RANGER, TEXAS, FRIDAY, MAY 17, 1935

NUMBER 17

Unless the administration acts, says conservative leader, life will be a thing of the past. There are night clubs.

If having taken congressmen three months to pass one bill, maybe they ought to be paid by piecework.

GARNER SAID TO BE FOR A BONUS VOTE

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Vice President John Garner was reported today to have suggested to certain senators it would be "good politics" to vote to override a presidential veto of the Patman inflationary bonus bill.

The genial Texan thus placed himself in open disagreement with Mr. Roosevelt over the question.

It was learned that several senators who are undecided how to vote have been advised by Garner a ballot passed against the president would have no harmful effects. Garner, whose 32 years' experience have made him a good politician, declined to confirm or deny the reports.

His political philosophy was represented in this manner: "A veto will please business interests fearful of the $2,000,000,000 currency expansion provision of the Patman measure. Passage over a veto will please the veterans and leave both groups friendly to the administration when elections are held."

Indianolans to Celebrate Sunday

AUSTIN, May 15.—Indianola, one-time flourishing Texas seaport, but now only a tragic memory, will live again in the minds and hearts of its citizens' descendants on Sunday, May 19, when they gather at Port Lavaca for their sixth annual meeting.

Some remain who recall the ghastly day in 1875 when a tidal wave and summer storm, born in the blue Caribbean, roared into the Gulf of Mexico and swept the prosperous little city of 7,000 people into oblivion. No accurate check of the dead was ever made. Some say 300 died; estimates range as high as 700.

Those who remained set to work with true Texas spirit to rebuild Indianola. In 1876 another storm again leveled the town. Residents scattered to other sections of Texas—Victoria, Cuero, San Antonio, Austin.

Time was when Indianola exchanged cargoes with Balbo. From Indianola expeditions were fitted out for the long westward trek to El Paso and California. Early German settlers, after a long Atlantic voyage, saw American shores for the first time at Indianola, traded their German gold for Texas ponies and wagon and journeyed into the interior to settle Baron Von Grautze's grant near San Antonio.

M. M. McFarland of Austin is president of the Indianolans. Mrs. Johanna Runge, also of Austin, was elected first president when they organized six years ago at Port Lavaca. The third Sunday in May each year survivors and descendants of the Indianola flood meet to revive memories of Indianola, and keep alive the friendships of long, long ago.

Highway Banquet To Be Held May 16 At Mineral Wells

Announcements have been received here that a banquet for the highway commission will be given at the Baker hotel, Mineral Wells, on Thursday, May 16, at which the entire state highway commission will be present.

The announcements state that Harry Hines, new highway commission chairman, and Mrs. Hines, John Wood and D. K. Martin, members of the commission, have accepted invitations, as have Gib Gilchrist, state highway engineer, who will be accompanied by his wife.

Among others who will be honored are R. E. Shepherd, singing ex-mayor of Wichita Falls, and now a member of the federal housing administration.

Marriage of Relief Clients a Problem

SHERMAN, Tex.—Marion Wilson, county relief administrator, is faced with a new kind of relief problem.

Increasing number of men in county who are on relief rolls are getting married, Wilson said, and the situation is getting serious. "Men on relief rolls have no right to assume new responsibilities when they can't handle what they already have," Wilson said.

Relief Clients to Be Re-examined Over Entire State

The Federal Emergency Relief Administration has ordered a re-examination of the entire case load in all states. This is to be accomplished in Texas under procedure and regulations which will shortly be announced and will be carried on under the immediate supervision of the social service division.

The purpose of the re-examination is to determine validity of cases, in order that relief officers may assure the FERA they have been carrying out the purposes for which the relief administration was organized, namely to grant relief to persons in need.

In many counties case loads apparently are excessive due possibly to misunderstanding of objectives, to pressure from persons wanting jobs but not needing relief, or from political or other interests, to inadequate or poorly equipped personnel, and to zealous, civic and political interests fostering certain projects.

It is expected the re-examination will eliminate from the relief rolls all families not legitimately entitled to relief. Special representatives of the social service division will be assigned to certain counties in which the load appears to be excessive. These special representatives go with full authority to study case records, determine methods of re-examination, to direct the county case work staff in the re-examination, and to recommend the closing of cases wherein ineligibility is discovered.

These special representatives will report to the administrator and the county board the names of all cases found to be ineligible and will recommend the closing of these cases. The regular case work department will carry out the mechanics of closing the cases, and the county boards and administrators to support the case work department in its decision. Cases reported ineligible are to be dropped immediately.

In those counties where no special representatives are assigned, the investigation will be carried and which should be closed. In such counties, the administrator and county board are instructed to close cases determined ineligible by the county social service staff in the same manner as in counties where special representatives are assigned.

The state board of control believes a material reduction in case load throughout the state can and should be effected, and expects not only the administrators but also all county board members to support the social service division in their task of eliminating from relief rolls all cases wherein ineligibility is established.

2.50 Inches of Rain in Eastland in Past Two Days

Rain that had fallen in Eastland since Tuesday measured 2.50 inches, J. A. Beard, official weather observer, reported Wednesday.

Measurement taken Tuesday showed 1.60 inches of rain.

The rain brought reminiscences of another several years ago when the creeks ran out of their banks, as the precipitation Wednesday threatened.

The "gulley washer" downpouring rain caused water to overrun curbs onto sidewalks.

The Leon river was watched anxiously Wednesday morning by residents whose homes are near that section.

Asks 'Chain' Fans for Hay; Gets It

A chain letter horse is all Dr. H. E. Cookley of Denver needs to branch into a new sideline. He has the hay for the steel, as result of a joke he played after he opened a give-a-dime chain letter. Changing the wording to ask for a bale of hay, two pairs of old socks, and used razor blades, he mailed it on. Imagine his surprise when this express truck pulled up to his door and unloaded the first of 15,000 bales of hay he'll get if the chain promise holds goods.

Legislators Have Changed Figures of Speech at Session

AUSTIN.—Legislators have turned from the monkey to the ox as the favorite animal used in illustrating a point.

Early in the session the usual expression indicating the transfer of a burden to someone else was "putting the monkey on someone's back."

Speaker Coke Stevenson started the ox fad by remarking that "it makes a difference whose ox is being gored."

MONEY SPEECH GAVE NATIONS AN OPENING

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The Morgenthau money speech gave foreign nations an opening to initiate international currency negotiations if they desire, but committed the United States to nothing.

International significance of the speech must be judged in the light of President Roosevelt's first experience with world monetary discussions.

The first home reaction to the Morgenthau speech was a resolution offered the senate by Senator Elmer Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, authorizing the President to call an international monetary conference. New dealers do not desire to take the initiative now.

They learned about premature stabilization negotiations in the summer of 1931 when American delegates attending the London conference, to which the Hoover administration had committed the United States.

Cotton Farmers Must Decide Upon Future Policies

JACKSON, Miss., May 15.—Salvation of the cotton industry lies with cotton farmers who must decide if they want the government to continue its crop loans, E. F. Creekmore, general manager of the American Cotton Cooperative Association said today.

Funeral Services For Train Victim Are Held at Strawn

Funeral services were conducted from the First Methodist church of Strawn Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock for Buster Wesley Pontremoli, 25, who was killed by a train at Odessa on Sunday, May 12 at 1 p. m. The services were conducted by Rev. W. T. Boulware, with interment in the Mount Marion Cemetery at Strawn following the services at the church.

Palbearers at the funeral were Hubert Fancher, Guy Craddock, Tony Bordino, Tom Hanyon, Eno Visentin and Joe Ellis.

The decedent was born at Strawn July 12, 1910, and had been an oil field worker for some time, formerly being employed by Hoffmann & Page. His body was received in Strawn Tuesday morning from Odessa.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Buster Pontremoli and a small daughter of Strawn; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pontremoli of Strawn; four brothers, Carl of Beaumont; Joe, Billy and Jimmy of Strawn; and three sisters, Mrs. J. E. Mobley of Throckmorton, Mrs. John T. Purcell of Longview and Ernestine Pontremoli of Strawn.

Funeral services were arranged by Strawn Merchandise Company of Strawn.

James Roach, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Roach of Strawn, and Brownie W. "Bub" Roach, 16, his cousin, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Roach, Sr., were drowned Saturday afternoon in Palo Pinto Creek, near Strawn while out hunting.

Details of the double tragedy were scarce, though the supposition was that the two boys, while hunting, were drowned when "Bub" who was crippled and walked with a crutch, slipped into the deep water of the creek and his cousin drowned while trying to save him.

The two bodies were found after their parents became uneasy when they did not return home, and a search was instigated. It was reported that the bodies were found when the crutch used by "Bub" Roach was found floating in the creek.

Marks on the side of the bank indicated that his crutch had struck soft dirt and the edge of the bank along which he was walking had been struck. It was assumed that he had partly undressed when he dived in to try to save his cousin.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at Strawn with Rev. Rucker, pastor of the Strawn Baptist church, officiating, with burial in Mount Marion cemetery.

The bodies were prepared for burial by Watson Bros. of Strawn.

GERMANY'S NEW U-BOATS RAISE SPECTRE OF PEACE-WRECKING LUSITANIA TRAGEDY

WAY IS SOUGHT TO PREVENT REPETITION

By WILLIS THORNTON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — Exactly 20 years ago, diplomat, statesman and man-in-the-street halted in their tracks to devour the extras that screamed the sinking of the Lusitania.

Today the attention of certain men here, more thoughtful than the day they read the horror of the 1195 men, women, and children who went down with the luxury liner, was fixed on two things:

First, the efforts of the munitions committee and the State Department to carry out a presidential direction to find ways to keep another Lusitania of some future war from dragging America in.

And second, an ominous but apparently well grounded rumor that Germany is assembling at Haslemere, near London, a new submarine fleet.

While the bones of 14 Americans were whitening on the bottom of St. George's channel, and round-eyed fish poked their way through the gilded saloons so silent these 20 years under their 40 fathoms of water, a new generation of Americans has grown up. They do not remember the fatal Friday when the Lusitania sighted the Old Head of Kinsale near Queenstown, Ireland.

It had been a rather carefree passage, without accident. But some of the 1257 passengers carried newspaper clippings of the ominous warning, published in New York papers just before the Lusitania sailed:

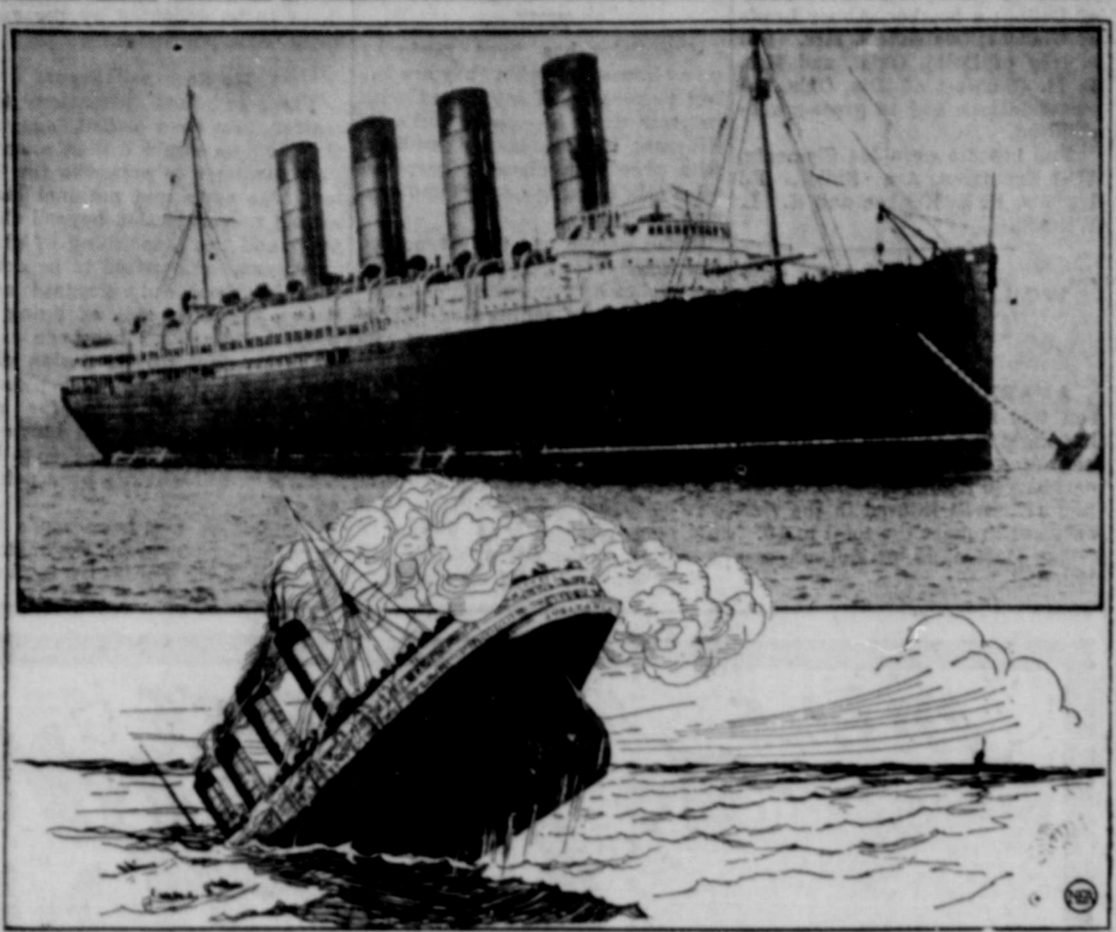

"Travelers (it read) are reminded that a state of war exists. That the zone of war includes the waters adjacent to the British Isles; that... vessels flying the flag of Great Britain... are liable to destruction in those waters, and that travelers sailing in the war zone on ships of Great Britain or her allies do so at their own risk."

IMPERIAL GERMAN EMBASSY

But to the 1935 souls aboard the Lusitania, all this seemed unreal. Unreal seemed the long wrangle over the rights of neutrals, the constant infringement by both sides on what were then considered neutral rights. Far away seemed the strangling naval blockade of Germany by Britain, and the ever more ruthless German submarine campaign against British shipping.

The 109 Americans among them may have remembered Wilson's note three months before, promising to hold Germany to "strict accountability" if American lives were lost. Six weeks before, the first American life had been lost, in the sinking of the British ship Falaba.

But the trip seemed to have

been made in safety. The Irish coast looked comfortable close, only 10 miles off. The great ship emerged from a fog bank before noon, and at 2 p. m. was steaming at 18 knots through a smooth sea under bright spring weather.

Suddenly a lookout cried out, and many eyes glimpsed a seething white streak snaking its way toward the ship. Almost before a word could be uttered, the torpedo struck home. There was a terrific explosion, debris leaped to the masthead, and the ship felt a shudder like the slamming of a door. Some said there were two explosions, but this has not even today been settled with finality.

The great ship listed almost immediately to starboard and began sinking. There was no confusion, but no panic.

It was hard to launch the lifeboats, though they had previously been uncovered and swung out. Those on the starboard side hung far out from the ship; those on the port side rasped and splintered on the side of the ship as they were lowered. The engine controls having been put out of commission, headway of the big ship could not be stopped, adding to the difficulty.

And the time was so horribly short! Even the Titanic floated nearly three hours after the iceberg stove in her plates. But in 18 minutes the Lusitania went down by the bow. Nobody knows even now why she sank so quickly. Only 761 were saved, including Captain William Thomas Turner, who stood on his bridge until carried away by the rising water.

The German submarine U-20, Commander Walther Schweiger, had fired the torpedo. Schweiger's torpedo did more than any one thing, perhaps, to bring America inevitably into the World War. After the first wave of horror, indignation mounted, newspapers shouted for a firm stand, neighbors discussed hotly the rights and wrongs of a neutral country when others are at war. Few went far as to suggest there were fewer neutrals in America after May 7, 1915.

Three days later, President Wilson made his famous speech in which he said "There is such a thing as a man being too proud to fight. There is such a thing as a nation being so right that it does not need to convince others by actual and immediate war. But force that it is right."

To this shining standard, few faltered. The people demand action, plain for more drastic action than the series of notes that throughout the summer passed between America and Germany.

As these few increasingly severe, the Pacificist Bryan, Secretary of State, resigned, saying: "Why should an American citizen be permitted to involve his country in war by traveling in a belligerent ship, when he knows that ship will pass through a danger zone? ... It is a very one-sided citizenship that compels a government to go to war over a citizen's rights and yet relieve the citizen of all obligations to consider his nation's welfare."

For such views and for resigning his office to maintain them, Bryan was vilified as an "unspeakable traitor." But they are views that are getting the most careful study in Washington today as diplomat and statesman study the possible means of redefining neutrality so that it becomes really possible.

The Lusitania, we know now, was unarmed, and carried no troops, despite German contentions at the time. But we also know that she carried 4200 cases of rifle cartridges and other military supplies destined for the Allied troops. This was quite legal at the time. Was it wise to back up neutrals who sailed on such a ship?

Twenty years later, munitions committee members and state department diplomats are wondering.

Farm Population Largest In History Of United States

WASHINGTON. — The farm population—now the largest in the nation's history—is estimated by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics as of Jan. 1, 1935, at 32,779,000 persons. This is 279,000 persons more than on the same date in 1934. The increase is attributed to a surplus of births over deaths rather than to any marked farmward movement from cities.

The bureau says the movement away from farms last year was larger than the movement to the farms. It is estimated that 783,000 persons moved out of cities, towns, and villages to farms last year, but that 994,000 persons moved from farms to cities, towns and villages.

The net migration from farms was 211,000 persons, but this loss was more than made up by a surplus of 481,000 farm births over deaths. The net gain of 279,000 persons in the farm population is reported to have been only 3,000 persons more than the gain in 1933.

The bureau says that although the net change in farm population as a whole was about the same in 1934 as in 1933, more pronounced differences are indicated by the estimates for the various major geographic divisions.

Whereas in 1933 each of these areas showed small net gains ranging from 1.4 per cent in the east South Central States to 2 tenths of one percent in the Mountain and Pacific States, in 1934 the Pacific States gained 1.7 percent, the Mountain States lost 1.2 percent, and the West North Central States lost 1.1 per cent. The drought, it is stated, was responsible for some of these contrasts.

The bureau says the reduction in migration from cities, towns, and villages in northern and north-eastern industrial states "was probably the combined result of a farm housing shortage, somewhat better employment opportunities in non-agricultural industries, and the larger cash relief payments generally available to urban residents as contrasted to rural dwellers."

The bureau's estimates do not include so-called subsistence farms to any extent since local correspondents furnishing information to the bureau tend to overlook most of these non-commercial enterprises.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Text: Acts 2:41-45; Ephesians 4:1-7, 11-16

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 12.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.

Editor of Advance

OUT of faith and experience comes fellowship. Such was the origin of the Christian Church, and such has been the origin of every new movement and organization in the history of the Church.

Sometimes the faith and the experience are narrow, and the resulting movement and fellowship are sectional or sectarian. This, also, has been the history of the Christian Church.

But in the beginning the Church arose out of a very definite experience of repentance and salvation. The Church had no great temples. There was no organization with worldly strength which men might join for the sake of social prestige, or for the sake of power.

The Church consisted of small groups of those who had found the new experience of salvation and life in Christ Jesus. These groups met in a measure of seclusion with the threat of persecution constantly upon them.

One can hardly think of anyone joining the Church in those days except from strong conviction and because the Church represented a fellowship in something more precious than anything that the world offered. The marvel is that even under these conditions the members of this early church were not always ideal.

WE need only read Paul's epistles to see how even in this primitive church, where everything connected with it seemed to involve sacrifice, there were those whose lives were not proof against vice and whose spirits were not free from narrowness.

But here in our lesson, in the record of the first gathering and fellowship, we have the revelation of an ideal and practice so glorious that there seems little hope of humanity rising to it. So seriously did these early Christians take the words of Jesus concerning brotherly love and the surrender of all to God, that they were willing to disregard their personal possessions, to have all things in common, and even to sell what they had so that any man who needed might be supplied.

If one could find that quality of Christian character and Christian courage more widely exemplified, the solution of life's problems would be easy, particularly in an age when we have discovered that man's conscious nature is able to provide an abundance of all that is necessary for human life and far beyond man's need.

To imagine, however, that such a state of society could be organized out of a world of unregenerate men, whose hearts and habits are dominated by self-interest, is to trust to a vain delusion.

YET the ideal in this picture of the early Church is one that should not lightly be obscured. The Church in its true character represents a fellowship of love and service with life on a plane far above that of worldly ideals and motives.

The hope of the world is that, in a society dominated largely by self-interest, there are so many, like these early Christians, who live for higher things. They are in the world, but not of the world. They are subject to the conditions of society in which they live, but they recognize a higher loyalty to a Master who came not to seek his own, but to live for others and for the building up of the Kingdom of God.

The Church, making its growth and progress in a world so different from itself, is often crowded and marred by its environment. Yet to the eye of faith there is hope in the number of those who strive with sincerity and earnestness to live according to the teachings of Jesus and who seek through the fellowship of the Church to heaven the world with righteousness, love, and truth.

What real hope is there for the world apart from that?

AEROTYPE ESSO

a new premium fuel now Public Tested

Public Tested ... and approved as a major improvement in motor fuels

Laboratory technicians told us that Aerotype Esso marked a major improvement in motor fuels. Road tests confirmed their statements. But we were not satisfied until we knew, definitely, that the public approved this new Humble product. Now we can tell you that it does; Aerotype Esso has been public-tested, and the results reported on check cards in our files tell us positively that it fills a public need for an outstanding motor fuel, worth every penny of the small extra cost.

So it is with added confidence that we again ask you to test Aerotype Esso in your own automobile, to prove to yourself that it is definitely superior to even the best of the premium fuels of the past. Test its power, its anti-knock qualities, its acceleration, its easy starting. You can demand of it as nearly as possible what the aviator demands of his motor fuels; put it to any road or traffic test; we are confident that Aerotype Esso will please you, and you will agree with other Texas motorists that it is a premium fuel in performance as well as price.

GARNER SAID TO BE FOR A BONUS VOTE

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Vice President John Garner was reported today to have suggested to certain senators it would be "good politics" to vote to override a presidential veto of the Patman inflationary bonus bill.

The genial Texan thus placed himself in open disagreement with Mr. Roosevelt over the question.

It was learned that several senators who are undecided how to vote have been advised by Garner a ballot passed against the president would have no harmful effects. Garner, whose 32 years' experience have made him a good politician, declined to confirm or deny the reports.

His political philosophy was represented in this manner: "A veto will please business interests fearful of the $2,000,000,000 currency expansion provision of the Patman measure. Passage over a veto will please the veterans and leave both groups friendly to the administration when elections are held."

Indianolans to Celebrate Sunday

AUSTIN, May 15.—Indianola, one-time flourishing Texas seaport, but now only a tragic memory, will live again in the minds and hearts of its citizens' descendants on Sunday, May 19, when they gather at Port Lavaca for their sixth annual meeting.

Some remain who recall the ghastly day in 1875 when a tidal wave and summer storm, born in the blue Caribbean, roared into the Gulf of Mexico and swept the prosperous little city of 7,000 people into oblivion. No accurate check of the dead was ever made. Some say 300 died; estimates range as high as 700.

Those who remained set to work with Texas spirit to rebuild Indianola. In 1876 another storm again leveled the town. Residents scattered to other sections of Texas—Victoria, Cuero, San Antonio, Austin.

Time was when Indianola exchanged cargoes with Balboa. From Indianola expeditions were fitted out for the long westward trek to El Paso and California. Early German settlers, after a long Atlantic voyage, saw American shores for the first time at Indianola, traded their German gold for Texas ponies and wagon and journeyed into the interior to settle Baron Von Graef's grant near San Antonio.

M. M. McFarland of Austin is president of the Indianolans. Mrs. Jehanna Runge, also of Austin, was elected first president when they organized six years ago at Port Lavaca. The third Sunday in May each year survivors and descendants of the Indianola flood meet to revive memories of Indianola, and keep alive the friendships of long, long ago.

Highway Banquet To Be Held May 16 At Mineral Wells

Announcements have been received here that a banquet for the highway commission will be given at the Baker hotel, Mineral Wells, on Thursday, May 16, at which the entire state highway commission will be present.

The announcements state that Harry Hines, new highway commission chairman, and Mrs. Hines, John Wood and D. K. Martin, members of the commission, have accepted invitations, as have Gib Gilchrist, state highway engineer, who will be accompanied by his wife.

Among others who will be honored are R. E. Shepherd, singing ex-mayor of Wichita Falls, and now a member of the federal housing administration.

Marriage of Relief Clients a Problem

SHERMAN, Tex.—Marion Wilson, county relief administrator, is faced with a new kind of relief problem.

"Increasing number of men in county who are on relief rolls getting married," Wilson said, "and the situation is getting serious. Men on relief rolls have no right to assume new responsibilities when they can't handle what they already have," Wilson said.

Relief Clients to Be Re-examined Over Entire State

The Federal Emergency Relief Administration has ordered a re-examination of the entire case load in all states. This is to be accomplished in Texas under procedure and regulations which will shortly be announced and will be carried on under the immediate supervision of the social service division.

The purpose of the re-examination is to determine validity of cases, in order that relief officers may assure the FERA they have been carrying out the purposes for which the relief administration was organized, namely to grant relief to persons in need.

In many counties case loads apparently are excessive due possibly to misunderstanding of objectives, to pressure from persons wanting jobs but not needing relief, or from political and other interests, to inadequate or poorly equipped personnel, and to zealous civic and political interests fostering certain projects.

It is expected the re-examination will eliminate from the relief rolls all families not legitimately entitled to relief. Special representatives of the social service division will be assigned to certain counties in which the load appears to be excessive. These special representatives go with full authority to study case records, determine methods of re-examination, to direct the county case work staff in the re-examination, and to recommend the closing of cases wherein ineligibility is discovered.

These special representatives will report to the administrator and the county board the names of all cases found to be ineligible and will recommend the closing of these cases. The regular case work department will carry out the mechanics of closing the cases, and the county boards and administrators to support the case work department in its decision. Cases reported ineligible are to be dropped immediately.

In those counties where no special representatives are assigned, the investigation will be carried out which should be closed. In such counties, the administrator and county board are instructed to close cases determined ineligible by the county social service staff in the same manner as in counties where special representatives are assigned.

The state board of control believes a material reduction in case load throughout the state can and should be effected, and expects not only the administrators but also all county board members to support the social service division in their task of eliminating from relief rolls all cases wherein ineligibility is established.

Changing the wording to ask for a bale of hay, two pairs of old socks, and used razor blades, he mailed it out. Imagine his surprise when this express truck pulled up to his door and unloaded the first of 15,000 bales of hay he'll get if the chain promise holds good.

MONEY SPEECH GAVE NATIONS AN OPENING

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The Morgenthau money speech gave foreign nations an opening to initiate international currency negotiations if they desire, but committed the United States to nothing.

International significance of the speech must be judged in the light of President Roosevelt's first experience with world monetary discussions.

The first home reaction to the Morgenthau speech was a resolution offered the senate by Senator Elmer Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, authorizing the President to call an international monetary conference. New dealers do not desire to take the initiative now.

They learned about premature stabilization negotiations in the summer of 1933 when American delegates attending the London conference, to which the Hoover administration had committed the United States.

TWO STRAWN YOUTHS, VICTIMS OF DROWNING, ARE BURIED AT STRAWN ON MONDAY AFTERNOON

Funeral Services For Train Victim Are Held at Strawn

Funeral services were conducted from the First Methodist church of Strawn Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock for Buster Wesley Pontremoli, 25, who was killed by a train at Odessa on Sunday, May 12 at 1 p. m. The services were conducted by Rev. W. T. Boulware, with interment in the Mount Marion cemetery at Strawn following the services at the church.

Pall bearers at the funeral were Hubert Fancher, Guy Craddock, Tony Bordino, Tom Hanvon, Eno Vincent and Joe Ellis.

The decedent was born at Strawn July 12, 1910, and had been an oil field worker for some time, formerly being employed by Hoffmann & Page. His body was received in Strawn Tuesday morning from Odessa.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Buster Pontremoli and a small daughter of Strawn; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pontremoli of Strawn; four brothers, Carl of Beaumont; Joe, Billy and Jimmy of Strawn; and three sisters, Mrs. J. ### James Roach, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hill Roach of Strawn, and Brownie W. "Bub" Roach, 16, his cousin, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Roach, Sr., were drowned Saturday afternoon in Palo Pinto Creek, near Strawn while out hunting.

Details of the double tragedy were scarce, though the supposition was that the two boys, while hunting, were drowned when "Bub" who was crippled and walked with a crutch, slipped into the deep water of the creek and his cousin drowned while trying to save him.

The two bodies were found after their parents became uneasy when they did not return home, and a search was instituted. It was reported that the bodies were found when the crutch used by "Bub" Roach was found floating in the creek.

Marks on the side of the bank indicated that his crutch had struck soft dirt and the edge of the bank along which he was walking caved in. As James Roach had his shirt off it was assumed that he had partly undressed when he dived in to try to save his cousin.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at Strawn with Rev. Rucker, pastor of the Strawn Baptist church, officiating, with burial in Mount Marion cemetery.

The bodies were prepared for burial by Watson Bros. of Strawn.

JUST BETWEEN US

EL MERLE

Now that school is almost over until another term, let's stop and take stock. Let us see how much we have progressed or failed to gain this term of school.

We look back over work we have done and some of us can be justly proud of our record. We realize that we have learned a great deal in this short time and we feel proud of our grades; but perhaps there are others of us who find that they have some grades to be proud of and others that they do not care to have referred to. The cause of these poor grades may be that we have let up in our work for even just a short time or in some way wasted the fleeting time which we should have employed in study so that we might be preparing ourselves for a happy and successful future. We realize now that this time would have meant so much to us had we spent it in the right way.

Then there may be a few of us who only managed to pass our courses by a bare margin or even failed altogether. Perhaps these students too, realize how they might have employed their time to much greater advantage.

But let us not mourn over what is past! What is done must be left ## as it is; nothing can be done about it now, but perhaps this brief retrospect will serve to awaken us to the value of time well spent. If we learn only this the experience of failure, victory or doubt has been much to us, so let's profit by whatever experience has been ours this term.

SENIOR NEWS

The seniors went on a "fishing party" last Thursday night, but luck was against us, for no fish did we catch. Of course, we had other cats and everyone had a good time.

The junior-senior banquet given us by the juniors was a great success. Everyone enjoyed it immensely and everything went off with the greatest of ease. We wish to congratulate the juniors for their competent management of the affair.

At the time that this goes to press the seniors are planning an excursion to be made on Wednesday, May 15. We are planning many things for amusement and fun. Let's hope we have fair weather for our senior day.

We have been rehearsing our song which is to be sung at the baccalaureate sermon Sunday evening, May 19, at 8 o'clock, at the ## Baptist church. Mrs. Warren is directing our rehearsals and we are accompanied by Mrs. Everett, playing the piano, Mr. Minnie with the trumpet, and Mr. Timmons with the trombone. We wish to express our sincere thanks for the help which these people are giving us.

We are giving a senior program Friday morning, May 17. It will include the reading of the class will, the class prophecy, class history, class poem and the presentation to the school by the seniors of a picture. The picture we chose to present this year is an etching by Wall. The subject of the etching is the Mission San Jose.

Our senior commencement is to be held at the Methodist church at 8 o'clock on May 24.

GOSSIP

We wish we could find out who the boy from Cisco was that, in company with Mary Louise Wilson, chased a cat around the block in Eastland Wednesday night, May 8.

Something funny about this—A. C. and Ollis left the banquet early the other night and as we came in hours later, we met A. C. just returning from Ollis' house.

We do wish these roving party seekers would not come to our front gate and call us from our various pursuits of happiness. Saturday night it was Frances Edwards, T. J. Weeks, and Charlie Butler on their way to Valetta's, it seems.

Charlie and Frances must have had an enjoyable time for they went back out there Sunday night (we met 'em on our way to church. Amen!!!)

Fay, were you really ready to go home Friday night when you suggested it? The others interested weren't.

We heard Lena, the sophisticated senior, remark that Howard and Johnny both "looked like dolls" Friday night. We've heard many different adjectives used to describe those two, but this is an entirely new one on us. T. J. didn't look so bad either, according to Frances E.

Florence, how do you like Eastland Hill? You were very content Friday night, I heard.

T. J., "you're gonna lose your gal" if you don't keep your eye on her more closely. You really should have been with us on our senior picnic last Thursday night!!

Betty introduces us to her boy friend the other night and he's as grand as she told us he was! Anyhow he really can dance.

SOPHOMORE NEWS

School is almost out and we are certainly glad. We will begin our examinations Friday afternoon. We hate to leave our schoolmates but we will be glad to have a vacation.

The sophomores are planning to walk around Lake Cisco immediately after school is out. They will be accompanied by Miss Clara Simer.

FRESHMAN NEWS

We are working hard for examinations will begin Friday afternoon, and we all want to pass them.

The boys are working out diligently every afternoon and we have good prospects of a good football team next year.

Our idea of a real gentleman is one who would give a woman his seat on the Stock Exchange.

On Tuesday afternoon of last week fire which started in a defective kitchen stove destroyed one of Desdemona's land-marks, the Woodard home, where the late J. E. Woodard and his wife who died Thursday, reared their family. The house was in the east part of town on the Stephenville road. At the time it burned it was occupied by Thomas Browning and family, who tried to extinguish the blaze but could not on account of the strong wind and lack of water as it was outside the city limits and the well near the house had been broken that day. Fortunately the Brownings saved all their belongings.

ed two years ago to legalize betting on horses at licensed tracks. The governor addressed one message to the legislature urging repeal. Via radio, he asked support from Texas citizens.

Proponents of pari mutuel, however, kept the repeal bill well down on the calendar, where the bill remained when legislators closed up their desks and went home.

Assorted efforts to increase the state's "take" on pari mutuel receipts met a similar fate. The bills were not pushed in early days of the session and as the 124-day session closed with a rush, more vital legislation took precedence.

Race track operators, meantime, took steps to "clean up" the game before the legislature put an end to their activities. Texas racing commissioners, headed by Guy Waggoner of Fort Worth, owner of the great Arlington Downs track, suspended 28 for unorthodox practices at tracks, stimulating horses, rough riding, etc., that was the number of suspensions up to May 1.

Bookies ran for cover when objection to them was voiced early in 1935. Police in several cities closed bookie shops. A bill to put teeth in the law against bookies, however, failed to pass the legislature, dying on the calendar just as the repeal bill did.

SCOUT NEWS
BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

National Jamboree
The quota for the Comanche Trail council is being filled rapidly. However, any scoutmaster who has a scout in his troop, who is eligible to attend and can finance his way, should see that the application is sent in at once, in order to assure the boy's going. Of course it is first come, first served, and when the quota is filled no more applications will be accepted. Parents should not overlook this lifetime opportunity, if they are in a position to have their son attend. They may get in touch with the scoutmaster or write direct to the scout office in Brownwood for information concerning the jamboree. Since there are a number of troops unable to finance the sending of delegates, places are left to scouts of other troops, who are in a position to attend.

Hobby-Horse Show
To begin something in a small way on May 27, 8:15 p. m., the Boy Scout organization and the Carbon high school will sponsor a sort of hobby-horse show. They ask the support of everyone who will interest themselves in this type of education. The scouts will hold a court of honor; the home economics girls will model their clothing projects; followed by display of exhibits in the gymnasium. The exhibits will include handicraft, housewifery, art, collectors' displays and hobbies of most any form. F. M. Wood, scoutmaster of Troop No. 29, will be in charge.

Camp Bulletin
Camp Billy Gibbons bulletins with application attached will be mailed out to all registered scouts within the next few days. Scouts are urged to send their registration fees in as soon as possible. Each scout will be sent a free cap when the fee is received. The cap, which has the shape of an aviator's cap, carries out the camp colors in the camp emblem and the name, Camp Billy Gibbons, which is stamped on each side.

There will be no fee for a scoutmaster who brings six or more scouts to camp. Troops that have 15 or more scouts to come, may have two free leaders. These leaders must be commissioned scouts.

$200 Rural Homes Are Improved By Relief Commission

AUSTIN.—Construction and repair of approximately 8,200 houses for rural rehabilitation families was scheduled to be completed this week, just eight months after the job has undertaken by engineering department of the Texas Relief Commission last August.

Leasing of land for sustenance plots ceased several weeks ago, because rural rehabilitation officials felt that they had all the clients they could properly supervise this year and because attempts will be made in the future to permit clients to buy land on a rental-purchase plan over a period of years rather than place them on leased plots.

With 23 rural work supervisors originally assigned in August, 1934, to the work of making these leased plots habitable, construction has gone on at the rate of 1,000 houses per month. As the program gained momentum, 24 county work supervisors assumed responsibility for the rural rehabilitation construction program in addition to their regular work and other rural work supervisors subsequently were added, but at no time during the program was the total number of supervisors more than 80, according to Howell Kidd, general superintendent of construction, who had charge of the program.

"Principally, our construction efforts have been in Northeast Texas," said Mr. Kidd. "The area may be definitely defined by a line drawn north and south through Fort Worth and San Antonio, thence directly east to the coast."

"One outstanding project is the work done in Harrison county, in which much credit is due County Administrator W. C. Albright. We built or constructed 369 houses in this county, the second largest number in the state. On one 3.99 acre tract, where Mr. Albright was granted power of attorney by the owner to use the land for rural rehabilitation, are 34 new rural rehabilitation homes. Although the average lease price for the expenditure of only $235, the engineering department was able to construct a two-room house with open screen porch, storage shed for feed and shells, shed for livestock, well and toilet. Gardens are enclosed with chicken wire and the finished sustenance plot is enclosed with barbed wire. The county is now building a highway from a main road to provide access to the settlement."

A second outstanding job, said Mr. Kidd, is the 29-house project in Wharton county. "This project was made possible by C. A. Davis of Wharton, with whom a five-year lease was executed. Mr. Davis is rural rehabilitation minded. These clients are settled in four-room houses, and producing bottom land areas to the plot with 10 acres of pasture. Clients also may work additional land on a share basis, if they desire. Mr. Davis hoped get the program going by subscribing to the needs of the clients himself, in cases where the rural rehabilitation department was not in a position to do so."

Counties in which the program was carried on most rapidly and number of houses built or repaired in each: Angelina, 314; Harrison, 269; Fannin, 225; Houston, 225; Kaufman, 214; Upshur, 211; Timmons, 190; Grayson, 154; Collin, 152; Cherokee, 150.

PRESIDENT TO BE DECISIVE ON BONUS BILL

WASHINGTON, May 16.—President Roosevelt definitely will veto the Patman bonus bill and he will do it in the strongest possible terms.

The president's secretary, Stephen Early, dissolved all possible doubt as to his attitude with an official announcement today, saying: "He will veto the bonus bill and his message on it will present a forceful argument as he can on the subject."

The president's determination to veto the bill had been well known, but there had been recent rumors the veto might be routine and at heart he would not care if the veto were overridden.

Reports were circulated that some administration leaders were passing the word that the issue could be played both ways to the party's advantage—Mr. Roosevelt winning conservative support with a veto and democratic senators getting bonus supporters votes by overriding him.

Answering such reports, Early said: "I will say as definitely as I can the president is not interested in the bonus question because of political reasons."

Yonker and husband, Young street, will leave the first of the coming week for her home in Shreveport, La., accompanied by Mrs. Yonker and Mrs. Joe Fason of Fort Worth. Shreveport is the former home of Mrs. Yonker and Fason, who pay visits to relatives each summer.

"I foresee the time when industry shall no longer denude the forests which require generations to mature, nor use up the mines which were ages in making but shall draw its raw material largely from the annual produce of the fields... I am convinced that we shall be able to get out of yearly crops most of the basic materials which we now get from forest and mine."

THE map above tells only part of the story—the little-known story of the inter-relation of the Ford V-8 car and the farm.

The figures in the map are based on what will be used this year if the Ford Motor Company reaches its intended production of 1,000,000 cars and trucks.

- WOOL goes into upholstery, floor coverings, lubricants and anti-rust preparations.
- LEATHER goes into upholstery—and in addition, glues are made from cow hide, and from cow's milk... Other parts of cattle, through other processes, yield stearic acid, greases, glycerine (for shock absorbers and body enamel) and soap chips (used in washing machined parts and bodies before painting).
- HOGS furnish lard oil, oleic acid and brush bristles.
- GOAT'S HAIR (Mohair) goes into upholstery.
- BEEWAX goes into electrical imbedding com-
- COTTON goes into tires, batting, cloth, battery box, timing gears, brake linings and, not least important, into Safety Glass. (Every Ford V-8 car built this year will have Safety Glass in every window, at no extra cost to the car buyer... Cotton, in the form of cellulose acetate, is the central part between the two sheets of glass that make up every finished sheet of Safety Glass.)
- CORN yields butyl alcohol (for enamel finishes and other purposes) and starch (for stiffening cotton linings).
- LINSEED OIL is the basis for paint—is used in foundry cores—and is one of the ingredients of the beautiful, synthetic baked enamel finish on a Ford V-8.
- SUGAR CANE yields molasses for solvents, anti-freeze and shock absorber fluids.
- CASTOR OIL goes into lacquers and artificial leather suitable for rumble seats, where real leather would be damaged by exposure to the weather.
- TUNG OIL is part of the top material used in Ford cars and is also used in brake linings.
- TURPENTINE is used in paints, adhesives and solvents.
- SOY BEANS are used in making cores for metal castings in our foundry and are also an important part of the baked enamel finish of a Ford V-8 and of the plastic knobs and buttons in the car's interior.
- LUMBER is used for packing purposes. It is not used for any structural part of the Ford car, which has a welded, all-steel body, reinforced with steel, for maximum safety.

CANNER WILL BE OPENED IN RANGER SOON

Arrangements have been completed by the Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the Ranger school board and the city commission, for installation of the canning plant to be operated by the relief office. The plant will be located in the Panhandle Refining Company station on Marston street across from the Recreation building.
This location is particularly adapted to the canning plant, as it has a large, open air shed at the rear, which can be used for the canning plant, proper, and it already is equipped with drainage facilities. The building was secured from the school board and plumbing is being installed to make it ready for use.
The city commission had previously passed a resolution to furnish the building and the utilities, and in addition the building is to be screened.
It is expected that the plant will be ready for operation within a few days, as the work is already being started.
The project calls for 20 unskilled laborers to be used for 2,340 man-hours, at a wage of 25 cents an hour, or a total of $5,760; five semi-skilled laborers or sealers to be employed 1,152 man-hours for a total of 1,728 and one skilled laborer or timekeeper and safety director for 1,152 man-hours at a total of $403.20. Trucking and equipment calls for another $100 expenditure and the supervisor, who is to be a non-relief man, is to be supplied at $12 a week for 24 weeks at a total of $288, making a grand total for the project of $8,279.20.
Farmers or anyone who has garden produce of any kind can take it to the relief cannery and have it canned, with everything furnished

Picks More Cotton Than 60 Men

At a cedar extermination meeting recently at Rock Springs on the Edwards Plateau, leaders told the stockmen they had assurance of help from a state legislator and a senator in the campaign for federal relief funds to fight the spread of cedars.

Ranchers who had cut cedars from part of their acreage declared that cut over land grazed five times as many sheep as land with the trees.

Spread of the rapidly multiplying cedars in the past 20 or more years has forced the loan values of the land down to as little as 65 cents per acre, whereas the loan value on tracts free of cedars is $2.50 per acre, according to Federal Land Bank estimates.

Feed bills were a great deal larger during the dry year just past than they would have been without the cedar pestilence.

Ranchmen who could afford to have the trees cut from their acreage, at a cost from 75 cents to $1 per acre, said the extra grass that grew out within a few years would save enough in feed bills to more than pay for the cost of clearing the land.

A. O. Hensley, state relief commission representative, said many thousand more acres of grazing land would be ruined in the next 20 years unless the spread of the trees is stopped.

Cedar Trees Now Menace to Ranches

KERRVILLE.—So serious a menace has the spread of cedar trees become to the ranching industry of Texas in counties between Rock Springs and Austin, that ranchmen met recently to ask government aid in their program to prevent further spread of the trees.

At a cedar extermination meeting recently at Rock Springs on the Edwards Plateau, leaders told the stockmen they had assurance of help from a state legislator and a senator in the campaign for federal relief funds to fight the spread of cedars.

John D. Rust Mack D. Rust

A dream inspired by back-breaking toil in the inventors' youthful days in Texas is forged into this machine, hailed as the first practical cotton picker. Built by Mack D. and John D. Rust, it was exhibited the first time at the National Cotton Show in Memphis. In tests it has picked more than 8000 pounds in a 7½-hour day, as much as an average hand picker will gather in 10 weeks. The principle is simple. Rotating moistened spindles enter the plant, the cotton adheres to them, and is stripped away by a suction fan, which delivers the cotton to a container attached to the upright pipe shown in this picture.

Imports to Wipe Out Shortage of Sudan Grass Seed

WASHINGTON.—A shortage of Sudan grass seed for the 1935 plantings—estimated at about 7,000,000 pounds—will be practically wiped out by importations from Argentina, according to a cablegram from Buenos Aires to the United States department of agriculture.

Approximately 5,300,000 pounds is on its way to the United States, with 1,000,000 pounds sold and awaiting shipment, another 1,000,000 pounds, it is indicated, is available for export. Approximately 4,000,000 pounds of seed already has been imported from Australia, Hungary, Argentina, Morocco, and South Africa. These Argentine shipments are the first of the 1935 crop from countries south of the equator.

Because of drought, the 1934 Sudan grass seed crop in the United States was about one-half that usually produced, and there was virtually no carryover from 1933. Sudan grass is valuable as a temporary hay and pasture crop in almost any part of the United States. With a shortage of hay and pasture in the middle west, it is expected large acreages of Sudan grass will be planted, if seed is available at a reasonable price. Sudan grass can be planted late in the season after the safe date for other crops has passed.

Department seedmen say Sudan grass seed from Argentina will be satisfactory for planting. Seed from Argentina was tested several years ago at a number of field stations in Nebraska, Kansas and Texas and was found to be nearly identical with domestic seed in growth habits, and equal in yield and purity.

OAK GROVE

This week was to be peanut planting week with our farmers and we started into it with a vim but another good rain that fell Tuesday morning and again at night has spoiled the fun and changed the week to a rainy week. Fred Milford had the misfortune to lose his cow and calf a few days ago. The cause of her death was not known.

J. E. Cannaday had a good mare accidentally killed Tuesday of this week. She left a young colt one week old.

The health of this community is good as far as we can learn, but this wet weather may bring a change in the general health if it should continue being wet. However we do not mean to sound a pessimistic note.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Nobles from East of Carbon were visiting in this community last Sunday.

RADIO TIMING USED FOR HUDSON'S MUROC RECORDS

Above—Interior of the timing tent showing operator at the radio timing set and tabulators at work entering time made on each five-mile lap by the record breaking Hudson.

Extreme accuracy is the watchword in the timing of records certified by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association. At Muroc Dry Lake, California, where a Hudson sedan set 36 stock car records on April 12 and 13, the latest scientific devices were employed to have the timing correct to the thousandth part of a second. A continuous current flowed through the electrical timing device interrupted only when the passing of the car broke the beam of a photo-electric cell, commonly known as an "electric eye." When the beam was broken, three stop watches were instantaneously stopped and three others were started.

The time was read from the three watches and averaged, giving the elapsed time for the lap. The watches were then reset ready for the next lap. The total elapsed time for the run was checked against a chronometer certified by the Bureau of Standards. Four of the 36 records were unlimited class.

Cotton Replacing Coffee As King In South America

16.—16.—Coffee still is king in Brazil but cotton is heir to the throne and some day may take over the economic scepter to the detriment of the United States, which is now contending with a cotton crisis.

With world attention centered on her growth as a factor in the world cotton market, Brazil viewed with satisfaction the rise of the product as it is felt this nation, too long, has been a one-crop country. Until recently all the talk in the cafes was of coffee. Now it is of cotton and cotton products.

In many circles it is felt the situation indicates the almost inexhaustible resources of a country that occupies more than half the South American continent.

Husbands who rebel at the price of woman's hats fail to consider their entertainment value.

1000-mile record beats best mark ever set by any closed car

NEWS FLASH—Muroc Lake, Cal., April 13—36 official A.A.A. records broken by a stock Hudson Eight. Top speed—over 93 miles an hour for five miles. Average speed—over 85 miles an hour for 1000 miles and beyond. A clean sweep of every record in its class up to and including 1000 miles and 3000 kilometers, and four unlimited class closed car records. Electrical timing correct to a millionth part of a second and every record certified by American Automobile Association.

Here's what it means to you. Probably you'll never care to drive a car five miles at 93 miles an hour. Yet, it means a lot to you to have a car that can go that fast—to shoot out of traffic tangles or flash you out ahead on the highway.

It isn't likely you'll want to drive a thousand-mile stretch at 85 miles an hour, but you do want a car with the fine engineering, power and ruggedness it takes to do this. Ordinary driving is no work at all for a car like this.

That's what it means to own a Hudson—smoother miles, more enjoyable miles—plus ruggedness and gasoline economy that make those miles cost less. You can see and drive an exact duplicate of this record-breaking Hudson Eight at any Hudson showroom. You can also see the complete list of these 36 new records, and scores of others held by Hudson-built cars. Take the wheel today and discover what this record-breaking performance means to you.

MAY FESTIVAL OF FEATURES IS SCHEDULED

Two weeks ago Manager B. E. Garner of the Arcadia and Columbia theatres announced the opening of the Texas Consolidated Theatres May Festival of Certified Entertainment, offering the public bigger and better pictures with more real entertainment for their money than was ever offered before. He guaranteed every picture, and today stated that there has not been one complaint.

This month in years gone by had been the off month in the entertainment world, with theatres everywhere playing the pictures on the end of their contract with the producers, thus giving the public the lesser important product. This year R. J. O'Donnell, general manager of Texas Consolidated Theatres, had the film companies to rush release dates, in order that the new and better pictures might be shown this month.

The May Festival of Certified Entertainment is now half over and may patrons of the Arcadia and Columbia theatres have expressed their appreciation of this event, stating that this year offered the most entertaining motion pictures for the month of May of any they could remember. Mr. Garner says "you ain't seen nothin' yet" for the last half of May the Arcadia Theatre has such pictures as:

- "Go Into Your Dance."
  - "Broadway Bill."
  - "Mark of the Vampire."
  - "Howl is Woman."
  - "Stolen Harmony."
  - "Baby Face Harrington."
  - "The Whole Town's Talking."
- These pictures represent the cream of the crop, and with the best short subjects that can be obtained, make up a program that any manager would be safe in guaranteeing.

BUCK JONES BATTLES IN "THE CRIMSON TRAIL"

Thousands of persons yearly travel clear across the United States for the opportunity of looking with awe at the magnificent scenery of that section of California centering around the town of Kernville. Hills and dells, rolling meadows, a majestic river breathing-taking mountain peaks—all are found in this locality.

Saturday all of this magnificent scenic beauty may be seen on the screen of the Columbia Theatre in the latest Buck Jones adventure picture, "The Crimson Trail," which is showing there. Practically all of the picture was filmed in and around the town of Kernville, and the cameraman is said to have captured all of the scenic beauty in masterly fashion.

There is one scene in particular, it is said, which sends tingles up and down the spine. It is a "shot" of a narrow ledge on the very edge of a cliff that drops more than a thousand feet down onto a mass of jagged rocks. On that ledge Buck fights for his life twice. Once with a mad man who has thrown a rope around Buck's neck. The other time with a crooked kidnapper who has captured the beautiful girl with whom Buck is in love.

Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy in scenes from "Broadway Bill" A Frank Capra Production—A Columbia Picture

The artist has tried to recapture with brush and ink some of the delightful whimsy and charming romantic-comedy that makes "Broadway Bill," showing Monday and Tuesday at the Arcadia Theatre, one of the most entertaining pictures of the new season. Above we see Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy, the two stars of the production, in several of the captivating scenes. Walter Connolly, Helen Vinson, Lynne Overman, Clarence Muse and Alan Hale have the supporting roles. Frank Capra, who made "Lady For A Day" and "It Happened One Night," directed "Broadway Bill" from a screen play by Robert Riskin based on a story by Mark Hellinger.

Moral Issue in War Soon Is An Illusion

You cannot talk very long about our chances for staying out of this "next war" that everybody seems to be expecting without ringing in at least a few echoes from the last one.

What happened between 1914, when the European war started, and 1917, when we finally got into it, is not entirely clear even today. But it is about all we have to go on when we try to forecast the future, and it has a way of horning in on all our arguments.

One is reminded of it by some speeches made the other evening before the Foreign Policy association in New York. There was a round table discussion of the war-and-peace problem, and a lawyer named Frederic R. Coudert expressed himself as follows:

"I disagree with the assumption that war is a most terrible thing. The people of this country will not be satisfied to preach neutrality rights, to keep their flag off the high seas. They will want to know if there is a moral question involved in the war.

"They will prefer to take part in the war if it is against a brutal aggressor. They are 120,000,000 energetic idealists who will not shut themselves up lest they be drawn into a war, but will take sides undeterred by fear of war."

With the statement that we will want to know if there is a moral question involved in the next war there can be little quarrel. The only trouble with it is that you so often can't be sure about a thing like that until some 20 years afterward.

If you will cast your mind back to 1917, you will recall that we had not the slightest doubt, at that moment, that there was a tremendous moral issue at stake. Freedom, democracy, civilization itself—they all hung in the balance, and if we did not go forth to fight for them they were apt to be lost.

So, as you remember, we did go forth to fight, and the cause with which we sided won as overwhelming a victory as the history of warfare records.

So what? So freedom, democracy, and all the rest were preserved and made forever secure? Just where—in Italy, in Germany, in Russia, in Poland, in Yugo-Slavia — or where?

The bright moral issues of 1917 don't look as clear now as they once looked. We may be 120,000,000 energetic idealists, but we might be better off today if we had been just a bunch of suspicious cynics.

And that's the trouble. Go around looking for moral issues in the midst of a great war and you lay yourself wide open to the sale of a gold brick.

The one great lesson of 1917 is that if we are to protect our neutrality we must start long before the shooting actually begins.

Centennial Runs Gauntlet of All Its Foemen

Congratulations to the lawmakers of Texas. Congratulations to the governor. Congratulations to the publishers of newspapers and their staffs who forced the issue to a showdown and made success possible for the "anniversary birthday of freedom" to be observed in the coming year. Congratulations to the Texans who have passed away and who gave a commonwealth as a heritage to the 6,500,000 native or adopted children of the Lone Star who will be on earth to celebrate the occasion from the gulf to the foothills of the Rockies and from the Red to the Rio Grande. Now on with the procession and in passing show and make it one of the most sublime in a panoramic and historic sense ever given to the people of an American state.

Dictator Hitler Shackles the Religious Press

Dictator Hitler appears to be all powerful beyond the Rhine—for the time being. He has crushed once for all the entire German church press, Catholic as well as Protestant, and all Jewish organs still existing on a religious or racial basis. There are men in America, (perhaps there are a few women), who long for the coming of an American dictator given the authority to destroy the bill of rights of the constitution, to destroy the freedom of the press, to destroy the freedom of speech and to reduce to intellectual or economic serfdom all men and women who refuse to bow to the mace or the bludgeon of an autocracy and the armed warriors who execute his commands.

The editor of the Cranbrook, B. C., Courier says that when a grouse tries to crash into a liquor store, it is news. He says that recently the government liquor vendor had difficulty in keeping a grouse from entering the liquor store. The bird made several attempts to enter the building, evidently bent upon quenching its thirst at the government joy house.

Veterans' Corps of CCC to Be Given A 55,000 Boost

Information has just been received from the administrator of veterans' affairs to the effect that the veterans contingent of the civilian conservation corps will be increased to 55,000 between June 15 and Aug. 31, 1935. This will more than double the number allotted to the San Antonio and Dallas offices of the veterans' administration.

In order that we may be able to fill our quota when the time arrives, it will be necessary that we receive many more applications than we have in the past. It will be appreciated if this information can be given wide publicity in your locality and advise any and all veterans interested to communicate with the regional office having jurisdiction over the territory in which they live.

Necessary application blanks will be sent to all those interested with full instructions as to the completion and submission thereof. Of course you know that any honorably discharged veteran of the World war or previous wars who is physically able to do a reasonable amount of work is eligible for enrollment in the civilian conservation corps. Preference will be given in enrollment to those men having dependents who agree to make allotment of three-fourths of their pay to such dependents; also preference is given to those men who have been unemployed for long periods of time.

Cattle Ranges In Texas Improving

Certain drought districts in the Panhandle were relieved by snow in April and green wheat used as pasture declined to 59 per cent normal. Calf prospects were described as "fair" and the lamb crop outlook "poor to fair," with losses light to both.

The shell was removed at an Eastland hospital and lockjaw serum given.

"Dusting the Covers of Texas History" For the Texas Centennial Celebrations of 1936

Sadness had come upon the republic over the death of two well-loved citizens. One was the President of the United States, Andrew Jackson, and the other was Kenneth L. Anderson, vice president of the republic. Anderson had died the last week in June, 1845.

He was "a man of great tact, unquestioned integrity, and natural kindness of heart. He kept his popularity throughout his political career. We meet a few such men in life," the Northern Standard editor of Clarksville wrote. It was a blow to his friends to lose him.

President Jackson had died in the States, and Texas had been represented at his funeral by Gen. T. J. Green, George Van Ness, Lieutenant Clarke and Branch T. Archer, recently resigned from the cabinet.

The loss of the two men could not be dwelled upon—for too many things happened in the history of the state.

In the community of San Augustine the ladies held a fair and sold everything from "English rabbits to bachelors." After the manner of the young ladies in Maine, Texas girls decided to discuss at their temperance meeting the subject of "Total Abstinence, or No Husbands." The whiskey distillery on Long Row in Houston was a shame and disgrace. It mattered little that the owner also manufactured tin ware, copper ware, and made casts for bells and "stutups."

There had been truly a shocking news of happenings in Galveston, however. A city that formerly had good morals was now in a state of corruption, it was said. A woman was fined for beating her husband, a man was sent to jail for assaulting his wife, and another man was sent to jail for drunkenness.

Thus we glimpse life in early Texas communities. There was a constant series of events that kept the attention of the settlers on things other than their worries. Manners and customs have changed in Texas' hundred years of independence, but Texans are fundamentally the same. Centennial celebrations of 1936 will be dedicated to the pioneers, for the noble work that they did for our state.

Another Band to Play at Highway Fete at Eastland

The celebration chairman announced that North Texas State Teachers College band of Denton has given notice that they will be on hand for the Memorial Day fete.

Securing of the Denton college band marks the second of well known Texas musical groups to have announced they will be at Eastland.

Last week arrangements were made for the appearance of the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboy band of Abilene.

Other bands of the county and section will also be on hand for the celebration activities.

Records from the office of secretary of state give a total of 165 new charters granted corporations during the month, an increase of 2 per cent over March and 47.3 per cent over April last year," the report said.

"Capitalization aggregated $2,064,000, an increase of 8.6 per cent and 55 per cent respectively over the two comparable periods. The increase was especially marked in the groups classed as oil, manufacturing, real estate-building, and transportation."

Texas Charters Show An Increase

AUSTIN.—A sharp increase in Texas charters approved by the secretary of State occurred during April in comparison with last year both in number and in capitalization, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. There also was a moderate increase over the previous month, the Bureau's report said.

"Capitalization aggregated $2,064,000, an increase of 8.6 per cent and 55 per cent respectively over the two comparable periods. The increase was especially marked in the groups classed as oil, manufacturing, real estate-building, and transportation."

MCCARTY NEW DIRECTOR OF THE W T C OF C

PLAINVIEW, Texas, May 14.—This Panhandle cow town took on a gay appearance today as entertainers from eight West Texas towns presented a Spanish review at the session of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention.

WORLD GIVEN THE NEW DEAL DOLLAR POLICY

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The world got blunt warning today that the United States would join international stabilization efforts but would devalue the dollar further if foreigners prefer to play that way.

Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., stated the New Deal monetary policy which emphasized America's willingness to participate in monetary discussions, but would not undertake stabilization alone.

The talk carried further the outline of New Deal monetary objectives, which were indicated in President Roosevelt's January, 1934, message to congress.

Morgenthau defended New Deal devaluation of the dollar and cited trade reports that devaluation had revived American foreign trade.

Conservation of Gas Told By J. Burrage to Club

Conservation of gas in this territory and resulting benefits to landowners and companies was told to Rotarians Monday by J. M. Burrage of the Lone Star.

Citing huge wastage in the Panhandle that was brought to attention in the newspapers, he told the club that the wastage in this section formerly was appalling, and still exists to some extent.

Injection of gas into the Cheaney field during the summer months to conserve the resource is done by this company, Burrage stated. There are 14 wells in the Cheaney section where gas is stored, he added.

Other methods of gas saving were outlined. Mrs. Hazel Carter Ammerman delivered a Mother's Day reading. F. V. Williams was program chairman.

Leslie Gray, head of the club's project committee, said aid of others in this work, and President B. M. Collier appointed S. M. Gamble and Jim Horton. Needed projects were named by Gray as being an air hangar and public library.

Fraud, Lottery Law Violated If You Send 'Chain'

If you send a so-called chain letter you are violating the federal lottery and fraud law, F. A. Jones, Eastland postmaster, has been informed by the postal department.

The chain letter craze, while not as active in Eastland as in some sections of the state, has made a definable mark in interest of the people.

Letters from the orthodox "send-a-dime" type to ones selling for a dollar, calling for personal exchange to the buyer, have been circulated in Eastland.

The "give a dollar" type, said to have been imported from Breckenridge, found eager takers Friday, when it started in Eastland, but has diminished in interest this week.

Highest returns from any chain letter was that of an Eastland man who reported the dollar chain netted him $15, from an original investment of $1.

Long Challenges Senators to Debate On Farley Probe

"But when they read the record on me I am going to read the record on the man who made the report," he shouted.

FARMERS MEET TO CHEER THE AAA POLICIES

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Three thousand shirt-sleeved farmers from the midwest and south made the huge constitution hall resound today with shouts of approval for the new deal farm program.

Arrival of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace at the meeting touched off a demonstration by the dirt farmers, who, at their own expense, came to Washington to oppose attacks on the AAA and demand its continuation. When Wallace entered they leaped to their feet and, as one put it, "cheered so long the folks back home heard us."

Wallace, who has been subjected to recent attacks from industrial quarters, smiled his appreciation.

President Roosevelt promised to join AAA leaders in addressing the farmers from the white house later in the day.

The farmers took off their coats, fanned themselves with hats and got down to business with a keynote speech from L. M. Lawson of Darlington county, South Carolina.

He lashed industry for opposing agriculture's crop-curtailment policies and called to farmers to hold fast to the AAA.

Suicides Decrease In Last Few Years

AUSTIN.—A report of the bureau of vital statistics, state department of health, says, "Contrary to public opinion, the number of suicides in Texas has decreased during the last few years. There was an increase from 616 suicides in 1930 to 772 in 1931 and a further increase to 828 in 1932, which was the greatest number of suicides that occurred in Texas during the past five years. Following 1932, suicides have decreased from 828 that year to 722 in 1933, with a further decrease to 195 in 1934.

"While suicides have decreased, there has been a gradual increase in fatal accidents, which totaled 3,112 in 1930 as compared with 4,013 fatal accidents in 1934.

"The increase in accidental deaths has been closely associated with the use of motor-driven vehicles. In 1931, there were 23 deaths due to collisions between automobiles and railroads, as compared with 69 similar deaths in 1934. Fatal accidents in air transportation increased from 27 in 1932 to 46 in 1934.

"The greatest increase, however, was found in automobile accidents involving no other vehicles. The records of 1934 show an increase of approximately 70 per cent over 1932, there being 907 deaths due to automobile accidents in 1930 as compared with 1,533 in 1934.

"With the decrease in suicides and the increase in accidents, there has been a more appalling increase in homicides. The Texas mortality records show 576 murders in 1930 and 1,016 in 1934, an increase of 440 or 76 per cent during that five-year period."

MOTHERS, DAUGHTERS

NO need for women or girls to suffer every month from periodic pains, headache or dizziness. In girlhood Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a very beneficial tonic. This is what Mrs. M. B. D. of San Antonio, Tex., writes: "I do not hesitate to recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Both my daughters have used it and it surely has done them a lot of good. It is fine to relieve one of annoying complaints. Women who are in need of a preparation of that nature should try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."
