A ONE-ARMED MAN SHINGLES A BARN

HOLDS NAILS WITH BIG TOE, THE SHINGLES WITH HIS FEET, AND WIELDS THE HAMMER WITH HAND

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 18.—Henry Schuman, a thrifty German farmer who lives at Corydon about twenty miles from New Albany, now holds the record for one-arm handiness. Schuman has just finished shingling a big barn back of his home and all the work he did himself. He carried the shingles up the ladder, opened the bundles and built his own scaffolding and then laid all of the shingles himself, better than many a roofer could have done. Schuman evolved a way himself. The hammer to drive the nails he had to hold in the one hand he has remaining. But how to hold the shingles in place and how to place the nail preparatory to driving it was the problem. In eiden days before men walked upright, the scientists say, that men's feet were just as good as hands. It may have been that man once ate with his feet. At any rate Schuman decided that his feet would have to serve in place of the missing hand, and they did. While his one hand held the hammer to drive the nail, Schuman's feet placed the shingle in position and with his big toe and the one next to it he held the nail until the hammer had started it properly. It is recorded that Schuman did not hit his big toe once. It may not be necessary to add that the feet with which Schuman worked were bare. Most men when shingling a barn put the nails in their mouth by the dozen and take them out one by one. It is not unusual with Schuman. He is a successful farmer and does much of his own work. He fixes his own buildings and is an expert carpenter. He probably uses his feet when he saws the boards. People wonder how he does things, and all Corydon admires its plucky farmer.

LOCAL MERCHANTS TO OBSERVE THE FOURTH

The merchants of Fort Worth have decided to observe the Fourth of July in the usual way, notwithstanding that it falls on the busiest day of the week—Saturday. The stores will close at noon on the nation's natal day. The Retail Clerks' Association of Fort Worth some time ago made an agreement with the merchants to close at noon on the Fourth. A few days ago, feeling that the merchants might desire to keep open on that day owing to the press of business that every Saturday brings, the clerks decided to hold their picnic, which was scheduled for July 4, on June 23 and expressed their willingness to work on the Fourth if their employers so desired. But most of the merchants felt that their stores should be closed on that day, and as a result the original program will be carried out, the picnic will take place on the Fourth and the stores will close at noon that day.

MINNESOTA CATS TO KILL PRAIRIE DOGS

Minnesota cats by the hundreds have been imported into this state by two shepherds, in an endeavor to exterminate the prairie dogs, which have become a great pest, says the Butte Inter-Mountain. Nelson & Rice are the owners of the ranch where the cat experiment is being tried. The cats are of all colors and varieties, and were brought from St. Paul and Minneapolis a week or two ago. The ranch is in the foothills, in the sheep country, and for the last two years the sheep owners have been almost driven out by the prairie dogs, which have multiplied so rapidly that they are destroying vegetation and grain. Poison was tried without effect, and then an attempt was made to shoot the little dogs, but this was found of useless waste of money, as the animals simply laughed at the hunters. Finally Rice made up his mind to try the cats. Going to Minnesota, he went among his friends and from them secured a lot of the felines, the bigger and more savage they were the better. The cats were shipped to the ranch in lots of two dozen at a time. They were at first bewildered by their surroundings, and some of the younger animals promptly deserted, and are now wandering in the foothills. Those that remained started in on their work in a way that delighted the ranchmen, and in less than a week it was determined to import all the cats that could be obtained. There are now on the ranch, which is nearly 200 miles east of this city, about 275 cats, each one guaranteed to kill no fewer than two prairie dogs every day. From a city of several thousand population the prairie dogs' town at the edge of the sheep ranch has diminished until now there are fewer than 1,000 remaining, and these are being wiped out rapidly. As soon as all of the dogs have been killed the cats will be rented to other sheep men in the vicinity, and their owners expect to make a handsome profit out of the venture, in addition to getting rid of the prairie dogs.

SPENT A FORTUNE FOR DAILY DRINKS

A St. Louis Man's Death Develops Fact That He Drank Fifteen Glasses of Whisky Every Day

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. WHISKY AND TOBACCO USED BY MOHRMAN. WHISKY: 15 glasses daily, 5,475 yearly, 71,175 in thirteen years, cost at 10 cents $7,117.50. TOBACCO: 365 plugs a year, 12,045 in thirty-three years, cost at 10 cents $1,204.50.

ST. LOUIS, June 18.—Tobacco and whisky, city hospital doctors say, caused the death of Nathan Mohrman, who had been a patient at that institution for several weeks. Mohrman's own statement to the physicians who attended him bears out the conclusion of the hospital authorities.

Ever since his twelfth year, Mohrman said, he had chewed a 10-cent plug of tobacco every day. Thirteen years ago he commenced the use of liquor, and the allowance he made himself daily was fifteen glasses of whisky and from three to four glasses of beer.

Chief among the disease which he had developed were a heart affection and a kidney trouble, both of which, in the doctors' opinion, were brought on by over-indulgence in stimulants.

During his indulgence in whisky alone Mohrman spent enough money to have made him a large landholder had he so invested his earnings. In the thirteen years he drank over 70,000 glasses of the more potent spirit, while of beer he took the modest amount of 17,800 glasses.

The cost of the whisky, if bought by the bottle would have been $3,500. If bought over the counter of any but the cheapest saloon it would have cost $7,117. His entire expenditure for tobacco and liquor during his forty-five years of life was about $8,300.

LARGEST OPAL IN THE WORLD

If the remarkable specimen of Australian opal which has been brought to light only turns out as well in the cutting as is hoped, the result will be a solid mass of beautiful stone fully eight inches long by five inches wide, and will probably be the largest piece of good opal known in the world. At present the biggest gem is that included in the crown jewels of Belgium, and is valued at something over $250,000 and weighs close upon sixteen ounces. The new specimen from the White Cliff fields has been christened "Big Ben." It is said that the purchaser of the specimen bought it for a trifling sum.

AVENUE THE SHEARS

Judging from the good space which could be more profitably used in advocating diversification, but which is devoted to protests varying in degrees of earnestness against the practice some newspapers make of clipping editorial paragraphs and using them without credit, it would seem that there are still left Texas editors who take themselves seriously.

A Georgia man committed suicide on a passenger coach one day last week by blowing himself to pieces with a stick of dynamite. The fact that the other passengers didn't notice the explosion is explained when it is stated that the coach was running on a Georgia railroad.

There are men who think they deserve halos for humility when, after committing a penitentiary offense, they piously admit, "We all make our little mistakes sometimes."

New York is still furnishing an admirable example for the rest of the country by sending checks regularly to the flood sufferers at the two Kansas Cities and at Gainesville, Ga.

All of the other horrors of the Belgrade tragedy pale away before the rumor that has already commenced going around to the effect that it is to be dramatized.

With this week's issue the Oak Cliff Enterprise enters the second year of its existence. Here's hoping 'twill be an even better year than the past.

Between floods the pope accommodatingly finds time to become seriously ill and recover.

And then, sadly, he admitted, there are editors who write alone that other editors may clip their paragraphs, and who forget that their first duty is to their own readers. Of such there are not a few, but fortunately their number is growing less.

The subscriber is the one who has to read editorials and not the exchange editor who gets his paper free. Space wasted in any controversy that does not interest the readers is stolen from them, and space stolen from subscribers is even worse than matter stolen from other papers.

MISS DAGGETT IN THE LEAD

Interest continues in the contest for The Telegram's two valuable awards, Miss Daggett continues to lead, followed closely by Miss Fama Holley. There were a great many votes received yesterday. Many of the contestants making decided gains. Miss Fama Holley goes to second place with 99,350 votes to her credit. Mrs. Bob Andrews and Miss Maggie Barton displayed a great deal of strength. A few votes received today may change the respective standing of the leading contestants. Many votes were recorded for other nominees. All those interested in The Telegram's contest should exert every effort to procure votes for their favorite, for only a few days remain in which three votes count for every cent paid.

Remember that The Telegram's fine horse and stanhope is not the only award which is being given away, but a $300 diamond ring goes to the contestant receiving second largest number of votes. A year's subscription counts 1,800 votes, six months' subscription counts 900 votes, a three months' subscription 450 and one month's subscription 150. Subscribe today.

It is said the elopement of the Princess Louise of Saxony will eventually result in the divorce of the whole royal Saxon family, excepting King George, from the Catholic church. If the rest of the royal family are anything like the dear princess, it is respectfully suggested that they get in line with the faith that made Salt Lake City famous.

Happily enough for Russia at least, the Servian incident is serving to call public attention away from some very suspicious moves made recently in Manchuria, the purpose of which has not yet been fully explained.

The subscriber is the one who has to read editorials and not the exchange editor who gets his paper free. Space wasted in any controversy that does not interest the readers is stolen from them, and space stolen from subscribers is even worse than matter stolen from other papers.

Here is a stroke of genuine municipal economy, recorded in the Gainesville Messenger, and so extremely sensible that the wonder is other towns had not thought of it sooner: Mayor Leonard put to work this morning several plows in the new city park. All the ground not used for park purposes, about twenty acres, will be planted in sorghum and millet to be used for hay for the city teams. This is an economic stroke on the part of Mayor Leonard and the park committee, besides, these products will look much nicer and be of more benefit to the soil than the crop of weeds now growing.

At the time of their escape they were confined with several other prisoners in the hospital ward while some repairs were being made on the revolving cells. Grooms was being held on charges of burglary and Zadick was in for theft. At the last term of the district court Curry was tried on a charge of murder. The jury found him guilty of manslaughter and assessed his punishment at a term of five years in the penitentiary. His case was on appeal to the court of criminal appeals, but since his escape it will be dismissed.

No Summer Bowel Troubles

Not for me! I'm safe from all of them and happy. The heat of summer causes organic matter everywhere to decay. All dead vegetable or animal matter rots if not kept on ice. All undigested food in the human body will ferment a hundred times as quickly in summer as in winter. Consequence—stomach, liver, bowels poisoned, thrown out of order—sour stomach, gases, colic, diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera, appendicitis, and in some regions yellow fever and the plague. Little children suffer terribly everywhere. What does good sense tell you to do? You can't keep the human body on ice, and the drinking of ice-cold drinks does more harm than good because it stops digestion and chills the internal organs. The proper thing is to keep all impure and unnecessary matter out of the body every day, not give it a chance to sour and decay in the stomach and bowels, and poison the blood and the whole body. In this way you will stop all hot, feverish conditions, and keep your insides cool and healthy. To do it, use a medicine that is not offensive to the taste and not harsh and violent in its action. There is only one safe system-cleaner to take in the summer time, because it will not cause diarrhoea or griping, and that is

TELEGRAM WINS FROM REGISTER

TWO BALL CLUBS IN HOT TEN-IN-NING MATCH

Intense Excitement Prevails at the Finish—Harry Lockhead Shuts Out Dallas, Fort Worth Winning on One Run—The Panthers Got Only Two Hits

The Telegram carried its plan of getting better every day into the world of baseball yesterday, when, in addition to incontinently "scooping" the Register on the news in regard to the signing of three new players by the Fort Worth league club, it engaged in a baseball game with its morning contemporary and succeeded in winning out in the tenth inning after a hair-raising contest by a score of 13 to 12. At the previous meeting of the nines representing the Telegram and the Register the players of the latter wore all the laurel wreaths and the Register described the game in headlines a quarter of a column deep. But yesterday things were different. This morning the Register described the game in six lines. It is The Telegram's turn to celebrate.

Both teams fought fiercely from start to finish in yesterday's contest, but the fortunes that follow the national game were with the Register during the early part of the festivities. At the end of the fourth inning the score was 8 to 2 against the Telegram. In the fifth the Telegram scored twice, and for the first time during the game its adherents got a chance to cheer. The cheering did not last long, however, for the Register squeezed in two more runs in the sixth, making the score 10 to 4. But the pyrotechnics were set going in the Telegram's half of the next inning. With two men out, the team got a start and before the side was retired seven runs had gone over the plate, and the score was 11 to 10 in the Telegram's favor.

Hits and errors had enabled the Telegram players to score four times in this inning, and there were two on bases, two out and Province at bat when the star hitting event of the afternoon was introduced. Province picked out one of Judkins' straight ones and smote it for four bases, giving the Telegram the lead. The latter team added another in the seventh and blanked the Register in the eighth and ninth. In the ninth things looked equally for the Telegram. The Register scored two runs and had the bases full with one out when Province settled down and fanned the next two batsmen. With the score tied the Telegram went to bat in the last half of the ninth. The Register, after the trouble in the seventh had switched pitchers, displacing Judkins with Roy Isbell, a professional, who was holding the Telegram sluggers safe, and there was nothing doing for the Telegram in the ninth. The Register was easily blanked in the tenth, but the Telegram managed to shove the winning tally over the wall. Scott and Province led off with singles. The next man up failed. C. D. Reimers was the next hitter up. After getting one strike, he found the ball for a hard rap past third base and Scott sped home with the winning run amidst intense excitement.

The teams lined up as follows:

Telegram	Register
C. D. Reimers, First base	Isbell
Aitchley, Shortstop	Fanning
R. Webb, Catcher	McAllister
R. Reimers, Second base	V. Parker
C. H. Webb, Center field	Levy
Roberts, Left field	W. Parker
Province, Pitcher	Judkins
Starr, Third base	Newberg
Scott, Right field	Cooper

Several changes were made in the lineup during the progress of the game. Will Finney umpired and gave entire satisfaction to all. Features of the game were Province's home run for the Telegram and Fanning's shortstop play for the Register. B. Webb and McAllister, the two catchers, deserve special mention for their excellent back stopping. It is likely that the deciding game in the series will be played some time next week.

LOCKHEAD SHUTS OUT DALLAS

Dallas gathered eight base hits yesterday off Lockhead, while Fort Worth got two off of Dick Clark, yet the final score was 1 to 0 in favor of the Panthers. There is much of the "Oh, be joyful" feeling to be derived from the game, because the victory makes it certain that Dallas will not do more than tie Fort Worth on the interclub series. Fort Worth now leads Dallas by one game in the interclub series and Dallas must win today in order to tie the lowest. McMurray scored the only run of yesterday's game by running home from third while Reitz was in a run-up between first and second. Ancient Cy Mulkey administered a dose of whitewash to Corsicana yesterday. Zook, who pitched for the Oil city, held Paris down to two runs, but could not win.

Zook and Buchanan, two of the best pitchers in the Texas League, certainly are entitled to the sympathy of the fans. Invariably when they are in the box the scores are short and close and frequently against them, while with the other pitchers the teams frequently turn in and run up large scores. The Fort Worth team has not done any real hitting in a single game in which Buchanan has worked this season.

WILL BE THOUSANDS ON COMING CONTEST

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 18.—Harry Corbett, the well-known sporting man of San Francisco and brother of the ex-champion, is so impressed with his brother's condition that he intends to bet $5,000 on his chances of securing the decision over Jeffries. In speaking of the battles in Frisco, Harry Corbett said: "I never before saw Jim in such perfect shape as he is at present. With the two months of hard work which he will indulge in for the battle I am sure he will enter the ring in better shape than he ever was for any fight. Jim tells me he is sure he will beat Jeffries. I have taken his tip and will bet any part of $5,000 on him." Corbett will have no trouble in getting his money covered. There are many prominent sporting men of San Francisco who feel confident that Jeffries will beat the ex-champion. Jeffries says that there is a millionaire in Los Angeles who intends betting $25,000 on him to beat Corbett.

A CLEVER DOG HELPED THE LAW

Clue That Officers Failed to Locate Found by an Inquisitive West Texas Canine Clinched Case

Henry Wilson of Scurry county was convicted in the Mitchell county district court Thursday on a charge of cattle theft and given a verdict of two years in the state penitentiary. The crime was alleged to have been committed on the McNairy ranch in Terry county Jan. 4, 1902, and as Terry is attached to Martin county for judicial purposes complaint was filed against him at Stanton, and the case was brought here on a change of venue.

The testimony adduced at the trial was to the effect that Henry Wilson and his brother-in-law, Ed Jones, left Scurry county in the fall of 1901 for New Mexico with a bunch of cattle for a new ranch they were locating in that territory. Wilson alleges that in passing through the McNairy pasture eight or ten head of his cows escaped from his bunch and he was unable to recover them. In returning from New Mexico to Scurry county he engaged in trapping wolves on the way, and in coming through the McNairy pasture he discovered one of his cows and butchered her, loading the carcass into his wagon, and proceeded on his journey.

FOUND TRACES John Callison, foreman of the McNairy ranch, happened to pass through that particular portion of the pasture soon after and discovered the offal of the animal where the cow had been butchered. He suspected from this evidence that thieves had been at work in the pasture, and summoning assistance the wagon tracks were followed and Wilson overtaken in Borden county. An examination of his wagon revealed the presence of the carcass of a freshly slaughtered beef. The hide of the animal was also in the wagon, but the ears had been removed and that portion of the hide which bore the brand had also been cut out and was conspicuously absent.

WILSON ARRESTED Wilson was immediately placed under arrest on a charge of cattle theft. He made no effort to conceal the fact that he had killed the animal in the McNairy pasture. In fact, he contended that it was his cow and he had a perfect right to kill her wherever he pleased. When asked about the missing portion of the hide which contained the brand he treated the suggestion with indifference. It just happened in butchering the cow that the branded portion of the hide had been destroyed. He was engaged in trapping wolves and used parts of the carcass for wolf bait. It was possible that the brand had been destroyed in that way, but as it was his cow, it did not make any difference, and Mr. Wilson was disposed to resent his arrest on so serious a charge as considerable of an indignity.

EVIDENCE SLIGHT At this time it looked very much as if the tools of the law had fastened themselves very lightly about the accused. While he was charged with the crime of having slaughtered and appropriated to his own use one head of cattle, alleged to have been the property of D. H. McNairy, there was neither mark nor brand upon the hide found in his possession to indicate the animal was really the property of McNairy. He admitted the killing of the animal in the McNairy pasture and justified his action with the assertion that it was his cow, carrying his own mark and brand, and the burden of proof rested upon the state to disprove his assertions, which the state was at least able to do to the satisfaction of the jury who passed upon the case.

DOG GETS TO WORK About forty days after the killing of the cow and arrest of Wilson John Scudday of Sterling county, who was then in the employ of Mr. McNairy, was riding over the pasture with his dog for company. Reaching the scene of the killing of the cow, Mr. Scudday stopped and naturally began to look about him for some evidence that would assist in convicting Wilson of the charge he believed him to be guilty of. Soon he was attracted by the actions of his dog, which was engaged in scratching very industriously at a prairie dog hole. Scudday was interested in the actions of the dog and wondered what kind of a varmint he had run to earth. The dog was encouraged and assisted in his digging, and in a short while dragged out a piece of rolled-up cowhide.

THE DOG'S FIND This was a very interesting discovery and Scudday proceeded to investigate that particular piece of booty covering in a very careful manner. He found that it had been rolled up and an attempt evidently made to destroy it with fire. As that method of destruction had failed it had been chucked unceremoniously in a prairie dog hole, where it could give no evidence against some man who evidently had something he was desirous of concealing. Further examination of this tell-tale piece of cowhide revealed the fact that it bore the brand OBR. The letters were there just as plain as if they were when first made with the hot branding iron. As OBR is the brand of D. H. McNairy, this was a discovery of great importance.

A torpid liver deranges the whole system, and produces SICK HEADACHE, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Rheumatism, Sallow Skin and Piles. There is no better remedy for these common diseases than DR. TUTT'S LIVER PILLS, as a trial will prove. Take No Substitute.

NAIRY, Scudday believed he and the dog had made a most important discovery, but he was not sure. The piece of hide bearing the brand was compared with the void in the hide found in the possession of Henry Wilson, and there was a perfect fit.

MAKE A LAST LINK Scudday and his dog had discovered the missing link which established the McNairy chain of title, and the Wilson explanation at once became as lame as a spavined horse. The burden of proof of ownership was shifted onto Mr. Wilson and that gentleman was caught completely at a disadvantage. As he had used the branded portion of his cow's hide for wolf bait he was unable to satisfy the jury that the animal in dispute was other than the property of McNairy. —West Texas Stockman.

WHEAT GOES OVER THIRTY BUSHELS

Record Yield Made Near Frisco, Collin County, This Week From a 100-Acre Field—The Crop in Good Condition

FRISCO, Texas, June 17.—Thirty-one bushels per acre was the yield of a 100-acre crop of wheat threshed near this place yesterday, and the general average yield is expected to be good through this section. Most all the wheat is in the shock ready for the thrasher, and as the weather has been fine for harvesting the sample is very fine, which maintains the reputation this place already has for producing as fine a sample of wheat as is grown in the state.

As this place shipped more wheat, loaded from the wagon, than any other point in Texas last season, it is attracting the attention of a number of buyers and a large shipment is expected. The ruling price that has been paid is about 70 cents for wheat and 41 cents for oats, and the season opened yesterday with about three cars being sold.

WHEAT AT WAXAHACHIE WAXAHACHIE, Texas, June 18.—The first load of new wheat for this season was brought in yesterday by Hollie Rowen. It classed as strong No. 2 and was bought for 45 cents per bushel. The berry was very fine and weighed sixty and one-half pounds to the bushel.
