SEEN OR HEARD

We believe that we can safely say that all Jaycees made it back from Breckinridge. They went, they rode, saw, and enjoyed themselves. From a quick look at the other riding clubs from other parts of the state the local Jaycees were as well represented as any. And displayed themselves to the estimated 5000 people that saw the "show and grand entry. A number that was at the show saw the downtown parade.

Things went off fine this time. The group was on time, got in their position in the parade at the beginning, and stayed there.

Earl Labrado was the only known casualty. Earl and his mount couldn't get together. Early in the day, before the parade, Earl was "trying his horse out", the horse decided to stop. Labrado failed to have the same idea and that beautiful partnership of Earl and the horse was dissolved then and there.

The Ranger Bulldog band held up their end of the day's festivities in Breckinridge. They, and director C. F. Priggs, play a mighty wicked tune. All their marching noise was made known to the rodeo-goers.

The band went to the parade by bus, the Jaycees went anyway they could, and be on time.

Manager Paul Rogers said that the Teen Canteen has been open for the past week, but they would like to get the place set up better before they start doing any bragging.

Of the five nights per week the Canteen is open, two of them are for junior high, two for senior high, and the fifth is for both groups.

Regardless of what they have now planned in the future it is plainly better than the nothing we had before. Although funds are limited for the Canteen's operation we feel that under the capable directors and manager the Canteen will solve partially the recreation problem for the greatest number of teenagers.

The Jaycees "converged" on Bran Garner, Ranger's former "little theatre man" while they were traipsing around Breckinridge.

Bran keeps telling us that he is going to rebuild the Arcadia, and invited an investigation with a local contractor about blueprints for the theatre.

Mrs. Garner was at the theatre when the mob converged on their place, but Bran was across the street in a drug store and that's where the Jaycees cornered him.

Bran said he misses our little city and would like nothing better than to come back.

Kenneth Hutton of Ranger was in cliff roping in the opening performance of the show. Several others from this vicinity were entered at Breckinridge. All told you might say that it was Ranger night in Breckinridge.

The swimming pool looks as if it might be doing a big business. And hot weather isn't hurting it any at all.

The pool was a little late in getting started this year — the swimmers are probably catching up for lost time.

A half dozen or so were gathered at the pool at least thirty minutes before opening time yesterday waiting for the pool to open.

You can rest assured that Ranger has the best fire fighting equipment now that we've had in years. Which will help the insurance buyers of the city to the tune of more than $1,000 each year in credits.

The fire department is loaded like a boat. The new pumper put them in good condition. That is one of the most needed pieces of equipment that has been purchased in years.

When you hook that big baby on a line you're going to see some water flow.

Lester Crossley said that the truck passed the stated test "holding one foot off the ground." To pass the class "A" test the pumper has to put out 750 gallons for three consecutive hours, and our new one did better than that at a recent trial.

Military Court Sentences Young GI For Murder

By United Press

An American Army court-martial in Nuremberg has imposed the death sentence on a youthful GI for robbing and killing two German civilians.

The GI, 19-year-old Richard Hagelberger of Chula Vista, Calif., accepted the sentence calmly.

An earlier court martial imposed a similar sentence on Hagelberger's pal, Pvt. John Vigneault of Goffs Falls, N. H.

Voice Of America Radio Programs Out In S. Korea

By United Press

Texas is getting more hot, summer weather today.

Temperatures are again due to hit the upper 80's and 90's this afternoon, although the sun will be shielded by cloudy to partly cloudy skies over most of the state.

The coolest spot in the state last night was Marfa where the mercury got down to 66 degrees. Six points reported rain in the 24 hours ended at 6:30 this morning. They were Austin, Laredo, Del Rio, Presidio, Junction and San Antonio.

The Columbia Broadcasting System says South Korean radio stations also have been forbidden to broadcast American Press Association news of Korean affairs. The State Department said it cannot confirm that report.

Key Valued At $50,000 Stolen

DALLAS, June 12 (UP) — A nine-inch key valued at $50,000 and described as "the most gorgeous and expensive key in the world" has been stolen from the Arthur A. Everts Jewelry Co., in Dallas.

The key was designed and built by the company for the 1936 Texas Centennial Exposition and was used officially to open the centennial.

It is set with hundreds of expensive jewels including a 14 carat diamond center piece. Pinkerton detectives, who reported the theft, say company officials first missed the key two weeks ago but they thought it had been misplaced from the showcase where it was on permanent display.

Constable's Wife Commits Suicide

SAN ANTONIO, June 12 (UP) — A verdict of suicide has been returned in the death of a San Antonio constable's wife. She was Mrs. Alice Schaefer, wife of Constable Ed Schaefer. Mrs. Schaefer was found shot to death last night in the couple's apartment.

Justice of the Peace M. D. Jones, acting coroner, returned the suicide verdict. Mrs. Schaefer left a note, but Jones would not reveal its contents.

T&P Elects Two New Directors

By United Press

Two Texan men prominent in their respective fields were elected to the board of directors of the Texas and Pacific Railway Company at a board meeting of the rail line held here today.

They were Estil A. Vause, president of the Fort Worth National Bank, and Will K. Stripling, president of W. C. Stripling Company, one of Fort Worth's largest department stores.

Vause and Stripling were named to replace former board members R. E. Hardin of Fort Worth and Arthur Temple of Texarkana, both deceased.

In other action the board voted dividends of $1.25 per share on the common stock and one and one quarter per cent on the preferred, payable June 30 to stockholders of record June 23, 1952.

In attendance at today's meeting were ten Texas and Pacific board members, including President W. G. Vollmer.

Senate May Try Steel Seizure Bill Fifth Time

By United Press

Democratic leaders in the Senate may give a steel seizure bill more try.

They've been defeated in four previous attempts to give President Truman the emergency bill.

And they admit privately there is little hope of success.

The Senate is standing firm in its request that Mr. Truman use the Taft-Hartley Law to end the 11-day strike of 650,000 CIO steelworkers.

In Coatesville, two CIO locals are considering a new contract offer from the Lukens Steel Co.

It would give the 4,500 workers

12 and a half to 26-cent hourly pay boost. The union reply may come this afternoon.

Dallas Banker To Head USO
Texas Campaign

DALLAS, June 12 (UPI)—Randall R. Gilbert, president of the Federal Reserve Bank for the 11th District, today was named campaign chairman of the forthcoming $740,896 fund appeal for the USO in Texas.

Selection of Gilbert to head the state-wide campaign was announced by Ben H. Wootten, chairman of the Texas United Defense Fund Committee. The committee is made up of Community Chest executives of the state and prominent volunteer leaders.

The Texas goal of $740,896 is this state's pro rata share of the national goal of $17,244,585, the bulk of which goes to maintain the USO's morale services to the Armed Forces around the globe, Gilbert said.

"As long as Texas boys and girls in growing numbers serve their country in the Armed Forces, there will be a need for the wonderful home-tie services of the USO," Gilbert said. "The Military can only go so far in looking after the needs of these youngsters, and they do a splendid job, but it is up to us, the civilians at home, to keep alive the bonds between the boy and the girl in uniform and his home community. Realizing this, I think every citizen of Texas will want to contribute his share to this campaign to maintain the services of the USO."

Gilbert reported that a major portion of the fund last year was provided through local Community Chest campaigns, and that the Community Chests of the state this year will be asked again to assume their proportionate part of the goal.

Plant Diseases Found Sometimes Useful

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Some plant diseases can be useful, according to William C. Snyder and H. N. Hansen, pathologists of the University of California College of Agriculture. The two identified a pine-infested fungus in the eastern United States which increases the resin flow of certain pines. Although the process is not in commercial use yet, it is a potential method for boosting production of resin for making turpentine, paints, varnishes and plastics.

Ergot, a fungous disease growing in rye kernels, is widely used to prevent hemorrhage. Pecky cedar, often used in homes for decorative paneling, is the result of another disease. During its lifetime, the fungus eats out the worm-like burrows in the wood.

THE STORY: Jack Duggan, a private detective, dies of poison after posing as Dr. Basil Willing, psychiatrist. Basil had followed Duggan's example, but in 1947 given by another psychiatrist, Dr. Zimmer. Before Duggan can explain what he did, Dr. Zimmer, who has had taken him, his last words were about a place where "no bird sings." Basil leaves the office of his new guests from Dr. Zimmer, who was aware that an imposter was at the place. Basil is interested in Miss Katherine Shaw, a blind woman, who apparently had mistaken Basil for the doctor. The next day, Basil learns that Miss Shaw is dead.

VIII

IMMACULATE was the word for Katherine Shaw's drawing room. Every sunlit surface shone as if it had just been polished.

Inspector Foyle looked about the room and frowned. "No ash trays!"

There were some nice bits of enamel from Limoges, some pretty pieces of porcelain from Meissen, some glittering bowls of cut crystal. But they were all snuff boxes, figurines, or vases. Nothing in the room could possibly be mistaken for an ash tray.

Charlotte Dean stood on the threshold, a tall, narrow woman with long-fingered hands and slender feet.

"Inspector Foyle?" She spoke in a high, sweet voice. "I recall your appointment with Miss Shaw this afternoon, but—don't you know?"

"That Miss Shaw is dead? Yes," Foyle answered gravely. "And I'm sorry that I must insist on keeping the appointment—with you."

"Then won't you sit down?" She sat with ankles crossed, hands resting lightly on the arms of her chair, an easy posture that suited the chair and the room. A shaft of sunlight fell across her face, and Basil saw eyes red and swollen as if she had been weeping.

"How did Miss Shaw die?" Foyle asked her.

"What happened last night," said

"Her heart gave out," Charlotte Foyle. "He was poisoned with cocaine."

"That is most extraordinary." It took strict social training to keep the voice so level, to leave so much unsaid. "May I ask who the man was?"

"We have identified him as a private detective named Jack Duggan."

"How long had she been ill?"

"It began four years ago with arthritis of the hip. Two years ago she lost her sight—a cataract. She was too old for an operation, so I was engaged as her companion. I was on 24-hour duty except for two hours every afternoon, when I usually went out while a maid stayed with her. I sleep in a room adjoining hers."

"Did she call you last night?" Foyle inquired.

"Only once, just before you telephoned. She wanted a sleeping pill. I went back to bed and then this morning I found her . . . I sent for her doctor at once. He told us there was nothing anyone could have done, even if she had walked during those last moments."

"Did she use sleeping pills often?"

"Almost every night. The hip was painful."

"How many were there last night?"

"Six."

"And this morning?"

"Five, of course. I gave her only one last night."

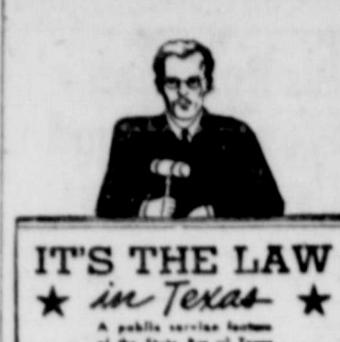

"Do you know what drug she was using?" went on Foyle.

"Codeine," Charlotte looked at Basil with a slight frown. " Didn't I see you at Dr. Zimmer's last night?"

"THIS is Dr. Willing from the District Attorney's office," said Miss Dean.

"But someone else at Dr. Zimmer's was announced as Dr. Willing."

"What happened last night?" said

TRADE MARK RIGHTS EX-PLAINED

The alarm clock that jolts us awake in the morning to the electric light that we turn off at night, Mr. and Mrs. Average American are constantly surrounded by products which have been purchased by their brand names. The constant use of trade-marked products with satisfactory results, combined with persistent advertising, makes us trade-mark conscious.

What does a trade-mark actually do? It identifies merchandise as being the product of a particular manufacturer or distributor. The use of trade-marks is very ancient. They were used by the brick-makers of ancient Egypt; the lamp-makers of old Athens; and the helmet makers and armurers of medieval England. While a trade-mark is often a word, it may also be an emblem, symbol, slogan, or other device. The intended function of a trade-mark is to distinguish the goods of the proprietor from the goods of others in the market place. The expression "trade-mark," "brand name," or more simply "brand" or "mark," are synonymous.

A person or company becomes the owner of common law rights in a trade mark through adoption and use of the mark on goods. The law affords protection to the owner by prohibiting others in the field from appropriating the mark or one similar as to be likely to cause confusion.

There is a twofold purpose behind such legal protection: first, it protects the purchaser from deception and assures him that he is getting what he wants; and second, it protects the trade-mark owner from piracy of the good will, reputation and property rights which he has built up in a mark to lose its legal protection due to merchandise carrying the mark.

Trade-marks are frequently among the greatest and most valuable assets of a company, for they symbolize the good will of the company. To achieve such a status, however, a trade-mark must be carefully selected. Among other considerations it is, of course, important that a mark be chosen which is not confusingly similar to any other trade-mark used by another on similar goods. It may be necessary to conduct a search of marks already in use in order to determine this question.

When a word or symbol has been selected, it must then be properly used in connection with the goods to become a valid trade-mark to lose its legal protection due to improper use by its owners or the public.

The Federal and most State governments, including Texas, have, by legislation, provided for the registration of trade-marks by their owners. While a trade-mark need not be registered to receive protection in the courts, such registration does afford substantial benefits to trade-mark owners.

Air Pollution Hearing Called; First In Texas

AUSTIN.—A public hearing on atmospheric pollution, the first of its kind ever held in Texas, is scheduled for June 25-26, in Houston at 9:00 a.m., the State Department of Health.

The hearing, to be held in the Baylor University School of Medicine auditorium, is for the purpose of allowing industrial plant managers and the public to see what can be worked out on pollution abatement.

State Health Department engineers will moderate the discussion.

Dr. George W. Cox, State Health

Officer, said Texas has no specific anti-pollution laws and "no standards to go by." The ultimate goal, he said, is to develop a control program.

"We'll need some enabling legislation to set up a program," Dr. Cox said. "The complicated problem in Texas will require a lot of support from both industry and the public."

He said industry has indicated just as great a desire to do something about the situation as has the public.

About 85 per cent of all air pollution complaints coming to the State Health Department's attention come from the Houston ship channel area, which Dr. Cox tagged as the reason for having the first public hearing there.

This is the first in what health department engineers hope will be a series of public meetings on air pollution abatement. Potential pollution problems will increase with Texas industrialization, the health officer declared.

In addition to inviting industrial leaders and complainants from Houston, a representative from the governor's office and the attorney general's office have been asked to be on hand.

FLASHBACK

Sometimes it's a fleeting moment, sometimes weeks, months and years in the headlines.

Then they drop from sight—

For instance, whatever happened to Fleet Admiral William Leahy?

Adm. Leahy retired in 1939 after 41 years of service, including the post of chief of naval operations. He then served as personal chief of staff to both presidents Roosevelt and Truman, and attended the Casablanca, Tehran, Quebec, Yalta and Potsdam Conferences. He also was governor of Puerto Rico and ambassador to Vichy France. Lately little has been heard of Adm. Leahy.

Where is he now?

Adm. Leahy, now 78, still is on active duty, but does only special assignment jobs for the White House. He lives in Washington.

No Relation Yet
In Tobacco And Lung Cancers

GALVESTON, Texas June — Research by two University of Texas Medical Branch scientists indicates there is no significant correlation yet between the amount of tobacco consumed and the death rate from lung cancer in this country.

"Statistical data presented by some investigators relative to cigarette smoking are impressive," R. H. Rigidon and Helen Kirchoff Pathology Department researchers, said in an article in the spring issue of Texas Reports on Biology and Medicine.

However, there is such a wide variation in conditions on which the investigations were based, that additional samplings are needed to warrant their conclusions, the scientists added.

Rigidon and Kirchoff reviewed more than 40 research projects in the report entitled "The Relation to Lung Cancer."

They attributed the rapid rise in reported lung-cancer cases to improved and more extensive medical practices and better record keeping.

Better diagnoses, decrease in the number of infectious diseases through both prevention and therapy, and the population's lengthening life span seem to be more significant factors in the increase, they asserted.

GALVESTON, Texas, June — There apparently are no rheumatic fever "not spots" in this country, University of Texas Medical Branch scientists state in the spring issue of Texas Reports on Biology and Medicine.

Comparing surveys made in other sections with records of Texas Gulf Coast-area hospitals, Howard E. Leibius and Theo C. Panos found frequency of hospital admissions for rheumatic-fever treatment varied because of differences in types of institutions particularly in relation to the number of children admitted.

The scientists' research indicates rheumatic-fever prevalence varies little from one part of the nation to another.

DALLAS, June 12 (UPI)—Mrs. Lydia Karcher, former wife of a Dallas oilman, has been awarded a settlement of one million 250 thousand dollars. Attorneys believe it is the largest settlement of a divorce suit ever entered it Dallas.

J. C. Karcher, an oilman and geo-physicist, agreed to give his wife that amount in cash and in blue-chip corporation stocks from his own separate funds.

But that's not all. The settlement did not include another law suit in which Mrs. Karcher was awarded more than $75,000 in cash and stocks as her share of the couple's community property.

Granddaughter of Local Residents Married In Church Ceremony Sun.

Miss Nancy Barnett became the bride of Clarence King in double ring ceremonies performed at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Church of Christ at Grand Prairie with the pastor, Norman Gipson, officiating.

Miss Barnett is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Barnett of 709 Northeast 11th Street of Grand Prairie and the oldest granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Head of Ranger. Mr. King is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. King of Duncan, Okla.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Barnett wore a floor length bridal gown of cloud white nylon net and lace fashion. Scallops of the lace formed a portrait neckline with tiny cuffed sleeves. The molded bodice of lace topped a full, gathered skirt of alternate panels of lace and net. Two full tiers of imported bridal illusion were caught to a half hat of shirred illusion trimmed with venice lace. Completing the costume were short kid gloves.

Wearing an aqua-colored, floor-length gown, Mrs. Bill Gofinet of Grand Prairie was Miss Barnett's Matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Vicki Barnett, sister of the bride, who wore a pink organdy; and Miss Sue Smith also of Grand Prairie who wore a gown of blue.

Best man was Buddy Myers of McGehee, Ark. Ushers were C. B. Looney, Abilene; W. T. Bryan, Burnsaflat, Okla.; Carroll Field, Duncan, Okla.; Dub Orr, Robstown, Texas.

Music was furnished by the chorus of the a capella choir of Abilene Christian College. Miss Vicki Barnett sang "At Dawning" and Don Fare of ACC sang "Because."

Relaxation Will Preserve Hearts

A Seattle specialist says people should stop persuading themselves they have heart disease.

And if they suspect they have the disease, they should quit guessing about it and go see a doctor at once.

Paris After Dark Exciting Evening Gowns Are New

Spectacular evening gowns from the mid-season collections in Paris include this dress (left) with "corset bodice" by Jean Desses. Black taffeta is combined with crepe taffeta, with the latter worked into the tightly-waisted bodice. The taffeta is used for a sweeping panel-train. Velvet is important in the mid-season collections. Jacques Fath uses it (right) for a strapless evening gown of white lace with giant bow and streamers in velvet covering dress front. Brief bolero emphasizes a daring decollete, is worn with long black velvet gloves—By Rosalie Hargrove, NEA Staff Correspondent.
