RANGER DAILY TIMES

34TH YEAR RANGER, TEXAS, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1952 PRICE FIVE CENTS No. 127

"You young scallawag," exploded the irate father.
"I'll teach you to make love to my daughter!"

Which way do you sleep, north-south or east-west ... or north and south?

Gotta stop and figure? Well—maybe you're like the walking meat shortage. We'd never stopped to worry about the matter. A bed has been a bed—no matter what direction it has seen set. And we just slung on our pajamas and hoo in same.

But today—we're enlightened. The other day we came across a string of paragraphs in The Dallas Morning News which hint that it might be a good idea to hire a surveyor.

Maybe we'll find the answer to that old t.f. feeling.

Maybe we'll be able to jump instead of drag out of bed when the alarm clatters.

Just by changing the direction of our bed.

To spare you any further confusion relative to this matter, we quote:

A Commerce grocer has started a lot of people doing pleasant research.

He's got them sleeping.

The grocer, Arthur C. West, had reason to believe that persons who sleep north and south sleep better and live longer than those who sleep east-west.

He got this idea when he was in the service. He slept in a barracks with a number of other men. One morning he noticed that when his bunk was turned north to south, he felt better the next morning, and seemed to have more energy.

He got to looking around and noticed also that the other men who slept in the north-south direction seemed to move faster than the sleepers of the other direction.

This brought to West's mind an experiment which he witnessed one day back in college physics class before the war. In that experiment, the physics professor held a curtain rod in a north-south direction and tilted it toward the ground. By hitting a few blows on the raised end of the rod with a hammer, the professor magnetized the curtain rod.

Then by turning the curtain rod east and west and hitting it with the hammer, the professor demagnetized the rod.

West wondered if persons also didn't acquire a certain amount of this magnetism when they slept with the magnetic currents that flow north to south. And he wondered if that didn't affect their sleep, and their health.

West had studied psychology in college, so the Army made a psychologist out of him. In this work, he queried a number of soldiers and their answers added to his theories of north-south sleeping.

Since this war he has given much thought to his theory, and last Aug. 15, he had a letter in the letters to the Editor column of The Dallas News asking if others had experienced better sleeping in a north to south direction.

The response has been overwhelming. More than a hundred wrote him letters, and at least another hundred came to his grocery store from all parts of Texas just to discuss the sleeping theory.

West was surprised to learn that his theory was not new. Some of the writers and callers said they were told by their grandparents to sleep in the north-south direction.

Four letters from persons over ninety years old said they were still in good health and testified that they attributed great value to north-south sleeping. One was J. O. Teagarden of 5456 Richard Avenue in Dallas, who wrote:

"I am ninety-one years of age and have excellent health, walk everywhere without assistance and am generally taken to be fifteen to twenty years younger than I am."

"In support of your theory, my position in sleep has been north and south for the last fifteen years and possibly longer."

One of the letters came from a college president and two from prominent naturalists. And daughters of two physicians wrote that their fathers had believed in the north-south sleeping and had recommended it to them years ago.

A letter pointed out that steel corporations stacked steel rails; they find it reduces rusting.

in a north-south direction because One man said he had read in a book that cows give more milk if kept in north-south stalls, and that crops produce better if planted in rows in that direction.

Two brothers wrote that they have slept in opposite directions

He operated the Callihan Rotary Company here since its organization in 1947.

Mr. Callihan was married to Jenny McIlfresh in 1906 while in Illinois. She died shortly after they moved to Abilene.

He married the former Ernestine Weatherford in 1929. Survivors are his wife; two sisters, Mrs. J. D. Fenton of Williamstown, W.V., and Mrs. Charles Eagle of Fort Myers, Fla., and a number of nieces and nephews.

ASC Rebels Finish PC Wars With Glory

From the cellar to the championship in two years.

That's the record of Coach Willie Zapalac's Rebels whose splendid running and passing brought ASC the Pioneer Conference football title last Saturday when the Arlington eleven defeated a fine Tarleton State team, 27-13.

The Rebels, featuring their best offensive backfield in 25 years, won the title in a year when the conference was so evenly matched that each of the five league teams was rated a contender until the closing stretch.

Each conference eleven had a season average of over 500 percent, and loop teams won 21 of 27 contests with non-league opponents. Only Navarro of the Texas Junior College Conference had a success with conference teams.

All Valley teams were defeated, Kigore and Little Rock of the Big Six bit the dust, and Paris broke even.

In conference play the Rebs compiled the best record of any team both on offense and defense, despite the fact that Ranger was the defensive leader throughout the whole season. But the margin for ASC was close. Against four league teams, the Rebs scored 74 points—only 7 points more than the total scoring of the Schreiner Mountaineers who tied Tarleton for second place in final standings.

Defensively the Rebs yielded 17 points—seven fewer than third place Ranger which gave up 24

Local Pastor In Washington For Big Meet

The Rev. Garland Lavender, pastor of Ranger's First Methodist Church, arrived in Washington, D. C., this morning at 4:20 a.m. by plane to attend the "Spiritual Life Mission" of the Methodist Church's General Board of Evangelism.

The Ranger pastor, who departed for the conclave at Love Field, Dallas, shortly after midnight last night, is one of 400 clergymen across the nation selected to help conduct a new experiment in evangelism to be tested in the nation's capital, Nov. 28-Dec. 5.

"Our goal will not be new church members, but how to reclaim inactive and indifferent members," said the Rev. D. G. Ernest Thomas, staff member of the Nashville board, who will direct the program. He said the Washington project will serve as a test pattern for metropolitan Methodist churches throughout the country.

The mission will be based at Hamlin Methodist Church in downtown Washington. The visiting ministers will attend a training school every morning, then fan out to 317 churches in the area to team with local ministers and laymen to preach and visit. Every church member will be urged to observe "holy habits," Dr. Thomas said. The covenant pledges regular attendance, family devotions, daily Bible reading and prayer.

Fred Joseph Is Completing AF Basic Training

Lackland situated near San Antonio, is the world's largest air force base, site of Air Force basic training for men and women, headquarters of the Human Resources Research Center, and home of AF's Officer Candidate school.

His basic training is preparing him for entrance into Air Force technical training and for assignment in specialized work. The course includes a scientific evaluation of his aptitude and inclination for following a particular vocation and career.

Snowball-Tossing Mechanized Now

The atomic age has finally caught up with the ancient, juvenile sport of tossing snowballs.

A Pittsburgh teacher, of all people, is the man responsible.

James W. O'Dell, an economics and accounting teacher at Westinghouse High School, has invented a snowball gun, a devilish invention that promises to revolutionize the winter sport completely.

Thanksgiving Is Quiet In City; Hash Due Today

An eager-beaver reporter armed with enough blank paper to hold a chapter of "Gore With the Wind" bursted into the Ranger Police Department quarters in the City Hall Friday morning—hot on the trail of a warm stove and information for publication.

After scorching the seat of his pants on the glowing gas heater, the scribe stopped shivering and began his usual procedure of popping questions.

"Well," he asked Police Chief W. G. Pounds with pencil in hand and a hopeful light in his eyes, "what happened in the old city over Thanksgiving?"

"You really want to know?" the RFD head countered seriously.

The reporter's sharpened pencil seemed itching to scratch on the batch of blank note sheets as he nodded.

"Well," the Chief drawled, "we all ate turkey—that's what happened. Furthermore," he added, "the entire Ranger police force enjoyed a fine Thanksgiving Day."

"And so did everyone else, apparently," the Chief reported, "No car wrecks, no accidents, no family squabbles, no phone calls from cranks, no drunks." And then, with apologies to Sam Spade, he concluded: "Period. End of report."

In other words, Ranger had a quiet Thanksgiving. And so did the Oil City's gendarmes—Chief Pounds, Ed Freeman, Ralph W. Veebe, Joe Faircloth, and J. L. Shoak.

The reporter tossed his handful of blank sheets into the waste basket, moved over to the stove and scorched his pants again. He was wondering if he could remember the taste of turkey hash.

Ranger Tot's Letter Reaches Santa At Pole

Santa Claus, who'll visit Ranger on Saturday, Dec. 6, reported today that he'd received his second letter from a Ranger small fry.

"It's from little Jay Dell Baker down there in Ranger," Santa told the Times from his North Pole headquarters, "and we were mighty, mighty glad indeed to hear from him."

Santa said the lad wrote that "I have been a good boy. Will you bring me a camera and a big moving van and a milk truck, and an ambulance truck and a hot gun and five bags of b-b's. Please."

St. Nick said he was happy to receive the letter and that he expects to receive hundreds more in the coming weeks. The Elves in his postoffice, he said, are preparing for the busiest season in years.

"Of course, as the mail gets heavier," Santa said, "we'll be unable to publicly acknowledge every letter we receive. But we know our fine boys and girls down there around Ranger will understand."

Santa also added that his toy factories this week went on an around-the-clock basis with a new shift of 500 elves being added in order to hike production of toys anticipated for the annual Christmas distribution by the jolly old gent.

Blizzards And Jackets Battle At Brownwood

The Winters Blizzards and the Stephenville High Yellow Jackets both beaten by the 1952 Ranger High Bulldogs and title-holders of the District 9AA and 10AA loops respectively, clash tonight at Brownwood Stadium in Brownwood in their all-important bi-district game.

The Blizzards, undisputed champs of the 9AA circuit, have a tough foe in the Yellow Jackets who hold an impressive seven won-three lost, one tied record for the 1952 campaign. The Jackets were named to represent District 10AA after Stephenville, Ranger and a district-wide round up in a three-way title tie last week.

Ranger defeated Winters 13-7 last Oct. 3 and just prior to the end of the season upset the mighty Stephenville schoolboy grid machine, 14-13.

Opening kickoff for tonight's bi-district encounter is slated for 7:30 p.m.

EASTLAND COUNTIANS INVITED TO JOIN NEW WOMEN'S OIL GROUP AT BRECKENRIDGE

Eastland County women are cordially invited to attend the membership meeting of the newly organized "Desk & Derrick Club of Breckenridge" which will be held at the Woman's Forum, next Monday, Dec. 1, at 7:30 p.m. The Woman's Forum is located at 1804 West Walker St., in Breckenridge.

The charter members of the club, Jeanne Fort, publicity chairman said today, "feel that the opportunity to join the organization should be extended to out of town women who are eligible and wish to become members."

The purpose of the Desk & Derrick Club is to promote among women employed in the petroleum and allied industries a cleaner understanding of the oil industry through instructive programs and field trips.

The Desk & Derrick Club is open to women actively engaged in all branches of the petroleum industry and organizations who directly supply and serve the oil industry.

All Desk & Derrick programs, with the exception of occasional business sessions, are devoted to some phase of the complex petroleum industry. Members hear prominent speakers on topics ranging from drilling to marketing, see oil industry movies and participate in discussion groups. Programs are designed so that women in all segments of the industry can learn more of their industry as a whole.

Officers for the coming year are: Jean Bunker, President; Ceila Weatherford, Vice President; Marlene Mills, Recording Secretary; Fern Hart, Corresponding Secretary; Louise Athey, Treasurer; Eugenia Power, Director; Kathleen Isbell, Director; Franine M. Buchanan, Director; Jeanne Fort, Director.

An invitation is issued to all women, who are eligible, to attend the December 1, 1952 meeting of the Desk & Derrick Club. Anyone who would like more information about the Desk & Derrick Club may contact the Club officers.

TP Oil Deal Is Called Off In Fort Worth

Southern Production Company of Fort Worth Thursday withdrew its offer to purchase assets of the Texas & Pacific Coal & Oil Company, also of Fort Worth, which holds some petroleum interests in this area.

The withdrawal came at a directors meeting of the Texas & Pacific in Fort Worth at which the offer to purchase the assets of 80-million dollars was formally submitted. Southern Production said last week that it had offered to purchase the assets.

It was the unanimous opinion of C. T. Cheney, board chairman of Southern Production, and the Texas Pacific Directors that the offer as made would not command approval of 80 per cent of the stock necessary to consummate the transaction.

Sportsmen Asked To Give Leather For TB Patients

Calling all good sports! A yelp for help, addressed to the sports editor of this newspaper, arrived in the Friday morning mail. And all sportsmen, nincoms especially, probably will be interested in this appeal.

November 26, 1952
Dear Sports Editor:

Perhaps you are not acquainted with anybody who has TB. I hope not.

I've just returned from a visit to McKnight sanatorium at San Angelo where there are 650 Texans in that category. People like you and me. A couple I met were in the newspaper business before the thing that "just can't happen to me" happened to them.

But this is no job story. As the cures progress, time hangs pretty heavy on their hands. They don't have a lot of spending money. They're home sick—and it's nearing Christmas.

Now there is an occupational therapist out there. A real, down-to-earth sort of gal who has just started on the job. She knows how to keep their busy, but she

Cold Weather In Area Is Due To Continue

Yes, cold weather is here to stay—for a while at least. After brisk weather yesterday during the Thanksgiving holiday, Eastland Countians again shivered this morning as mercury readings over the area registered in the upper 30s, a few degrees above the freezing level.

Early this morning the weatherman forecast "considerable cloudiness with possible light rains" for the Eastland County area. Partly cloudy and warmer weather was predicted for the sector this afternoon, and skies were due to be cloudy tonight and Saturday.

U. S. weather observers forecast Friday's high temperature in the mid-40s, slightly 10 or more degrees above freezing. Not too low a drop was seen for tonight with the nocturnal low predicted to range between 26 and 38 degrees.

Saturday's high is expected to be warmer than today's predicted 45 degrees with the mercury due to climb over the 50-degree mark.

Sigma of the 1952 drive, which goes into its sixth week next Monday unless the $6,800 quota is successfully filled within the coming 24 hour period, is "Give Once for All." President Whittle and chest drive heads have been suggesting that residents of Ranger and the surrounding area give the equivalent of a day's pay to the big annual all-in-one civic and charity effort.

Proceeds from the drive will be split among eight important agencies:

The American Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the Ranger Child Welfare Club, the USO, Teen Canteen, Boy and Girl Scouts and the Community Public Library.

Volunteer solicitors who haven't yet made recent reports on their collections and contact work are urged to contact Ted St. Clair, chairman of the solicitations committee, or Miss Maddocks, secretary, at the earliest possible moment—today, if possible.

The budget committee of the local chest organization, headed by Mrs. David D. Piekrell, met this week in a closed session to plan the program. Allocation of funds raised during the current campaign. A meeting of officers and directors of the group will be called at the conclusion of the fund-raising effort.

One of the things she'd like to have some of them doing is working with soft leather. Trouble is, she doesn't have any.

I'm pretty sure that a number of the deer hunters who read your newspaper have bagged, or will get their buck. And a percentage of them, I'd gamble, won't care much about the hide. But what a bonanza it would be on those wards!

The hides would have to be tanned, of course to be usable, but I'll bet the tanner would co-operate if he knew the purpose. They should be sent direct to Mrs. Kathleen Cornish, Occupational Therapist, McKnight State Sanatorium, Sanatorium, Texas.

And thanks for giving your readers a chance to make Christmas come to life for people who temporarily can't help themselves.

Helen Colburn
Director, Public Information

P. S. Any part of the buckskin will be welcome, if the whole hide isn't available.

Blind Man Shows Woodwork Skill

Richard Tuttle, 35, can't see anything in his skillful woodworking to delight people but he can hear the exclamations of delight it causes, especially among his younger customers at Chardon, Ohio.

Tuttle has been blind for 10 years. Nevertheless, he maintains a wood workshop in his home and turns out everything from furniture to toys.

Gifted from childhood with a knack for woodworking, he began "fooling around" with it after a riding accident cost him his sight in 1942. Now he does it full-time and makes a living at it for himself, his wife and his five-year-old daughter.

What's the Use of an Abstract—

... if it doesn't cure the title? Is another puzzling question to some abstractors, but we have never worried much about this one. Neither does the doctor's prescription cure human ills in all cases, but it may help. The abstract never was designed to cure anybody's title, but the better type of abstract will reveal the condition of the title and place it in position where it may be perfected, if necessary, by the examining attorney.

American Magazine Reporter Has Learned That Texas Has Everything

The next time you hear a Texan making big talk about his native state, don't be too quick to sneer, Don Eddy advises in the December issue of the American Magazine.
Whether it's skyscrapers, millionaires, glamour girls, scenery, oil wells, beefsteaks, adventure, weather, highways, roses, spinach or nuts the Lone Star State claims the most and best. To the amazement of the American Magazine's wandering reporter, he discovered that most of what Texans say is true.
"One of the magical sights of Texas," Eddy says, "is to watch shining skyscrapers rise slowly from the distant plains like something out of Aladdin's lamp. Each city is a character."
In Houston, the industrial behemoth, millionaires come 19 to the dozen, but you may dine at a drive-in attended by a dreamboat in theatrical scanties. You may also get even money that Houston will be America's largest city by 200 A.D.; it's now 14th.
Dallas, brags that it's about the only Texas town where nobody ever fought a battle about anything, but it is mostly famous for the largest state fair in America, and for a department store, Neiman-Marcus, which creates and sets styles, not only for the Southwest, but for all the fashion world.
San Antonio, as cosmopolitan as New Orleans or San Francisco, was laid out along the trails of meandering long-horns; old-timers said it was like a skillet of snakes.
The Fiesta San Jacinto each April compares with the Mardi Gras and celebrate Texas independence from Mexico.
Here are some of the things Eddy learned about Texas:
You have to hunt like a beagle to find a bad road. Texas has 198,273 miles of mapped roads, 43,500 among the world's finest.
Texas's rustic wonders include

3,695 square miles of lakes and 76,000,000 acres of forest, the greatest woodland of any state.

From Tyler, Rose Capital of America, are shipped two-thirds of nation's long-stemmed beauties.

Other capitals include Kilgore, the Oil Capital; Crystal City, Spinach Capital of the Universe; Cuero, the Turkey Capital; and Gainesville, the Circus Capital.

America's biggest farm, the King ranch south of Corpus Christi, is a century-old, 1,000,000 acre feudal empire swallowing parts of three counties and several good-sized towns.

The oldest town in America is Presidio, on the border, where human beings lived for 10,000 years.

The biggest winter vegetable garden in America lies in the Brownsville neighborhood called the Rio Grande Valley.

A woman's suffrage law was passed in the territory of Wyoming, Dec. 10, 1869.

Miss Willena James and J. G. Wright Wed In Gordon Ceremony

In a candlelighted ceremony held Wednesday night, November 26, at eight o'clock at the First Methodist Church in Gordon, Miss Willena James, daughter of W. M. James of Gordon, became the bride of J. G. Wright, son of Mrs. Ethel Wright of Ranger. The Rev. Ralph E. Perkins, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Gordon, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Bill Bullock of Ranger sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer", accompanied at the organ by James H. Brannon of Waco.

The ceremony was also a wedding of white flowers. The ring bearer, Miss Patricia Ann Wright of Fort Worth, wore a dress identical with that of the matron of honor. Her headress was also of white flowers. A reception following the wedding was held at the home of Mrs. Bill James, Jr., and those in the receiving line were Mrs. Ethel Wright, Mrs. James and the newlyweds.

Candlelighters were Bessie Earl Berkley of Weatherford and Charles Don Chesnut of Ranger. The best man was Allen Rusling of Ranger and ushers were Malcolm McKay of Dallas and J. D. Simmons of Ranger.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballarina length gown of white net over taffeta. The bodice was fitted and the skirt was very bouffant. The fingertip veil of white tulle was attached to a seed pearl comb. The matron of honor, Mrs. Bill James, Jr., of Gordon, wore a ballarina length dress of mint green net over matching taffeta and carried a bouquet of white mums. Her head-dress was a bandelier of white flowers.

Mrs. Wright graduated from Ranger High School, Ranger Junior College, and is now employed with the Magnolia Petroleum Co. Following a honeymoon in Louisiana the couple will reside at 323 Elm Street in Ranger.

Christening of Baby At Girlstown

By Marlene Johnson-Johnson Sunday afternoon, Nov. 23, at 2:30 o'clock the little three-month old girl who is the newest member of the home was christened Laura Jewell Katherine Anthony. The Rev. Rex C. Simms, Vicar of St. Luke's Episcopal Church at Leveland made it a most impressive ceremony. Rev. Simms was a chaplain of all faiths in World War II, and his simple but touching prayers for the child left not a dry eye when he had finished. The entire staff and the sixty-two other daughters of the home assembled in the great living room with many friends from the surrounding towns who came for the occasion.

Miss Amelia Anthony, founder of the home held the bright and smiling infant during the ceremony. The child's Godmother, Miss Jewell Hodges of Lubbock, was present.

At the conclusion of prayers one of the daughters was at the piano to accompany the singing of "Have Thine Own Way Lord." The entire group singing softly was impressive, even the monotonous of the tiny girls was musical and one could feel the presence of a guardian angel hovering over those who except for the shelter and love here, might never learn the good life than can be theirs through your kindness. To be present when the family gathers for weekly Bible study and hear the girls read or sing in unison one absorbs a piercing experience of faith and hope for the future of these young women of tomorrow. If you are present you will hear their prayers for you and always for "Mama" as Miss Anthony is fondly called by all. Every day is a day of Thanksgiving in the home and none are more cognizant of it than those who make it a daily prayer.

Girlstown is not a denominational institution, each girl is told to attend the church of her choice. Whiteface is eight miles and cars from various churches call for
