant Wims of the Marine Corps recruiting station in Abilene said graduates 20 to 27 years of age, including married men, are being sought to meet the expanding needs of the Marines and to fill vacancies caused by the release of reservists. The Marine Corps has openings for 1,000 officer candidates immediately, according to Sergeant Wims.
The next officer candidate course will begin Nov. 29 with a quota of 450. Application for this course must be received at Marine Corps Headquarters by Nov. 1.
College graduates accepted will be enlisted as privates and ordered to a 10-week basic training course at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va. Married men will receive family allowances. Upon successful completion of this training, candidates will be commissioned second lieutenants in the Marine Corps reserve and then given an additional five months of specialized officer training.
Applicants must be at least 20 years of age and not over 27 on July 1, 1952, and must be in good physical condition. They must be graduates of four-year accredited colleges or universities and hold degrees in fields other than medicine, dentistry and theology.

The Bulldogs charged the Bluecats hard all night refusing to allow them to trap them in or out and holding fast against their single wing attack.
The Coleman Bluecats were just not the ball club that they were when they met the Bulldogs in the bi-district meet last year. Coaches Warden and Ails had the team briefed well on defensive measures to be used against the single wing and the Bulldogs carried their orders out to a "T".
J. L. Barnes, the Bulldog's big tackle, dealt the Bluecats misery all night with his heads-up ball playing, refusing them the opportunity of coming across his side of the line for gains.
Chico Mendoza played his usual game of good hard defensive and offensive ball, playing hard but clean and removing any notion Coleman may have had that they were going to stop the march of the Bulldogs.
Don Varner and Wayne Hargraves aided by the other Bulldog linemen succeeded in making the Ranger line and secondary on defense a near impregnable unit.
Ranger's 260 pound defensive center, Bob Smith, is showing the coaches and fans much improvement over previous action with the Bulldogs. When Smith would make up his mind to charge up the middle and stop the Coleman play there was nothing in the Coleman line or on the bench that could change his mind. He was

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE Because God is the only creator and creates only good, He is not the maker of sin, disease, a n d death, asserts the Lesson - Sermon to be read in Christian Science Churches, Sunday, October 14, title "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?"

Corroborating this assertion the Golden Text reads (Psalms 118:14, 17): "The Lord is my strength and song, and is become by salvation . . . I shall not die, but live, and declare the works of the Lord." And from the Bible text (Psalms 27:1): "The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?" Continuing the theme, these passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" are cited: "The procuring cause and foundation of all sickness is fear, ignorance, or sin" (p. 411). "Disquisitions on disease have a mental effect similar to that produced on children by telling ghost-stories in the dark . . . As frightened children look everywhere for the imaginary ghost, so sick humanity sees danger in every direction, and looks for relief in all ways except the right one. Darkness induces fear. The adult, in bondage to his beliefs, no more comprehends his real being than does the child; and the adult must be taken out of his darkness, before he can get rid of the illusive sufferings which through the gloaming. The way in divine Science is the only way out of this condition" (p. 371).

Customs Agents Get The Birds LAREDO, Oct. 13 (UP)—A car load of brightly-colored birds—400 Parakeets and 35 Parrots—was headed for San Antonio's Municipal Zoo and their two owners for a hearing before customs agents today. The two men, James M. Coker, 42, and Harry E. Roberts, 43, both of Tampa, Fla. were arrested 12 miles north of here yesterday as they drove their bird-filled automobile toward San Antonio. John J. Givens in charge of customs agents here, said the birds were smuggled across the Rio Grande and presumably headed for Tampa where Coker was a salesman in a pet shop.

HEALTH TALKS

To understand mental health, you have to picture your existence as dependent upon not only yourself and those you come in contact with but also upon "circumstances over which you have no control."

If you will consider yourself as one wheel, meshed in gear with another wheel (which is composed of those with whom you come in contact). Then you have to add another wheel, a gear made up of those "circumstances." And you can complete the picture of mental health by imagining those three wheels working in a triangular shape, each one meshing in harmony with the other. That is good mental health. Mental ill health, then, would be any variation of such a harmonious working of yourself, your fellowman and the demands of your life. A person who does not develop a well-rounded personality as a child, then, would perhaps modify his relations with his fellowman and his attitude towards the demands of life to fit to fit them into the shape of his own "wheel", misinformed in childhood. If the tree passes of life could still work together you would perhaps call that person "neurotic", a person who seems to function a bit lop-sidedly but still within the realms of normal. Such a person would not have good mental health, but neither would he have mental illness. Mental illness would more accurately be represented by the breakdown of one of those "wheels."

Longshoremen Threaten To Walkout Soon

GALVESTON, Oct. 13 (UP)—Wage negotiations between longshoremen and shipping interests were broken off early today and the dockworkers immediately announced a strike which could tie up shipping along the Texas Gulf Coast and at Lake Charles, La.

Frank Yeager, president of the Gulf Coast and South Atlantic District of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), said pickets would be set up at all port installations along the Texas coast when dockworkers showed up for work today.

He expected more than 5,000 members of the ILA to respect the picket lines.

Dave Sweeney, Jr., who handled negotiations for the Galveston wharf interests and the Houston Navigation District, said he had not been officially notified of the strike and made no comment.

Yeager said negotiations had been underway since Sept. 30 when the ILA's old contract expired.

Since that time, he said, deep-water leaders have been granted an 11-cent hourly wage increase. Their contract, he said, is normally basis for all other contracts with the ILA.

He added, however, that carloaders and bargemen, who handle cargo in shallow-water vessels, were offered only a five-cent increase. The carloaders and barge men called the strike but Yeager said all member of the ILA at the ports involved would remain off their jobs.

Yeager said the longshoremen would continue to handle only military cargo.

The ports involved include Houston, Galveston, Corpus Christi, and Brownsville, Tex., as well as Lake Charles.

Yeager predicted that "all shipping at these ports will be tied up by Sunday" unless there was an agreement reached.

John Barrymore, Jr. who was introduced in "The Sundowners", which premiered in Amarillo, is arriving October 15th with the movie star caravan for the "Movie time in Texas, U.S.A." appearances here.

Port Arthur Scene Of Ship Collision

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 13 (UP)—A collision in Port Arthur harbor yesterday damaged the Norwegian freighter, Ferndale, and an Italian tanker, the Canopo. No one was injured.

Authorities said the Canopo hit the Ferndale, which was taking on oil at a wharf, while being assisted by tugs in a move to another dock.

Both ships dropped anchor when the collision appeared inevitable. A 30-foot gash was torn in the hull of the Ferndale, and bow of the Canopo was dented. The Canopo was loaded with 65,000 barrels of crude oil. Repair of both vessels began immediately.

Bucking the Line of Scrimmage—

... if we may borrow from football parlance, is the sort of exercise that toughens fibre and prepares the participant for heavy duty ahead. As in sports, so it is with those who attain success in life. The weak falter while the strong survive. Getting the job done is bucking the line, a sure demand of the public in business life. Some call it success, but we like to think of it as a lot of hard work in a nutshell, that's it!
