FBI Investigating Outbreak Anthrax In Midwestern States

WASHINGTON, Mar. 28 (UP)—FBI agents are seeking to determine whether sabotage caused the current outbreak of anthrax, a deadly livestock disease, in midwestern states.

The FBI announces it has begun an investigation of the current attack of the deadly disease to see if it has "jurisdiction" in the case. One phase of the inquiry is to find out whether the disease has been spread through anthrax spores in imported bone meal.

Anthrax, which usually is fatal to livestock and can be passed on to humans, has already killed 250 animals in Ohio and has spread to nine states. It is caused by spores which cannot be eradicated after they penetrate the soil.

Anthrax is not common to states that have been hit hardest in the current outbreak—Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

Members of the United States Livestock Sanitary Association and representatives of 16 states told Federal officials yesterday that imported bone meal has been traced as the spreader of the disease. Normally, a sack of livestock feed is 10 per cent bone meal.

They asked Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan to stop imports of bone meal for use in feed or fertilizer unless the meal is sterilized to kill Anthrax spores. They also asked that feed manufacturers be forced to tag all feed containing bone meal, and certify that it has been sterilized.

Low Clouds And Rain Virtually Halt 'Long Horn'

By United Press—Low clouds and rain have forced a halt in Central Texas' make-believe atomic war as both the "aggressors" and "U. S. lines" suddenly became static today.

The weather curtailed air sorties, but rain-soaked infantrymen of the defending forces in exercise Long Horn began preparing new positions along Cowhouse Creek. There also was a quick buildup of defense strength, indicating a counter-attack against the "invading" 82nd Airborne Division is in the offing.

The First Armored Division rolled into the field for the first time today. Also hustled to the front was the 31st (Dixie) Division, altogether, some 115,000 men are participating in the exercise, which is the largest ever staged in the United States.

Statewide Crime Conference In Dallas On April 16, 17, 18

Attorney General Price Daniel announced today a second annual State-wide conference on organized crime to be attended by the State's 315 prosecuting attorneys and other law enforcement officers. Daniel said he has invited every County Attorney and District Attorney in Texas to attend the meeting in Dallas April 16, 17, and 18.

"The fight against commercial gambling and organized crime is a continuing battle," Daniel said. "Our crime conference last year did much toward keeping racketeers and hoodlums out of this state. This year we must let them know that Texas is still on guard and will not tolerate their unlawful activities."

The first State-wide conference of prosecuting attorneys at Austin last year was attended by most of the State's prosecuting attorneys; and has been credited with helping to bring about new legislation and better enforcement of laws against organized gambling in Texas. Daniel said. The Kefauver Senate Crime Committee gave special praise to the 1951 conference in its final report. This year's conference in Dallas is jointly sponsored by the Attorney General and the Southwestern Legal Foundation at Southern Methodist University as a part of the annual Lawyers Week. Col. Robert G. Storey, President of the Southwestern Legal Foundation, and other business and professional leaders will join in the conference, discussing means to combat immorality in government, Daniel stated.

Prominent speakers include Senator Estes Kefauver, who will address a public meeting on the night of April 16, Mayor de Lesseps S. Morrison of New Orleans, D. A. Huley, President of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Virgil Peterson, Director, Chicago Crime Commission, Col. Homer Garrison, Director of the Department of Public Safety, Hon. Fred V. Pastures Should Be Rested For 4-6 Weeks In The Spring

COLLEGE STATION, March 27.—Pasture plants in most sections of the state have been taking a beating from the weather during the past several months. Rain and more rain is badly needed before the hard hit range plants can even begin their comeback. A. H. Walker, range specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says even under normal conditions the spring season is the most critical period for range plants. He says pasture plants need a rest period to regain their vigor and to allow them to produce a seed crop. He encourages livestock producers to graze supplemental pastures, if available, to give ranges a rest for 2 months or six weeks. This spring rest will give vigor to native drough stunted and over-grazed plants. He points out that the usual practice, following a drough, is to start grazing the range just as soon as the first plants appear and this is not good for the range vegetation. Such practices may reduce annual forage production by as much as 40 per cent, says the specialist. Such a reduction means that a ranchman could only run 60 head of cows instead of 100 head on an annual basis if he had used better management during the spring season. Walker says he realizes that unless weather conditions change very materially in the near future, the spring growing season will just not happen on a lot of the states range lands. But when the drough is finally broken, he urges ranchmen to give the range vegetation a chance to become re-established. The drough has sapped their vigor and stopped root development. A spring to fall deferralment period may be needed in the most critical areas. Such a practice will give the plants a chance to make a seed crop that will be needed to insure a stand of the desirable species, says Walker. A rotation plan for deferring different pastures on the ranch should be worked out and at least one pasture should be deferred each year. Walker points out that range demonstrators have proved that deferred grazing is not only an effective aid to a range recovery program but is also one of the best conservation practices that can be used on the range. such inconsistent examples set before them, is it any wonder that some young people have trouble deciding just what is right?"

Crime Among The Young People Is Caused By Times

One authority on juvenile delinquency said that crime among young people doesn't just happen—it is caused. "It is not a disease," said William G. Mather, "it is a symptom." Mather is a professor of Rural Sociology at Pennsylvania State Teacher's College. Mather said juvenile delinquency increases in times of tension, as now. It is associated with strain, upset, insecurity of the whole society. He added that abnormal times confuse adults as well as children. The professor said some adults are behaving inconsistently these days. For instance, he said, "we condemn government officials who take bribes and yet tolerate businessmen who offer bribes to them. We join patriotic organizations that maintain slot machines and lotteries in defiance of the law." Said Professor Mather: "With taxpayer ought to pay for it." General Kerr voiced his opinion that "every young man is going to do some thing to serve his country in uniform" and "do his bit" under the present world outlook. Earlier he had said that we were not yet prepared for Universal Military Training, but future generations could look forward to some military training and the national guard offered them that chance while serving at home, unless activation comes, then they would go with the guard or would be drafted. The general said congress has made known the importance of the guard by giving them support and making them draft exempt, but that "the guard is not a draft evading outfit." Captain Bruce Harris expressed the appreciation of the men of the battery for having the general and his wife come out from Dallas to be with them, and all other men of the battery and their guests for attending. Harris then outlined to the men a plan for increasing the strength of the Ranger service battery starting with a recruiting drive on April 1. Harris recognized two other visiting officers of the armored division, Colonel Ralph M. Trullinger and Major Otto Shertz of San Angelo, headquarters of the artillery. First Sergeant Jess Cole acted as master of ceremonies during the dinner, and introduced the members of the guard and their guests at each table to one another. A quartet from Ranger Junior College appeared on the program and was thoroughly enjoyed by the guard and their guests. The quartet consisted of Jack Hull, "Rusty" Talbot, Don Bryson, and Bill Blackstone. The foursome from the college call themselves the "Tune Twisters." Allan Kline told a meeting of the National Association of Livestock Producers that the federal government is trying to cover up its policy of "cheapening the dollar" by blaming high food prices for the high cost of living. Kline said the government's bond selling program has the same effect as if the federal treasury printed dollar bills and used them to pay its debts. Kline advocated elimination of controls, substituting freedom as an incentive to more production. Mrs. Kirk's comments are printed in the current Ladies Home Journal. They originally were made in letters she wrote to relatives while she was in Moscow. Mrs. Kirk found the Moscow subway system about the only praiseworthy thing in Russia. The trains, she said, were roomy and well-lighted, and not too crowded.

Life With Reds Not As Rosy As It Is Portrayed

Mrs. Lydie Kirk, wife of the former United States Ambassador to Russia, reports that life in Moscow is made miserable by high prices, poor heating systems, mice and other bugs, and scenes of want and brutality. Apartments are scarce, and much more expensive than in this country. She says two bedroom unit brings as much as $450 a month.

Wood Family Returns Home From An Extended Vacation Westward

Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Wood and son, Leonard, have returned to their home after a wonderful vacation that carried them to various places in New Mexico and Texas. They travelled from here to Rawls, New Mexico to visit with Mr. Wood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Wood. After spending the night there, they were joined by the parents and proceeded on to Roswell and up into the mountains at Silver City where they visited with Alvis' brother, Bill, who is attending school at Western College. While there it began to snow and the weather was very cold, so they journeyed on to find warmer climates.

The party spent sometime touring the Ghost Town at Tyrone. This was quite a curiosity to all of them. They reported that it was a magnificent modern town with everything built for convenience, a beautiful hospital covering an entire block built on the plan as the Alamo and fully equipped for every need, an up-to-date school system, lovely modern homes, but no inhabitants! The town was built during a booming silver rush and then lost its value overnight. Mrs. Wood said it made a lasting impression on her as to just how vitally useful mere wealth could be.

The Gila National Forest, a reserve for natural game and also for Indians, proved to be of great interest and they also travelled Plans were discussed for carrying on the annual 4-H Club dress revue, scheduled for April 20th. The group decided to go ahead with the revue even though there may not be a new agent by that date.

The revue will be held at the West Ward School. Judging of the garments will be at 10:30 a.m. and the dress revue will be at 1:30 p.m.

I'm making a list of calamities that could happen to me

List 'em now and do something about insurance—then forget your fears and BE HAPPY.

Might your car be stolen or burn up? Might you kill or injure somebody with it? Might your house or business burn or be blown away? Might your valuables be lost or stolen? Might an employee or tradesman sue you for injury on your premises? Might your dog bite a neighbor? Might you hit somebody with a golf ball? Might an employee embezzle from you?

Worry hard about these things for a while. Then let us protect you against 'em with America Fore policies.
