Boss: "I wish you wouldn't whistle while you're working."
Heavy: "I wasn't working—just whistling."

A small one-column map, captioned "Tornado Alley", appeared upside down in Wednesday afternoon's edition of The Times. It was, of course, simply an unintentional error.

And here's how it oughta been:

TORNADO ALLEY—Newsmag locates "Tornado Alley" in Arkansas where twisters left a path of destruction, killing one person, injuring 14 others and causing heavy property damage. Hardest hit was the town of Weiner where a Mrs. Lewis was reported killed, and 25 houses damaged.

Students will learn how to meet simple emergencies in the home, how to recognize some of the early signs of illness; how to give simple nursing care to the sick and injured at home; how to keep the family well, and many other valuable skills in giving nursing care.

Such skills as how to properly both a bed patient, giving a steam inhalation to a patient in bed, how to prepare and apply hot compresses, how to give an enema, and many other essentials in caring for the ill. The danger of self-treatment will also be a part of the course.

Rigsby Couple Send Greetings To Many Friends

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. (Ben) Rigsby of 913 N. 6th Street, Temple, send best regards to their many friends in Ranger.

That's the word passed on today by Mrs. W. W. Paschall of 341 Wayland Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Rigsby, former long-time Ranger residents who were here during the fabulous Ranger oil boom, moved to Temple back during World War II.

Mr. Rigsby was superintendent of the Illinois Pipeline Company here for many years.

He served for a time as chief engineer of the veterans' hospital at Waco prior to retiring.

Thanks to Wilfred A. Peterson for this grand definition of that great word "America"—

"The time has come for Uncle Sam to roll up his sleeves, spit on his hands and begin working like a Titan!

Uncle Sam is you, he is me, he is all of us. He is the steel worker, sweating muscles glowing in the light of a blast furnace. He is the engineer hummed over a drafting board. He is the test pilot roaring toward earth like a bat out of Hades. He is the farmer plowing his fields. He is the man on the assembly line; the guy at the punchpress. He is the cowboy riding the plains. He is the man of God in the pulpit; the teacher in the little red schoolhouse. He is the lanky driver of a truck. He is the radio announcer; the newspaperman. He is the miner working in the dark depths of the earth. He is the doctor making calls. He is the policeman on his beat. He is the center and the bricklayer. He is the Army, Navy, and the Marine Corps. He is the President of the United States and the bootblack around the corner. He is a smitten mass of all of the races of the earth thrown together, stirred up and cast into a Man of Iron he is one hundred and sixty million people who hold in their hands the destiny of democracy.

Americans, all, we must bury the hatchet of discord and dig up the faith of our fathers. We must blend hands, brains, muscles, talents, materials, machines, into a mighty symphony of action. Let's go, America.

They missed the curve.

Eight Men On Venire— 4 More Jurors Being Chosen

Four more jurymen for the coming murder trial of Donald Hawkins Brown, accused New Year's Eve slayer of Joe Campbell, 25-year-old finance collector and former Ranger resident, were yet to be selected as Judge Henry King opened the third day of pre-trial procedure in the Criminal District Court in Dallas this morning.

When the court had recessed yesterday afternoon, a total of eight jurymen had been selected.

During the three days spent thus far in choosing the 12-man jury to hear the bizarre case, a total of 80 veniremen have been interviewed.

The defense counsel has used eight of its preemptory challenges, the prosecution has used four.

Most of the prospective candidates for service on the special jury disqualified themselves by asserting that they could not vote a death penalty on circumstantial evidence.

The weather man finally hit the jackpot early today.

The high temperature for today and Friday was scheduled around 80 with tonight's low about 50 degrees.

The forecast for North Central Texas: "Considerable cloudiness and widely scattered thundershowers Thursday. Friday partly cloudy with no important temperature changes."

RHS Stalwarts To Offer Fans Grid Preview

The "Whites" and "Maroons" of the 1953 Ranger High Bulldogs pep rally grid crew will tangle in an intra-squad post-spring training classic at Bulldog Stadium in Ranger Friday night.

The contest is being staged as a final scrimmage drill for the charges of Coaches O. C. (Stubby) Warden and Boone Yarbrough and also in order to give ardent fan followers of the proud Maroon & White a preview glimpse of the stalwarts who'll carry Ranger's title hopes in the 1953 District 7-A pigskin campaign next fall.

The squad has been evenly divided for the Friday night fracas and will be a closely-played, even-steven affair.

Opening kickoff has been set for 8 p.m.

Admission is free. However, fans wishing to donate to the high school athletic fund may do so. School officials said in announcing final plans for the game.

Also due to add color and pomp to the Friday night intra-squad tussle will be the Ranger High School Band which will be in the stands playing traditional football music.

A comparison of the two squads today indicates that the "Maroons" will have a slight weight advantage over the "Whites."

The overall average of the "Maroon" starting line-up is 169 pounds. The seven starting linemen average a very hefty 174, while the starting secondary quartet averages 157 1/2 pounds.

The Bulldog "Whites" average 160 pounds with the forward wallers weighing out at a 197-pound average, and the four backs averaging 150 pounds per man.

Following Friday night's battle, the Ranger High gridmen will pack away their cleats and moccasins until next fall when they open their pre-7A campaign workouts on Sept. 1. After about two weeks of pre-season drilling they'll open their 7A grid war in mid-September.

Burglars Enter Hamner Home; Take Little Loot

Burglars who entered the Ben Hamner home in Eastland Monday morning completely wrecked a good Yale lock on the back door, but so far as can be determined at this time, limited their activities to the taking of one camera.

The burglary was committed between the hours of 10:30 and 11 a.m. as it was at this time there was no one in the home. A hammer, owned by Mr. Hamner, and a screw driver furnished by the burglar, were the tools used. Both were left at the Hamner home.

One great has been made, though, officers are still working on the case. The first suspect has been released.

Murder she yelled

By Joseph Shalitz

THE STORY: Al Kemmer, owner of High Hill Lodge, has been murdered and Eddie Fields, an entertainer, has been seriously wounded in an attack by someone who wielded an ax. The violence occurred in a garden near the discovery of a garlanded murder in the vicinity. Police search victims at the summer resort, but miss the house where Eddie and his wife Rosita lived, and Kemmer's home. When Mrs. M. M. Kemmer is asked to describe the man who killed her husband, she says she saw a man who looked like the man who killed her husband. The only thing she knows is that the look on Al's trunk has been broken.

XVII

I FOUND Sergeant Healey in Al's swivel chair, going through the papers in the big desk. Corporal Dillon was working on the top of the safe with his fingerprint kit. "Found anything interesting?" I said cheerily. "Why do you come in here? Shipper as a canary?" "What's the trouble, Healey?" "No prints on the ax. Couldn't find a smudge, even." "Must have been gloves," Corporal Dillon said, not looking up from the safe. "I sat down on the chair near the door, noticing I was a little sore in the right hip, in addition to everything else." "There's one thing we ought to do before we knock off. We ought to go pay a call on G. O. Griscomb." Healey's pale blue eyes drifted wearily up at me. "Didn't we already cover that, Morrison?" "Okay, I'll visit him myself," I said. "Better invite him to visit you. I don't want anybody leaving the grounds. Not till I say so." "You're a hard man, Healey." "I went out on the steps and looked things over. There was a state trooper standing guard at the start of the driveway. Another one was in a car parked within view of the lake—he'd see anybody taking off in a canoe."

I moved quickly. I skirted the building and slid down the bank into the shrubbery without an alarm. I started up the sandy road. Honeycomb Lane without a girl. What a waste! All alone on Honeycomb Lane. Somebody could build a good song around that.

PLANTED in this wilderness were a few unsociable houses. You stumbled into them. Trees, brush, vines, and suddenly a clearing and a house.

I went around the eastern end of the lake—I was presumably moving in along the north shore. I couldn't see the sun to check my directions for sure. I walked around haphazardly. I wondered how Griscomb ever found his way home. No signs or trails. But he had a dog. Of course. That explained everything. The big dog was there to lead him home. And when Griscomb got tired, he rode it.

There was a man. He was pushing through the woods about 25 yards away from me. He was going in the opposite direction. He seemed just as startled as I was. But not so happy.

He was wearing a blue serge suit, all buttoned up, looking like a grocer on Sunday. His hat, though, was pretty battered. His features were thick, his cheeks too flushed and oily for good health. "I'm afraid I'm a little lost," I said. "I'm from High Hill."

His eyes sneaked over me quickly, top to bottom. He was as pleased as a housewife discovering crawling things behind the drain-board. "You're a long way off the road," he said. His voice was heavy, half anxious, half threatening.

the same privacy complex as Griscomb. "Is this your property?" I said. "A simple question. But it seemed to bother him a lot. His eyes rifled across me, away from me, back to me. "Mister—" his voice was suddenly grating, a kind of loud whisper, "you better turn around and go back where you came from."

He moved away. "Hay!" I called after him. "Which way to Griscomb's place?" "He turned his body around. "Beat it!" he yelled. "Okay, I'm beating it," I said loudly. I swung around and began to run away. I thrashed heroically through the scrub oak. I hoped he was watching my show. This guy interested me. So much emotion for so little reason. He wasn't any old-time Pocahontas resident. His slurred r's, roughened t's sounded like New York City to me.

I pounded ahead. I wasn't too careful. Bushes twanged against me.

THE trees thinned ahead of me. I saw a wide clearing—a house. Blue Serge was approaching the house. The Great Dane was galloping alongside, pouncing up on his shoulders, and Blue Serge kept patting him, pushing him, squirming away. On the porch, Griscomb...

I slid behind a tree. Blue Serge got his back against a wooden column so the dog couldn't nuzzle him from behind. I saw Blue Serge pull something from his pocket. "An envelope—be opened it—he put things in Griscomb's hand. It was so abrupt, it took me a long moment to realize I was seeing some sort of payoff.

The contents went back into the envelope, into Griscomb's breast pocket. Now Blue Serge was talking. His head was jerking toward the woods. Griscomb looked over the man's shoulder—his eyes swept the rim of trees.

Griscomb reached for something against his chest, walked out to the edge of the porch. A rifle.

Plane Is Used To Fight Eagles

H. H. Austin used a plane in his campaign against five eagles preying on lambs at his property at Guinnagula, Australia. Austin got tired of losing $50 (8110) worth of lambs daily to wedge-tailed eagles, believed to be the world's largest. He got hold of his friend Rea Moore, president of the Tamworth Gun Club. They called on another Tamworth friend, Jim Packer, and mapped out the aerial campaign. Packer owns a small single-engine Auster plane which he pilots as an "air taxi."

On "E-Day," Moore strapped himself to a seat alongside an operator on the Auster. He checked his 12-gauge double-barreled a h o t gun, and, with Packer at the controls, they took off. They soon caught up with two eagles.

"I had time only to fire one barrel into each eagle," Moore reported. "I think we scored a hit on the first one, but I am not certain it was a kill."

The second eagle went down with feathers flying. A horseman on the ground killed it with a stick.

Next day Moore and Packer went up to look for the three remaining eagles but couldn't find them.

Roses Are The Perfect Gift On Mothers Day

It means the same in any language—mother, water, mudder, mutter, madre. And this is the time of year when a gift of real thoughtfulness will mean the most to her.

One of the most popular gifts is a choice of rose plants. What other gift will bring so much joy and beauty year after year as the roses bring forth their colorful blossoms from late spring until frost. As a lasting reminder of this occasion, nothing could be more appropriate for Mothers Day - his year, many nurserymen have rose plants available in pots so that Mother can enjoy the blooms immediately.

Nurserymen have a fine selection of plants available so that a favorite color and type of rose may be easily found. Quality is important of course, and the leading rose growers have recommended a number of varieties known as All-America Rose Selections. Any mother will be delighted to receive a Chrysler Imperial rose—a truly magnificent crimson red hybrid tea. Another excellent choice would be Ma Perkins, an enchanting coral-shell pink floribunda. Both of these roses, which won the AARS award for 1953, have been pre-tested for two years and can be successfully grown in any garden in the country.

Other AARS varieties which are highly popular are Vogue, a magnificent cherry coral floribunda, and two lovely hybrid teas, Helen Traubel, a sparkling apricot pink and Fred Howard, a soft yellow pencilled with pink.

Roses are not only appropriate for Mothers Day, but also for Fathers Day and any occasion when thoughtfulness is the keynote.

Tourist Trade Booms In Hawaii; Stimulated By Air-Coach Traffic

NEW YORK — Tourism, largely stimulated by the increasing amount of aircoach traffic, may become the prime industrial asset of the Hawaiian Islands. Aviation Week, McGraw-Hill publication, reports. Now third, the tourist business is moving up rapidly. Hawaii's sugar industry and pineapple production which rate first and second in importance.

Honolulu is on the verge of embarking upon one of its greatest hotel building booms of its history because, ironically, the influx of traffic by air has caused a serious shortage in hotel facilities and this lack is proving to be a serious limitation to air traffic, the magazine says. New hotel construction definitely under way should add 410 rooms to the present total of approximately 1,500.

Surprisingly, introduction of low-cost aircoach flights between the U. S. mainland and Hawaii has caused no serious diversion from regular first-class business over the same route, according to the magazine. For example, during the four-month period ending March 28 one airline carried a total of 8,347 passengers in the lower-class tourist service. During the same period, 9,089 passengers used the company's first-class service. In contrast, during the same period last year before the tourist flights were introduced, there were 9,674 passengers flying by first-class service.

There is no doubt, the magazine pointed out, that ship travel is rapidly losing ground to air transportation. During 1950, a total of 2,214 ship passengers visited Hawaii from the U. S. compared to 25,182 by air. In 1952 only 15,148 went by boat, 34,392 by air. As aircoach schedules are suggested, this disparity should widen even further.

Manufacturing plants continued to reduce the number of employees accidents during 1952. Twelve per cent fewer employees suffered injuries severe enough so they had to take time off.

Citizens Urged To Understand Liquor Laws

What people don't know about the Texas liquor laws can cause them a lot of trouble.

Thirty-two persons, for example, were arrested at 2 a.m. Sunday for drinking beer at a plush Austin tavern. They paid fines. The guilty ones may have thought that only the tavern operator was responsible to the law in a case of this kind. But the liquor control act provides that any person consuming alcoholic beverages in a public place after hours is subject to a maximum fine of $50 and costs.

Coke R. Stevenson Jr., state liquor control board administrator, said today that there exists much misunderstanding of the law, particularly with respect to the granting of beer licenses and wine and beer retailers permits.

The administrator explained that to get a permit, the applicant must go first to his county judge and obtain the appropriate forms, which are filled out in tri-

New Recipes Will Be Available With Each New Can Shortening

When it comes to recipes—women are natural born collectors! The urge to "collect" is universal—as any small boy's pockets or any Hobby Show will tell you. Buttons, shells, stamps, dolls—all have their loyal adherents. But, writes Winifred S. Carter, who conducts a household information service for Proctor & Gamble, women everywhere—young, old, in cities or on farms—unite in this. They're mad about recipes! Particularly new ones that are easy . . . practical . . . and mouth-watering.

Which is as it should be. For recipes are an important part of happy home life. They bring new enjoyment to family meals, and fresh stimulus to the one who plans and cooks them.

Recognizing this enormous interest in recipes, the manufacturers of a famous all-purpose vegetable shortening have just done a constructive thing. They're turning their labels into young cook books! On both the one pound and three pound cans there are exciting new recipes for cake and pastry making, and for frying. Lots of 'em. On the inside too, for they're cleverly perforated for removal. Since new ones will appear periodically, you can soon build up your own personal file of sure-fire successes.

So now, your recipe collectors, here's a wonderful new source of them. Go right on clipping your magazines and newspapers. Consult, as always, your tried-and-

Court Opposes Campaign On 'Lemon' Auto

A used car whose new owner loudly proclaimed he got a "Lemon" has been barred from Cabell County under an injunction issued by Circuit Judge J. W. Hereford, at Huntington, W. Va. Hereford issued the restraining order against Henry Suiter, who painted the car with signs reading "This Car is a Lemon" and "The Price of Lemons Has Gone Up— I Paid $2,800 for This One." Suiter bought the automobile from a dealer in nearby Ironton, O., but Colonial Motors Inc., a Huntington firm, said its signs were injuring its business of selling the same make of automobile.

OUR DEMOCRACY — by Mat MADE IN AMERICA

MORE AND MORE THAT SIMPLE TAG ON MANY KINDS OF MANUFACTURED GOODS, FROM POTS AND PANS TO FARM IMPLEMENTS AND ROAD-BUILDING MACHINERY, HAS BECOME FAMILIAR ALL OVER THE WORLD. TO THE PEOPLE WHO IMPORT OUR GOODS, IT MEANS A NEED FILLED, A SERVICE — TO US, IT SPELLS PROGRESS FOR AMERICA.

BACK OF OUR INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT STANDS SOMETHING ELSE WHICH IS MADE IN AMERICA TOO: THE THRIFT AND SAVINGS OF FREE CITIZENS THAT MAKE POSSIBLE THE PROCESSES OF PRODUCTION IN OUR DEMOCRACY.

Between Us ...

The car was wizzin'—
The fault was hers,
The funeral his.

Down in Austin State Selective Service headquarters reported that only 27 out of every 100 men drafted thus far this current month of April are 19-year-olds. "Some registrants and their families have gained the false impression that all men who just reached their 19th birthday will be inducted into the service almost immediately," Brig. Gen. Paul L. Wakefield commented. "Instead of simply filing an income tax, too many people try chiseling on it." According to the weatherman, Eastland Courtians can expect rain in drenching quantities by Saturday. A new cool front is blowing moving this-a-way, he says, and the new air mass will bring showers in these parts at the week's end. "We'll just wait and see. Lately, the weatherman has been consistently erring in his predictions. Money doesn't grow on trees. Killingsworth's big Hardware Week sale, which has been drawing hundreds of thrifty shoppers over this area is scheduled to continue through Saturday, April 25. That's only a little over two more days. If you haven't yet gotten your share of these super-values, better get down to Floyd's bargain-cramme-d store this afternoon! See their full page ad in today's Times. And on the subject of bargains—all you thrifty folk in Ranger's trade territory, don't forget to visit your friendly shopping center Saturday. And be sure and attend that Saturday afternoon drawing (3 o'clock) when 100 crisp new Ranger Bucks will be awarded to five lucky men and women. And—remember—a Ranger Buck is really worth a buck at firms participating in the weekly Trade-Down drawing!

On the lighter side, a reader offers this clipping for the amusement of all—

The man entered the drug store and approached the pharmacist. At first the pharmacist had difficulty in understanding what the man was saying, but soon caught on. The stranger was using words in all but their proper meaning.

"I said I want some concentrated lye."

"You mean concentrated lye."

"It does nutme any difference. You know what I emphore. How much does it subshur?"

"I never cinnamon with so much wit," said the druggist, entering into the spirit of the conversation.

The customer agreed, "I should myrrh myrrh. You see ammonia novice at it."

Modern girls would rather be formed than well informed.

area of the old school district for many years. This brings in about $8,500 per year. Under the new program, the tax yield to the college would be about $33,000 per year.

The additional money is needed to assure the college of adequate finances to continue its program of improvements and growth. Mr. Stamey pointed out that the 1952-53 school year would amount to $78,298, including $58,298 for salaries and administration and $20,000 for other expenses.

Income for this year includes $8,400 in tax money, $11,700 in tuition, $3,200 in rents, $19,750 in GI tuition and $21,000 from the state aid fund. Total receipts are expected to amount to $54,050 as contrasted with expenses of over $78,000.

During the 1951-52 school year the college had a total receipts of $134,143 and expenses of $113,974. Last year's receipts included $86,095 in GI tuition. The GI tuition has steadily decreased in the past few years as the number of World War II veterans in the school has gone down.

The college has estimated income of $9,690 for the 1953-54 school year, including $33,000 in taxes, $16,000 in tuition, $36,000 from the state and $4,690 in GI tuition.

The value of the college to the community was stressed in short talks by a number of school patrons and civic leaders. After the discussion, it was agreed to circulate the petition, asking the school board to order the election.

pointed out. Holders of smaller denomination Series F and G Bonds may exchange them for the next higher multiple of $500 upon payment of any cash difference.

Eligible F and G Bond holders who do not wish to make the exchange will have the opportunity of reinvesting the proceeds of their Bonds as they mature in Savings Bonds currently on sale, or to receive cash payment.

The Treasury has called the special attention of all F and G Bond holders, including those corporations and organizations which require directors' or finance committee action, to the limited time available for making application for exchange. The offer expires April 30.

Rising Star by 10:30 o'clock that morning. They may be removed and taken home by 4:00 p.m. Myrick said in inviting dairymen and farmers with good animals to enter their animals do not have to be registered or purebred but should be representative of their breed. Animals of the Jersey, Holstein, Ayrshire or Guernsey breed may enter.

Joe Bob and Dan Shelton, prominent Jersey breeders of Brownwood will do the judging. T. D. Wheat, Eastland, agricultural representative of a utility firm will act as master of ceremonies.

A junior and senior judging contest will be held in the morning reports H. L. Geys, vocational agriculture in the high school there. Merchandise prizes will be given to the top five winners of each division.

Several Jersey helpers are to be awarded during the day as a continuation of the Eastland County Youth Dairy Program. Animals from other counties are eligible to enter the show.

The value of the milk sold off dairy farms over Eastland County is of tremendous economic value.

Myrick concluded, and a dairy show helps to stimulate interest in better animals.
