ALL BOLIVIA DECLARED IN A STATE OF SIEGE

GREAT EXCITEMENT CAUSED BY THE ANNOUNCEMENT

A RUMOR OF DEFEAT

ANOTHER REPORT SAYS THAT THE ENEMY IS ON FRONTIER IN LARGE NUMBERS

2000 PERUVIANS MARCHING

The Danger of the Situation Has Been Little Known and There is Much Speculation as to the Cause for the Government Action—What the Bolivian Papers Say of It

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Citizens of this city were astonished Saturday evening, says a Herald dispatch from La Paz, Bolivia, via Taona, Chili, when government officials posted throughout the town placards which declared the whole republic of Bolivia in a state of siege, owing to the country being threatened.

The decree caused intense excitement because of the unexpectedness of the announcement and ignorance of the reason for the government adopting such a step.

Two Rumors Afloat
Two rumors were heard. One was that the Bolivians had been completely defeated in Acre. The other report was that 2000 Peruvians were on the frontier near the Madre De Dios river.

Official Dispatches
El Comercio de Bolivia prints these official dispatches:

"MANAOS, Nov. 7.—Rojas surrendered at Empressa for lack of ammunition. (Signed)

"MONTEIRO, Vice Consul."

"PETROPOLIS, Nov. 8.—Advised Oct. 15 confirmed. Rojas capitulated returns to Bolivia via Manaos. (Signed)

"PUNILLA, Minister of Bolivia in Brazil."

El Comercio in commenting on the situation says: "The exact seriousness of the news from Acre is unknown, but the government must be in possession of grave news to take such measures and to declare a state of siege, which appears unnecessary, as the entire country, without distinction of party or class will stand by the government."

Some Discourt Danger
"Some persons attribute the government's action to a desire to obtain popularity and to put an end to the senate's objection to concluding arrangements with Chili."

"These charges we regard as unfounded and we recommend that the government make public all news from Acre immediately after being received."

"Colonel Rojas to whom reference is made in the official dispatches to the Bolivian government, was the commander of the Bolivian forces in Acre."

HON. W. O. MORTON IS NOW IN CALIFORNIA

A Former Fort Worth Attorney Making a Record in Law and Politics. The Texas Brand

The friends of W. C. Morton are reading with a great deal of interest his successes in politics and law in California. Mr. Morton and wife left Fort Worth last December to make their future home in Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. Morton to engage in the practice of law in partnership with an old established firm. While here he was a member of the firm of McLean, Booth & Morton.

It appears that Mr. Morton is doing a little side work in politics, too. The Whittier News of Oct. 18 speaks of him at a Democratic ratification meeting in the following manner:

"The Democrats held a large and enthusiastic ratification meeting in the tent Oct. 18. The meeting was a representative one and the speakers, Hon. W. O. Morton and Hon. Frank Finlason were listened to with much interest."

"Mr. Morton is an excellent speaker. He presented the issues in a clear manner and with a fairness to all parties."

The Texas Brand
The Los Angeles Times of Oct. 6, gives an elaborate account of an outdoor wagon meeting held in one of the city's wards. Among the list of speakers for the evening the Times makes the following favorable mention of the ex-Fort Worth man. It says:

"W. O. Morton, a young attorney, who has recently come to Los Angeles from Texas, shared with Mr. Waters the honors of the principal speaker for the evening. He gave the audience a lesson in Democracy—the Texas brand—which evidently was just what the crowd wanted."

THE TROUBLES OF NEWSPAPERMEN

AN AIRING IN COMMISSIONER DODGE'S COURT

CHARGE OF EMBEZZLEMENT

The Scene Laid in Ardmore and the Star Performer Arrested in Dallas.—Being Tried in Fort Worth—Brief Synopsis of Case in Question

There is an Ardmore newspaper man in trouble here—just how serious will develop, perhaps, after a final preliminary hearing before Commissioner Dodge late this afternoon.

The hearing was commenced yesterday afternoon, but was adjourned until today in order to secure the presence of another witness, F. F. Fox, one of the men who, with his father, caused an embezzlement charge to be made against A. C. Owens, who was business manager of the Morning Appeal.

F. M. and F. F. Fox, owners of the paper, charge that Owens left Ardmore on Nov. 4 for Fort Worth and Dallas on a business trip, and was to be back that night. Before leaving Ardmore, they charge, Owens called up a number of advertising accounts outstanding, issued about $100 worth of checks on the bank and drew the money. They further claim that while in Fort Worth Owens wrote them that he would not return to Ardmore, and instructed them to charge the amount up to him.

The Messrs. Fox wired a description of the man here, but he had gone. A wire was sent Dallas, Deputy Marshal Dryden located Owens in Dallas and brought him to Fort Worth.

Owens claims that what he did was regular; that the money he collected was placed in the bank to the credit of the firm or corporation; also that he wrote the Messrs. Fox while in Fort Worth giving a statement of affairs.

On the other hand the Messrs. Fox claim that Owens endorsed a number of bills over to them, later made out duplicate bills and collected on them, and kept the money. It is to substantiate this assertion and evidence that the hearing is being had this afternoon.

SUICIDE MAKES SECOND ATTEMPT WITH SUCCESS

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Tearing open the wounds which he had inflicted a few hours before with suicidal intent, Edward Niland of the South Englewood police station, died last night at the Englewood Union hospital.

In the morning Niland, in the presence of his sister, cut his throat, and when taken to the hospital declared he would not leave that institution alive. He fought with those at his bedside for nearly an hour, and resisted efforts of two policemen and two physicians to keep him quiet.

Finally his right hand was freed, and in another instant the wound in his neck was opened. Every effort was made to save his life, but without success.

Niland had been despondent for several weeks, provoked, it is said, by sickness and reputed transfers in the police department. He was a widower and 33 years old. He had been on the police force ten years.

LOVE TRAGEDY IN THE STREET

A YOUNG WOMAN STABS HER LOVER TO DEATH

CROWDS WITNESS THE DEED

A Well Known Young Man of the London Stock Exchange Murdered by His Sweetheart—The Affair Followed a Meeting and Quarrel, After Which the Man Left the Woman

(By Associated Press.) LONDON, Nov. 11.—A sensational love tragedy has been enacted in this city, in full view of hundreds of people.

A young woman named Kitty Byron stabbed to death her lover, Arthur Reginald Baker, a well known gentleman of the stock exchange. Before the woman could move she was seized by several witnesses of the deed and given into custody.

The crime which had every element of sensationalism took place just outside the Lombard street postoffice. Although the city was generally making merry over the Lord Mayor's procession, there was the usual press of business at this ever busy office.

Scores of men and boys were passing the spot every few moments. Shortly after two o'clock a young woman of attractive appearance with slight figure, dark eye brows, black hair and handsome features went into the postoffice and sent an express letter to the stock exchange.

A few minutes when she was joined by Mr. Baker, to whom the letter had been addressed.

Couple Began Quarreling
For several minutes the couple engaged in conversation near the counter. Then their voices rose and the clerks noticed they were quarreling.

Finally the man turned toward the street with a gesture intimating that he wished to end the interview. He passed through the door. The woman followed, nervously handling her muff, and dealt the man a terrible blow in the back.

As he half staggered and then partially turned around with one foot on the lower step, the woman withdrew the weapon and struck again, this time plunging it into his left breast.

The man gasped and fell heavily forward, his head striking the stone pavement. Two clerks seized the woman, who was leaning over the prostrate form as though preparing to strike a third blow. Mr. Baker died on the way to the hospital.

Woman Refuses to Talk
The young woman was taken to the police court, where she gave her name as Kitty Byron, age 23, but refused to say anything further.

Baker's wife lately instituted divorce proceedings.

A CRAZED PATIENT ATTACKS PHYSICIAN

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A terrific struggle in which Dr. Hyde, of Bellevue hospital, was seriously injured, has occurred in an ambulance while the vehicle was being driven rapidly through the streets of this city.

The ambulance had picked up an almost unconscious man at Union market and started to the hospital. Dr. Hyde, the ambulance surgeon, was sitting alone, near the door, when the patient suddenly leaped to his feet, and with a scream fell upon the doctor. The driver fearing his team would run away if he came to the rescue, hurried toward a police station lashing his team into a wild run.

Arriving there it required the combined efforts of four men to unloose the hold of the mad man upon the unfortunate surgeon. The latter's injuries were found to be severe, but not fatal.

The young man with whom she was dancing had no intimation of her illness until, in the middle of the room, she turned to him and said she did not feel well and fell.

A physician was summoned, but he pronounced the young woman dead from an internal hemorrhage.

ACT WAS DUE TO POLITICS

INTERNAL REVENUE COLLECTOR REMOVED FROM OFFICE

THE REASON GIVEN FOR IT

Postmaster General Payne Says that It in No Way Reflects on the Ability of Mr. Bingham, But is Merely One of Those Things that Occasionally Happen in Politics.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, Nov. 11.—Julian H. Bingham, collector of internal revenue for the district of Alabama, has been removed from his office and J. O. Thompson appointed to succeed him. The change was made as the result of a political condition which recently arose in Alabama. Colored Republicans were excluded from participating in the Republican state convention and Collector Bingham was held responsible, at least in a measure, for their exclusion.

Postmaster General Payne visited the white house Monday, and as he left the executive office made public a statement defining the reason for the removal:

"The change in the office of collector of internal revenue for the district of Alabama in no wise reflects upon the integrity or ability of Mr. Bingham, the incumbent. It is one of those things which occasionally happens in politics. The position taken by Republicans of Alabama in their recent state convention as understood by the Republicans of the north is looked upon as a perversion of the fundamental principles of the Republican party, and Mr. Bingham is in a measure held responsible for that action; hence the change.

"Neither the administration nor the Republican party of the north will stand for the exclusion of any section of our people by reason of their race or color, when in other respects such persons have complied with the laws and are eligible under the law to full and free participation in political action, and are of a high standard of personal character. In other words, there are not 100 colored men in Alabama who come up to the requirements of the recently adopted state constitution and are eligible for participation in political affairs and the action of the Republicans state convention referred to in arbitrarily excluding them is not approved by any more than such action would be approved if it were taken in Ohio or Indiana."

Mr. Thompson, the appointee, is a brother of Representative Thompson of Alabama. He is a Republican, although his brother represents a Democratic district.

Thompson's Successor.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The president has appointed John S. Webb, postmaster at Tuskegee, Ala. vice Joseph O. Thompson, appointed collector of internal revenue of Alabama.

Discussed Canal Treaty.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Secretary Fay was in conference with Senator Cullom, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, and also with Senator Morgan, the senior member of the minority of the same committee. Canal matters were under discussion, and the secretary was able to show that substantial progress is making toward the completion of a treaty with the Colombian government conveying the necessary rights for the construction of a canal across the isthmus of Panama. In fact, so well have the negotiations progressed lately between Secretary Hay and Senator Concha, the Colombian minister, that it is now expected by the end of the present year all of the phases of the preparation will have been disclosed and little will remain to be done to conclude the convention. It can be stated that the attitude of the Colombian negotiations presents no insurmountable obstacle, and that a treaty can be framed acceptable to both sides, yet in strict conformity with the spirit of the Spooner act.

At El Campo there was an exhibition of rice and a hearty welcome awaiting them. They were shown rice in all its stages and had rice to eat as well. At Sugarland they put in a short time watching the harvest of the cane crop and the operations of the sugar mills and paper mill, thence they were escorted to Houston by a party of business men. They departed at 4 o'clock for Galveston, where they spent the remainder of the afternoon. The party is very enthusiastic over its tour.

Beaumont Battle Between Whites and Blacks Fought in the Dark—Net Result so Far is One Man Wounded and Lots of Ammunition Wasted.

(Special to The Telegram.)

Beaumont, Tex., Nov. 11.—Late Sunday night a gang of white men went to a negro settlement near the oil field known as Little Africa, for the purpose of warning the negroes to leave. They arrived there, warned the negroes that they must leave at once or be killed. The negroes thought differently about it, and when a shot was fired by the attacking party it was returned at once. From the number of shots fired it appeared that was a battle in the dark, but the net result was the wounding of one man and the waste of a lot of ammunition. Max Weyrich of San Antonio, the wounded, who is not badly hurt, said:

"The whole trouble is caused by the negroes' cutting wages in the oil field. We determined not to stand it any longer and went there to drive them out. There was a fight and I got a load of buckshot in the leg. I was the only man who was injured."

The sheriff's department were on the outlook all day, Monday, but Weyrich is the only man who admits that he was present. The negroes expect further trouble and are prepared for it, it is said.

DELEGATES ASK FOR SINGLE STATEHOOD

Convention of 1,000 Requests the Granting of the Right for Self-Government.

(Special to The Telegram.)

Ardmore, L. T., Nov. 11.—About 100 delegates, representing nearly every section of the Chickasaw nation, met in convention Monday to perfect an organization to be maintained for the purpose of interesting congress to lessen the burdens of citizenship by providing adequate legislation to meet conditions.

S. W. Hayes of Ryan was chosen chairman and F. Finis Fox of Ardmore secretary.

A resolution declaring for union with Oklahoma was voted down. The sentiment among the delegates was that statehood at present was impossible. Practically the only fight that came up in the convention was the statehood issue. The majority of the committee on resolutions favored single statehood. A minority report, however, signed by W. H. Campbell of Ada, was adopted, after which the convention adjourned. This report called for local self-government.

Begins His Fight.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 11.—W. M. Cross, the Democratic candidate for delegate to congress from Oklahoma, has commenced his fight to contest the election of H. S. McGuire. His attorneys have brought mandamus proceedings against the election commissioners of Comanche county to compel them to count several hundred alleged mutilated ballots, which, if counted, Cross says will result in giving him a majority of 111 over McGuire. The ballots in question, it is alleged, were each voted twice for Cross, the circle being stamped opposite his names in both the Populist and Democratic tickets.

ITALIANS SORE AT MASCAGNI'S ARREST

Rome, Nov. 11.—The arrest of Mascagni, the Italian composer, at Boston, has caused an unpleasant impression and much indignant comment is heard. W. F. Lohnes, a prominent business man of Springfield, O., writes the following strong endorsement of the great kidney remedy, Swamp-Root, to the editor of the Springfield, O., Republic:

Springfield, O., Feb. 21, 1901. "Having heard that you could procure a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, free by mail, I wrote to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle and it was promptly sent. I was so pleased after trying the sample bottle that I sent to the drug store and procured a supply. I have used Swamp-Root regularly for some time, and consider it unsurpassed as a remedy for dropsy, loss of appetite and general derangement of the digestive functions. I think my trouble was due to too close confinement in my business. I can recommend it highly for all liver and kidney complaints. I am not in the habit of endorsing any medicine, but in this case I cannot speak too much in praise of what Swamp-Root has done for me."

Beveridge Will Lead a Party Through the Territories of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—Senator Beveridge is here making arrangements for the proposed trip of the senate committee by territories through Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico.

It is probable that the committee members will meet in St. Louis about the middle of the month and start from there together.

CANADA WILL BELONG TO US

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND EXPRESSES THIS BELIEF

WILL COME WITHOUT A WAR

Industrial and Agricultural Development of America Insures That Eventually All Land From Gulf to the Bay Will Be Under One Flag and that One of United States.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—In speaking at the banquet of the Minnesota society in this city Archbishop Ireland expressed the belief that Canada eventually will be under the domain of the United States. The transition, he said, would come without conquest, without war.

After telling of the growth of America in comparison with other great nations, the archbishop said:

"Within a few years the commerce of the states on the Pacific coast will equal that of those on the Atlantic. The development of the lands to the east, the west, the north and the south is going on more rapidly and safely than ever before, and we are reaping and will continue to reap benefits. From the east the movement will be westward to that section and from the west eastward to the same destination. "I do not want to be bellicose, but I say this for myself: As sure as fate, although you and I may not see it, the starry banner will wave mistress over all the territory from the gulf to the bay. There will be no conquest, no war. The hearts across the border are already beating with love for us, and commerce and agriculture are calling for espousals."

The reason for the increase for the power of the United States the archbishop found in the universal liberty enjoyed by the citizens. He said he had the greatest confidence in the perpetuity of America as the home of human liberty and that what every American needs to insure this is consciousness of one's own rights, which should be demanded and sustained, and, secondly, a respect of the rights of others and an inclination to help them to widen every opportunity.

Senator Hanna was telling a group of his colleagues about an offer he had received from an enterprising Chattanooga manager to deliver a course of lectures. The offer was $10,000 for eighteen lectures, a sum equal to Mr. Hanna's salary as senator for two years.

LIFE IN WASHINGTON

"Now, I don't see why he made me that offer," asserted the senator. "He could get a fellow who could talk all around me for a quarter of the amount."

"That reminds me," said Senator Spooner, who was one of the group. "I was called out of bed about 2 o'clock one morning by repeated rings at my door bell. I stuck my head out of the window and asked what was wanted. It was a reporter for a newspaper that had been anything but friendly to me. He said he wanted information on some insignificant matter and I got mad and berated him for calling me out of bed at that hour of the night. I probably was more forcible than polite and I expected that my visitor would turn abruptly on his heel and walk away. But he did nothing of the kind. He listened until I had finished and then said, blandly: 'This discomfort, senator, is simply one of the results of greatness.' Well, he worked me all right for the interview. That's the way it is with your lecture offer. It's simply one of the results of your greatness."

Mr. Wu, the Chinese minister, likes most things that he finds in American life, but he doesn't care for ping-pong. He was recently introduced to the game at the home of a high official whose wife frequently adds to the attractiveness of her dinners by having Mr. Wu present. Mr. Wu approached the game of ping-pong in a philosophical frame of mind. After he had batted the little ball back and forth for a while he gave up in disgust.

"It's a childish game," said the Chinese minister. "It's a foolish game, Humbug. Foolish. Ping-pong's no good."

When Mr. Wu was initiated into the mysteries of "cinch" he was fascinated with the game, and he is now one of the best "cinch" players in Washington. He does not like euchre so well, but says it does to pass away the time; but he can see absolutely no virtue in ping-pong.

NOT READY TO START AT PACKING HOUSES

When asked yesterday if Swift & Co. will begin killing, on or before Saturday, November 15, as has been at various times announced, Superintendent of Construction Walters merely said: "We have no orders."

Others intimately connected with the work were asked the same question, and the only reply was to shake their heads. While there is a vast amount of construction work to be yet done, it is known that Swift's plant is ready for killing and has been for some little time. The general belief is that work is held back because the stock pens are still behind and are far from being in shape to take care of enough cattle for the demands of the plants. Till they are, Swifts can afford to finish up the minor details of construction and build their office, complete the oil refinery and do a thousand other things that require an immense force of workmen.

Work on the office buildings of the Swifts and Armour's is about at the same stage for both. Actual construction has not been commenced on either building. The immense sign on the west side of Armour's main building has been commenced and the giant letters "A B" are finished. S. B. Morse, who is to superintend the packing plant of Armour's, arrived yesterday from Kansas City.

EARLY NAVIGATION OF TRINITY RIVER

DALLAS, Nov. 10.—A. H. Williams has written the following to the Commercial club, telling what he knows of Trinity river navigation in the early days of Texas:

"As an old pioneer who settled here in the year 1849, I thought I would give a sketch of a trip I made in February, 1853, on the Trinity river from Trinidad, a point near the mouth of the east fork of the Trinity river. The boat that I took passage on was built at Pittsburg, Pa., and brought by Abner Johnson of Kaufman county.

"Mr. Johnson loaded his boat with a general stock of merchandise and ran her to New Orleans, then he reloaded them on a ship and towed his boat to Galveston, where he re-shipped again on his boat. He proceeded up the Trinity river to Trinidad.

"Mr. Johnson sold out his entire stock of goods, making a very nice profit. He then sold the Caladonia to Captain Runyan, of this county. In February, 1853, the captain got the following crew: Thad. McNeal, Billy McNeal, Thomas Harris, Jesse Bright, A. H. Williams and M. M. Miller. The Caladonia was 110 feet long, 18 feet beam and her load of freight was 300 bales of cotton, 2,000 bushels of pecans, some bacon and bois d'arc wood.

"Captain Runyan also operates other boats on the Trinity river, carrying freight from Dallas, Ellis and Kaufman counties. During a successful voyage to Galveston which required twelve days, the boat was anchored at night. Water was plentiful and the navigators were thoroughly satisfied with Trinity river.

"Two boats plied between Trinidad to Pine Bluff and Magnolia in the early days of Texas. They were good vessels and it does seem to me that if they made the river then, they certainly ought to do so now, if the government will clear the brush off the banks and the snags out of the bed of the river, and put in a few locks and dams on the shoals.

"I have seen years that small boats could run up the river to Dallas the year round, while for ten years here in the last of the forties and first of the fifties the river had to be ferried all the time. "The undertaking of cleaning up Trinity river for this country is one of the best and safest things that could be done. I hope to live to see a magnificent side-wheel steamer lying at the Commerce street wharf, taking on cotton and bringing back such things as our country needs."

LACK ENGINES TO BEGIN WORK

FORT WORTH BELT LINE CANNOT GET EQUIPMENT FOR WORK

NEED FIVE FOR THE SERVICE

One Has Already Arrived, But Others Are Not to Be Obtained—Road Will Have Sixteen Miles of Trackage When Finished.

Though the work of track laying and grading for the Fort Worth Belt Line, or what will be better known as the stockyards railroad, is being done by several forces of workmen, actual operation of the line will be indefinitely delayed by lack of engines for the service.

One of the switch engines needed has already arrived in the city, but the management will not begin operations until at least three are here. It is expected, when the road is in regular operation, to employ five engines and at least that number of crews, but it may be six months or a year before all five are in use.

It was stated yesterday at the office of General Manager W. B. King of the line that the difficulty in getting engines was due to the fact there are so many sharp curves and grades about the yards that, while nothing smaller than a forty-ton engine will do the work, it must have connections not longer than seven or eight feet. Most of the forty-ton engines to be had, have ten and twelve feet connections, which is too long for the service. The general demand for all kinds of engines now makes it very difficult to make promises as to when the engines will be sent out, and for that reason the time when the belt line will begin work is unknown.

Will Handle All the Business When in operation the belt line will receive and deliver all the cars sent to and from the yards. Stock shipments consigned to the stockyards will be taken by the belt line at its connection with the transporting line and in the same manner outgoing shipments and empties will be delivered to the railroads at the connection point. P. J. Conway, as has been previously stated, will be the superintendent in direct charge of the transportation.

It is stated definitely that the old line of the belt line, which crosses the street car tracks near the creek running south of the Stockyards Inn, will again be put in use and the tracks of the Belt Line extended till they connect with the main tracks of the Frisco and Cotton Belt near the joint depot of the two roads. In like manner the Belt Line tracks will be extended on the north and northeast to connect with the Katy and other railroads running near the stockyards track.

The Belt Line will begin operations with about twelve miles of track, but at least sixteen miles will be the total length when it is in regular operation. Of this the longest stretch will be along the entire east side of the stock pens from a connection with the railroads running to the north of the yards, to a connection with the Frisco and Katy. The other tracks will form a network between the buildings and will consist of many short switches similar to those of any railroad yards. When finished the Fort Worth Belt Line will be a busy little railroad, in fact the busiest in this section of northern Texas.

KATY IN DEAL WITH SANTA FE

Vice President and General Manager A. A. Allen of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas yesterday announced that the company having acquired by lease that section of the Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma railroad, 23.4 miles, between Stevens (the state line) and Dewey, and having secured trackage rights over the rails of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway company between Dewey and Bartlesville, by contract, the line between Stevens and Bartlesville will hereafter be operated by that company. Stations are as follows: Wann, Dewey, Bartlesville. Mixed train service will be operated on this line beginning today.

AMUSEMENTS

Mrs. Bruce Tonight One of the principal features incidental to the production of "Urnora," in which Mrs. Bruce will be seen at Greenwall's opera house tonight, will be the electrical effects in the first and last acts. The opening act is one kaleidoscope of action and color, showing the Sacred River Ganges slowly flowing past the Temple of Golah. The sun sets upon the Himalaya mountains, casting its hundred and one iridescent hues upon the stately cupolas of the ancient city. The moon is seen to slowly rise and throw its glistening rays upon the rippling waters of the sacred stream. All these effects are produced by the aid of three enormous electrical machines, which necessitate the undivided attention of six men during the entire scene. In the last act one of the most realistic storms is produced, culminating with the descent of a thunderbolt, which is said to be positively marvelous.

Gordon-Shay Grand Opera

One of the most unique and striking features of the Gordon-Shay grand opera company, soon to visit this city, is the chorus. Among them are half a dozen young women of large fortune and beautiful voices who have ambitions to be great prima donnas and know the only way to reach an elevated position is through hard work. With such an ensemble and such leading artists as Miss Rose Cecilia Shay, it is not strange that the Gordon-Shay company has been pronounced the foremost grand opera organization using the English language.

"The Strollers"

One of the pretty ballads interpolated in "The Strollers," which plays here at Greenwall's opera house Thursday night, November 13, is sung by Dorothy Hunting, a contralto of pleasing presence and beautiful voice. The song is entitled, "Would You Be True to Eyes of Blue If You Looked Into Eyes of Brown," and is one of the prettiest songs of the year.

"The Princess Chic"

John P. Slocum, who is directing the tour of "The Princess Chic" opera company, which comes to Greenwall's opera house Friday night, November 14, has had an experience which borders on the ludicrous. Before arriving at Baltimore the troupe found it necessary to make a one night stand. Mr. Slocum sent ahead from New York a list, among other things, of the instruments desired in the orchestra. The typewriter to whom the manager dictated the letter, instead of asking for "one oboe," requested the manager to furnish "one hoboe." Arriving in town and an orchestra rehearsal called. Mr. Slocum discovered there was no oboe player.

"Where is he?"

"Where is he?" asked Mr. Slocum. "Oh! we got one. We have him in the property room on the stage," replied the manager. Going back on the stage Mr. Slocum was presented to the shabbiest tramp that you ever laid eyes on. "Whereupon the manager said:—"Here is your hoboe, all right."

"The Black Vipers"

In the second act of "The Black Vipers," which comes to Greenwall's opera house Saturday matinee and night, November 15, there is a scenic effect which for realism and intense dramatic interest has had no equal in modern melodramatic works. It pictures a band of robbers engaged in melting the silver and gold plate secured during their midnight raids. The dramatic effect which surrounds this part of scenic realism is woefully thrilling, showing the death of the leader of the robber gang, through his being thrown into the cauldron of molten metal.

NOVELTY IN HOLIDAY RATES

Roads This Year Adopt New Plan to Secure Increased Business

The Frisco announces dates of sale for holiday rate tickets this year as December 13, 17, 21, 22, 23, 26 at a rate of one fare plus $2 with a limit of thirty days. Sales on December 13, 17 and 26 are a new departure and is expected to prove popular in many respects. Sale of tickets will be for points in the southwest as in former years and to Arkansas, Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois.

A change in the manner of through cars is noted this year and they will be run only to the three gateways, Memphis, Shreveport and New Orleans. Formerly they were run to points beyond but this caused trouble in securing and handling cars so the custom was abandoned this year. This action is the result of a meeting held in Dallas by representatives of Texas roads this week.

ORE IS SCATTERED IN EARLY MORNING WRECK

In a head-on freight train collision on the Houston and Texas Central railroad a little after midnight this morning, near Kennedale, ten miles southeast of this city, two freight cars loaded with silver ore consigned to Pueblo, Colorado, were smashed and the valuable ore, said to be worth $1,700 per ton, was scattered along the sides of the track and in adjoining fields.

No one was hurt in the wreck, the train crews saving themselves by jumping.

Occurred on a Curve The wreck occurred on a sharp curve one quarter of a mile south of Kennedale. It is reported, but cannot be verified, that it was caused by disobedience of orders on the part of the southbound crew. Both trains were extras and while the northbound train was slowly climbing the grade leading into Kennedale, the southbound train was coming down at a rate of about thirty-five miles per hour.

The trains met on the curve a second or two after the two engineers and firemen saw that nothing could be done to avert the collision and jumped for their lives. They landed safely and were unhurt.

The two cars of ore were in the forward part of the northbound train. They were consigned to Pueblo, Colo., and were being carried under bond so the shippers will not be the losers. When the two trains came together the heavily laden cars were the first to be smashed and the ore was scattered in every direction, most of it falling along the sides of the track.

One car of shelled corn on the southbound freight was wrecked and the contents also scattered.

Engines Failed to Explode The engines, strange to say, were not damaged badly enough to cause an explosion and it is thought they can be put in service again at a little expense. None of the other cars in the train were badly damaged but the wrecking of the three cars caused such a blockade that there are several trains on either side of the station waiting to get through.

The news of the wreck was quickly telegraphed to Dallas and Fort Worth and wrecking crews were sent from both places. They are at work today building new track around the wreck and it was thought that by this evening trains could be gotten through all right.

Passenger trains were at once ordered to go to and from Fort Worth by way of Dallas and this was done today over the Texas and Pacific tracks. The total value of the ore lost is hard to determine, but it was sufficient to cause unusually strict precautions among the workmen who were sent to the scene of the wreck. The point from which it was shipped could not be learned. No trains were run out to Kennedale except the wrecking train early this morning and that station is cut off from traffic till the damage is repaired.

J. G. SHEDD PROCLAIMS THE FUTURE OF TEXAS

John G. Shedd of Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, and chairman of the delegation of Chicago business men now touring Texas, made the following statement at San Antonio: "Upon inquiry I am told that within the last four years your city has improved itself with about eight miles of modern asphalt paving. The cleanliness and general attractiveness resulting from this work will, in my opinion, be returned to your citizens in the way of greatly increased business by bringing strangers to make their winter homes among you. The city in the South, in my opinion, which makes itself the most attractive, from the standpoint of good hotel accommodations and municipal cleanliness, will be the one which wins the approbation of the traveling public. If I am informed correctly, no city in the United States has been so greatly improved with beautiful parks and drives at so small a cost as San Antonio, and I can heartily congratulate the citizens of this beautiful city upon procuring officials who have been unselfish and broadminded enough to accomplish such a great work at so small a cost."

"It is my impression that immigration will go on at a tremendous rate, and I believe that from seventh place, as shown by the census of 1900, Texas will soon put herself in the fourth rank, and within a comparatively short time will have within her borders a population of 12,000,000."

JOHNSON JURY FAILED TO AGREE

DISMISSED AFTER FORTY-EIGHT HOURS' CONSIDERATION

STOOD 8 FOR CONVICTION

Verdict For Plaintiff in Seventeenth District—Divorce Cases and Other Civil Matters in Both District Courts Today—Commissioners Counting Election Votes

The jury which had under consideration the murder case of the State vs. F. M. Johnson, and which heard the closing arguments on Saturday night at 10:30 o'clock, yesterday evening at 7:30 was discharged by the court. The jury had reported two or three times during the day that it would be impossible for it to agree, but each time the court sent the body back for further consideration. Finally it developed that the members could not arrive at an agreement and they were discharged.

It is said about the court house that the twelve men stood out eight for conviction and four for acquittal.

Verdict for Stokes In the Seventeenth district court the jury having under consideration the case of W. M. Stokes vs. the Fort Worth Iron Works company, returned a verdict this morning allowing plaintiff $1,350.

Nothing of especial interest to any save those directly interested is being heard in either of the district courts today. Judge Dunklin is hearing arguments in some divorce cases.

In the county court there is nothing doing. Judge Harris is engaged with the commissioners in canvassing the late election returns.

SONS AND DAUGHTERS OF THE CONFEDERACY

Meeting of Sons Last Night—Placed Themselves in Line to Serve the Visiting Daughters Next Month.

The Sons of Confederate Veterans met in regular weekly session last night, with a small attendance. There were a number of ladies present. Lieutenant Commander W. P. Lane presided.

A committee was appointed to invite Rev. R. C. Armstrong, pastor of the Mulky Memorial church, to deliver his lecture on "The Heroes and Heroines of the South" before the camp at a date agreeable to the reverend gentleman before his departure from Fort Worth to a new field of pastoral work. The committee is composed of Comrades Stockett, Talbot and Dixon. When the date is fixed the Sons will invite the chapter of Daughters and camp veterans to enjoy the lecture with them. This is a new lecture prepared by Mr. Armstrong, and has only been delivered one time, that at Decatur some weeks ago, and of which most favorable comment has been heard.

Lieutenant Commander George W. Clark spoke at length under the call for remarks for the good of the order. Mr. Clark is inspector general on Division Commander Adams' staff, also assistant judge advocate general on Commander-in-Chief Thomas P. Stone's staff. He travels much over the state as supreme president of the United Benevolent association, but never overlooks an opportunity to do and say something in the cause of the confederacy. Hence, to hear him is a pleasure the Sons and Daughters enjoy very much.

Mr. Clark made a suggestion last night which may result in much good if adopted—that of arranging for the Sons and Daughters to have joint meetings. The Sons meet weekly; the Daughters once every two weeks. His suggestion was to meet with each other alternately—provided it be agreeable to the Daughters. Their pleasure in the matter will be ascertained before the next meeting. Both these organizations have one great and grand purpose in view—hence, joint meetings will, it is thought, result beneficially to both, and especially increase the attendance of the Sons.

The question of the Sons placing their services at the command of the Daughters upon the occasion of their state meeting here next month, the Sons reiterated their purpose to respond to any call made upon them in the work of looking after the visitors—meeting trains and escorting the visitors to their respective quarters and of rendering any other service required. It was further suggested that all Sons having uniforms wear them during the stay of the Daughters.

STATE OFFICERS WILL RESIGN

ARE CERTAIN THAT LANHAM WILL MAKE CLEAN SWEEP

NEW CANDIDATES PLENTY

Purchasing Agent C. P. Dodge Is One of the First to Announce His Intention to Quit—He Will Remove to Indian Territory and Engage in the Money Lending Business

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 11.—That it is reasonably certain that Governor-elect Lanham will make a clean sweep in the present official family, is causing many of the state appointive officers of the state to look out for themselves. It is learned that a number of resignations may soon follow, even before the expiration of terms of office. Among those who have already signified their intention to resign, is State Purchasing Agent C. P. Dodge, who has been at the head of this department almost since its creation. The first appointee to the office was Cliff Adams of Bryan, who resigned after only serving a short time and the present incumbent succeeded him. Mr. Dodge came here from Temple and he has managed the department in a most satisfactory manner. It is said that Mr. Dodge will remove to the Indian Territory, where he will engage in a money lending business.

At present there are on an average of about five applicants for every position within the gift of the new governor, and he will have his hands full in making a selection.

YOUNG RAILROAD MAN SEES A BADGER FIGHT

Affair Pulled Off in the Texas and Pacific and Katy Yards Last Night

Naughty railroad men, who have been reading stories about big badger fights in the state within the last few weeks, were moved last night to have a "pulling" in the yards of the Katy and Texas and Pacific, at which Yardmaster Fells was master of ceremonies. All the railroad men who were within range of the call boys responded to the notice that a fight was scheduled and there was a big crowd when the victim arrived on the scene.

The badger was captured in the woods along the West Fork, so the victim was told, and many big bets were placed on the result. H. E. Burch, garin clerk in the local office of the Rock Island, pulled the badger and the joke is the talk of railroad men about the Texas and Pacific yards today.

Railroad Notes and Personals J. Pottor, master mechanic, and J. W. Ward, superintendent of the Texas and Pacific, with headquarters at Big Springs, were visitors in the city today.

Master Mechanic McKelvey of the Frisco, headquarters at Sherman, was a visitor in the city this morning.

E. W. Campbell, superintendent of the Eastern division of the Texas and Pacific, was in the city today.

Ground was broken at Dallas yesterday at the corner of Junius street and Haskell avenue for the erection of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church south, which is to cost $28,000.

Boost—don't knock.

They are still in Texas.

Burkitt—where is Burkitt now?

Even the alligators have heard the word and are coming to Fort Worth.

Texas ginned almost as much cotton in 1902 as any five other states put together.

After North Fort Worth is incorporated and gets ready to pave its leading streets, it wants to select its councilmen with extreme care.

Texas railroads and Texas people should be on good terms. They are both working for the same end—the development of the state.

People up North are in the grasp of an early winter blizzard. A fine winter climate is only one of many reasons for coming to Fort Worth to live.

Texas bankers may not get their names in the headlines at the New Orleans convention, but a number of them will have their noses counted in the big round up.

In attacking the goat herds of a woman rancher and otherwise injuring her, the Colorado cattlemen are resorting to tactics that it is believed no Texan would be guilty of.

President Castro has made his triumphant entry into the Venezuelan capitol, and the rebels are in full flight. The president's press agent must have taken an overdose.

Why shouldn't the Buddhist priests ride on half fare? Their religion may be all wrong, but they don't think so—anyway what does the ordinary railroad passenger agent know about it.

One of the most distinguished members of the party of Chicago business men had his entire wardrobe stolen while in Dallas. A sneak thief entered the car while he was asleep and walked off with his grip and suit case. To think of a thing like that happening in Dallas! The entire state blushes for her.

In his Southern policy it looks as if Roosevelt is making the one big mistake that his enemies in his own party predicted for him. One can readily see Platt, Hanna, Quay and the others of that despicable gang standing about in ghoulish glee, waiting for the president to tumble into the pit he is now digging.

Dallas musical circles are said to be in a frenzy of disappointment over the fact that they will not get to hear Mascagni. Possibly if he had known of the appreciation that was awaiting him at the head of navigation on Trinity river, he would never have declined to fulfill his contract for the American tour, as has been announced by the dispatches.

El Paso is working hard to secure a union station. There is nothing that advertises a town better. They are always responsible for the first impression one has coming into a new place. Fort Worth's has invariably given the right sort of an impression—an impression, too, by the way, that further acquaintance with the city sustains.

The King of Siam, who will visit America next year, has one hundred wives. That's about the right ratio. One American girl is worth one hundred Siamese.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

There are merchants in all important towns who, while not asserting that newspaper advertising is not without some results, do not give it a fair trial. They are not persistent enough and for the most part not extensive enough in the spread of printer's ink. The stand-up-for-the-town policy of the paper meets their hearty approval, but when it comes to liberal advertising patronage they are willing to be counted out. And yet some of these same merchants will indulge in many fake advertising schemes that come along, placing money where it will certainly not do the most good. It has time and again been demonstrated that the most remunerative advertising is through the legitimate newspaper, and in addition to this the satisfaction is ever present of having encouraged and strengthened an enterprise that is ever ready to help the community in every good and perfect undertaking.

WHEN MAGNATES FALL OUT

The fight that began last year between the Osgood and Gates factions for the control of the Colorado Fuel company is going to be a great thing for Colorado. The latest information is that Osgood has succeeded in interesting Gould, Hawley and Harriman in the Fuel company and that they will invest heavily in it, and build it up, not only as a benefit to themselves and their railroads in the West, but also to rival the United States Steel Co., which they are unfriendly to from the fact that behind it are Morgan and Gates and others of their ancient enemies.

About the only safeguard the public has against gigantic trusts is that there is always the probability that the masterful men who control them will fall out among themselves, in the fight for supreme leadership, and then competition follows, as in the case of Colorado Fuel, to the great advantage of the public.

CORBIN FOR THE CANTEN

General Corbin doesn't think much of matrimony for the younger officers of the army. Inasmuch as he himself took on the serious responsibilities it incurs last winter, it is presumed that he thinks it all right for the older ones. He says that a young officer should have but one allegiance and that to the service.

His views on the canteen question, while perhaps no less sound, are at any rate without inconsistency. In his yearly report just published he says: "The restoration of the exchange as it existed prior to the passage of the act of February 2, 1901, prohibiting the sale of beer is desired and urged by the great majority of officers and men, and by none more than those of pronounced temperance views. Numerous reports confirm the view long held by this office that the old exchange contributed to sobriety, health and contentment of the men. The increase of desertions and of trials for infractions of discipline is, by those best informed, attributed to the abolition of the former privileges of the exchange."

Former Governor Stone of Missouri has presidential aspirations. His friends have picked him out to succeed Vest in the senate. Then he is to be promoted to the White House through the natural fitness of things. Speaking about the presidency, Texas has a senator or two whose chances for that office make Vest's look like a 100 to one shot.

A number of Texans will watch with interest, and note the spot, when Leroy Price of the International and Great Northern Railway drives that 14 carat gold spike that is to mark the completion of the Fort Worth-Waco division. And the newspaper men will all be there.

A Startling Surprise.

Very few could believe in looking at A. T. Hoadley, a healthy, robust blacksmith of Tilden, Ind., that for ten years he suffered such tortures from rheumatism as few could endure and live. And a wonderful change followed his taking Electric Bitters. "Two bottles wholly cured me," he writes, "and I have not felt a twinge in over a year." They regulate the kidneys, purify the blood and cure Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervousness, improve digestion and give perfect health. Try them! Only 50 cents, at W. J. THE IDLER'S NOTE BOOK

Can't I knock, just a little? It's about the school once more. You probably read in The Telegram about the meeting of the teachers institute held last Saturday in the high school. They got a talking about arithmetic and one of the teachers said that recently a written test was given to ninety-four pupils of the eighth grade. They asked: "If eggs are worth twenty-five cents a dozen, how many ought you to get for a dime?" and one little girl answered 40. "Funny isn't it? Forty-two pupils missed the question. That's funny, too. The whole procedure is ridiculous some would say. But instead of being funny, it's pitiful.

Pitiful that for eight years a little girl's mind should be so jammed and crammed and forced and hurried that at just the time when she should begin to reason and think for herself, she cannot because she has never had time to learn. Here is something you won't find in the psychology of pedagogy. If you give an ordinary six-year-old boy a box of fifty blocks and a little time, he will work out buildings and geometrical problems for a day, and what is more important, he can work out the same buildings the next day twice as easily as he did at first. But if you take that six-year-old boy and send him to a school eight years, teach him in that time that fractional parts are merely blocks of numbers that have been cut up, show him how to build them and tear them down, and then give him a simple problem involving perhaps two processes, one of addition and the other of subtraction, the chances are 7-8 to 1-16 he will fall down.

The trouble is not that the children aren't taught to think, or that they can't think, but that they are not given time to learn to think. If all the teachers of the public schools once saw a chess player like Pillsbury go through twenty or more complicated games from merely hearing the moves called, and could see how he packs away the moves of one game in a single compartment of his brain, to take them out again half an hour or an hour later, they would get an insight into the possibilities of the human brain that cannot be derived from reading a thousand books on mental philosophy.

If at the outset the pupils could be made to understand that they have all their lifetime in which to learn, that they never can learn it all, and that it makes no difference whether they are graduated at thirteen or twenty three, there would be fewer cases of nervous prostration.

Nervous prostration among school children, by the way, isn't caused by too much study, or too much overwork, it's caused by worry, worry lest the lessons aren't learned in time, lest the pupil fall to keep up with the rest of the class, lest graduation be delayed, or lest some other thing, trifling in itself, but all-important to the poor student, be not accomplished.

When Superintendent Hogg said that he wants the work done thoroughly if he has to cut the studies down to three in a grade, he said something that should give him a life position at the head of the city schools, if he needs that length of time to accomplish his purpose.

The talk of improper promotion is very good, but the fault isn't in the promoting, it's more in getting the idea into the pupil's head that promotion is essential to success. We'll all get promoted sometime, maybe. At least we hope so. Till then let's don't worry or make the children worry either.

By the way, if eggs are selling at twenty-five cents a dozen, how many ought you to get for ten cents. —THE IDLER.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

A New York director of the United States Steel Corporation in commenting on Charles M. Schwab's repeated eccentric actions abroad, said: "It's Mr. Schwab's money and his noboddy's business how much he spends or in what manner he spends it." Said a banker in commenting on this: "Were Mr. Schwab a private individual I would grant this position. But it is not well taken so long as Mr. Schwab is the official head of the greatest industrial concern in the world and one that has more direct reference to American prosperity than any half dozen others."

Andrew Carnegie has been telling stories at Greenock, Scotland, about his forefathers, of whom he is very proud. "We were great radicals," about says, "not to say incipient republicans in Dunfermline in the early days. I remember the cavalry parading the streets of Dunfermline to quell riots. An old lady recently sent me a copy of a handbill, in which an appeal is made for £300 to defend my uncle from the charge of conspiracy in holding a Chartist meeting which was dispersed by the sheriff. I have had it framed as my best title of nobility, that one of our family was in jail for defending the right of public meeting."

At the time when French papers were caricaturing everything and everybody English Lord Kitchener came in for a full share of the lampooning. This was at a comparatively early period of the Boer war. Yet when Kitchener visited Paris recently he was lionized. He reached there quietly, but when his presence became known nearly every journal heralded him as a glorious example for a French soldier and as a companion who had fought for the flag of France in the dark days of the debacle and who nearly paid his life for his devotion. Altogether it was quite a change from the time when the same papers denounced him as "le boucher," and represented him alternately as carrying a bone in his mouth and tearing women and children to pieces.

About the time William Waldorf Astor began to be well known in London certain publications there began to speak of him as "the honorable." It has been hinted that this imitation title was conferred on the self-ex-patriated American by those who knew it would be the reverse of offensive to him. As long as he remained an American citizen no one objected to the harmless exhibition of vanity, but as soon as he became naturalized as a British subject he became amenable to English regulations in regard to such matters. So it is now declared that Mr. Astor has received a semi-official intimation from the lord chamberlain's department in London to the effect that it would be well for him to drop the prefix of "honorable" to his name.

In his new book, "Pictures of Many Wars," Frederick Villiers tells of one occasion when he and a French traveler were guests of the Russian general, Skobelev. The host, speaking of the Turks, said: "I wonder why these men fight like fiends?" "It's probably their fanaticism, just as your men fight for holy Russia and the great white czar," said Villiers. "I suppose so," said the general; "and why do your countrymen fight, monsieur?" "For glory," "Bravo! And the Englishmen, Mr. Villiers?" "Oh, my countrymen have the greatest incentive of all." "A greater incentive than glory? Impossible," said the Frenchman. "Oh, yes," said Villiers easily—"British interests, you know."

By BRIG. GEN. CHAS. KING, U.S.A. COPYRIGHT 1899 BY ETENKXSON NEELY.

The trial of Captain Nevins for de-falcation and gross misconduct is the sensation of the army post where are stationed Captain Loring of the engineer corps and Lieutenant Blake, his friend. At the court martial in which Loring is the prosecutor, it develops that Nevins' wife who is in San Francisco, is the sister of the girl who broke her engagement with Loring and caused him, heartbroken, to ask service in the western plains. Nevins gives Loring his diamonds and valuables to send to his wife and then through a friend, Gleason sends them to be returned. Gleason gets drunk and accosts Loring before the tent of the commanding officer. Loring tells him that the valuables have already been sent away.

The court martial adjourns and Blake and Loring with their troop leave the post, stopping on their way at the ranch of Sancho, a treacherous Mexican. There they get word to send an escort with two other troopers to Tucson, while they are to proceed to Yuma. The night before they leave, Lieutenant Blake, hearing the music of a guitar, goes out to interview Pancha, the sister of the wife of old Sancho's brother.

While he confronts her, the troop is suddenly attacked and before Blake can prevent Loring is surrounded, struck unconscious and wounded. The saddlebags bearing the envelope containing Nevins' diamonds and watch are slashed open and looted. After Loring recovers he is in such bad condition, the survey of the Gila valley is given up and he starts on a sea voyage to San Francisco for his health, accompanied by Colonel Turnbull. Blake is reduced to the infantry. As the ship bearing Loring stops at a port along the way, Pancha, who has lured Blake to her side on that disastrous night, comes on board accompanied by wealthy relatives. Loring learns she has neither father nor mother and is being taken away against her will.

He learns that a valuable package has been placed in the safe of the ship under care of the purser, Traynor, and while permitted to see it, cannot but guess that it contains the missing valuables of Captain Nevins. Then the ship Idaho is run down and sunk, and only the passengers are saved. The purser saves some of the valuables, but the packets addressed to San Francisco in Pancha's name, are missing. Arriving at San Francisco, Loring is suddenly thrown under a cloud of suspicion of having stolen the valuables and is confined to his headquarters there under disgrace. Finally through the efforts of Captain Moreland whose life he saved from attack by a ruffian of a sailor, the night the ship went down, Loring is freed from suspicion and an order came from Washington demanding that he be released and sent to his new post on the Platte. Mrs. Nevins, wife of the notorious captain, who is supposed dead, goes to live in a suburb of Sacramento accompanied by her sister, Geraldine Allen, who years before had broken her engagement with Loring.

"To explain all this," said the adjutant general, "there was a dashing looking young fellow here for two or three days, drinking a good deal, down about the depot, on the flats and around the quartermaster's corral. He said he was Captain Newhall of the Thirty-ninth infantry, and the general finally told me to send an aid to look him up and remind him it was his duty to call at headquarters and account for his presence. Between that night and the next morning he disappeared and at last accounts was hobnobbing with Burleigh at Gate City. You know of him, I see?"

"Possibly," "Then, general," said the chief of staff, with prompt decision, "the quickest way to get at the root of the matter would be to send Loring at once to Gate City."

The general thought for a moment. "How soon could you go?" "First train, sir."

It was then too late for the single passenger express that daily went clanking over the prairies toward Cheyenne, but that afternoon was held a long conference at department headquarters which caused some wonderment among the officers not included. Stoue especially, and there were many eyes on Loring's grave face as he finally came forth from the general's room and without a word of explanation went straight to his own.

"Wonder what he's been doing," said a man from the garrison who had happened in in search of news. Stoue shrugged his shoulders, offered no explanation, but looked volumes. An aid-de-camp should never reveal what he knows of other officers' affairs, much less that he knows nothing.

The night came on warm and stifling almost as the day. The window of Loring's room opened on the crude wooden gallery that ran the length of the hotel, and he kept it open from the bottom for such air as could be obtained. A note lay on the mantelshelf when he returned from the office late in the afternoon. This he had taken down stairs, inclosed it, unopened, in one of the coarse hotel envelopes, addressed and sent it by a messenger to Mrs. Burton's. At 10 o'clock at night, in his shirt sleeves, he was packing a valise, when at the open window on the gallery without there appeared suddenly a slender, graceful, girlish form; a fair face gazed appealingly, imploringly, in, and a soft voice pronounced his name.

Starting up, he stopped quickly to ward the apparition. One instant the lovely face lighted with hope, joy, triumph, then changed to sudden wrath before the shade, pulled vehemently down, shut it from sight. Even as she stood there, baffled, "a woman scorned" in the presence and hearing of another, who nevertheless stepped quickly forward to express her opinion of such heartless, soulless conduct despite the interposing shade, there came sharp, imperative reps on Loring's door and the summons "Wanted at headquarters at once, sir."

And, weeping as though bereaved and forsaken, the younger woman threw herself upon the broad and sympathizing bosom of the elder. "There, there, poor darling, don't cry! Wait till Mr. Lambert and the general hear how he has treated you," said Mrs. Burton, "and we'll see what'll happen."

CHAPTER XXI.

The day of perturbation had been succeeded by a night of worry at department headquarters. Dispatches full of grave import were coming in from Gate City and Cheyenne. Old John Folsom, long time a trader among the Sioux and known and trusted by the whole tribe, had given warning weeks before that serious consequences would attend the effort to build another post along the Big Horn. Red Cloud and his hosts of warriors had sworn to sweep it from the face of the earth and every man of its garrison with it. All this had been reported by the general to his superiors at Washington, and all this had been derided by the Indian bureau.

Against the judgment, against the counsel of the department commander, the work went on. A large force of laborers hired by Major Burleigh at Gate City early in the spring had been sent to Warrior Gap, under strong escort, and the unseasoned timber and fresh cut logs were being rapidly dovetailed and mortised, and long wagon trains laden with stores and supplies, purchased by Major Burleigh's agents, were pushing out across the Platte.

"Indians, indeed!" said that experienced officer disdainfully. "They do not presume to interfere!"

And long since the whisper had been going the rounds that Major Burleigh's interest in the construction of that new post, involving an expense of some hundreds of thousands of dollars, was something more than official. In vain John Folsom and veteran officers of the fighting force had pointed out that Indians never do interfere when they see huge trains of provisions and supplies coming just where they want them. Orders were orders, and the building went on. John Folsom said that any day the news might come that Red Cloud and his braves had massacred every man and carried off every woman in the new cantonment. Wives and children were there, secure, as they believed, behind the stout hearts and far and fast shooting new breechloaders, trustful, too, of the Indians whom they had often fed and welcomed at their doors in the larger and less exposed garrison.

"Two of our companies can stand off a thousand Sioux," said one gallant officer, who based his confident report on the fact that with 50 of the new breechloaders, behind a log breastwork, he had whipped a horde of mountain braves, armed only with lance and bow and old "smoothbores" or squirrel rifles.

"We came down through the whole tribe," said Burleigh, with swelling breast. "I had only a small troop of cavalry, and Red Cloud never so much as raised a yelp. He knew who was running that outfit and didn't care to try conclusions."

It all sounded very fine among the barrooms and over the poker table at Gate City, where Burleigh was a patron and an oracle, but in the distant camps along the Platte and Powder rivers and among troopers and lineamen nearer home there were odd glances and nudging elbows whenever Burleigh's boast-ings were repeated. Even as far as department headquarters the story was being told that the mere report of "Big band of Sioux ahead!" sent in by the advance guard, a report that brought Loring and Stoue leaping nimbly out of the ambulance, rifle in hand and ready for business, sent Burleigh under the seat and left him there quaking.

"Get your men down from the Big Horn," was John Folsom's urgent advice to the department commander. "Get your men up there," was the order from Washington, and no wonder the general was troubled. Then, in the midst of it all, began to come these rumors affecting Burleigh's integrity, then the determination to send Loring to look after this new boon companion with whom Burleigh was consorting; then a dispatch from old Colonel Stevens, "old Pecksniff," as the irreverent youngsters called him, the commander at Fort Emory, on the outskirts of Gate City, telling of a tremendous storm that had swept the Laramie plains and the range of the Medicine Bow and Rattlesnake hills, just after Lieutenant Dean had been sent forth with a small party of troopers to push through to Warrior Gap with a big sum of money, $10,000 in cash, for the payment of contractors and their men at the new post, and, what was of thrilling import, there had been a deep laid scheme to head him off, ambuscade him and get that money,

EXTRA...4:00 P.M. THE JURY SAYS ROLAND B. MOLINEUX IS NOT GUILTY

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The jury at 3:20 o'clock this afternoon, returned a verdict of not guilty in the Molineux trial.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The criminal court room was as usual packed long before the court opened in the case of Roland Molineux, charged with the murder of Mrs. Adams. This is probably the last day of the famous trial.

Former Governor Black, chief counsel for the prisoner, finished his speech yesterday. The effort was a scathing denunciation of Harry Cornish.

Assistant District Attorney Osborne who is regarded as one of the best speakers in the New York bar, occupied all the morning in the final effort for the prosecution.

Osborne finished at noon and the court ordered a recess until 1:30 o'clock, when Justice Lambert will deliver the charge to the jury. The fate of the prisoner will probably be known late in the day or early in the evening.

After the noon recess, Justice Lambert charged the jury.

The jury retired. A verdict will be received late this afternoon. It is believed Molineux will be acquitted.

Woman's Wealth is Health Paine's Celery Compound

GIVES VITALITY, VIGOR AND STRENGTH TO DEBILITATED AND RUNDOWN WOMEN.

It is maintained by many distinguished writers that the greatness of a nation depends much upon the physical conditions of its women. The general conditions which contribute to health and long life, are those which do not imply a rapid and unequal exhaustion of those powers by which life is maintained. While we assert that the women of our land stand peerless for beauty and the virtues that make them lovable, we cannot hide the fact that there are thousands in our midst who, owing to overwork, worry, household cares, and an unequal exhaustion of life power, have become weak, nervous, sleepless, and debilitated.

We bring to the attention of all weary, despondent, hopeless, and sickly women earth's great restorer and health-builder, Paine's Celery Compound. Thousands of healthy women around us owe their present vigor, activity and robustness to Paine's Celery Compound. Mrs. Stephen Smith, St. Paul, Minn., tells how she was snatched from the grave; she says:—

"I had a bad attack of la grippe this spring and was at death's door, and no one ever expected me to recover. I was so weak that as soon as they brought me out of one faint I was in another. I could not take any nourishment, and doctors' medicines did me no good. A friend advised my husband to get me a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, which he did, but had no faith in it. The second day after taking the Compound, I began to get real hungry and took an interest in things. I had everything that money and loving care could supply, and with that and Paine's Celery Compound, I am now doing my own work, while three months ago I was almost in the grave. I know that I owe my health and strength to Paine's Celery Compound and shall always recommend it."

There are many ways to economize, but none is so simple, entertaining and satisfactory as the use of

With the sermon next Sunday, November 16, Rev. Julius B. French will have completed his twelfth year as pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian church in this city, having preached his first sermon on Sunday, November 16, 1890.

On Sunday morning next Mr. French will preach a sermon appropriate to the occasion.

Sunday evening there will be praise service, under the leadership of the new chorister, William G. Armstrong, a detailed program of which will appear later.

On next Friday night there will be a musical and sociable in the church parlors, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. The best vocal and instrumental talent will participate. One of the features of the program will be a reading by Mrs. Lotta Carter Gardner.

All new members and strangers are especially invited.

In the anniversary sermon Sunday Dr. French will have something to say about the growth of the church for the past twelve years, and will also speak of future plans now perfected, among which will be the plans for the new edifice.

NO CHANGES EXPECTED

General Conference Will Probably Return Present Methodist Ministers to This City.

Revs. Boeye, Werlein, Armstrong and other Methodist ministers of the city, including those in charge at Polytechnic college, have gone to Temple, where the Northwestern Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal church (south) convenes this week, to continue in session probably until next Monday.

The regular routine business of the conference will be disposed of, the most important being the appointment of ministers for the coming year. It is not expected that any changes will be made among the ministers in Fort Worth churches excepting Rev. R. C. Armstrong, who has been in charge of Mulkey Memorial church for four years, the limit allowed to ministers in the church. Who Mr. Armstrong's successor will be is not known. Other Methodist ministers of the city have been here comparatively short periods, and it is not thought any change will be made among them.

AUDITORS PAY SUDDEN VISIT

Party of Eight Drop in on Stationmaster Lusk This Morning

The heaviest visit of railroad auditors ever recorded in the history of the Texas and Pacific station, occurred this morning about 10 o'clock, when no less than eight arrived suddenly to visit Stationmaster C. D. Lusk and to inspect the office. It is had enough when two or three or four visit the station at once, but when representatives of every road for which tickets are sold at the union station pay a visit at one time and all are in a hurry to get through, it is enough to make Mr. Lusk and his assistants throw up their hands and go out through the ticket windows.

The auditors got down to work without ado and having found everything all right, shook hands all round and went on their way rejoicing. For some minutes after they left the interior of the ticket office looked like a cyclone had struck it, but everything was in shape in time for the next train.

HAVE YOU ANY OF THESE

Symptoms of a Very Common Trouble?

There is no disease so common in the United States as Catarrh because it appears in so many forms and attacks so many different organs.

It is a common mistake to suppose that catarrh is confined to the nose and throat. Any inflammation of the mucous membrane wherever located accompanied by abnormal secretions, is catarrh. Catarrh of stomach or bladder, or intestines is nearly as common as nasal catarrh and much more serious, although it is true that stomach catarrh and catarrh of other internal organs is the result of neglected nasal catarrh.

A new remedy has recently appeared which so far as tested seems to be remarkably effective in promptly curing catarrh, wherever located. The preparation is sold by druggists generally under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and in addition to being very palatable and convenient, possesses extraordinary merit, in many cases giving immediate relief from the coughing, hawking and constant clearing of the throat and head, those symptoms with which everyone is familiar who has ever suffered from colds in the head and throat.

Catarrh is simply a continuation of these symptoms until the trouble becomes chronic and grows gradually worse from year to year.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, are composed of Hydrastin, Red Gum and similar antiseptics and catarrh specifics, from which it will be seen that no secret is made of the ingredients and also that no mineral poisons are used, as is the case with many well known catarrh medicines.

For catarrh of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes, for catarrh of stomach, intestines or bladder no preparation is so safe and gives such rapid and permanent results as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

All druggists sell them at 50c per full sized package. You can use them with assurance that you will not contract the cocaine or morphine habit as the results from this catarrh cure are apparent from the first day's use.
