AIN'T IT SO
Friends are marrying left and right.
Romance around us flowers.
We saved up for a rainy day.
But now we're getting showers.

Is there a doctor in the house?
Some of the Isaac Waltonites who pursue these paragraphs may need an M. D., maybe even a hospital, after they take a gander at a fishing report that's a wow!

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Finto and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lyons made it a fishing foursome out at Hagaman Lake on the Fourth.

And...they did right well. As a matter of fact they caught 34 channel and blue catfish.

But—that isn't all. The party's catch averaged from one and a half to four and a half pounds!

As many of his friends and buddies know, Johnnie is an ardent float fisherman. During Saturday's expedition to Hagaman, he proved that floats bring in the big ones.

Why, at one time, Johnnie picked off 12 cats on a run of his floats.

Most everybody had a very happy Fourth—and we know the Fintos and Lyons got a bang out of Independence Day, too!

Heavy: "The laundry hasn't come back yet and I haven't a clean thing in my drawer. What am I gonna do?"

Wife: "Don't lose your temper. Just keep your shirt on!"

During the past six months while he's been hitched, thither and yop on out-of-town painting contracts, the friends and cronies of Harland Phillips have missed the genial and popular brush-slinger. We held a brief telephone confab with him a few days ago and learned that he'd spent most of the winter on a big project down in Killen. From there he went to San Angelo, then to Fort Worth, back to San Angelo. He's been doing work for the U. S. Air Force.

He left Ranger early this morning for San Marcos. Then he's scheduled for a USAF project at Bryan, then more painting for Uncle Sam at Fort Worth. A mighty busy guy. But he hopes to be back in the Oil City to see the big 1953 8th annual rodeo... Paging Arthur Murray: The dance biz is booming to record proportions. An estimated 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 Americans will spend about $100,000,000 on dancing instruction this year!

Prexy James Townzen, Jaycee boss, says he needs more help out at the arena during the JC's "work nights." The boys are repairing the arena and readying it for the coming rodeo. Urged to come out—Wednesday night and also Friday night—are a 11 Jaycees. Yes, and all other folks who'd like to volunteer a little of their time and effort for this very worthy cause. How about it?

"If they keep fooling around with that H-bomb," warns Johnny Olden, "those old-timers who said the world is flat may still be right!"

Ranger's two civic clubs—the Rotarians and the Lions group—will not meet separately and will hold their weekly luncheon sessions at the new and delightfully cool King's Cafe, operated by genial Brownie and the Misses. The Rotary meet is set for every Wednesday at 12:15 noon, and the Lions will roar there at the same hour on Thursdays.

This one of our good friends Royce Phillips and Alvis Wood: More than 5,714,000 Americans are employed in manufacturing, selling, servicing and operating motor trucks—equivalent to 1 out of 7.

One Accident Near Olden, But—

NO TRAGIC DEATHS REPORTED IN COUNTY AREA OVER FOURTH

Although many persons were killed and scores of accidents were reported in the Lone Star domain over the weekend, Eastland County emerged from the Fourth of July holiday period with no traffic or accidental deaths.

An ambulance of Killingsworth Funeral Home, Ranger, answered an emergency call near Olden Monday morning about 1:30 p.m. after an eastbound pickup failed to make a curve and skidded off U. S. Highway 80 and turned over several times. No one, however, was seriously injured.

Occupants of the vehicle included a man, his wife and two small children, all out-of-county residents who were riding in the cab, and a hitch-hiking soldier who was sitting in the rear of the pickup.

The soldier caught a ride a few seconds after the accident and continued to Fort Worth. The adult couple and their two children were picked up by a passing motorist and carried to Eastland where they received treatment for minor injuries.

Official Says Reds Have Big A-Bomb Supply

A Washington official said Monday the government believes Russia has enough atomic bombs to drop two on some 67 areas in the United States.

These figures came from a meeting Monday of civil defense directors preparing for an attack, should it come.

Kenneth Edmunds, protection specialist for the Federal Civil Defense Administration in Washington told of Russia's A-bomb supply.

More than 200 civil defense representatives from over the state met for the two-day seminar to exchange information on protection.

Edmunds said Fort Worth with its B-36 bomber plant base is on the Kremlin's target list.

At a given signal, he said, A-bombs can be placed on a Russian TU-4 heavy bomber and dropped on Fort Worth and other cities within hours.

"We know now," he added, "that the Russians have bombers which can strike at any point in the United States and make it back to Russia without refueling."

Lewis Berry, supervisor of public safety and civil defense education in Austin, said the Air Force believes the Russians will use at least 100 bombers in such a raid.

Fire Destroys Ranger Home Monday Night

A fire of undetermined origin destroyed the residence of H. S. Needham, 708 Travis Street, Ranger, Monday night.

Although exact figures were not available this morning, it is believed that the property, including furnishings, was a total loss as a result of the ravaging conflagration.

The dwelling and its interior furnishings were completely gutted by the fast-enveloping blaze.

The Ranger Volunteer Fire Department rushed to answer the alarm about 8:45 p.m. and was on the scene promptly. However, the fire had already gained too much headway and it was impossible to save the residence or the furnishings.

Damage was believed to total several thousand dollars. The property was not fully covered by insurance.

Worthians Holiday At Victims

Ranger enjoyed a comparatively quiet Fourth of July week end.

Only arrests reported by Police Chief W. G. Pounds over the four-day holiday stretch were a pair of Fort Worth men—one about 35, the other 42 years of age.

The men were picked up by city officers at 1:30 a.m. Saturday morning at an eating establishment on U. S. Highway 80. They were charged with drunkenness and fighting and paid fines of $15.70 each. In addition, the Fort Worthians paid the owner of the eating place $10 to cover property damages.

Another "stork meeting" of the Ranger Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the 8th annual Ranger Roundup Rodeo, will be held out at the Jaycees' rodeo arena on old U. S. Highway 80 west of downtown Ranger tomorrow—Wednesday—night at 7:30 o'clock.

James Townzen, president of the junior chamber group, says time is growing short and much repair work must be done out at the Jaycees' rodeo plant.

"We need all the help we can get," he says, "and we're asking every Jaycee to come out and lend us a hand so we can have everything in top shape for our '53 show."

Citizens Push City Clean-Up

With the Fourth of July weekend period over, Ranger's big city-wide cleanup went into high gear Monday.

The campaign is being sponsored jointly by the civic committee of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, the Ranger Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Ranger Volunteer Fire Dept., and the Lions and Rotary Clubs.

Buck Wallace is serving as general chairman of the project. He is head of the C of C civic committee group.

The campaign will be climaxed with a big trash and refuse pickup day on Tuesday, July 14.

Several trucks, in addition to those already offered, are needed for the trash collection and persons or firms having pickups or trucks to lend for the July 14 date are urged to contact Alvis Wood, chairman of the hauling committee or R. V. (Rip) Galloway, secretary-manager of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce. Wood may be contacted at phone number 49—Galloway at 52.

Spurring interest and activity in the drive is a list of the committees and the following message went in the mail to scores of Rangers Monday:

"As you have probably read in the Ranger Times the date set for the first hauling of trash in the Clean-Up campaign is Tuesday, July 14, and each committee should work its territory in plenty of time to allow the people in that section to have their premises clean and the trash piled up and ready to haul away on that date."

"A grand prize of $10.00 will be offered for the largest pile of trash in any part of town, $7.50 will be for second, and $5.00 for third. For the cleanest alley in town a prize of $3.00 will be awarded, a prize of $2.00 for second place, and $1.00 for third."

"Each committee is asked to make a general inspection of its district and if there are some neglected places try to work out some way to get them to cooperate."

"The success of this campaign depends on the senior American diviof the Korean peninsula, the Ranger's party landed here in July and shortly after the Communists attacked against the forces of South Korea.

Walleyes Make Quick Growth

A handful of baby walleyed pike that got into a sunfish pond has given the Game and Fish Commission its first check on their growth since being introduced into Texas.

Aquatic Biologist Bill Brown of San Marcos reported to the Chief Aquatic Biologist that the walleyes in six weeks time had grown from one quarter of an inch to an average of more than three inches in length.

Brown said Superintendent Fred Richan of the San Marcos Federal Fish Hatchery, observed that the baby walleyes which were hatched there, got through a trough in with the sunfish and thus were not sent out for planting along with the other fingerlings.

The Chief Aquatic Biologist said he considered this "good growth." He added that a check of the walleyes' status in Travis and Devils Lake where they were planted will be made during July.

The walleyes have been introduced into Texas waters for the joint purpose of providing some new sports fishing and also to permit these predacious fish to help curb the surplus of stunted small species.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, joined by 14 of his colleagues, including Senator Price Daniel, has introduced a bill to authorize immediate aid to farmers and ranchers stricken by drought in Texas and other Southwestern States.

The measure, entitled "The Drought Disaster Relief Act of 1953," would authorize emergency loans in the affected areas. It would grant the President clear authority to rush seed, stock feed, urgently required farm equipment

OUR DEMOCRACY "HITCH and VISIT"

THE OLD HITCHING POST TRADITIONALLY SYMBOLIZED AMERICAN WARMTH AND NEIGHBORLINESS. IT STOOD JUST OUTSIDE THE HOME, AN INVITATION FOR FRIENDS TO HITCH THEIR HORSE AND BUGGY AND PASS THE TIME OF DAY.

WITH THE AUTOMOBILE TODAY WE ARE ABLE TO RANGE FAR AFIELD FROM THE OLD HITCHING POST, AND THE NEIGHBORLINESS WHICH IT SYMBOLIZED HAS ACHIEVED STEADILY BROADER HORIZONS AND MEANING IN OUR DEMOCRACY.

First shipments of government surplus powdered milk released to Church World Service and its Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP) for distribution to needy children and undernourished refugees in 14 countries are beginning to leave storage centers in Wisconsin and Minnesota. CWS-CROP was allocated 14,500,000 pounds out of a total of 90 million pounds released by the government through its Commodity Credit Corporation to all accredited voluntary foreign relief agencies.

Participating in Church World Service dedication ceremonies for the relief gift at the Port of Milwaukee June 23 were from left to right: John Herbert Davis, president of the US Commodity Credit Corporation, who was the principal speaker, Dr. Wynn C. Fairfield, executive director of Church World Service, and Bishop William C. Martin, president of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., who gave the prayer of dedication. At right is the Rev. John D. Metzler, national director of CROP. Funds contributed to CROP will pay for inland handling and freight of the milk which is handed over free at points of storage.

and other needed items to the drought disaster areas. The bill would authorize the appropriation of "such sums as may be necessary" to carry out the purpose of the act.

Senator Johnson said he introduced the legislation to clear up any doubt as to the powers of the President to meet the emergency existing in drought-stricken farm areas.

"Unless action can be taken quickly, a whole section of our country is threatened with economic extinction," Senator Johnson said. "The whole nation would feel the effects if the rich agricultural production of the Southwest were eliminated."

The Senator is pressing for quick action on the bill, which was referred to the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

New Gimmicks Are Added To Old Selling Game

Advertisers have come up with a suitcase full of new gimmicks in an effort to sell more goods.

A recent advertising meeting revealed many firms are using "booby traps" to startle customers into noticing their wares.

Among the "booby traps" is a miniature phonograph that plays a 50-second message. It can be concealed in a car or refrigerator door and starts playing when the door is open.

Some of the tiny phonographs have been hidden in the base of a pop-up toaster display. The advertising pitch comes when the lever is pushed down.

Another new advertising gadget is the "rotolight." It's a projection device that forms the advertiser's message out of a haze effect, brings it into focus, then lets it fade away.

A spokesman hailed the new gadgets as a personnel saver on sales floors. He said the machines give customers the initial pitch, leaving the salesmen free to concentrate on the most likely buyers.

Stage Effects Advertisers have even taken a tip from the armed forces in the continuous sales campaign. "Cartographic visualizers," used extensively by the U. S. Navy, are the basis for an animated training and sales aid for a tractor or firm.

Variable carts activate moving cardboard parts to give effects of coordinated motion. Operation of the tractor's hydraulic system can be seen by turning a wheel in the chart. This carries the hydraulic system through a 24-stage cycle, showing how implements respond to finger-tip control.

Several firms are using new theatrical devices to publicize their products. Black light, used in theatrical presentations, is applied to different pages of a chart. Ultra violet rays reveal colors invisible under ordinary light and give the pages of the chart double up.

THE PRESIDENT IS A "GOOD SCOUT"—When President Dwight D. Eisenhower took his oath of office, he also became Honorary President of the Boy Scouts of America. Like all presidents beginning with William Howard Taft, he automatically became the Scout's titular head upon taking the oath. He is the second President to have had an active relationship with the Scouts before entering the White House, sharing the distinction with the late President Roosevelt. President Eisenhower has been a member of the Boy Scout's National Executive Board since 1948. In 1946 he received Scouting's highest award, the Silver Buffalo, "for distinguished service to boyhood." Above, the then General Eisenhower joined hands with fellow scouts during the National Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge in July of 1950, when Eisenhower was guest of honor and principal speaker at the celebration.

the building of the tank. It requires 7 1/2 pounds of manganese for each tank, and 92 per cent of it must be imported.

We import 92 per cent of all nickel, and each tank requires 520 pounds. In each tank goes 107 pounds of tin, of which 78 per cent must be imported. Bauxite is raw aluminum, and each tank requires 6512 pounds; we import 65 per cent of all we use.

Likewise, copper is a requirement and we have half the amount. All industrial diamonds, not to mention uranium, which makes atomic bombs, must come from Deep Africa.

We could do without coffee and cigarettes, and the ladies could even do without cosmetics, of which 96 per cent of the ingredients are imported, but I would hate to think we would have to do without a tank, an airplane, a ship, or a gun with which to defend ourselves.

These figures show that without imports from all over the world we could only produce 25 per cent of the requirements for National Defense.

Hardin-Simmons Gets Govt. Loan; Burleson Aids

In his last official act for Hardin-Simmons University as its president, Dr. Rupert N. Richardson, announced the approval of a Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency loan of $386,500 for construction of a new dormitory for women for H-S-U.

Dr. Richardson is being succeeded as president of the university by Dr. Evan Allard Reiff, former president of Sioux Falls (North Dakota) College.

The new dorm, to be constructed on the campus at the corner of Cedar and University Blvd., will face the women's dormitory recently completed across the boulevard and will be of the same design and construction. It will house 140 women.

Announcement of the loan approval was given H-S-U officials by Rep. Omar Burleson, who assisted with the application for the loan.

Soldiers at Fort Jackson, S.C., contributed more than $6,300 during a ten-month period to Protest-

Massacre Mountains by Frank C. Robertson

THE STORY: While attempting to arrange winter quarters for a wagon train captured by Nate Wilkinson, Pete Morrison, a scout, finds that the only available spot is Two Rivers, a settlement dominated by the renegade Zad Barnes. Morrison seems to have heard of Wilkinson, and later Nate believes from Pete's description that Barnes was an old enemy he had known in Illinois. But in those days Barnes was called "Toby," which is the name Barnes has given now to an Indian scout.

NATE WILKINSON was silent a few minutes before he spoke. His face was tense. Then he said, "The Toby I knew was a thief and a killer. Hog stealing was his game, back in Illinois. He did it on a big scale and killed several men—one of them a good friend of mine—but he never could be convicted. We had to get rid of him so I gathered a bunch of men one night and we called on Toby, ordering him to leave the country and never come back. He tried to fight, so we gave him a whipping and a coat of tar and feathers."

"Zad Barnes wouldn't have liked that," Pete murmured. "It was a mistake. We should have let the law handle him, but we were angry. Toby recognized me—I didn't wear a mask like the others. He swore he'd get even. He did. I was called East on a business trip and when I got home my five-year-old daughter was missing. The kidnaper had left a note which said, 'I told you I'd get even.' I suppose he murdered her."

Pete was listening with incredulous ears, but he knew that the law of averages was occasionally defeated. And this certainly seemed to be one of the times. It was hard for him to restrain the excitement he felt.

He asked, "How long ago was this, Nate?" "About 15 years."

Nate's daughter had been five when he lost her, and Betty Barnes was about 20 now. She believed that Zad Barnes had adopted her among the mountains. "I don't know how many spies Barnes has. For all I know one of them may be watching this camp right now. But I've got to go back ahead of you. I'll get hold of Betty if I can. If she has disappeared I'll fall Barnes that you've decided to winter up here, and he may bring her back."

"But I'll be on my way," Wilkinson said stubbornly. "I can't wait for a slow wagon train. I'm going with you. Cal Hawkins can bring the wagons."

"It wouldn't be wise. If you were recognized it might be the worst thing in the world for Betty," Pete warned.

"No, it won't. We'll be careful, but this is a job I can't delegate to any man—even you, Pete."

Pete soon saw that it was useless to argue. Wilkinson owned a fast team and a buggy, and he was determined to start in the morning.

THEY talked until late that night, and as they were preparing for bed Wilkinson said, "Golly, Pete, I almost forgot. There's a woman here who says she knows you, and she swears she is going to Two Rivers with us."

"A woman—who knows me?" Pete looked blank. "I can't imagine—"

"Said her name was Cassie Dean, I believe. Fine looker."

"Cass Dean?" Pete exclaimed. "You know her?"

"I was engaged to marry her once," Pete admitted. "The war split us up. Her folks were Southerners. I haven't seen her for five years. I supposed she was married by now."

"Then maybe we're both lucky," Pete said. "I'm not so sure. Last time I saw her she told me she never wanted to see me again. Now I'm nearly me if I left without her."

"She's a pretty determined looking woman," Nate said.

"She's here? In this camp?" "Well, not exactly, but she's down in Echo Junction, just two miles from here. She said she'd scalp me if I left without her. You'll have to see her, whether you want to or not."

"Yes," Pete said slowly. "I'll have to see her."

and, Catholic and Jewish missions in the United States, Europe and Korea.

"I don't want to arouse any false hopes, Nate, and Barnes may not be your man at all. But if he is believe your daughter is alive, for Barnes has a 20-year-old girl who thinks she is his adopted daughter."

Nate Wilkinson reeled on his feet, and sat down abruptly. His voice quavered when he spoke. "Is it her name Elizabeth?" he asked.

"They call her Betty," Pete said. "It's my baby," Wilkinson suddenly broke into uncontrollable sobs. It was the most distressing, embarrassing thing Pete had ever had to watch.

WILKINSON got control of himself quickly. "Excuse me," he said. "I shouldn't blubber that way, but to hear that my little girl that I've mourned for years is still alive sort of bowled me over."

"It's understandable," Pete said, "but remember that we can't be sure yet."

"I'm sure," Wilkinson said confidently. "I used to pray that she wasn't dead. Tell me, how does she look?"

"She's a beautiful girl," Pete said. Wilkinson nodded. "She would be. Then fear assailed him. 'But will she want to leave Toby? How does she feel toward him?'"

"My judgment is that she's a little afraid of him; maybe not so much afraid of him as the men around him. He told Nate then of the warning she had given him. 'But split us up. Her folks were Southerners. I haven't seen her for five years. I supposed she was married by now.'"

"Then maybe we're both lucky," Pete said. "I'm not so sure. Last time I saw her she told me she never wanted to see me again. Now I'm nearly me if I left without her."

"She's a pretty determined looking woman," Nate said.

"She's here? In this camp?" "Well, not exactly, but she's down in Echo Junction, just two miles from here. She said she'd scalp me if I left without her. You'll have to see her, whether you want to or not."

"Yes," Pete said slowly. "I'll have to see her."

Pink Topping for Angel Cake

Versatile angel cake, so adaptable to all summer occasions, and so easily available from your grocer's ready-to-eat cake department can wear a heavenly pink topping or icing that is cool, light, and fruity as the red raspberries that give it flavor. You will not believe that one egg white plus sugar and berries will make two quarts of fluffy pink topping. But does, try it at once. This is enough to completely and generously ice an eight-ounce angel cake made from a cook book recipe, with some left over to serve with additional whole berries as a raspberry whip. Strawberries, bananas or grated raw apple may be used instead of raspberries. Pink Raspberry Topping: 1 cup mashed red raspberries, 1 egg white, unbeaten, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt. Put all ingredients into a 3-quart mixing bowl. Beat or whip until topping does not move when bowl is slowly inverted (20 to 25 minutes by hand; 12 to 15 minutes with electric mixer). Topping is best when used within 1 to 2 hours, but may be kept as long as a day.

A courageous, realistic and comforting message for those who are bereaved and sorrowing is voiced by Catherine Marshall in the July Reader's Digest. Mrs. Marshall is the widow of the late Peter Marshall, former chaplain of the U. S. Senate. For a time after her husband's death she believed, as do millions of bereaved persons, that life would never again be worth living. "Yet," she writes, "I can testify that today I am truly happy with a deep, satisfying contentment. That happiness is by no means dishonest; Peter; it is exactly as he would have it."

We all know the advantages of power steering. Most of us would like it. And now many more of us can afford it! By spending testing time and development money, Ford brings you Master-Guide power steering for nearly three quarters the price of any other system in its field. For the facts, read the captions on this page. For a thrill, Test Drive Master-Guide power steering in the Ford!

So Simple... So Safe!

Blowouts become less risky with Ford Master-Guide power steering. It helps you steer to a safe straight-line stop. And Ford Master-Guide power steering helps you park easier, too... does up to 75% of the work for you!

No radical change in driving habits! Unlike many other systems, Ford's system gives you much the same "feel" of handling that you get without power steering. Then, too, you always turn the wheel the same amount as you would with regular steering.

And, because Ford's Master-Guide power steering has a more natural "feel" than many others, you don't have to change your driving habits radically. The steering gear ratio is the same as without power steering and the hydraulic system gives you just the right assistance when you need it.
