ONE WHO KNOWS TELLS OF BENEFITS OF MARCH OF DIMES

Dear Mrs. Bates,
Ranger, Texas.
Dear Mrs. Bates:
I understand you are Chairman of Eastland County March of Dimes and I have a little grandson whom we have reared to his present age of eight years. In June of 1950 he was a polio victim almost totally paralyzed and it was thought he could not live.

We have had him in the hospital almost continually since he is still unable to use his hands and arms, but much improved. We have just returned him from Warm Springs Georgia, where he had surgery and are taking him back this spring for more surgery, hoping to at least get him where one hand and arm will be practically normal so he can feed himself etc. I am telling you all this for I am afraid there are too many people who do not understand what a wonderful work the March of Dimes is doing. We would not even have a place to take the little fellow for a treatment were it not for the March of Dimes.

Taxing Our Strength
All Presidents through Franklin Roosevelt, in 156 years, took from the public in taxes 248 billion dollars. Two world wars were in this period.

Harry Truman, in six years, took from the public 260 billion dollars. Even so, there isn't enough tax money to pay the current bills.

Monday Paper Be Discontinued Because Of Newsprint Shortage

Due to a reduction in our 1952 newsprint allotment, we are being forced to make some changes in order to care for the needs of our patrons in the best possible manner. The only feasible plan seems to be that of eliminating our Monday afternoon edition. Effective Monday, January 28, you will receive five papers each week instead of the six you are now receiving.

The change was not a matter of choice, but a necessity. The matter of obtaining newsprint is beyond our control. In the past year we were given two reductions in our newsprint allotment; one for 5 per cent and a second for 10 per cent. By careful management of our newsprint we have managed to publish six editions per week, but now the shortage has become critical. We took the only alternative to conserve newsprint.

By eliminating our Monday edition we will be able to conserve our newsprint allowance. Just how long this will be necessary, we can not say, though in all probability for the duration of the critical shortage of newsprint. Our paper comes from the Abitibi Sales Service, Ontario, Canada.

Please bear with us as best you can, but be assured that we shall strive at all times to give you service you will appreciate. Most papers in this section of the state have increased their subscription rates, we do not plan to do so, if it is at all possible to do otherwise.

We want to thank you for giving you the news while it is news, in the best and most extensive manner.

Clyde C. Harris Service To Be Held In Ranger Sunday

Prior to moving to Ranger he lived in Cleem. He operated an interior decorating service there.

Rev. Ralph Perkins, pastor of the First Baptist church, will officiate at the services. Bill Bullock will be in charge of the musical arrangement. Interment will be in the Evergreen cemetery.

He said he purchased the bottle in San Benito.

French Troops Patrol Tunisia

TUNIS, Tunisia, Jan. 26 (UP)—Heavily reinforced French troops and police patrolled the streets of Tunisia today, breaking up crowds and arresting suspects following 11 days of Nationalist uprisings in which 69 persons have been killed and more than 200 injured.

Two persons were killed yesterday—a daily low since the independence-seeking Nationalists began their campaign of violence Jan. 16.

Approximately 2,500 French troops arrived yesterday to reinforce 20,000 troops, militiamen and police who have been hard pressed to hold the situation in control.

Students Rioting And Calling For War And Ousting British

By Walter Collins
United Press Staff Correspondent
CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 26 (UP)—Thousands of students demanding war against Britain, ran riot in Cairo today. They set fire to British establishments and smashed through a police cordon around the offices of Premier Mustapha El Nahas Pasha.

Egypt appeared on the verge of breaking diplomatic relations with Britain as the result of a pitched battle yesterday in the Suez Canal Zone city of Ismailia where at least 46 Egyptian police were killed.

Police fired into the air and hurled tear gas bombs in at least one attempt to disperse the demonstrators.

(The British Embassy in Cairo was understood to have informed the foreign office in London that Egypt may break off relations at any hour.)

U. S. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery was believed to be trying to mediate and avert a diplomatic break.

The demonstrators, most of them students, shouted for the premier to "declare war" and demanded a treaty between Egypt and Russia.

Some 15,000 students—including student "liberation battalions" armed with rifles—marched on the premier's office.

Thousands of the demonstrators rioted in the streets. Some broke into the partly British-owned Rivoli Movie theatre, smashed furniture and set it afire.

Two truckloads of police fired tear gas shells to disperse the demonstrators while the fire brigades tried to quench the flames.

Other demonstrators broke into the nearby Metro Cinema, owned by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, smashed all the windows and also set it afire. Shattered, charred seats were hurled into the street.

Another crowd of students crashed into a cafe in Opera Square, drove out the patrons and smashed chairs and tables, then set them afire.

A heavy column of smoke billowed over the center of Cairo.

Egyptian newspapers reported the Ismailia battle under screaming red headlines. Miarl said the fight constituted a "declaration of war" by Britain. In an editorial, it said:

"Britain has lost Egypt. We regret our loyalty to Britain in 1942, when the Germans drove the British before them to the gates of Alexandria. Such an event will come again and then we won't make the same mistake."

The newspaper appeared to be rejecting western efforts to get Egypt to join in a new Mediterranean Defense Pact against a possible Russian drive into the Middle East.

MORE PRECIOUS THAN RUBIES

THE STORY: Alma Conroy, designer for the exclusive jewelry firm of Trumbull & Company, has been told by her husband, Tommy, that he has obtained a promotion in the firm, for which he also works. Tommy has a great deal of money and buys Alma an expensive gift. But as she goes to work the next day she meets Joe Denton, a friend of both Tommy and herself, who tells of an inside robbery at the House, the second in a series of thefts. Joe lives with his step-mother, a widow, great woman, who also is employed by the firm.

"Poor Joe!" thought Alma, but it was actually more admiration than pity which she felt. Joe took everything daintily.

By now he would be meeting the Lock Sergeant at the counter and counter-checking the contents of the Sergeant's steel lock-box as the latter laid under glass the flaming jeweled pins and clips. Then Joe would use the little key which hung so unobtrusively on his watch-chain and the Lock Sergeant would move on to another show case, and Joe's daily guardianship would begin.

Joe was a good salesman. Women liked to buy from him. Women! And Joe had never looked at a woman other than herself! Poor Joe, thought Alma once again.

The service elevator stopped to let clerks out at Silverware, at China and Glass, at Special Wedding Gifts. Minor executives left at the fifth floor. At the sixth, Alma stepped out into the lobby of the workshop. Most jewelers had their jewelry manufacturing done outside the premises, but Trumbull's had, even in the new building, stuck by the tradition of having it done under their own roof. Alma nodded to the uniformed guard who was always slumped in his chair by the door. "Morning, Pete!"

He granted, but with a smile in his eyes. She left her things in the locker room, slipped into her dark blue working smock and went to the check-away counter. Behind its chromium grille bright-eyed little Mr. Youmans looked like a moth-eaten gray squirrel in a cage. Alma slipped her last night's receipt under the grille and presently he brought her flat steel work-tray and unlocked it, raising the grille and slipping it out to her, smiling. "Don't drop any diamonds on the floor today!" he admonished playfully. It was his standard joke. Alma smiled back.

"You bet I'll be careful!" she said. "The floor's about due to be sold, isn't it?"

The floor of the workshop at Trumbull's was the dream of all its jewel-makers. It was covered by a shallow super-structure of finely knit slatwork, and despite every precaution on the journeymen's part, a certain amount of gold and platinum dust and shavings from the trays seeped through to the concrete floor beneath.

Once a year this dust was suctioned off blind to salvage dealers, the highest bidder undertaking to remove the old wooden floor and replace it with a new one. The smallest winning bid in the history of the House had been $3000.

Anything other than dust slipping through the slatwork was considered the property of the salvage firm and for a journeyman to lose even the smallest stone in this manner was looked upon as a disgrace. When Mr. Youmans made his little joke, his audience stepped carefully.

Alma found herself holding her tray grimly as she took it to her place at the bench where her grandfather already sat. Old Victor watched her affectionately as she laid out her work, his eyes anxious. "All is well, cherie!"

"Yes, Papa Victor. Well enough. What are you making?" "A horrible modernistic clip." He neid it up, shuddering exaggeratedly. "However, one must live!" He leaned toward her confidentially. "But I have a new design—a five pointed star. Wait until The Head sees that! They think I am through, eh? I who originated the flexible diamond bracelet, the diamond sunburst! Alas! They are wrong; Regarde toi, cherie!"

He shoved his meticulous drawing toward her. Even before she looked at it Alma felt sure that it, like most of the old man's dated work, was doomed to rejection. But she smiled and said, "Very lovely, dear Papa Victor!"

Then she concentrated on her own commission, her piers busy with the soft gold wires of the trial set-up. And presently she had forgotten everything except the beauty which was flowering under her hands. The atmosphere swept her up into the Aladdin's lamp magic with which the place never failed to inspire her, for Trumbull's was no mere factory, no cold, detached series of unrelated luxury shops, but a gigantic entity which extended far beyond the stolid white marble of its walls.

The House owned pearl fisheries off Godhepus Island in the Pacific; had their own ruby and sapphire mines in Ceylon and Burma where, before the war, white-robed priests and yellow-robed monks aided the American bagmen in the selection of the best gems. There was the interest paid by Trumbull's in African diamond fields, and in gold and silver mines as well. The House of Trumbull had roots reaching out all over the world—strong roots of its own through which flowed the precious sap which supported the House as the main trunk of a tree is supported by the rich earth.

And the heart of this giant, golden tree was this workshop, in which she labored with such energetic pleasure. At noon she showed Old Victor the furs and when they had been duly admired, they went to lunch. (To Be Continued)

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE

Truth must be more than believed; it must be understood and lived, according to the Lesson-Sermon titled "Truth" to be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 27.

These familiar words of Jesus comprise the Golden Text: "Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free" (John 8:31,32).

One of the Bible citations says, "I exhort therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; for this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour" (1 Timothy 2:1,3).

From the Christian Science

GI's Going To School While In The Service

PLEASANTVILLE, N. Y. — Parents who fear that the draft will postpone their sons' college work should know that all over the world our soldiers are regularly enrolled students of American universities, with Uncle Sam paying most of the tuition. More than 400,000 men are today getting an education while in the services, states Charles Stevenson in a February Reader's Digest article condensed from The Rotarian. Many will return to civilian life with educational credentials enable them to win better jobs.

The U. S. Armed Forces Institute, directed by Glenn L. McConagha from Ohio State University, has grown into one of the biggest correspondence schools in the world. For a $2 fee USAFI will give any serviceman courses in any of 354 grade, vocational and college subjects. It also offers extension courses from 47 cooperating universities.

Even in isolated detachments, from the Arctic to Africa, men may enroll for study. Large military bases have complete school systems. At some there is a branch of an American university at others, where a college is nearby, GI's may enroll as students. Aboard the armed forces education program is as active as at home. Nearly 8000 men of our occupation forces are now studying at 60 schools throughout Europe and Africa. Louisiana State University recently opened a branch in the Canal Zone with 400 students. In the Far East, the University of California has 22 outposts from Tokyo to Manila. Even in Korea thousands of men are finding time to study, between battles.

From the military services some 500,000 men return each year to civilian life. "The more these men have been trained by education for the responsibilities of citizenship, the stronger our country will be," says Navy Captain J. J. O'Donnell, who heads up the armed forces' educational drive.

Egyptians May Sever Relations With British

LONDON, Jan. 26 (UP)—The British Embassy in Cairo was understood today to have notified the British Foreign Office that Egypt may break off diplomatic relations at any hour. British officials said they expect Egypt will demand closure of the British Embassy in Cairo, expulsion of all Britons and a boycott of British goods as result of the Anglo-Egyptian battle in Ismailia yesterday.

However, the foreign office said it did not expect to make a statement on the situation. Its policy appeared to be to wait for Egypt to make the next move.

Ex-Con Admits Nine "Hobo Jungle" Deaths

SCRAMENTO, CALIF., Jan. 25 (UP)—A bearded ex-convict calmly related to police today how he murdered nine men with stones, clubs and a gun in the past year because "I had to eat—and I had to have money to do it."

Lloyd Gomez, a 29-year-old scar-faced farm laborer from Mexico, admitted he killed most of victims in "Hobo Jungle" robberies which netted him only $62.26.

"The most I got from any of them was $24," Gomez said, "and the least was a nickel."

All of the slayings were verified by police records and had been listed as "unsolved."

Sheriff Don Cox of Sacramento County said Gomez could remember accurately the kind of clothing worn by his victims and the circumstances surrounding each slaying.

"There isn't a doubt in my mind he's telling the truth—we've got him cold," Cox said. "He's got a memory like an elephant."

Gomez, who has a jail record dating back 15 years, was picked up by city police a week ago after they found him wandering the streets, bleeding from a slash which ran from his left eye to the bridge of his nose.

He was charged with vagrancy and after a week in jail, called police in and said: "I'm getting tired of living this way. I think I'll just wash the whole thing up."

Then he ticked off a list of nine slayings in the Northern California towns of Sacramento, Stockton, Merced, Oroville, Roseville, Marysville and Mojave. All his victims were hoboes or transients.

After a week's vacation, the Rev. A. Lynn Robbins will return to his pulpit at the First Christian church this morning at the 11:00 a.m. service. His topic for the Morning Worship and Communion Service will be: "Dead-end Religion". The current Chicken and Beans Contest will continue this Sunday as the first month of the contest finishes. #### Regular Services For Methodist

Morning and evening services of worship will be conducted on this Lord's Day, January 27, with the pastor bringing the messages. The morning service will begin promptly at 10:50 with the organ prelude. The Chancel Choir will sing the anthem: "Lo, a Voice to Heaven Sounding", by Bortolomsky. The pastor will preach, using for his subject: "HATE, PREJUDICE GREED—these three."

The Scripture Lesson is taken from II Kings 22: 6-12, with particular emphasis on verse 8: "There is yet one man . . . but I hate him."

The evening service will feature the usual congregational "songfest", singing the gospel songs that you love best. Miss Lorain Burdette, music major in RJC will bring a special message in song. Following the sermon, the high school and college young people will meet in the basement of the church for fun, food, and fellowship.

Church school attendance is slightly above 200 for the past several Sundays. We would like to cordially invite those in our city who are not attending Sunday School and church services anywhere else to meet with your friends at the Methodist church. You will thoroughly enjoy the instruction, fellowship, worship, and friendliness with the Methodists. Meet your friends on each Sunday at "The Church with a Warm Heart," stated the pastor.

Give it Air and Watch it GO!

TAKE ONE GALLON of good gasoline — 8,350 gallons of ordinary air—mix well and feed in small doses to a Fireball Engine—and what do you get?

Well, mister, the closest we can come to describing the result is to tell you—it's something like the mighty thrust of an airliner— swooshing down the runway for a take-off.

All of which is another way of saying that this newest and finest of Buicks can rev up to 170 horsepower, the highest in its distinguished history.

Now, you seldom need all this horsepower. But it's nice to know you can boss it around—even if you use no more than an eighth of it at 40 miles an hour.

BUT BUICK ENGINEERS never do things by halves.

In the process of getting this whopping new charge of power, Buick engineers also came up with more miles per gallon from gasoline.

And they did it with one of the neatest bits of ingenuity we've seen in years.

Instead of building a whole new engine—they focused on ways to feed a better mixture to the great Fireball Engine they already had. A mixture of fuel, which costs money, and air, which is free.

The result was the Airpower Carburetor—a four-barrel automatic—which works on a booster principle.

Two barrels are sized and designed to supply the just-right thrifty mixture of fuel and air for anything from smooth-running idle up to some 40 or 50 miles an hour.

Then—when you call for more power—for a quick spurt out of a tight spot—for an unbroken gait up a steep hill—or for full-throttle operation—the reserves go into action.

You have two more barrels—to feed the just-right thrifty mixture for extra power—something like "second wind."

LIFE'S GREAT behind this great-powered eight, but that's only part of the story.

The rest is about interior styling stepped up to a new plateau of excellence and taste—of silencing to a point where a whisper sounds almost loud inside this car in motion—of bigger brakes and a smoother ride—and of Power Steering* as you have always hoped it might be perfected.

How about coming in and getting that story soon?

Reds Told They Are "Getting Too Big For Britches"

PANMUNJOM, KOREA, Jan. 26 (UP)—U.S. rear admiral R. E. Libby angrily told a Communist truce delegate today that he was "getting a little too big for his britches."

Libby's heated denunciation of North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho came during an angry exchange in the armistice subcommittee on war prisoners.

WHEREAS, it has been determined by investigation and inspections made by regularly employed representatives of the Livestock Sanitary Commission of Texas that sheep scabies, Psoroptes Communis Ovis, a serious, contagious and infectious disease of sheep, exists in the State of Texas, and

WHEREAS, sheep infected with or exposed to scabies, Psoroptes Communis Ovis, are being assembled at Community Sales Rings, Public Auction Sales and Stockyards for sale, trade and barter as a result of which the disease, Psoroptes Communis Ovis, is being disseminated to the farms and ranches of this State with serious consequences to the economy of the sheep industry, and

WHEREAS, it is imperative that control measures be instituted to protect the sheep industry of Texas from the ravages of this disease,

THEREFORE, for the purpose of preventing the spread of this disease, the Livestock Sanitary Commission of Texas, by virtue of the authority vested in it by law, hereby declares that all Community Sales Rings, Public Auction Sales and Public Stockyards in the State of Texas are classed as infected with, or exposed to, sheep scabies, Psoroptes Communis Ovis, and are hereby quarantined.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Livestock Sanitary Commission of Texas has adopted the following regulations governing the removal of sheep from said quarantined Community Sales Rings, Public Auction Sales and Public Stockyards:

No sheep shall be moved intrastate therefrom (except for immediate slaughter purposes) without first having been dipped one time in a wettable Benzene Hexachloride solution containing a gamma of a representative of this gamma isomer concentration of not less than 0.06 percent, under the supervision of a representative of this commission or of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry and accompanied by written permit or certificate issued by a representative of the Livestock Sanitary Commission of Texas or of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry.

At the time of dipping, all sheep shall be counted and paint branded for the purpose of identification and shall be held separate and apart in non-infectious pens from sheep that have not been dipped.

It is further provided that sheep shall be removed within ten days following the date of dipping.

Sheep sold for immediate slaughter purposes, and consigned directly to slaughtering establishments, maintaining Federal or Municipal post mortem veterinary inspection, shall be exempt from this regulation.

It shall be the duty of the owners, operators or managers of Community Sales Rings, Public Auction Sales and Stockyards to provide necessary dipping vats and pens, together with dipping fluid and materials for dipping said sheep, and to provide sufficient help in order that sheep required to be dipped under this regulation, may be dipped in a manner calculated to eradicate infection or exposure as the case may be.

It is also provided that owners, operators or managers of Community Sales Rings, Public Auction Sales and Stockyards are to clean and refill vats when deemed necessary by the Livestock Sanitary Commission of Texas or its authorized representatives, provided however, that no dipping solution shall be used which has been mixed and in the vat more than ten days.

These orders and provisions have been adopted by the Livestock Sanitary Commission of Texas on the 3rd of January A. D. 1952, and are hereby transmitted to the Governor of the State of Texas with the request that he proclaim them to be in effect on and after the 4th day of February A. D. 1952.
