

C. & C. Trucking Company Moves Nine Drivers Here

The C. & C. Trucking and Materials Company, owned and operated by Bob Carroll Jr., of Ranger and C. B. Chaney of Eastland, announced today that the company is now operating 12 dump trucks out of the Featherlite Corporation materials yard, located north of Ranger.

Carroll, spokesman for the company, said that the firm plans to double their men and equipment within the next six months. At the present time Carroll said that nine new drivers have moved to Ranger and more will move here as the company increases their hauling. The new men, some with families, that have moved here within the past few weeks are W. W. Woody, Jerry, and Bill Mitchell, Jerry McDonald, E. A. Underwood, Alfred Bush, R. L. Price, and C. D. Ellisor.

The firm carried lightweight aggregate for the new Farm-to-Market road No. 579, out of Eastland. The Featherlite material was used as a test on the new road and prospects are good at this time that the State Highway Department will approve the material for topping through the state.

Around Town...

by Dwayne Dennis

The following is very thought provoking and could be used as a daily guide for everyone—TAKE TIME. Take time to think. It is the source of wisdom.

Take time to play. It is the secret of perpetual youth. Take time to read. It is the foundation of wisdom. Take time to pray. It is the greatest power on earth.

Take time to love and be loved. It is a God-given privilege. Take time to be friendly. It is the road to happiness. Take time to laugh. It is the music of the soul.

Take time to give. It is too short a day to be selfish. Take time to work. It is the price of success. Take time for Ranger. It is the foundation of your future.

Just a note to the beginner hand going at your house? One of the neighbors out our way asked the wife if something was wrong with the air conditioner on top of our house. She thought maybe that it needed a little oil, but the wife assured her that the noise was just our daughter practicing her new hand instrument—and that lessons would just last another five weeks. Hope she practicing is going as well at your house.

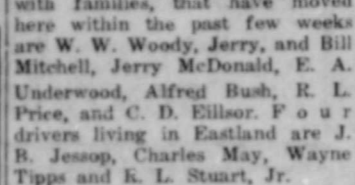

Seriously, though, Bill Avenhouse is to be congratulated on the fine work he is doing with the new hand students. It takes a lot of courage to teach hand for three months during the summer after just completing a nine month school term.

Heard a good story the other day about a man that went to the classified department of his newspaper to place an ad. He told the girl at the desk that he wanted to advertise his $50,000 dog for sale. The girl took the ad and had it published in the next issue.

A few days later the man returned and told the girl to take the ad out of the paper. The girl being very curious about the sale of a $50,000 dog, asked him if he had sold his dog.

"No", the man said, "but I traded him for two $25,000 Cats".

Made a trip to the bank the other day and noticed that all of the girls had their sweaters on. Guess all of that cold cash down there would make me shiver.

Pretty Price ... Paid for Pigs

Three DeLeon men are in a bit of a jam after being charged with theft of two hogs at Gorman.

It all started out, officers say, when the trio stopped in Gorman and "borrowed" the two sows from a feeding yard. They put one hog in the truck and the other in the back seat.

The trio, according to accounts, drove to Evant, near Hamilton, and tried to sell the hogs at an auction. Their actions prompted someone to phone sheriff's officers and they were arrested. One admitted the hogs came from Gorman.

Officers took the hogs back to Gorman and placed them in a pen with some baby pigs. There was no doubt that the pigs belonged to the hogs and the hogs belonged to the pigs.

Illegal Sale of Liquor Costs Man $256 in County

The cost of bootlegging in Eastland County seems to be going up. E. J. McKeller entered a plea of guilty to two charges of selling liquor in a dry area in County Court Monday and ended up paying fines and court costs of $256.

McKeller was fined $100 in each case plus court costs, making each count cost $128. A third charge against the man was dropped.

Twelve Cabin Boat-Tel On Lake Leon Shore

Completion of the modern 12-unit Lake Leon Boat-Tel is expected in the near future and the modern facilities will definitely be open July 4, owners announced today.

The Boat-Tel just goes motels one step further. It has all the advantages of modern motels with Lake Leon just a few steps away and complete boating facilities available.

The Boat-Tel is located just northwest of the Lake Leon Dam and an all-weather access road is already open and is being completed.

Lake Leon Boat-Tel features 12 ultra-modern units, complete with kitchenette with electric ranges and refrigerators, hot and cold water and tile baths. Each unit has a large bedroom, ample storage space, a kitchenette and bath. The Boat-Tel features 12 different brick fronts. Each one of the units has its own special color. Inside the units are furnished in pastel colors.

A fishing dock with free launching facilities and 16 boat rental stalls will be available. Boat and motor rentals will also be offered and gas and oil, bait and a complete stock of other supplies will be available. The Boat-Tel has its own water system.

The cabins will be completely furnished, including linens. A fish fry is planned for the grand opening July 4. More details are to be announced at a later date. The Boat-Tel will have a Ranger telephone listing.

One feature of the units is an overhanging roof or sun porch designed for outdoor living. The Boat-Tel is just off Farm Market Road 2461 (the Leon Lake dam) road. Plenty of parking facilities will be available.

Lake Leon Growing Into Area's Recreation Center

The next evening that you find time on your hands and maybe the TV is on the blink, why don't you round up the wife and kiddos and take a drive out to the Lake Leon Dam. A spectacular view can be observed from the dam at dusk — when lights from all of the cabins, fishing piers and boat docks wink on.

Lake Leon in its short nine years of existence has gained statewide and even National fame for its facilities for family relaxation.

For the pleasure seeking out-of-towners, and local people too, Lake Leon has four commercial fishing docks at this time with cabins available at two. A new 12-unit motel with commercial fishing docks is to be completed in the near future.

With the addition of the new motel this will make Lake Leon one of the best recreation areas, for its size, in the state.

The lake was built at a cost of $1.5 million and the facilities now amount to the lake, along with commercial docks, private cabins and homes, boat docks, and a swimming pool. Lone Cedar Country Club swimming pool and golf course, located on the shores of Lake Leon has an estimated value of $150,000. Lake Leon can also boast that it has one of the few privately owned floating swimming pools in the state.

Cabins and homes on the popular lake range from a modest value of $500 to $15,000. New cabins seem to spring up like mushrooms and there seems to be no limit to the number to be built. Many beautiful sites for cabins are still available but less and sale of undeveloped property seemingly moves as fast as trading on the New York Stock exchange.

At the present time tax rolls of Eastland County show 140 cabins at the lake. In addition to these, an estimated 60 cabins have not yet been rendered. Also there are hundreds of privately owned or leased unimproved lots. Three major areas along the 35 mile shore line now have permanent residents. Many residents of Ranger and Eastland have sold their homes in town and built homes equal to the finest resort areas. An estimated 75 people now make Lake Leon their permanent home.

Building of the Lake nine years ago has created several new business and has been very profitable to many already established businesses in Eastland County such as building materials, building contractors, and the sales of boats, motors and fishing tackle.

Economy of the county has also received a boost by the creation of new jobs at the dam—drive operators of the commercial docks, the lake warden and pump station operators. Also landowners along the shoreline have realized a profit from the sale of lots and yearly leases.

All in all, Lake Leon provides many hours of pleasure for county residents as well as statewide fishermen, bringing in many dollars to Eastland County.

Lake Leon has potentials other than recreation for Ranger and Eastland. The reservoir not only provides a valuable supply of water for Ranger, Eastland and Olden, but is a big asset when business leaders of the town talk to prospective industries locating in the area. Many industries use a tremendous amount of water in producing their product for public consumption and the 28,000 acre feet of water impounded at Lake Leon is a major talking point for industry.

Now—after all the sales talk about taking that drive the very next time you have a chance. Don't just stop at the dam—drive around the shoreline and view the many new cabins and boat docks.

People in far west Texas and the Panhandle area of Texas would give almost anything to have a lake such as ours. In some parts of West Texas the people go boating on so-called lakes that we would class as a small farm tank. At these lakes over the week-end it is so crowded and the lakes so small that boaters are forced to take turns operating their boats on the muddy, motorchurned water.

Take a break—go to the Lake.

LAKE LEON MAP—If you're like most everyone else this map of Lake Leon should make it easier for you to find yourself around the fast growing recreation area. The map, prepared by the Eastland County Water Board, shows the various commercial docks, access roads, Lone Cedar Country Club and other points of interest.

KING OF TROPICAL FRUITS

The mango is known as the King of Tropical Fruits with excellent reason. Its rich, mellow flavor, its magnificent aroma, its juicy lush texture all contribute toward establishing its regal rank with the folklore, religion and history of its countries and peoples. Mangos were introduced to the tropics of the western world by mid-17th century and today the mango is a major foodstuff of the people wherever it grows. It is in south Florida that the mango reaches its ultimate in quality. This is the only area of the continental United States where the mango flourishes and is the only place in the world where horticultural upgrading has been extensively pursued.

From late May through September mangos are shipped from south Florida to specialty stores and food markets throughout the United States. Demand is such that many mango fanciers have standing orders for yearly shipments for this is one way of assuring a summer tropical treat even during light crop years. The mango truly deserves the enthusiasm its devotees lavish upon it. The flavor of the rich yellow-orange flesh is a combination of apricots, pineapple, peaches, bananas and even fresh coconut in some varieties plus something all its own. It is ambrosia all by itself.

- Because there are some dozen improved varieties shipped from Florida, there is variety in color, size and shape but the following rules will guide the novice:
1. Select fruit with perfectly smooth skin as wrinkling or wrinkling may indicate fruit picked too soon.
  2. Fruit will ripen when left out just as tomatoes so it is not necessary to avoid those showing green.
  3. When the fruit is ready to eat all the green will have disappeared and the flesh should yield gently to pressure in about the same degree as a ripe peach.
  4. Ripe fruit will also be highly aromatic, giving off a distinct fragrance.
  5. Some varieties develop black freckles toward the stem end which is often mistaken for a sign of ripening as in the banana. This is a false idea. The freckles indicate a disorder that is usually only skin deep and ordinarily does not affect the flesh unless it is quite extensive.
  6. When the mango is determined to have reached eating ripeness, chill as this improves the flavor.
  7. Do not cut or peel until just before serving as the delicious fragrance is best conserved in the whole fruit. Do not eat the peeling or the single flat seed.
  8. Serve cut in half like a cantaloupe to be eaten out of the shell or in slices or chunks alone or in combination with other fresh fruits or ice cream.
- If you follow all these rules there will be many happy mango seasons ahead.

How to Give A Hawaiian Luau Party

The luau, traditional Hawaiian feast, provides an exceptional party theme for party-givers anywhere. Gay, friendly, beautiful—it's easy to give and fun to go to.

Everyone enjoys the informal atmosphere, the melodic music, and colorful decor that are part of the luau spirit. Perhaps you'll want to take advantage of the coming warm summer days and evenings to give your first luau in your patio or backyard.

To stimulate the Hawaiian theme, use the materials and foods available in your kitchen or local grocery store. With a little imagination you can achieve that lavish tropical look with a minimum of cost. Here's how!

Cover your table with a dark green cloth or paper table cloth. For your luau centerpiece, combine ferns with melons, pineapples, oranges, bananas, coconuts, and other fresh fruits — all spilling profusely out of a native straw hat (purchase at the dime store).

Simplify service to a minimum. Use pastel paper plates, cups and Table Server napkins. Add even more color with a paper lei around each place setting. The gift of a lei symbolizes joy, welcome, farewell and a thousand other emotions.

You can make the lei yourself out of Kleenex tissues. Just take about 60 tissues, open them and fold into thirds lengthwise, and then thirds across. Cut out circles. Each tissue will give nine onto a 42-inch piece of string with a darning needle. Tie the string together. Twist circles by placing thumb and first finger of each hand on circle on both sides of the string. Twist circle on opposite directions — and repeat for each succeeding circle.

Plan a menu you can manage. Try to serve at least one dish that is typical of the islands, or include a traditional island food such as bananas, pineapples, coconut, sweet potatoes, pork, chicken or salmon. You'll want to have a variety of oranges, pineapple and guava drinks served in frosty glasses or hollowed-out coconuts. Ask your guests to come native—tell them comfort is the prime requisite. Typical luau wear are muumuu or sundresses for the women and multi-colored "aloha" shirts for the men.

Music is not essential, but the lilting strains of island music will help set the mood for the festivities. A phonograph and a stack of Hawaiian records are ideal — unless you have a friend who loves to play the guitar or ukelele. Most important is that you keep the gay informal luau spirit—and your party will be a delightful success.

son's body," Murray said. "Of course, crippling diseases—muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis, polio, cerebral palsy—are responsible for many cases of paralysis, too."

Murray explained that there are an estimated 20 to 30 thousand severely physically disabled persons in Texas alone and that a very low percentage of them have received any kind of rehabilitation services.

He said that studies have shown that the majority of these disabled citizens can be restored through physical rehabilitation to a point where they can become qualified for employment. Others, by learning to care for themselves and becoming somewhat independent, can relieve other members of their families for employment.

"As an editorial in the Beeville Bee-Peayune stated recently, 'Rehabilitation is not welfare. It's just plain good business,' " he continued.

The program of the Texas Rehabilitation Center at Gonzales, Murray said, is not duplicated anywhere in the state. TRC treats people of all ages, races, and creeds and provides charity treatment from a fund made up of contribution from the people of Texas.

"We have a long waiting list of handicapped Texans, and most of them can't afford to pay for their rehabilitation treatments," said Murray. "The help of the people of this area is needed to assure these people that they will receive the rehabilitation they need to return to a useful, productive life."

The Center, owned and operated by the people who support it, is a non-profit corporation and must depend upon contributions from Texans to continue its program.

The need to follow Christ Jesus' example by healing the sick Compassionately through prayer will be stressed at Christian Science churches Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon on "Christian Science" will include (Matthew 9): "And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd."
 A correlative selection to be read from "Science and Health with key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 37): "It is possible, —yes, it is the duty and privilege of every child man and woman, — to follow in some degree the example of the Master by the demonstration of Truth and Life, of health and holiness."

 The Golden Text is from Revelation (12:1): "Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ."
