BARON WAS SURPRISED

DEVELOPMENT OF THIS COUNTRY OPENED HIS EYES

ESPECIALLY IN THE WEST

Max Von Oppenheim, German Imperial Counselor, Goes Back Home Praising the Wonderful Resources of America and the Genius That Has Developed Them—Thinks Apex Is Not Yet Reached

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Baron Max Von Oppenheim, Imperial German counselor, diplomat, author and explorer, will sail for Germany today after a month in this country of six months. During this time he has gained, he says, "a knowledge such as could be acquired in no other way than by a long study of the country."

"The remarkable development and the vastness of the country," said he, "surpassed anything I expected. The western country which the railroads have developed in recent years is a marvel. I never thought to see such universal growth and such business activity that existed here. I have been astonished at the versatility of the American business man and mechanic, and I especially think that the American business man has a singular adaptability for anything that turns up, so that for the moment each one is a specialist in his line. Everything here is on a grand scale. You cannot appreciate your own vastness unless you have the perspective of the foreigner."

I have visited all branches of industry while here and I do not think the apex of your development has been reached. There seems to be an immense strength to your men and nation, a virility that is incomparable. I can easily understand now what is meant by the 'strenuous life.' There seems to be no limit to your enterprise and invention, and I can say, as one who has seen the civilizations of Europe, Africa and Asia, that my knowledge was incomplete until I finished a study of America."

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Have You Uric Acid, Rheumatism or Bladder Trouble?

To Prove What SWAMP-ROOT, the Great Kidney and Bladder Remedy, will Do for YOU, all our Readers May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Free by Mail.

Pain or dull ache in the back is unmistakable evidence of kidney trouble. It is Nature's timely warning to show you that the track of health is not clear.

If these danger signals are unheeded, more serious results are sure to follow: Bright's disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble, may steal upon you.

The mild and the extraordinary effect of the world-famous kidney and bladder remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. A trial will convince anyone—and you may have a sample bottle free, by mail.

Backache, Uric Acid and Urinary Trouble

Among the many famous cures of Swamp-Root investigated by The Telegram, the one we publish today for the benefit of our readers, speaks in the highest terms of the wonderful curative properties of this great kidney remedy.

Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—When I wrote you last March for a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, my wife was a great sufferer from backache, rheumatism and urinary trouble, also excess of uric acid. After trying the sample bottle, she bought a large bottle here at the drug store. That did her so much good she bought more. The effect of Swamp-Root was wonderful and almost immediate. She has felt no return of the old trouble since. F. THOMAS, Oct., 1901. 427 Best St., Buffalo. Lame back is only one symptom of kidney trouble—one of many. Other symptoms showing that you need Swamp-Root are, obliged to pass water often during the day and to get up many times at night, inability to hold your urine, smarting or irritation in passing, prickly or sediment in the urine, catarrh of the bladder, uric acid, constant headache, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, irregular heart-beating, rheumatism, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion.

If your water when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settles, or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science.

Swamp-Root is the great discovery of Dr. Kilmer the eminent kidney and bladder specialist. Hospitals use it with wonderful success in both slight and severe cases. Doctors recommend it to their patients and use it in their own families, because they recognize in Swamp-Root the greatest and most successful remedy.

If you have the slightest symptoms of kidney or bladder trouble or if there is a trace of it in your family history, send at once to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., who will gladly send you free by mail, immediately, without cost to you, a sample bottle of Swamp-Root and a book of wonderful Swamp-Root testimonials. Be sure to say that you read this generous offer in the Fort Worth Daily Telegram.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

ARMOUR DONATES $3,000,000 FOR LORENZ FREE HOSPITAL

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 2.—As a monument of gratitude to his daughter, heir to fabulous wealth, who has been reclaimed from a life of utter helplessness and given one of activity and endowment, J. Ogden Armour, millionaire, now turned philanthropist, like his father, has begun plans for the Lolita Armour institute of bloodless surgery, which is to be endowed with $3,000,000.

The first active step in this direction was taken at Mr. Armour's home while the painter, his wife and daughter, were entertaining Prof. Adolf Lorenz and Dr. Friedrich Mueller, both of the University of Vienna.

"Come, dear, see how well you walk," said Dr. Lorenz to the Armour heiress, who but a few weeks ago he found suffering, as she had been since birth, from congenital hip dislocation.

With a smile the child walked across the floor to him, making a playful grimace and a cakewalk step for the edification of her anxious nurse.

"Good! You're as well as any child," said the noted surgeon, and he and Dr. Mueller shook hands.

Mr. Armour's Proposition "I intend to establish a hospital or institute for your school of surgery," said Mr. Armour. "You must be at the head of it. It makes no difference what the cost may be. My daughter has practically been given back to me, and I and my wife are grateful. The first time since Lolita was born we are happy. Other parents are joyless because their children are afflicted with the same trouble. They cannot afford to employ you and you cannot afford to come from Vienna every time someone needs you. Stay here. Make Chicago your home and you will not regret it."

"Shall I?" asked Dr. Mueller of his famous chief and patron.

"I must envy you the opportunity." Then two men—one an American, another of the Teutonic race, both known far and wide—sealed the pact in a grasp of hands, and the bloodless treatment hospital became all but a fact.

Then came the subject of establishing the institution, the site, cost, endowment and all that will be necessary to maintain it.

Institute Absolutely Free. First of all, it was announced by the donor that the institution shall be absolutely free to whomsoever may need treatment.

There is not to be a knife in the place.

This was settled by Dr. Lorenz on behalf of his assistant, Dr. Lorenz said the night he accepted the degree of doctor of laws from Northwestern university that the doom of the knife was sealed, that it should not be used. So is it to be with the new Armour institute.

Mr. Armour said he had selected the site and that the only thing remaining to be done is the construction of the building and the equipment. It was decided that the hospital will need an endowment of nearly $3,000,000 to insure an income of $100,000 a year.

Dr. Mueller resembles his teacher. They were graduated at the same school, the University of Vienna. For six years Dr. Mueller has been Dr. Lorenz' assistant and a warm friendship exists between the two.

MET BY A BRASS BAND

Young Married Couple Get the Proper Reception at Bowie

(Special to The Telegram.)

Bowie, Tex., Dec. 2, 1902.

Mall-Telegram — Miss Kate McDaniel, daughter of one of our hardware merchants and Mr. Elmer Elder, a prominent young man of this city, gave their many friends quite a surprise last Thursday by quietly driving over to Montague and taking the vows which made them man and wife. They then took the train at Stoneburg for a flying visit to the territory and on their return here were met at the Rock Island depot by the brass band of which Mr. Elder is a member. Their many friends are wishing them much prosperity.

County court will convene in Montague next Monday. The commissioners have provided for meetings of the court the next year instead of three as formerly.

Prof. G. H. Carpenter, superintendent of Bowie Public Schools, is attending the meeting of the North Texas Teachers' Institute at Denton, this week.

Plans are being completed looking to the erection of a flour mill and grain elevator in Bowie in time to handle the next crop. More wheat has been sown this year than ever before in the history of this section and prospects are very promising for a record breaking yield, in which case the enterprise will no doubt prove a paying venture.

There has been enough rain in the last month to put a thorough season in the ground, practically insuring crops of all kinds next year. More than twice as much rain has fallen than fell in November, 1899.

Thanksgiving passed off quietly here union services being held at the Baptist church.

Thursday Club Meeting

The Thursday Club held its regular meeting Thursday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. T. C. Phillips. After the roll call, each one responded with a quotation from the lesson, and the minutes of the previous meeting were read.

A committee composed of Mesdames J. L. Rudy, Will V. Bailey, and Geo. J. Carpenter was appointed to submit plans for the reception on New Year's Day. The review of "The Conqueror" was postponed until the next meeting.

As there was no meeting November 20, owing to the inclemency of the weather, the club took up the program for that day, which consisted of Act II, scene 2, of Shakespeare's Coriolanus, led by Miss Mattie Norman. Many interesting discussions were brought out. At the close of the lesson Mrs. Carpenter made a resume of the day's program, followed by character studies.

The club was then favored with an excellent address by Mrs. Chas. W. Wilson, of Wichita Falls, on the subject of library work.

Following this the president, Mrs. T. C. Phillips, announced that formalities would cease, and the members forthwith began the enjoyment of social conversation. In the midst of this the movements of the hostess began to arouse suspicion, and, shortly a delightful luncheon, consisting of three courses, salads, desserts, and coffee, was served. This only augmented the conversation, giving it a happier and merrier turn. It must have been at or near this time that the master of the house happened in. Suffice it to say he had a hasty exit.

The club had as guests, Mrs. Chas. Wilson, and the officers of the "Sinfonia Club" consisting of the following young ladies, Misses Inez Rudy, Alma Sigmon, Fannie Trenchard and Nettie Moore.

The next meeting will be held at the residence of Mrs. J. L. Rudy.

KISSES THAT MAY PROVE TO BE COSTLY

Miss Jennie Keller Alleges That Widower Broke Three of Her Ribs and Wants $5,000 Damages

READING, Pa., Dec. 2.—An alleged attempt to kiss a girl at Frush Valley, this county, last June resulted in the trial of a suit for $5,000 damages for internal injuries in Judge Ermentrout's court today. Miss Jennie Keller, 19 years old, is the plaintiff and Henry Borrell, one of the Alsace supervisors, a widower of 60 years, is the defendant. They are neighbors.

Miss Keller testified at the trial as follows:

"On the evening of June 12 I was at a friend's home, when Mr. Borrell caught hold of me, demanding that I should give him a kiss. I became frightened and tried to run away. I fell from the porch on the top of a paling fence and from there to the ground unconscious. I was unconscious for more than a day. I had spasms and became unconscious again and again, and was confined to bed for three months. In two weeks I had a relapse, but the most pain was internal. Three ribs were loose and there was a lump on my body the size of a pint measure."

PRESIDENT HAS ANNIVERSARY

Today Marks the Sixteenth Year of His Marriage

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Today was the sixteenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt, but only a very few of the many callers at the White House recalled the fact and offered congratulations. In the president's family there was no special observance of the anniversary, unless a dinner at which several close friends will be present this evening may be regarded as such.

Coughs, Colds and Constipation

Few people realize when taking cough medicines other than Foley's Honey and Tar, that they contain opiates which are constipating besides being unsafe, particularly for children. Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates, is safe and sure and will not constipate. Sold by Reeves' Pharmacy, Ward Pharmacy and Arlington Drug Co.

Don't be imposed upon by taking substitutes offered for Foley's Honey and Tar. Sold by Reeves' Pharmacy, Ward Pharmacy and Arlington Drug Co.

It invariably yields the lightest, whitest, most wholesome bread and rolls and makes the best cakes and pastry.

ANCHOR ROLLER MILLS,

M. P. BEWLEY.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

We will continue in a period of unbounded prosperity. This prosperity is not the creature of law, but undoubtedly the laws under which we work have been instrumental in creating the conditions which made it possible, and the legislation it would be easy enough to destroy it. There will undoubtedly be periods of depression. The wave will recede, but the sea will advance. The nation is seated on a continent flanked by two great oceans. It is composed of men the descendants of pioneers or, in a sense, pioneers themselves. Men who have won out among the nations of the world by the energy, boldness and love of adventure found in their own eager hearts. Such a nation so placed will surely wrest success from failure.

As a people we have played a large part in our future, and we are bent upon making our future even larger than the past. In particular the events of the last four years have definitely decided that for us or for our place must be great among the nations of the world, or we shall be nothing.

We should try, all that would follow that we should play a large part in our future, and we are bent upon making our future even larger than the past.

But our people, the sons of the men of the civil war, the sons of the men who were the backbone of the nation, are not the sons of the men of the past. They are the sons of the men of the present and face the future with heart and resolve of will. Ours is not the creed of the men of the past. It is the creed of the men of the present. It is the creed of the men of the future. It is the creed of the men of the world. It is the creed of the men of the universe. It is the creed of the men of the earth. It is the creed of the men of the sky. It is the creed of the men of the sea. It is the creed of the men of the land. It is the creed of the men of the air. It is the creed of the men of the earth, the sky, the sea, the land, the air, the earth, the sky, the sea, the land, the air.

Practices which injuriously affect interstate trade and commerce.

Under the power of the congress to regulate interstate trade and commerce, and among other things to regulate the instrumentalities thereof and those engaged therein, I earnestly recommend this act to the consideration of the congress with a view to the passage of a law reasonable in its provisions and effective in its operation, which the questions can be finally settled by the congress, and which will be a law, then assuredly we should not shrink from amending the constitution so as to give the congress the power sought.

The congress has not heretofore made any provision for the better enforcement of the antitrust law. It is now the duty of the congress to make such provision as may be necessary for the enforcement of this law, but much more could be done if congress would make a law which would be a law, then assuredly we should not shrink from amending the constitution so as to give the congress the power sought.

How to secure fair treatment alike for labor and for capital, how to hold in check the unscrupulous man who employs or employee, without weakening individual initiative, without hampering and crippling the progress of the country, is a problem fraught with great difficulties and one which is of the highest importance to solve on lines of sanity and far-sighted common sense, as well as of devotion to the right. This is an era of federation and combination. Exactly as business men find they must often work through corporations, and as it is a constant fact that the interests of laboring men to work in federations, and these federations are the factors of modern industrial life. Both kinds of federation, capitalistic and labor, can do much good, but they are also a corollary they can both do evil. Opposition to each kind of organization should be made in the name of the public interest, and not in the name of the individual. In the conduct of any given corporation, or in the conduct of any given labor union, no attack upon cooperation, or such as may be necessary, should be made. People have been accomplished through both corporations and unions. Each must refrain from arbitrary or unjust demands, and each must be brought into harmony with the interests of the general public, and the fundamental rules of obedience to the law, of individual freedom and of justice and fair dealing. Have the slightest fear of aggression from the United States. It behooves each one to maintain order within his own borders and to discharge its just obligations to foreigners. When this is done, they can rest assured that they are strong, and they have nothing to dread from outside interference. More and more the increasing complexity and complexity of international political and economic relations render it incumbent on all civilized nations to insist on the proper policing of the world.

AN OUTSTRETCHED HAND

The visiting delegates to the sixth annual convention of the Texas division of the Daughters of the Confederacy are welcome to the best that Fort Worth has. Whether that be much or little, it is not for us to say. We can only offer what we have, and assure every delegate of our kindest sentiments and most distinguished consideration.

The order of the Daughters stands for something. It stands for the perpetuation of the memory of those brave hearts that strived for the Cause and lost. But it stands for more than this. It typifies love, faithfulness, justice and honor. Things greater than these do not exist.

STRENUOUS TALK

More strenuous talk from Roosevelt. He says that there may be bloodshed in Nebraska over the question of the range fences, but that he is going to have them torn down if he has to send a force of cavalry to do it.

Here is a good opportunity for the president to distinguish himself for the next presidential campaign. He could get together his Rough Riders again and proceed against the fences in person. The expedition might savor slightly of that Don Quixote against the windmills, but what was undoubted, by as picturesque as anything Teddy could desire.

DOWN FROM THEIR PERCH

A couple of the best known and most successful newspapers in Texas have recently announced a reduction of their subscription prices. Heretofore they have been costing $10 and $12 a year respectively. The reduction proposed was a slight, but it indicates that the papers in question are taking a tumble to the prevailing tendency in Texas as to newspapers. The people are no longer willing to

FOR SOUTHLAND LOVED.

Following are words of a southern patriotic song which has been dedicated to the veterans of the southern cause, veterans who at bugle call were roused to follow the call of duty and struggle for southern rights on many battlefields. They are simple, but, like Robert Burns', heartfelt.

Air—"Auld Lang Syne." Should all that's cherished by the heart, Be evermore forgot? And in the future shall we part, From all so dearly bought? Chorus—For southern rights so dear, For southland loved, We'll shed a tear and wish good cheer For southland loved. Should all the glorious victories Won by our heroes brave Be buried in oblivion's waves Or echo's cruel cave? For southern rights we fought and died, For southland gave our all; The cause should never be denied Nor from its altar fall.

THE IDLER'S NOTE BOOK

Politics and religion—that is, creeds—are warred from me. But from the view of the fellow on the fence, why couldn't the city council have decided the paving of Houston street to the satisfaction of all by having it paved with brick, checker-board style, and then pouring in asphalt to fill up the holes?

You, of course, have been told a half dozen times or more during the day that when the city council, unable to decide whether to pave with brick or asphalt, followed the example of the ancient children of Israel and took a straw vote.

Can someone tell why or whence this sudden influx of beggars? I walk down Main street and see a fellow minus a couple of legs holding out a hat—that is, the man is holding the hat. I go a little further and meet a man I know by an explosion. I stumble over an old woman with a shaker bonnet and an old man sitting by her side, both holding out hands for alms.

There are Irish and American and even negro beggars, positively it's annoying. You've doubtless heard of the syndicates in Chicago and St. Louis who employ first-class beggars at from $15 to $40 per month, including expenses, and receive the gross receipts of the alms takers? One can't make evidence offhand on suspicion, but such a bevy of solicitors for charity looks suspicious.

There may be very different motives in the purpose of the looking, but to the average thoughtful person it isn't a cheerful sight to see a man with a $3 pocketbook gazing hungrily at a $20 suit. There are so many little pictures of that kind nowadays in the chilly weather. Each is a little illustration of the universal edition of the human comedy, which is, after all, quite the opposite.

Rainin' in December; Let it rain. Chilly drops a-splashin' On the pane. Really ain't no use in frettin', Only makes it hard forgettin' When the clouds clear off, a-lettin' Sunshine dry things up again.

Signs of the Times Did you ever look out for odd signs? If you'll notice about you when walking either on Main or Houston street, you'll see some that are worth reading. In a busy section of Main street is a sign that reads "Notary Public" and on Houston a lodging-house sign reads "Aply Upstairs." There are any number of the ordinary "For Sale" signs about, and in North Fort Worth is an elaborate sign which has all the "N's" turned upside down, with rather startling effect.

But these are merely odd breaks in spelling. Coming through Arkansas over the Iron Mountain you will see the following sign at a little wayside station, where there are only a few houses and the surrounding country is very desart.

"Wm. BLACKSMITH AND UNDERTAKER HORSESHOEING A SPECIALTY ATTENSHUN GIVEN TO NIGHT CALLS."

You can imagine what it looks like. But there are worse signs than that. In a little Iowa town there is a certain locksmith, a queer character, who served through the war and is very patriotic. He was a comrade of the late Gen. Lawton and never fails to refer to the fact in a conversation.

At the time of the breaking out of the Spanish-American trouble, Gus, for that is his first name, became fired with patriotic zeal. He was too old to go to war and, besides, he had no desire to fight again. All during the stormy times following the blowing up of the Maine his martial spirit simmered, and finally when war was declared it burst out in a remarkable way.

Next morning after the news of the opening of hostilities was received Gus was seen in front of his shop with two or three buckets of paint and a brush. The doors of his shop are big black affairs, and on one Gus carefully painted a large shield of the United States, with thirteen bars outlined, but not filled in. The work was not done artistically, but all the colors were there. Then he set laboriously about painting in the wording. This is the way it read when he had finished and is the way it reads today for aught I know: "War, war. Get your guns, baby carriages, washing and sewing machines repaired. Lawn mowers sharpened at half price. Now is the time All work first class."

Having completed his patriotic design and the still more enthusiastic wording, Gus carefully put his brushes away and resumed his daily tinkering with a sense of patriotic duty well done. They tell us mortal man is made of clay; I wonder if it's but to make the story stick. That when at funerals they are called to pray. The preachers always make the dead man out a brick? THE IDLER.

MARGUERITE CLARK Dashing Ranch Girl Miss Marguerite Clark, who plays the part of Polly with De Wolf Hopper in "Mr. Pickwick," has been appointed by Gov. Sayers of Texas as a special representative of the Lone Star state to the International Live Stock exposition, which is open at Chicago this week at the stock yards. Miss Clark is an experienced young ranch woman. She spent three years on Col. Robert C. Sanderson's ranch at Big Springs, Tex., where she learned to ride bucking bronchos and to use the lariat with the skill of a cowboy. A special bronze medal had been designed for her and was presented at the exposition on Monday.

AMUSEMENTS

Marie Corelli has sins of her own to answer for, but if she was in anywise responsible for the production of the dramatized version of her novel "Thelma" last night she has a great deal of retribution awaiting her. The play itself was pretty bad and the company apparently had strayed away from the coal oil circuit. Greenwall's bookings are so uniformly high class that last night's stood out in bold relief for its shortcomings. There was a large audience present, that extracted some amusement from the antics of a young woman who played the part of a Norwegian servant girl. The company seemed rather handicapped, but, by not having enough players, it being necessary for three of them to "double" in parts, which was rather unfortunate in the case of the Norwegian who leaped to death from a Norwegian precipice in the second act, only to appear in the third as a lanky in an English drawing-room.

Miss Thurston in "Sweet Clover" Last season Adelaide Thurston, in "Sweet Clover," played the part of a simple country maiden, who, like a wild flower of the field, was transplanted to the hot-house atmosphere of city life. This season in her new play, "At Cozy Corners," the reverse happens. Miss Thurston's role is that of a city-bred girl who braves the narrow-minded, suspicious denizens of a little country town in Massachusetts. Both phases are interesting. In "At Cozy Corners" the adventures of a pretty girl, even the silk linings of whose dresses irritate the gossips to malignity, are worth studying from a social standpoint. Miss Thurston's engagement takes place at Greenwall's opera-house tonight.

Charles B. Hanford Charles B. Hanford is said to have gone to greater expense in staging "Much Ado About Nothing," which he will present at Greenwall's opera-house Wednesday night, Dec. 3, than in any production made by him during his stellar career. Starting with this advantage, Mr. Hanford has followed it up by securing an unusually competent company of supporting players. There are twenty-two of them in all, and each has been selected for his or her fitness in the particular role assigned. At the matinee Wednesday "The Taming of the Shrew" will be presented.

Quinlan & Wall's Minstrels On Thursday, matinee and night, Dec. 4, the date of the Quinlan & Wall Imperial minstrels at Greenwall's opera-house, the people of this city will be musically entertained by the Quinlan & Wall Imperial Military band of twenty-two pieces, under the leadership of America's most popular minstrel bandmaster, Edward H. Brill, who is known everywhere as "the Sousa of minstrelsy." The musicians of the band are renowned musicians, the picked champions of the premier bands of Europe, Australia and America. Included are twelve famous soloists.

"The Liberty Belles" "The Liberty Belles" will come to Greenwall's opera-house Friday night, Dec. 5. It is probably the greatest beauty show of the season. There are twenty-two young women in the cast, all of whom have speaking parts, and many of whom do specialties, and were especially selected by Frank Hennessy. It is said to represent the best type of stage beauties.

"For Her Sake" The title of the play, "For Her Sake," stamps the piece as one of the sort throbbing with "heart interest," and there are said to be situations in it little short of terrific. Such a one is the flogging scene in which the soft girl Olga, the young woman with whom the hero of the story, Prince Valdemar, is in love, figures as the victim. The play will be seen here at Greenwall's opera-house Saturday matinee and night, Dec. 6.

Prescription No. 2851 by Eimer & Amend, will not cure all complaints, but it will cure rheumatism. E. F. Schmidt, Houston, Texas, sole agent.

THE Mississippi Bubble

A NOVEL BY EMERSON HOUGH.

(Copyright, 1902, by the Bowen-Merrill Company.)

Synopsis Chapter 1.—To a little company of aristocratic English gamblers, Louis du Mesne, exile from the French galleys, free trader and scout, appears fresh from the new world—America, with wondrous tales of the land's greatness. He shows a dainty moccasin made by an Indian princess for her own feet, and Castleton, one of the dice-ers, lays a wager that there is at least one dame in London who can wear the tiny shoe.

Chapter 2.—In the shadow of a hedge near the fashionable watering place, Sadler's Wells, at the outskirts of London, two young men lie sleeping one bright spring morning while crowds of gay gentry ride by on their way to drink at the famous springs. Though it is late, both sleep soundly, and they appear to be brothers, both of well-to-do family, well, but plainly clad.

CHAPTER IV The Point of Honor "Tell me, friend Castleton," said Pembroke, banteringly, "art still adhering to thy country drink of lamb's wool? Methinks burnt ale and toasted apple might better be replaced in its case by a beaker of stronger waters. You lose, and still you lose."

"May a plague take it!" cried Castleton. "I've had no luck these four days. 'Tis that cursed lap-dog of the duchess. Ugh! I saw it in my dreams last night."

"Gad! your own fortune in love must be ill enough, Sir Arthur," said Beau Wilson, as he pushed back his chair during this little lull in the play of the evening.

"And tell me why, Beau?" "Because of us all who have met here at the Green Lion these last months, not one hath ever had so steady a run of luck. Sure some fairy hath befriended thee. Sept et le va, sept et le va—I'll bet in my ears to-night, even as Castleton sees the lap-dog. Man, you play as though you read the pack quite through."

"Ah, then, you admit that there is some such thing as a talisman. I'll not deny that I have had one these last three evenings, but I feared to tell you all, lest I might be waylaid and robbed of my good-luck charm."

"Tell us, tell us, man, what it is!" cried Castleton. "Sept et le va has not been made in this room before for many a month, yet here thou comest with the run of sept et le va thrice in as many hours."

"Well, then," continued Pembroke, still smiling, "I'll make a small confession. Here is my charm. Salute it! He cast on the table the Indian moccasin which had been shown the same party at the Green Lion a few evenings before. Eager hands reached for it.

"Treachery!" cried Castleton. "I bid Du Mesne four pounds for the shoe myself."

"Oh ho!" said Pembroke, "so you too were after it. Well, the long purse won, as it doth ever. I secretly gave our wandering wood ranger, ex-galley slave of France, the neat sum of twenty-five pounds for this little shoe. Poor fellow, he liked ill enough to part with it; but he said, very sensibly, that the twenty-five pounds would take him back to Canada, and once there, he could not only get many such shoes but see the maid who made this one. As for me, the price was cheap. You could not only get many such shoes, you could not replace it in all the Exchange for any money. Moreover, to show my canniness, I've won back its cost a score of times this very night."

He laughingly extended his hand for the moccasin, which Wilson was examining closely.

"Tis clever made," said the latter. "And what a tale the owner of it carried. If half he says be true, we do ill to bide here in old England. Let us take ship and follow Monsieur du Mesne."

"Would be a long chase, mayhap," said Pembroke, reflectively. Yet each of the men at that little table in the gaming room of the Green Lion coffee-house ceased in his fingering the cards, and gazed upon this product of another world.

Pembroke was first to break the silence, and as he heard a footfall at the door, he called out: "Ho, fellow! Go fetch me another bottle of Spanish, and do not forget this time the brandy and water which I told thee to bring half an hour ago."

The step came nearer, and as it did not retreat, but entered the room, Pembroke called out again: "Make haste, man, and go on!" The footsteps paused, and Pembroke looked up, as one does when a stranger presence comes into the room. He saw, standing near the door, a tall and comely young man, whose carriage betokened him not to be born the stranger advanced and bowed gravely. "Pardon me, sir," he said, "but I fear I am awkward in thus intruding. The man showed me up the stair and bade me enter. He said that I should find here Sir Arthur Pembroke, upon whom I bear letters from friends of his in the North."

"Sir," said Pembroke, rising and advancing, "you are very welcome, and I ask pardon for my unwitting speech."

"I come at this hour and at this place," said the newcomer, "for reasons which may seem good a little later. My name is John Law, of Edinburgh, sir."

All those present arose. "Sir," responded Pembroke, "I am delighted to have your name. I know of the acquaintance between your father and my own. These are friends of mine, and I am delighted to name ye to each other. Mr. Charles Castleton, Mr. Edward Wilson. We are all here to kill the ancient enemy, Time. 'Tis an hour of night when one gains an appetite for one thing or another, cards or cold joint. I know not why we should not have a bit of both."

"With your permission, I shall be glad to join ye at either," said John Law. "I have still the appetite of a traveler—in faith, rather a better appetite than most travelers may claim. For I swear I've had no more to eat the last day and night than could be purchased for a pair of shillings."

Pembroke raised his eyebrows, scarce knowing whether to be amused at this speech or nettled by its cool assurance.

"Some ill fortune?"—he began politely.

"There is no such thing as ill fortune," quoth John Law. "We fail always of our own fault. For-sooth I must explore Roman roads by night. England hath yielded better, and the footpads have the Roman ways. My brother Will—he waited below, if ye please, good friends, and is quite as hungry as myself, besides having a pricked finger to boot—and I lost what little we had about us, and we came through with scarce a good shirt between the two."

A peal of laughter greeted him as he pulled apart the lapels of his coat and showed ruffles torn and disfigured. The speaker smiled gravely.

"Tomorrow," said he, "I must seek me out a goldsmith and a haberdasher, if you will be so good as to name such to me."

"Sir," said Sir Arthur Pembroke, "in this plight you must allow me." He extended a purse which he drew from his pocket. "I beg you, help yourself."

"Thank you, no," replied John Law. "I shall ask you only to show me the goldsmith in the morning, him upon whom I hold certain credits. I make no doubt that then I shall be quite fit again. I have never in my life borrowed a coin. Besides, I should feel that I had offended my good angel did I ask it to help me out of mine own folly. If we have but a bit of this cold joint, and a place for my brother Will to sit in comfort as we play, I shall beg to hope, my friends, that I shall be allowed to stake this trifle against a little of the money that I see here; which, I take it, is subject to the fortunes of war."

He tossed on the board a ring, which carried in its setting a diamond of size and brilliance.

"This fellow hath a cool assurance enough," muttered Beau Wilson to his neighbor as he leaned toward him at the table.

Pembroke, always good-natured, laughed at the effrontery of the newcomer.

"You say very well; it is there for the fortune of war," said he. "It is all yours, if you can win it; but I warn you, beware, for I shall have your jewel and your letters of credit too, if ye keep not sharp watch."

"Yes," said Castleton, "Pembroke hath warrant for such speech. The man who can make sept et le va thrice in one evening is hard company for his friends."

John Law leaned back comfortably in his chair.

"I make no doubt," said he, "that I shall make trente et le va, here at this table, this very evening."

Smiles and good-natured sneerings met this calm speech.

"Trente et le va—it hath not come out in the history of London play for the past four seasons," cried Wilson. "I'll lay you any odds that you're not within eye-sight of trente et le va these next five evenings, if you favor us with your company."

"Be easy with me, good friends," said John Law, calmly. "I am not yet in condition for individual wagers at least. But if ye choose to make the play at Landsknecht, I will plunge at the bank to the best of my capital. Then, if I win, I shall be blithe to lay ye what ye like."

The young Englishmen sat looking at their guest with some curiosity. His strange assurance daunted them.

"Surely this is a week of wonders," said Beau Wilson, with scarce covered sarcasm in his tone. "First we have a wild man from Canada, with his fairy stories of gold and gems, and now we have another gentleman who apparently hath fathomed as well how to gain sudden wealth at will, and yet keep closer home."

THE STRIKE IS STILL ON

TELEPHONE BOYS HOLD AGAINST THE COMPANY

ONE WANTED TO GO BACK

But the Company Didn't Want Him and His Five Fellow Strikers Turned on Him and Made Him Surry He Was Alive — Trades Assembly to Take up Case

There were no new developments in the telephone boys' strike today, other than that one of the "six" went back to work this morning and the remaining five are in a quandary as to whether to continue to stay "out" or return to work at the old wages.

Manager Henderson of the telephone company had nothing new to say other than that the company has not given any advice as to whether the boys will receive the increase in wages which caused them to throw down their tools and leave the building.

Amusing Features The strike nevertheless has amusing features. This morning the remaining five boys who refused to return to work were loitering about the exchange building. During the night it was learned that one of the "six" had gone to the manager of the company and asked for permission to return to work. He was refused, and this became a matter of general and important information to the determined section of the striking force.

The lad who could not see the bright side of the strike happened along this morning and found his co-workers awaiting him. In his presence the rest began to plan how to give him his just deserts for his disloyalty, and when the reporter left the boys were considering punishment adequate for the case.

One of the lads this morning said that as soon as they had received their charter they would organize. The Trades Assembly, it is understood, has taken up the contention and a meeting is to be held either this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

COLD WAVE COMING WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The following bulletin is issued from the weather bureau at Washington, D. C.: "Cold wave spread over districts west of the Mississippi tonight, tomorrow in the central and southern valleys rain, and snow in the northern districts, followed Wednesday by a decided fall in temperature."

Following the little exhibition of bad temper on the part of the weather last night, during which .58 inches of rain fell, came the clear weather of today with northwest winds ranging from twenty-eight to thirty-five miles in velocity.

The weather map this morning presented an unusual record of a storm that extends from Minnesota to the gulf of Mexico, and from the Rocky mountains to the Mississippi, though its influence extends almost to the Atlantic. Seldom in the yearly records of the weather bureau is a "storm" of such magnitude and marked characteristics recorded.

It was raining this morning through the lower Mississippi valley almost as far east as the Atlantic. It was snowing in Wyoming, Montana, North and South Dakota and in northern Nebraska.

For tomorrow Observer Reeder predicts still higher winds from the north west and a cold wave by tomorrow night.

In other words, "Hit's a-goin' ter freeze."

THE IMPERIAL CLUB HOLDS A MEETING

Arrange for a Big New Year's Ball and Elect Officers for Next Three Months

The Imperial Club held a well attended meeting last night and devised plans for a ball to be given New Year's night which promises to surpass anything of that nature which has ever been given in Fort Worth.

The ball is to be given at the Worth Hotel and committees will be appointed which will arrange for the affair.

Officers for the three months were also elected last night as follows: President, J. N. Clements; vice-president, J. B. Finks; treasurer, A. L. Winfrey; secretary, Alec Lackie; assistant secretary, E. F. Elkins; G. L. J. H. Wynne; sergeant at arms, C. H. Martin.

President Clements is empowered to appoint all committees for the coming ball and he will announce his selection in a few days.

FAR FROM HOME WHEN DEATH CAME

Thousands of miles from any relatives and with none to care for him during his last moments, save strangers, Henry Cousin, an Englishman of good family and apparently at one time well-to-do, died last night at St. Joseph's hospital after a protracted illness.

Little is known of the man save that he was born in England in 1843 and came to this country a number of years ago to seek his fortune.

Falling, like many another, he gradually dropped down the scale of employments, finally getting work as a section hand on the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad.

Three months ago he was taken to the hospital and though he knew his case was hopeless, he left no word for his relatives on the other side of the Atlantic or even their address that word of his death might be sent them. He will be buried at the city's expense.

ENTRANCE OF GOULD INTO ORIENT BOARD IS OF INTEREST

IN LINE FOR BUSINESS

Railroad Attorney Points Out This City's Position in Regard to the Important Line from Wichita to Kansas City to the Mexican Coast for Orient Trade

Of more than usual interest is the bare telegraphic announcement that at the last meeting of the directors of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad, popularly known as Stillwell's line, George J. Gould and Warren G. Purdy entered the board of directors.

The interest to Fort Worth in the matter is nothing less than the bold suggestion of a local railroad attorney that Edward Dickinson, the new general manager of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient, will establish headquarters in Fort Worth and that a close alliance will be formed between the new road and the Texas and Pacific, one of the Gould lines, which will be crossed by the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient at Sweetwater, 202 miles west of this city.

The suggestion was made this morning to a representative of The Telegram, and while it is only a suggestion, the attorney making it enjoys intimate relations with several railroads of importance, and is not given to speculations regarding possibilities.

The Line Projected

The Kansas City, Mexico and Orient has been the cause of good-humored joking among local railroad men for some time, not because of its impracticability, but because A. E. Stilwell, who is the prime mover and chief promoter, has a record in Eastern Texas in the shape of the Kansas City Southern, which is still held up as an example of one kind of railroad construction.

But when Stilwell secured such a man as Dickinson, general manager of a system like the Union Pacific, railroad men began to wonder what was in the new scheme that could induce Dickinson to accept.

Some weeks ago Mr. Stilwell announced that Goulds were interested in the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient, and now comes the announcement that George J. Gould has been elected a director. Usually on railroad directories where his name is enrolled, George J. Gould is the chief personage and his position with the Stillwell line may be regarded as something more than the mere meat of his name.

Missouri Pacific Alliance

The original projected line was from Kansas City to a point on the Mexican coast, the chief principle of the line being a plan for getting a short route from the southwest to the trade with China and the Orient. It is admitted that when the new line is completed, and 300 miles have been built since work began in January, 1902, it will furnish the nearest route from St. Louis to the Orient. Its importance can therefore be realized and there is good ground for its having the head of the Gould systems in its directory.

As a further proof of the interests of Gould in the new line, it is announced from Kansas City, that instead of being built from Kansas City as was originally intended, the new line will now commence at Wichita and the Missouri Pacific tracks will be used from there to Kansas City.

Paine's Celery Compound

Paine's Celery Compound has acquired its famous reputation by its wonderful and decisive victories over disease and suffering. Paine's Celery Compound supplies strength and energy to those who are low from nervousness and physical exhaustion. It builds up the weakened nervous system, makes the blood pure and rich, establishes a perfect action of the heart, gives natural sleep and digestive vigor.

Lucy Regaladez, 43 Abasco street, Monterey, Mexico, who was in a critical condition of health owing to nervous suffocation, was provisionally saved by Paine's Celery Compound. She writes: "I feel very grateful for the good which Paine's Celery Compound has afforded me. Before using it I had been suffering for some time from nervous suffocation which prevented me from sleeping, speaking, or eating. If I attempted to take a meal, I was obliged to stand in order to breathe. After the use of various remedies which brought no relief, my uncle, Mr. Dias, advised me to try Paine's Celery Compound, which I did, and found immediate relief. I took six bottles of it and now I am completely cured, thanks to the Compound."

DIAMOND DYES

The suggestion of the local attorney that Fort Worth will be the most important center located near the middle between the two ends of the line, and that close traffic arrangements between the main line of the Texas and Pacific and the new line will make it possible for the general business to be directed from this city, is at least striking enough to be of more than ordinary interest.

Railroad Notes and Personals

Pat Rowan, roadmaster of the Texas and Pacific at Texarkana, and an employe of that railroad for more than twenty years, is dead of apoplexy. He had no relatives and was buried at Marshall.

J. W. Addis and J. Pottom of the Texas and Pacific motive power department, who have been in the city the past day or two, went to Big Springs this morning.

General light rains were reported this morning all along the line of the Texas and Pacific, but no damage resulted.

No. 319, the third of the big switch engines, was expected to arrive in the Texas and Pacific yards today. For the benefit of railroad men who wish a statement more definite than that they are "big," he it said the new engines have 53-inch drivers, 20x26 cylinders and can pull as many cars as can be connected to them without pulling out the drawbars.

SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS MEETING

MATTERS OF INTEREST COME UP AT MONTHLY SESSION

BUSINESS DISPOSED OF

Christmas Holidays Will Last One Week—Benevolent Home School Is Discontinued—Superintendent Hogg Is Granted a Vacation—Substitutes Appointed

At the regular monthly session of the school trustees held yesterday afternoon in the office of Mayor Powell, several matters of interest were disposed of in the regular course of business.

The date of the coming Christmas holidays was fixed from the close of school, December 24, until a week from the following Monday, or December 31.

The school at the Benevolent home was discontinued because only twelve or fourteen children regularly attend and these can be handled at the Ninth ward school. The resignation of Miss Laura E. Blair as teacher was accepted and Mrs. White, formerly teacher at the Benevolent home, was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by Miss Blair's resignation.

The Misses Hattie Keller, Mollie Childress and Florence Sisk were appointed substitutes.

Superintendent Hogg was granted leave to be absent from the city during the holidays.

Other matters disposed of were the granting to Teachers Prugh and O'Neill, who have been ill, the difference between their own salaries and those of their substitutes. The regular monthly bills to be considered at the session of the city council Friday night, were approved. A motion to the effect that hereafter all bills must be in the hands of the secretary of the board five days before the regular meeting and that the finance committee be called a day or two before the board meeting to go over the bills, prevailed.

A petition from the Ninth Ward Parents' and Teachers' club stating that its members had paid $44.37 towards building a board fence around the Ninth ward school, and asking the board to pay the balance of the cost, which was $95.44, was referred to the council.

A special meeting of the board will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock to dispose of the rather complicated question of seating the son of F. W. Atwell in the Second ward school, over which there has been some difficulty.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT WHILE OUT HUNTING

Willie Boaz, the Young Son of David Boaz, Pulls a Gun Through a Wire Fence, With the Usual Result

Willie Boaz, the young son of David Boaz, shot himself accidentally yesterday about noon while out hunting ducks eight miles north of Fort Worth. A charge of bird shot entered his right arm about the elbow at close range, passing through as cleanly as a bullet. The bone was broken, but largely owing to the fact that medical attention was quickly had, the arm will not be lost.

It is another chapter of the old, old story, Young Boaz, in backing through a wire fence, drew the gun by the muzzle behind him. The hammer caught on the wire and the gun was discharged. The boy and a companion hunted up a doctor living near there and had the wound dressed. They then returned to the city, where the arm was set and placed in a plaster of paris cast. Willie is getting along nicely now, and will be about again in the course of a little time, as well as ever.

IDENTIFIES THE BOY KILLED BY STREET CAR

Sam Coplin, employed at the Fort Worth Tailoring store on Main between Tenth and Eleventh street went to Dallas yesterday on a sad mission.

Not having heard of his nephew, Max Coplin all day Sunday, and having an appointment with the latter to spend the day together, the uncle in Fort Worth yesterday at noon went to Dallas and identified the body of a young man who had been run down and killed in a street car accident as that of his missing relative.

Mr. Coplin saw his nephew last Saturday and at the time the young man stated that he would join his uncle in his room the next day and that they would spend the day together.

Sunday morning the young man did not come and also failed to appear in the afternoon and by night time his uncle became suspicious. On hearing of a young man being killed in a street car accident at Dallas and also giving a description, Mr. Sam Coplin went over to the neighboring city and supplied the identity of the dead boy.

The deceased young man was engaged in the fruit business and lived in Fort Worth. He had relatives in Dallas and was on a visit to his kinsfolk when the fatal accident occurred.

The remains will be buried at Dallas. The dead boy was not well known here as he had been in the United States for only six months, coming from the old country.

HORSEHOERS HOLD MEETING

Will Endeavor to Form Strong Organization and Raise Scale

As stated in The Telegram, a movement is on foot among boss horsehoers of the city to raise the present scale of prices. As a result of a meeting held last night, permanent organization will soon be effected and the scale will be materially advanced.

The majority of boss horsehoers held a meeting at Haymaker's hall last night to discuss the preliminary work of organizing. The idea was favored unanimously and because the charter which had been applied for had not arrived the work of electing officers and fixing a working scale was postponed until the charter and articles of organization arrive from headquarters.

A committee composed of J. L.

Ward, James Turner and C. Woods was appointed for the purpose of personally visiting the remaining few boss horsehoers and urge them to join the union. The committee anticipates little trouble in getting the names of these parties for membership.

The prices for shoeing under union rules was placed at $1.00 for repairing and the shoeing is to run from that amount to $2.00.

The men will hold another meeting next Monday night when the committee will make its report.

First Baptist Church is Packed at Last Evening's Meeting and Many Conversions Are the Result of Efforts Made—Daily Services Are Being Held Regularly

Steadily increased interest is the most gratifying result of the progress made in the revival meeting being conducted under the auspices of the First Baptist church, aside from the evident conversions which have already resulted.

Last night at the close of the services held at Wells, Trinity and Grace missions at 6:30 floats were brought from the missions to the church, bringing those who attended the mission meetings to the general services, which began at the church at 7:30.

The meeting was the most interesting that has yet been held, and Rev. L. R. Scarborough preached a strong sermon. Several conversions resulted from the meeting.

Good meetings were held at 10 o'clock this morning at the church and at the courthouse and city hall at noon, especially interesting services being held at both of the latter places. The regular 3 o'clock prayer meetings were held at the different missions this afternoon, and tonight the services will be held at the church as usual. Rev. Mr. Scarborough will preach.

Everyone is invited to attend these services.

LOVE LETTERS OF A PRINCE

MIRKO'S TENDER MISSIVES STOLEN AND SOLD

MAY COST HIM A THRONE

The Publication of Them Will Alienate His Servian Friends on Whom He Relies in Part for the Fulfillment of His Ambition to Succeed the Present Ruler, King Alexander

Vienna, Dec. 2.—Some stolen love letters may cost Prince Mirko, second son of the reigning prince of Montenegro, his cherished ambition to ascend the Servian throne, for which, in the event of King Alexander having no heir, he is a strong candidate.

Prior to Prince Mirko's marriage last July with Natalie Constantinovitch, daughter of the grand uncle of King Alexander, he had a love affair with a Servian actress and wrote her many letters containing criticisms on the policy of several European states. The czar and German emperor were especially hard hit, while the Servian people were slightly and scornfully referred to.

After his marriage Prince Mirko sent a trusted adjutant to buy the letters from the actress. She readily sold them, but the adjutant who is a native of Servia, sold them to the Servian government for a considerable sum, after having copies printed. In the event of the Montenegrin dynasty making any active move to acquire the publication of the letters would alienate Prince Mirko's Servian friends and ruin his prospects of succeeding King Alexander.

MISS MARTHA HUBER,

Secretary of the Harlem German Woman's Club of New York City.

505 E. 88th Street, New York, N. Y., March 20, 1962. I am very grateful to you for the benefit I have derived from the use of Wine of Cardui. Its use has made such an improvement in my health that I feel it is only just to you to acknowledge the facts. For the past two years I have been constantly ailing so that my daily duties became a hard and arduous task. I suffered from nervous dyspepsia, causing severe pains in the stomach, headache and dizziness, while I was so nervous and sensitive that the least trouble would upset me and cause palpitation of the heart and prostration.

I had been doctoring without getting any relief when a friend visited me who had a bottle of Wine of Cardui in her trunk. She told me she was using it and that it was the best medicine a suffering woman could take. I tried a dose that night and noticed that I slept better. I bought a bottle the next day and began taking a wine glass full twice a day. Soon the change was noticed for my head became clear and I could eat and sleep as I had not done for months. I became regular and suffered no pain and felt happy and light and so glad that Wine of Cardui was brought to my notice. It has been so helpful to me that I feel it my duty to advise sick and suffering women to try this wonderful remedy.

Martha Huber

WHEN a woman is suffering with female weakness all the functions of womanhood are affected. If irregular menstruation is corrected, bearing down pains, nervousness and weakening drains are relieved. All these troubles are symptoms of female weakness, and Wine of Cardui is the medicine for any woman of any age, suffering with irregular functions, bearing down pains or weakening drains. Any woman knows when she has female weakness. A doctor to point out the symptoms is unnecessary. Wine of Cardui searches out the weak parts and builds them up and health and strength is the result. This successful medicine is used by women all over America and in Europe and South Africa just as Miss Huber used it—in the privacy of the home. Wine of Cardui has made over 1,000,000 cures in this way and many doctors prescribe it for their patients because it has been successful for seventy-five years. The success Miss Huber has had with Wine of Cardui should recommend it to you. Secure a $1.00 bottle from your druggist today. Ask for Wine of Cardui and accept no other.

PAVING OF HOUSTON FINALLY DECIDED

City Council at Special Session Decides to Use Both Brick and Asphalt. Parker-Washington Company of Kansas City Gets Contract.—Street Car Franchise Carried Over Mayor Powell's Veto.

Table with 2 columns: Item description and Amount. Includes Linear distance, Total number square yards paving, Number square yards asphalt, etc.

Houston street is to be paved with brick and asphalt. The proportion will be about two parts brick to three parts asphalt. The Northern Texas Tractor company gets a franchise, over Mayor Powell's veto, to construct a line from Seventh street south on Summit avenue, Hill and Seventh streets, to Magnolia avenue, a distance of about one and one-third miles. The waterworks pay roll, amounting to about $79, is allowed. The date of the coming election for alderman in the Eighth is set for Friday, December 12.

The foregoing is a substantial statement of business transacted at a special meeting of the city council held last night, attended by the mayor, other city officials and Aldermen Ward, Waggoner, Murray, Lehane, Lydon, Henderson and Moreland.

Seven aldermen responded to the roll. Mr. Moreland moved that the ordinance granting the Northern Texas Tractor company permission to construct a line from Seventh street, south on Summit avenue to Railroad avenue, west to Hill street, south to Pennsylvania avenue, east to Seventh street and south to Magnolia avenue, be reconsidered, it having been vetoed by Mayor Powell. Motion is seconded by Alderman Lehane and is carried unanimously. Reconsideration results in the passing of the ordinance over the mayor's veto.

The matter of paving Houston street is taken up, and City Clerk Montgomery reads the bids of the various companies. Mr. Moreland reports for the street and alley committee, that having gone over the matter carefully and having investigated the different kinds of paving and also having considered the wishes of the majority of the people, they recommend accepting the bid of the Parker-Washington company of Kansas City to pave the street as follows: Gutters three feet wide on either side of the street, with vitrified brick; space between street car tracks and for a distance of eighteen inches, on either side, same material; remaining space with Uvalde rock asphalt, laid under ten years' guarantee.

Mr. Waggoner explains that in his opinion brick is the better pavement, but he is in favor of giving the people what they want. He believes providing for a brick gutter, owing to the poor drainage of the streets, is the best and most satisfactory solution. He moves adoption of the committee's report.

Mr. Moreland says in behalf of the street and alley committee, that it has spent considerable time in investigating the question, in Dallas, San Antonio and St. Louis. In St. Louis, he says, they have tried brick, asphalt, granite blocks, wood and macadam. The committee found that in St. Louis asphalt is favored in residence portions of the city and is there protected from heavy traffic by city ordinance. Mr. Moreland reads extracts from the proceedings of the American Society of Engineers regarding durability of asphalt on streets where there is a heavy traffic, and more especially near street car tracks. Mr. Moreland says if the city of Fort Worth were paying for the paving of Houston street he should unhesitatingly vote for brick, but he yields to the wishes of the people.

Regarding the bid of the Parker-Washington people, he explains that it doesn't seem to be the lowest and explains difference between it and the bid of the Parker Asphalt company by the fact that the latter bid exclusively on asphalt paving, while the former's bid was for both asphalt and brick. Mr. Moreland concludes by saying that eight men, about to spend $50,000, will be criticised eight or ten years from now, no matter what they decide. He believed the report presented was the best way out of the situation.

Mr. Waggoner adds that in all the paving with asphalt being done in St. Louis now, the space between street car tracks is being paved with either brick or granite blocks.

Lehane and Henderson Mr. Lehane says that the thanks of the council are due the members of the street and alley committee for their work, that they have done the best that could be done in spite of and in the face of criticism by not only the people, but by the local papers. He repeats his former position of being unalterably in favor of brick pavement.

but says his wishes in the matter will have to be put aside. He states that experience has shown asphalt to be a failure wherever tried in the state. Regarding the payment of the paving he points out that the payment is being made with a string tied to it. That the property owners are getting paving certificates with the understanding that one day the city will be prosperous enough to pay back the money thus expended. He further points out that the city is starting out to pave a street without any money, but says that the business men of the city are pushing the council forward in the matter. He states he would prefer it had the report of the committee favored either straight asphalt or straight brick and says he does not like to vote on a part-way proposition.

Mr. Henderson says with Mr. Lehane, he would prefer to vote on a proposition either for brick alone or for asphalt alone. He believes brick is the better, but admits that when reading articles in favor of asphalt one is apt to lean that way, and in like manner towards brick when reading the argument for that. He announces his vote for asphalt chiefly because it will afford a comparison to the city of the two materials. The brick on Main street and the asphalt on Houston will afford an example as a basis for future paving.

Report Adopted The report of the committee recommending the acceptance of the bid of the Parker-Washington company, as previously stated, is then put to a vote and is carried unanimously.

Mr. Moreland moves that the mayor, city attorney, city engineer and street and alley committee be authorized to enter into contract with the Parker-Washington company with the understanding work is to begin before February 1. It is suggested, however, that in case it is found to be impossible for the company to begin work before that time, the period may be extended.

Election Date Mayor Powell suggests the matter of fixing the date of the coming election for alderman in the Eighth ward, and Alderman Lehane moves that the date be Friday, November 12. The motion is carried and council adjourns.

THE NEW STORY IS A WINNER

"MISSISSIPPI BUBBLE" FINDS FAVOR AS A SERIAL

The Telegram Learns Very Quickly That a Great Many People Are Reading Emerson Hough's Story, Which Was Begun in Sunday's Issue, and That They Like It

The Telegram's new serial story, "The Mississippi Bubble," which was begun in Sunday's issue, is attracting a great deal of attention already, though but three installments have been printed.

Said a subscriber this morning: "I am glad to see The Telegram printing such a excellent story as 'The Mississippi Bubble.' That story is one that ought to interest every reader of your paper. It is as wholesome a story as was ever written. I hope everyone will read it."

The Telegram has assumed considerable expense in the publication of this story, but it believes the outlay will be a tangible asset in the way of gaining for the paper a reputation for giving to its subscribers the very best the market affords, no matter what the undertaking may be.

According to the Bookman, an accepted authority in such matters, "The Mississippi Bubble" became the best selling book on the American market within two months of its publication. Since that time it has more than sustained the high favor with which it was then received.

The book has its chief interest in the career of John Law of Lauriston, under whose touch the whole financial system of France in the days following the death of Louis XIV. was directed toward the new Mississippi colony in America and involved in it. That epoch in French history is one of the most picturesque in the story of all Europe. But "The Mississippi Bubble" comprehends also pictures of contemporary life in London and the Canadian forests. Law was in history a most attractive and absorbing figure. Mr. Hough has given him a personality which intensifies this historical interest.

"The Mississippi Bubble" thus comprises a view of three interesting nations at most important stages of their development, the career of an extraordinary and spectacular historical figure, and a love story of rare charm and dramatic force.

Read the opening chapters of The Mississippi Bubble in The Telegram today.

For the Little Ones

Be Careful in the use of Cough Medicines for Children's Coughs and Colds.

Many analyses of cheap cough mixtures and cough and throat lozenges have clearly proven that a large proportion of them contain opiates.

The temporary relief which these cheap medicines often give in coughs and colds, especially with the little children, is because the opiate, by destroying the nerve sensation, the irritation in the throat, which causes the cough, is temporarily removed, but the real cause of the cold is not in any way removed by the opiate and will promptly return.

The best thing to use to remove the catarrhal secretion which causes the cold, the hoarseness and irritating cough, is a new preparation composed of antiseptics like Eucalyptol, Red Gum of Eucalyptus tree, Blood Root, etc., under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, which contain no opiate, cocaine or poisonous drug of any sort.

A mother living in Charleston, Mass., the happy possessor of four children, writes: "Every fall and winter I have laid in a stock of cough medicines, croup mixtures, and throat remedies for my little children, for somehow or other they never seemed to be free from colds, croup or sore throat.

"This fall I made a change in the usual program. I had myself been cured of an obstinate catarrh, from which I had suffered for years, by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and as they were pleasant to take I determined to try them with my children. Our family physician told me he knew them to be perfectly safe and nothing better could be taken. So I gave them to the children and have continued to do so ever since, whenever there is the least sign of croup or sore throat, and I no longer dread the approach of cold weather as I once did.

"Stuart's Catarrh Tablets not only cured me of chronic nasal and throat catarrh, but they have saved me many an anxious night with my little ones."

Mr. A. R. Fernbank of Columbus, Ohio, says: "I suffered so many winters from Catarrh that I took it as a matter of course, and that nothing would cure it except a change of climate, which my business affairs would not permit me to take.

"My nostrils were almost always clogged up, and I had to breathe through the mouth, causing an inflamed, irritated throat. The thought of eating breakfast often nauseated me and the catarrh gradually getting into my stomach, took away my appetite and digestion.

"My druggist advised me to try a 50 cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because he said he had so many customers who had been cured of catarrh by the use of these tablets, and he felt he could honestly recommend them. I took his advice and used several boxes with results that surprised and delighted me.

"I always keep a box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in the house and the whole family use them freely on the first appearance of a cough or cold in the head.

"With our children we think there is nothing so safe and reliable as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets to ward off croup and colds, and with older people I have known of cases where the hearing had been seriously impaired by chronic catarrh cured entirely by this new remedy."

People who have used sprays, inhalers, salves, and washes for catarrh and have found how useless they are, will be agreeably surprised at the results following the use of a pleasant internal remedy in tablet form. Druggists everywhere admit that Stuart's Tablets, which they sell at 50 cents per package, is the safest, most effective and popular of all catarrh remedies.

POLICE COURT LIGHT AND LITTLE IS DONE

Carl Merritt, aged 11, and no larger than many boys of 5 or 6, went home to Gainesville today. Chief Rea bought a ticket and sent him back. He came over a week ago. Since that time he has been seeing Fort Worth, from the pecking house to the stand pipe. He had neither shoes or stockings, and most of the time during his stay he had very little to eat, depending mostly on the kindness of the good-natured patrolmen about the station. A brakeman let him ride to Fort Worth when he came with the plan of visiting his father who works at the packing houses. Carl said this morning he was ready to go back and go to school again.

John L. No Fighter John L. Sullivan was the name written on the blotter. It excited a ripple of comment among the loungers about headquarters. "John L." was Irish, but he was no fighter, for Patrolmen Turner and Clark arrested him easily. The charge against "John L." was drunkenness.

Escaped Convict Weary and footsore, with one foot badly bruised by the bumpers of two cars on which he tried to steal a ride, James Bartello was arrested last evening by Patrolmen Turner and Logan on information telegraphed from Weatherford that such an one had escaped from the county convict gang near there. He was brought to police headquarters and a physician dressed his foot, the pain of which made him groan almost continuously.

Sheriff Bratton of Parker county arrived this morning and took Bartello back with him. The charge of which Bartello was sent to the county convict gang was bootlegging.

HIGH-PRICED DOLLARS

World's Fair Souvenir Coins May Be Marked Up Above $3 ST. LOUIS, MO., Dec. 2.—Subscriptions for $1 souvenir coins are pouring into the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Company, the largest order so far received being for 1,000 coins. Only 50,000 of the 250,000 dollars coined have been placed on sale at $3 and it now seems probable that the balance of the issue will be sold at a higher price.

The Chicago World's Fair souvenir coin was a 50-cent silver piece. It was sold at $1, but there was trouble in disposing of the issue at that price, and before the fair was over thousands were for sale at 60 cents to 75 cents each and many were in current circulation at their face value.

Boy's Life Saved From Membranous Croup C. W. Lynch, a prominent citizen of Winchester, Ind., writes: "My little boy had a severe attack of membranous croup, and only got relief after taking Foley's Honey and Tar. Delegates to the sixth annual convention of the Texas division, Daughters of the Confederacy, have taken the city. Incoming trains have brought representatives of the organization from every quarter of the state, and today there are at least eighty homes in which one or more visitors are honored guests.

The Convention Hall. Not among the least of the attractions at the Christian Tabernacle, in which the convention is being held, are the elaborate and tasteful decorations. They are highly significant of the cause for which the southern heroes bled and died in perpetuation of the cause which they believed to be eternally right. The noble women who encouraged and succeeded them during the terrible conflict could have taken no more appropriate or effective method of demonstrating their patriotism.

In the background, over the altar, is a large confederate flag, white and red, and white drapings are prettily arranged above the platform. Hanging underneath is the Lone Star emblem of Texan independence. To the left, before the baptistry, the "bonnie blue flag" is conspicuously displayed, with a lifelike portrait of Gen. Robert E. Lee underneath. On the right is another likeness of the confederate leader and the familiar features of Joseph E. Johnston also appear. Statey palms distributed about the baptistry add to the beauty of the general effect and large flags depend from the ceiling at either corner of the room. Conspicuous on one of the side walls is the banner of Robert E. Lee camp, United Sons of Confederate Veterans. Strung between the sanctuary walls and the gallery are twenty white stars, bearing in red lettering the names of the chapters represented at the convention.

In the center of the gallery are displayed portraits of Jefferson Davis and Stonewall Jackson, draped in confederate and battle flags of the confederate republic. To the right and left of these are arranged pictures of Gen. J. E. Johnston, John C. Breckenridge, Fitzhugh Lee, John H. Morgan and Joseph Wheeler and Major Gen. John C. Breckenridge and Sterling Price. Much credit for the attractive appearance of the audience-room is due to the untiring efforts of the decorating committee, composed of Miss Mattie Melton, chairman; Mmes. Chas. McDougall, Chas. H. Murdock, Duke Goodman, L. J. Clayton, Robert Harle, T. S. Hawes, W. P. Lane, T. C. Shoemaker and C. H. Higbee and Misses Mamie McNeely and Vesta Anderson. These ladies were ably assisted in the work by W. P. Lane, S. H. Williams, W. A. Dixon, W. E. W. Nicholson and W. R. Tisdal.

The Morning Session. With delegates present from all over the state, the seventh annual convention of the Texas division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, met this morning at the Christian Tabernacle, Throckmorton and Fifth streets. Subsequent sessions will be held mornings, afternoons and evenings up to and including Thursday night.

Though originally set for 9:30 o'clock, the initial meeting was not called to order until 10:40, when Mrs. L. J. Clayton, president of Julia Jackson chapter, took the platform and introduced as presiding officer Miss Mary J. Lane, the fourth vice president of the state organization. There were nearly one hundred ladies present, nearly forty chapters being represented.

The opening invocation was by Rev. W. E. Sellers, chaplain of Robert E. Lee camp, United Confederate Veterans, who referred briefly to the auspicious circumstances under which the convention had met and asked blessings upon the membership of the church and its pastor. He prayed for divine guidance in the deliberations which were to follow and asked blessings upon the officers and members of the organization.

After conclusion of the devotional exercises the stirring song "Our Southland," composed by Miss Adelia Dunovant, the state president, and set to the music of "America," was sung in chorus by the entire company. Rev. James S. Myers, pastor of the church, who came all the way from St. Louis to attend, was next introduced and delivered a stirring address, in which he highly commended the work of the Daughters. He spoke of his long journey, made for the purpose of emphasizing a welcome soon to be formally expressed and added:

"We, when Fort Worth was first considered as the prospective meeting place of your organization, hastened to send you word that we wanted you to be our guests in this building. We feel we have been greatly honored, and there is no place that would not be greatly honored by your presence. You stand for gentleness and charity, a fact well recognized. As you came many an old confederate soldier who saw you said, 'These are those that are our friends. They stand between us and the infirmities of age, poverty and want—between us and the poisonous.' Your principles are those which represent heaven's own charity. There is no work more tender and sublime than that which is a part of the principles stated in your constitution. Veterans and sons delight to honor you, and you have honored this community by giving your presence. The principles which your organization stands for are not those of hate, but are founded upon lofty principles."

Rev. Mr. Myers declared that any man or woman should be proud that they are a descendant of noble blood—the child of an honored sire—having in their veins the blood of a martyred confederate soldier, and continued:

"Our battles were fought under the constitution for the rights of the people. We are now upholding the principles of the constitution for which our fathers fought and died. They are the palladium of our national liberty, and if kept alive will find us ready to die, if necessary, for the cause of liberty. Patriotism is as plentiful in the south as in the north."

The speaker referred feelingly to the southern woman as a wife, sister or daughter and told how the soldiers had returned home to find nothing left but a heap of ashes and how the women had encouraged them to build anew. He told how he himself had been rendered an orphan through the war. In closing he said:

"We welcome you with full hearts and highest hopes for the future. May God bless you and your coming." At this juncture Mrs. Reagan, wife of the venerable Judge John H. Reagan of Palestine, was espied in the audience and escorted to the platform. Mrs. L. J. Clayton, president of Julia Jackson chapter, next took the floor and delivered a brief address of welcome, speaking as follows:

IF YOU ARE SICK

And Need Medicine for Your Kidneys, Liver, Bladder or Blood, Get the Best.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

If you are suffering from kidney or bladder disease, the doctor asks: "Do you desire to urinate often, and are you compelled to get up frequently during the night? Does your back pain you? Does your urine stain linen? Is there a scalding pain in passing it, and is it difficult to hold the urine back? If so, your kidneys or bladder are diseased."

Try putting some of your urine in a glass tumbler, let it stand twenty-four hours. If there is a sediment, or a cloudy, milky appearance, your kidneys are sick.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy will surely relieve and cure the most distressing cases of these dread diseases, and no physician can prescribe a medicine that equals it for kidney, liver, bladder and blood diseases, rheumatism, dyspepsia and chronic constipation.

Walter D. Miller, of Delhi, N. Y., writes:

"I suffered for years with kidney trouble and severe pains in my back, at times it was so bad I could hardly walk. My stomach also troubled me and I frequently had twinges of rheumatism. I suffered a great deal and received no benefit until I began the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. After taking it a short while it cured me."

and anarchists. Until we make it impossible for our grandchildren to be expected to join in the singing of 'Marching Through Georgia' known in school to tell what they know about Sherman's glorious march to the sea."

"One of the principle objects of our organization is the assisting of the veterans of our various camps in taking care of our less fortunate brothers and their families. We all feel that both their means and ours are miserably inadequate for the purpose."

"I hope the Texas division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy will exert all its influence in the immediate future to induce our legislators to enlarge the Confederate home at Austin till none shall be refused admittance for want of room, and out of the revenues of our great State to provide a pension for our old soldiers at least sufficient to furnish them with bread. Will you think of this, my sisters, and put the whole influence of the division to work to secure help for our old veterans from the state?"

"Once more I bid you a heartfelt welcome and hope that you all may be as glad you came to Fort Worth as we are to have you."

The response to Mrs. Clayton's address was delivered by Mrs. Kate Gerald Weaver of Waco, who paid an high tribute to Fort Worth and its hospitality.

"Yours is the fairest city in all Texas," she said. "Where once were Indian camps and where wolves roved over the prairie, towers and domes now pierce the sky, a monument to the memory of the man for whom your city is named." Mrs. Weaver then spoke of the objects for which the Daughters had been organized. She declared that the southern soldier exemplified bravery and intelligence of the highest order and said that to the wives and daughters also was due a part of the glory that weaves with immortal the memories of '32 to '65. Magnificent in gloom and defeat, the south could point to four years of campaign in which, though outnumbered five to one, her defenders never faltered. Since the war, Mrs. Weaver said, the south had vied with the north in the upbuilding of the greatest country on earth. She told how legions of the north and south had marched side by side during the Spanish-American war, and asked, "Did not the good old south furnish another Lee and a Joe Wheeler?" Concluding she said: "We should have a stainless column dedicated on the site of the Lee, who, though a great commander, only exemplified the nobility of the common soldier. Peace has her victories, the same as war, but 'Lord of hosts, be with us yet, 'Lest we forget, lest we forget.'"

Reports were submitted by the committee on credentials after Mrs. Weaver's address and shortly after noon the convention adjourned until 2 o'clock.

Afternoon Session. Most of this afternoon's session, which convened at 2 o'clock, was devoted to hearing the reports of the secretary, treasurer, registrar, historian and of the auditing and transportation committee, as well as the report of Mrs. A. V. Winkler, Texas regent. At 4 o'clock the ladies were taken on a trolley ride about the city, which ended at the residence of Judge W. P. McLean, 316 Henderson street, where a reception was tendered the visiting

JULIA JACKSON CHAPTER

Julia Jackson chapter, No. 141, United Daughters of the Confederacy, was organized September 26, 1897, Fort Worth, Tex.

Mrs. B. F. Eads, Marshall, Texas, Secretary Texas Division

Indomitable Confederate spirit from parents whose life's work is Confederacy, her father being a Veteran of both the Mexican and civil wars, has the honor of organizing the first chapter of Children of the Confederacy No. 1 of Texas.

The object and purposes of this organization of children are historical, memorial, educational, social and benevolent.

To unite the Southern children of the city in some work to aid and honor Confederate Veterans and their descendants. To co-operate with Julia Jackson chapter No. 141 U. D. C. in all that tends to perpetuate the value of the Southern soldier and people in their brave struggle to uphold principle.

The present membership is 51. The officers are: Miss Mattie K. Melton, directress; Alla Moffett, president; Mary Kern, first vice-president; Minnie Luther, second vice-president; Della Telfair, secretary; Alla Capps, assistant secretary; Mattie Mary Capps, treasurer; Elizabeth Hovenkamp, historian.

failure, when such women as compose Julia Jackson chapter of Southern daughters are interested? Have they ever failed in anything undertaken? No. They know no such word.

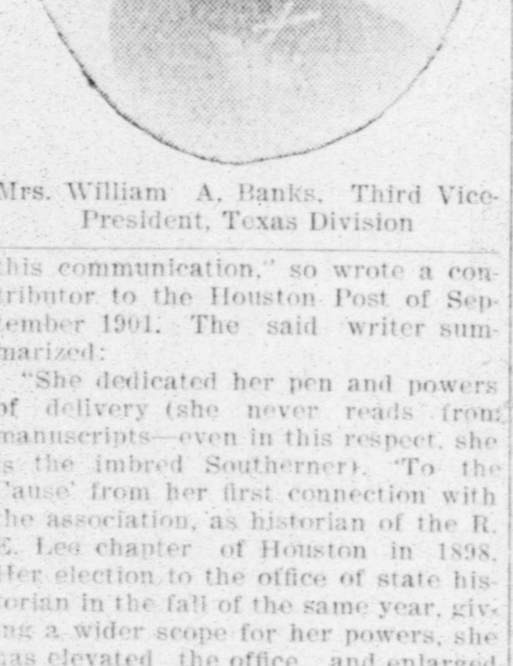

Miss Adelia A. Dunovant, President

Miss Adelia A. Dunovant, president of the state division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, is a patriotic worker of great executive ability, and has for four years filled high positions in the state organization—three years, as state historian, and this year as state president.

For the past two years the chairmanship of the general historical committee has also been filled by her, with ability so marked that she has been spoken of as "the Leader of Thought," and won high distinction in one general convention of last year at Wilmington, N. C., when (to quote from a report of that convention) "Miss Dunovant was unquestionably the individual most honored in the convention, inasmuch as she was the only person, during the entire time, invited to address the convention, and was on the program for the first day."

"To tell all that Miss Dunovant has done would be beyond the limits of this communication," so wrote a contributor to the Houston Post of September 1901. The said writer summarized:

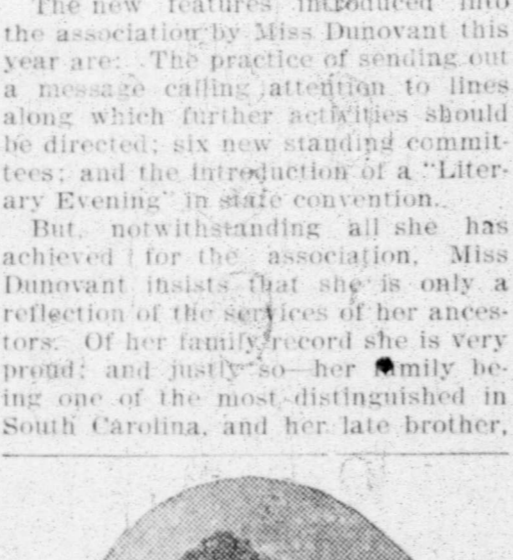

"She dedicated her pen and powers of delivery (she never reads from manuscripts—even in this respect, she is the imbued Southerner). To the cause from her first connection with the association, as historian in 1898, E. Lee chapter of Houston in 1898, her election to the office of state historian in the fall of the same year, giving a wider scope for her powers, she has elevated the office, and enlarged its duties. Seeing that the generally accepted lines of work were drawing our organization within lines too narrow, she enlarged the boundaries. She at once sent out outlines of study, issued circulars, wrote letters. The cost of printing, of official stationery and of postage she made her own affair. She made an appeal to the division for funds, and she has never drawn on the treasury for any funds whatever. She wrote essays and addresses; had them printed and scattered broadcast. She wrote a magazine—all her own composition; had it printed and sent it as free as the air. She saw our need of a ritual for Decoration Day. No sooner recognized than her mind and purse contributed to their best; and a wealth of diction and fervor of soul were placed in the leaves of an artistic booklet that flew on the wings of the post throughout the South. She saw, we need songs. She composed two, 'Our Southland' and 'Jefferson Davis.' They, particularly 'Our Southland,' have flown hither and thither."

her place among the social leaders of the city. At the death of her mother she assumed the reins of her father's household, where she still reigns, a veritable queen, and dispenses with a lavish hand the well-known and much-missed hospitality of the South. As Miss Kate Cabell, she was married to J. R. Currie, of El Paso, April 24, 1889, but has always resided at Dallas. She was bred and reared in a military atmosphere, and has inherited a patriotic spirit from a long line of soldiers, than whom none is more distinguished for valor and leadership than her gallant father.

Mrs. S. H. Watson, Waxahachie, State Historian, Texas Division

"Mrs. Currie attended the reunion of Confederate Veterans, held in Birmingham, Alabama, in the spring of '94, and came back fairly ablaze with enthusiasm and determination to do something for the sake of the dear lost cause. A short time before she had organized the Dallas chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy. She was successful beyond hope, for in a very short time over two hundred names were enrolled."

"Dallas chapter was the first in the state, and is the sixth on the national roll. By her suggestion, and roused by her zeal, the Dallas chapter decided to erect a monument in memory of the private soldier of the Southern Confederacy."

Mrs. A. R. Howard, Palestine, Second Vice-President, Texas Division

"Then was Texas' day to be proud, and proud she was through the largest delegation on the floor of the convention; and every state, through its representatives, vied with every other state in expressing gratification at her re-election. Mrs. Currie's whole time is given up to the duties of her office, and a busier woman would be hard to find. Her mail is tremendous; and many are the tangles in organization that are straightened and smoothed by her pacifying pen. With wonderful tact and cleverness she has bound the whole order firmly to her in love and respect; and Texas is not the only state which would be glad to have her tenure of the presidency of the national U. D. C. perpetuated indefinitely."

Miss Mollie E. Connor. Miss Mollie Connor is registrar of the Texas division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. While comparatively a new member of the division staff, she has done much that makes her work occupy a proud place in the records of the division. She organized nine chapters last year, among them being the Gonzales chapter at Caldwell and the Caldwell chapter at Caldwell. The former is the largest ever organized in the state, and the latter the next largest, and named William S. Holmes, for her grandfather. Miss Connor has been historian for John Dunovant chapter since its organization in 1900, and was elected registrar at the San Antonio convention last year.

of her father, Judge Harmon A. Drew, of Louisiana, and her uncle, Governor Thomas Drew of Arkansas. Her family relationship to Andrew Jackson, "Old Hickory," may also, in a measure account for her great executive ability. Mrs. Eads was born and reared in Louisiana. About fourteen years ago, she married Dr. B. F. Eads, chief surgeon of the Texas and Pacific railway, and moved to Marshall, Texas; where, by reason of her rare intellectual attainments, and a wondrous executive ability, she occupies a leading position in the social and literary circles of that city. She is a member of the "King's Daughters," the Ingleside club, secretary and treasurer of Trinity Guild, leader and critic of the Marshall Shakespeare club, member Silent Sixteen whist club, member of the Marshall Athletic club, secretary of Marshall chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, lady commander of the Hive of Maccabees, president of the city Federation of clubs, secretary of the great Texas division of United Daughters of the Confederacy, and last, but not least, she is a devoted wife and mother. The unique distinction of having the high honor of "division secretary" conferred upon her, unsought, and even during her absence from the convention hall, is considered worthy of note. Texas is proud of her brilliant, adopted daughter.

Mrs. Mollie R. MacGill Rosenberg, Galveston, Texas, Honorary Member, Texas Division

"Mrs. Currie was elected first president of the Dallas chapter, which position she still holds. In less than three years, by the work of their own hands and ably led by Mrs. Currie, the Dallas chapter erected a monument which is no less a credit to the city and the state than to those whose memory it perpetuates. Mrs. Currie made it her special duty to visit the different sections of the state for the purpose of arousing interest in the organization of the Daughters of the Confederacy and establishing chapters wherever she could get together enough workers to justify her efforts, and many of the best chapters in Texas are witnesses of her faithfulness to her self-appointed task. When the first state division was organized in Texas Mrs. Currie was made president."

"Two chapters of U. D. C. have been named in her honor—one at Napoleonville, La., and one at Milford, Texas. On her return from the Charleston reunion, in May of last year, she stopped ten days in Napoleonville, and every day and night was crowded with entertainments given in her honor. She was the guest of the Daughters of the New Orleans Confederacy also on her return from Charleston, and had the place of honor in a floral parade. Tokens of love and esteem have been showered on her wherever the name of Daughter of the Confederacy is honored."

"At Hot Springs, Ark., at the national convention U. D. C. Mrs. Currie was nominated for president and elected by acclamation, without waiting for the vote to be put to the house."

"When was Texas' day to be proud, and proud she was through the largest delegation on the floor of the convention; and every state, through its representatives, vied with every other state in expressing gratification at her re-election. Mrs. Currie's whole time is given up to the duties of her office, and a busier woman would be hard to find. Her mail is tremendous; and many are the tangles in organization that are straightened and smoothed by her pacifying pen. With wonderful tact and cleverness she has bound the whole order firmly to her in love and respect; and Texas is not the only state which would be glad to have her tenure of the presidency of the national U. D. C. perpetuated indefinitely."

Mrs. B. F. Eads, Marshall, Texas. Mrs. B. F. Eads is secretary of the Texas division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, is a true type of the graceful, gracious and gifted womanhood of old Ante-Bellum days. Descended from a proud old aristocratic family of Southern jurists and statesmen, she has inherited not only their love of the "Sunny South," but a generous share of the great intellect of her father, Judge Harmon A. Drew, of Louisiana, and her uncle, Governor Thomas Drew of Arkansas. Her family relationship to Andrew Jackson, "Old Hickory," may also, in a measure account for her great executive ability. Mrs. Eads was born and reared in Louisiana. About fourteen years ago, she married Dr. B. F. Eads, chief surgeon of the Texas and Pacific railway, and moved to Marshall, Texas; where, by reason of her rare intellectual attainments, and a wondrous executive ability, she occupies a leading position in the social and literary circles of that city. She is a member of the "King's Daughters," the Ingleside club, secretary and treasurer of Trinity Guild, leader and critic of the Marshall Shakespeare club, member Silent Sixteen whist club, member of the Marshall Athletic club, secretary of Marshall chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, lady commander of the Hive of Maccabees, president of the city Federation of clubs, secretary of the great Texas division of United Daughters of the Confederacy, and last, but not least, she is a devoted wife and mother. The unique distinction of having the high honor of "division secretary" conferred upon her, unsought, and even during her absence from the convention hall, is considered worthy of note. Texas is proud of her brilliant, adopted daughter.

Mrs. A. R. Howard of Palestine, Texas. Second Vice-President Texas Division of Daughters of the Confederacy. The subject of this sketch is a daughter of Major David P. Blank, who entered the Confederate service as first lieutenant in the First Arkansas Cavalry in the first company organized in Arkansas. He was promoted to captain for gallantry in his first battle, and on the promotion of Colonel Churchill to brigadier-general was made major and assigned to duty as brigade quartermaster, in which position he served till the close of the war. Mrs. Howard is the wife of A. R.

Mollie L. Connor, Eagle Lake, Texas, Registrar, Texas Division

Howard, a post grand commander of Knights Templars of Texas, and for twenty years treasurer of the International and Great Northern railroad. She is a woman of splendid social attainments, a genial, companionable nature, and endowed with that patriotic devotion to the South, and zealous, enthusiastic interest in the progress of the United Daughters of the Confederacy which eminently qualifies her for leadership in its councils. It was mainly, if not entirely, due to her zeal and enterprise that the first chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy in Palestine, (John H. Reagan chapter No. 363) was organized, and at her suggestion, and out of her admiration for the life and character of that grand old Texan, it was named. The camp of Confederate Veterans at Palestine had long tried to enthrone their wives and daughters to the point of organizing a chapter of United Daughters of the Confederacy, but their efforts were barren of results until Mrs. Howard came to them with her splendid courage, zeal, tact and patriotism, when it sprung into being as if by magic. Then she suggested, as the work of the chapter, a memorial fountain to be erected in Palestine, to Judge Reagan, and under her leadership the work went forward, the city council setting apart a plot of ground 14 feet square at the intersection of two of its principal streets, for its erection.

Her friends in Palestine and throughout Texas take great pride and pleasure in her advancement in the state division.

Mrs. M. R. MacGill Rosenberg. Mrs. Mollie R. MacGill Rosenberg of Galveston, Texas, is a true type of the state division United Daughters of the Confederacy, is a character both interesting and attractive, combining rare qualities of character with a clear and sound intelligence. Her generous devotion to the Southern cause has endeared her to all who are united in preserving the true history of the people of the South in their valiant effort to maintain constitutional liberty.

Mollie R. MacGill was born in Baltimore, Md., February 28, 1829, and resided there until 1858, when she went to Galveston, Tex., to reside with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rosenberg. When the South was forced to defend her rights under the constitution and resist an army of coercion, she returned to her family in Maryland. The MacGill family espoused the cause of the South, and evinced the courage of their convictions by sending four sons to the army of Virginia, where they gallantly fought throughout the war. This support of the Southern cause, brought upon the non-combatant members of the family, insult and arrest and the imprisonment of Dr. MacGill, for more than a year, in Northern fortresses without trial or charges preferred. He was released unconditionally, and at once tendered his services to the Confederate government, and was commissioned surgeon in the Confederate army by President Davis, which position he held until the close of the war. When all was ended and the Southern Confederacy was no more, he removed his family to Richmond, Va., and Miss Mollie MacGill returned to Galveston to live in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rosenberg, an early attachment for the MacGill family, and Miss Mollie, on the part of Mrs. Rosenberg, having led to this plan. She was the joy and light of this home for many years; for they had no children and gave to her their hearts' best affection which she reciprocated in full measure. After Mrs. Rosenberg's death Mr. Rosenberg was married to Miss Mollie R. MacGill, on November 13, 1889. He was a native of Hilton, Canton Glarus Switzerland, and a man of fine character and business capacity, and amassed a large fortune more than two-thirds of which he gave during his life; and in bequests at his death to Galveston, the city of his adoption; thus taking the foremost rank among the great philanthropists of this country. During the three and a half years of his married life, with his second wife they made two visits to Europe, and while in his native town he restored and beautified the church of his boyhood, the German Lutheran church, at Bilton. At his death he left to this town $80,000 for charitable and educational purposes. In all of his various and wise bequests his wife was in full accord, with an unusual self-sacrifice, and supplemented his bequest of $30,000 to Grace Episcopal church, Galveston, by gift of $15,000 for entire interior furnishing, making this temple one of the most artistic in the South.

In carrying out the purposes of the U. D. C. she is ever vigilant and active, and her gifts have been many and always generous.

Through her influence the Galveston chapter U. D. C. gave to the Jefferson Davis' monument fund $600, the largest amount given so far by a single chapter. Mrs. Rosenberg represents Texas on the Jefferson Davis' monument committee, and it is her ambition to have Texas head in the amount of contributions to this laudable purpose. After the terrible calamity that befell Galveston, the chapter of that city had no fixed place of meeting and she fitted up a hall of her own, in beautiful order, with gas fixtures and gave the use of it for as long a time as the chapter desired. Then added to this gift to the chapter of complete furnishing, in which was included a handsome carved oak piano, two cabinets and desk, and all necessary china, glass, silver and nary, for entertaining.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis, Sovereign of the South

Probably no other woman ever occupied the position in America that is held by Mrs. Jefferson Davis. The degree of respect and honor which is paid to her by the South is unique in history. She is the representative of a Lost Cause—a cause for which hundreds of thousands of its sons shed their blood, and, though nearly forty years have passed since the banner of the "Stars and Bars" was furled, this reverential feeling only grows in depth.

Mrs. Davis was the life companion of the president of the Confederacy. And it is her association with this man that has so endeared her to the South. The feeling with which the South regards her late husband is hard to define. His memory is venerated almost to idolatry.

Mrs. Davis is over seventy-five years old and it is said that her health is now beginning to fail her. The years have dealt kindly with her. The crown of silver hair, the bright sparkle of her fine brown eyes, her splendid appearance, which age has not broken, the rich voice vibrating with the redundancy and life of youth, all are strikingly evident. The nobility of her face, her dignity of manner, mingled with kindness, are felt in her magnetic presence.

Mrs. Davis is a most delightful conversationalist. Her rich fund of knowledge and her charming manner of expression is a source of pleasure to all.

She was invited to this meeting, but sent a letter expressing her regrets.

Mrs. Kate Gerald Weaver

Mrs. Kate Gerald Weaver, who this morning responded to the address of welcome delivered by the president of Julia Jackson chapter, Mrs. L. J. Clayton, is from Waco. She is a daughter of Judge Gerald of Waco, who was colonel of the Eighteenth Mississippi company F. He was wounded four times in one arm in the battle of Gettysburg, but did not lose his arm until a few years ago in a duel on the streets of Waco. Mrs. Weaver is "a chip off the old block," and often, at every opportunity expresses herself as being proud that she is a Daughter of the Confederacy.

Mrs. W. A. Banks, Bryan, Texas

Mrs. W. A. Banks is third vice-president of the Texas division United Daughters of the Confederacy, she is also president of L. S. Ross chapter No. 100, Bryan. She was a charter member of L. S. Ross chapter, No. 100, organized in Bryan in 1897. She has served the chapter in various capacities—first as recording and corresponding secretary, as delegate to the state convention. At the last session of the state division held in San Antonio she was elected third vice-president of the division.

Mrs. Fannie J. Halbert, First Vice-President, Texas Division
Mrs. Fannie J. Halbert is first vice-president of the Texas division, U. D. C. She is also president of the Navarro chapter at Corsicana, which is one of the largest chapters in the state. Mrs. Halbert attended the national convention in New Orleans recently, and read the report of Miss Dunovant, president Texas division, Miss Dunovant not being able to attend.

Mrs. Halbert is among the tireless workers in the cause.

Mrs. J. Mayrant Smith is treasurer of the Texas division, and is also president of Bell county chapter, No. 101, U. D. C. She is a daughter of Colonel B. F. Terry, of the famous Terry rangers. She has always taken great interest in anything pertaining to the "Lost Cause." Mr. and Mrs. Smith had the misfortune to lose their only daughter about three months ago.

A Cold Wave

The forecast of sudden changes in the weather serves notice that a hoarse voice and a heavy cough may invade the sanctity of health in your own home. Cautious people have a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure always at hand. E. H. Wise, Madison, Ga., writes: "I am indebted to One Minute Cough Cure for my present good health, and probably my life." It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, Bronchitis, Pneumonia and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the phlegm, draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes the mucous membranes and strengthens the lungs.

THE OMNIBUS BILL COMES UP

SENATORS OPPOSED TO THE MEASURE DISCUSS IT

ITS FRIENDS ARE ACTIVE

Mr. Beveridge, Who Is Opposed to the Taking in of Arizona and New Mexico, But Who Favors Oklahoma, it is Said, Outlines the Probable Report

Washington, Dec. 2.—The contest over the omnibus statehood bill began upon the meeting of congress. As soon as the senate adjourned Monday there was a conference in Senator Hale's committee room attended by Senators Allison, Aldrich, Hale, Platt of Connecticut, Cullom, Lodge, Hanna and Beveridge, the latter the chairman of the committee on territories. These gentlemen represented the Republicans who are opposed to the omnibus bill in admitting Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona, and it is understood, favor a bill admitting Oklahoma only.

The friends of the omnibus bill also were active and claim to have the names of fifteen Republican senators pledged to support the omnibus bill, which, with the Democrats, will insure its passage. It is probable that a Republican caucus upon the subject will be held.

The principal part of the discussion was on the forthcoming report of the committee on territories.

Senator Beveridge briefly outlined the main features of the prospective report, from which it was gathered that the majority would be strongly adverse to the admission of either Arizona or New Mexico. The senators at the conference expressed the opinion that if the conditions were as shown by the testimony, the features of which were given by Senator Beveridge, then it would be unwise to admit either New Mexico or Arizona. The admission of Oklahoma and Indian Territory found considerable favor when reached.

Later in the afternoon there was a conference in Senator Beveridge's committee room attended by the Republican members of the committee opposed to the passage of the omnibus bill. Other members also called during the day and discussed the question.

The Republicans who are fighting for the omnibus bill are under the leadership of Senators Quay and Elkins.

Why
Syrup of Figs
is the best family laxative

Because

Its component parts are all wholesome. It acts gently without unpleasant after-effects. It is wholly free from objectionable substances.

It contains the laxative principles of plants. It contains the carminative principles of plants. It contains wholesome aromatic liquids which are agreeable and refreshing to the taste.

All are pure. All are delicately blended. All are skillfully and scientifically compounded.

Its value is due to our method of manufacture and to the originality and simplicity of the combination.

To get its beneficial effects—buy the genuine.

Kodol Digests what you Eat
Dyspepsia Cure

The agony you suffer after eating, that feeling of fullness, flatulence (wind on the stomach) and belching is caused by decay of undigested food which forms a gas that distends the walls of the stomach and exerts a pressure against all the internal organs. The eating of more food forces out part of this gas and causes belching. Just take a little KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE. It will relieve you at once. It never fails to permanently cure the worst cases of indigestion and dyspepsia.

"I suffered untold pains from indigestion which were always worse after eating. Two bottles of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE made me a well man and life now seems worth living. Peter Sherman, No. Stratford, N. H."

It can't help but do you good

Prepared by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. The $1. bottle contains 2 1/4 times the 50c. size.

The favorite household remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, grippe, throat and lung troubles is ONE MINUTE COUGH CURE. It cures quickly.
