THE FASHIONS.

Black and white relieved by touches of pale blue is one of the season's popular combinations in handsome tailor gowns.

French flannel blouses or shirt waists with tailor made walking skirts of cloth or zibeline are just now almost universally worn.

Many of the cloth skirt and coat costumes of last spring are freshened this season by the addition of trimmings of a matching color in silk or velvet on which small white dots are woven.

Gray squirrel has again come into favor and is used for wraps, linings, edgings, cape collars and muffs. A novel sight is that of squirrel fur muffs and boas combined with ermine, otter or black martens.

Silver pointed fox fur, which is liberally sprinkled with white hairs, is one of the number of comparatively inexpensive furs which are used this season for trimming costumes of zibeline, camel's hair, beetle cloth and similar shaggy fabrics so much the vogue.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

The best location for a peach orchard is on high land.

A mound of earth around each tree should never be omitted in fall planting.

Pruning is necessary to restore the balance after the impartial loss of roots in transplanting.

Fall is the best time to set out rhubarb. It starts so early in the spring that the soil is rarely in proper condition for planting before growth begins.

Potash in one form or another is absolutely necessary to the growth of plants. One advantage of wood ashes is that they contain the elements to make a full and rapid growth.

Grapes may be pruned in the fall. The pruning should consist of shortening the strong canes about half and the weaker ones three-fourths or cutting the weaker ones out entirely.

A Guaranteed Cure for Piles Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. Your druggist will refund your money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure you. 50 cents.

There were 927,052 births registered in England and Wales during 1901. These figures are equivalent to a birth rate of 28.7 per cent in 1,000 persons living, which is the lowest on record.

No new suits were filed in the office of the district court clerk up to 3 o'clock.

Justices Rowland and Terrell were engaged entirely with civil business.

Review of Conditions and Current Prices Quoted at the Stock Yards

The weekly market letter and current quotations issued by the Fort Worth Live Stock Commission Company yesterday is as follows:

Dec. 29.—Receipts of cattle at this place for the past week were very light and the latter part of the week found prices 10 to 15c higher, and we are selling a little higher again today. There are only 200 head of cattle on the market here today, and while Chicago, with 26,000 head, closed 10 to 15c lower, Kansas City only has 5,000, with a steady market and St. Louis, with 2,500 head has a strong market. With our light receipts we will be able to maintain a higher market throughout the week unless an unexpected run is meting from the west.

We sold two loads of 780-pound cows for $2.60 this morning that would have sold for $2.35 to 2.40 a week ago. Good feeder bulls continue to run at $2.20 to $2.10, with the common kind selling on down as low as $1.50. There is some inquiry for good feeder steers and we expect to see this class of cattle bring a little more money from now on.

Our hog market has advanced 10 to 15c during the week and strictly choice sorted hogs would bring $6.25 on our market today.

We quote our market below as follows: Choice fat steers, $3.50 to 4; medium weight steers, $3.00 to 3.25; light fat cows, $2.50 to 2.75; choice fat cows, $2.60 to 2.85; medium fat cows, $2.40 to 2.60; sorted hogs, 200 pounds and upward, $6.15 to 6.25; mixed fat hogs, heavy, $5.75 to 5.90; light fat hogs, $5.25 to 5.50; butts, stags and oxen, $1.85 to 2.10; canners, $1.50 to 1.75.

THE HUMBERTS ARE IN PARIS

NOTORIOUS FAMILY LANDED BEHIND PRISON BARS

DETAILS OF THE TRIP

Men and Women of the Party Kept Separated on Journey From Madrid—Intense Excitement Created all Over France By Their Coming, But There Are no Demonstrations

(By Associated Press.)

Paris, Dec. 30.—The members of the Humbert family, who were recently arrested at Madrid in connection with the great safe frauds in this city, arrived at the Orleans station yesterday morning.

There was no demonstration. The prisoners were conducted to the Conciergerie prison. The arrival of the fugitives was devoid of sensational incidents, as the French police had chosen an hour for their return here when Paris was only half awake.

The crowd at the railroad station was comparatively small, but a large force of police and soldiers, mounted and on foot, were drawn up in front of the station and guarded all the street approaches in order to prevent the possibility of a popular demonstration.

The men and women of the Humbert party were kept separated during the trip from Madrid, and they were brought from the train in two separate parties. The women came first.

leaning on the arms of officers. Mme. Humbert was dressed in black and veiled, but she was readily recognized by her stout figure. Her young daughter, Eva, was the most pathetic looking of the women. Mme. Humbert was followed by her sister, Marie, who did not show the bravado she exhibited at Madrid, but was pale and appeared disconsolate. Frederick Humbert, Madame Humbert's husband, looked completely broken down. Romain D'Aurignac and wife, Emile, maintained the calm, quiet attitude they have shown throughout. M. D'Aurignac still wore a Spanish beard which served him as a disguise. The party passed through double lines of police to carriages in waiting. Detachments of mounted police officers surrounded the vehicles, which were driven at a rattling pace through the gathering crowds to the Conciergerie, where minute preparations had been made to receive the prisoners.

The return of the Humberts is the absorbing topic for discussion throughout the city, indeed throughout France, as no event since the return of Dreyfus has created such intense interest. All classes of society are equally interested, as the Humberts' operations were so colossal.

Owing to the belief of the authorities that Eva Humbert is an innocent victim of her mother's operations, they proposed to entrust her to the custody of her grandmother, Mme. Gustave Humbert, widow of the former minister of justice in the De Freycinet cabinet, but Mme. Eva positively declined the proposal, declaring her purpose to remain with her mother in prison. The attitude of the girl excites universal sympathy.

PRIVATE CAR OVERTURNED

Rolled Down Embankment With No Serious Results

(By Associated Press.)
Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 30.—A Commercial-Appel special from Wynne, Ark., says:

The private car of Superintendent A. J. Davidson of the Frisco, occupied by Mr. Davidson and a party of St. Louis and New York capitalists, was overturned here. The car was attached to the rear end of the Memphis-St. Louis Iron Mountain passenger train. In passing over a switch it was thrown from the rail and began to roll down the embankment. A telegraph pole stopped its course and the passengers escaped with bruises and slight injuries. The names of the members of the party could not be secured.

MINISTER BOWEN FULLY ADVISED

IS NOTIFIED OF THE RESULT OF ACCEPTANCE OF TRIBUNAL

NOW WAITING ON CASTRO

It Seems Probable That United States Representative at Caracas Will Be at Washington on Commission — He May Represent Venezuela As Well as the Allied Powers

Washington, Dec. 30.—The Venezuelan negotiations now wait upon President Castro. Minister Bowen has been fully advised by the state department of the result of its exchanges with the foreign offices at London, Berlin and Rome, and he has been charged to take the case in hand himself and arrange the details of the protocol which will precede the submission of the foreign claims to the arbitration of The Hague tribunal. In so doing Mr. Bowen is acting not as United States minister, but as Venezuela's representative. The officials here wish it to be distinctly understood that their functions ceased so far as the Venezuelan difficulty was concerned when they brought the parties to the controversy together.

By the latest Venezuelan advice it is noted that President Castro is expected at Caracas Monday, and it is felt that he will not consume much time in making up his mind to a special proposal held out to him through Minister Bowen by the allied powers. It now seems probable that Minister Bowen will come to Washington as Venezuelan representative on the commission which will draw up the protocol providing for the submission of the claims of the powers to The Hague tribunal. It has been decided that he also may represent Venezuela notwithstanding the fact that he is at present charged with the interests of Great Britain, Germany, Italy and other European powers in Venezuela. As soon as he leaves Venezuela this charge will pass to Mr. Russell, the secretary and charge of the American legation, whose reputation at the state department is that of a thoroughly competent and able official.

PROBING GRAND TRUNK HORROR

CORONER'S JURY BUSY AT WYOMING, CANADA

"BUST IT" IN TESTIMONY

This Expression is a Common Form of Anpuling Orders, and the Operator Blamed States That He Received the Words By Wire, in Reference to Previous Orders Given

(By Associated Press.)

WYOMING, Oct. 30.—The inquest into the cause of the death of the victims of the recent accident on the Grand Trunk railway at Wanstead was begun here. Dispatcher Kerr, who sent the train from London, was called. Kerr's evidence was to the effect that he sent orders to the Watford and Wyoming operators simultaneously to have the express meet the freight at Wanstead. Shortly after Wyoming reported to the dispatcher that the freight was slow in getting out, Kerr's order was properly repeated back by both operators and Kerr marked it "O. K."

Kerr asked Wyoming why the freight was slow in going out. Wyoming answered "I can't." Kerr said: "You must stop her." Kerr then called Kings Court for seven or eight minutes before raising that office. Kings Court reported No. 5 had passed. In a few minutes Wanstead called the dispatcher asking if the trains were to cross at Wanstead as he had heard a noise and had run from his house thinking there was trouble. In a few minutes Assistant Superintendent Coestello, who was on the express train called Kerr and asked for the auxiliary to be sent as a collision had occurred. W. J. Hanna, who appeared for Carson, the station agent at Watford, cross examined Kerr.

Andrew Carson, the Watford operator, at whose door is laid the responsibility for the accident by the Grand Trunk officials, followed Kerr on the stand. He appeared to be cool and collected. He got the order for the two trains to pass at Wanstead, he said, and displayed his order board to stop the express. Soon after he heard Wyoming tell of the delay to the freight and then the London dispatcher called the witness and said: "Bust it."

He did not hear the word "May" preceding "bust it." The express had stopped and the conductor asked for his order but the witness told him it had been cancelled and gave the conductor a clearance order. "Bust it" is a common form of cancellation of orders, he said. He did not get a formal order annulling. There was no written order of the "bust it."

BURMESE MIDGET DIES

One of the Twins Expires Suddenly at Beaumont

(Special to The Telegram.)
Beaumont, La., Dec. 20.—Fatma Sing Hoo, the female Burmese midget, died very suddenly at the Crosby hotel Monday. Mrs. John T. Backman, godfather and godmother of the Burmese twins, Fatma and Smaun, arrived in Beaumont Sunday from Galveston and placed the little East Indian wonder on exhibition here for the first time Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Oil Exchange building. At 4:30 Fatma leaned over the railing that surrounds the stadium on which the midgets perform many acrobatic feats and complained that her stomach was giving her much pain.

Mr. Backman gathered the little miss, who only weighs fifteen pounds, in his arms and required to their room at the hotel in the same block, and at once summoned a physician, and after all was done that could be done for her, she expired a few minutes before 5 o'clock. Fatma was twenty-eight years old.

TWO NEGROES ARE KILLED

Whites and Blacks Indulge in Desperate Battle

(By Associated Press.)
Williston, Fla., Dec. 30.—A shooting affray between whites and negroes near the Newberry phosphate mines resulted in the death of two negroes and the wounding of two white men. There has been bad feeling between the whites and the negroes employed at the mines for some time. Elmer Flowers, Roy Landran, N. Landran and M. Colly, whites, drove to Newberry on business, fully armed. When they started for home a gang of negroes armed with Winchester rifles met them in the road and opened fire. The whites returned the shot and the battle was continued for some time. When the smoke cleared away it was found that two of the negroes were dead. Flowers was found shot through the thigh and N. Landran sustained a slight wound in the head. The other negroes fled, but two of them were captured and delivered to the sheriff.

A WHISKY HOUSE FIRE

Louisville Has a Hundred Thousand Dollar Conflagration

(By Associated Press.)
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 30.—Fire which broke out at about 11:50 o'clock Monday night in the wholesale whisky house of Bonnie Bros., at 129 Main street, in the heart of the wholesale whisky district of this city, caused a loss of about $100,000, and threatened for a time to destroy the Louisville and Nashville railroad's general offices and other property valued at three or four times that amount. The flames, however, were gotten under control after a hard fight, and the damage was confined to the building in which the fire started, the first three floors of which were occupied by the Bonnie Bros., and the top floors by the auditor's office of the Louisville and Nashville. Bonnie Bros. were the heaviest losers, their stock, valued at about $85,000, being almost totally destroyed.

Gardner Gets Decision

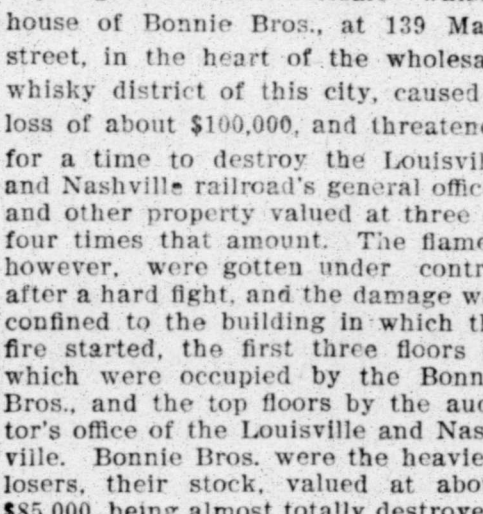

Chicago, Dec. 30.—George Gardner of Lowell, Mass., the light heavy-weight champion, won a decision over "Kid" Carter of Brooklyn in a six-round contest here Monday night. The fight was rough and fierce from beginning to end, with Gardner having the advantage of one of the rounds. Carter was groggy during the last round, but by resorting to clinches at every opportunity succeeded in escaping a knockout. Both men were covered with blood at the end of the contest.

Springfield, O., Feb. 21, 1901.
"Having heard that you could procure a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, free by mail, I wrote to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle and it was promptly sent. I was so pleased after trying the sample bottle that I sent to the drug store and procured a supply. I have used Swamp-Root regularly for some time, and consider it unsurpassed as a remedy for dropsical liver, loss of appetite and general derangement of the digestive functions. I think my trouble was due to too close confinement in my business. I can recommend it highly for all liver and kidney complaints. I am not in the habit of endorsing any medicine, but in this case I cannot speak too much in praise of what Swamp-Root has done for me."

CUBAN PROGRESS

A striking picture of the development of Cuba since the Spanish war is presented in a report to his home government by Mr. Lionel Carden, the British minister at Havana, a copy of which has just reached this city. The minister says:

"It is highly satisfactory to note the remarkable progress the island has made in the past three years in spite of the deplorable condition in which it was left at the end of the war. The production of sugar has risen from 335,000 tons in 1899 to over 800,000 tons in 1901, and will probably reach 1,000,000 in the coming crop. The cultivation and manufacture of tobacco, as well as the minor industries, show considerable improvement; the stock of cattle on the island, thanks to large importations, is now probably upward of 750,000, as compared with less than 200,000 at the beginning of 1899, and, finally, the value of the exports has increased from 9,260,000 pounds to 12,650,000 pounds, and would have reached much higher figures but for the fall in the price of sugar.

"Considering how little financial assistance the Cubans have received from abroad, it speaks very highly for their energy and industry that they should have achieved so much in so short a time and with such limited resources at their command, and affords strong grounds for believing that the work of developing the island's industries anew, commenced under such difficulties, will be persevered in."

All through the minister's report, treating of the details of each branch of commerce, he points out to each branch of commerce, he points out to his countrymen the ever-growing competition of the United States and the report is full of advice to the English traders as to the best means of meeting this competition and of holding the ground in Cuban trade, which is rapidly being taken from them by the United States.

Library Movement in Texas

By MRS. J. C. TERRELL

At the meeting of the State Teachers' association in Austin this afternoon a paper on "The Progress and Future of the Library Movement in Texas," written by Mrs. J. C. Terrell of Fort Worth, was read by Miss Lola Ellen Dilworth, corresponding secretary of the State Federation of Women's clubs. The paper contains a complete review of the work along this line, which has been accomplished in a few years. It is as follows:

"Mr. Melvel Dewey, a great authority on public libraries, has said: 'From the infancy of the race, three requests have been on the lips of men: 'Tell me a story, 'Show me a picture' and 'What is the news?'. The response has developed the novel, the photograph and the daily newspaper.' Might he not better have said: 'On the lips of man, since the beginning has been the insistent demand 'I want to know'—and the latest, fullest response is—the free public library."

With this audience it is superfluous to go into the history of the public library movement or to present arguments in its favor, for the public library is an accepted fact in present day civilization, and our business here is to ascertain how this great blessing can be secured to Texas. From the first we club women have depended upon the teachers as strong allies in this work, and Mr. President, in your letter asking that I present this subject to this honorable body, you wrote 'the underlying theme of the entire program is lines of future educational progress in Texas,' and when you further said 'there is no agency more closely connected with the highest success of our schools, and the promotion of educational sentiment than the library.' No truer key was ever struck. When our fathers laid the foundation of our magnificent school system, by setting aside a domain for its endowment, they entailed upon each succeeding generation the solemn obligation of perfecting the institution. In the present day broad conception of education, the library is essential to the school, and we here 'hit our wagon to a star' and assert that the state can not afford to allow even the smallest obstacle to remain between any of its citizens and the desire for either information or inspiration. In this matter we have not to blaze our path, for older states have gone before, making a royal road in which we may follow and reap the benefit of their experience.

The latest development of the library movement and the most practical for our purpose, is the traveling library; as has been proven, a given amount of money accomplishes more practical good this way than in any other, in as much as it 'gives the best reading to the largest number for the least cost.' The traveling library as a state institution is distinctly American, and its enormous growth has been attained in ten years. Massachusetts was the first to inaugurate them; but in New York their fullest development was attained. In 1892, under the management of Mr. Melvel Dewey, state librarian, a few cases were sent out as an experiment. New York has now several thousand of these libraries, containing 80,000 books; 100 volumes, or fractions thereof, are sent to any place in the state, on the personal guarantee of three reputable citizens for their care and distribution, and for the maximum sum of $5 to cover transportation. So successful was the plan that other states quickly adopted it, and it is the glory of the club women that through their active work and influence this philanthropy has spread into more than forty states, thirty-three of which have library commissions and make annual appropriations of from $1,000 to $7,500 to support traveling libraries. Time does not permit giving in detail plans followed, this information is easily obtainable by application to the United States bureau of education. In many states they are circulated in connection with public schools. This, you know, is the age of the children, when their needs are closely looked to, so this new traveling system is specially adapted to their wants, and the importance of this feature is apparent, says an experienced librarian, who has often heard of the fascination of the story and who had come to see for themselves just what had made it a great play. Doubtless few of them discovered the secret, for 'The Two Orphans' was cast for another generation and the charm which used to mark the mysterious unfolding of the plot to the audiences of former days is lacking to the smart footlight follower of today, who reads the cast of characters and synopsis of the scenes, sees half of the first act and then relates the rest of the play in advance to the other members of his or her box party.

Last night's company it can be said it was generally good. Miss Claxton has lost none of her charm of manner, though she suffered badly from a severe cold. Miss Marion Clifton as La Frochard, the old beggar woman, played her part well and Miss Sarah Maddern as Henriette received many outbursts of applause. The quaint old costumes of the period in which the play was written gave a richness to the stage setting needed to offset the somewhat somber scenery. The tableaux were effective and artistic to a degree that is unusual when so many and such varied nature have to be presented in the course of an evening.

The voices of the male members of the cast are somewhat unsatisfactory and in some cases they are entirely too weak for the work called for.

Though the attendance last night was only fair it may be said to Fort

Worth's credit it was the best in point of size that has yet greeted the company in Texas, the tour of the state so far having been rather unfortunate, for the reason that few people seem to be aware of the beauty of the play and the strength of Miss Claxton's work. It is to be hoped that better houses will greet her during the remainder of the tour, as the production has been staged at considerable expense.

"The Belle of New York" Tonight. Always a production of beautiful brightness and merry tunefulness is promised by the management, and this season's Belle of New York company, which is to be at Greenwall's opera-house tonight, is better in every respect than it was in the past. Special efforts have been made to secure a company of players great in comedy work and with voices of great range and splendid cultivation. Although "The Belle of New York" is the most popular and brightest and has more harmonious cast than any other musical production of recent years, it requires more talent in its players than any of the others. The characterizations are of such pronounced types and offer such strong contrast to each other that players lacking in experience and mimetic talent would fall flat. For this reason it can be readily seen that the management made special efforts to get the best men and women in their particular lines. "The Belle of New York" will appear at Greenwall's opera-house tonight.

Sam T. Jack's Own Burlesque Company

An organization known as Sam T. Jack's Own Burlesque company is booked to appear at Greenwall's opera-house Wednesday night, Jan. 31. The opening portion of the bill is a jolly trifled called "Kransmeyer's Dilemma." This will be followed by an olio of rare excellence contributed by a small army of specialty artists, whose names are a sure guarantee of merit. An entirely new burlesque will bring the performance to a close. It is named "Wanted, a Husband," is full of songs, dances, marches and funny situations, and is acknowledged to be a sumptuous feast for both eye and ear.

Thomas Jefferson

Thomas Jefferson, the son of Joseph Jefferson, who is successfully starring in "Rip Van Winkle," promises to perpetuate the name of Jefferson for many years. Comparing the young man with his father recently, C. B. Jefferson, his brother, said: "Like him in manner, disposition, everything, yet knowing what he has to contend with in the way of comparison, it is very gratifying the way his efforts are received. He does not seem to imitate father, for what he does is just as natural to him as it is natural to father. He is growing in the part all the time. It seems that the same spiritual element in father's nature that finds expression in this part is inherited by Tom and finds a similar natural expression." Mr. Jefferson presents "Rip Van Winkle" at Greenwall's opera-house Thursday (New Year's) matinee and night, Jan. 1.

"Finnigan's Ball"

The sparkling musical comedy, "Finnigan's Ball," which comes to Greenwall's opera-house Saturday matinee and night, Jan. 3, has received a few new coats of color this season, most of the songs being fresh and new, the comedy original and the dancing features unique and striking, but it is still recognizable as the same satisfactory play which thousands laughed at last season. An exceedingly strong and efficient cast, representing an unusual degree of talent, has been engaged and "Finnigan's Ball" will be seen here Saturday matinee and night, Jan. 3.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly poking to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. THE Mississippi Bubble

A NOVEL BY EMERSON HOUGH.

(Copyright, 1902, by the Bowen-Merrill Company.)

Synopsis. John Law, an adventurer and financier of Louis XVI's reign, and his brother are attacked by English robbers and are succeeded on the road by Lady Catherine Knollys, a famous beauty, and Mary Conynge. Law and Lady Catherine are mutually infatuated, while Mary Conynge admires Law without response. Law takes a prominent part in English finances and again encounters Lady Kitty, to whom he discloses his love. In a duel Law kills "Beau" Wilson and is sent to prison. He writes to Lady Catherine, but Mary Conynge intercepts the note and hastens to the prison, persuading Law of her love and Kitty's faithfulness. Law, who is condemned to die, escapes through the prison. She goes to the prison and is astounded to encounter Law and Mary as they depart together. Law and Mary go to America, at the head of an expedition to the Mississippi valley, under the guidance of Du Mesne.

And then he saw the fading of the tassels, the darkening of the silk and the crinkling of the blades; and there, borne on the strong parent stem, he noted now the many full-ripened ears, protected by their husks and heralded by the tassels and the blades. "Come, come ye, all ye people! Enter in, for I will feed ye all!" This was the song of the maize, its invitation, its counsel, its promise.

Under the warped lodge frames which the fires of the Iroquois had spared, there were yet visible clusters of the ears of last year's corn. Here, under his own eye, were growing yet other ears, ripe for the harvesting and ripe for the coming growth. A strange spell fell upon the soul of Law. Visions crossed his mind, born in the soft warm air of these fecundating winds, of this strange yet peaceful scene. At times he stood and looked out from the door of the palisade, when the prairie mists were rising in the morning at the mandate of the sun, and to his eyes these waving seas of grasses all seemed beckoning fields of corn. The smoke coming from the broken tepees of the timid tribesmen, surely they arose from the roofs of happy and contented homes! These wreaths and wreaths of the twisting and wide-stalking mists, surely these were the captains of a general hubbany! Ah, John Law, John Law! Had God given thee the right feeling and contented heart, happy indeed had been these days in this new land of thine own, far from ignoble strivings and from fevered dreams, far from restless struggles and unregulated avarice, far from oppression and from misery, far from hickories, heart-burnings and envyings! Ah, John Law! Had God but given thee the pure and well-contented heart! For here in the Messabe, that Mind which made the universe and set man to be one of its little inhabitants—surely that Mind had planned that man should come and grow in this place, tall and strong, and fruitful, useful to all the world, even as this swift, strong growing of the maize.

CHAPTER VII

The breath of autumn came into the air. The little flowers which had dotted the grassy robe of the rolling hills had long since faded away under the ardent sun, and now there appeared only the denuded stalks of the mulleins and the flaunting banners of the golden rod. The wild grouse shrank from the edges of the little fields and joined their numbers into general bands, which night and morn crossed the country on sustained and strong-winged flight. The plumage of the young wild turkeys, stalking in droves among the open groves, began to emerald the iridescent splendors of their elders. The marshes above the village became the home of yet more numerous thousands of clamoring wild fowl, and high up against the blue there passed on the south-bound journey the harrow of the wild geese, wending their way from north to south across an unknown empire.

A chill came into the waters of the river, so that the bass and pike sought out the deeper pools. The squirrels busily hoarded up supplies of the nuts now ripening. The antlers of the deer and the elk which emerged from the cornaling thickets now showed no longer ragged strips of velvet, and their tips were polished in the preliminary fitting for the fall season of love and combat. There came nights when the white frost hung heavy upon all the bending grasses and the broad-leaved plants, a frost which seared the maize leaves and set aflame the foliage of the maples all along the streams and decked in a hundred flamboyant tones the leaves of the sumach and all the climbing vines.

As all things now pressed the coming winter, so there approached also the time when the little party, so long companions upon the western trails, must for the first time know division. Du Mesne, making ready for the return trip over the unknown waterways back to the lakes, as had been deter-

DR. PHILLIPS SENDS WORD TO HIS FRIENDS

To the Editor of The Telegram. Dallas, Tex., Dec. 29.—I was requested by my friends of Tarrant county before my leaving that county to notify them where I was taken and how I was getting along, and the best and surest way that suggested itself to me was through the columns of your popular paper, and presuming that I have your consent and that you will favor me to that extent, I will proceed to impart to my friends the desired information, to-wit: I am on the M. H. Turner convict farm, six miles northwest of Dallas; postoffice address, box No. 580, Dallas, Tex. I am exceedingly happy to say that my treatment by the management of this camp has been most satisfactory, and judging from my own experience and what other prisoners have told me who are in a position to know, naving been on other camps, that I have been fortunate enough to have gotten on the best camp and under the best management in the state. Sergeant R. H. Underwood is in charge here and I can not possibly observe where he could be improved on.

I hope this knowledge will afford my friends as much pleasure as the realization of same does me.

To be prisoners and in the penitentiary, we have spent a most pleasant Christmas, having a fine dinner and plenty of music. Sergeant Underwood does all in his power to make the men forget their troubles and enjoy themselves.

To those who might be interested in me, I wish them a happy New Year and a prosperous continuation of same. Yours most respectfully, DR. J. T. PHILLIPS, Turner Farm, P. O. Box 580, Dallas, Tex.

Franks, first baseman; James McClellan, second baseman; Otho Shires, third baseman; George Smith, shortstop; William J. Disch, William Hubert and Dee Poindexter, outfielders. Franks lives at San Angelo, is over six feet tall and a hard stickler, who has won a reputation in several semi-professional clubs. McClellan comes from Iowa, and only asks for an opportunity to demonstrate his ability. Shires is a fast, clear-headed player with a good sight who played with the Eastern league for a time. Disch played outfield two seasons with the South Dakota league and "made good," while Poindexter was in the Texas league with Dallas, Corsicana and Waco last year, gaining a splendid reputation as a hard hitter at the bat. Hubert has a good reputation as a run getter and hitter and played with the "Three Eye" league of Bloomington, Ill., last year.

"I have between 5,000 and 6,000 head of cattle in Cuba," said Mr. Williams this morning, "and Cuba is certainly the cattleman's paradise. The only thing that Cuba now needs is more Americanizing. The common people there are from 300 to 400 years behind the times. They follow the same customs and habits that were practiced by those white people who first settled on the island. Progress has been unknown. They have not even changed. Of course the upper classes are the equals in culture and refinement to the best classes of any nation's citizens. Work is progressing rapidly on the interior improvements which, according to an agreement entered into with Ben J. The rooms are all being recarpeted and refurbished and a cafe is to be opened on the first floor adjoining the office. It is expected that the alterations will be completed by the middle of January.

Mr. Watson, who has joined Mr. Bicknell in conducting the enterprise, was for years proprietor of the McClellan hotel at Waco.

NEWS OF RAILROADS

TEXAS RAILROADS ARE HEAVY LOSERS BY RECENT RAINS

How Railroad News Changes From One System to Another — Santa Fe Statement for November Indicates a Good Showing — Orient Makes a Good Steamship Contract

As has been noted before in this column, nothing is more interesting regarding railroad news than the way in which it shifts from one big system to another. For a time one system will fill the papers with all sorts of stories, real and rumored, and then suddenly the news regarding it will cease, and the news will come from another line. This has been strikingly evident of late in the southwest and in Texas particularly.

First the Rock Island claimed the attention of railroad newsgatherers and for several months, stories of extensions and purchases, improvements and expenditures, changes of officials and locations of offices, supplied the majority of the matter in most of the railroad columns of the state papers.

Then the Rock Island suddenly fell off in its supply of "news" and the Frisco was taken up. As a source of rumors and news, the Frisco has lasted comparatively well and extensions not exceeding more than twice the length of the present system have been projected, discussed, modified and abandoned.

Just now the railroad supplying most news is the Santa Fe. The Santa Fe cut off in New Mexico, the Santa Fe line through the Panhandle, the Santa Fe's alleged violation of the Western Passenger association agreement and a host of other items have appeared within the last week or two and the end is not yet. How long the Santa Fe will claim attention cannot be stated. As a chance it may be conjectured that the next railroad in Texas to demand attention as a source of news will be either the Cotton Belt or the Katy, both of which roads have been subject to slight attentions lately and may receive more later.

TEXAS ROADS LOSE HEAVILY

The Unprecedented Rains of the Past Season Have Wrought Much Havoc

The Galveston Tribune calls attention to the great damage done railroad systems in Texas by the unprecedented rains of the season, particularly during the past two months. In an interview with a local railroad man the following statement is credited to the speaker—

"There has been more damage done to railroad property in Texas during the past two months by heavy rains than has been occasioned by the rains of twenty-five preceding years.

"This damage has not been in the nature of washouts as is usually the case, but has been a gradual and steady undermining of the tracks all through the state. There have been no violent storms, but there has been a vast quantity of rain and it has fallen at intervals which made it impossible to place the tracks in repair before another rain fell and rendered them in a worse condition than ever. In many places the tracks have been temporarily repaired only to be visited by other rains and the trains passing over the place where the work was yet incomplete made the track worse than before. The continuation of the steady rains loosened the ballast and softened the road bed and this kept up so long that the roads suffered more than most people imagine. The damage was done gradually and little attention was paid to it by people not connected with railroads and those who have little occasion to travel. Railroad men have been confronted by a serious problem, however, to operate trains at all on some sections of the road, and in many instances arrangements were made whereby the tracks of other companies were used while the repair work was in progress."

Asked for an approximate estimate of the damage done to the various roads of the state, the speaker stated that he would not undertake to make anything which might purport to be an accurate estimate, but that the damage done this year would exceed that of former years by at least $1,000,000.

SANTA FE MAKES GOOD SHOWING

Earnings for November Show Increase in Spite of Operating Expenses

The November statement of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway system shows an increase in both gross and net earnings despite a heavy increase in operating expenses.

The statement for five months of the official year, November 30 shows a decrease, however, of more than $500,000 in net earnings, although the gross earnings increased more than $600,000.

The decrease in net earnings as compared with the same period in 1901 is due to an increase of more than $1,000,000 in operating expenses, due in part to increased mileage. The net earnings for November, however, are more than $2,500,000, while the net earnings for the five months period are more than $10,500,000.

The heavy increase in Santa Fe operating expenses has been one of the marked features of Santa Fe reports for some time. The earning of the road have shown a satisfactory increase, and had the operating expenses been held as low as in years past, the net would have made a showing which would be gratifying to the stockholders.

ORIENT MAKES GOOD CONTRACT

Important Announcement Comes from Kansas City About Stillwell's Line

The announcement comes from Kansas City that the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient has ratified a contract with the Hamburg-American steamship company for a regular steamer service to Port Stillwell, the Mexican terminus of the line. If the announcement is authentic, it is most important, heretofore one of the greatest difficulties in connection with the construction of the new line has been to secure definite assurance that a steamship company would run ships to the Mexican terminus. Without steamships at the Mexican port the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient would be a magnificent failure.

THE SANTA FE ORDERS ENGINES

Places Requisition for Locomotives to Use in Heavy Mountain Work

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway company has purchased fifteen Mikados at $20,000 each. These Mikados are not Japanese rules, but a special type of engine calculated to give excellent service on the mountain roads.

Four of these engines have already been received at Topeka and have been sent out on their trial trips, on which they proved satisfactory.

The new engines will take the place of decapods on the heavy mountain division of the line and will only be used in the freight service. The chief difference between the Mikados and the decapods is that the Mikados only have four pairs of drivers and a trailer truck, while the decapods have five pairs of drivers. This gives the Mikados an advantage over the decapods on sharp curves and it is thought that they will give much better satisfaction than the decapods. As far as weight and size go, the Mikados are the equal of the decapods, which are the heaviest engines made.

Railroad Notes and Personals

J. D. Dowling, commercial agent of the Southern railroad has been transferred to Dallas as traveling freight agent to succeed S. C. Black who will go to Mobile, Ala.

The announcement comes from Rawlins, Wyo., that R. Baxter, general superintendent of the Nebraska division and W. L. Park, general superintendent of the Wyoming division of the Union Pacific, have tendered their resignations to accept positions with the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient, following General Manager E. L. Dickinson of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient who left the Union Pacific a short time ago.

The Santa Fe has received no less than twenty-one bids for the construction of the new cut-off between Rio Puerco, N. M. and a point near Portales on the Texas border. The largest contractors of the United States are the 200 odd miles of the line. Owing to the mild climate in which the work will be done and other favorable features, the contract is one worth the work of any railroad contractor.

Gerwood Hurdleston of Wichita Falls is spending the holidays with friends in the city. Mr. Hurdleston is extra passenger conductor on the Fort Worth and Denver and runs from Wichita Falls. He is one of the most popular young railroad men on the line, and at Christmas received a remembrance from the company in the form of an annual pass over the line and an appreciative letter from General Superintendent Scott of this city.

A BIG ARIZONA PROJECT

The Famous Blythe Rancho to Be Transformed

The famous Blythe ranch, situated fifty miles north of Yuma, on the Colorado river, and containing 40,000 acres of land, has been incorporated by the Riverside Development Company, with a view to developing the possibilities of that paradise of the Colorado. There is no more beautiful spot in this land of eternal sunshine and harvest. The soil is rich, fertile and full of vitality. It will be watered by the waters of the Colorado river, which show by analysis richer than the waters of the famous Nile river of Egypt. All kinds of citrus and semi-tropical fruits flourish in the valley of this Colorado paradise. Hence it is the ideal site for those seeking rest and luxury, and nature is in perpetual bloom and beauty.

It is the purpose of the Riverside Development Company to build an irrigation system at an estimated cost of $300,000, to furnish water for this Blythe ranch, and also for 60,000 acres of adjoining government land of equal fertility. To erect a sugar beet factory with a daily capacity for slicing 500 tons of beets and so constructed as to be easily and economically enlarged to 1,000 tons.

The requisites for successful sugar beet culture are found there—namely, rich and easily worked soil and an abundance of water for irrigation. It has been demonstrated in Utah and Colorado as well as in California that the irrigated beet is the richest in sugar, the highest in purity and the greatest in tonnage.

Generally stated, 1,000 tons of beets will produce 100 to 140 tons of refined granulated sugar worth 5c per pound. Experience proves that 5,000 acres of irrigated land will produce 75,000 tons of beets, which will be sufficient to operate a factory 150 days. The product of this 75,000 tons of beets will be 10,500 tons of sugar, worth at 5 cents a pound $1,050,000 gross.

These beets cost $5 a ton to raise, or $375,000. The cost to extract the sugar from 75,000 tons of beets will not exceed $180,000, thus leaving a gross profit of $875,000. It is a safe statement to make that under ordinary conditions, with sugar at about 5c a pound, this factory will earn net and above all fixed charges $500,000 per annum, and when the plant is enlarged to 1,000 tons capacity the yearly net earnings will be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. Reports of several factories in the United States show an earning capacity clearly proving the statements made above.—Tucson (Arizona) Star.

uted by Santa Claus, impersonated by Clarence Henning. A happy incident of the occasion was the presentation of a silk muffler and pair of gloves to the rector on behalf of the Church of the Holy Innocents, of which Trinity is the mother parish. The gift was bestowed by George R. Bowman, who acted as spokesman during the evening. A social hour followed and at 11 o'clock the Sunday school members, heavily laden with toys, books and candy, departed for their homes.

A Christmas party for the children of St. Andrew's church was held in the schoolhouse at 1017 Lamar street. Nearly one hundred and fifty of the younger generation were present. Games of various kinds were indulged in and choruses sung. Refreshments were served and gifts of candy and fruit distributed.

IS A BUSINESS PROPOSITION

The Principal Asset of the Successful Business Man

The head of the largest meat packing industry in the world, for many years, prior to his death, never traveled without his physician; everywhere he was accompanied by his medical adviser; he hired him for his exclusive attendance by the year and considered the large salary paid for such service as a part of his business investment. He did not do this because he was a hypochondriac, in constant fear of illness and death; on the contrary, he was an exceptionally robust man, but he realized that the principal asset in his enormous business was his own personal health, and to keep physically and mentally well and strong was a business proposition, pure and simple.

It is so with every business man and woman. A slight cold in the head or throat may pass off in a few days, or it may develop into pneumonia, chronic catarrh or an irritating throat trouble; in any event its departure should be hastened by some simple antiseptic preparation like Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, which are dissolved in the mouth and thus reach and destroy the germs of Catarrh, pneumonia, consumption, before they have a chance to propagate and thrive in the inflamed mucous membranes of the nose and throat.

To burden the stomach with drugs and stimulants is a foolish and often dangerous way to combat a cold, because stimulants are always followed by corresponding depression and where there is any tendency to pneumonia increases the danger by increasing the heart's action.

A popular school teacher in Pittsburgh writes: "I am a walking advertisement for Stuart's Catarrh Tablets; the change from a crowded steam heated school room to a raw, chill out doors kept me nursing colds in the head and throat from fall to spring. Throat irritation made it difficult for me to read or speak and conduct my classes. My druggist with whom I spent a large part of my salary for cough lozenges and potash tablets one day advised me to try Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and I shall never cease to thank him. I still catch cold occasionally, but I stop it in a day or two with the tablets, and I have done missionary work with my pupils to such an extent that coughs and colds are almost unknown amongst the youngsters in my room."

A TANGLE OF MIXED UP LIVES

APPROACHING MARRIAGE OF ELSIE GORDON RECALLS IT

WILL SHE BE UNLUCKY, TOO?

The Course of True Love Has Not Run Smoothly in Several Families Connected With Mark Hanna, the Cleveland Millionaire and Politician—Fort Worth People Involved in the Complications

(Special to The Telegram.)

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 30.—The approaching wedding of pretty little Elsie Barlow Gordon, the 17-year-old sister of the celebrated Mrs. Dan Hanna No. 2, recalls and accentuates one of the most tangled and mixed up series of romances that ever happened in a conspicuous family connection in America.

The family connection and main-troupe, but love o'erleapt them and left in its trail two desolate homes. These incidents are sure to be recalled when Elsie Gordon becomes the wife of the wealthy New York broker. Yet another that may not be so universally known preceded them. It belongs to the days of Elsie Gordon's mother, who was one of the three Smythe girls—daughters of Henry A. Smythe, once collector of the port of New York. They were all beauties. Two of them were divorced or separated from their husbands. One of those two married William J. Gordon, the father of the second Mrs. Hanna and the future Mrs. Morton Burr Stelle.

If this were a superstitious age much might be foreshadowed from the troublesome pranks that love has already played with the mother, the daughter and the son of the house of Gordon.

Even today there are fatalists who will hold that it was all preordained, astrologists who will declare that the stars foretold it, palmists and fortune tellers who believe that a certain line which indicates the heart must show a depression, an abrupt turn, a sudden break.

Elsie Barlow Gordon may never have had her fortune told or the lines of her palm dissected, and even if she has all fatalities may be absent. Let us hope that she may be destined to live out in calm domesticity her romance.

spring of these tangled lives is that of where men have stolen other men's wives and wives have stolen the hearts of other women's husbands, and where Mrs. Dan Hanna No. 1 stole her children away from her husband—and where Mabel Hanna stole a march on her sister, the famous magnate and United States senator from Ohio.

Into this tangle of mixed-up lives, on her astute father and married his secretary in spite of everything, and where girlhood chums like Mrs. Dan Hanna No. 1 and Mrs. Dan No. 2 each in turn married the sweetheart of their youth after all sorts of matrimonial troubles, and in which Geo. Gordon, the brother of the present Mrs. Dan Hanna, just recently eloped with another man's wife, enters the sweet, pretty little Miss Elsie Gordon as a promised bride fresh from a convent.

In some families affairs of the heart ripple along to their end as smoothly as though love were synonymous with perfect happiness, and one somehow doesn't hear of them.

In others they halt menacingly, or they rush desperately to a conclusion. For one reason or another, for them love spells misery, despair, divorce.

In the family connections to which Elsie Gordon is allied romance has walked hand in hand with difficulty. One may say that that is romance. It has at least the merit of not being commonplace.

There was nothing commonplace, for instance, in the marriage of Elsie's brilliant sister Daisy, the divorced wife of Major Walter de S. Maude, to Dan Hanna, the divorced son of the United States senator.

Fort Worth People Involved Her brother's elopement, too, was unconventional. It happened so short a time ago that it need only be referred to. It was in November last that George S. Gordon, a capitalist living at Fort Worth, Tex., eloped with the wife of Bert Harter, Mr. Harter went to Fort Worth as a representative of a Cleveland firm of export engineers. George Gordon, a brother of the present Mrs. Dan Hanna and Elsie Gordon, who will on Jan. 8 become the bride of Morton Burr Stelle Jr., met Mrs. Harter soon after her arrival at Fort Worth. She had a little daughter 4 years old. He had been married three years to the daughter of Capt. J. M. Lyles, a wealthy Texas capitalist. These two obstacles might seem to have been enough to prevent a catastrophy, but love o'erleapt them and left in its trail two desolate homes. These incidents are sure to be recalled when Elsie Gordon becomes the wife of the wealthy New York broker. Two Weddings and the Same Bride The last wedding that Elsie attended was that of her divorced sister. She came down from St. Mary's for it. The first wedding that she attended was also her sister's before she was divorced. Elsie, a slip of a girl of 12, was maid of honor in a white organdie trimmed with rose satin ribbons.

That was nearly six years ago. At St. Agnes' chapel her sister promised to love, honor and obey Walter de S. Maude, the son of a wealthy London merchant and the owner of a ranch in Texas.

Some years before this Dan Hanna and pretty May Herrington, both friends of Daisy Gordon, had eloped while they were supposed to be still too young to understand the meaning of the verb "to love."

Cleveland society had scarcely recovered from the shock of this verification of their rumors when they found themselves swamped in new ones.

Far and wide it was whispered that the lovely divorcee, Daisy Gordon de S. Maude, who, as a little girl, had been his playmate, was now the object of his intense admiration.

What had been rumor now became certainty. The lovely widow's ex-husband was fighting the Boers in Africa, the senator's son's ex-wife was somewhere in Europe when Mrs. de S. Maude became Mrs. Dan Hanna No. 2.

Since then there have been beautiful tales circulated announcing the reconciliation of all the Hannas, the former wife, the second wife, the ex-husband of one and the husband of the other, the children, the senator and all the rest of the family.

All is peace and happiness. One may wish that it continue and may it bless the union of Mrs. Dan Hanna's young sister, Elsie, and Morton Burr Stelle now and forever.

THE SCANDAL TO BE PUBLISHED

King George Determined to Print a Full Account of the Elopement BERLIN, Dec. 30.—King George of Saxony has ordered the preparation of a full official account of the elopement of Crown Princess Louise and the circumstances leading up to it. The most fantastical stories are in circulation to the detriment of the royal people, especially with reference to the king. The scandal is undermining, according to some opinions, royalty and respect for the throne.

The dynasty being Catholic and the people Protestant, the affair is being utilized for sectarian controversies. The king's statement will probably follow the lines published today affirming that the crown princess' sole reason for eloping was her criminal relations with Professor Giron, and that documentary proofs had been found showing that an elopement was long planned. The account of the crown princess herself says her father, the grand duke of Tuscany, intended to imprison her in an insane asylum.

Last summer, soon after they first met, the young people proceeded to act secretly. They engaged themselves and awaited developments. They came swiftly.

Elsie Gordon's mother became very ill, and her daughter decided to confess that she had chosen a husband. There followed family conclaves and discussions, much advice, much opposition and many arguments, out of which the lovers emerged triumphant.

It was decided to culminate the romance with a marriage. Everybody consented, perhaps because there wasn't anything else to do, and the invitations were issued for Jan. 8, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, at St. Thomas' church in New York.

Her brother, Douglas Gordon, will give her away, but whether George Gordon will be there is not known.
