HALLOWEEN RECEPTION

The following invitations were issued the former part of last week by the Seniors.

"The Senior Class of Baird High, Have called the Goblins from the sky.

To come to their masquerade, in honor of the faculty and tenth grade."

High School Building
Oct., 28, 1916.

The guests arrived at eight, and were required to show their invitations before entering.

On the left was the registration desk, where the guests, upon entering were required to register in the guest book, which was the shape of a pumpkin and decorated in Halloween pictures.

There were next directed into the basement by a placard which read; "This Way to H ? L L." The basement was darkened and weird cries, and the rattling of chains and tin cans were heard. After stumbling over many tin cans, chairs, sliding boards, etc., they were conducted up the back stairs to the witch's cave where fortunes were told.

The Haunted House was next visited, and there amid groans and other strange noises, thrilling ghost stories were told.

After this the guests were left to do as they pleased, some going up to "Lovers Retreat," and others remaining in the hall, which was artistically decorated in Halloween colors, orange and black. There were pumpkin lanterns, black cats and witches and as a whole it formed an attractive background for the gay costumes of the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Boren, and Miss Duncan acting as judges, the prize for the best mask was awarded to Miss Prudence Wristen.

After unmasking, attention was diverted the witches well, where appropriate Halloween refreshment's were served. The party then went to The Royal to see "The Iron Claw."

Those present were:—Mr. and Mrs. Boren, Mr. and Mrs. Mosley, Misses Ross, Hutchison, Duncan, Lida, Foy, McKay, Willis, Lula and Zula Halsted, Blanch Hutchenson, Prudence Wristen, Juanita Bowls, Nell Price, Eva Mullican, Vergie McIntyre, Naomie Cutbirth, Ruth Hatcher, Hilda Albin, Maggie Scott, Coryse and Margurite Boydston, Agnes Monday and Katy Foy. SHALL I RAISE THE SUCSCRIPTION PRICE?

Owing to the continued advance in paper and all printing material it looks as if I will be compelled to raise the subscription price of THE BAIRD STAR, but will not do so unless I am compelled to do so. In any event I cannot carry over unpaid accounts next year at the present subscription price. This is to notify all subscribers that I will receive subscriptions at $1.00 until January 1st unless an unexpected advance in the price of print paper occurs between now and that date, but I will not agree to accept new subscriptions or renewals at less than $1.50 per year after January 1st, 1917. To be certain of the one dollar rate subscribe or renew before January 1st.

I am up against it all around. Everything I have to buy has advanced in price while I have not changed my subscription or advertising rates in 27 years. This cannot continue much longer. Country papers all over Texas are advancing their subscription rates and unless there is a decided drop in prices of paper, ink and printing materials and "grub," I will have to raise the subscription price. Whether the rate for 1917 is $1.00 or $1.50 subscription must be paid in advance. Help me out and I will greatly appreciate it.
W. E. Gilliland.

W. W. BRUTON SERIOUSLY HURT.

W. W. Bruton, living near Belle Plaine, was seriously injured Monday. He started to town in company with Mr. Oglesby on a load of hay. The wagon turned over on the way to town and Mr. Bruton had his left leg broken just below the hip joint, and his left arm broken above the wrist. Dr. Griggs, who just happened to come by, took him on home in his auto and dressed his wounds. Later he went back to see him, accompanied by Dr. Powell. The last report we had from him was that he was resting as well as could be expected.

Mr. Bruton was in the Confederate Army east of the Mississippi river and participated in some of the greatest battles of the civil war. He was at Chickamauga where the combined loss on both sides was over forty thousand men.

We are sorry for our old friend who is perhaps 70 years of age and not very strong, but hope he will pull through.

Mr. Oglesby was not hurt so far as we could learn.

Hon. Elihu Root
On Woman's Sphere

The question of Woman Suffrage is an issue before the American people. Twelve states have adopted it, four more states vote upon it this fall and it is strongly urged that it become a platform demand of the national political parties. It is therefore the privilege and the duty of every voter to study carefully this subject. Hon. Elihu Root, in discussing this question before the Constitutional Convention of New York, recently said in part:

"I am opposed to the granting of suffrage to women, because I believe that it would be a loss to women, to all women and to every woman; and because I believe it would be an injury to the State, and to every man and every woman in the State. It would be useless to argue this if the right of suffrage were a natural right. If it were a natural right, then women should have it though the heavens fall. But if there be any one thing settled in the long discussion of this subject, it is that suffrage is not a natural right, but is simply a means of government, and the sole question to be discussed is whether government by the suffrage of men and women will be better government than by the suffrage of men alone.

Into my judgment, sir, there enters no element of the inferiority of woman. It is not that woman is inferior to man, but it is that woman is different from man; that in the distribution of powers, of capacities, of qualities, our Maker has created man adapted to the performance of certain functions in the economy of nature and society, and woman adapted to the performance of other functions.

Woman rules today by the sweet and noble influences of her character. Put woman into the arena of conflict and she abandons these great weapons which control the world, and she takes into her hands, feeble and nerveless for strife, weapons with which she is unfamiliar and which she is unable to wield. Woman in strife becomes hard, harsh, unlovable, repulsive; as far removed from that gentle creature to whom we all owe allegiance and to whom we confess submission, as the heaven is removed from the earth.

The whole science of government is the science of protecting life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness. In the divine distribution of powers, the duty and the right of protection rests with the male. It is so throughout nature. It is so with men, and I, for one, will never consent to part with the divine right of protecting my wife, my daughter, the women whom I love, and the women whom I respect, exercising the birthright of man, and place that high duty in the weak and nerveless hands of those designed by God to be protected rather than to engage in the stern warfare of government. In my judgment, this whole movement arises from a false conception of the duty and of the right of both men and women.

The time will never come when the line of demarcation between the functions of the two sexes will be broken down. I believe it to be false philosophy; I believe that it is an attempt to turn backward upon the line of social development, and that if the step ever be taken, we go centuries backward on the march towards a higher, a nobler and a purer civilization, which must be found not in the confusion, but in the higher differentiation of the sexes."

On Railway Investments

President Wilson recently referring to our railroad problems said in part: "They are indispensable to our whole economic life and railway securities are at the very heart of most investments, large and small, public and private, by individuals and by institutions. . . . There is no other interest so central to the business welfare of the country, as this. No doubt, in the light of the new day, with its new understandings, the problem of the railroads will also be met and dealt with in a spirit of candor and justice."

When the first citizen of the land stresses the importance of understanding and dealing justly with the railroads, certainly the American plowmen can venture upon a careful study of the problem. C. E. Schaff, president of the M. K. & T. railway company, when asked to outline the relation of the public to railroads investments, said in part:

"It may be said that the railroad world is encumbered with a lot of phantoms which exist only in the popular fancy. For instance, because there have been a few so-called 'railroad magnates' whose names have figured prominently in finance, many people have come to believe that the railroads of the country are largely owned by a few rich men. As a matter of fact nothing could be further from the truth. Out of the colossal sum of twenty billion dollars of American railroad securities, less than five per cent is now or ever has been, in the hands of these men who have figured prominently in the newspaper headlines—while the other 95 per cent is in the hands of over two million investors, large and small, who in many instances have put the modest savings of a life time into these securities in order that they might lay away a competency for old age. When, therefore, the value of these securities is depressed or perchance destroyed, the hardship is a hundred fold greater upon thousands of every-day citizens, than upon the handful of millionaires, good or bad, who have figured prominently in railroad circles.

Hundreds of millions of dollars of the assets of our great life and fire insurance companies, savings banks, trust companies, educational and fiduciary institutions are invested in railroad bonds—and the moment, therefore, that the soundness of these bonds is called into question the financial solidity of these myriad institutions—directly effecting the welfare of millions of policyholders and bank depositors—is gravely menaced. During the last several years, many millions of dollars representing depreciated values, have been charged off the books of concerns like those enumerated above. American railroads have become a vital part of the very wool and fabric of the nation. Their continued efficiency is absolutely essential to the smallest community in the land.

In blindly striking at the railroads our blows fall not merely upon thousands who have committed no wrong, but, in the last analysis, upon ourselves. We should remember how interdependent we have come to be in this mighty republic of ours—that each is in truth becoming more and more his brother's keeper, and that we need to act and think circumspectly, lest in our mistaken zeal we destroy those who, like ourselves, need whatever of this world's goods the toll and sweat of years has bequeathed to them."

On Marketing Cotton Seed.

C. Smith, Secretary of the Texas Farmers' Union, when asked for a report on the work of the cotton seed department of that organization, said in part:

"In order to show the immense amount of good that has been accomplished by the Farmers' Union through its Cotton Seed Department I have prepared a comparison of four years prior to 1909 when the Department first was started and four years following. These figures were taken from the 1912 statistical abstract of the United States, excepting the 1912 figures, which were obtained from the Department of Commerce and Labor Bulletin Number 116. The price paid for cotton seed according to the reports from the Federal Census Bureau for the four years preceding the establishment of this department were as follows. This is for Texas:

1906, $12.74 per ton	1907, $17.35 per ton
1906, $12.50 per ton	1908, $13.92 per ton
Average price $14.12 per ton.

The price per ton for cotton seed paid in the four years following the establishment of the department was as follows:

1909, $25.99 per ton	1911, $17.64 per ton
1910, $24.60 per ton	1912, $18.28 per ton

Average price paid during these four years was $21.62, or a net gain per ton of $7.50.

Now in the four years following the establishment of the department for which the above figures speak, the cotton seed crop was as follows:

1909, 1,129,000 tons	1911, 1,893,000 tons
1910, 1,356,000 tons	1912, 2,171,000 tons

Total, 6,549,000 tons.

An average of $7.50 per ton shows a total saved to the farmers of Texas of $49,117,500.

This saving must be beyond a questionable doubt and is readily attributed by all those that are familiar with our work to the Cotton Seed Department established by the Farmers' Union in Texas, thereby becoming a competitor in the cotton seed market in Texas. There is no question that if the members of the Farmers' Union will consider these figures and the good that this department has done that they will give it their hearty co-operation in order that the department may remain a permanent competitor in the market.

This is only a part of what has been accomplished along this line by the organization with the limited co-operation, than what could be accomplished with a perfect organization of farmers with full co-operation with the business world.

In conclusion let me say that organization and co-operation is the only road to success, and should be the watch word of every farmer in the land, and they should have the full co-operation of the business world."

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

S. A. Lindsay

On Organization in Marketing.

The present methods of production and marketing farm products are wasteful and inefficient. In every other field where there is so much waste, corporate efficiency has taken possession and is coining that waste into gold. Under the present conditions and the spirit of the age, the only thing that will prevent great corporations from entering the agricultural fields of industry is for the farmers to combine and eliminate all waste from both the method of production and of marketing. Farming by corporations would bring more evils to our nation than would farming by peasantry, because, in such event, rural people will become mere farm laborers and share tenants executing the plans of the foreman. This condition would bring the contest between socialistic and capitalistic theories face to face in final conflict.

I am warranted in saying that unless we improve our methods of marketing farm products, whatever surplus the farmers may grow will add little to the luxuries and comforts of the farmers. We had in Texas last year a good peach and truck crop, but whatever surplus there was rotted upon the ground. The prices to the consumer were maintained so high that only the rich could afford to purchase while the producers got less for the products than if there had been short crops. The cause is patent—business is organized while farmers are not, hence the only competition there was in the disposition of those crops was among the farmers themselves and that in the matter of selling.

The production as well as marketing of farm products will be considered together, because they are closely related. Prices are governed by the quantity and quality produced and the method of marketing. Take the product, cotton for example: The value and price of cotton can be increased by seed selection, fertilizing and by cultivation, ginning and wrapping, at least five cents per pound; and by gradual marketing at least two cents a pound. Now, if we add, say five cents a pound to cotton values by such methods, we shall enrich this State and take nothing from the consumer because we shall give value for what we receive.

I state deliberately that the farmers of Texas will never be prosperous until they adopt co-operative methods in the marketing of their products. I am warranted in saying this by the conditions which surround the farmer. I am also warranted in saying this by the experience of every nation under the sun which has grappled with and solved this problem.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Patron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

WILSON DAY IS CELEBRATED

AT PRESIDENT'S SUMMER HOME BY VAST CONCOURSE.

DEFEAT WILL RETARD REFORM

Chief Executive Gives as His Opinion to a Mighty Gathering of New Yorkers, Which Included Trainloads of Tammanyites.

Much needed reforms may be interrupted, perhaps for a generation to come, should the Democratic party suffer defeat on Nov. 7, President told a great gathering of New Yorkers on the lawn of Shadow Lawn, N. J.

The president made his address on Saturday before delegations that went to Long Branch on special trains to celebrate "Wilson day," which was also "Empire State day" in New York.

Included in the big throng were several trainloads from Tammany Hall and deputations of working men and women from New York and surrounding cities.

"Four years ago there were two parties in the field whose program was conceived under the influence of these two great forces of progress and adjustment—the Democratic party and the Progressive party," the president said. This year there is but one: The Democratic party. In the presidential election of four years ago some 15,000,000 votes were cast. Of these, nearly 10,500,000 were cast for the candidates of the two progressive parties and only 3,500,000 for the candidate of the Republican party, the party which has lingered in the old days and felt none of the impulse of a new day."

The president reviewed the record of the Democratic party and its progress in the work of reform.

"And still the great work is not finished," he said. "It can never be rounded off and concluded so long as circumstances change and the fortunes and relations of men shift and alter. The question you have to decide one week from Tuesday is whether it shall be prematurely interrupted, perhaps for a generation to come, and all the generous forces of the age and world thrown back upon themselves in discouragement and confusion."

This was Vice President Marshall's illustration at New York of his charge that "Hughes doesn't know what he would have done if he had been president."

As for the eight-hour law, the vice-president said "Solomon worked his men eight hours building the temple and Solomon was a pretty wise man."

STATE FAIR BREAKS RECORD.

OVER ONE MILLION ATTENDANCE IN THE SIXTEEN DAYS.

When the gates of the State Fair at Texas closed at midnight on Sunday night 1,001,410 people had gone through the turnstiles during the sixteen days. Attendance Sunday was 127,200, nearly four times as great as on the final day of last year, and practically double the highest previous record for the last day. The new total attendance record exceeded the highest previous record of the thirty-one years of the fair by 225,150. Previous high record was last year—776,260.

Lockhart with a population of 3000 has given $1,000 to the Wilson campaign fund, and there is only one postoffice in Lockhart.

The Democrats claim New York, Ohio and Illinois. If they carry either one of these states Hughes' name is Dennis O'Leary.

We will tell you all about the election next week. It looks encouraging for the Democrats and we hope to be able to say next week that the Democrats still hold the fort.

The Republicans are boasting that Pennsylvania, Vermont, Minnesota and Utah are safe. Why are these states named as the Democrats have not carried either of them in twenty years?

The attendance at the Dallas Fair passed the million mark this year and thus broke all records. The Dallas Fair is the greatest state fair in the United States and all Texas is proud of it.

Somehow the Democrats in Texas are awful slow this year in digging up the coin for the national campaign fund. What's the matter? Is it because the "originals" have swiped all the federal pie? Perish the thought.

President Wilson received 169 more electoral votes than he needed in 1912. The Republican Chairman says he will not be surprised if Hughes receives 430 electoral votes, but he would give a good round sum to know that Hughes would receive 266 votes.

"It is not too late to buy a right to cheer on election night by contributing to the national campaign fund."—Fort Worth Star-Telegram. If one must buy a right to cheer the winner in this way, the applause in Texas next Tuesday night is liable to be mighty week, no matter whether it is for Wilson or Hughes.

The poll of the New York Herald shows that Wilson is gaining and Hughes is losing. The Herald is a republican paper, but its poll of the votes in past campaigns has proven more reliable than any other paper. The Herald says the race up to last week was a neck-and-neck affair, but intimates that Wilson has slightly the advantage. The Herald has secured nearly a quarter of a million votes in all states except the certain sure democratic states of the south.

"Pastor" Russell, the noted Independent preacher, died Tuesday on an east bound train between Amorrilla and Canadian. Heart failure was given as the cause of his death. Pastor Russell gained considerable reputation as a writer and preacher. He belonged to no sect and held many theories contrary to the orthodox churches. Naturally there was much opposition to his theories. It is difficult to understand just what he did believe, any way he found many followers throughout the country.

Do the Republican leaders have doubts about the only two states

President Taft was able to save in the awful smash up of the Republican machine four years ago? It looks that way. Looks about like the National Democratic Chairman saying that he had every reason to believe Texas was safe for Wilson. It has been sixty years since the Democratic party has received any electoral votes in Vermont and Pennsylvania, Minnesota never went Democratic in a national election and Utah only once, 1896. It looks as if not a single state in the Union is safely Republican, but it may look different next week.

THE ELECTION

Everything in Texas is so one sided, politically, that few of us appreciate the great importance of the election in close states. Most Texas Democrats take it for granted that Wilson will be reelected and there is very little interest taken in the national election this year, but those who know the political history of the different states on which President Wilson must rely for reelection, are not so confident that he will have a walk over.

A recent poll of near a quarter of a million votes by the New York Herald indicates that Wilson's chance to win is better than Hughes' chance. Summing up the Herald says it is a neck-and-neck-race in which either may win. The Herald is a Republican paper but has usually been fair and impartial in taking straw ballots heretofore.

The New York American, Democratic, has also taken a poll and claims that Wilson is far in the lead. The claim is made that Wilson will receive not less than 40 per cent of the vote cast for Roosevelt four years ago. The Republicans claim that Hughes will receive 90 per cent of this vote and that 10 per cent will go to Wilson, the Prohibition and Socialist parties. The Herald's straw vote shows a fraction over 24 per cent for Wilson and a fraction over 74 per cent for Hughes.

Roosevelt received 4,169,000 to 3,441,000 for Taft. Wilson's vote was 6,292,000. The Republicans have claimed from the start that all but a very small per cent of the Roosevelt vote will be cast for Hughes. If their contention proves correct Hughes will win, but the Democrats do not concede this by any means.

Should the Herald's straw vote correctly forecast the vote Wilson will defeat Hughes by 750,000 majority, but this majority might be upset by the electoral vote though not likely. If the American's straw vote should prove correct this would give Wilson over one million popular majority over Hughes, which would almost certainly insure him enough electoral votes to elect him. It may turn out that way, there is evidence of a strong trend to Wilson, and as Mc-Cormick, the Democratic chairman says, it may be a land slide for Wilson.

It may be and possibly all the calculations of the political prophets will be upset and it may be a land slide for Hughes.

We know this, that there is more evidence of Wilson's election one week before the election than there was that Cleveland would be elected in 1892.

When we came to select states that will give Wilson enough electoral votes to win the task is not so easy. The following states are practically conceded to Wilson, viz: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia. These fifteen states, all Southern states, except Arizona, have 170 electoral votes. It requires 266 votes to elect The National Committee claim the following states: Colorado, Maryland, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, Ohio, West Virginia and Indiana. These nine states have 89 votes. This leaves Wilson short 7 votes. Where will he get them? The Democrats claim that the necessary votes are likely to come from the following states: New York, Delaware, Illinois, Montana, Minnesota, Washington, Oregon or California.

If Wilson can carry New York his election is almost assured because as goes New York so will go New Jersey, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio. The Republicans claim every one of these states. They have all gone Republican since 1892 except in 1912 but that was no test

THE PRESIDENCY AND WHISKERS

None of our presidents wore whiskers from Washington to John Quincy Adams, in 1824 the latter sported a scraggy pair of sideburns, Jackson was smooth shaven and Van Buren wore a wild pair of sideburns that made John Quincy Adams' whiskers look like 30 cent. None of all presidents from Van Buren to Lincoln, 7 of them, wore any whiskers. Lincoln was the first to wear chin whiskers. His picture shows him with beard except mustache. Gen. Grant was the first president to wear a full beard, followed by Hayes and Garfield with full beards. Arthur wore sideburns and mustache, then came Cleveland, the first president to wear a mustache only. He was followed by Harrison in 1888 who wore a full beard. Then by McKinley in 1896 who wore no beard. Roosevelt and Taft both wore mustache, followed by Woodrow Wilson smooth shaven. Of the 27 presidents, 16 were smooth shaven; 2 wore sideburns, one with sideburns and chin whiskers, Lincoln, 4 with full beards, one with sideburns and mustache and three mustache alone.

Whiskers seems to be unlucky for our presidents, only one with a full beard was re-elected, Gen. Grant. Two that wore beard were assassinated, none who wore mustache ever succeeded himself except Roosevelt and he was only elected once, having succeeded McKinley after he was assassinated in his first term.

Whiskers are certainly unlucky for our presidents and it is surprising that the Republicans did not think of that before they nominated Hughes because should he be elected according to whiskerology he will likely be defeated four years hence.

According to the rule Hughes with a full set of whiskers, pink at that they say, only has two chances in 27 to win and if he wins has only one chance in 27 to serve more than one term.

Every election we hear much about the "solid south." Well the carpet baggers from the north who overran the South just after the Civil war made the South solid. By manipulating the negro vote a lot of these adventurers got control of practically all the Southern States and robbed the tax payers of the queen's taste. Every Southern State is today paying interest on at least a part of the state debts these scalawags saddled upon the Southern people fifty years ago. This is the real reason the Republican party could never grow in the South. Thousands of Republicans have come South since the reign of the carpet baggers. They are good men and good citizens, but most of them align themselves with the Democratic party or take no interest in politics. They find the antipathy to republican rule so strong in the South because of the carpet baggers that so mercilessly exploited our people that it is useless to attempt to build up a Republican party in the South so long as the odious carpet bag government are remembered. It has been forty-three years since the four years administration of E. J. Davis ended but in some sections of the state where the people were run over by Davis police and negro officials, old timers who can hardly mention his name without swearing. Oh one will say that it is wrong to harbor such sentiments. Perhaps it is but these old timers don't think so. Even the better element of the Republicans in Texas at the time became disgusted with the misrule of E. J. Davis and his negro legislators and officers and helped put him out of office in 1873 and the Republican party has gained but few votes since then while the Democratic party has gained steadily. Many believe it would be better for the people of Texas had a good strong opposition party against the Democrats. Not a bit of doubt about that, but they will have to call it something else besides Republican until E. J. Davis is forgotten. The people of the South are not to blame for being opposed to the Republican party. The Republican party just after the war is to blame, self preservation made the South solidly democratic and keeps it that way.

COTTONWOOD LOCALS

Dear Editor: This is undoubtedly the hardest world there is; you see it is this way, there is no one on the place but the woman and me and she is always wanting us to do something, as though we never get tired, and we do not, for we are constitutionally tired and are fully convinced that we should not be required to work. Say, we actually took our ax and went to the timber yesterday and if we could have gone again to day and again tomorrow we are satisfied we would have had a very fair pony load cut, although we are not as young as we once were and also constitutionally tired, we are a wood chopper, we are.

You ought to see the farmers thrashing peanuts, you can look in almost any direction and see the dirt rising from a thrasher in some man's peanuts patch.

George Clifton has thrashed already 1160 bushels and has 18 acres to thrash yet.

Uncle Billie we must tell you something funny, you see we are a full blood Georgian, and just a few days ago we had a letter from that old state asking us about raising peanuts. Now what do you think of that? Georgia is the home of the peanut.

Our school at Cottonwood is billed to begin immediately, after and just one week from today the general election comes off. Vote for Wilson!

Mrs. Brewer, formally a music teacher at Cottonwood is again with us, she seems in delicate health, and informs us she is here to recuperate her health and will perhaps remain in Cottonwood during the winter, if not longer.

TO THE VOTERS OF CALLAHAN COUNTY

House Joint Resolution No. 30 to be voted on Tuesday, November 7th., provided for an amendment to the Constitution which will give all school districts in the state the authority to levy a tax not to exceed $1.00 on the hundred dollar valuation of property by majority vote of the qualified property tax-paying voters of the district. It will also give counties the authority to levy a county tax for all the schools of the county upon a majority vote of the qualified tax-paying voters of the county.

The adoption of this amendment does not levy a tax upon anybody. It simply gives to those districts and counties where additional taxes are needed for school purposes an opportunity to vote a tax upon themselves. Many schools are sorely in distress on account of the crowded condition caused by the compulsory attendance law. They need desks and equipment, but the Constitution prohibits those districts from voting taxes to provide for these necessities. If people know how much of their own money they want to spend for clothing and for other necessities of life, then why should they not know how much they want to spend for their schools in the education of their children? If you believe that the people of the various school districts of Texas are competent to say how much of their own money they want to spend for the education of their own children, then by all means, you should vote for this amendment.

Texas stands thirty-seventh among the states of the Union in education. Oklahoma has a limit of 15 mills on the hundred dollars for school purposes, New Mexico ten mills, and Louisiana 16 mills with no limit on local taxes. We are asking for a maximum limit of ten mills.

Your support in helping to carry this amendment will be appreciated by all friends of education in Texas. There is no doubt that the schools of any district are its greatest assets, and good schools can not be conducted without money. But remember that you are not called upon to vote a tax; it is only to give others an opportunity to vote a tax upon themselves if they so desire.

We trust that the voters of Callahan County will show their progressive spirit, and desire for better schools by rolling up a large majority for the amendment.

Yours truly,
J. F. Boren

MARRIED

At the home of the bride's father, near Eastland, Texas, on Thursday, October 26th, 1916, was performed the ceremony which united in marriage Jack Williamson of this city and Miss Dixie Connolee of Eastland county.

The bride is a most charming and accomplished young lady and holds the love and esteem of everyone with whom she comes in contact. She formerly resided in this city and a host of friends here are pleased indeed to know that she is again to call this her home.

The groom is a well known and popular young ranch owner, a big wholesouled gentleman whom old and young respect and esteem.

After a trip to points east, Mr. and Mrs. Williamson will make their home on a ranch in Glasscock county—Big Springs Herald.

Miss Connolee has visited in Baird a number of times and has many friends here who wish for her many years of happiness.

A $6.00 Daily and Sunday Newspaper for $3.65.

A PENNY A DAY

IMPORTANT NOTICE!

With the exception of black ink, all raw materials used in manufacture of a newspaper have advanced in cost during the past twelve months approximately 100 per cent. This means that it will cost your publisher practically double to supply you with a newspaper the coming year.

Under stress of these unusual conditions, The Star-Telegram has been forced to increase its "Bargain Days" rate from $3.25 to $3.65. An increase of 40c per year ($ 1-3c per month) or 12 per cent. Based on the conservative estimate increase in production cost of 100 per cent, under this price the division of added expense will be as follows:

Increased expense to The Star-Telegram88%
Increased expense to The Reader12%

This situation means that after "Bargain Days" the regular rate of $6.00 per year must be strictly enforced. We have battered the price to the very bottom in order to protect our Annual Subscription Cheap Rate Period, which has been in effect since the establishment of The Star-Telegram.

Do not take chances, save the $2.35, by ordering before Bargain Days expire. Take advantage of the $3.65 rate.

The high standard of The Star-Telegram will be maintained as long as there is a Star-Telegram regardless of any war burdens.

THE DOG

I've never know a dog to wag
His tail in glee he didn't feel,
Nor quite his old-time friend to tag
At some more influential heel,
The yellowest cur I ever knew
Was, to the boy who loved him, true
I've never known a dog to show
Halfway devotion to his friend,
To seek a kinder man to know
Or richer, but unto the end
The humblest dog I ever knew
Was the man that loved him, true.
I've never known a dog to fake
Affection for a present gain,
A false display of love to make.

Some little favor to attain.
I've never known a Prince or Spot
That seemed to be what he was not.
But I have known a dog to fight
With all his strengt to shield a friend,
And wether wrong or wether right,
To stick with him until the end
And I have known a dog to lick
The hand of him that men would kick,
And I have known a dog to bear
Starvation's pangs from day to day
With him who had been glad to share
His bread and meat along the way.
No dog, however mean or rude,
Is guilty or ingratitude.

The dog is listed with the dumb,
No voice has he to speak his creed,
His messages to humans come
By faithful conduct and by deed.
He shows, as seldom mortals do,
A high ideal of being true.

The young folks had a noisy time of it Halloween night. There was not much damage to property, but why should there have been any damage at all to property. They could have had a good time without damaging anything. One thing was real funny—to the boys—they hitched an old buggy to an auto and took a joy ride, the buggy overturned and split the riders, one of the shafts was broken. The wreck might have caused the death of the riders. What the owner of the buggy thinks about it would probably not look well in print.

DO YOU HAVE SOUR STOMACH?

If you are troubled with sour stomach you should eat slowly and masticate your food thoroughly, then take one of Chamberlain's Tablets immediately after supper. For sale by ALL DEALERS.

Some Thoughts to Take Home With You About The Buick 1916 Six

More 1916 Buick Valve-in-Head Sixes have been bought than any other six-cylinder car ever built. More people are today demanding this particular Buick model than ever demanded any single model in automobile history. In this car is found the development of the best thoughts and ideas of leading American and foreign automobile engineers. Every sound theory of mechanics have been investigated, and when consistent with Buick Valve-in-Head basic principles, have been adopted. The Buick Valve-in-Head motor consumes and uses a larger per centage of the power contained in gasoline than any other motor.
