Ridgway Verifies Atrocities Against UN Prisoners Of War

Tokyo, Nov. 17 (UP)— Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway formally accused the Communists today of mass murders of United Nations war prisoners in Korea, but an aide said an 8th Army report that 6,270 Americans had been slain appeared exaggerated.

The Supreme United Nations Commander mentioned no figures in his first official comment on what he called Col. James Hanley's "most regrettable" announcement that the Reds had murdered 13,400 UN war prisoners.

However, a headquarters staff officer said specific and proved cases of Red atrocities were considerably fewer than those charged by Hanley, chief war crimes investigator for the 8th Army.

Hanley's controversial statement that 6,270 Americans, 7,000 South Koreans and 130 other United Nations prisoners had been murdered was based in part upon "unscientific investigation," generalizations and possible duplications, the officer said.

Ridgway may release on Sunday, a further statement clarifying and qualifying Hanley's figures, the spokesman said.

However, he said no disciplinary action "was taken or is intended" against Hanley for releasing his statement to the press.

Despite Ridgway's confirmation of mass Communist atrocities, the Chinese Communist radio at Peking broadcast an indignant denial and counter- charged that the UN had "inhumanly slaughtered thousands" of Red prisoners.

Ridgway's statement said it became evident to the UN more than a year ago that Communist protestations they were adhering strictly to the Geneva Convention in their treatment of war prisoners were "false."

UN investigators went to work at once, Ridgway said.

"It had been concluded some months ago that at an appropriate time, when the accumulated evidence warranted and when due coordination had been effected with the proper authorities in Washington, this evidence should be made public," he said.

"That this coordination was not properly effected at the time of this release is of the utmost regret to this headquarters."

All concerned, he said, "share with me in deploring the anguish which this most regrettable incident has inflicted upon the relatives and friends of members of the UN command still carried on our casualty lists as missing in action."

Ridgway Will Investigate

LONDON, Nov. 17 (UP)— Britain has instructed its ambassador in Washington to investigate the "entire background" of the release of an 8th Army report on mass "Communist atrocities in Korea, a foreign office official said today.

The British press has criticized the timing and manner of Col. James Hanley's announcement that Chinese and Korean Reds have murdered 13,400 United Nations war prisoners in Korea. Hanley is chief war crimes investigator for the 8th Army.

The influential Manchester Guardian said "questions are being asked" about the possible political affiliations of Hanley.

The Guardian said anyone who makes "a critical inspection of Colonel Hanley's figures will risk being damned by Senator McCarthy and his faction as a crypto-Communist."

British officials were at a loss to understand the release of such inflammatory charges of Red barbarity by a junior officer at a time when Korean truce negotiations are at such a ticklish stage.

Sgt. York May Enter Politics

PALL MALL, Tenn., Nov. 17 (UP)— "Another 'old soldier' stepped into the political battle shaping up over next year's presidential race today.

From his Cumberland Mountain home, Sgt. Alvin York announced he is "considering" running for president. But the Congressional Medal of Honor winner said he will support President Truman if the chief executive sees fit to run.

York, a one-time conscientious objector who became America's number one Doughboy in World War I by single-handedly wiping out a German machine gun nest, said he has received "several" letters urging him to run for the Democratic nomination. Most of them, said the sergeant, came from the south.

York, now 64, also said he wrote President Truman asking why the atom bomb was not used in Korea and received a reply saying it couldn't be used without killing a large number of American troops.

Pat Dalton, Grafrod, paid $500 for a bull from the King herd.

This was the fifth annual sale of the association and 44 bulls and 20 females were offered, bringing a grand total of $27,420 or an average of $428. The 44 bulls averaged $447 and the 20 females $387. Top bull $1,000 and champion female $650.

"We had some of the best Herefords I have ever seen in this show," stated Mr. Weldon.

Father Of Two Arrested After Teacher Raped

BROOKINGS, S. D., Nov. 17 (UP)—A 28-year-old father was held for questioning today in connection with the alleged rape-kidnaping of a young rural school teacher.

Robert Thwing, Aberdeen, S. D., was arrested yesterday in the trailer where he lived with his wife and two-month-old baby.

His arrest came after Mrs. Margaret Stadler, 24, told authorities she was kidnapped from her one-room schoolhouse Tuesday, raped and held for four and a half hours in her assailant's car.

She provided police with a description both of her alleged attacker and the car he was driving at the time.

Brookings police found the car and arrested Thwing a short time later.

Mrs. Stadler said she was alone in the rural school near Kimball, S. D., after classes were dismissed when her alleged attacker entered on the pretext that he was looking for a lost hunting dog.

She said he drew a knife and forced her into the car where he attacked her.

For a time, she said, he threatened to kill her until she pleaded with him that she had a two-year-old child.

"Every two-year-old child needs a mother," she said her attacker replied and released her.

Sanity Trial Resumes Today

EL PASO, Nov. 17 (UP)— Testimony in the sanity trial of Richard W. McGee was to resume today after a lengthy session yesterday in which 14 witnesses said the condemned killer is insane.

McGee faces execution Jan. 1 for the 1948 shooting of R. L. Allston of Lubbock, unless found insane and committed to a mental hospital.

Witnesses have described McGee as a religious fanatic who considers himself a disciple of Christ.

NEW PLAN WOULD END WAR ALONG PRESENT BATTLELINE

By Richard Applegate United Press Staff Correspondent PANMUNJOM, Korea, Nov. 17 (UP)— The United Nations proposed today a dramatic new armistice plan to end the Korean war before Christmas and the Communists tentatively accepted it.

The UN said it would accept the Communist demand for a buffer zone along the present battleline—provided the Reds agree to an exchange of war prisoners and other details of a formal armistice within 30 days.

But if no final agreement were reached, the new battleline would become the provisional cease-fire line and the next step would be up to the two armistice delegations.

The UN compromise proposal was framed in Washington under pressure both from anguished relatives of American war prisoners worried by new Communist atrocity disclosures and from other UN members with troops in Korea.

U. S. Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodges handed the plan to the Communists at a joint subcommittee meeting in Panmunjom.

Completion Of Project Will Give Town 50 Housing Units

Final approval was received and necessary arrangements were made allowing the first families to move into the Ranger Housing project on November 15.

These fifty units consisting of one, two, three, and four bedroom apartments will ease the housing shortage that has existed in Ranger.

The low rent units will also provide modern up-to-date living facilities for families with low income.

The Ranger Housing Authority is the governing body of the local low rent project, and was organized October 5, 1949. The board was appointed by the mayor of Ranger, Price Crawley.

The original board consisted of Morris L. Newham, Nicol Crawford, James Ratliff, Wilson Guest, and J. E. Matthews, A. F. Thomas, Jr., replaced Guest on the board at the end of his term in October 1950. The remaining original members are still on the board.

The original application was for 200 units for Ranger. On January 3, 1950, the Public Housing Authority awarded Ranger an 80 unit project.

Upon receipt of advance funds from the PHA, a detailed housing survey was made to determine the exact need for housing in Ranger, as a result of this survey it was determined that 50 units would be sufficient.

On November 2, 1950 the local authority made a contract with the PHA whereby the PHA agreed to loan money for the project to the local housing authority until bonds could be issued, and sold on the open market to finance the project.

On March 22, 1950 the firm of Henty, Broad and Nelson from Dallas were employed as architects and engineers for the project.

Bids were received for the construction of the 50 apartments.

Texas Pelicans Arrive Safely In London

LONDON, Nov. 17 (UP)— Four Texas pelicans arrived by plane from Texas today to grace St. James's Park near Buckingham Palace. They posed sedately in their crate for photographers.

The pelicans, Gal, Vera, Tom, and Tex, are the gift of Galveston, Tex., to Prime Minister Winston Churchill to replace two veterans which died.

Interest in breeding the pelicans—if not collecting their eggs to eke out the British austerity food rations—officials at once sought vainly to determine the pelicans' sex. Weary James Carter of the Galveston News, who escorted the pelicans, confessed: "We caught them around Galveston but nobody had time to find out about their sex."

Unshaven Carter, who said he had not caught a wink of sleep on the flight from the United States, sighed:

"All this just to beat Louisiana. They offered to send pelicans but they didn't follow through. They said they would send two. We decided to do it in a big way and send four, so I went out and caught them on the waterfront."

Tom Hinton, St. James's Park bird specialist, met the pelicans at London airport with a box of fish to feed his new pets. He especially, was curious over their sex.

"It's very difficult to decide the sex of pelicans," Hinton said. "You have to watch their habits. It will probably be some time before we will be able to make a decision."

The pelicans offered no help. In their two-foot-high crate the pelicans, two black and two brown just sharpened their 18-inch beaks and stood first on one foot then the other.

Hinton said one of his worries was how the Texans would make out during the bleak English winter.

The local authority expresses their thanks to everyone that has co-operated to make this beautiful and valuable addition to the town and invites everyone to inspect it.

There have been twelve changes in the original plans and specifications resulting in a net saving of approximately $2,000.00 architect's fees, cost of land, surveys, and office expense.

The overall expense is $397,000.00 as compared with the original estimate of $416,000.00.

The bonds for the raising of money to pay for the project were sold on July 17, 1951 to a syndicate headed by the Chemical Bank and Trust Company of New York, low bidders offering to buy the bonds for 2 1/2 per cent interest.

On September 11, 1951, the bonds were executed and delivered to the purchasing banks and payment received therefor.

The main requirements for admission to the project are:

1. Tenants must constitute a family unit.

2. The head of the family must be a United States citizen.

3. The family's income from all sources must be less than a certain maximum amount per year depending on the size of the family.

4. The head of the family must be a veteran, or the family must be living in sub-standard housing, or the family be entirely without housing in Ranger.

The rents are based on the amount of annual income to the family and the size apartment depending on the size of the family.

The local authority will furnish gas and water in the apartments, and the tenants will purchase their own electricity with a deduction made in their rent for the cost of the power up to a certain amount each month.

The members of the local housing board have served entirely without compensation since it was organized in 1949 and their time has been devoted for civic purposes.

Ranger was one of the first cities to institute such a project under the recent expansion of the Public Housing by Congress, and as a result has undergone numerous delays that have now been eliminated for the still never projects.

The local authority expresses their thanks to everyone that has co-operated to make this beautiful and valuable addition to the town and invites everyone to inspect it.

OPEN HOUSE

There will be an open house at the Ranger Housing Project Sunday afternoon from one until five o'clock with three units open for inspection.

The units that will be open to the public are numbers 12, 24, and 48. The apartments are one, two, and three bedroom units, in that order.

One of these three apartments will be furnished as a model apartment by Montgomery Ward, Ranger Furniture Exchange and possibly other Ranger firms.

The unit that will be decorated, has not been designated as yet. The size of that unit will depend on the number of firms aiding in setting up the model unit. The model apartment will be one of the three open Sunday to the public.

Work started on December 29, with the Texas Housing Company being allowed 240 days to complete the work. Due to bad weather, scarcity of materials and other unforeseen delays, the local authority later gave a thirty day time extension to the contractors. Another ten days was allowed for completing changes in the designing.

BULLDOGS BLANK INDIANS; BECOME DISTRICT CHAMPS

You can bet there will be no Bulldog scalp hanging in the Comanche Indian Teepee this year.

The Bulldogs romped over the Indians last night to the tune of 26 to 0, in a slow moving ball game.

Injuries have again hit the Bulldogs, this time their defensive signal caller, linebacker Wayne Hargraves went out last night with a dislocated shoulder. There is some hope that Wayne will be back in the line-up next Thursday afternoon.

The win over Comanche last night made the Bulldogs the undisputed district 2A-10 Champions for the third straight year. They will play the Winters Blizzards Thanksgiving Day for the bi-district title. Winters upset the favored Ballinger Bearcats last night 13 to 6.

The Bulldogs scored in the first, twice in the second, and once in the last quarter last night for the 26 points.

In the first period Guard Bobby Justice ripped through the Indian line and blocked a kick by William Turner of the Indians and Ranger recovered on the Indian 15 yard line.

On the first down QB Jimmy Cole handed the ball to Comanche who went the fifteen yards for the first score. Comanche failed to make the point after Ranger was penalized back to the seventeen yard line for the try.

In the second quarter the Bulldogs took the ball on their own fifteen yard line and used fourteen ground plays to score. Billy Don Browning made the final two yards of the drive and Comanche kicked the point.

Tackle J. L. "Flash" Barnes intercepted a Turner pass on Comanche's 45 yard line a few minutes later that resulted in another score for the Bulldogs.

Barnes ran down the left sideline with the ball and was about to be stopped fifteen yards shy of the score when Chico Mendoza came from nowhere to throw the key block to open the pearly gates for the "Flash".

Chico Mendoza popped up in the Indian backfield all night as if he belonged there when the Indians were lugging the ball. On more than one occasion Mendoza threw the Indian runners for as high as 12 yard losses. Some of his tackles came after he had fought off two and three blockers.

In the fourth quarter after Comanche was penalized back to their own one yard line on the kickoff, Jimmy Comacho took the following punt on the Comanche 30 and went back to the sixteen. In six plays the ball was on the 2 yard line with fourth down.

Cole handed the ball to Comanche who met a solid wall of piled up Indians and Bulldogs. Comanche gently leaps over the pile for the final two yards and the score.

Comacho's final score put the score 26 to 0.

While no long spectacular runs resulted from the game last night the Bulldogs held the Indians to practically no gain. The Bulldog defense with Don Varner, Chico Mendoza, J. L. Barnes, Wayne Hargraves, Jimmy Cantrell, Herbert Williams, Alfred Black, Eddie Joe James, Jimmy Wheeler, Bill Hardin, Bobby Justice, Al Tume, and John Rush playing good ball.

The Ranger backfield lacked the threat that they had when Comacho and Massege were both running. The Indians kept Comacho well covered all night and held him to short yardage.

In the search for a replacement in the backfield Coach Warden used Wallace Browning and Gerald Eagwell. All of these Bulldogs played good ball in their new assignments.

No site has been set for the bi-district game with Winters yet. A coin will be tossed to decide where the game will be played sometime this week.

Army Gets Yankee Star

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (UP)—The New York Yankees lost their fourth year prospect to the Army Services today when Lefty Bob Wiesler was called up by his National Guard unit.

Wiesler's unit from St. Louis has been activated and will be sent to camp at Fort Allen, Va., immediately. The Yankees learned yesterday. Pitchers Whitey Ford and Dave Madison and outfielder Art Schult have been called into service since the end of the 1950 season.

Wiesler, who had a brief trial with the Yankees last summer, led the American Association in strikeouts with 162 last season while pitching for Kansas City.

Because of Wiesler's military summons, the Yankees will be permitted an extra choice in the annual major league draft next Monday at Cincinnati.

SMU Colts Beat Baylor Cubs At Waco 39 to 20

WACO, Nov. 17 (UP)—Fast Frank Eidom paced the SMU Colts to a 39 to 20 victory over Baylor's Cubs here last night by netting 176 yards on the ground.

Eidom, whose 19 carries made up well over half of the Colt rushing yardage, also scored two of the SMU touchdowns.

The Colts put over at least one score in every period to earn their fourth straight win. Passer Duane Nutt set up several of the counters with able assistance from end Ed Bernet.

Education Group To Hear Writers On Sport Lapses

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (UP)—The American Council on Education's special committee to investigate "ethical lapses" in intercollegiate athletics today invited three prominent sports writers to express their views at the opening meeting here on Monday.

Leo H. Petersen, sports editor of the United Press; G. W. (Sec) Taylor, sports editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune and President of the football writers association; and Columnist Hugh Fullerton, Jr., representing sports editor Ted Smits of the Associated Press, were the writers invited to speak.

Chairman John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State College, said the committee wished to hear the views of press representatives on the subject of intercollegiate athletics before going into executive session of Tuesday to consider a course of action.

A spokesman for the council on education said the committee probably will discuss gambling, cribbing, recruiting and general over-emphasis during its first two sessions.

Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, secretary-treasurer of the NCAA and commissioner of the Western Conference, and Asa S. Bushnell, president of the National Association of Collegiate Commissioners, were selected yesterday by NCAA's President Hugh C. Willett of Southern California to represent the collegiate body.

Public Relations Award Presented To TP Railroad

DALLAS, Nov. 16—The American Public Relations Association's top award for outstanding achievement in Public Relations in the field of transportation has been presented to the Texas and Pacific Railway Company, it was announced Thursday.

The award was made to J. B. Shores, public relations director for the Southwestern rail line, by Harold E. Stassen, at an Awards Luncheon during the APRA Annual meeting in Philadelphia November 14-15.

The American Public Relations Association Awards are nationally known as the oldest and most highly coveted recognition of top performance in the profession.

The award to the T&P—one of the association's traditional 12 Silver Anvil Trophies given to industries and professions in recognition of outstanding efforts in influencing public opinion and in following noteworthy practices in the field of Public Relations—was made for its current series of Americanism newspaper and magazine advertisements developing the theme "How You Can Make America Strong." Inserted periodically in the 120 newspapers along the T&P lines in Texas and Louisiana and in a select group of newspapers and magazines throughout the United States each advertisement centered around the four simple words—"Work, Save, Vote and Pray." Coupled with each ad is an offer to send a free copy of an article by T&P President W. G. Vollmer, "The Four Pillars of Freedom."

More than 400,000 copies of Vollmer's articles have been distributed by request during the six and one-half months the campaign has been in progress.

Texas Housing Company Completes Work On Ranger Housing Project

Texas Housing Company of Dallas has completed the $362,000 low-rent public housing project here developed by the Housing Authority of the City of Ranger with the approval of the Public Housing Administration. This project gives Ranger a well planned and beautifully landscaped addition in which twenty-five architecturally perfect and attractively arranged duplex residences and an administration building have been built. The project, designed and developed by the Housing Authority of the City of Ranger after financing had been provided through the issuance of bonds and their sale to the Public Housing Administration, provides modern brick homes on low rentals for residents in the low-income bracket. Texas Housing Company was awarded contract on competitive bidding by the local housing authority and served as general contractor for the entire project, awarding all sub-contracts and supervising the work from beginning to completion. W. G. Reid, Vice President of Texas Housing Company in charge of contract negotiations, represented the contractor in all dealings with the local housing authority.

Work order with notice to proceed was issued to the general contractor on Dec. 29, 1950, and work was started immediately. W. E. Senkel, Production Superintendent for Texas Housing Company, as Acting Superintendent exercised general supervision over the Ranger project as well as other projects on which the construction company was engaged, including a similar housing project at Dublin, erection of troops barracks at Carswell Air Force Base, and other construction projects.

Ben Welch, one of the Field Superintendents of Texas Housing Company, was assigned as project superintendent at Ranger, and established residence here early in 1951 to be able to keep close touch with the project and to expedite construction details. Mr. Welch remained on the job here for several months when he was transferred to a residential construction project in Durango, Colo. He was succeeded here by H. W. Phillips, who served as project superintendent until the work was completed.

Texas Housing Company as General Contractor awarded sub-contracts for site preparation and improvement of streets to McInerney Company of Dallas; for concrete foundation, to Farquhar & Carriker, Dallas; for electrical installations, to P-G Electric Co. Dallas; for plumbing and heating and outside water, sewer and gas distribution systems, to McKee & Evans, Temple; for roofing and sheet metal work, to Associated Roofing Company, Fort Worth; for painting, to H. W. Phillips, Ranger; landscaping, seeding, sodding, shrubbery, etc., to Baker Nursery Company, Fort Worth.

All sub-contractors performed according to contract and completed their part of the project on time so that there were no delays due to lack of coordination.

Bentley - Broad and Nelson, Dallas, were employed as Architects-Engineers. This firm not only prepared plans and speci-

Foundation Work By Dallas Co. On Local Project

Putting in the floor, sidewalks, curbs, and other concrete work at the Ranger Housing Project was the Farquhar and Carriker Company of Dallas.

They were one of the first contractors to start work on the project, proceeding the others with the laying of floors and foundations for the work.

Phillips Only Local Firm On Housing Work

Harlan Phillips

Harlan Phillips was the only local contractor granted a contract for work on the Ranger Housing Project on the basis of competitive bidding.

He and his employees did all the painting work on the fifty apartment units and the management building, and a part of the tile work on the floors of the units.

Harlan had about 25 men working on his part of the project at the peak of construction. Along with being a contractor on the project he was later hired as construction superintendent as the original superintendent had been called to another job.

Washington State's share of defense contracts during the first half of 1951 was nearly $39,000,000.

On and Off the Streets—
 . . . owners of land as well as prospective owners discuss with us freely the many problems growing out of the ownership of real estate. One of the big problems, of course, is the title problem. We tell them frankly that a few dollars invested in an abstract now may save them hundreds of dollars later on. The old saying that "a stitch in time saves nine" is still true and very aptly applies itself to all real estate transactions.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE
 The fact that man in God's likeness is immortal and spiritual is stressed in the Lesson-Sermon titled, "Mortals and Immortals" to be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 18.

The Golden Text is from Romans: "If ye live after the flesh, ye shall die; but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live." Further emphasizing the point is the reference from the twelfth chapter of Proverbs, "The thoughts of the righteous are right; but the counsels of the wicked are deceit. In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof is no death."

One of the citations to be read from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, continues the theme thus: "From beginning to end, whatever is mortal is composed of material human beliefs and of nothing else. That only is real which reflects God. Mortal man is really a self-contradictory phrase, for man is not mortal, neither indeed can he be; man is immortal" (page 478).

Wintry Weather Togs Velvet Pretty, Practical as Well

When the snow flies, little girls look pretty and stay warm in suits like these. Miniature pyramid coat (left) is in monotone tweed touched with velvet and is worn with matching bonnet. Princess style velvet coat (center) and matching hat have mink trim. Pastel velvet party coat (right) has squirrel collar, velvet bow trim.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—When mothers go shopping for coat-and-leggings sets for small daughters, they look for warmth and practicality. They'll find, this year, that velvet can take it.

Once, velvet appeared in small-girl fashions for party wear only. Now, it's still rated dressy, of course, but it cleans and wears beautifully. Further, little girls love it, so everybody's happy.

For a little girl who's getting bigger and thus takes a size five or so, there's a princess coat by Bambury in wine velvet that has real mink trim in the way of buttons and neck bow. Coat has turn back cuffs and a skirt with a wide flare. There's a matching velvet hat with mink pompon. Leggings zip at the sides for easy donning.

A small girl of size three or four will love a blue velvet coat, another Bambury design, with a squirrel collar. Velvet bows trim the front of the coat and appear on the bonnet, where they're centered with pompons of squirrel. Coat has an empire-style back and a front yoke.

Velvet trims a miniature pyramid coat in a soft monotone tweed fabric by Stevens. Curved shoulder seams and shining buttons are high style touches. Though it comes in colors to delight a small girl—Bermuda blue, coral, taffy yellow and gold—the tweed will stand up to an active life. And that will please mother.

Mass Break Scare From Wrong Turn

FORREST GROVE, Ore., Nov. 17 (UP)—Police were alerted for a possible "mass break" when 15 trustees from Oregon State Prison failed to arrive at the Tillamook Burn area to do reforestation work yesterday.

The search was called off when the convicts arrived one hour later and the red-faced driver explained he got confused and took the wrong road.

Kitty Hicklin Honored With Dish Supper

Mrs. Kitty Hicklin, Deputy Grand Matron, was honored on Monday evening Nov. 2, at 6:00 with a covered dish supper which was served in the Banquet Room of the Masonic Hall by the Ranger Chapter No. 275 O.E.S.

The food, chicken and all of the trimmings, was served buffet style. The table was gaily decorated with mums and plumoseus fern in green and gold. About thirty-five or forty members were present for the occasion.

Immediately following this banquet, the members retired to the Chapter Room. The hall was beautifully decorated with green and gold mums and plumoseus and huge baskets of green and gold autumn leaves.

Because it was a stated meeting of the O.E.S., the Deputy Grand Matron, Mrs. Hicklin, made her fraternal visit. Mrs. Hicklin was appointed Deputy Grand Matron of District 3, Section 4, during the latter part of October, by the San Antonio Worthy Grand Matron of the Grand Chapter of Texas, O.E.S. "Our Faith is real" is the creed of the Worthy Grand Matron for this year, and will be passed on by her deputies to the subordinate Chapter.

Report To Parents
By Dr. Martha M. Elliot
Chief Children's Bureau

How many "latch-key" children are there in the nation? There is no statistical way of telling until these "latch-key" children emerge as juvenile court cases; until, even if they do not become law breakers, they emerge in society as personalities confused by problems of maladjusted adjustment.

What is a "latch-key" child? A case was reported to us at the Children's Bureau. The child lived with his mother, in an overcrowded subdivision. His father had deserted the family. His mother had to be the breadwinner.

Each morning, when she went to work, she left her five-and-a-half year old son at home to play.

"And when the children come home from school at twelve o'clock, that is the time for you to go to kindergarten," she told him. The little boy stayed home and "played" during the morning. He had no warm food for lunch. When twelve o'clock came, and he saw the returning children, he would run off into the backyard and hide. He was a chronic kindergarten truant.

To other children in the neighborhood, he was an unhappy little boy who compensated for his unhappiness by being very aggressive, perpetually getting into fights, and being selfish about his toys.

He was, for all practical purposes, a "latch-key" child.

His mother, caught in an economic vise, had to continue her job in order to provide the essentials of life for herself and her son. She could not afford to place her child in a private day care program operated by an individual for profit. The day care program sponsored by public and private welfare agencies, where fees would be charged in relation to her ability to pay, had long waiting lists.

The mother could only "wait it out" until her child could enter primary school, and even then she had no assurance his primary education would not be on a half day basis, because of overcrowded school conditions.

This is a very real problem and we have good reason to believe that the case cited here, found in a large eastern city, is neither unique nor unusual.

What can be done about it? Just before World War II broke out, the Children's Bureau called a conference in Washington to discuss immediate steps to be taken to assure adequate day care for children of working mothers. The conferees declared themselves of the belief that "when mothers go to work there is an obligation on the part of the community to help parents plan for their children in such a way that the children shall gain and not lose by the experience."

Ted de Corsia, Lew Ayres, and Marilyn Maxwell in one of the tragic closing scenes of Irving Allen's colorful frontier epic, "New Mexico" now running at the Tower Theatre through United Artists release.

State and local authorities should give as much thought to developing adequate day care programs as they do to developing adequate school programs. The nation's resources in children should not be weakened by depriving growing minds and bodies of the chance for full, normal development.

As a result of the conference, standards on day care were established for programs whether "public or private, free or pay, all-day or part-day, under home, school, public health or social service auspices."

Ten years have passed, and in the gathering mobilization we can again expect an increasing number of mothers to be drawn into employment.

During the decade, there has been general acceptance of the standards set up for day care of children. But the communities of the nation have become lackadaisical in supplying enough good programs for such care to meet the mounting need.

State and local authorities should give as much thought to developing adequate day care programs as they do to developing adequate school programs. The nation's resources in children should not be weakened by depriving growing minds and bodies of the chance for full, normal development.

fications for the entire project, including site development and architects drawings for all the buildings, but their representatives kept in close touch with work at all time during the course of construction to give helpful advice and to see that the project was developed according to original plans. Officials of the Regional Office of the Public Housing Administration in Fort Worth also maintained close contact with the project and gave helpful assistance to the general contractor and the various sub-contractors.

Clarence Stenzel, Regional Director of the Public Housing Administration, Fort Worth, and Carl Buster, Assistant Regional Director, who gave their approval of the low-rent housing project before its development was undertaken, maintained close contact throughout the period of construction and gave all possible assistance. E. M. Rodgers, Assistant Director for Development, Public Housing Administration, and P. D. Walters, Project Engineer of the PHA, also gave valuable aid in the development and completions of the project.

Bentley-Boyd and Nelson, Architects-Engineers, who designed and laid out the entire project, also gave valuable assistance throughout the construction period. Principals of this firm not only visited the project at frequent intervals, but maintained constant contact with the general contractor and sub-contractors through their Chief Field Representative, James D. Rivenbark, and his assistant Mr. Wagner.

The Housing Authority for the City of Ranger is composed of Commissioners Morris Newham, who is chairman of the board; J. E. Matthews, A. P. Thomas Jr., James Ratliff, Nicol Crawford, and John M. Nuesale, Executive Director.

"Texas Housing Company takes considerable pride in the successful performance and close cooperation that has marked development and construction of the low-rent housing project at Ranger", W. G. Reid, Vice President of the company in charge of contract negotiations said. "There has been complete harmony and hearty cooperation by all interests concerned from the very beginning. Close coordination of all phases of the entire construction program has made possible the completion of the project on schedule and also has assured quality workmanship which has produced homes of high quality and attractiveness in a properly landscaped setting.

"Citizens of Ranger should be proud of the new addition and of the fifty new modern dwelling units it provides. Texas Housing Company is happy that it has had a part in the program that has given this new addition to the City of Ranger."

NOT A CARE IN THE WORLD—You might suppose President Truman didn't have the toughest job, with the biggest worries, in the troubled world to see him flash his early morning "walking" smile at the Key West, Fla., Navy base where he is vacationing. The jaunty cap and sports shirt (usually louder than this one) are presidential vacation trademarks.

Miss Truman Was Offended By "The Smell"

LAKELAND, Fla., Nov. 17 (UP)—Elephants, dogs and horses belonging to a circus were removed from a New Orleans auditorium where Margaret Truman was to sing because of "the smell" rather than her alleged allergy to animals.

Miss Truman announced through her agent, Kenneth L. Allen, Jr., here yesterday that she is "not allergic to elephants or anything—the story was a fabrication."

The animals, traveling with a circus, were pushed into the auditorium before Miss Truman's concert, but were herded into a vacant lot when secret service agents became apprehensive.
