SCENES OF THE REVOLUTION

VIENNA, Sept. 28.—An interesting book of scenes and persons in the Macedonian revolution against Turkey. On the upper left is shown a farm house near Monastir, Macedonia, destroyed last week by the Turks. It was defended by twenty insurgents, who were all killed. The front door was blown in by a Turkish shell. One is the picture of the Joan of Arc of Macedonia, Katerina Arnavodova, who is chief of an insurgent band in the interior of Macedonia, and who has led her followers to many victories over the hated Turks. At the bottom of the picture from left to right is the picture of Voivoda, who manufactured dynamite bombs in Greece, and was arrested and imprisoned, but who escaped, and now is at the head of an insurgent band. Next to this is the photograph of Dimitre Georgeff, one of the few men who escaped from the massacre of Krushevo, now at the head of a large band of insurgents in Northern Macedonia. At the extreme right is the picture of Macedonian insurgents burying their dead, watched by Turkish gendarmes.

PEOPLE WE KNOW

They Are Fort Worth People, and What They Say of Local Interests.

When an incident like the following occurs right here at home, it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the rounds of the press, are published as facts, people become skeptical. On one subject skepticism is rapidly disappearing. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens, and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this. The public statement of a reputable citizen living right here at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

F. Jenkins, clerk in his brother's store, 102 Houston street, living corner Mills and Malone, says: "Pain across the small of my back was often severe, and when the paroxysms were at their height, trouble with the kidney secretions existed, despite the fact that I consulted physicians and took more than one remedy recommended for such conditions. Thinking if Doan's Kidney Pills performed half what they promised they might help me, I went to Weaver's Pharmacy for a box and take a course of treatment. I used three boxes. They absolutely stopped the last attack. I will only be too pleased to corroborate the above in personal interviews."

COLORADO CROPS IN FINE SHAPE

Fine Rains Have Done Immense Amount of Good in West Texas

COLORADO, Texas, Sept. 29.—Miss Mamie Beal, daughter of H. D. Beal, a prominent stockman of Lubbock, was buried in this city this afternoon. She was 14 years of age. She had just married a young man, Simmons, College, Abilene, and became ill with typhoid fever and survived only a few days. The body was brought here for burial on account of Mr. Beal having a number of relatives residing here.

Frank Gilbert, a young man working at a restaurant here was accidentally shot through the hand this morning by a pistol.

Rain for two days and nights and mud every where. Rain fell slowly and all forage crops are growing like a vine.

The local camp of the Woodmen of the World are making arrangements to have a big unveiling here on October 11th, in memory of deceased sovereigns, L. W. Dalling and James Gardner.

Z. V. Payne reports today the sale of the residences of J. R. Pearson in South Colorado to J. C. Ridens of Scurry county. Mr. Ridens will move his family and become a citizen of this city at once.

J. L. Wasson of Borden county shipped two cars of cattle to St. Louis on the 28th; L. C. Hutchinson one car, and W. C. Fullilove of Borden county one car. Ed Sumner of this city shipped one car of horses to east Texas today.

Frost and Snyder from El Paso unloaded three cars of horses here today and pastured them in the country.

C. A. O'Keefe, one of the most extensive stockraisers in the west, has 100 acres near this city planted in oats. It is in fine condition.

A number of the most successful stockmen in these parts have large Johnson farms and the nice rains and fine weather will make these farms produce a splendid yield.

J. W. Smith, whose ranches are in the southwestern portion of this county, has sold the most desirable one, consisting of eleven sections, to W. R. McEntire of Sterling county at $3.00 per acre. Smith has given possession and has moved the cattle to his other pasture, of about fifteen sections, four miles nearer town.

H. Cook, a new comer to the city, has bought the fine residence and farm in the east edge of town from Will Waddell.

CALLAHAN COUNTY RAIN

Grass Now in Good Condition for Winter Range.

BAIRD, Texas, Sept. 29.—There fell here this evening a heavy rain of perhaps one and one-half inches and the ground is thoroughly saturated. It appears that there has been shipped from this point up to date $35 bales of cotton and it is coming in from the country at the rate of about 50 bales a day. The farmers say the county will average about one-fourth bale to the acre.

A great many calves are being shipped from Baird to East St. Louis for veal. J. B. Cuthbert and Robt. McDonald being the principal shippers.

Several members of the Salvation army are here participating in the union protracted meeting at this place, and a good many conversions and reclamations have been made.

RAIN AT SAN ANGELO

San Angelo Has Shower of 24 Hours Duration Which Helps Grass.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Sept. 29.—A continuous down pour of rain for the past twenty-four hours is putting new life into vegetation and though rather late for winter grass will still be of some benefit to the range. This rain seems to be general within a radius of fifty miles of this place. It has been raining heavily north and west of here.

SCHOOLS USING ARTESIAN WATER

Supply Is Secured From the Ward Buildings

The Telegram received a telephone message yesterday afternoon from several mothers in the Sixth ward protesting against the use of the hydrant water in the schools, saying they had seen the warning of Dr. Chambers, city health officer, advising that until the artesian water is turned into the mains citizens should not use the city supply.

Mayor Powell was asked about the matter this morning. He states that artesian water has been supplied to the schools since Monday morning. It was intended by the school board that only artesian water should be used, and when the Mead supply was put into the mains this water was used by the schools. Later it was found necessary to cut off the Mead supply for a time, and it was believed the artesian flow would have been in use by this time. As it was not, the school board instructed Professor Hogz to get water for the schools from the wagons. The present wet weather has delayed the artesian supply for a time.

BOSQUE COUNTY IS WET

Fall Crops Are in Excellent Condition for Winter Feeds

MERIDIAN, Tex., Sept. 29.—Last night there was a good rain in this county, and from reports received the rain seems to have been a general one. It puts the ground in good shape for wheat. The damage to the cotton was very slight. Cotton in this section is making a fair yield, and is being marketed as fast as gathered, and within a short while will all be out and sold. No prospect for late crop. The fall corn and hay crops were never better, and the small stock raisers in this section will be able to hold their surplus stock and keep them off the market until the prevailing low prices for cattle improve.

HAYS COUNTY QUARANTINED

San Antonio Takes Strict Precautions Against Chance of Yellow Fever

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 29.—A strict quarantine will be enforced against Hays county until that county quarantines against Laredo. Formerly passengers from Laredo would go as far as Hays county, come back on the next train and get off here.

Eleven new cases of fever were reported here yesterday, making a total of 37 cases of fever now in town. Twenty-six United States prisoners were released today, the reason being that they will be better able to care for themselves if at liberty.

TRAGEDY AVERTED

"Just in the nick of time our little boy was saved," writes Mrs. W. Watkins of Pleasant City, Ohio. "Pneumonia had played sad havoc with him and a terrible cough set in besides. Doctors treated him, but he grew worse every day. At length we tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and our darling was saved. He's now sound and well." Everybody ought to know, it's the only sure cure for Coughs, Colds and Lung Diseases. Guaranteed by J. W. Fisher's drug store and Reeves' Pharmacy. Price 50c and $1. Trial bottles free.

ARIONS TO SING AT OPERA HOUSE

Three Concerts to Be Given There During Coming Season

The Arions yesterday concluded arrangements whereby they will give three concerts at Greenwall's opera house during the coming season. This was found to be the only auditorium in the city available for the concerts, as the society decided not to use the city hall auditorium. The Christian tabernacle, which was used for the concerts last year, is closed to all entertainments not identified with that church.

The dates chosen for the concerts at the opera house are November 17, January 19 and March 15.

All associate members of last year will receive tickets from the secretary of the society, J. M. Collins, of 904 Houston street.

Fort Worth music lovers are to be congratulated on the enterprise of the Arions in obtaining the opera house. It was a question of renting the opera house or abandoning the proposed concerts and the Arions after consulting with many of the associate members determined to give the concerts.

CAMPBELL & ROSSON LIVE STOCK COMMISSION COMPANY. St. Louis National Stock Yards, Ill. Kansas City Stock Yards, Missouri. Fort Worth Stock Yards, Texas. Fort Worth Stock Yards, Texas, Sept. 30, 1903. TO OUR FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS: Total receipts last week at this market 9,974 cattle, 2,808 hogs and 521 sheep. Receipts Monday were 4,548 cattle; Tuesday, 2,000; today, about 1800. We had a good, brisk market Monday and everything sold at steady prices, but yesterday the market was considerably lower and we estimate that it was from 35c to 40c lower on good fat steers, steady on feeders, and 20c to 25c lower on cows, and today we call the market about steady with yesterday's decline. STEERS.—Well finished, smooth steers weighing from 1100 to 1200 lbs., $3.40 to $3.75; 900 to 1050 lbs., $2.50 to $3.00; medium flesh feeders of good quality are about steady with last week; 800 to 950 lbs., $2.50 to $2.90; 950 to 1050 lbs., $2.90 to $3.20. The demand for good feeders this week is stronger than it has been at any time this season, as a few of the oil mills have made contracts, and the feeder buyers are now open for feeders. COWS.—The cow market here, in sympathy with the Northern markets this week, has declined from 20c to 30c on all grades. We hope to see a reaction in the very near future, but the indications are not very bright, as receipts continue heavy at all markets, and it appears that there is no let-up to the run. Choice cows this week have sold from $2.10 to $2.50, but today the cows that brought $2.50 Monday would not bring over $2.30 to $2.35. The bulk of the good butcher cows have sold from $1.65 to $2.00, while medium and ordinary grades, $1.35 to $1.65. BULLS are selling about steady with last week. Best butcher bulls are bringing $1.75 to $1.90; good heavy feeder bulls of good quality, $1.75 to $1.85; light bulls from $1.50 to $1.75. VEAL CALVES are selling at steady prices with last week. Calves weighing from $1.40 to $1.90 lbs., if fat, $3.50 to $4.00; while medium grade heavy calves, $2.50 to $3.25. HOGS.—We had about 1400 hogs here Monday, which sold at fairly steady prices, the bulk selling between $6.15 and $6.22 1/2, and the quality was very good. The market has gradually declined this week and with eight loads on the market today we have been unable to obtain more than $6.17 1/2 for tops, while the bulk has sold from $6.05 to $6.15. The quality of hogs today was not good. SHEEP continue to come in limited numbers and the demand is strong. We are not getting half enough sheep here to supply the demand. If any of our readers have any good fat mutton sheep weighing from 75 to 90 lbs., they will sell on this market from $3.25 to $3.50, which we consider a first-class price, or if you know of any one who has any sheep of this description, we would thank you to send us their names and addresses. In closing our weekly letter I will state that I do not see much encouragement for better prices in the cattle market until receipts get much lighter. Let us hear from you when we can serve you in any way. JOHN K. ROSSON, Manager.

THE CONVICT SYSTEM

The American Academy of Political and Social Science is circulating an essay from the pen of Charles S. Potts of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas. Its subject is "The Convict Labor System of Texas." Mr. Potts finds that they seem to be organized primarily as money making, or at least as money saving institutions. To quote him literally, "The anxiety to save a few dollars to the state has been so great that the great fundamental purpose of a penal institution has been neglected. No serious effort is made to effect the reformation of the criminal, but he is returned to society a more determined criminal than before."

Blame for these conditions, in Mr. Potts' opinion, does not attach to the officials charged with the management of the penitentiaries so much as to the attitude maintained by the state toward crime and criminals. The fault lies with the criminal code, based as it is upon the "is the duty of the state to offenders—to measure the criminal"

LESSONS IN ADVERTISING.

(Pilot Point Post Signal.) It costs a certain baking powder company something like $500,000 annually for advertising. Someone suggested to the company to discontinue advertising one year, the baking powder was so well known and advertised, and place that amount $500,000 in the profit. The answer was undoubtedly it would cost them three times that amount to get the product in its original channels again. This is a pretty good pointer to those business men who imagine they are making a great saving when they discontinue a $4 to $3 advertisement a few months in the dull season. It never pays to tear down a dam because the water is low.

fortune. 7. A habitual drunkard, who abandons, neglects or refuses to aid in the support of his family.

The "idle person" can be found in every town, but in a majority of cases he is not molested. The officers get fees for their work, but when fines are "worked out" no fees are paid. The result is they do not trouble the "idle person" who has no money with which to pay his fine. Let the city, county or state offer one dollar to every officer who succeeds in a conviction of one of the loafing class and you will find it works like a charm. The News Says:

The state law has been reinforced in many cases by city ordinances, yet, with all that, some communities in Texas fairly teem with vagrants. To see the schools of vagrancy in full blast one has only to go down into the "hickskillet" wards and take a glance at the negro dives and dens. At any hour of the day, or any day in the year, one will find squads and troops of swaggering young bucks hanging around and taking in the lessons that lead them on from indolence to crime. To such lessons in indolence and vice are chargeable theft, burglary, murder and the more shocking crime which is now in the public mind. Of course in applying the vagrant law no color line should be drawn. This special reference to negroes and dives and the tough gangs that infest them is made to illustrate the necessity for better conditions everywhere.

All very true, and in every town officers should be made to enforce the law to the end that the person and property of good people should be safe. As it is these loafers are dangerous to every community. The officer who fails in this work does not deserve the commission which has been given him.

Chairman Henderson of the Police committee finds that the city has too few policemen to patrol all the beats. Did it ever occur to the chief and the police committee that double the limits could be patrolled if the men travel separately and not in pairs? On the Main street beat—and others too, for that matter—two able-bodied policemen walk side by side. Why not tell them to go alone and thus protect twice the territory with the same number of men? Why should they go in pairs? Is the department afraid one alone would be stolen? Chairman Henderson is a sensible man and can see the force of the suggestion.

If the people of Fort Worth desire to be thoroughly disgusted with corporations let them look at Houston street today. The contract for this work was let in July and not a wheel is turned. The portion which put up $2,000 as a forfeit he made to lose it.

Whenever the price of cotton falls below the dim mark, don't sell. That will fetch them. There's no last year's crop to frighten you this year.—Texarkana Courier.

They must have the cotton. If the producer holds for his price, they will come to it. Farmers have waited a long time for the dime price and they should not let it slip too easily.

CLEANINGS FROM... THE EXCHANGES

A representative of one of the Fort Worth packing houses is quoted as saying that the supply of hogs is not what is desired by 4,500 a day. The run recently has been something like 300 a day and he says that the packing houses can use and would be glad to get at least 5,000 a day.—Clarendon Chronicle.

If the country press will spend more space telling the farmers the chances for them to market hogs at a good price in Fort Worth and devote less to politics, the farmers would be better entertained. Fort Worth will take all the hogs brought here.

DUST TWINS do our work

[Copyright, 1903 by C. B. Lewis.] When Jabez Lee had been a widower a year and a half he straightened up in the cornfield one day and said to his son Jonah, who was hoeing the next row on his right:

"Joner, folks is sayin' that I ought to git married ag'in."

"Yes, I've heard 'em say so," replied the son.

"And bein' as folks think I ought to git married ag'in, and bein' I don't want my children to say they was neglected, I think I'll drop over and see the Widder Spooner this evenin'."

Jonah had been courting Widow Spooner himself for the last three months. That evening Jabez Lee set out on a courting expedition, while Jonah, who did not dress up at all, was also absent from the house a couple of hours and reached home only five minutes before his father. On the next night his father stayed home and Jonah went abroad.

It got to be a regular thing for Jabez Lee to call on the Widow Spooner every Wednesday evening. Some one hidden behind the fence threw stones at him on three or four occasions, and once he caught sight of a man skulking about in the darkness. All of a sudden one day he got an idea. It was an idea that made him catch his breath and lift his right fist in the air and shake it and mutter to himself:

"By gum, but that seems to explain it! If it's so, I'll make Joner tired clear up to his chin."

The idea was developed that very evening. When Jonah changed his clothes and took a walk the father followed him and kept a hot trail to the Widow Spooner's. The murder was out and the mystery solved. The parlor curtains had not been lowered, and the father crept up and saw that his rival made himself very much at home on the very chair he himself had occupied the night before. Two hours later, as the son wended his way homeward, a rock whizzed by his ear, and a ghostly yell from the darkness jumped him six feet. Next day, while his hair was still curling and he was trying to connect that yell with his father's deep bass voice, the old man suddenly turned on him with:

"Joner, if you was courtin' a woman and a sneak of a feller tried to sneak himself in, what would you do?"

"I'd lay for him," promptly replied the son.

"That's jest my way o' thinkin'. Yes, sir, I'd lay for him and lick him till he couldn't holler."

"Drat such sneaks!"

Father and son looked into each other's eyes for a moment, and each dissembled and tried to look innocent. They understood each other, however, and both set their jaws as they went on with their work. That night was Jonah's night to go courting, and before he left the house he took notice that his father was missing. He realized at once what that meant, and he began to plan. The route to the Widow Spooner's carried him over a bridge spanning a deep creek near her house. There were trees near the north end, making a deep shadow for many yards, and Jonah felt that his father would wait for him there and play some trick. He therefore removed his boots when he was yet twenty yards away and approached the spot with catlike tread.

It may be stated in advance that the father was there in the shadow. He had a sheet ready to wrap around himself and a pillow case ready to pull over his head. He was not only going to play ghost, but the ghost would do some thumping before Jonah could get away. In that same deep, dark shadow was a second party. It was an old lame mule which had been turned out to get his living beside the highway, and he had halted at that spot that night to ruminate and doze. He stood within twenty feet of the man in ambush, but made no noise to give himself away. In fact, he took no interest whatever in the proceedings for a time, realizing that he had passed the age when he should be mixed up in love adventures, and it was not until his long ears detected the approach of Jonah that his eyes shook off sleep and he wondered what was up. Jonah crept forward foot by foot, and at last his presence was also detected by the father. With softness of touch he got ready his ghostly garments and was on the point of donning them and making a rush when the old mule raised his head, flapped his ears and uttered a bray. It was a bray that split the air with thunderous sound and made things shake for rods around. The awful and unexpected sound stirred the "ghost" and Jonah to action at the same instant. They went over the railing of the bridge and into the waters of the creek almost together, and both yelling the same yell.

Five minutes later father and son reached the bank together and pulled themselves out. As they stood gasping and dripping they recognized each other, and the father shouted:

"Joner, durrr yer hide, but I'll—I'll—"

"choked the son.

At that moment the widow opened her door and came down the path. She had heard the bray and the yells and thought some traveler had met with an accident. She saw the two men before her, with the mule looking down at them over the railing of the bridge, and her woman's wit told her what had occurred. She laughed loud and long as they covered before her and ended the laugh by remarking:

"I guess both of you better trot homeward and go to bed. You may git the ager!"

COULD NOT SLEEP; COUGHED DAY AND NIGHT

Mr. Patrick Nehill, 368 Lenox Ave., New York, Going into Consumption, the Doctor Said, Began Using

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

And Gained Five Pounds in Four Weeks; His Cough Is Cured and He Is Now Able to Attend to Business.

"Gentlemen: I caught cold, and it settled on my lungs. Was not able to attend to business for four months. The doctor gave me up, and said I was going into consumption. I coughed day and night, my lungs pained me, I could not sleep, and I lost flesh daily. I began taking Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and gained five pounds in two weeks. I am 60 years old, and now able to attend to my business as a blacksmith. My cough is cured. I am perfectly well, and can recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as the best remedy and stimulant in the world, and I would not be without it. PATRICK NEHILL, 368 Lenox Ave., N. Y. City." Mrs. Nehill also owes her life to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey cures consumption, coughs, colds, grip, bronchitis, pneumonia, pleurisy, catarrh, asthma and all diseases of the throat and lungs; indigestion, dyspepsia and every form of stomach trouble; nervousness, malaria and all low fevers. It is an absolutely pure, gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic; it builds up the nerve tissues; tones up the heart; gives power to the brain; strength and elasticity to the muscles, and richness to the blood. It brings into action all the vital forces, and enables one to get from food the nourishment it contains. It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It is a promoter of good health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong. Duffy's contains no fixed oil and is the only whiskey recognized by the Government as a medicine; this is a guarantee.

7,000 doctors prescribe and 2,000 hospitals use Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey exclusively. CAUTION—When you ask for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. Unscrupulous dealers, in a effort of the excellence of this preparation will try to sell you cheap imitations and malt whiskey substitutes, which are put on the market for profit only, and which, far from relieving the sick, are positively harmful. Demand "Duffy's" and be sure you get it. It is the only absolutely pure Malt Whiskey which contains medicinal health giving qualities. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold in sealed bottles only; never in flask or bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and be certain the seal over the cork is unbroken. Beware of refilled bottles. Sold by all druggists and grocers, or direct, $1.00 a bottle. Interesting medical booklet postpaid to any address. Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, New York.

Things Heard In Hotel Lobbies

Capt. J. A. H. Hosack of Cleburne on his way home from his auction sales at East Winchel on the Frisco railroad in Brown county, September 23 and 24, reports favorably on the sales of farms, farm lands and town lots.

There are good crops in that part of the country and quite a prosperous outlook. He will now get ready for the auction sale of 50 acre residence lots in the south part of Denton, Texas, on October 12th, which will be advertised in the Fort Worth Telegram.

Theodore Heyck, Jr., manager of the oil mill at Alvarado, was in the city last night on a business trip, and was a guest of the city. Mr. Heyck says the prospects are not so good for the cotton crop in his section and that he does not expect better results than last year, in his opinion. There has been damage by the boll worm, and the hot dry winds have followed that damage. The mill run was unsatisfactory last year because of the scarcity of seed, and he does not hope for anything better this season. There has been a fine corn crop in that locality, and this has helped the farmers out a great deal. They are being attracted by the Fort Worth hog market and while there are very few hogs there at the time, it is expected that many will be sent into the hog raising business extensively.

Tom J. Lee of Galveston, general claim agent of the Santa Fe was in the city last night a guest of his brother C. K. Lee of this city. Mr. Lee is one of the youngest men in the city, and has a good reputation of such importance. He is quite well known throughout the state, having been a prominent young attorney of Waco prior to his appointment to the position he now holds. "We are still holding on to the stock," he said last night. "It don't matter what kind we kill, the bill is always for the best."

Father J. M. Kirwin of Galveston is in the city. He is one of the most prominent Catholic priests in Texas, and one of the most popular. Well read, fine in conversation and interesting to a degree, he is a pleasant company. He is a story teller of the accomplishments, and in the telling he pictures each incident so that it appears truly realistic. His specialty is the story which brings out the Irish wit, and he is able to use the brogue, by nature as well as by design, an hour with him is a pleasure. He is a hero, and a really one of the heroes of the Galveston storm. In that time which tried men to end, there were many heroes. Every man who stood to his post in that hour, and one can be singled out as the one hero of the occasion but no one man did more to relieve the suffering of the people than this priest. He was up and about, early and late, he fed the hungry, clothed the naked, helped the injured, and comforted the distressed. The writer saw him half clothed on the Galveston wharf, assisting in gathering bodies for proper disposition, riding among the storm wrecked homes and despaired where he could. He did not confine his attentions to his church or to his people, but exercising his ability to help wherever he could, he proved worthy of every commendation of the people.

Father Kirwin is at one of the Catholic clergy who subscribes to the opposition which has been raised to the obligation taken by those who join the "Typographical Union." He says, "I judge the intent of the man who takes the oath," said Father Kirwin, "as much as anything else, I find the printer takes the obligation intending that his fealty shall be to the union, and not to his trade, in matters affecting his soul, he owes his duty to his church and this obligation in no way interferes with it."

W. E. Murphy, city attorney of Galveston, was in the city yesterday. He is en route to Sulphur Springs to attend court, and stopped over here for a day's visit. "We expect a settlement of the prohibition question by the highest court at Tyler, October 7," said Mr. Murphy this morning. "Up to the present time the anti appear to have the best of the proposition, but we cannot tell what will happen. The saloons are still open."

Mr. Murphy looked about the city, and remarked: "Fort Worth looks more and more like a city every day."

Eugene Nolte of Seguin is in the city attending the meeting of the Texas millers. He is quite prominent in Southern Texas in political matters. During the last campaign he was the candidate of the republican party for state treasurer.

J. N. Browning, former lieutenant governor of Texas, is at the Worth. "I am here on private business," he said when questioned. "I am out of politics. There is nothing in it."

H. P. N. Gammel, vice-president of the Gammel-Statenman publishing company of Austin, is in the city, accompanied by his wife. Mr. Gammel has been publishing his books in this state for twenty five years and there is scarcely a law office in Texas without some of his books. Two years ago he made a contract with the state by which he is to publish all the reports of the higher courts, with the result that a big publishing house was established which took over the property of the Austin Statesman, the oldest newspaper in the state but one. The company publishes two daily papers and law and school books.

MORE RIOTS

Disturbances of strikers are not nearly as grave as an individual disorder of the system. Overwork, loss of sleep, nervous tension will be followed by utter collapse, unless a reliable remedy is immediately employed. There's nothing so efficient to cure disorders of the Liver or Kidneys as Electric Bitters. Only 6c and satisfaction guaranteed. J. W. Fisher, druggist, and the Reeves Pharmacy.

THE GENUINE VS. COUNTERFEITS

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. "W. L. Leichter of Shreveport, La., says: 'After trying numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me.' For blind, itching, and protruding piles no remedy is equal to De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by druggists."

CONDITION OF HOUSTON STREET

Almost Impassable and Public Very Much Inconvenienced Because of It

Houston street from end to end is in a condition which makes it impassable. Recently when the state board met to adopt text books for the next term of school, the Gammel-Statenman company was a bidder with a grammar of Texas authorship. The book was selected for state use, and being successful in Texas Mr. Gammel is now en route to Georgia to make an effort to get it adopted there. Mr. Gammel has been a collector of old books many years and has in his library some rare volumes. They are out of print long ago, but these original copies which are in his possession are yellow with age. His company is the first to make a copy of the books for the state. The text books contracted for by the schools for the term.

"I stopped in Fort Worth to look over the improved city," he said today. "Down Austin way we hear much of growing Fort Worth and we are glad to hear of its improvement."

Houston street from end to end is in a condition which makes it impassable. Recently the gas company excavated along the entire street, lowering the mains, in anticipation of the work of paving the street, which was to have been commenced by the Parker-Washington company. As the paving was expected to follow the work of the gas company, no care was used in throwing back the earth, and deep holes have been caused by the rain, and extra places. In addition to this there has been an excavation along the street railway track preparing for the paving, and this in bad condition.

The heavy rain of two days has put the street in the worst condition as to the condition of the street, and it is almost impossible to cross without getting in pools of water, and vehicles seek another thoroughfare for passage. A great deal of inconvenience is caused.

FORT WORTH EXTENSION

Trinity and Brazos Valley Officials do not Have it Under Contemplation

R. H. Baker, vice-president and general manager of the Trinity and Brazos Valley, states in a letter received here yesterday that at the present time he is unable to give any definite information as to the extension of his line to Fort Worth. He says: "The line now under construction between Hillsboro and Mexia, through Hillsboro and Mexia, will be completed and in operation within thirty days, and on the first of October we will put on a schedule between Hillsboro and Hubbard City, and on the 15th between Hillsboro and Mexia, and then in thirty days between Cleburne and Mexia."

"After this line is in good running order, we will take up the question of the extension of the line to Fort Worth. I am now making a preliminary survey from Mexia through Trinity to Beaumont, and will return through Huntsville from Beaumont to Mexia."

Regarding the report that the line was to be extended to Fort Worth, Mr. Baker says in his letter: "The question of the line into Fort Worth is not now under consideration of a definite nature. When the matter is taken up, I will be glad to advise you."

WHY DEAL IS NOT CLOSED

It is evident that the constitutional provisions stand in the way of the deal between the Rock Island and the Central, East and West Texas lines being announced, and while there are those who believe the companies will find a way around the obstacle, there are equally as many who believe that the deal is as near consummation now as it will ever be.

Two sections of the state constitution are appended that have direct application to the deal between the two companies, and are as follows: Section 5. No railroad or other corporation, or the lessees, purchasers or managers of any railroad corporation, shall consolidate the stock, property or franchises of such corporation with any other corporation, or purchase the works or franchises of, or in any way control any railroad corporation owning or having under its control a parallel or competing line, nor shall any officer or such railroad corporation act as an officer of any other railroad corporation owning or having the control of a parallel or competing line.

Section 6. No railroad organized under the laws of this state shall consolidate with private or judicial sale or otherwise with any railroad company organized under the laws of any other state or of the United States.

It is maintained that the last section is the one which the deal hangs fire and which prevented the announcement of the transaction as being concluded. It is also the foundation stone of the Texas railroad commission's opposition.

BRAZOS VALLEY ELECTION

The directors of the Hearne and Brazos Valley railroad company met a few days ago at Hearne, headquarters of the company, and elected E. M. Mourund vice-president and general manager.

MAY BE RATE WAR

It is announced at Chicago that on October 8 the first-class passenger rate between Chicago and St. Paul will be advanced from 18 to 15.50 by all railroads except the Rock Island. Official notification of this coming advance has been given the Western Passenger association. This announcement is regarded as equivalent to throwing down the gauntlet to the Rock Island system, which recently declined to consider the question of advancing the above rate.

Chicago Traffic Manager Sebastian had signified what the Rock Island will do in the premises, but the general supposition is that that line will not advance the rate between Chicago and St. Paul as provided above, but will provide a rate for the increased travel it will receive by maintaining a rate $2.50 lower than the other competing lines.

Music and Drama

"Midnight in Chinatown" had the opposition of a rainy night in Fort Worth, the result being that the audience at Greenwall's last night was not as large as it was the night before or as it would have been had the weather been more inviting.

The Arnold company presents this play to the best advantage. The company having been strengthened since its appearance here last year, it appears better to the audience in every way. Miss Klorer, the leading lady, is especially good in the part she has in the piece. The specialties of Alf Bruce, A. E. Drake, Pete Seymour and Eugene St. Cyr and the Hill, Edmunds and Baby Florence trio are good. These specialties are of a high order. Mr. Drake is an expert on the banjo.

Tonight the company will present "In the Hands of the Enemy." After the performance there will be a cake walk for local colored people. A prize of $10 is offered by Manager Arnold for the best couple in the contest. Quite a number of colored people have entered their names for the contest.

"McFADDEN'S FLATS." No attraction before the public contains more pretty and stylish girls than does the ever popular "McFadden's Row of Flats" which will be seen at Greenwall's opera house Saturday matinee and night, October 3rd.

"McFadden's Row of Flats" is from the pens of E. W. Townsend and Glenn Mac-

"THE PROTECTION OF THE FLAG"

Donald. In the company are such clever comedians as Marguerite Ferguson, Ada Washell, Joe Willard, the Exposition Four, Bert Reed, Bobby Robinson, Jerry Sullivan, Teddy Simmons, the Yellow Kids, May Baker and Libby Hart.

MR. TIM MURPHY.

Mr. Murphy is coming again. The popular and genial comedian will be seen at Greenwall's opera house Monday matinee and night, October 5, when he will present "The Man from Missouri." It deals with the doings and goings on of a rather primitive Missouri citizen at the national capitol. Tim Murphy has several times appeared in plays of Washington life and seems to be the representative actor of such plays. His first great hit was as Averick Brandor, the Texas congressman in "A Texas Steer." Only a couple of years ago he made another starring hit in Paul Willard's story of Washington life, "A Capital Comedy." So it may well be believed that in another Washington play Mr. Murphy has made the bit which reports say that he has. He is accompanied by a big company headed by Dorothy Herrod and brings the largest scenic production which he has ever carried. "The Man from Missouri" is one of the best pieces of the young season. On Monday special carnival matinee is called for 2 and Monday night the curtain will not be until 9:00 o'clock.

MILLIONAIRE'S POOR STOMACH.

The worn-out stomach of the overfed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they take themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower cures the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living by matter what your station. NORTH FORT WORTH, Oct. 1.—The climax of low prices on the local cattle market was reached yesterday, and today the market was strong and active.

The receipts of calves are very light and with a good, steady, active market, the supply sold in short order.

The hog market this morning opened slow and weak and when trading began the market showed a decline.

The northern markets are steady, but the packers claim they are trying to get much money compared with other markets, and wish to bring the market in line.

Harrold & Spence had on the market today from their feeding pens at Italy, Texas, 48 head of choice heavy fed steers.

Mr. Spence says that the steers put on feed in August are in as good if not better condition than the July stuff and show a better proportionate gain in weight.

DEPUTY MARSHAL HAS BEEN OUSTED

Result of Investigations by United States Government at Holdenville

HOLDENVILLE, I. T., Oct. 1.—Rainy weather has prevailed for the past several days. It has not been heavy enough to damage cotton, which is beginning to move.

Corn is coming in plentifully, but merchants here state the price will remain high throughout the season, because of the scarcity in other portions of the country.

The new school house was dedicated Friday, the 25th. A large crowd was in attendance and a very good literary and musical program was rendered. Much interest was manifested.

Things are stirring in the United States commissioner's district. Colonel Chalmers of Northern district fame, and Marshal Bennett, with several deputies, were here on Friday "investigating" the affairs of the office and officials. Deputy Marshal Henry Kaas has been relieved of his position, and it is rumored that other changes will occur in the near future.

The new opera house is rapidly nearing completion and will be ready for its first engagement in a week or two.

School has opened in the new school house, with a large attendance. Many people are moving into town to gain the advantage of the schools or for the winter. Houses are scarce and rents up.

A petition for the purpose of securing funds to fight the tribal occupation tax is being circulated and has aroused the hearty interest and support of the business men.

WHERE TO DRAW THE LINE

The Filipino youth who are coming to this country to be educated are finding obstructions in their way just as formidable as the Filipino who seeks freedom under the flag of the union on the islands. A Filipino youth who made application at Evansville, Ind., for admission into the public schools, was rejected on account of his race, and he is now in Cincinnati trying to get into the schools there. If memory serves its purpose right, Indiana is one of the states which is in favor of equality of races. That republican stronghold has cast angry glances on the south for putting the negro in a separate coach and sending him to the kitchen for his meals. In Texas the Filipino is treated differently. When John A. Hulen, a captain of volunteers, now adjutant general of Texas, returned from the islands in the far east he brought with him a Filipino boy. The boy was put in the white public schools at Gainesville with "other American children" and secured an education. He proved an apt scholar and was advanced rapidly. Such is the difference between the treatment of the Filipino in Texas and Indiana. The Indiana people have found much fault with the south about the race question, but they must remember that the people of the south know where to draw the line and why.

THE FARMER'S COTTON

The advice of Colonel E. S. Peters, president of the Texas Cotton Growers' Association, to the farmers is to hold the staple for higher prices and following his advice comes a statement from Colonel S. F. B. Morse, now of New York, that the price is sure to advance. There is no doubt the farmers will follow this advice in many instances, and the market has vindicated the judgment of Colonel Peters. This proposition, however, has attracted other states and the Globe-Democrat is led to remark:

If any considerable proportion of the Texas cotton producers hang on to their crop for a few months, they may have some influence in the way of advancing prices. Texas produces about a third of the United States' aggregate yield of cotton, and the United States furnishes three-fourths of the world's entire crop. Thus Texas is in a position to dictate prices, to some extent. But will this, in the long run, be wise? Cotton prices have recently been at a high level. They have been so high that many cotton mills in New England have been obliged to close for a time, with the hope of breaking the cotton corner. Hundreds of mills in England are closed now on that account, and thousands of people are on the verge of starvation.

Did the mills of New England ever consider the hungry mouths and empty stomachs of the cotton producers when they were refusing to pay more than 5 or 6 cents for cotton? Year after year the farmer in Texas has bent to his work and has been repaid with a paltry few cents for the staple. He has been forced to ask the merchant to "carry him over" from season to season, while he submitted to the price dictation of the spinner. There is now a change. The farmer can hold the staple and get a good price and incidentally he is looking out for himself and exercising no care for the mill man in New England. That mercy the spinners have shown the farmer in the past, that mercy the farmer shows to them. Texas cotton is worth its price, gentlemen, so take your medicine.

ROOSEVELT AND THE UNIONS

While making his swing around the circle months ago the president landed in Chattanooga while the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen was holding its session. He was elected to membership and in accepting said many nice things about union labor, giving the impression throughout the country that he favored it to the exclusion of all else. The first test of his fidelity to the union is the Miller case at Washington and an official statement says: "The president is a member of one of the affiliated bodies, and is in sympathy with all the legitimate demands of the men who toil. He will not and cannot, however, allow the unions, as he regards the question, to override the laws and the rules of government departments simply because they are unions and have power at the polls."

He is a dress parade "member of one of the affiliated bodies." He has never shoveled coal into the fire box of a locomotive, or filled the valve to fill the tank of a tender, therefore he knows nothing of the technicalities of the fireman's life. He can never be in sympathy with the union, of the firemen as could men who have followed the arduous duties of the position, therefore it was a mistake for him to accept the membership tendered him. In accepting it he gave the impression that he fully endorsed union labor in all things and led union men to believe that up their troubles he would favor them. At the first assault he turns and union labor is given the back of the hand. It appears that the president is in an embarrassing position. He must either resign his membership in "one of the affiliated bodies" or he must recognize the right of union men to demand that union men only be employed. He cannot claim a membership and reject the cardinal principle of unionism.

IN THE ADIRONDACKS

Men of wealth who are able to control large holdings of real estate, cause local troubles when they make their investments. There has been an assassination of a young man on a high road in the Adirondacks, the result of a bitter feeling against the new comers to the mountain country. The Adirondacks comprise about 12,000 square miles of mountainous land, very little of which is adapted for cultivation, with a sparse population of hunters and timber cutters who have until recently plied their vocations without restraint. Of late the Rockefeller, Whiteley and other men of wealth have purchased large tracts, aggregating several million acres, and have forbidden hunting and timber cutting. They have closed up the familiar routes and by-ways of the mountaineers, put up signs warning trespassers off the property and employed game wardens to enforce the regulations. This has aroused great hostility among the natives, who have considered themselves proprietors by right of long occupation, and a very bitter feeling has for some time been manifested against owners, with covert threats of retaliation, to which is ascribed the motive of the assassination.

This condition of affairs is distressing. The Rockefeller and Whiteley have the right to purchase the lands if they have the price. That is admitted. But these large land owners do wrong if they go into that country and so regulate their holdings that people are deprived of the means of earning their bread. The natives of the mountains have been brought up to trapping and timber cutting. They know nothing else and transplanted they cannot earn a living. The mountain range is their home and they hold it dear. If deprived of its possibilities they are helpless. Why cannot these men of wealth leave them certain liberties? There should be some way to bring it about.

CLEANINGS FROM... THE EXCHANGES

Mr. Jones of Arkansas says he can't serve as chairman for the democracy next year. The democratic skies are brightening—Waco Times-Herald.

For all of which the democracy is truly thankful. The party could not stand another year of it.

Charles W. Jenkins of Corpus Christi, now residing temporarily at St. Joseph, Mo., has as a find a collection of human skulls. He is now in possession of 338 specimens of perfect skulls.—Austin Statesman.

Mr. Jenkins will no doubt strike a snag some day. The ordinary man objects to giving up his skull. It looks like this is a return to the customs of the original American citizen. He had a habit of collecting scalps and the result is Uncle Sam keeps him on a reservation and watches his movements.

The political button craze, antedating the national campaign of 1904, has made its start. A very startling republican campaign button has shown up at Chicago. It represents President Roosevelt and a negro dining together and the word "Equality" is printed across the face of the button. Negroes can now be seen in many northern cities wearing the button, and in a given time they may appear in the south, but there will be some little risk attached to wearing them south of the line. If the button is not the result of an eruption of democratic genius, then it certainly cannot be doubted but that the political future of the race question has taken a bold stand.—Belleville Times.

The friend of the negro will never start an "equality" craze. If such buttons come south they will be worn under the coat, you can depend on that.

The courts knocked out the governor and the militia in Colorado and made the latter run bow to the civil authorities. Saturday night the soldiers made another war-like attack upon the home of the president of a labor union. He had criticized the attitude of the governor and the military commander in throwing men in the "bull-pen" without warrant of law. For this, this free citizen of a free country was marched across the country and led into the military prison. All the anarchists are not red mouthed and all the terrorists of strife are not members of labor unions. The courts of Colorado have decided against Peabody and his fellow law-breakers and they should be compelled to respect the court's decree.—Dallas Times-Herald.

Courts of justice, rightly administered, will give the citizen proper protection. The executive authority and his militia are in a bad way when a citizen is to be incarcerated for criticizing public men.

How is it that every time an artist or a newspaper writer gets a case of jitters, he connects with a situation on one of the big Sunday papers?—Terrell Transcript.

In these days of stylish patches on fair physiognomy, why not use the freckles for the purpose. It would be a great labor-saving device as they would not come off with successive kisses. The most uncomfortable thing in the world is to kiss a pretty cheek and find you have a black patch transferred to your lips.

Twenty dollars a month on the farm is better than $5 a month in the city. As a general thing at the end of nine months the farmer has $150 in cash, three pairs of overalls and a straw hat, while the city chap has an ice cream suit, an imitation Manila hat, several pairs of decorated socks, a package of cigarettes and $10 worth of unpaid bills.—McKinney Gazette.

But the boy from the country can do well in town if he wants to. Let him follow the lesson he learned at the little red school and the cross roads church and he can save his money in town as well as in the country. The town needs the good boy from the country and welcomes him. Of course, if he has no more brains than the "ice cream suit city chap," he should stay at home and drive up the mules.

The editor and "assist" have been warned to work the road. Such a thing as an editor of a country paper having to work the road, to us, is perfectly ridiculous. There are some overseers who, we believe, would warn the president, himself, to work the road if he should chance to live on a road.—Joshua News.

Join the movement to put convicts on the public road and you will do the state a service. The system by which free men are warned out by a road overseer to do day labor for the state and county is a relic of barbarism.

The one thing George Armstrong seems not to know is the mind of Sam Lanham.—Waco Times-Herald.

George is posted on but two subjects—Joe Bailey and the "Old Kentucky Home." The truth of the matter is George separated from Lanham some time about last January.

Will some one please point to a time since 1892 when Hogg was involved in a political discussion that there was harmony.—Fort Worth Telegram.

But still there is something contemptible in the phrase, "Peace at any price."—Waco Times-Herald.

Thus far no report has been made on the condition of the coming possum and persimmon crop.—Gainesville Messenger.

It is a ten to one shot that Tom Perkins of the McKinney Gazette is posted on the prospects and that he is keeping "it" secret.—Fort Worth Telegram.

On that particular score "Bill" is separated to furnish information. His chief boast is that he dwells in a tree, and when the persimmons mature and the "possums" take delight.—Waco News-Herald.

MAKES A CLEAN SWEEP

THE MOONSHINERS

(Original)

There was trouble in the camp of the McDeremots. For years they had run their stills in the heart of the Great Smoky mountains, and never had they been surprised before. But now their stills were gone, some of their men had been shot, while the rest, after scattering, had come together at the river fork to consider what to do.

"There's just one thing to do," said Brangan, "and that is to wreak vengeance on the man that give us away."

"And who was that?" asked Ian MacAlister.

"And who knows better 'n you know yourself. And you'd own, too, that it's the schoolmaster if you wasn't dead stuck on his daughter."

Ian MacAlister had long been a leader among them; but since their last misfortune, which they attributed to Cameron Swift, the man who taught their children and who, though he condemned their occupation, had before always been their friend, they had broken away from MacAlister's influence.

For Ian would not listen to a word against Swift, and the gang attributed this to the fact that Ian was the slave of Lucy Swift, the schoolmaster's daughter. Brangan had scarpely spoken when there was the sound of horses' hoofs, and a young girl riding astride pulled up in their midst.

"Scatter boys, scatter. The 'revenues' have got wind that you're here and before morning they'll be here."

"Go back to your father," said one of the gang, "and tell him that we want no warning from him or any of his kin."

MacAlister, seeing that he was powerless to protect the girl from insult, without a word took her horse by the bridle and led her away.

"It's no use, Lucy. The men have been informed that your father put the 'revenues' on to them, and they're not to be convinced to the contrary. Go away from here at once."

"I wish you'd come with me," she said as she started on, "and quit the gang forever."

But Ian had work before him just then. He feared the men were going to move upon Cameron Swift, seize him and hang him. In a moment he was back, and just in time to hear Brangan propose to do exactly what he feared. Turning before he was seen he ran after Lucy to warn her, but was too late. He kept on, however, on foot till he came to a farm where he procured a horse and never drew rein till he dismounted before Swift's cottage and told of the danger.

"You'll have little time," he said, "to get far enough away, for they're near behind me. Mount my horse and let Lucy mount again and ride as fast as you can."

"But I know who was the traitor," said Swift. "A 'revenue' told me. It was Brangan."

"That won't save you. They're blind with rage, and just now Brangan has them completely under his influence. Go at once."

"And who asked Lucy?"

"I'll be here and stand 'em off as long as I can."

In less than half an hour there was a commotion below, men calling to each other and shouting vengeance. Ian listened with his hand on the schoolmaster's rifle, which he had taken down from the wall, waiting till they should come up. He had locked and barred the house and taken position at an open window, where he could fire through closed blinds. He had no mind to hurt any of his comrades; he wanted the blood of Brangan, the man who had betrayed them. On came the gang until they emerged from behind the trees and stood in front of the house. Then MacAlister, with the muzzle of his rifle pointing between the slats of the blind, aimed straight at the heart of Brangan, and taking advantage of a moment when the traitor was not in motion, fired. Brangan fell dead.

MacAlister threw open the shutter and stood where his form could be seen, though his features could not be distinguished for the darkness.

"Fools!" he cried. "It is Brangan who gave us away. Search him. Like as not he has his bribe in his pocket."

John Hanson, a friend of Ian's, was the only one who recognized the voice. Jumping for the fallen body, he thrust his hands in the pockets, but pulled out nothing. Taking off the coat he tore it in pieces, and five new, crisp $100 bills, fresh from a United States treasury, fluttered to the ground.

Then there was a sudden stillness, and MacAlister, unarmed, walked out to them.

"Boys," he said, "it was the schoolmaster, whom you'd have hanged if I hadn't forestalled you, who was told by a 'revenue' that Brangan was the traitor. He was worse than traitor, for he not only took a bribe but giving us away, but to turn suspicion from himself led you on to murder Cameron Swift. You're spared a crime."

"We wronged you as we did the schoolmaster," said one.

"You were always the best head in the lot. Tell us what to do," said another.

"What I am going to do is to give up moonshinin' forever, and I'd be bound to each and every one of you to do the same. If you will, I'll go to Cameron Swift, and through him I believe I can get immunity for all of us. What d'ye say?"

Ian did get immunity through the schoolmaster, and every one of the gang went to work at an honest calling. As for Ian, he took a position on the railroad and, having a head for administrative work, soon became one of the prominent men on the line. Lucy Swift married him after his new career was assured.

THE MOONSHINERS

(Original)

There was trouble in the camp of the McDeremots. For years they had run their stills in the heart of the Great Smoky mountains, and never had they been surprised before. But now their stills were gone, some of their men had been shot, while the rest, after scattering, had come together at the river fork to consider what to do.

"There's just one thing to do," said Brangan, "and that is to wreak vengeance on the man that give us away."

"And who was that?" asked Ian MacAlister.

"And who knows better 'n you know yourself. And you'd own, too, that it's the schoolmaster if you wasn't dead stuck on his daughter."

Ian MacAlister had long been a leader among them; but since their last misfortune, which they attributed to Cameron Swift, the man who taught their children and who, though he condemned their occupation, had before always been their friend, they had broken away from MacAlister's influence.

For Ian would not listen to a word against Swift, and the gang attributed this to the fact that Ian was the slave of Lucy Swift, the schoolmaster's daughter. Brangan had scarpely spoken when there was the sound of horses' hoofs, and a young girl riding astride pulled up in their midst.

"Scatter boys, scatter. The 'revenues' have got wind that you're here and before morning they'll be here."

"Go back to your father," said one of the gang, "and tell him that we want no warning from him or any of his kin."

MacAlister, seeing that he was powerless to protect the girl from insult, without a word took her horse by the bridle and led her away.

"It's no use, Lucy. The men have been informed that your father put the 'revenues' on to them, and they're not to be convinced to the contrary. Go away from here at once."

"I wish you'd come with me," she said as she started on, "and quit the gang forever."

But Ian had work before him just then. He feared the men were going to move upon Cameron Swift, seize him and hang him. In a moment he was back, and just in time to hear Brangan propose to do exactly what he feared. Turning before he was seen he ran after Lucy to warn her, but was too late. He kept on, however, on foot till he came to a farm where he procured a horse and never drew rein till he dismounted before Swift's cottage and told of the danger.

"DOC" WHEELER TALKS TO MEN

His Work Is the Salvation of Girls and He Is in Earnest

STORY OF HIS REFORM

Once a Circus Clown, He Has Taken Up Bible and Goes From Place to Place

W. S. Wheeler, the reformed circus clown, who is preaching on the streets of Fort Worth, is a peculiar character in Texas, and from one end of the state to the other his story has been told. It is interesting, dates back about seven years, and the scene is laid in Texas. "Doc" Wheeler was for years a circus clown. He is not a young man by any means, his gray hair and bald head showing that he has been in this world a long time. Small in stature, a face which "looks the part" of a clown, with ready wit, he was just the man for the fun-making in the circus ring. In course of time he left the circus arena, and in Gainesville a number of years ago he was a performer in a vaudeville theater, going from there to other places, where he "did a turn." Finally he drifted into Houston. It was back in 1895-96, when the baseball season was at its height, that Wheeler had a good voice and he determined to live as easy as he could, and if his voice could make a living for him, it suited him. He was an announcer on the streets for the ball games. In Galveston and Houston he would walk from one portion of town to the other telling of the game, and now and then he would say something about a particular brand of beer. For this he was paid money and beer, and he was having a delightful time.

Late in the year 1896 the great rescue home worker, Crittenden, the evangelist, came to Houston and conducted meetings. Wheeler attended them, and Wheeler went to work for him. He was a man of prayer, is not necessary to the story. It follows that he was converted to the rescue work by what he heard at these meetings. He decided to take up the work himself, and since that time he has gone over the South and West, preaching on the streets, in churches, when he can, or in Salvation Army meetings. He always attracts an audience. He talks plain, tells wholesome facts, and with the wit which is inherent in him, and which made him his best friend, he has a clown, he entertains. He talks of the "pace that kills," and he impresses every one with what he says. He knows what the pace is, he has followed it in noisy ways, and he knows it is a "bit" with its in and outs. He makes a "bit" with his audience because he discusses the subject in the language which is understood by them, something the divine in the pulpit cannot do. Last night in front of the Metropolitan Hotel he entertained a large audience.

A gentleman now living in Fort Worth, who knew Wheeler in Houston when he reformed, remarked last night: "I remember when he preached his first sermon. We all knew him in Houston when it was announced that he had reformed and would preach Sunday afternoon on the market square, there was a crowd to hear him. He was to talk at 3 o'clock. At five minutes of that hour he came sauntering to the city hall, with a Bible under his arm. He knew less about the book than anything else. But he appeared wise as to its contents, and everybody walked about. He preached a small box, talked around it two or three times, and it was evident there was a revelation about him. Finally he mounted the box and began to sing a gospel song; he had learned the week previous. This he spent the book and read a passage. His sermon followed. It was a crude talk on religion, but it was a practical talk on the 'pace that kills,' and his crowd listened to him. Afterward he told us that he felt abashed at first, and almost broke out in a cold sweat, but he began to think how many times he had talked to people from the circus ring, and in the vaudeville show and in the ball park, and he did not see why he could not talk to salvation. He opened the book and read the first passage which met his eye, and his bravery was his salvation. He said: 'I hadn't braved it through, I guess I would have gone backward. I wanted a glass of beer awful bad, and I wish it was just across the street.' Since that time I know he has been true to his faith, and that he has not touched a drop of liquor."

"Doc" Wheeler's work is the salvation of the girls, and he makes it the burden of his talk.

Finally he drifted into Houston. It was back in 1895-96, when the baseball season was at its height, that Wheeler had a good voice and he determined to live as easy as he could, and if his voice could make a living for him, it suited him. He was an announcer on the streets for the ball games. In Galveston and Houston he would walk from one portion of town to the other telling of the game, and now and then he would say something about a particular brand of beer. For this he was paid money and beer, and he was having a delightful time.

STORY OF HIS REFORM

Once a Circus Clown, He Has Taken Up Bible and Goes From Place to Place

W. S. Wheeler, the reformed circus clown, who is preaching on the streets of Fort Worth, is a peculiar character in Texas, and from one end of the state to the other his story has been told. It is interesting, dates back about seven years, and the scene is laid in Texas. "Doc" Wheeler was for years a circus clown. He is not a young man by any means, his gray hair and bald head showing that he has been in this world a long time. Small in stature, a face which "looks the part" of a clown, with ready wit, he was just the man for the fun-making in the circus ring. In course of time he left the circus arena, and in Gainesville a number of years ago he was a performer in a vaudeville theater, going from there to other places, where he "did a turn." Finally he drifted into Houston. It was back in 1895-96, when the baseball season was at its height, that Wheeler had a good voice and he determined to live as easy as he could, and if his voice could make a living for him, it suited him. time he would not talk about the situation. He is watching the Hogg movement.

Paul Clayton of Gainesville is in the city spending the Jewish holiday. Mr. Clayton formerly lived in Fort Worth, being with Stripling several years ago. He is now advertising manager for S. Zacharias of Gainesville, and taking advantage of the closing day with his employer, he has come to Fort Worth to visit friends. "I always like to get back to Fort Worth," he said this morning. "The town is growing rapidly, and it is interesting to look at what is here today and remember what it was a few years ago. The delightful feature is that it is all solid improvement and no boom growth. It is brick and mortar development and not frame houses."

Dr. J. H. McCracken of Mineral Wells, one of the prominent physicians of that resort, was here last night on a professional trip. While talking with friends in the lobby of the Worth he said: "I have been reading The Telegram recently and I notice much is said about the proposed Fort Worth. A non-resident reading such literature would think it was a 'boom' plan, but to visit here and look at the city as it was several years ago, he would soon impress his mind with the very much improved with the town. I notice that an electric line from here to Mineral Wells is discussed. I hope it will be built. Mineral Wells people, in fact, the people of Palo Pinto county, would like to be closer to Fort Worth, and with an interurban line we would be in speaking distance, anyhow."

began raining Monday night and has continued since. Rain comes too late, however, to do cotton much good, but on the contrary it will tend to retard maturity of cotton, which is being gathered in several sections of North and Central Texas.

There seems to be no complaint of lack of labor in this country. The rain cotton was opening very rapidly. The yield is generally about half a bale to the acre, but in some localities it will go two-thirds of a bale.

The best cotton prospects are along the Prisco between Fort Worth and Brady, the terminus of the road, a distance of 150 miles. The best crop in years will be made in that country. Just what the result of the present rains will be is now hard to foresee, but cotton experts here say that it is liable to result in considerable damage. It would not be surprising if the farmers propose to do in regard to marketing their cotton. Very little is coming in at this time.

OPPOSED TO TWO PHONES

SAN ANTONIO MERCHANTS ADVISE AGAIN TWO SYSTEMS

Special Meeting of Dallas Grocers Called for Next Tuesday Evening

(From the Dallas Times-Herald, Dallas, Texas, Friday evening, September 25, 1933.)

At the last meeting of the Dallas Retail Grocers' Association, held about a week ago, the question of having two telephone exchanges in Dallas was taken up and discussed at length. Manager J. E. Farnsworth was invited to make an address at the meeting, and he accepted. The question was considered from every standpoint and it was finally decided to write to the San Antonio Retail Merchants' Association and ask the members' opinion of the two telephone exchanges now in use there.

The following letter has been received by J. E. R. Clifton, secretary of the Dallas association:

"San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 11, 1933.—Mr. J. E. R. Clifton, Merchants' Retail Credit Association, Dallas. Dear Sir:—In reply to your favor of the 4th instant, would say: In meeting assembled last night the Retail Merchants' Association of San Antonio placed itself on record as being very much opposed to having two telephone companies in a city. We formerly paid $5 per month for one phone, and now pay $8 per month for two phones—$5 for the old phone and $3 for the new one. This is an apparent increase of $3 per annum with no apparent increase in business, receipts or convenience. Would advise you to profit by our loss."

"Your letter was read in open meeting and I was instructed to write as above."

"Yours very truly,"

"RETAIL MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION OF SAN ANTONIO."

"F. W. McALLISTER, Secretary."

"The greatest blessing to the South is the boll weevil," said W. T. Hefley, attorney at law, when he was here last night en route home, after spending some time at Mineral Wells. Mr. Hefley is an attorney of Cameron, but, as he says, "what Bill Hefley makes practicing law he spends farming. With his headquarters in Milan county, and they have not only been raising cotton, but have diversified freely. Continuing, Mr. Hefley said:

"The result of the boll weevil has been to reduce the average. This reduction in average has made cotton worth more money, and the increase in the price of the staple has been greater than the loss by the damage from the weevil. It has also forced the farmer to try for other crops, and he ceases to depend altogether on cotton. Other crops being wanted, and increased in value, the farmers are putting in a better grade of cattle and horses, and they have thousands of hogs today where they had none before, and they are diversifying the crops to such an extent that they have always something to sell. This change in affairs is building up a better citizenship in every community; therefore I think the boll weevil has proved a blessing to the country. The Farmers' Alliance met every year for years and passed resolutions that the average in cotton should be reduced. But that advice was not followed. The boll weevil came along and commenced working in eighty-five counties in the state. The result is a uniform reduction in the production, and the aggregate of the money value of the crop is more than the aggregate from the whole average."

"I am of the opinion that should the boll weevil infest Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia, Texas can make more money than at any time in her history, and she can grow all the farmers care to plant. This is because the states in the Southeast cannot grow cotton against the boll weevil and fertilizer."

Mr. Hefley now and then takes a dip in politics. He is well posted on the political situation in Texas, but just at this

WORK TO BE PUSHED ON NEW LINES

General Manager Haines Says Company Will Resume Construction Soon

Speaking of the new equipment cars for Fort Worth, General Manager F. M. Haines of the Traction Company said that the order included twenty summer cars for service in this city and five coaches for the interurban line, to be delivered in April.

Mr. Haines also said to The Telegram this morning that the company would resume construction of the Hemphill street line within the next few days and complete it to the race track on the South Side. The line is now finished to the city limits.

The Summit avenue extension will also be under way in a very short time, said Mr. Haines. This improvement will be welcome news to those who reside in the extreme northern portion of the city, who are now without street car service. It is understood that these two extensions will be under way within the next ten days.

Another matter discussed by the traction company during the recent visit of the general manager at Cleveland was the construction of the sixty-stall car house and barn, which is to be built on ground belonging to the company in the vicinity of the new park, mentioned in which was made in the city some time ago. The stable will be constructed of brick and will cost in the neighborhood of $45,000 or $50,000, and will be the largest of its kind in the state. It will be used exclusively to house the cars used in the Fort Worth service. There will be a second story for lockers for the men and where they can meet.

Mr. Haines said that the plans and specifications for the building are still in the hands of the architects of the company at Cleveland, but are expected to arrive here in the course of a very few days, when actual construction will be commenced. The building will be completed as soon as the work can be done. "When all the new cars that have been ordered are sent to Fort Worth and put into service, the people of this city will have no reason to complain of the service that will be given by our company," said Mr. Haines.

STRIKE HASN'T YET BEEN CALLED

Threatened Difficulty Between the Packers and Meat Cutters Undeveloped

The threatened strike of the members of the Meat Cutters and Sausage Workers of the United States, based at materialized, although the matter if wages was to have been voted on by the unions last Monday.

There are some 700 members of the union employed by the Armour and Swift companies in the north, but no action has been taken by the union here. Some of the members seen by The Telegram express themselves as being well satisfied with the scale received and the treatment accorded them from the two managers in this city. They feel the union man say they are contented with present conditions and do not want to see trouble come up.

The increase in wages asked by the union is 10 per cent. The union over the country were instructed from headquarters to take a vote on the question last Monday, but thus far no public announcement of the result has been made. The packers were willing to advance wages 10 per cent, but on consideration of this increase, they asked additional work in return. The proposition was submitted to the officers of the national union, but if action was taken on the proposition, it is not known here.

A dispatch from Chicago states that at a special meeting of the 30,000 employer held there it was voted to order a strike should the vote of the local unions at the various packing house centers be adverse to covering their own schedule working time above as being submitted by the packers. If definite action has been taken by the union on this matter the news of it has never been received in Fort Worth, and the local employees are still at their posts of duty.

The total number of employees affected in the various packing houses is shown by the following list: Chicago, 30,000; Kansas City, 7,000; South Omaha, 6,000; St. Joseph, 2,000; Sioux City, 1,500; St. Paul, 1,000; New York, 1,000; East St. Louis, 3,000; Fort Worth, 700.

The unionists are also demanding an agreement that will provide for a "closed shop" on the basis of employment of union employees and a ten-hour day. The national officers have taken the stand that with such an agreement they will be better able to fill their part of the contract. They argue that with unionists in the shop, the schedule working time, there would be more or less friction.

CHICAGO SITUATION

The following Chicago dispatch gives the situation as it exists in that city: Negotiations on the new wage scale for the Chicago packers are still in progress when it was thought the packers had about decided to accept the scale they were broken off by the representatives of the packers. This came after the trouble at St. Joseph, Mo., where a strike was called because of a personal quarrel between one of the foremen and some of the workers, and after the beef buglers at the stock yards had refused to work over the week-end before Sunday day.

In a communication sent to President Michael Donnelly of the Amalgamated association and others of the executive board who were in Chicago carrying on the negotiations, the representatives of the packers stated that they did not think the present time was opportune for the negotiations of a new agreement. This was two weeks ago.

DISCIPLINED STRIKERS

President Donnelly had previously told the packers that the union would be able to live up to any agreement that might be entered into. To demonstrate that he was in earnest he promptly disciplined the Beef Buglers' local union for having refused to work overtime, and went to St. Joseph, where he settled the packers' union and upon their return to Chicago.

President Donnelly returned to Chicago with other members of the national executive board, for the purpose of resuming the negotiations on the wage scale. On last Saturday representatives of the packers met them in conference and presented the new working schedule to counteract the 10 per cent increase in wages asked by the employees.

LAST STRIKE

The last general strike in the packing industry was in 1887, when the Knights of Labor had some 50,000 organized men in the packing industry. This contest proved disastrous to the strikers. Labor leaders generally do not believe the packers will invite a general strike, as the employees are well organized throughout the country. A strike, they assert, would mean the loss of millions of dollars a day to the packers.

Happened at Our Store.....

A few days ago a lady sent a prescription to our store. We filled it and charged her $2.00 for it, which was a very reasonable price for the remedy. In about an hour she returned in person with the prescription and informed us that she could get it filled down the street for a dollar. We explained to her that it was a very costly remedy and that the medicine cost us wholesale $1.42. Added to this was the cost of an experienced man to compound it. However, this did not satisfy her, and we refunded the money. She went on down the street and to our great surprise got it filled or rather the bottle filled for a dollar. Shortly after this the lady changed doctors because her child did not get any better. Perhaps it would have been better had she changed druggists. Get it filled right at Holland's Red Cross Pharmacy 314 Main Street.

RESOLUTIONS BY BAR

Memory of the Late Judge A. A. Kemble Is Honored WAXAHACHIE, Tex., Oct. 1.—One hour of the district court's time was taken up yesterday in the presentation of suitable resolutions on the death of the late Judge A. A. Kemble, which occurred last May. The resolutions were presented in behalf of the Ellis County Bar association by Judge A. C. Groce, the presentation being preceded and followed by a few remarks by Judge Groce. Other attorneys to speak to the resolutions were Hon. S. P. Skinner, Hon. W. H. Brown and Captain W. H. Rhoads. The remarks were closed by District Judge Dillard. He spoke feelingly of the loss which the bar, the courts, the country and the deceased's family had suffered in his death. Judge Dillard declared his full concurrence in the sentiments expressed in the resolutions, and said it was a pleasure to grant the request to have them spread on the minutes of the court.

Galveston and New Orleans Encouraging

Remarkable railroad development. Improvement of transportation facilities and perfection of port accommodations, together with natural advantages, recognized conveniences in location, portends a prosperous future for the south as an exporting region.

Already the tide of exportation has turned and New Orleans and Galveston, the two great gulf ports, are enjoying an unprecedented business in the detriment of Atlantic ports. In discussing this interesting fact in St. Louis Globe-Democrat a recent issue says:

GALVESTON LIKE KEVIN AND THE OTHER PORTS OF THE GULF OF MEXICO, HAS RECENTLY GAINED GREAT IMPORTANCE AS AN EXPORT PORT. FOR THE TWELVE MONTHS ENDED WITH AUGUST 31, 1932, ACCORDING TO THE GRAIN INSPECTION DEPARTMENT, OVER 1,000,000 BUSHELS OF WHEAT, 1,000,000 BUSHELS OF CORN, 1,000,000 BUSHELS OF SOY BEANS, 1,000,000 AGED MAN IS FATALLY INJURED

Samuel W. Lyman, aged 73 years, was run over by a freight train and fatally injured at 2 o'clock this afternoon on the track of the Missouri Pacific at Seventeenth street. He had been employed as crossing watchman for the past two years. The wheels passed over the lower part of his body, mangle him fearfully.

SOUR LAKE IS A GREAT PLACE

Geo. W. Armstrong Tells of Situation in Oil Fields

THE TWO BANKS COMBINE He Says Money Is Made and Lost There Faster Than Any Place in World

"You can make money faster and lose it faster at Sour Lake than any place in the world."

So the situation is sized up by George W. Armstrong, a citizen of Fort Worth and a banker, business man and oil magnate of Sour Lake, who is here for a few days to get acquainted with the members of his family.

Mr. Armstrong has moved into a position of prominence in Sour Lake. He gave up his law practice here to try the field of fortune, and he has been successful. When times were prosperous there, and citizens were meeting in mass convention to take action to preserve order and make men obey the law, Judge Armstrong was put at the head of what might be termed the "provisional government."

When times were prosperous there, and citizens were meeting in mass convention to take action to preserve order and make men obey the law, Judge Armstrong was put at the head of what might be termed the "provisional government."

There has been some extension of the field recently. They have salt water in this field, as in all others. One well—the three property, went through the salt water strata and gets the oil from below the salt water. There are two or three wells flowing from the natural pressure. Judge Armstrong was asked if he had abandoned his citizenship in Fort Worth.

THEY WILL TRY TO STOP ORDER

Preliminary Steps Toward Injunction Against Commission Are Taken

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 1.—At 12:30 p. m. Judge Lovett left Judge McCormick. The session between them in chambers was strictly private. Neither would make any statements of what was considered.

It was learned, however, that it was not the Southern Pacific and Rock Island trackage agreement, but the preliminary step for an injunction against the state railroad commission to prevent that body from interfering with the business of the express companies operating in Texas that was considered. The papers were not filed with Judge McCormick, but are to be filed by Lovett with Federal District Judge Maxey at Austin. He wants the commission to be enjoined from putting into force the reduced express rates, which are scheduled to become effective on Monday next.

He considered certain that Circuit Judge McCormick will instruct District Judge Maxey to hear the case.

ANDREW CREWS GETS A LIFE SENTENCE

Defendant Hears Jury's Verdict Without a Tremor or Sign of Emotion

Andrew Crews today at noon heard his fate. The jury returned a verdict giving the prisoner a life sentence, after being out only one night. Crews received his sentence without display of emotion and walked back to his cell with indifference, so far as the court officials could detect.

It will be recalled that on the night of December 20, 1902, a young man named Hendrix Long was killed and the body thrown into the Trinity river just below the bridge back of the county jail. The body had been in the water several days when found. It was hanging to a small tree that was partially covered up with water. The officials took up the case and soon discovered that two or three parties were evidently connected with Long's murder. The arrest of Andrew Crews followed, and Joe Wolf, who is being held for complicity in the murder of Wilson, is also to be tried for the Long killing. In fact, he was put on trial this morning. Up to noon five of the twelve jurors were called.

Young Long lived at Azel, and came to Fort Worth on the day he was killed with a load of charcoal. He drove a span of fine mules, which disappeared at the same time Long turned up missing, but were subsequently recovered. The finding of the animals was the means which led to the arrest of Crews.

THE FIRST POLL TAX

The first poll tax under the new Terrell election law was issued today by Collector J. W. Walker to W. J. Ely, who lives near Dove in precinct No. 39. Two exemptions were also issued, one to J. A. Johnson and the other to W. H. Letchworth, both of this city.

The collector's office is very anxious that the public understand the importance of paying these poll taxes, which is necessary for a voter to preserve his franchise at the coming elections. There has been misunderstanding regarding several features of the new law. One is the exemption from paying the tax by cripples, and in order to settle the question the collector asked for a ruling from Comptroller Stephens, which came today and is as follows:

"In reply to your question as to the meaning of the loss of a hand or a foot, you are advised that this office has ruled on the same proposition before as follows: The law provides that those who have lost a hand or a foot are exempt from the payment of a poll tax, and I do not think that merely the loss of the use of the hand or foot would entitle to the exemption. If the legislature had intended to extend the exemption to those who had lost the use of a foot or a hand, the law should have so read as to have expressed it. Again, such an interpretation of the law would impose upon the assessing and collecting authorities the duty of determining the fact of a total loss, and thus the benefit of the exemption, which in many instances, would be hard to decide, and a uniform application of the exemption could hardly be obtained."

Another clause in the comptroller's letter, reads as follows: "Answering your question as to issuing receipts to persons in a city of 10,000 inhabitants or more who are unable to give the numbers of their houses, I beg to say that I do not think this fact should prevent them from paying their poll taxes. While the law prescribes that this shall be done, yet the purpose of it is that no fraud shall be practiced on the collector. If he sees there is no fraud, and the other provisions of the law are complied with, and this cannot for the reasons stated, he should issue receipt."

JEWISH PEOPLE OBSERVE THE DAY

All Stores Are Closed Today Because of the Day of Atonement

The stores in this city which are controlled by the Jewish people are closed today on account of the annual observance of the Day of Atonement. Last evening at 6 o'clock marked the opening of Yom Kippur, the Jewish fast day of atonement.

The following is an explanation of the observance of the day: "And it shall be unto you a statute forever, in the seventh month on the tenth day of the month, shall ye offer yourselves (ye fasting) and no work shall ye do. For on that day ye (the high priest) will atone for you, to cleanse you from all your sins before the eternal shall ye be clean—Levit. xvi.

There was paid in dividends $5,702,400; interest, $4,881,253; set apart to provide for the difference between issues of bonds, $100,000; carried forward to surplus dividend fund, $1,178,186.

FAST SERVICE TO MEXICO

Vice President A. C. Bird of the Gould system was in St. Louis yesterday conferring with President Ramsey of the Wabash and the officials of the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain passenger traffic department. In regard to the fast schedule soon to be inaugurated from St. Louis to Mexico, the conference was for the purpose of harmonizing the schedules for the through train service so as to materially reduce the time between the eastern cities and the southwest via St. Louis over the Gould lines. The service is to commence October 15.

HOLLANDERS BUILDING RAILROAD

A few days ago J. A. Robertson, a wealthy railroad builder and manager, passed through Fort Worth from Monterrey, Mex., on his way to New York to arrange for the construction of a railroad he is building on the Pacific coast for a company of Holland capitalists. The line is to extend from near the junction of the Southern Pacific in Arizona south to Guadalajara, a distance of nearly 1,500 miles.

"There is now only a little more than 8,000 miles of railroad in the whole Republic of Mexico, which does not nearly meet the demands of Mexico for transportation facilities," said Mr. Robertson, who, continuing, said that the development of railroads in Mexico had not kept pace with the developments of her natural resources.

Mr. Robertson says he believes that the location of foreign capital will be the means of revolutionizing Mexico within the next few years.

RICE BELT SURVEY

The surveyors of the Rice Belt railroad have pitched their tent at Anchor. They will run an air line from Alvin to a point on the Houston and Great Northern just north of Anchor. The survey will be continued through to Columbia.

SANTA FE NEW YARDS

The Santa Fe, Colorado and Santa Fe has commenced the construction of new yards, four houses and repair shops near Houston, improvements that have been in contemplation for a long while. The new yards will be on an extensive scale. The move has been made in order to give the Santa Fe more territory, as the old yards were in the heart of the city and lacked the necessary room to facilitate the business of the company.

A large force of men are at work grading, ditching and arranging for track laying. The yards are to be completed as fast as possible.

HARRIMAN-KUHN SPLIT

A New York dispatch says that there is

Store Closed Today! Century Building WASHER Eighth and Main

LITTLE VACANT CHAIRS ARE HARD TO OBTAIN

"If parents would be reasonable enough to let children attend school outside their own ward, several more could be provided for at each building, and in this way some of the difficulty could be overcome." In building No. 3, the seventh grade can take eight more pupils and the sixth grade, eleven. In No. 3, the seventh grade can accommodate seven more. In No. 4 the third grade can take six. In No. 5 the sixth grade can take five, the fifth grade three and the third grade twenty. In No. 6 the sixth grade can take five, the third grade 3, the fourth grade eight, and the second grade six. In No. 7 the seventh grade can take twelve. No. 9 the sixth grade can take seven. In all forty-two pupils can be accommodated, and if the parents were wiser than last they are somewhere this would help a great deal unit rooms now under construction are asked. Superintendent Hogg also said morning that nothing further has heard from the seats for the new year. "The school board is doing everything it can to take care of the pupils," he said, "and the children will be accommodated just as soon as possible."

confirmation of the strained relations between E. H. Harriman and the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. The dispatch continues as follows: "The renewal of close business relations between the Hill-Morgan railroad interest and Mr. Harriman is the outcome of the split between Harriman and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Mr. Harriman believed the purchase of the Atchison control to be good policy and determined upon it, that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. did not approve the plan, and their disagreement over the Atchison matter led to a parting. It appears that recent purchases of Atchison have been for Harriman and that the control of the Santa Fe rests with the securities company controlled by Harriman. Mr. Harriman's alliance with the Hill-Morgan interest means, of course, that the Northern securities and Erie properties will be friendly to the Harriman railroad securities company. The Rock Island interest will also work hand and glove with the Hill-Morgan-Harriman interest. It is understood.

E. G. Rall said today there was very little wheat marketing at this time, as farmers are holding it for better prices. Another reason advanced for the small movement is the fact that farmers are busy preparing the ground for fall sowing. Wheat is now selling at 76 cents on the track. Mr. Rall also says there is very little corn moving because it has not sufficiently matured to permit of its being shipped. Corn is now selling at 30 cents, but Mr. Rall looks for it to reach 50 cents.

On cross-examination he said he was aware of unfriendly relations between Tillman and Editor Gonzales. The reading of editorials from Gonzales' newspaper in relation to the defendant then began.

DEPARTMENT REFUSES TROOPS

Shotgun Quarantine Is Not Deemed Necessary at This Time WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 1.—Fearing an epidemic of yellow fever, a number of persons living along the Rio Grande have appealed to the war department for the establishment of a "shotgun" quarantine, and asked that soldiers be ordered for this duty. While the officials of the department are alive to the necessity for action to prevent the spread of the disease, they have concluded the present outbreak does not justify such radical steps as contemplated by the request for troops.
