(Special to The Telegram.)
HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 22.—The heavy rains of the past week have done immense damage throughout the state to crops, bridges, roads and private property. The whole eastern end of the state is affected and the train service on the north-south section is paralyzed tonight, there having been so many washouts. Several big bridges are considered unsafe.

The cotton crop has about been washed up and the reports of many correspondents throughout the state are very pessimistic. The belt, the rain having been most frequent.

So far as heard from there has not been any fatality, though the loss in stock is large in some sections. The Brazos river, big and little, are getting dangerously high. The Guadalupe is out of its banks near Scurry. The Sabine and Trinity have been doing great damage in northeastern Texas, washing away bridges and destroying forage crops in the bottoms. Most of the creeks in that portion are affected and swollen. Some of them have made travel impossible for the time being.

Dallas, Denton, Tyler, Minnie, Longview and other points in north and northeast Texas report practical suspension of railroad traffic, due to washouts. The Cotton Belt train is laid out at North Tyler, unable to move either way.

Record Rain at Paris

(Special to The Telegram.)
PARIS, Nov. 22.—The heaviest rain ever known here fell yesterday and last night. The creeks and rivers are all out of the banks. The Red river is very high and rising. Great damage has been done especially to cattle in the bottoms. The City Lake and the Texas and Pacific Lake were unsafe, and much anxiety is felt. Large forces of men have put them out of danger, unless it rains again. The roads are absolutely impassable. Business is stagnant.

Dallas Trains Interrupted

(Special to The Telegram.)
DALLAS, Nov. 22.—The heavy rains of the past few days have interrupted the service on every road entering Dallas. Small washouts have occurred on every line and trains are laid out in every direction. The Frisco has suffered a great deal and the Texas and Pacific and Katy are also heavy sufferers. The Texas and Pacific bridge across the Sabine river and Bushy creek near Minnie, have been dangerous since noon yesterday and train service on the Marshall division has been greatly retarded thereby. The Sabine is falling today and the line is expected to be clear by night. All the other roads have similar stories to report. There is high water in every direction and service will be poor till the rains cease.

Cotton a Total Loss

(Special to The Telegram.)
LONGVIEW, Tex., Nov. 22.—An exceedingly heavy rain has been falling in this section of the country for the last twenty-four hours which has washed the land considerably and damaged the top cotton crop so as to render it almost a total loss.

Terrell Reports Damage

(Special to The Telegram.)
TERRELL, Tex., Nov. 22.—The heaviest rain yet fell this morning. One mile of Texas Pacific track is submerged at Silver Lake. The track is impassable and further damage is feared.

Top Crop Is Gone

(Telegram Special Service.)

rains have literally soaked North Texas and the Indian Territory. Not in several years has there been so much moisture in the ground. The top crop is practically gone. Farmers complain that the wheat is growing too rank. The wet weather prevents pasturing.

Just Enough at Waco
(Special to The Telegram.)
WACO, Tex., Nov. 22.—It has been raining in this city for nearly a week until today. It has been clear most of today, however, but the weather seems unsettled. The rain has been slow and general, and while the ground has been thoroughly soaked, there has been no damage by high water. The only fear so far is that the farmers have been kept from planting their small grain. However, that which is planted is doing very well. The ground has been put in excellent condition, and in this part of the state the rain has been advantageous.

(Telegram Special Service.)
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 22.—All trains are running slow on account of the soft tracks. There have been heavy rains, but no damage is done.

Stockmen Have Fears
QUANAH, Nov. 22.—We had a splendid rain last night and this morning. Wheat is as fine as was ever known and will not need any more rain for some months. It is feared by our stockmen that if the rains continue it will rot the grass before winter is over.

Have Plenty at Hillsboro
(Special to The Telegram.)
HILLSBORO, Tex., Nov. 22.—The rains continue here daily. The earth is full of water and creek banks are full and in some instances overflow the low lands. There have, however, been but little damage to bridges. The cotton crop seems to be done for, though if the weather should turn up and turn cold in a day or two a good deal of it would open.

Waters Rise at Boyd
BOYD, Nov. 22.—The damp rainy weather continuing here. West fork is again all over the bottoms above this place and rising rapidly.

Cotton is sprouting in the ball and rotting, so that the fine crop of late falls is comparatively ruined. This town, with its two mills, will put up only about 1,200 bales, and over 20 per cent of the crop is ginned now.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Accompanied by several members of the Cabinet President Roosevelt spent the entire afternoon and evening in this city. A man broke through the police cordon as the president was riding by and approached him to shake hands. In the confusion a negro also kissed the president's hand.

"The question of so-called trusts is but one question we must meet in connection with our industrial system. There are many of them. They are serious, but they can and will be met. Time may be needed in making a solution perfect, but it is idle to tell this people that we have not the power to solve such a problem as that of exercising adequate supervision over the great industrial combinations of today. We have the power. We shall find out a way.

BELL & WARNER'S LIVERY BARN
GOES UP IN SMOKE.

The Loss for the Horses Will Amount to $15,000—Many Valuable and Fast Roadsters Were Burned—The Scene Was Pitiful.

(Special to The Telegram.)
DALLAS, Nov. 22.—Fifty-three horses of a total value of $14,125, perished this morning as a result of a fire in Bell & Warner's livery stable.

The building was two stories, fronting 50 feet on Patterson avenue, extending back to Camp street and was owned by the Monopoly Hardware company. Vehicles, harness, etc., were kept on the ground floor while the animals were cared for on the second floor, which was reached by an incline made of boards and leading up from the front of the stable.

The fire broke out about 2:30 o'clock in the rear of the building on the second floor. Steps were at once taken to get out the horses. A majority of them were herded together and some of them were on their way to the ground floor when the night scout fire was being run by representatives of local electric companies. The horses then stampeded back into the fire and smoke and all perished with the exception of one lively horse of no considerable value. All vehicles were saved, the fire being confined to the upper story. It is estimated that the building was damaged about $1,000 worth and is protected by insurance.

Bell & Warner were proprietors of a first-class livery, board and sale stable and charge of a number of the best roadsters in the state. They sought the patronage of the best people in the city and secured it, as is shown by a list of the losers.

S. P. Bell stated that he did not have a dollar's worth of insurance. The origin of the fire is shrouded in mystery.

Dead Horses a Sight.
The sight of so many dead horses would appeal to anyone. Animals that were everything that the word thoroughbred implies were herded together and many of them died of suffocation, not more than twenty of them dying in the barns. Some of them never left their stalls while others had broken their necks by dashing against wooden obstructions. Several owners looked on the scene this morning, but the majority of them did not care to see the remains of their faithful steeds in which they took much pride.

The carcasses are being removed by the city and will be cremated as fast as possible.

W. H. Moore, an employe of Bell & Warner was badly burned about the head and shoulders in endeavoring to save the horses. He was taken to the city hospital and is resting well this afternoon. His burns are not sufficient to cause serious apprehension on the part of attending physicians.

Bell & Warner lost thirteen animals among them being a team which had been sold for $500 and was to have been delivered this morning at 10 o'clock. They lost a fine roadster which was worth $500 and ten other animals which could not be replaced for $1,500, making a total loss of $2,500 with no insurance.

Arch M. Culmore lost an $1,500 mare Miss Jureat, 2:12 1/2, and for which he was offered $1,200 yesterday morning. She was a registered pacer and was insured for $500.

A REMARKABLE CASE FIRE CHIEF CROKER CAN'T BE REMOVED

Illness of a Hillsboro Man Baffles the Physicians
(Special to The Telegram.)
HILLSBORO, Tex., Nov. 22.—There is a case of sickness here that astonishes the physicians. James Byrd, a laborer, has been sick with fever eight weeks and has had eighteen hemorrhages, passing at times nearly two gallons of blood. He still has considerable vitality, and the physicians say he has apparently chances to recover. These statements can be vouched for by Drs. B. H. Vaughan, George Bond and others.

(Special to The Telegram.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Corporation Counsel Rives this afternoon advised Fire Commissioner Sturkis that there is not sufficient ground for Chief Croker's removal from the fire department. That if he should dismiss him the appellate division of the supreme court would restore him his position. It has been charged that Sturkis was at the head of a conspiracy to remove Croker and appoint Purvey in his place.

A TELEGRAM FROM THE PIANO FACTORY

TO THEIR REPRESENTATIVE TO CONTINUE THEIR FACTORY SALE

FOR ONE MORE WEEK

LAST OPPORTUNITY TO BUY HIGH GRADE

PIANOS

AT FACTORY COST

A telegram received yesterday from our factory instructed us to continue our sale of pianos for one more week and give the people of Fort Worth and vicinity another opportunity to buy high grade instruments at factory cost. It was our intention to close this factory sale last night, but having several different styles in factory cases to close out, and a number of people who were unable to get in our sales-room last week on account of sickness and bad weather, we will extend the sale to Saturday night, Nov. 29th. If there are any instruments left at that time we will ship them back to the factory.

Many people of Fort Worth and adjoining towns have been our customers during this factory sale and have purchased beautiful instruments at factory cost. A number were accompanied by music teachers and piano critics, and it was on their recommendations that the purchases were made.

Perhaps it is unnecessary to quote prices here, but as an example we are selling pianos in elegant cases in various woods, with three pedals, double overstrung bass, patent agraffe, and all modern improvements, for $197, the regular price of which is $350.00, others at $247.00 to $258.00, that are actually worth double the money. Easy payments extended to those wanting time.

A call at our display rooms, 300 Main street, will convince you what we are doing at this factory sale.

H. B. MORRIS,

Factory Representative.

TWO LITTLE BABES FOUND

ABANDONED BY PARENTS AND PLACED WITH STRANGERS

THEY ARE EVIDENTLY TWINS

A Boy and a Girl Left in Yard and on Gallery of Glenwood Citizens—Story of the Find and the Exciting Scenes That Followed on Wednesday Night.

W. H. Ellrich and Columbus S. Beasley and their good wives were surprised on last Wednesday night by finding a boy and a girl baby on their premises. The boy was found in the yard of Mr. Ellrich and the girl a few minutes later on the gallery of Mr. Beasley. The boy was wrapped in a blanket and the girl in an old discarded woolen undershirt. Both were very cold, and apparently about three weeks old—and perhaps twins.

Story of the Find. Mr. and Mrs. Ellrich reside on the corner of Cromwell and Camilla streets, Glenwood, and Mr. and Mrs. Beasley are neighbors on an opposite corner.

It was about 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night, and Mr. Ellrich was preparing to retire, his employment requiring that he arise at 3 a. m. His wife heard a noise in the yard, and the little girl was requested to go to the door to investigate. She did so. Nothing doing. Later there was a noise as if someone was rocking the house. This time Mrs. Ellrich requested her husband to go and see what the trouble was. Man-like, especially when sleepy, he balked, turned over and slept. A few minutes later a rock rolled off the gallery roof, and Mrs. Ellrich, woman-like, made an investigation. Nothing doing. She waited. Finally she heard a faint cry from the front yard fence and went out to a bulk of something she discerned in the faint light. Behold, it was alive! The mother love asserted itself quicker than thought, and into the house she ran with her precious bundle, uttering just such things as only a mother would utter under such conditions. Mr. Ellrich was aroused, there was confusion and a scurrying about for a better fire, warm blankets and all things necessary. There was a pretty little boy baby, blue with cold, his little fists doubled up, attempting as best it could to express its appreciation at being found.

Mr. Ellrich jumped around, picked up, threw down, stumbled over a hundred different things trying to be of assistance to his wife and their little visitor, but he was only in the way—man-like.

"Food! Why, the poor child must have food. But what should it be? No milk in the house. Mr. Ellrich suggested cold meat and potatoes, a ham sandwich, a halogen—anything. Finally Mrs. Ellrich bethought her of a neighbor's cow—she would run over to Mrs. Beasley's and get some fresh milk. To think to walk to act—away to Mrs. Beasley's she ran, leaving Mr. Ellrich jumping around in ecstasy. Imagine Mrs. Ellrich telling her neighbor of what they had found, asking for milk and telling all the circumstances in one breath and the two hurried.

Despite the unpleasant condition of the weather, the talk on the Frieze of Parthenon, given yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock before the Children's Library League in the children's room at the Carnegie Free Library, was well attended. Mrs. F. E. Deitrich was unable to be present, but the talk was acceptably given by Miss Mildred Bennett.

Surprising interest is being taken by the children on the subject of Greek art and the increased attendance and attention to the subject is very gratifying to those who are in charge of the series.

The children's room of the library has received a very valuable gift in the form of a handsome cast of Pallas Athene (Minerva) presented to the Children's League by Mrs. Willard Burton. Mrs. Burton had hoped to have the cast here on time to illustrate her address of last Saturday, but it was delayed and did not reach here till yesterday morning. The cast is an excellent reproduction of the familiar statue of the goddess, in which she stands, armor clad and holding an upright spear. The cast stands fully 40 inches in height and has been placed on a stand in the northeast corner of the children's room.

The talk on the Frieze of the Parthenon given yesterday morning was illustrated by rare and complete photographs of the frieze, which come from the Ann Tichnor library. All of the more important portions of the frieze have been photographed and the entire collection, mounted on a large screen, is very complete and interesting.

Mrs. Robert Buchanan will speak next Saturday on Hera (Juno). Donations Are Slow. Donations by holders of cards to the book fund of the library are still coming in, but very slowly. The fund is not yet large enough to warrant beginning the purchase of books and the outlook is very discouraging. Only 50 cents from each holder of a library card is asked, and its need is too plain to excite an inquiry. The library board has done all in its power to curtail expenses of the institution without inconveniencing the public, but the board is still unable to undertake the purchase of more books.

TO MEET WITH SONS. Program Committee From the Daughters of the Confederacy.

The program committee of the Daughters of the Confederacy for the coming state meeting will meet with the sons on tomorrow night, and especially request that those sons appointed as ushers for the state meeting be present, in order that they may be instructed in their duties. This is important, as it will be inconvenient for the committee to meet with the ushers again before the time they are needed. The ushers named from the Sons camp are Comrades J. M. Ball, I. J. Stockett, S. S. Carpenter, W. E. W. Nicholson, W. S. Jarratt, W. A. Dixon, Charles Daggott.

STOP THAT COUGH!

Colds Lead to Catarrh—Catarrh Leads to Consumption.

A Beautiful Girl's Experience.

It was necessary to pass on to a gallery to the ice box, where the milk was. The good women were doing a rapid transit stunt—but, listen, look! There was a bundle on the gallery. It was alive! Another baby! The scene was indescribable. If you are a mother what would you have done? If you were two mothers you would have done just what these two mothers did. The precious bundle was hurried into the house, and the scenes that were enacted in the Ellrich home were reproduced, with Mr. Beasley as chief comedian, only more demonstrative, if possible, for there were two women in this case.

Cold wraps were removed, warm ones substituted. It was a girl, a pretty little bundle of humanity, cold and shivering—but soon was as snug as a bug in a rug.

A double quantity of milk was heated. Both women ran over to see the boy—then back again to see the girl. Mr. Ellrich and Mr. Beasley exchanged visits. Oh, they all had a great time.

The babies were apparently the same age—they must be twins and, yes, the mother instinct saw certain marks that showed relationship.

Theories Advanced. Mr. Ellrich, in telling a Telegram reporter of the find, had not thoroughly recovered from his ecstasy. "Oh, they are cute little dev—babies," said he, "and I guess we'll keep 'em all right."

He is convinced that the noise heard was made by those who placed the babies, in order to attract attention. He thinks it was fortunate that they were found, because an hour or so longer in the cold would have resulted seriously.

There was nothing except the scant clothing by which identification could be established. They have absolutely no clew to the children's parents—and are not particular about finding any.

MISS ALMA LILLIA.

Miss Alma Lillia, 506 15th street, Rock Island, Ill., says: "I am a firm friend to Peruna, for it cured me in two days of a cough which had been annoying me for three weeks, and which had developed a serious catarrhal affection of the throat and lungs."

"I had a number of colds during the year and each left me with a little more catarrh, then this bad cough was the worst. I took cough medicines until I sickened at the sight of them. But Peruna cured me up in such quick time, that I am its firm friend. Four weeks' constant use of it got the catarrh entirely out of my system."

"It deserves all the praise bestowed upon it."—Alma Lillia.

NINE CASES of consumption out of ten occur in this way: A person catches a cold. The cold is not properly cured, and they quickly catch another one. This cold is dilly-dallied with by no treatment, or some treatment that is inefficual, and the cold continues.

Then they catch another cold and begin to cough. Then they take cough syrups, but they do no good.

By and by they get tired of taking medicine, and give up in despair.

Their cold continues, and their cough grows worse. Then they apply to a doctor, only to discover that they are in the first stages of consumption.

Miss Lillia, of Illinois, started out exactly in this way. Fortunately, she took a course of Peruna before it was too late. She had caught several colds, then a cough developed. She took all sorts of cough medicines until, as she puts it, "I sickened at the sight of them." In four weeks Peruna had cured her of her catarrh, and her system was entirely rid of it.

This is what Peruna is doing all the while. Not a day, and probably not an hour, passes but some one has a similar experience with Peruna.

The first step toward consumption is catching cold. The next step is a failure to cure it promptly. The third step is the development of catarrh, which gradually becomes chronic. The fourth step, the catarrh begins to spread from the head to the throat. The fifth step, the catarrh spreads to the bronchial tubes and lungs. It then becomes consumption in its first stage.

At any time during the progress of the catarrh, from the first onset of the cold to its final settlement in the lungs, Peruna can be relied upon to stop the disease. It cures entirely. Even after consumption has become thoroughly developed, many cases have found in Peruna a permanent cure. After they have been given up by physicians to die of consumption, Peruna has cured them. We have hundreds of testimonials that declare these facts in the most enthusiastic language.

U. S. Senator John M. Thurston, from Nebraska, writes the following letter: "WASHINGTON, D. C., April 6, 1901. 'I have used Peruna at various times during the past year or two with most satisfactory results.'

"I entirely relieved me from an irritating cough—the result of excessive effort in the presidential campaign, and I am a firm believer in its efficacy in any such trouble."—Jno. M. Thurston.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

COL. TOM OCHILTREE

Is Critically Ill at Hot Springs, Suffering From Heart Trouble

Friends here of Colonel Thomas Ochiltree are much interested in the news received here from Hot Springs concerning his serious illness. Colonel Ochiltree is a Texan but has for many years resided in Washington City and the East, a great portion of the time in New York City. He is a unique character and his reputation is far reaching. The advice from Hot Springs is that he is critically ill, suffering repeated attacks of heart trouble. There is no hope for his recovery and news of his death would come as no surprise to those watching his case here. He was sent to Hot Springs a fortnight ago by Dr. L. R. Morris of New York in the hope that the change would be beneficial, but he came too late. The heart trouble is a result of pneumonia contracted a year ago. During Colonel Ochiltree's quiet moments he talks hopefully of spending the winter in Bermuda. He is kept up entirely on heart stimulants. He has with him only a man servant and a trained nurse.

HIGH WATER THE CAUSE OF DELAY

TRAINS ARE MOVING SLOWLY OR NOT AT ALL

ALL ROADS ARE AFFECTED

Floods near Mineola Hold Texas and Pacific and Other Trains for Several Hours. Steady Downpour Affects All Traffic from the Eastern Points

The most serious rainfall in two years in Eastern Texas was the cause of serious trouble to nearly every railroad entering Fort Worth yesterday.

The Cannon-Ball from the East, was held over at Mineola Friday night because of the high waters, and had not reached Fort Worth yesterday afternoon.

The Texas and Pacific dispatchers had more than their hand full yesterday, and the conditions were almost as bad as last spring when high water blocked everything at Big Springs and gave so much bother on the Western division.

There is good quail shooting up along the line of the Denver and several good bags are reported. At a recent visit to near Wichita Falls a local hunter bagged 22 quail in one day and with one barrel at that.

ROADS ARE PAINTING SIGNS

Rock Island and Houston and Texas Central are Using Pigments.

It is sign painting time with Fort Worth railroads and several sign-painters have been busy the past several days, advertising local lines.

The Frisco system's sign for the union station tracks, formerly bearing the inscription "Frisco System, World's Fair Special", has been changed to read "Frisco System Meteor for Sherman, Denison, Kansas City and St. Louis."

Heavy stock shipments over the Texas and Pacific from Western points still continue. Friday 92 cars were received at the local yards and yesterday receipts were 62 cars.

These cattle will undoubtedly be the best lot ever sold in Texas. They will be sold in the northern pens of the Ft. Worth stock yards on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 25th and 26th.

Division Superintendent D. H. Martyn of the Pullman company, with headquarters at St. Louis, passed through the city Friday en route home from Mexico.

Rate sheet No. 81, governing rates of lines in Texas was received at local general railroad offices yesterday.

Owing to increased Chicago business the Santa Fe is now running twelve-section drawing room Pullmans from here to Chicago instead of ten-section cars as formerly.

Why He Fell He fell at her feet. And the words he swore Thrilled through to her very soul; Such eloquence never Hed she heard before And a new feeling o'er her stole.

Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs and colds, reliable, tried and tested, safe and sure. Sold by Reeves' Pharmacy, Ward Pharmacy and Arlington Drug Co.

THE COLONIZATION SCHEME A SUCCESS

Roads Interested are Satisfied that Good Results are Going to Follow

W. H. Firth, general passenger and ticket agent of the Chicago, Rock Island and Texas, returned yesterday from St. Louis and Kansas City.

Regarding this expenditure, Mr. Firth explained yesterday that it will be pro rata among the different railroads and the line having the most business into the Southwestern territory will contribute the most to the support of the colonization bureau.

HUNTER PARTIES GOING OUT

Attractions Offered Sportsmen Along Railroads Entering Fort Worth

Fall is the best time of the year according to the sportsman's calendar, and for that reason places where good hunting can be found, are the most important places on the map.

Along the Rock Island's new line from El Reno, Okla., to Amarillo, is reported to be the finest kind of quail and chicken hunting.

There is good quail shooting up along the line of the Denver and several good bags are reported. At a recent visit to near Wichita Falls a local hunter bagged 22 quail in one day and with one barrel at that.

RAILROADS SLIGHTLY RELIEVED.

Trains on Texas and Pacific Are Sent Round Via the Transcontinental.

The congested passenger traffic on the Texas and Pacific was partially relieved last night by sending two trains by way of Whitesboro and over the Transcontinental division.

Robert Addis and Tim Pierce of the Texas and Pacific shops have gone to Thurber on a hunting trip.

J. Y. Burke, roadmaster of the Texas and Pacific with headquarters at Weatherford, was a visitor in the city yesterday.

James Merrill of Lincoln, Neb., arrived here yesterday to visit his brothers, F. Merrill, local freight agent for the Rock Island, and R. I. Merrill, traveling freight agent for the same line.

Take a look at page 20. The Cotton Belt is putting in two additional switches in North Ft. Worth near their joint depot with the Frisco.

A RAIN RECORD IS ESTABLISHED

REPORT FOR MONTH SO FAR EXCEEDS ANY ACCOUNTS MADE

THE HEAVIEST IN HISTORY

Five and a Quarter Inches of Rain Have Fallen Since First of the Month—Best Previous Record But Three and Six-Hundredths—More May Yet Come.

So far the record for the rainfall this month at the Fort Worth weather bureau has surpassed by nearly two inches the heaviest rainfall recorded for the month of November since the station was opened.

Table with 2 columns: Year, Inches. 1894... 2.3, 1895... 2.45, 1896... 1.27, 1897... .10, 1898... 1.42, 1899... 3.06, 1900... .56, 1901... 2.10, 1902 (22 days)... 5.22

It can be seen by the above table that the rainfall so far this month has equaled that for any two Novembers during years past, except for 1895 and 1899, when the total rainfalls for the two months would be 3.51.

DUPLICATES GREAT FEAT

ST. LOUIS DOCTOR OPERATES AFTER MANNER OF LORENZ

CURES FANNIE GRANGER

Performs the Same Operation for Which the Great Austrian Specialist Was Paid $10,000 by Chicago Millionaire, and It Was Done in Less Than Fifteen Minutes.

(Special to The Telegram.)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 22.—By means of an operation, substantially the same as that which Dr. Lorenz, the famous Austrian specialist, performed on Lotta Armour for a $10,000 fee, Dr. M. W. Bailey, a St. Louis osteopath, reset a dislocated hip for 8-year-old Fannie Granger of 6225 Columbia avenue, from which she had suffered since she was ten months of age.

The operation was performed on August 5 last in Dr. Bailey's office. It was not until the child's grandmother, Mrs. C. W. Granger, observed the widespread commotion upon Dr. Lorenz's operation that she concluded to make public the successful work of Dr. Bailey.

To callers at the Columbia avenue residence or at the doctor's office, a shoe worn by the child prior to the operation is shown as eloquent testimony to the physician's dexterous manipulation of the maladjusted thigh bone.

Shoe Tells Story of Deformity These shoes have a heavy sole added to the regular sole. The extra sole, while hardly an inch thick at the toe, widens gradually until at the heel it is between two and one-half and three inches thick.

It was necessary for Fannie Granger to wear this shoe upon her left foot prior to the operation. Her left limb was some two and one-half inches shorter than the right.

These shoes are still the talk of Clifton Heights, especially the immediate neighborhood where the residence of Mrs. A. C. Kinkaid, Mrs. Granger's daughter, is located. The neighbors had never seen Fannie with any but her heavy-soled shoe on her left foot.

When Mrs. Granger started with her for Dr. Bailey's office on the afternoon of August 5, some of them had misgivings as to the result of the trip. They feared that the operation might be harmful to the pretty, blue-eyed wearer of the heavy-soled shoe.

Their astonishment was as great as their delight when they saw her jump from a street car, three hours later the same day, not only as bright and cheerful as she was before the operation, but wearing the same thin-soled shoe on her left foot as she always wore on her right.

Her grandmother had rushed out to buy them immediately on the announcement that the operation was successful, and had left the heavy-soled shoe with Dr. Bailey as a souvenir. An older one she keeps herself.

The operation to hear Dr. Bailey, Mrs. Granger or little Fannie describe it was simple enough. They unite in saying that the osteopath simply twisted the thigh-bone for two minutes and it slipped back into the socket.

How the Shortening of Limb Occurred Dr. Bailey states that seven years ago the child fell, and the head of the femur, or thighbone, slipped from its Estabulum, or socket, in the pelvic bone.

Mrs. Granger, the child's grandmother, told a reporter that the child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Granger, had in the interim consulted many distinguished physicians and surgeons. Some had declared her dislocation of the hip hopeless. Others said that an operation might possibly be successful, but that the chances were that it would result fatally.

"Mr. Granger is a traveling man and he consulted medical and surgical authorities in different parts of the country," Mrs. Granger, the grandmother, explained. "They advised against an operation, and for fear one might result fatally, nothing was done."

"So little Fannie grew up lame. She was able to walk with a high cork sole added to her shoe, but she limped very noticeably. Her hip frequently pained her, and it took only a little exertion in walking to tire her completely."

"I heard of cures the osteopaths effected and I recommended taking Fannie to Dr. Still at Kirksville, Mo. But her parents didn't want to. Fannie's mother went to Denver, Col. this summer for her health, and she was left with me. I lived at 240 Morgan street, but I brought her out to my daughter's residence, so she could have plenty of fresh air."

"Then I finally got their consent to take her to Kirksville. I have a friend who suggested that before going to Kirksville I see Dr. Bailey, who could tell me where to board there, etc."

Operation Didn't Take Fifteen Minutes "I had no idea of letting him operate on Fannie when I called to see him. He suggested that I bring her to him. Possibly the case was incurable, he said, after hearing my history of it."

"On August 5 I brought Fannie to his office. She wasn't there more than fifteen minutes all told before she walked away wearing two shoes alike."

"He placed her on the operating table and took hold of her left leg at the knee. He began twisting the limb to one side. I turned my face away, fearing he might hurt the child."

"All of a sudden he cried, 'It's in.' "Fannie, who had not been pained in the least by the operation, apparently heard what the doctor said and exclaimed:

"Grandma, did you hear it click?"

"I hadn't heard it click, but I listened as the doctor twisted it again and the second time I heard it click."

"She was only on the table five minutes in all. Since then I have brought her to the doctor regularly. He twists the limb again each time I bring her to him. He says it is not yet thoroughly knit to the socket, but that it eventually will be."

Fannie still walks with a limp, but Mrs. Granger expresses the opinion that within a year it will entirely disappear. Both she and the doctor say she must learn to walk "all over again."

A peculiar feature of her present condition is that she walks perfectly well with the left leg, which was operated on, but bends the other. This, it is explained, is due to the fact that she became accustomed to throwing all her weight on the right leg before the operation and that it is difficult to change her style of walking at once.

Fannie Granger is a pretty child, with light brown hair and a healthy pink glow to her cheeks. Her grandmother says she has improved considerably in health since the operation. She attends the Clifton Heights public school.

Huntington's Nephew Buys Into a New Concern at San Antonio

(Special to The Telegram.)

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 22.—H. E. Huntington, nephew of the late C. P. Huntington, and Frank C. Smith, of San Antonio, today purchased the controlling interest in the Citizens' Telephone company, an independent concern in opposition to the Southwestern or Bell company. She Secured a Divorce From Her Husband and With Him the Possession of Valuable Property in the City of Mexico—Idea of Suicide Discarded

(Special to The Telegram.)

New Orleans, Nov. 22.—The Picayune prints the following letter: Port Barrios, Guatemala, Nov. 16.—

Refugees who arrived here this week from western Guatemala report a terrible state of affairs as the result of the eruption of Santa Maria volcano. The country for a radius of over thirty miles is a desolate waste and every vestige of life destroyed. The loss of life is estimated at over 7000, the great majority of victims being Indians.

Ten Indian villages, each with populations of from 50 to 5000 inhabitants, are wiped out, the rude huts being buried beneath tons of volcanic debris. All coffee plantations in the volcanic zone are ruined and the owners left penniless. The coffee plantations of this region were the most valuable in the country, and their destruction is a severe loss to the republic.

The government has been making most strenuous efforts to conceal the facts concerning the catastrophe, but the facts are gradually reaching the towns on the eastern coast through refugees fleeing from the country.

All cable messages containing reference to the eruption of the volcano are rigorously censored, and even the mails are closely inspected by government officials. The government hopes by concealing the facts to prevent Guatemala's credit from being damaged abroad. The effort to minimize the disaster abroad, however, has failed to relieve the situation at home.

Greatest distress prevails throughout the central and western portions of the republic, and even on the eastern coast the effects are felt in the scarcity of money and rise of exchange. Famine prevails at Quezaltenango and 1000 people are starving. Even in Guatemala City, the capital, the inhabitants are suffering for food. Flour is selling in Guatemala City for $25 per barrel in gold, and rice of inferior quality is quoted at 20 cents per pound in gold. The government is utterly unable to relieve the distress and suffering, and the people are on the verge of a revolution. The only thing needed to start a formidable uprising is the appearance of a leader.

Perfido Herrera, who owned a valuable coffee plantation seven miles from Santa Maria volcano, is among the refugees who have arrived.

Senor Herrera, in an interview describing the situation, said:

"I was in Guatemala City looking after business interests when the terrible eruption of Nov. 6 occurred. Shocks from explosions of the volcano were plainly felt in the capital, causing great excitement among the people. The eruption ceased on the morning of Nov. 9, when I ventured to my plantation, and found it buried beneath ten feet of ashes, mud and sand hurled from the volcano. Everything on the place is in ruins. My residence is destroyed and out of 112 laborers employed on the plantation all except seven perished."

VEGETARIANS ARE AFTER ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The Vegetarian society is out with a bitter denunciation of President Roosevelt for his bear killing trip to Smokey. The society calls upon the president as the head of a great humane nation to set a better example than he has been giving in his "cruel, brutal slaughter" and "then goes on to say what a baneful effect this conduct is having upon the youth of the country. It is doubtful whether the protest of the vegetarians will have as much effect upon Theodore as the jibes of the paragraphers and the cartoons of the nimble fingered funny men. What a grotesque sight it must have been for the mighty hunter, Roosevelt, to be summoned to shoot a sick bear which a Yazoo bottom nigger had roped and tied to a tree so the President could kill it! The ridicule which Roosevelt will be subjected to from this overzealous negro's action will do more to keep him off the hunting grounds than the philippic of all the vegetarians between the two big seas.

WATER CURE CASE OF FATHER AUGUSTINE

Washington, Nov. 22.—The secretary of war sent to the attorney general the papers in the case of Father Augustine, who died from the effects of the water cure administered by soldiers of a Vermont regiment while serving in the Philippines. The case has been thoroughly investigated by the judge advocate general of the army upon the charges brought by Chas. Francis Gams, Herbert Welsh and others of what was known as the Lake George conference. It cannot be found that any person now serving in the United States army was responsible in any way for the death of the friar, and, therefore, the person cannot be tried by court-martial. It is expected that following the precedents growing out of other wars the attorney general will render an opinion that neither the courts in this country, nor those in the Philippines, have any jurisdiction over the men or officers who have been discharged from the army.

Prominent Pythian Dead. Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 22.—Hon. Tennesse Lomax, for many years solicitor at the city court of Montgomery and one of the leading attorneys of Alabama, is dead. Mr. Lomax was one of the most prominent members of the Knights of Pythias in the United States.

All More or Less Hurt. Pittsburg, Nov. 22.—A traction car on the Avalon line jumped the track at the corner of Jackson and Fremont streets, Allegheny, dashed over the curb and overturned. There were about thirty-five people aboard, and all were more or less hurt, but only six seriously injured.

Cattle Drowned. Paris, Tex., Nov. 22.—Heavy losses of cattle are reported in the bottom lands of Lamar and other counties, caused by the excessive rains.

LORD STRATHMORE IS PLEASING

Drama Last Evening at Greenwall's One of the Finest of the Season "Lord Strathmore" was presented at Greenwall's last night to a very slender house. The play is a heavy drama, abounding in tense but not necessarily dramatic situations. With the involved plot the players did remarkably well, and Virginia Drew Trecoot, as Marlon, marchioness of Vasavoor, presented faultless work. Alexander Frank carried the part of Lord Cecil Strathmore and Frank De Vernon that of Major Bertie Erroll. The play as presented had a few very few, rough edges, which were more than compensated for by delicate bits of acting. Rich and beautiful stage settings helped the production. A little more spirit, flesh and blood, in the actors, excepting only Miss Trecoot, would greatly improve the play.

TAKEN TO PALO PINTO FOR INVESTIGATION

Two Boys Suspected of Robbing and Burning the Santo Postoffice on Thursday Night.

Sheriff Hindman, from Palo Pinto in Palo Pinto county, yesterday morning took from this city two prisoners—two young country boys—who gave their names as Barleson Beldo and W. A. Petty, ages 20 and 17, respectively.

These young men were arrested Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Police-men Cone and Moore on description furnished by the Palo Pinto sheriff who suspected them of having robbed and burned the Santo postoffice on Thursday night. Besides the loss of the building at Santo, there was about $70 in cash and several dollars' worth of stamps missing. The boys when arrested had only about $26 between them.

The boys are said to reside on farms near Brazos, a few miles east of Santo, and claim to be innocent.

OUTLOOK MORE ENCOURAGING

Ghost of Chance That We may Have More Pleasant Weather Tomorrow The electrically-attached fountain pen which keeps record of the sunshine and clouds for the weather bureau, went a long time of ink across the moving paper cylinder yesterday because there was no sun to be seen. The doleful drizzle outdoors, dripped drearily into the rain gauge and at long intervals the recording pen dropped with a click to make note of a hundredth of an inch of rain which had fallen.

The weather bureau office was not an encouraging place to get sunshine. Nevertheless there is a probability the overhanging clouds will give place to sunshine and cooler weather tomorrow and in that hope the weather man promises to turn over another leaf in the morning. The water-pitcher forecast has proven correct.

VICTORY CLOSELY WON

Fort Worth Bowling Team Defeats Dallas by a Narrow Margin The members of the Fort Worth bowling team, who defeated a similar team from Dallas at the Palace alleys Thursday night, are elated over their first victory from Dallas. The teams are now scoring the total number of pins, and it is proving better for the Fort Worth players. The feature of the game was the difficult spare made by Cunningham, who, with one ball, knocked over pins 7, 8 and 10, which it was the most difficult spare on the board. The Fort Worth team goes to Dallas next Wednesday night, November 26.

SHOT DOWN BY MINISTER'S SON

MICHIGAN MAN KILLED IN GUATEMALA BY GODFREY HUNTER

The Slayer Is the Son of the American Minister to That Country—The Shot Was Fired From Behind—Great Indignation Among Americans in That Country

GUATEMALA CITY, Nov. 21.—William Fitzgerald of Grand Rapids, Mich., was shot and killed today by W. Godfrey Hunter, the junior son of United States Minister Hunter. The shot was fired from behind.

Fitzgerald, it was asserted later, had no chance to defend himself and that he is an inoffensive man. James Balley of Kentucky, secretary of the league, was standing by with a drawn revolver.

Both men were arrested but are now at liberty through Minister Hunter's claiming immunity for them. The lives of Hunter and Balley are threatened by the indignant Americans.

CATTLE DIP IS SUCCESS

EXPERIMENTS MADE ON CATTLE AT QUANAH.

THEY FAIL THE FIRST TIME

Further Investigation Shows That the Solution Used Was Too Weak—When Strengthened But Few Ticks Survive the Dipping—Every Indication for Complete Success—Government Interested.

(Telegram Special Service.)

Quanah, Tex., Nov. 21.—A number of cattle belonging to Messrs. Hankins, Ledbetter and Hodge were dipped last Monday and Tuesday in "Sarnel," the Argentine Republic cattle dip, to rid them of ticks. A dipping was made a week prior to this, and M. de la Torre of Buena Ayres, South America, who is here and has the United States right for this dip, was very much disappointed that not quite all of the ticks were killed.

Upon examination it was found that too much water had been used, about 110 parts to one of the dip, when it should have been ninety to one. This made quite a difference in the strength of the dip, and when the solution was thus strengthened a very few ticks survived the dipping.

There is absolutely no damage to the cattle from this dip. Cows that had more than 100 ticks on them were found to have only three or four at the end of the seventh day. There is every assurance that this second dipping will be a complete success.

The dip has been thoroughly tested by the Argentine Republic, and is unqualifiedly indorsed by the government of that country. The cattle dipped on Monday will be carefully examined tomorrow. Dr. Melvin, who has been representing the bureau of animal industry in these experiments, left for Salt Lake Wednesday, and Dr. Allen of Oklahoma City is here in his place.

ROBBERS STOP EXPRESS TRAIN

MOST DARING ROBBER IN HISTORY OF THE ROCK ISLAND

OCCURS NEAR DAVENPORT

Gang of Masked Men Stops Train From Fort Worth, Blows Open Safe of Express Car and Is Rewarded With Several Thousand Dollars in Cash

Train No. 11 of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, due to reach Fort Worth at 7:10 o'clock this morning was held up by masked men near the outskirts of Davenport, Ia., about 11:30 o'clock Friday night and according to reports from $500 to $20,000 was taken from the safe of the express car after the safe was blown open by dynamite.

The train left Davenport a little after 11 o'clock, running slowly till near the city limits. At the yard limits there is an interlocking switch and outgoing and incoming trains are supposed to slow down when crossing. The engineer, whose name is Schaeffer, brought his engine to a slower rate of speed when crossing the switches and had begun to open the throttle for the 30-mile run to Muscatine, when he saw a red light swung across the track in front.

The train left Davenport a little after 11 o'clock, running slowly till near the city limits. At the yard limits there is an interlocking switch and outgoing and incoming trains are supposed to slow down when crossing. The engineer, whose name is Schaeffer, brought his engine to a slower rate of speed when crossing the switches and had begun to open the throttle for the 30-mile run to Muscatine, when he saw a red light swung across the track in front.

Work Thoroughly Done There were probably ten men in the gang, for while the engineer was kept quiet, other masked robbers menaced the passengers while one uncoupled the express car from the train. The engineer was then compelled to run ahead nearly two miles and then the express car was opened, the messengers overpowered, and the safe blown open with dynamite. The noise was heard in Davenport, three miles away.

The amount of money obtained is not yet officially stated. Agent Gifford of the United States Express company at Davenport, says there was not more than $500 in the safe when it left Davenport, while from Des Moines comes the story that fully $20,000 was obtained by the robbers.

The men were evidently satisfied with what they got, for after collecting their booty they uncoupled the engine from the express car, ran down the track and escaped in the darkness. They may have gone north through the heavily timbered country or they may have headed toward the river in a boat, as the Mississippi runs within stone's throw of the railroad track for a long distance near the point where the holdup occurred. They left no trace of the direction they took and the frightened train crew cannot tell much about the affair.

Description of Robbers The only description of the robbers which can be given is that one was very tall and slim three were medium sized and one was short and heavy set. All wore masks, slouch hats and kept in the darkness as much as possible.

Cities Aroused The news of the holdup was telegraphed to Davenport as quickly as the next station was reached. Large forces of Davenport police, assisted by officers from the cities of Rock Island and Moline, joined in the chase, but up to a late hour last night, no reports of a clew have been received.

The Sheriff of Rock Island county has a number of trained bloodhounds and these were put on the trail, but with no success.

Bold Deed The entire robbery lasted two hours and 10 minutes. The passengers were not interfered with and no shots were exchanged by the robbers and members of the crew. It was evidently the work of a strong and experienced gang, and had been carefully planned.

The city of Davenport near the river is very sparsely settled and between the limits of the town of Buffalo there are no houses on the other with in a mile and a half of the track. The men might have been in Davenport several days; might have crossed the river from Rock Island have come in on one of the many trains arriving daily in the three cities, without exciting suspicion. The sheriffs and police of all the river counties in both Illinois and Iowa have been notified, but no success has yet rewarded their efforts.

Local Men Not Informed Local representatives of the United States Express company stated last night they knew nothing concerning the robbery, which is not given in the dispatches.

In addition to the attempts which will be made by the authorities in Iowa and Illinois to catch the robbers the United States postoffice authorities will join in the pursuit as the express is an important mail train and the delay of two hours will cause government investigation.

Winter Eczema OR TETTER

Is one of the many varieties of that tormenting disease called Eczema. It slumbers through the summer and breaks out in winter. The head, feet and hands are the parts most often attacked, though it sometimes appears on other parts of the body, the skin hardens, cracks open and bleeds, while the itching and burning is at times almost unbearable. Scratching only makes it worse, sores and scabs forming where the skin is broken.

SKIN CRACKS AND BLEEDS

In this form of Eczema brownish white crusts sometimes form which scale off in fine particles, leaving the skin raw and inflamed. It is especially painful and severe when confined to the hands, which often become so badly affected that the sufferer is unable to perform the lightest work. This, like all other types of Eczema, is due to acid poisons in the blood and not to local causes. The trouble is more than skin deep, and washes, soaps, powders and salves nor anything else applied to the surface can possibly do more than soothe the burning and itching or relieve temporarily the inflammation and pain.

It is the acids thrown off by the blood and which are forcing their way through the pores that cause the skin to harden, crack and bleed, and produce the irritation and soreness.

S. S. S. neutralizes these acid poisons and cleanses the blood of all irritating substances and humors and does it promptly and effectually. S. S. S. purifies and invigorates the thin acid blood, and builds up the entire system; then the unsightly eruption and sores heal, the skin becomes smooth and soft, and all signs of the Eczema disappear.

ANDERSON & SMALLWOOD,

Drugs and Druggists' Sundries,

PARTNERSHIP DISSOLVED.

Messrs. Anderson and Smallwood have dissolved partnership, and their store at 712 Main street becomes the property of Mr. R. A. Anderson, to the management of which he will give his closest personal attention.

The strongest factor in safe-guarding medicines is the personal element of the druggist. Clothing stores or groceries may combine in great numbers, but druggists are like doctors—the personal element is strong. You would not want a "combine" doctor to attend your sick child; neither would you want medicine for that child from a big combine mercantile drug firm, where no one person is immediately responsible. You want medicine from a druggist who is personally responsible for the reliability of that medicine—you want man-to-man dealing between yourself and your druggist. That is the right relation.

In dissolving our partnership, and taking this Drug Store at 712 Main street, I want all my friends, and the public in general, to know that this store is going to be run under the one-man idea, and everything done that can be done to make it a good Drug Store.

We believe that it will not take you long to appreciate the advantage of this move, and for that reason, I take pleasure in inviting you to come here and see me.

HE WILL SERVE A LONG TERM

HARVEY LOGAN CONVICTED ON TEN SERIOUS COUNTS

ONE OF MONTANA ROBBERS

He Spent Some Time in Fort Worth a few Weeks Previous to His Desperate Escapade in Tennessee—Charley Scott Was Close After Him

(Telegram Special Service.)

Police officers here are discussing the chances Harvey Logan has to serve Uncle Sam in some United States prison for anywhere from 30 to 90 years.

Harvey Logan, alias Kid Curry, the alleged Montana train robber and safe blower, was found guilty on ten counts of a 19 count indictment in the Federal court Friday afternoon in Knoxville, Tenn. Sentence was not passed on the prisoner, but court was adjourned to Saturday, Nov. 29, at which time a motion for a new trial will be argued, and, if overruled, sentence will be pronounced. Logan, by the indictment, has been found guilty of forging the names of bank officials to the Montana bank notes in six instances, passing illegal money and keeping same in his possession. The lowest punishment on any of the ten counts is five years and the maximum 15. It was charged that Logan and his band, on July 3, 1961, held up a Great Northern train near Wagner, Mont., opened the express safe by dynamite and secured $40,000 in new bank notes of the Bank of Montana, lacking the signatures of the bank officials.

Logan was arrested near Knoxville on Dec. 13, 1961, after shooting two policemen, and has since been in jail.

The feature that gives Logan's case local interest is the fact that a few weeks before his capture he and three pals in the Montana job were in Fort Worth, stopped at one of the prominent flats here while officers and detectives all over the country were searching every nook and corner. It was only a very few days after Logan's departure that Detective Charley Scott (now dead) got a line on the fact that he had been in town, and as an evidence that Charley was right after him, there is now at police headquarters a group photograph of Logan and three pals, dudish looking guys, that Charley had in his possession and exhibited after it was learned that the birds had flown.

To the Public.

Allow me to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I had a very severe cough and cold and feared I would get pneumonia, but after taking the second dose of this medicine I felt better, three bottles of it cured my cold and the pains in my chest disappeared entirely. I am most respectfully yours for health, Ralph S. Meyers, 64 Thirty seventh St., Wheeling, W. Va. For sale by N. E. Grammer, druggist.

MANY THOUSANDS DEAD

The Country Is Declared to Be Devastated. Coffee Plantations Are Ruined and Price of Provisions Very Steep. Famine Is There and People Are Starving

City of Mexico, Nov. 22.—The tragic death in Paris of Mrs. Gore, wife of Thomas Sinclair Gore, has shocked her friends in this city, where she was regarded as a lady of artistic tastes, and had a large circle of acquaintances in the American and English colonies. Her husband is a Canadian and brought his wife here as a bride some fifteen years ago. She is believed to have been born in Ohio, but on being orphaned at an early age was brought up by her aunt, Mrs. P. F. Dickinson, of Alameda, Cal. It is generally believed that the couple did not live happily together. They had one child which died. For some time past Mr. and Mrs. Gore have lived apart, and she being of an artistic temperament and fond of music went to Vienna, where she studied under good masters. She returned to this city to arrange for her future support, her husband being the owner of a large amount of real estate here.

Edward C. Butler, her attorney here, says that the idea of suicide is to be discarded at once. Mrs. Gore was wrapped up in her music and her business interests here were in excellent shape. He had only Thursday received a business letter from her. In this letter she wrote:

I am taking lessons with Moszkowski, the great composer and pianist, I am working hard and getting on well. I am also taking French lessons, so that my time is completely occupied. I hope everything is going on all right. My love to Mrs. Butler. Very sincerely, NELLY S. GORE.

Mrs. Gore is recalled as being a refined woman of irreproachable character, admired for her grace and taste in dress, and was in the habit of taking part in the concerts here.

Her husband made his money in coal and real estate operations. He is now supposed to be singing in opera in the United States, although possessed of large property here. He treated his wife with generosity and is himself well regarded in this city.

Mrs. Gore's maiden name was Nelly S. Stoddard, and her father, a Methodist minister, died years ago.

Water Was Too Cold.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Albert Sechrest of Kansas City, principal witness for the state in the case of Louise Kern, a dentist, charged with killing her husband, was found Friday at the home of her parents and admitted she had been in hiding there for the past five days. Mrs. Sechrest wished to avoid testifying at the trial and last Monday threw a note pinned to a hat into the river at Leavenworth stating that she had drowned herself and baby. "I meant to kill myself and baby," she said, "but the water was too cold."

Former Resident of New York.

New York, Nov. 22.—It has been discovered that Mrs. Gore lived in Madison avenue near Twenty-eighth street in this city until she went abroad on the steamer Friesland on July 12. While here she obtained a divorce from her husband, who was an architect and a man of wealth in Mexico. Mrs. Gore's only relative is said to be an aunt, living near Oakland, Cal.

Result of Autopsy.

Paris, Nov. 22.—An autopsy was held on Mrs. Gore's body by Dr. Socquet, and resulted in a formal report that the cause of death was a bullet wound. Consul General Gowdy assigned a member of his staff to attend the autopsy and take notes of the condition of the body. That official reported that the bullet entered the forehead above the left eye and went clear through the head. The bullet was not found.

Peculiar Funeral Services.

Macon, Mo., Nov. 22.—J. Culps, aged sixty, who traveled for a St. Louis nursery firm, has been buried here, and according to his dying request there were no flowers except artificial ones, taken from his wife's hat. He further specified that his burial should not take place if it rained or snowed, and as the afternoon was threatening the interment was delayed, but finally took place. The scant ceremony consisted in his wife playing a hymn, "The Uncloudy Day," on the piano.

Did Not Found.

Constantinople, Nov. 22.—The steamer Bosnia, loaded with cereals and having 150 persons on board, which was reported to have foundered in a gale in the Black sea off Suina, at the mouth of the Danube, has arrived here.

A PURELY BUSINESS SESSION

WAS THAT OF THE CITY COUNCIL FRIDAY NIGHT

NEW CITY ATTORNEY NAMED

The Northern Texas Traction Company Granted Additional Franchise Rights—The Mayor and All the Council Were Arrested by Order of County Judge Milam

The city council held one of the most important sessions for some months last Friday night. The mayor and all the aldermen were present.

Among the most important action taken was upon the resignation of City Attorney W. D. Williams.

The election of Alderman E. C. Orrick from the Eighth ward to fill out Mr. Williams' unexpired term.

The announcement of a date for an election to select an alderman to succeed Mr. Orrick, and December 17, date of the only primary as the time.

The granting to the Northern Texas Traction company a franchise over additional streets for the purpose of extending and improving the street car service.

In this connection, and before the vote was taken, Mr. Moreland offered an amendment that the proposed improvements include the Samuel's avenue line from Belknap to the Grunewald pavilion, and the speculation that the company should maintain its general offices here.

The extensions are to commence at Front and Jones street, continuing up Jones to Seventh and out West Seventh to the city limits. Also a line commencing at Seventh street and Summit avenue to Rio Grande avenue, thence on south to Hill street and along Hill street to Pennsylvania avenue, and East on Pennsylvania to Seventh avenue and south from Seventh avenue to Magnolia. Also a line commencing at Hemphill and West Daggert and thence on Hemphill to Magnolia, to Evans and continuing south to the city limits.

It was decided that the Traction company should pay $250 for the franchise, this sum to offset a similar amount due the Traction company from the city in settlement of two suits for damages. The mayor and some of the aldermen argued for $500 franchise fee, in order to keep up the precedent set for franchises, and in order that other companies and enterprises seeking franchises may not reasonably demand free franchises.

The Proceedings in Detail

The minutes of the last meeting and the city treasurer's report were approved. Claims to the amount of $8746.32, checked up by the city auditor, were allowed.

Bob Stepp was allowed $60 in lieu of a claim for personal injuries and to injuries to horse and wagon.

Additional fire plugs were ordered put in on Houston street.

Report of the city engineer and city secretary was made on opening the street paving bids. It was decided to call a special meeting for December 1, to act upon them.

The matter of raising certain buildings of the Cameron Mill and Elevator company to correspond to the grade caused by the viaduct approaches was referred to the mayor, city attorney and chairman of the finance committee.

Additional closets were ordered put in at the Seventh ward school building at the request of Superintendent Alexander Hogg.

A resolution passed instructing Major S. B. Haggart to prepare plans for an Eighth ward school building, the building to cost $15,000, the plans two per cent of this amount, or four per cent if the plans were used. It was argued that this did not mean that the building was to be built soon or late, but just in order to have the plans ready.

An ordinance was introduced providing that in order to induce P. G. Walloff and W. P. Graves and associates to sink a shaft or well in order to ascertain whether or not natural gas or oil could be discovered in Fort Worth that they be granted the privilege of laying through the streets pipe lines for the distribution of natural gas, illuminating gas and every substitute for such gas and to sell gas discovered by means of the well; the parties to begin to sink said well within one year to a depth of 1000 feet, unless oil or gas be found at a less depth.

It appeared that this ordinance was an entire surprise to every alderman. They appeared to not know from whence it came or whether it was going. Messrs Moreland and Henderson argued that it might be an infernal machine is disguise, and were afraid of it, and wanted it to go over for investigation. It went over for two weeks.

The street car line ordinance was next in order. It was shown that the proposed improvements would incur an outlay of $250,000 in Fort Worth.

Mr. Waggoman said that he had been offered $1000 for a city lot on South Houston street by A. L. Matlock. He explained that his committee had been instructed to get what it could for the lot, so long as he sum was over $750; he had succeeded in getting an offer of $1000 from Mr. Matlock and thought that the city ought to accept it. The matter was referred to the mayor and city secretary with power to close the deal.

Paving of the Fourth ward school sidewalk with cement at a cost of $75 was ordered.

The purchase of lot 19, block 11, Lawn Terrace addition for $200 in order that Myrtle street may be extended through to Louisiana avenue was ordered.

ed through to Louisiana avenue was ordered.
 It was ordered that when the railroad companies erect arc lights at the crossings in obedience to the request of the council that a light be placed on College avenue near the Eighth ward school.

W. L. McCart made a proposition that met with hearty approval of all—even the mayor took occasion to commend it. For a salary of $60 per month and a two years' contract he proposed to construct flower beds and set out flowers in the city park, furnish $250 or $300 worth of flowers and roses, enumerating 40 or 50 different varieties, also to do similar work on all school and public grounds, trim the trees, whitewash and paint trees, fences, benches, and look after it all. The proposition was referred to the public grounds committee with power to act.

Daggert avenue citizens petitioned the council for some needed improvements in the street of gravel, etc., to make the street passable. They complained of the street commissioner's unfulfilled promises. The commissioner was instructed to do the work.

A petition from residents of Cooper street asking that water mains be laid along that thoroughfare from Sixth to Eighth avenues was referred to the water works committee.

A petition from Houston and Main street property owners and merchants protesting against the presence on the corners of those streets of fruit, stationery and candy vendors was referred to the street and alley and police committee.

A resolution was adopted closing a certain part of Elizabeth street because of a railway track of the International and Great Northern thereon. City Attorney Williams' Resignation

The secretary then read the resignation of City Attorney Williams. Mr. Lehane moved its acceptance, and took occasion to speak of Mr. Williams' service in a most complimentary manner, as did also Mr. Moreland in seconding the motion to accept. The motion carried.

Mr. Lehane then placed in nomination E. C. Orrick to succeed Mr. Williams. Mr. Murray seconded. Mr. Waggoman took occasion to remark that Hon. Tillman Smith had declined to stand for election, and in consequence of Mr. Smith declining he (Waggoman), would vote for Mr. Orrick. Mr. Newby moved that the secretary cast the vote of the council for Mr. Orrick. He did so.

Mr. Newby then moved that a rising vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Williams for his faithful services and as a mark of appreciation. This was done.

Had 'em All Arrested
 County Judge Milam, presiding over the Kangaroo court at the Elks' Charity fair, accompanied by Messrs Elliott and Ball and four policemen, appeared before the council and read a warrant from the Kangaroo court demanding that the mayor and aldermen be at once arrested and taken before the court for contempt. The warrant stipulated that they must be taken dead or alive, and that the patrol wagon was in waiting.

The Order Was Obeyed
 The council then stood adjourned and the members were marched down stairs and into the patrol wagon. At Elks hall there were hundreds of people awaiting their coming.

The THEATER

Evening, Jules Grau opera company in Victor Herbert's greatest success "The Wizard of the Nile."

Tuesday
"Wizard of the Nile," matinee. Evening same company in Sousa's "El Capitan." These will be two of the strongest comic opera attractions presented during the entire season.

Thursday
Thanksgiving matinee and night, William Bonelli and Miss Rose Stahl in Paul Leicester Ford's dramatization of his own novel "Janice Meredith."

Saturday
Matinee and night, "The Tyranny of Tears," brilliant comedy by Haddon Chambers, with star part carried by Paul Gilmore. The week presents varied attractions, all strong in their separate lines, and should have profitable for Greenwall's.

The management of Greenwall's has been serving a well-mixed course of attractions for the past few weeks and none of the dishes have been unpalatable. A heavy list week before last was succeeded by a lighter but in every respect satisfactory one last week, and now another heavy series is promised for this week.

During the past week Hoyt's "A Stranger in New York" and "A Trip to Chinatown" were presented by capable companies and were better played than had been expected in advance. "At the Old Cross Roads" Friday to hold the crowd that will rush to see the great "Wizard."

Tuesday night, November 25, Mr. Grau will present "El Capitan." Popular prices—25c, 50c and 75c—will be charged at night performance and matinee 50c, children 25c.

The Dallas News had the following to say:
"The opera house contained a large audience last night, which witnessed the initial performance in this city of the 'Wizard of the Nile' by the Grau Opera company, who gave a very pleasing performance of the tuneful opera. The company and opera are commended to the reception of the theatrical public. Miss Ennice Clarke Drake is a vocalist of decided ability. She gave a clever interpretation of the innocent Cleopatra. Her efforts were well sustained. Joseph W. Smith's part was well sung. His voice is rich and full of melody. Mrs. Niven and Miss Tyler are capable, painstaking people and possess more than ordinarily good voices. The two comedians, John Henderson, who impersonated the part of the Wizard, and William Herman West, who took the part of the King of Egypt, kept the audience in a roar of laughter by their eccentric and ludicrous interpretation of the characters they represented. The 'Wizard of the Nile' is a particularly tuneful opera and Mr. Grau has supplied it with appropriate scenery, and the present company and repertoire is stage. This will enable all those who not only wish to meet the handsome young star but those who are curious to see "behind the scenes" and to meet the ladies of the cast. Miss Grace Hobart Hanson, who plays the part of Mr. Gilmore's tearful wife, is the niece of the late Vice-President Garret A. Hobart.

The ladies' gowns in this play will also be of great interest to the fair sex and will be on exhibition in the dressing rooms.

Plays Coming Here

"The Old Guard," although only a one act piece, has come to rank as one of the distinguished successes of Chas. B. Hanford's career. In this play he wholly disguises his personality, appearing as an aged but high spirited soldier whose honor is more to him than food and shelter. Mr. Hanford uses the piece as a prologue to "Taming of the Shrew" and while he was playing in a Virginia city an auditor who had gone out between the acts was heard to remark: "Well, this man Hanford may be pretty good; but he will have to hustle to beat the old fellow that died just now."

So far during the present theatrical season there have been recorded but few substantial successes. Among these the most conspicuous is Blanche Walsh's new play, "The Daughter of Hamlet," in which she has found the greatest opportunity of her career.

novel is the offering this week at the Empire theater. It is in four acts and all of the principal scenes in the novel are given. The death of the Viking on the burning ship was strictly realistic and the scenic effects were excellent. No expense has been spared by Mr. Benedict in giving "Thelma" a superb staging and the beautiful Norwegian scenery was well worth the price of admission to see, let alone the excellent manner in which Mr. Benedict's company presented "Thelma."—Denver News.

The Buffalo Commercial recently told how the celebrated boxing manager that belongs to Dan Quinlan, managing owner of the Quinlan and Wall Imperial minstrels, a company soon coming to Fort Worth, swallowed a watch and was taken to the hospital. Dr. Wilson tried to avoid an operation, but Sunday he saw that the operation known to surgery as gastrostomy would have to be performed in order to save the monkey's life and recover the watch. A number of prominent physicians and surgeons were present. Frank Ernie, the pugilist, witnessed the operation. Dr. Davidson of Columbus, Ohio, was called upon to administer the ether. When placed on the dissecting table the monkey seemed to realize what was about to take place. It shed tears as it shook hands with persons it recognized; it was in every respect like a human being. It willingly took the ether. Dr. Wilson applied the knife and soon the monkey's interior was exposed to view. All were agreed, after "having a look," that Darwin was right. The watch was found in the stomach and was removed. It was very bright, having been highly polished by the gastric

TRIFLING WITH YOUR HEALTH

Is Like Playing with a Loaded Gun—If You Have Kidney Trouble Attend to it Once.

It is easy to tell whether your Kidneys or bladder are diseased. Take a bottle or glass tumbler and fill it with urine. If there is a sediment—a powder-like substance—after standing a day and a night, if it is pale or discolored,ropy or stringy, there is something wrong with the Kidneys. Other sure signs of disease are a desire to urinate often, pain in the back, or if your urine stains linen.

There is no question that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best and surest medicine in the world for diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder and Blood, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Chronic Constipation, and the sicknesses peculiar to women. It quickly relieves and cures inability to hold urine and the necessity of getting up a number of times during the night, and puts an end to the scalding pain when passing urine.

The Rev. Henry P. Miller, pastor Baptist church, Spartenburg, S. C., writes:

"For eleven years I suffered with kidney, liver and heart troubles, swimming in the head, dull headache and numbness of the limbs. Several physicians prescribed for me and I took different medicines, but none of them did me any good. I then began the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and in about two weeks was entirely well."

DIES IN INDIANA

A Former Resident of Fort Worth—His Demise Was Sudden

A Lafayette, Indiana, paper of November 8 contains a notice of the death, funeral and burial of R. Walter Heller. His demise was sudden, causing an inexpressible shock to his wife, mother, two children (Homer and Helen) and friends. The Lafayette paper says:

"Deceased was born near State Line, Indiana, and was within a few weeks of being forty years of age. In September, 1888, he was united in marriage to Miss Lizzie Reed, and located in Fort Worth, Texas, remaining there until about five years ago when he removed to Lafayette, where he had spent a portion of his boyhood. His occupation was that of a house painter and contractor. In all the relations of life deceased was deservedly held in high esteem."

The Worst Form

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery, which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: "For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. Smallwood & Anderson, Anderson & Smallwood.

SCENE FROM "JANICE MEREDITH" AT GREENWALL'S OPERA HOUSE THANKSGIVING MATINEE AND NIGHT.

night proved to be a strong drama well acted and as a fitting climax for the week "Lord Strathmore" last night proved the best of the four, being brilliantly played by a strong company.

Here is the list for Thanksgiving week:

At The Old Cross Roads
A company headed by Estha Williams, strong both in numbers and in ability to act, presented the Southern drama "At the Old Cross Roads" Friday night. The drama has a plot that does not become clear until the curtain is rung down for the last act. It presents a difficult proposition for the heroine in having her act the part of a supposed octoctor with all the feminity attached to those of her race and yet at the same time presents a picture that in no way could offend Southern sensibilities.

The plot calls for the introduction of many characters and abounds in thrilling climaxes at which, to their credit, it is said, none of the actors were guilty of ranting. The strongest character was Estha Williams as Pareppa, the octoctor; yet in the skill and finish of her work she was closely approached by Miss Gertrude O'Malley as Annabel Thornton, daughter of the master of the house, and Martin did Charles D. Coburn as Tom and Pareppa, who attempted to monopolize the stage and played his part as the lover of Annabel with much credit. Altogether it was one of the strongest dramas yet presented this season and deserves all the praise it has received.

Graus Opera Co.

The theater-going public of Fort Worth will be more than pleased to learn that at last Manager Grau has secured the greatest of all comic opera successes, "The Wizard of the Nile," which comes to Greenwall's opera house Monday night and Tuesday matinee, November 24 and 25. This company has played successfully for the past five years to tremendous crowds through the United States and Canada. But this city of the first visit to this city of this magnificent production, with all its beautiful scenery, gorgeous costumes and brilliant cast. One of the big features of this production is the trick alligator which is carried by the company. "The Wizard of the Nile" is without doubt the greatest comic opera success on record having a run of three years in New York, six weeks in Philadelphia, four weeks in Chicago, ten weeks in Boston and long runs in St. Louis, Cleveland, Pittsburg and other large cities. The coming here of this opera has been a long looked for event, and there is no doubt whatever that the opera house will not be large enough a delightful departure from the usual repertoire organizations.

"Janice Meredith"

One of the most intense dramatic situations in "Janice Meredith," which comes to Greenwall's opera house Thursday (Thanksgiving) matinee and night, November 27, takes place in the third act when Charles Fowles, a spy on the staff of General Washington, is captured by the Hessians and taken to their headquarters to be searched. Around him are a lot of intoxicated Hessian officers, and in coming through the lines he has noticed that the entire British army at Trenton, in celebrating Christmas time, have dropped their vigilance, and the town is easy to capture. But shackled and bound as he is he can think of no way to communicate the news to Washington until he sees, outside the window, a fellow spy who has come over with him. Janice Meredith is in the room. He knows her to be a colonial girl at heart, although her father is a Tory. Cautiously signalling to her to call her attention to the face at the window, he replies to the taunts of his captors.

"Ah," he says, "you are brave when my arms are lashed. 'Tis well for you they are. If my hands were free I'd take a pen and write this message to General Washington: 'Trenton is at your mercy; the officers are drunk. Aye, the men supplied. Cross the Delaware and attack Trenton.'"
The quick-witted girl grasps the import of what he has said, writes the message he has dictated in the room full of Hessians, tosses it from the window, and this—in the play—is why Washington crossed the Delaware as he did, and attacked Trenton. No advance in prices.

"The Tyranny of Tears"

Paul Gilmore and a company chosen from New York's foremost actors and actresses in society comedies will produce Haddon Chambers' comedy, "The Tyranny of Tears," in this city at Greenwall's opera house Saturday matinee and night, November 29. The play takes its title from the wife of the leading character, who, when she is thwarted in any desire, resorts to tears to sway her good-natured husband, who finally rebels against this tyranny and produces some amusing complications, in which his bachelor friends and father-in-law become deeply involved.

Paul Gilmore's Reception Matinee

Immediately after the matinee performance of the society drama, "The Tyranny of Tears," which is to be played at Greenwall's opera house Saturday matinee, November 29, Paul Gilmore, the star of the attraction, will hold an informal reception on the

The play is a melodrama in the highest sense of that word. That is to say, it is a thrilling drama with music which is the real meaning of the term melodrama. Managers Wagenhals and Kemper invested a fortune in the scenic and costume effects, and they are credited with having given one of the most gorgeous productions attempted in many years. The play is now crowding McVickers' theater to the doors and is averaging over ten thousand dollars in the way of gross receipts. It will be seen in Fort Worth this season.

Flora Zabelle, the sprightly and captivating "Annette" in the production of "King Dodo," which Mr. Henry W. Savage will present here shortly, succeeded Miss Quinlan with instantaneous success in this role in New York, where the Pixley and Luders' work was presented for two months at Daly's theater last spring and summer. Mr. Savage has sent the same organization on tour to play the principal cities of the west before playing extended engagements in the eastern cities again.

Horace Lewis, for the past five seasons the leading comedian at the Castle Square theater in Boston, and an immense favorite in that city, has been secured by Manager Frederick Berger to star in Sol Smith Russell's famous play, "A Poor Relation."

Alden Benedict's company, presenting a new and electric production taken from Marie Corelli's famous juices, was none the worse for the strange trip it had taken. The watch is again in Mrs. Perigo's possession at Niagara Falls, where the monkey swallowed it Friday. The monkey was sewed up by Dr. Wilson in approved style and will recover.

Al H. Wilson appeared at Buffalo recently in his new play, "A Prince of Tatters," before a large and enthusiastic audience. This new vehicle which Charles H. Yale and Sidney R. Ellis are managing to exploit Mr. Wilson and his excellent company, has dramatic merit and gives the talented German comedian an opportunity to introduce several songs which pleased the large audience immensely. Mr. Al Wilson is a Buffalo boy and, judging from the applause which greeted him, a large number of his friends were in the house. He was called before the curtain several times and was the recipient of many beautiful floral pieces. At the close of the second act of the play is laid on the coast of Long Island the second, third and fourth at Fort George, and the picturesque scenery and costumes make pretty stage pictures.

The William H. West Big Musical Jubilee, under the same management as heretofore, comes here soon. This brilliant and highly successful organization is the most popular of its kind in America, for its patrons can always feel assured that they will see a clean and hilariously funny performance, devoted to music, song and comedy.

Dainty and pretty little Adelaide Thurston, supported by a company of reputed merit, is going to be seen here in her great success, "At Cozy Corners." The play is a comedy-drama with some thrilling scenes. The production has been much admired elsewhere for its purity, poetical sweetness and general truthfulness to nature. The scenic features are described as splendid.

Look Out for Fever

Biliousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tone and strength to the glands. Smallwood & Anderson, Anderson & Smallwood.

Ridiculous thing to have—this tooth-ache. Simply amusing that I, having reached the mature age of 33 without ever having fallen in love—that is deeply—should ever have such a simple and yet so exasperating thing as a toothache.

Yes, I've tried a bag of hot salt, and a red-hot darning needle, and chloroform plain and chloroform with oil of cloves, and laudanum, and whiskey, and chloral hydrate with gum-camphor, and oil of creosote with oil of cloves, and Worcestershire sauce, and three kinds of toothache gum, and a hop pillow, and a hot-water bag, and oil of cinnamon, and yes I've even walked up seven flights of stairs to a dentist's office to see if I could scare it away, but it wouldn't scare worth a cent.

SOCIALISM

The growth of the socialistic movement is shown by the fact that they of that faith came near controlling the convention of federated labor at New Orleans this week.

For it is indisputable that there are certain conditions that are met in our industrial and social progress that are so burdensome to the masses that they make them willing to accept any changes; to fly to they know not what—even socialism, for that is what socialism is.

It is hardly likely, though, that socialism will ever, or at least for a long time, become such a power here that our present system must give way to it, but it might; stranger things have happened.

It must be that the people are tiring of being under the domination of industrial "bosses"; of working hard to pile up fortunes for the rich to spend in glaring display and sinful extravagance.

The next annual convention of the Texas Federation of Labor is the latest for Fort Worth. These meetings come here because Fort Worth is so easily reached by railroad, and because it has facilities for properly entertaining any reasonable number of visitors.

Memphis gave President Roosevelt a pretty warm reception after all. That is right. Discourtesy to a guest, especially when he is the president of the United States, can't hurt the guest; but it can make the host have many uncomfortable regrets afterwards.

A Local Fable in Slang

There was once a Fire-extinguisher who was loaded with several quarts of Historical Instances. When they tried to stir up some Enthusiasm over a Sunday School Picnic, the Fire-extinguisher was right there with a Tale about how it rained the last Time, and his story usually managed to do the Work.

When the Town Optimist tried to make Everybody feel good because Business was prospering, the Fire-extinguisher came up with a painfully accurate Description of a time just like it twenty years before, which was followed by the Panic of '67.

The Fire-extinguisher wore his Longest Hose at Weddings or Sociables, when he usually managed to throw enough liquid ice in the way of Anecdotes about disastrous Endings to some similar occasion of Pre-historic date, that it wetted out even the hottest Sports in he Bunch.

The Fire-extinguisher was also fond of clinging around Sick beds. He had a way of shaking hands with the suffering Patient, that told the latter in words plainer than 72-point Gothic, he was about to meet the venerable saint Peter in about three Days. The Fire-extinguisher always had a lot of Saint Peter jokes to spring on the sick, and they always wanted to throw the Atomizer at him, but were afraid to because it might prove their last Deed on earth.

Once the Town Boosters held a meeting to try to stir up some Enthusiasm (alias Public Spirit) and they even went so far as to appoint a Hustling Committee which was supposed to put on its Glad Rags and go around jollying Everybody and get them in Line with some Backshish for Public Needs.

The Fire-extinguisher got in just too late for the Subscription List, but managed to relate a Tale about just such a Committee thirty-five years or thereabouts before. It had started out with bright Hopes which were shattered before it got to the first Free Lunch Stand. "The people don't want to be bothered," said the Fire-extinguisher, and the Committee believed him.

When Crops in the country were looking well and the hens were repeating every day, the Fire-extinguisher would predict low prices that fall, calling to Remembrance a similar Occasion only nine years before and asking reproachfully, "How can you forget so soon?"

Thus it was that the Fire-extinguisher got to be a Nuisance, but nobody dared disconnect him at the Hydrant, because a lot of easy Muffs had

PEOPLE OF NOTE

During a discussion of the manners of the sons of distinguished Americans the other evening an instructor in one of the private military academies along the Hudson river told this story: "The faculty of our school were delighted when Governor Crane of Massachusetts sent his son to us, and we all grew very fond of him, for he was a bright and extremely modest youth. In fact, his modesty was so marked that we often talked about it among ourselves. One day there came to the school a party of distinguished visitors, and the principal called upon a number of the brightest boys in order to question them. Among these was young Crane. "Robert, who is the governor of Massachusetts?" inquired he, turning to the boy suddenly. "The youth thought for a time and then answered: 'I am sure I don't know.' "You certainly don't mean to tell me you do not know who the governor of your own state is?" replied the astonished man. "Think a moment longer." "I am sorry, sir, but I really don't know," answered the boy. "Why, Robert, your father is the governor of Massachusetts," exclaimed the bewildered principal. "Yes, he told me that himself once," answered the boy in the same quiet manner, "but I never believed it. I thought he was only stringing me."

Senator Hanna was struck with amazement the other day at Greenville, O., over what appeared to be a trick to Tom Johnstonize him, says the Washington Post. He was speaking in the town hall there, when a man jumped up on the platform and inquired if he might ask a question. That is the way they do things at Tom Johnston's tent meetings, and the Senator was a little taken back. "What is your name?" he finally found opportunity to inquire. The questioner informed him and continued: "I want to ask if you will accept in the name of the Republican ladies of Greenville this token of their regard?" Whereat a bunch of beautiful yellow chrysanthemums, each nearly as large as a small sized cabbage, was brought to view. "I want to apologize to you," retorted the senator, as he expressed thanks for the offering. "I thought at first you were one of Tom Johnston's stool pigeons. I accept these flowers and am grateful to the ladies from the bottom of my heart. God bless the ladies."

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty. Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The only use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

Will Leach pleaded guilty to simple assault and was fined $5 and costs.

Will Logan, colored, pleaded guilty to theft, $1 fine and one day in jail.

Dr. John D. Neal, veterinarian, was convicted by a jury for assaulting Prof. McDonald of the Ninth ward school, and was fined $25 and costs. This case was appealed from the corporation court.

Joe Armstrong was acquitted of a charge of Sunday selling.

BACK FROM THE EAST

Secretary Calhoun Blew in Friday Night From Philadelphia

Secretary H. L. Calhoun of the water works department, returned Friday night from Philadelphia, where he went to attend a meeting of the Supreme Rulers of the Fraternal Mystic Circle, of which he is one of the supreme trustees. Cal says he had a delightful trip and stay, but was awfully glad when he breathed Texas air once more.

He visited in Chicago, New York and Philadelphia the water works departments for the purpose of investigating their respective meter systems. He declares that Fort Worth has them all shined a mile on the meter proposition. This city has the Atlanta system, a system far superior, he says, to anything used in the big cities of the east.

KISSES THAT DIDN'T END RIGHT

REED ruin ran like fire over the little town of Curara, in Cuba, as the result of a kiss, and depopulated the place within a few hours, says Tit-Bits. A Spanish trading vessel chanced to anchor in the small natural harbor adjacent to Curara to kill time before proceeding to Havana, at which port she was not to arrive until a certain date. Leave was given to the crew to land, and they went off in a body to Curara.

It was a rough crew, picked from the very scum of Spain's refuse population, and included two or three Asiatics who had been taken on to fill gaps. Naturally the first thing these men did was to push their way into a wine saloon, where they drank and caroused until they could pay for no more.

There was a young Cuban girl in the saloon, and her pretty face attracted the attention of more than one member of the crew, and conversation soon circled round her. Finally one of the sailors rushed up to and embraced her before she was aware of his intention. The next instant he had paid the price, for the girl's lover, who chanced to be present, without a moment's hesitation struck him dead with a knife.

The death of their brutal companion kindled all the fierce passions in the sailors, who were already mad with liquor, and they dashed forward to kill the lover. Other men in the saloon, however, who had witnessed the tragedy drew knives to defend the murderer against the sailors, and a pitched battle ensued. The sailors were victorious, and put to flight those men they did not kill or maim. Then they rushed out, attacking every one they met—men, women and children.

The news spread, and the townspeople fled in terror, before the blood-thirsty sailors, away to the neighboring plantations without stopping to think what they did. Not caring to follow the fugitives for fear of meeting police or soldiers, the crew kept to the town, and hunted high and low for any one upon whom they could pour out their hatred. They found but few, and those they killed. From first to last there were 14 men and two children who fell their victims; their own losses were but three.

Not content with their revenge they set fire to every house, which, being lightly built of wood, burned right merrily. Within a few hours of their landing Curara was in ashes, deserted but for its dead. And to this day the name of the ship and the names of the crew are unknown.

It was a kiss which practically depopulated Eden, a town of some 1400 inhabitants, in Queensland. A stranger trapped into the town one day and, after refreshing himself at a little eating house, insisted on kissing the bosom wife of the proprietor. The latter was present and laughed heartily at what he considered a fine joke, for his spouse was just her prime and far from attractive. The stranger passed on along his way inland.

Next day the woman was taken ill; within 48 hours she was dead and her husband and two children were dying. When the news went around that a violent disease had broken out in the town most of those people who could leave hurried away at once. Some struck towards the coast, others went inland. A few of the latter passed on their way the body of the stranger who had come into Eden and kissed the innkeeper's wife.

Of those Edelesites who chose or were forced to remain more than 100 lost their lives through the stranger's death-dealing kiss. It was many months ere the epidemic passed away altogether, and numbers of people will still travel miles out of their way to avoid the town, which is even to this day practically deserted.

A similarly terrible kiss was given some years ago by a sailor to his sweetheart, who lived in Candalo, a small port in Florida. Plague broke out on the sailor's vessel a few days before it reached Florida, and, as it was flying the yellow flag when it ran into Candalo, it was put in quarantine and all leave was forbidden. But it happened that one of the crew, who believed himself to be in the best possible health, had a sweetheart in the town, and he determined to resist orders to go and see her.

He managed to steal one of the ship's boats and got ashore. But it seemed as if he had risked all for nothing, for he had not found her when it became time for him to return to his ship if he wished to escape detection by his officers. Fate was playing a hand in his game, however, for on his way to the spot where he had moored his boat he ran across his sweetheart. He kissed her, and told her what he had dared to have one word with her; and when she heard he had come from the ship in quarantine she fled from him in terror. But she fled too late; for in the single kiss her lover had conveyed the fell disease to her, even though he was unaware that he had it.

The girl died, and the disease spread on the four winds over the town.

TEXAS ENGINES AHEAD OF ALL

WORK DONE BY SOME OF THE MONSTERS IN THE STATE

HAUL WONDERFUL LOADS

A Katy Engine Pulls One Hundred and Sixty Cars With Ease and Smashes the Record for the World—Nothing Equal to it in The East—Santa Fe is Not Far Behind

The following story for wonderful hauls by Texas engines from the Houston Post, surpasses that of the Irish engineer whose favorite yarn was about one time he pulled two hundred and fifty empty freight cars for five miles with only one hundred and twenty pounds of steam—down hill.

The railway journals are continually publishing stories of enormous tonnage hauled by one locomotive and first honors have frequently been accorded the New York Central and the Lehigh Valley.

Evidently the Eastern railroad journals have forgotten that there are several railroads in Texas which "do things" occasionally. They will appoint correspondents in this section, perhaps, when they are informed of the fact that all records of tonnage hauled, of speed maintained for long distances, of value of freight cargoes, etc., have been broken by Texas roads within the past three years. The Eastern journals recently gloated over the fact that the New York Central's 95-ton compound consolidation engine, with a six-foot boiler, carrying 200 pounds of steam, hauled 108 cars 143 miles. Many of the cars were empty. The rate of speed was fifteen miles an hour.

That's nothing. Here in Texas we find the Missouri, Kansas and Texas putting 160 cars behind the throttle valve of one of its new 444 class engines, between Galveston and Houston, and maintaining an average speed of twenty miles an hour. The Katy has purchased thirty-six of these big engines and there seems to be no limit to their power. Standing still or in motion the 444 is a perfect picture of strength. A week or so ago a Hercules of this type pulled 130 cars from Galveston, which broke all records, and subsequently smashed that record by hauling 160. It is interesting to figure out the track space occupied by such trains, as the total length of this train of 160 cars, counting in the locomotive's wheel base and all, was 6,198 feet—over a mile—a length which no road could conveniently handle if the passenger and freight service was congested, as no sidings are built for such enormous trains. Of course it would be impossible for the locomotive to start the whole train at the same time, for, allowing two inches of slack in each of the 160 couplers, we get about twenty-seven feet of slack in the entire train.

The Santa Fe is not far behind the "Katy." She frequently couples up eighty-three cars on her undulating trail and sails along with them at twenty miles an hour. And as frequently remarked, it would be interesting to put the Santa Fe's new decapod, the most powerful locomotive in the world, tipping the scales at 268,000 pounds—forty tons heavier than the Central's or the Katy's engine, and having an extra pair of drivers, to say nothing of a six-inch larger boiler—on the Katy's Galveston division tracks and see if she could raise the 444's record, under similar conditions. And in that case, if she did, it is safe to say that the Katy would never rest until she had procured a decapod which could haul 200 cars at the rate of forty miles an hour. In speed contests railroads are as implacable as prize fighters in the ring.

This doesn't apply, just now, to the passenger trains of South Texas, excepting the International and Great Northern, for, apparently, the speed champions and ambitious second raters have retired and are not even in training. But, don't you think the eastern journals should quit bragging about the New York Central and the Lehigh Valley? Those roads must now get a reputation.

KATY MAKES IMPROVEMENTS

Road is Making Replacing Old Buildings With Modern Structures. Little by little the old buildings at the Katy shops are being replaced by new modern structures made necessary by the wonderful growth of the Katy's business at this point, says the Denison Herald.

A new roundhouse costing $25,000, built of brick and having 36 stalls, has replaced the old frame structure. A store room and master mechanic's office has been built at a cost of $2,000. A power house for the electric light and water plant has also been completed and will probably be in operation before the holidays. In addition to this, the Katy is constantly making improvements of its track and terminal facilities and is gradually becoming one of the most completely equipped roads in the state.

Light and Shadow in the Police Court

They Were in a Hurry They got together in Hogan's alley—it was dark, very dark—only the glare of chili torches and a lantern hung out by a wagon yard man lighted the pedestrians through the black mud. They were two residents of the row, and were bad members. The racket they made and the way they scattered gore around over that particular neighborhood was a thing to linger long in the memory of the hangers-around. They were two female daughters of the African race.

A Chinaman, who does a washewashew stunt in the alley, saw them when they first clashed. "Jee Clee," howled the scared Celestial. A Mexican Chili stand proprietor flung down a chili-red platter and gave utterance to a surely Spanish cuss word. The Chinaman declared "Big Coon eat yellow glal up, one piece top side belly mached no good—what foh?" and he jumped up and down in wild excitement, blowing a police whistle till Officer Maddox came running from the wagon yard.

Meanwhile the conflict went on, growing more and more sanguinary as the interest in it thickened. Around the corner ran the officer, and he beheld a vast mob of excited Chinese, Mexicans and negroes—all sexes. "Come heap quickie," yelled John Chinaman, only stopping blowing the whistle long enough to call, and to say, "Black glal hittee yaller glal smashee top head, Clack 'em skull maybe so, no can do. Whatche black glal," with this he danced about, still blowing his whistle, and his eyes hung away down on his cheeks.

Into the thick of the melee waded Sebe. He yanked forth what was left of the combatants and caused the wreckage to be carted to the police station. One had six stitches taken in her scalp—the yellow glal's eyes were nearly closed.

They remained over night, and next morning told Judge Stewart about it. "Guilty, you're both guilty, and I wish there was some way the marshal could have you work out $2 and costs each, but as it is you must lay it out at the city's expense. Only for that, or I would make it $5."

Viola Ponder Again Viola Ponder is rapidly following in the footsteps of the Emiline Goodin of years ago in the Acre. The very mention of Emiline's name caused a shudder to pass over the frame of the police officers. Because to arrest Emiline was to beat her into submission, and then hold her in that submission until she was landed safely in the dungeon.

Emiline has been dead these many years, and now Viola Ponder has come upon the scene. The records show she is a weekly in the dock. Viola, of the corkscrew curls and old leather countenance, Viola disturbed the peace of the Acre. When the peace of the Acre is disturbed, the disturbing factor is surely an artist at creating a disturbance. Viola did it. She disturbed it all right. When Officer Coley reached the scene (new togs on) Viola was in the gutter, trying to swim out, apparently. She landed, yelping and screeching. Coley was playing to a full house. Standing room on the corners were at a premium. Some things were said that Coley did not like, but he passed 'em up—he was busy, there was something doing.

Finally the patrol wagon held its gaze. Next morning Viola ventured close to the throne of justice. She wanted a heart-to-heart talk with the court. "Judge, yer honor," pleaded Viola, "lemme go. It was all a mistake. I was down in the gutter looking for a dollar I had dropped. Lemme go, judge."

"Looking for a dollar, eh? Did you find it?" "No, judge, I didn't. Coley butted in and I had no chance." "I think a good long term in jail would be beneficial to you, Viola. You are a too frequent visitor to my court, and the officers all tell me you are the disturbing element of the Acre—what do you think of it, Mr. Roy?"

Viola turned on a good strong current of weeping. "I think," said Mr. Roy, "that she ought to be kept off the streets for a while." "I'll do it, I'll do it. Viola, I'll fine you $5 and cost. That's pretty steep, I'll admit, but you are a nuisance, and you make trouble. Stop that weeping, or—Mr. Newby, have her removed from the courtroom."

"Won't you open dat door?" At 3 o'clock Saturday morning a convivial spirit came home to its lodgings. A far-off voice came floating through the still night air: "Won't you open dat door?"

But when he reached home his song of joy suddenly changed, and war filled his breast. He was locked out. He filled the air with lamentations over this unjust and cruel thing. A policeman heard him. "Shame," he wept. "Howlin' shame to lock peaceful 'Merican cizzizen out'n zhe dark night. Oughter be a law 'gainst it."

Again he lifted up his voice and wailed— "Won't you open dat door? And won't you let me in." A window opened suddenly above. "What's doing?" inquired the harsh voice of the landlady. "I wan't to get in, mum."

"You don't get in—you've moved. See?" "But I wan' mah clothes." "They're in the ash barrel out in the back yard." The window shut down sharply. Night closed about the scene of the tragedy at the ash barrel. There was something doing, sure enough, and rocks and broken window panes mingled in the confusion. It was during the fast and furious play just before the drop of the curtain that the policeman broke in upon the scene. Tableau.

To be continued before Judge Stewart Monday morning.

Soaked Him All in Fun An old man came before Judge Stewart Friday morning. His head was all swathed in cotton wool and iodineform. In the role of defendant was Mr. Dolan.

"Yer honor," said the aggrieved old man, "I do not know this man who assaulted me, I had never seen him before. I gave him no cause to strike me, and did not see him—even when he hit me. It was on pay day, your honor. I was waiting on the sidewalk for a friend of mine to lock up. We were to go over to the stockyards for a trip. I was standing with one hand behind my back and the other hand in my pocket. Suddenly this man Dolan stepped up with something in his hand. Your honor, he hit me across the head, and, your honor, I thought he had knocked my whole skull off. I had to go to the doctor and have a few stitches taken.

Mr. Dolan stood there with arms folded, eyes shut, never saying a word. "How about this story, Dolan?" asked the court.

"Indeed, yer honor," said Dolan, "I had no possible reason for hitting him."

"Then you ought to have been locked up," said the court sternly. "You are a dangerous man to be running about the streets or elsewhere among innocent people. I'll make it $2 and cost."

TO WED IN MEMPHIS

A Prominent Confederate Son of Dallas, Harry L. Stay

Friends here among the Sons of Confederate Veterans are very much interested in the announcement which comes from Memphis, Tenn., that Harry L. Stay of Dallas is to be married in that city on December 17 to Miss Marguerite Ballentine. Mr. Stay is a prominent attorney of Dallas, is commander of the Dallas Camp of Sons, and is also Judge Advocate General on Commander-in-Chief Stone's staff. Sons of Veterans all over the South remember Mr. Stay as being so energetic in his efforts in their behalf during the national confederate reunion in Dallas last spring.

PUTTING IT STRONG

But Doesn't It Look Reasonable?

This may read as though we were putting it a little strong, because it is generally thought by the majority of people that Dyspepsia in its chronic form is incurable or practically so. But we have long since shown that Dyspepsia is curable, nor is it such a difficult matter as at first appears.

The trouble with Dyspepsia is that they are continually dieting, starving themselves, or going to opposite extreme or else deluging the already overburdened stomach with "bitters," "after dinner pills," etc., which invariably increase the difficulty even if in some cases they do give a slight temporary relief. Such treatment of the stomach simply makes matters worse. What the stomach wants is a rest. Now how can the stomach become rested, recuperated and at the same time the body nourished and sustained.

This is a great secret and this is also the secret of the uniform success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. This is a comparatively new remedy but its success and popularity leaves no doubt as to its merit.

The Tablets will digest the food anyway, regardless of condition of stomach.

The sufferer from Dyspepsia according to directions, is to eat an abundance of good wholesome food and use the Tablets before and after each meal and the result will be that the food will be digested no matter how bad your Dyspepsia may be, because, as before stated, the Tablets will digest the food even if the stomach is wholly inactive. To illustrate our meaning plainly, if you take 1,800 grains of meat, eggs or ordinary food and place it in a temperature of 98 degrees, and put with it one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets it will digest the meat or eggs almost as perfectly as if the meat was enclosed within the stomach.

The stomach may be ever so weak yet these Tablets will perform the work of digestion and the body and brain will be properly nourished and at the same time a radical, lasting cure of Dyspepsia will be made because the much abused stomach will be given, to some extent, a much needed rest. Your druggist will tell you that of all the many remedies advertised to cure Dyspepsia none of them have given so complete and general satisfaction as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not least in importance in these hard times is the fact that they are also the cheapest and give the most good for the least money.

WHY WIDOWS ARE POPULAR

Discussion of a Truth Conceded by Men, Maidens and Married Women

Wherein lies the secret? The maiden fair will ask, says the Pittsburg Press. The men will answer perhaps expressively and slantly: "In the fact that she knows a thing or two." Women will say, "She is so designing." But the widow lives on and charms and is invincible, for men bow to her charm and women emulate on it.

The maiden fair in the glorious zenith of her youth and beauty finds herself outclassed by the matronly looking widow, including embonpoint, and wonders why. She sees the widow take from under her very nose the man she had hoped to fascinate. She sees herself forsaken almost at times, while the widow sits surrounded by a coterie of devotees.

The widow is rarely as opinionated as the young girl. The widow essays to please, and to this end effaces herself. The young girl fancies that she must be catered to; the widow knows that the men must be.

The widow is more anxious to please than to be pleased, and a man can stand the most copious draughts of adulation.

The widow caters to his whims. She is too wise to argue with him. She knows that arguments are the crypts of friendship and the everlasting doom of love.

The widow does not object to tobacco; she knows that a man loves his cigar with a more slavish devotion than he could love any woman, whether it be sweetheart or wife. She has learned that a man can cast a woman out of his life with the same nonchalance that he throws aside the cigar that has outworn its charm.

The widow knows also what a man likes. It is never a trouble for her to arrange a dainty, tempting lunch when he is tired and prefers the seclusion of her den to the noise and confusion of the cafe.

The widow rarely jars a man, her one aim being to be agreeable. She realizes his shrinking horror of scenes, and avoids such topics as may mar the pleasures of an outing or an evening at home.

The well-bred widow is always gracious. She may or may not care to marry again, but, having grown accustomed to a husband's comradeship, she enjoys the society of other men. Her graciousness is charmingly apparent when greeting her friends.

The young girl fancies that indifference is a spur aggravating a man's fancy. The widow knows that a man's vanity is flattered by her gracious reception of him, and when either talking or listening she is animated and interested.

The girly-girly period of lackadaisical indifference she has outlived, and seeks to entertain.

The widow knows full well, no matter how Harveyized a man's defensive armor may be, it is never built proof against flattery. And flattery is a woman's weapon de resistance.

She does not take offense at the little pitfalls into which the best of men will sometimes tumble. She is not exacting as the young girl is prone to be. She realizes that her youth is gone; that she must make up in manner for the handicap, and she is ready at all times to overlook trifling lapses that her younger sister would think due her dignity to resent. Herein the widow plays a strong card.

And then, too, there is something very appealing in the widow's insignia of woe. It is marvelously becoming to every woman.

The weeds sometimes have a rejuvenating effect and it is noticeable that many women who are positively ugly and unattractive as wives experience a sort of magic transformation when the dear man joins the angels. The black garb accentuates a woman's best points, investing her with a pathetic look that appeals to a man's chivalry.

A LIVE TOPIC IN NEW YORK

TAMMANY HALL KEEPS POLITICS ALWAYS INTERESTING

GROWTH OF RAPID TRANSIT

The Horse Show Just Closed the Most Successful in History—Furnished the Usual Exhibition of the Swell Clothes and Manners of Society

(Special to The Telegram.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Politics is an ever-live topic in New York. Scarcely does one campaign pass before plans are instituted for the next are begun. This fact is emphasized by the preliminary maneuverings already under way for the great majority struggle of next year. As it appears a year ahead of the election, the situation is distinctly favorable to the return of Tammany to power. Despite the fact that the organization a year ago was defeated, demoralized, disgraced and left without a leader, it has again displayed marvelous powers of recuperation. No one can deny that Tammany has been rehabilitated in no small measure by the recent election. It has discovered a new leader in Charles F. Murphy who has a fine gift of silence and a level head. Success has confirmed him in his place of authority. The old organization, therefore, enters the new year with renewed strength and with the advantage of an unmistakable reaction against the reform administration of the city government.

There is no surer way to judge the rapid growth of New York than by the continual demand for rapid transit facilities. Even though the underground railroad will soon be finished and the city is assured of the Pennsylvania tunnel, there will be a demand for another system as soon as these are in operation. Indeed, this demand is already heard and will grow in intensity as soon as it is discovered that the subway and Pennsylvania tunnel will no more than meet the needs of the present and will not materially provide for the needs of the future. The city is, in fact, renewing itself every decade. Mayor Low has just called attention to the fact that water front lands filled in 25 years ago were now being dug out, because it was discovered that not more land, but more pier room was needed. The great office buildings of today become antique in ten or 15 years, and so the march of progress continues.

With a Democrat serving as attorney general, Governor Odell will probably be compelled to make use of the law which permits him to appoint a special legal adviser for himself. Governor Roosevelt had such an adviser, but Governor Odell decided that he could save the money by relying upon the attorney general. But he did not reckon on having a Democratic attorney general.

The Horse Show, which closed today, is the most successful that New York has had in its history. Added to the usual quota of distinguished American visitors there have been among the guests of the exhibition several of the noted foreigners who came to the United States to attend the dedication of the New York Chamber of Commerce last week as representatives of different European countries. Then several of the society leaders are entertaining titled folk from abroad, so it has remained that nearly as many patrons of the show outside of the "smart set," came to see society as well as the horses exhibited.

The municipal Civil Service commission is soon to hold one of its most important examinations—that for the appointment of police. At the last examination only 209 of the 1200 candidates passed the mental tests. Special precautions are being taken this year to prevent any leaks in the examination papers, as this has caused much trouble in previous years.

The new Orthodox Greek church which is being constructed is rapidly nearing completion. It will be an imposing edifice when finished from both an exterior and interior point of view. The church is to be dedicated with great ceremony on Dec. 23, when Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador at Washington and his entire staff will be present. One of the first weddings to be celebrated in the edifice will be that of Mlle. Des Planques, guest of the Countess Cassini, and soon to be presented to American society through her hostess and Mr. Alexander Pavlov of the Russian diplomatic service.

A familiar figure of recent years at the Metropolitan opera house during the season of Grand opera has been Alfred Duane Pell. This year, however, he will be missed for following the example of Anson Phelps Stokes, who deserted the ranks of society for the ministry two years ago. He will be ordained to preach next month. Mr. Pell is well known in club life in Manhattan and society will miss him greatly.

Next month the National Civic Federation's industrial department will hold an annual meet here. Nearly all the members of the executive committee, of which Senator Hanna is chairman, are expected to be present. The Federation has sent to 500 manufacturers a list of questions relating to the employment of labor, laws, wages, restrictions, organizations, etc., and the replies received to these will be a feature of the meeting. The problem of compulsory or voluntary arbitration will also be discussed.

However it may be accepted in other states, officers of the posts around New York are not enthusiastic over Adjutant General Corbin's suggestion that the practice of singing by the soldiers in the barracks might prove an effective offset to the pernicious influence of neighboring barrooms. Love of music and that sort of thing is all right, they argue, but when compared with the attractions of a night away from the barracks when a soldier could disport himself as he pleased, "well, that is a white horse of another color," as a gruff old officer puts it.

Since the public schools opened in September the medical inspectors have made 1,927,835 inspections, as the result of which 19,453 children were excluded from the school, most of them temporarily. Of these 11,396 had diseases of the head and 6967 contagious eye diseases. The latter have given the most trouble.

LAMPASAS GETS SUMMER SCHOOL

Y. M. C. A. COMMITTEE DECIDES TO LOCATE MEETING THERE.

TO MEET AGAIN MONDAY

Further Plans Will Be Discussed at a Meeting to Be Held in Temple Tomorrow—Favorable Resources of the Site Make Member's Choice Unanimous.

Fort Worth does not get the Y. M. C. A. summer school. As has been told in The Telegram a plan has been under consideration for the location of a summer school for Y. M. C. A. men and their families, similar to the Chattanooga meetings. The committee appointed to decide on the location of this summer school has been at work and has finally decided on Lampasas.

A committee composed of J. G. Reeves of Fort Worth, C. W. Gould of Temple, S. A. Kincaid of Houston, S. Warr of Cleburne, all-general secretaries in their respective cities of the Y. M. C. A., and State Secretary W. M. Lewis of Waco, was appointed at the recent meeting of the secretaries of Texas held in this city to locate a Y. M. C. A. summer school for Texas and the Southwest.

This committee has recently made an extended tour of Texas seeking the most available point for the school and summer camp. There were three things that the committee held to be essential for a successful summer camp, namely, water for boating, swimming, and fishing, shade and accessibility. Of all the points visited they found these essentials more nearly supplied at Lampasas, where they have decided to locate the school. The school and camp will be located in Hancock Park, in which are the famous Hancock Springs, one of the largest and best springs in Texas.

In the park are swimming pools and other baths supplied from the sulphur springs and a creek almost surrounding the park in which there may be found any quantity of fish and the dam about a mile below furnishes a beautiful body of water for boating. A large dining hall with a pavilion will be supplied by the citizens of Lampasas and tents will be used for dormitories. The commodious park, with its magnificent forest trees, its athletic grounds, together with the conveniences already mentioned make it not only an ideal location for the school but a choice place for a summer outing and camp. It is just a little west of the center of the association's activity of the state. Besides the attractions already mentioned the white sulphur springs are just about a mile away with their wonderful healing powers. Lampasas now has two railroads and can be easily reached from any part of the state.

The committee will meet again Monday in Temple to arrange the general plans for the school. The purpose is to establish not only for Texas but for the Southwest a school for the training of association men similar to the ones at Lake Geneva, Wis., and Asheville, Va. The session for the first year will last ten days, and in the future be prolonged to one or two months, as the needs may require. The work will be to train men for the positions in the associations such as secretaries, assistants, physical directors and for volunteer work in both city and college associations. Together with this will be the outing feature and will furnish a summer resort and camp for association men with their families.

Jumped on a Ten Penny Nail.
The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Forkland, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by N. E. Grammer, druggist.

Those Murders In El Tiempo

IT WAS "Brace" Kenney's "turn," and as he was an old detective, spoke well and had been all over the frontier, we looked for a good yarn. Here is his story:

I was a new one in San Antonio, "dubbing it" under O'Callahan, and very anxious for a show, because I was a young man then. The town's record up to that time had led me to think it was a good place for a game, smart detective to make a reputation. Well, one day the old man called me up and asked me how I'd like to spend a few weeks in Zavalla county, adding that five murders had been committed in as many weeks and that the authorities had offered a reward of $500 and would pay my salary and expenses while I was at work on the case.

This suited my book to a nicety, and I started for El Tiempo, the town in which the murders had been done. It sits upon a high bank of the little Leona river, about 40 miles above the junction of that stream with Rio Frio, and, at that early period was enjoying a passing boom on account of some new gold diggings in the vicinity. It's a pretty hard matter to keep secret your identity or business in a small town like that, and I hadn't been there a day when I was pestered almost to distraction by the theories, hints and "clews" of friendly citizens. By putting all the evidence together I was able to satisfy myself of the following facts: Each of the five bodies had been thrown into the river at the same point, a shelf of rock high above the deep and rocky chasm of the river bed; the first two had been thus disposed of while the river was dry, and so their bodies remained, mangled but recognizable, in the sand at the base of this precipice. Two of the other bodies had been found lodged against rocks or willows lower down, having been carried along by the current. One, the latest victim, had been discovered clinging with a death-grip, to a projecting cactus, the feet dangling in the water, but the head and trunk well out of the stream.

All of the victims had been strangers in town, the bodies had all been stripped of their valuables, and the night evidence at hand convinced me, of course, that each had been murdered for money. The contradictory evidences were considerable. For instance, I couldn't understand why the robber and murderer, he ever so daring, should persist in disposing of the bodies always at the same place and in the same manner. To be sure, there were no houses in sight, the spot was remote from any traveled road and the town was about three miles distant. The town marshal and the sheriff, both of whom I was sure had expended their best efforts, told me that in two out of five cases, in which the corpses had been promptly found, traces of hoofprints, seemingly of two or more horses, were plain in the hard sand about the place. They had followed these traces pretty easily back to town, but there had been no sign of them in the trampled streets. There had been no sign of wagon or buggy wheels, and the inference was plain that the horses employed had been ridden and not driven.

I worked quite a while about the town, hoping for some tangible theory upon which to exert my ingenuity, but was at last driven hopelessly back upon the horseback clew. Assuming that the first thing to do was to find the horses, I naturally devoted my first attention to the only livery stable in town. The sign over the door was "Dailey & Bragg," but I soon found out that Bragg was the sole owner, and that Dailey had drowned himself in the river about two months before my arrival. The surviving owner of the barn was a promising subject for my inquiries, because, being an unsociable and somewhat morose fellow, he had not heard of my arrival, and was indisposed to ask embarrassing questions as well as grouchily about imparting information. I told him that I was an invalid from the states, and that I wanted to ride horseback every day while I was in El Tiempo. Having made arrangements with him, I cautioned all those who knew me to refrain from noticing me or discussing my mission, and set to work with little hope of any useful results.

I had an idea that the horse which had already visited that lonesome rock of death would, if ridden into the neighborhood and permitted to go where he liked, revisit the familiar destination of previous journeys. To this end I galloped about every day, ending my trips near the cliff and changing horses as often as Bragg's forbidding temper would permit. By lounging about the barn I began to know most of the horses, and one day a chance question directed at the half-witted negro hostler disclosed the identity of the proprietor's favorite saddle horse. That quickly suggested an inquiry as to which horse Dailey had used, and the answer was as easily given. But it was in vain I tried to engage either of the likely looking animals. Bragg insisted that he wouldn't hire "Jason" to his own brother, and as for "Top-Gallant," Dailey's horse, I was convincingly informed that nobody could ride that animal "in day time" except its late master. In other words, Top-Gallant, quite manfully and gently after dark, was "an outlaw," a bucking, plunging, runaway broncho during the day.

To make a long story short, then, I fired out every animal in that barn with no results until I was down to Jason and Top-Gallant. None of the others showed any desire to visit Death Rock, and I clung to my theory now only because no other presented itself and because I still hoped to get a mount upon the forbidden pair. At last, however, Bragg, with a banker who was to advance the money, went down to the Neeces valley in a double-team buckboard to buy some stock. I bribed the negro hostler to let me have Jason, swore secrecy, promised to ride out the alley and keep away from town, and finally got away toward the object of my daily rides. But this time the experiment worked. Jason no sooner felt the slack rein than he pricked up his ears and trotted quite to the verge of the bloody shelf above the river. This seemed like something significant and, yet I

FATHER BOUILLON AND THE CATHEDRAL OF ST. PETER'S IN ROME.

First Authentic Authorized Reproduction of Official Plate
An American Cathedral, to be the most magnificent in the world, surpassing even St. Peter's at Rome and costing $25,000,000, is the plan of Canon Bouillon of Ottawa who is in New York to promulgate the movement, after spending eight years of thought and labor upon it. The proposed magnificent cathedral, the building of which is to take twenty years, will stand in Fifth Avenue, New York. Italian artists will be employed in the work. The designs have already been filed with the Architectural league and are reproduced above for the first time. The Dominican church is behind Canon Bouillon in the noble undertaking. A campaign to raise subscriptions will shortly be promulgated.

could hardly convince myself that there was any sensible way to apply it.

When I got up the next morning suddenly it dawned upon me that the solution of the mystery, if there was one, lay in riding Top-Gallant to the same place. I resolved to test Bragg's sincerity by neglecting to ride that day and demanding the forbidden animal for a moonlight gallop. He looked interestedly at me that evening when I told him what I wanted, said that I'd better wait till it was "real dark," and finally consented to give me "Top-Gallant." He watched me mount, too, but I had no time for him because the restive beast under me took the bit in his teeth and tore away into the night like a scared ghost. At first I was strong enough to guide him, but at last my muscles wearied and I saw with horror that he was making with desperate determination for the lonely point of rocks above the Leona. Diving my peril without realizing its relation to the "murders" I was investigating, I got my feet from the stirrups and jumped to the ground just as he charged toward the precipice. I rolled headlong over the rocks, cacti and sand, but when I scrambled to my feet and wiped the dust from my eyes the frantic horse was trotting away. I caught him by the bridle, afraid to mount, and as I led him back into the town, met Bragg riding Jason. He looked positively frightened the minute he saw me, but when he came up I arrested him. That night I searched his safe and found the watches, papers and trinkets that had been taken from five of the murdered men. But the oldest "find" was Dailey's jewelry and diamonds, which had been missing up to that time without exciting any graver suspicion than that his corpse had been robbed after he had drowned himself.

That's about all, Bragg was acquitted of murder, but got ten years for robbery. We never did ferret out the horse's share in the crime, but I suspect that Dailey's death may have happened accidentally while riding with his partner. The latter had robbed the body. His success in avoiding suspicion may have suggested using the horse for other victims. I always felt sure that Bragg "figured" on getting me, too. Of course the "game" horse at night" notion had a purpose, darkness being the best time for murderers and ghosts. Oh, yes, there was one "other incident." We tried to drive that villainous horse Top-Gallant over the cliff, but he wouldn't go. We had to shoot him—John H. Rafferty, in the Chicago Record-Herald.

A POLICEMAN'S TESTIMONY.
J. N. Patterson, night policeman of Nashua, Ia., writes, "Last winter I had a bad cold on my lungs and tried at least a half dozen advertised cough medicines and had treatment from two physicians without getting any benefit. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar, and two-thirds of a bottle cured me. I consider it the greatest cough and lung medicine in the world." Storyettes

New York Times: The late emperor of Germany once sent to an aide de camp, Colonel Malachowsky, who was brave but poor, a small portfolio, bound like a book, in which were deposited 500 crowns. Some time afterward he met the officer and said to him:

"All, well, how did you like the new work which I sent to you?"
"Excessively, sire," replied the colonel. "I read it with such interest that I expect the second volume with impatience."

The king smiled, and, when the officer's birthday arrived, he presented him with another portfolio, similar in every respect to the first, but with these words engraved upon it:
"This book is complete in two volumes."

When Governor Odell comes to town and finds himself with an hour to spare he delights to gather a few of his personal friends among the political reporters of the Amen Corner about him in a quiet corner of the Fifth Avenue Hotel cafe and chat with them over a drink.

On a recent occasion of this kind the governor and his old chum, Captain Joe Dickey, both of whom had a banknote in hand, were disputing in a bantering way as to which of them should pay for the drinks that were on the way. Just then the waiter approached with the glass-and-liquor-laden tray. Right back of Governor Odell's chair he tripped, the tray slipped from his hands, and the governor was simply drenched with a shower of high balls, horses' necks, beer, etc.
"Joe," said the Governor, on the instant, "that round of drinks is on me."
Even Captain Joe did not dare to dispute that assertion, but grabbed a napkin and joined others in swabbing off the Governor's raiment.—New York Times.

New York Times: George H. Daniels, general passenger agent of the New York Central railroad, relates the story of an American who told an Englishman, in an attempt to be facetious, that he dreamed he was dead, but the heat woke him up.
The Englishman replied:
"You must have very hot weather in America."

There Is Law Now West of the Pecos

So long have conditions of outlawry existed in certain parts of the west, that it has passed into a proverb that "there is no law west of the Pecos"—a river in Texas which marks the boundary line between "God's country" and that of the "Greasers." But things are changed in that region now, and there is a law west of the Pecos, and Justice Roy Bean is that law.

"I was coming through the Pecos country," said Tom Springer, a member of the Yankey Comedy Four at the Orpheum last week, "not very long ago and our train was detained awhile through an accident, at Langtry, Tex. This station consists of the railroad waiting room and Justice Roy Bean and his appurtenances, and the latter part of it is what entitles it to fame, for Justice Roy Bean is all the law there is west of the Pecos."

"This queer old chap has set up a place which is unique in the annals of queer places in the west. He is an old codger who has no more idea of law than I have. He owns a house and barn, and by means of these, he makes a varied living. In the barn he has set up a dance hall and theater; in the house he has a beer saloon, a billiard hall, a justice shop and in a stockade attached a jail. The only inhabitant of the last named of record is a hoot owl, but that doesn't apply."

"How Roy Bean became justice, no one knows. It was either by pre-emption or inheritance, but it happened so long ago—measured by the historical records of that district—that no one even cares to investigate. He is justice de facto if not de jure, and he administers justice in his own unique way, and thus maintains the dignity of the only law west of the Pecos."

"Some of the decisions of Justice Roy Bean will rank with any in the world, even Solomon's for practicality. The town of Langtry has about fifty souls, including whites and negroes and not counting Greasers, who are popularly supposed to be soulless. That this is the case is illustrated by one of his decisions. A Greaser fell off a bridge one day and was killed. His worldly possessions consisted of $100 and a gun. The justice confiscated the gun, when the inquest was held, as unlawful property. He then fined the dead one $100 for carrying concealed weapons, and the court took an inventory of the remaining estate, which consisted of a bad smell—for he had been a long time dead. Whereupon the body was buried without further ceremony."

"At one time a white man killed a Chinaman down there. The justice acquitted him, as the law did not mention Chinamen, but only ordinary humanity."

"Another instance of Roy Bean's justice happened when two Mexicans brought in two women, and wanted to be married. The justice performed the rite ceremony, and then they departed, after paying the fees. In a couple of days the four returned. They were dissatisfied.

"What's the matter?" asked the justice. They explained that each coveted the wife of the other; they had been mixed in marrying.
"How much money you got?" asked the justice. He counted out their total wealth, and ascertained that it would cover divorce fees for both and marriage fees for one. Thereupon he dissolved the former marriages. Then he married one man to the former wife of the other, and turned them adrift. The second pair he sent away unmarried till they could raise the wedding fee!

"These are only instances of law west of the Pecos. Langtry is not much of a town to visit in, but some day old Roy Bean will be discovered and the chap who does so will make one of the richest finds imaginable, for the stories told of him and his law are interminable."—Kansas City Journal.

WILLING TO PAY EXPENSES The Difficulty Encountered by Griggs in Getting Speakers

Washington Post: The greatest difficulty encountered by Representative Griggs and his democratic congressional committee during the campaign has been a lack of speakers. Only a very few have been available, and, there being also a lack of money, these few have had to pay their own expenses. Chairman Griggs has distributed the speaking material at hand as best he could, sending no one at all to districts surely one way or the other, and even then close districts have had to suffer, many of them appealing time after time for any kind of speaker, only to be refused. Judge, then, of the consternation at headquarters yesterday, when this telegram was received from the chairman of an Iowa district, which has never been anything but republican by thousands, and never will be anything but republican by thousands:

"Send us two speakers at once for the last week. Nobody but Bourke Cochran, Carl Schurz or Cleveland. We will pay board and furnish teams."

Limit to the Supply

Philadelphia Times: The late Frank Thomson, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, was called upon in his official capacity on one occasion by the friends of a conductor who had been dismissed from the service because of intoxication while on duty. Mr. Thomson received the delegation of pleaders very courteously, listened to all that could be said on behalf of the luckless employe, and then, while expressing his sorrow, said he could not see his way clear to interfering. It was urged that the conductor had always theretofore borne a reputation for sobriety.

"Necessarily," replied Mr. Thomson. "Else he never could have become a conductor on this road."

"But," one of the pleaders went on, "he never drank a drop until last winter."

"And why, then?" asked the president.

"You see," it was explained, "he lost his wife in the fall."

"Well," quietly questioned the disciplinary man, "why didn't he get another wife?"

The Romance of Emile Zola's Son

That Zola lived a double life many in France suspected. By the publication of the great novelist's will it has transpired that Zola, whose wife never had a child, had made ample provision for a son. This boy, with other children, was the son of a Madame Rosereau, whose relations with her husband Mme. Zola had for years concealed. Jacques was always a pet of his father's wife and the legacy pleases her.

WILL TELLER GET BACK?

Senator Teller, of Colorado, who bolted the Republican party on the free silver question and has since been regarded with disfavor as the lost sheep of the Republican fold in the senate, may find himself the object of strong opposition in the Colorado legislature when he looks for re-election. It is matter for speculation how strong or weak he may show himself in the fight.

Two Tricks In Magic.

WATER BEWITCHED.

A surprising feat may be accomplished in the following manner. Take an ordinary dinner plate and fill it with water; then get a small empty pail and assure the company that you are wizard enough to pour water through the solid bottom. Having declared that the pail must be perfect, dry when the experiment is performed, thrust a stick into it and hold it to the fire till it is very hot to hold when you stand it without delay, mouth downward, in the plate of water.

Fix three pins in a piece of wood three inches long, and lay the coin upon them; they place a heap of sulphur between the pins; place another heap above it and set fire to them. When the flame is extinct you will find on the upper part of the coin a thin plate of metal, which has been detached from it.

"POLLY" OF THE SCRUB: A FOOTBALL STORY.

BY JOHN W. HARRINGTON.

His name was Paul. "That is just the right name for our son," said his father, "for it is so short and the boys will give him so many names which he goes to school."

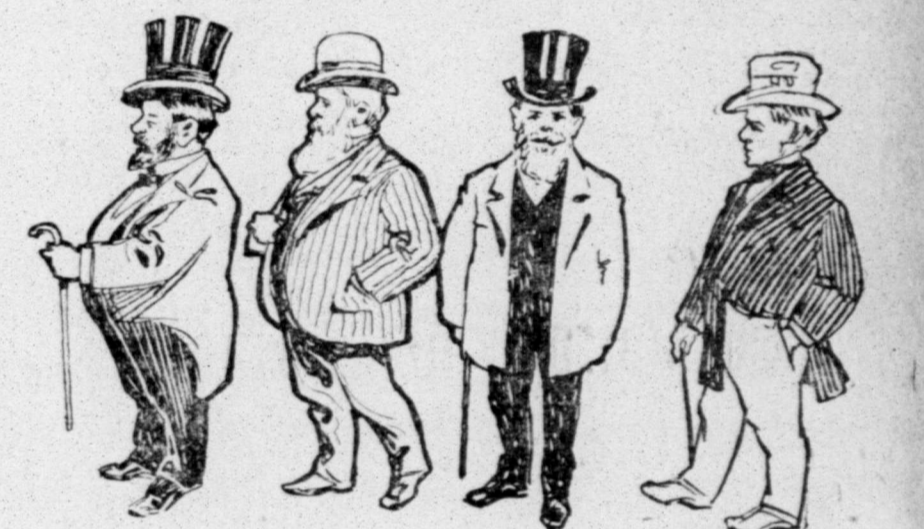

You know that nobody was ever able to catch me at tag, so I have hopes of learning something about this game. "Polly of the Scrub," whenever he was not studying, went out to practice football. Although he was not heavy enough for a center rush, he was quick on his feet and could dodge and run like a deer.

"Excuse me, madam," said the captain, "that is a nickname. If you don't mind, we should like to have your son at the side lines. Two of our players are in bad shape."

SHOULD LANHAM RESIGN CONGRESS

Lee Riddle's Friends Think it Would be the Proper Thing for Congressman Lanham to Do Just at This Time

When Congressman Sam Lanham was here Thursday last he said to a Telegram representative that he would not resign his seat in congress, but intended going there next week and remain for the full six weeks allowed him prior to the inauguration for governor of Texas. He said there had been some discussion over the proposition, but that his constituents desired that he put in all the time possible in congress and look after pending legislation of vital importance to Texas and especially to his district.

A gentleman here yesterday from Stephenville declared that in some parts of the old Eighth district the question of Colonel Lanham resigning was seriously discussing the advisability of it. "They think," said he, "that Governor Sayers should call a special election to elect a congressman to fill out Mr. Lanham's term, which does not expire till March 4, 1903, but which will be vacant after the second Tuesday in next January, when he will be inaugurated governor."

"We do not know Mr. Lanham's intentions in the matter, but it would certainly be the proper thing for him to do—and he has the habit of doing the proper and just thing. Should he not do it this district will have no representative in congress from January till March, because it would hardly be worth while to have an election after Lanham goes in as governor, which could not be held before the latter part of January, the time to run then being but a little more than a month."

"Should Mr. Lanham decide to resign and allow a new election to be ordered, it would be only the proper thing for Lee Riddle to be nominated, without opposition and elected by unanimous consent. Lee ran second throughout the most wonderful congressional convention ever held in the United States. Gillespie was nominated at the end of the struggle by Riddle withdrawing. That was the only thing that made a nomination possible, and Riddle deserves a unanimous election to fill the vacancy should one occur."

"We do not know whether he would accept it for so short a time, but no more fit action could be taken by the district, and we believe it would be generally agreed to."

AS OTHERS SEE THE QUESTION

PAVING STREETS OF ST. LOUIS CONSIDERED BY MUNICIPAL BODY

ASPHALT IS TO BE USED

Will Replace Granite Blocks on One Important Street and Will be Used Almost Entirely in the Residence Portion. Unpleasant Results of Level Pavement

That the question of paving Houston street is not yet fully settled, would seem apparent from the strenuous attempts made by some of those interested in the matter to convey that impression by means of palpably plain advertisements worded so as to appear to be news items. So far, as far as can be learned, no newspaper readers have yet made the mistake sought after, and in the minds of those who have expressed themselves in favor of asphalt paving there has not yet crept a shadow of doubt that they have decided for the best interests of their own property and of the city.

The following item regarding street improvements in St. Louis, appeared in the St. Louis Republic last Thursday. The item is not an advertisement, as can be noted from the fact that part of the streets provided for are to be resurfaced with granite and some are to be paved with creosote wood. But the decision of the house of delegates to pave one street from Fourth to Nineteenth with rock asphalt is the most important in the entire nineteen and is apparently so regarded by the Republic as it is given the most prominence. Fourth street in St. Louis is so far down town that the heaviest traffic of the city will pass over it. Yet the house of delegates seems to regard rock asphalt as better than granite blocks for withstanding the wear.

Here is The Item

"The nineteen street improvement bills reported favorably by the house of delegates committee of the whole Tuesday night include the extension of Pine boulevard from Nineteenth street east to Fourth street.

The proposed ordinance provides for the reconstruction of Pine street from Fourth to Nineteenth, except so much thereof as the railway company having tracks on the street is by law obligated to reconstruct, by taking up the old granite paving, relaying a portion of it on the flat side and placing on top a wearing surface of natural rock asphalt. The granite foundation will be compacted with a steam roller and all defective portions will be replaced with new limestone curbing.

"The contractor undertaking the job must guarantee and keep in repair all the work for a term of nine years, and must also make all proper connections with other street and alleys intersecting Pine street between Fourth and Nineteenth."

"The cost of the work shall be assessed upon all property on either side of Pine street between Fourth and Nineteenth."

"All other downtown streets included in the nineteen bills are to be resurfaced with a fine quality of granite.

"The West End thoroughfares are to be paved with asphalt. Washington boulevard between King's highway and Union boulevard is to be graded and surfaced with the best quality of refined asphalt on a concrete base. The curbing is to be of granite.

"It is the intention of the board of public improvements to have all the fashionable West End streets paved with the same material, but property holders in some neighborhoods prefer creosote wood paving to asphalt or macadam, and it is possible that in these instances wood paving will be used."

Another Matter

During the past week another matter has brought itself to common sight, namely that of brick pavement laid so nearly level that a continued period of wet weather causes it to be covered with a pasty, slippery mud. Even Houston street has high and dry spots in its surface, from and to which an ordinary athletic jumper can progress, and thus cross the street. But not the most agile could walk across Main street last week, without getting shoes covered with a pasty, slimy mud.

If the street had been paved higher the gutters, this might have been partly avoided, but as it is, only energetic street-cleaning force with a fire hose and a strong pressure of water can clean the street off. It was plainly evident late last Saturday night that either the street was paved too nearly level or else the sidewalks on either side, are too low, or else there are not enough manholes, for the torrents of water that flooded Main street and the curbsings on either side, made a river that was at times impossible to go through. These difficulties are possibly apt to occur with any sort of pavement and—so, are worthy of consideration when it comes to paving Houston street—if it ever comes to that.

HE COULD HARDLY GET UP.
