CASTORIA is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhea and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

- Dr. F. Gerald Blatter, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "Your Castoria is good for children and I frequently prescribe it, always obtaining the desired results."
- Dr. Gustave A. Elsenraeber, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "I have used your Castoria repeatedly in my practice with good results, and can recommend it as an excellent, mild and harmless remedy for children."
- Dr. E. J. Dennis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used and prescribed your Castoria in my practice for a number of years and find it to be an excellent remedy for children."
- Dr. S. A. Buchanan, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria in the case of my own baby and find it pleasant to take, and have obtained excellent results from its use."
- Dr. J. E. Simpson, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."

- Dr. L. R. Robinson, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria certainly has merit. It is not its age, its continued use by mothers through all these years, and the many attempts to imitate it, sufficient recommendation? What can a physician add? Leave it to the mothers."
- Dr. Albert F. Weston, of Cleveland, O., says: "I have used your Castoria in my practice for the past eighteen years with the utmost success."
- Dr. Edwin F. Pardon, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
- Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CASTORIA COMPANY, 77 BURNETT STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

of late years, the Dowager duchess and her unmarried daughters spending most of their time in London or at Broxmouth park, while the head of the house paid visits or wandered about with his regiment.

The duke's comparatively limited finances have prevented him hitherto from playing the role of grand seigneur at Floors in a manner worthy of his rank and race; but the tenantry on the estate are anticipating a good time in the future. Here, with her entertainments, the duchess will build grandly on the social foundation already laid by Miss May Goelet, and the entire American colony of popular American women will be socially strengthened by her presence.

Several American women with untitled English husbands have social influence here of the first order. Of these, Mrs. George Cornwallis-West began her career in London as the wife of a "courtesy" lord, while Mrs. Arthur Paget married a smart soldier, with very aristocratic connections. Mrs. Paget belongs to the best set of the clever, cultured American women. She has a great talent for organization, and is a perfect hostess, who has had the honor of entertaining the king and queen annually for many years.

Another well-known American hostess who lacks a handle to her name is Mrs. Adair, who has a beautiful home in County Donegal. In London she is the center of a brilliant and distinguished coterie, and at her house in Curzon street society's bright particular stars may be met cheek by jowl with literary and artistic lions.

Mrs. Adair secured a great triumph when, at a dance given by her two years ago in town, she secured Lord Kitchener as the guest of the evening. She is also an expert organizer as her countrywoman, Mrs. Arthur Paget, and a successful arrangement of hers not long ago was an exhibition of silverware work held in London, when the "gate money" was given to a children's hospital.

Yet another untitled American who has won a foremost position in English society is Mrs. Ronalds. This lady is intensely musical and in her younger days possessed a beautiful voice, which was on one occasion warmly praised by the late Duke of Coburg.

All this considered, the possibility of any domination of the social scene in England through efforts of undiplomatic English women, seems rather remote.

CORTI'S DEAD ANARCHISTS ARE MUCH EXCITED

Man Injured in Yesterday's Riot at Barre, Vt., Succumbs This Morning

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 5.—From a bullet wound, said to have been inflicted by Alex Carotto, a socialist leader at Barre, in a riot between the anarchists and the socialists last Saturday, Eli Corti died this morning. The death of Corti, who was an anarchist, has aroused much excitement in Barre and threats are heard of further trouble. The police reports indicate that during the rioting two other Italians were stabbed.

The feeling between the anarchists and socialists has been intense for many months and conflicts more or less serious have been of almost daily occurrence.

Dr. Giacinto Menotti Serrati, editor of a socialist newspaper published in New York, had been invited to address local socialists, some fifty of whom had congregated in the socialist hall. While the audience was awaiting the arrival of the speaker, fifteen anarchists, headed by Eli Corti, made their appearance at the hall and declared that they would not permit Serrati to address the gathering. During the fight that followed it is alleged that Alexander Carotto drew a revolver and fired point blank at Corti, the ball lodging in the latter's stomach.

The second shot went wild, and the third struck Emilio Vochini in the arm. When the anarchists saw their leader fall they sprang on Carotto and carried him down stairs to the street. The fight ended only when a large detail of police had reached the hall.

Dr. Serrati is detained as a witness, and on a charge of breach of the peace.

Letters to The Telegram

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 3.—To the Editor of The Fort Worth Telegram: Your paper having the courage to come out on public questions, I would please call attention to the following: There has been sent out a very urgent appeal to the citizens from our county physician with regard to cleaning and keeping clean our city, but it seems that the authorities that be fail to keep their own thoroughfares clean. Any one walking along on the east side of Main street between Sixth and Seventh can see a condition in the gutter that is a disgrace to any city, a menace to public health and an imposition on the tenants of the buildings in front of which the nuisance prevails.

The street gang cleans this particular part of Main street Tuesdays and Saturdays. In the face of the fact that buggies stand there all day and backs all night, littering the street with manure. Why cannot the street be cleaned every morning?

The mayor some time back, so I am informed by one of our craftsmen, asked the city council to have two men of the street gang put under his special orders, and he would see that Main street between Sixth and Eighth would be kept clean. His request, I am informed, was granted, but the condition of the street now would put the back yard of a livery stable to shame.

P. G. B.

What they will do about it is a mystery. Talk of a social boycott makes even Englishmen laugh. The Duke of Manchester's social position has improved immensely since he married Miss Zimmerman of Cincinnati, while Europe does not contain a more powerful social influence—outside of royalty—than that of the American Duchess of Marlborough.

It is sorrowfully admitted that the American Duchess of Roxburgh will be able to exert the power of greater beauty than do either of her two predecessors who have acquired this rank. It is understood that almost immediately after the marriage in November the Duke will take his bride to Floors castle. This house, which is the principal seat of the family, has been little used as a residence

ENGLISH MATRONS ARE NOT PLEASED

(Special cable. Copyright, 1903, by W. R. Hearst.)

LONDON, Oct. 5.—In English society matrons with eligible daughters—in fact the daughters themselves—are no longer suffering in silence through the successful rivalry of fair Americans. "Three times and out"—the Duke of Roxburgh is the third of that rank who has passed by the waiting fair women with fair fortunes, who are of his own nationality. Resentful indignation is becoming plainly audible.

What they will do about it is a mystery. Talk of a social boycott makes even Englishmen laugh. The Duke of Manchester's social position has improved immensely since he married Miss Zimmerman of Cincinnati, while Europe does not contain a more powerful social influence—outside of royalty—than that of the American Duchess of Marlborough.

RECEIPTS LIBERAL MARKET STEADY

Cattle Generally Sold Steady. Big Run of Hogs Makes Market Close Weak

NORTH FORT WORTH, Oct. 5.—Yard receipts of cattle for the local market today were in the neighborhood of 3,000 head, nearly 1,000 of which were calves, received yesterday and early this morning and which were forwarded out to other markets. The bulk of the run was composed of western and northwestern cattle, which were received at the north yards only a small per cent of the receipts falling to the southern division.

The market as a whole, ruled steady throughout the day, trading being done on steady basis with last week's close. Harold & Spence had in from their feeding pens at Italy fifty choice heavy steers, averaging 1,121 pounds, which topped the market at $2.99, the same price which was paid for cattle from the same pens last week. Cows were plentiful, the bulk of the run being composed of medium to good quality range cows, shipped in from west Texas and the Panhandle. Good cows, weighing between 800 and 900 pounds, sold at $2.10, with the heavy commitments selling largely around $1.75 to $1.90. Heifers of good quality and flesh brought $2. the light common kinds selling at unchanged prices. Hogs were mostly of poor quality, and the sales made showed no quotable change from Saturday's market. Only a few bulls were offered and the light supply changed hands at prices ranging from $1.75 to $2.00. Hog receipts today numbered close around 2,000 head. At the opening of the market only nine ears, or 800 hogs, were in, but with the arrival of fifteen cars about noon and several loads of wagon hogs the run for the day figured close around 2,000 head. The market was slow in opening, buyers waiting for further developments on the northern markets, all of which reported steady to strong markets, except Kansas City, which could not be heard from. The Panhandle close was the market ruled steady to possibly a shade lower from Saturday's close. Best light weight, good quality territory hogs, averaging 175 pounds, brought $5.95, with the bulk of the run changing hands at $5.65 to $5.85; pigs and lights selling at $5.25.

THE REFORM NEEDED

The Fort Worth Telegram appears on the scene in war paint and with tomahawk drawn. It proposes to kill off certain abuses that have crept into public concerns down at Austin. But it doesn't wish to do all the fighting and reap all the glory. It thus calls out two of its contemporaries.

The Telegram proposes to get on one watch tower and invites the Tyler Courier and the Waco Times-Herald to get a tower each and help in the good work.

The Times-Herald appreciates the compliment. If there's any one thing this paper delights in, it is to assist in correcting abuses in public administration. The men elected to office are prone to forget that they are the servants of the people, and their indifference too often outrages decency and work a hardship on honest toil. It affords the Times-Herald inexpressible delight, insofar as it is capable, to Joe Folk all who forget that public office is a public trust.—Waco Times-Herald.

No, The Telegram does not want to do all the fighting alone, but the Telegram is willing to do its share. It believes the state needs that reform and that it will profit all the people—not only legislators, but local officers, and where the newspaper will do its duty the public will have the benefit. While The Telegram is a Democratic newspaper and will support democratic principles, it does not accept everything which bears that label. There are men who claim to be of democratic faith who propose things not democratic and these proposals will be defeated. The Telegram will support the right against the wrong, and the wrong cannot get the good word of approval, no matter in what guise it presents its supplication. The Telegram insists that extravagance in legislative affairs should be stopped and that local officers should be so conducted that the broad light of day may be turned on every official action.

To secure this men must be elected to office who will follow the letter and the spirit of the law. There should be the same conduct of official affairs whether the officer is on a salary or on fees. There should be the same treatment to the poor man as to the rich.

The Times-Herald says: How is it that we send to Austin—not in every instance, of course—not who subject themselves to criticism by reason of their failure to plumb the line of economy? What are the reasons for men accepting "courtesies" that measurably create obligations to private interests? These are questions that lie back of the things about which we complain. One trouble is that in no sort of sense do we allow the office to seek the man. Another is the prevalent tendency of the times to magnify the material at the expense of the spiritual, so that very often the place of patriotism. In a very old, old book we are taught that "righteousness exalteth a nation," but modern conditions dispute the assertion, and so it comes that abuses in public life are but the reflection of what is taking place all about us. Quinlan in Pennsylvania, Adkins in Delaware, Leelan in Missouri, together with the postoffice and interior department crookedness, are all to be charged to the times in which we live. Instead of the golden rule being the measure of conduct the idea is largely prevalent that the business of each is to "do" the other fellow. And this is bringing us to real fighting. In due time the Lord's prophets will come out of the wilderness to call us to repentance, but it may be the great calamities will have to befall ere we heed the warning voice.

It is a question of real fighting. The Telegram has asked the Waco paper to assist because the conduct of that paper has shown that it is democratic, but it will not shield irregularities simply because some man seeks to label his action democracy. There is today a fight on in Texas. Every newspaper has an influence and with the trumvirate formed—the Telegram, the Times-Herald and the Tyler Courier—the attacking forces are ready. Let every paper volunteer. It matters not that the News, the Post and the San Antonio Express are saying nothing. The country press can win the battle and it will if it will but try. Do not let the candidate pull the wool over your eyes, but ask him:

Are you in favor of honest government?

Are you in favor of economy in public affairs?

Are you in favor of legislation which will abolish free passes and stop the hold up of corporations?

Are you in favor of legislation which will prevent absolute control by corporations? Are you in favor of legislation which will protect corporations in their vested rights? A man who can answer each of these questions in the affirmative, and will so act if he is elected, will remedy the evil.

ANONYMOUS CAMPAIGN

An unsigned communication from Austin to the Journal says: "Some here think the State University will be brought into politics at the next state election, as _____, who is out for _____, and _____, who is a candidate for _____, are both students of that institution." The Journal is of the impression that the State University has been very much in politics ever since the institution began manufacturing lawyers. Proof of that will be found in scanning a roster of the legislature. Many Texans have always regarded the university as a "White Elephant," and there is danger that within another decade it will be looked upon as blight, even worse than the boll weevil.—Beaumont Journal.

The above unsigned communication was received by The Telegram and it was evidently sent to other papers in the state. It is not the first sent out from Austin within the last few weeks and it is a species of campaigning which is so reprehensible that it should be exposed. The former students of the university should be sure they know who is doing this and why. Such an effort to drag a state institution into a political fight deserves severe treatment. Men who make an anonymous campaign are men who do not deserve office. The candidate who is afraid to come out in the open will not be the officer the people want to handle the affairs of any state department. The Telegram does not know what political bureau is getting out the anonymous literature, but from whatever source it will surely show itself later and this showing will fall heavy on the candidate in whose interest it is proposed.

THE FREE PASS

Hon. James Stephen Hogg, ex-governor general and ex-governor and at all times admittedly a spokesman in the inner chamber of the high council of the democratic party, has indicated his organization for high crimes and misdemeanors. He charges, in plain English, that the lobby is all powerful at Austin, controls legislation and goes hand-in-glove with the law-makers of the state. In language as colorful and as picturesque as a public man has ever uttered in Texas, this picturesque and ponderous ex-governor declares that of recent years the democratic party of Texas has made the administration of Edmund J. Davis respectable. Ye gods! And democrats of prominence, office holders of the present administration, never blink when the speaker vindicates Davis and his carpet-baggers at the expense of the souls of state who have made laws for the people of recent years.—Dallas Times-Herald.

The Telegram does not believe that all Mr. Hogg said is a fact, but it does believe that the conditions have made it necessary for the lobby to do as it pleased at every session of the legislature. The Telegram believes the corporation would rather meet unfavorable legislation with argument instead of with courtesies. It has the right to send its attorney there to plead its cause, and where it has a reasonable objection to proposed legislation that objection should be heard. But when the lobbyist goes there with a free pass, a telephone or telegraph frank, or a free express stamp, he is putting temptation in the way of a mortal and all mortals are liable to err. The corporation has a right to live and has a right to fair treatment. It should get this, but it should not be forced to use an influence which has a money value.

There is not a railroad in Texas which would dare refuse a member of the legislature a pass.

The Pullman company would be afraid to refuse a legislator a pass, when the legislature is in session.

This should not be. It is a wrong condition of affairs.

Governor Hogg is right on the free pass question, and the people realize it is so. Will the people have the nerve to ask the candidates who visit them if they are traveling on free transportation? This is a big state and if a candidate for a state office makes his campaign through nearly two hundred counties on passes, what will he do to reciprocate the courtesy which has been shown him? It is an old saying that you should "praise the bridge which carries you over." If the railroads transport a man free, from one end of the state to the other, that man is an ingrate if he does not favor the corporations which have made it possible for him to make his journey.

These are facts, and the people are convinced of it.

Business will pick up today in the detective line. Beeler, the Wells-Fargo robber, has served his time and is released. From now on he will be a watched man and if he attempts to go to the hiding place of his money he will be followed. Why don't he take the bankruptcy act and discharge the obligation to the express company?

The Houston Chronicle will be two years old October 14. The youngest promises to get out a magnificent edition on that occasion. The Chronicle has made a success because it is in the right field. It publishes today's news today. More than ever the people are showing an appreciation of the afternoon paper.

The people of Waco will be good pedestrians when the street car strike is finished.

Possibly the rain will be used as an excuse to delay the Houston street paving a while longer.

Get on your carnival clothes and be prepared to have a fine time this week.

CLEANINGS FROM... THE EXCHANGES

When Senator Allen expressed a dislike for Postmaster Todd she was removed. When the people of Indiana expressed a dislike for a negro postmaster, the post-office was abolished. That's politics.—Chico Review.

That's republican politics. All politics are not alike.

There are probably some very rough stars in Texas, but the Herald will back Main street, Denison, against any business street in any town in the state, great or small, for all 'round roughness.—Denison Herald.

In order to make the program more interesting Dallas will back her excuses for sidewalks against all corners for genuine inconvenience. This is one phase of municipal life over which the council never pretends to exercise control, although aldermen claim that it is within their jurisdiction.—Dallas Times-Herald.

Houston street, Fort Worth, is the worst this side of the Adirondacks, but it is not the fault of the people. The Parker-Washington company is to blame.

Hogg or no Hogg, members of the legislature should be deprived of their free pass privileges.—Waco Times-Herald.

Mr. Hogg is not the first man to oppose free passes. It is an old argument and one which has weight. The free pass habit is a bad one. The legislature passed a law to prevent the dope habit. They ought to strike nearer home.

The Fort Worth packeries want 5,000 hogs per day, yet they are receiving only about 500, so it is reported.—Gainesville Messenger.

Send on your pigs and we will buy them.

Now, if instead of wielding the ax literally and figuratively, Mr. Roosevelt would only ply a spade in Panama the American people would be better satisfied.—Houston Chronicle.

Why Panama? It is Nicaragua we want.

A good many business men registered vigorous kicks against allowing the show people to erect the unsightly bill boards in the court house yard, and it is probably the last time such a thing will be allowed.—Granbury News.

Some one evidently got a few tickets for the privilege, so why kick?

The present manager of this print shop and general dispenser of information has not and will not go around town soliciting aid in the shape of a bonus to again buy the plant. We have always tried to keep from being an object of charity—failing that let it be very essential that our business men patronize the paper. If they don't we will, we are afraid, be compelled to print their financial obituary sheet. The most of our farmers have either money or money crops and will be more apt to patronize those merchants who have new goods, and a merchant with new goods generally tells it through the paper.—Polk County News.

Editor Rose does not propose to go on the charity list and he is right. A newspaper which cannot exist on its merits is a poor piece of property. The Telegram is paying its way and asking readers to patronize it because it has the news and advertisers to use its columns because it has the circulation. It is not asking local capital to take stock and it does not seek business "just to help it along."

Had you noticed how enticing are the long stretches of sidewalks, and how comforting they are when a rain converts the sand into mud? If you haven't thought of this, do so now. Then tell the men who laid the plan to secure them and the many patriotic, progressive citizens who fell into line and built the walks.—Corsicana Sun.

Please advise Fort Worth how you got the walks built. We need a few more.

It looks like a hard job to get a man to stick to the East Texas place on the Dallas, Fort Worth and Lightfoot, Finley and Templeton have resigned in succession.—Austin Statesman.

From the manner in which applications are filed when a vacancy occurs you can be dead sure the job will not go begging.

Did you see the big picture of the big Hoe press which is to be installed by the Telegram? It was published Sunday morning. In a short time you will be invited to see the thing at that photo.—Fort Worth Telegram.

That is one of the get-opts of The Telegram's funny man. That Hoe press has now been on the road about twelve months and this is the second picture we have seen of it. The Telegram is a good paper, but we wish that new press would hurry.—Quarrah Observer.

Did you know a printing press cannot be built in a day? The three-deck, color presses of the present day are not carried in stock like the country Campbell and the Washington hand presses. They are built to order and from plans, drawn as an architect would draw the plan for a house. This press has been built, is on the road and when it is in running order the Observer man is requested to come down and look it over. It will be the finest thing in the state and it will print the best paper.

The editor and wife are the parents of a fine girl, which made her appearance Sunday night. We would say more but have got to go home and 'tend to the kid.—McCulloch County Enterprise.

It is gratifying to the press of Texas to know that some newspaper men are blessed with all the comforts of a home. May the young lady live long and be happy.

The Fort Worth Telegram's editorial ambition seems to be to get along side the Tyler Courier and the Waco Times-Herald.—Corsicana Sun.

The Telegram hopes to have the two jobs in the work of Reform. Volunteers are called for now. Will the Sun help?

The Fort Worth packeries cannot get enough hogs. It is said that they could use 4,500 more per day than they are getting now. This is respectfully referred to the farmers of Kaufman county. Sow some alfalfa and raise some hogs.—Terrell Transcript.

These concerns are so hoglish that they are entitled to rank with the pig iron magnates of the state. Such industries have no tendency to put the state "on the hog."—Dallas Times-Herald.

It would distress Dallas very much to see Fort Worth get hogs enough, but Dallas cannot prevent it. The farmers of Texas will raise hogs because there is a motto: Ship your shoats.

PRESS OPINIONS OF HOGG'S SPEECH

Ex-Governor James Stephen Hogg made a speech at Dallas yesterday and was given an ovation. When the big ex-governor speaks he is always accorded a warm reception in Texas, for he is close to the Texas people, and they have confidence in his honesty and sincerity. The ex-governor spoke yesterday on the dangers accruing from too lavish a use of railroad passes, and pointed to some of the dangers that are threatened by this form of blandishment. There are a great many men who are always seeking public office for the purpose of feathering personal nests, who will now begin the cry that Mr. Hogg is after some office to serve his selfish interests. This is the same class of public officials that accepts the blandishments of free passes and the like.—Denison Herald.

There appears to have been very few farmers at Dallas to hear Governor Hogg's much advertised speech, the attendance being composed mostly of political gentlemen on hand to do a little log-rolling on their own account with the crowd which didn't show up.—San Antonio Express.

Altogether the speech was about what it was expected to be—a terrific arraignment of conditions as Governor Hogg understands them to exist, and as terrific an arraignment of the class of men he charges with direct responsibility for these conditions. Whether these conditions exist, and whether any particular class of the citizenship of Texas is responsible, are questions that will be debated acrimoniously by the extremists who stand primarily for or against everything Governor Hogg represents in his political personality.—Austin Statesman.

Ex-Governor Hogg spoke at Dallas fair last Wednesday, which was a famous day. It was a characteristic speech, somewhat along lines marked out by him in the past. But it was a powerful effort that is going to have weight enough with the sons of the soil to make political wire pullers, corruptionists and lobbyists quake in their shoes.

After pointing out the bankrupt condition of the governments of the old world and the pitiable condition of the tolling nations, Hogg was mercifully taxed to support official drones and who are gradually reduced to a state of unbearable pauperism and desperation that will make inevitable revolutions more horrible than that which France experienced in the last decade of the eighteenth century, he draws up terrible, though true, indictments against the government of our country.—Belton Journal Reporter.

Governor Hogg is in the political contest for a plum of some kind. He made a political speech at Dallas Wednesday which appealed to the farmers as against the town people. Ex-Governor Hogg and it is remarkable in the background.—Hall County Herald.

TELEGRAMS ANSWERED

While newspapers are criticizing Roosevelt for carrying a pistol they should take into consideration the fact that he has done a great deal more harm with his mouth than with his gun.—Fort Worth Telegram.

Perhaps the caliber of his mouth is larger.—Terrell Transcript.

AN EXCELLENT PAPER

The Fort Worth Telegram has purchased a new three-deck perfecting press, and will install it just as soon as it can be shipped from New York. The Telegram has recently contacted a new home of its own and will shortly move into it. The Telegram is a most excellent paper and is rapidly improving.—Honey Grove Citizen.

THE FIGHT FOR REFORM

The Fort Worth Telegram wishes the Tyler Courier to say if it will join in a fight for reform in the next legislature of Texas. The Strawn Leader will help in a general reform anywhere, whether in or out of the legislature.—Strawn Leader.

Thanks. Every one can help. Do your part at home and the result will show when the account is taken.

The Texas legislator had as well lay aside the free pass.—Corsicana Sun.

That he had. The people are better posted on the free pass habit than ever before.

STOCK AND RANGE NEWS AND NOTES

COLORADO, Texas, Oct. 5.—L. De La Torre of Buenos Ayres, South America, the famous inventor of the dipping process as a preventative against ticks, was in the city today and left in company with B. Goodert, his Texas representative, for the "43" ranch in Borden county, where D. N. Arnett is dipping a big lot of cattle for L. L. Ellwood, the cattle king of Illinois.

Colonel F. C. Oscheer of Fort Worth spent a few days in town this week. He and wife came out to attend the burial of their niece, Miss Mamie Beal, which was mentioned in The Telegram a few days ago.

Mr. Roy P. Coffey, who has a ranch out near Lattan, has just completed an elegant residence of thirteen rooms on his ranch there.

Mr. Roy P. Coffey and Miss Nettie McMurry were married here this week by Rev. C. S. Field, pastor of the Methodist church. Mr. P. Coffey is a clerk in A. J. Payne's dry goods store. Both are well and favorably known here.

A BIT OF SCOTLAND IN CANADA

At a point 15 miles north of Toronto on the Grand Trunk railway system is reached one of the most magnificent districts in the Highlands of Ontario, known as the Lake of Bays district. The region comprises a series of connected lakes, over which large steamers are run. What greatly adds to the Lake of Bays value as a health-giving and sportsman's resort is the unmatched purity of the air one breathes upon its heights. The fog forgets his burden under its reviving influence in less than a week, and sees life's problems in a smoother light, enjoying the good things in this life which nature and providence have prepared for him. Its bracing morning breeze which rivals the celebrated atmosphere of Pike's Peak, Col., imparts new lung power and fresh vitality.

LAST SCOURGE OF THE FEVER IN 1867

Old Records Tell of Terrible Times When Almost Entire State Was in Mourning

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 5.—The epidemic of yellow fever now prevailing in Tampico, Linares and Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, Laredo, Minera and, it is feared, in other border towns in Texas, recalls the scourge of 1867. Not that the epidemic now is either as widespread or malignant, but it is yellow fever nevertheless, and unless every city and town renders aid to the state health authorities the extent to which it may prevail cannot be foreseen or forestalled.

During the epidemic of 1867, more than fifty Texas towns and villages sustained great mortality, some of which, notably Brenham and Calvert, were nearly depopulated.

BURIAL OF THE DEAD

In Brenham, with a population at that time of about 1,200, there were said to be between 600 and 700 cases of the fever, and nearly 200 deaths. Many of the people fled to places of safety and lived for weeks in tents and improvised camps in the woods of Washington county.

A large per cent of those who remained were stricken with the disease, the number who escaped was so inconsiderable that the sick suffered for attention, and the dead were buried without ceremony in the cheapest and quickest way possible.

Many men and women of prominence and wealth were placed in an ordinary hastily-made pine box, hauled to the cemetery in a wagon, accompanied by two negro men and buried without ceremony or service.

Other towns suffered as severely as Brenham, and the people of Texas stood for months in the very presence of the dead and dying.

FIRST APPEARANCE OF FEVER

From an old record it is learned that the pestilence first made its appearance at Indianola, in July. Its next appearance being in Galveston, the first of August, and did not appear in Harrisburg and Austin until about the middle of August, and was not admitted to exist in New Orleans until the latter part of that month, though many physicians reported cases in their practice in July.

RAPID SPREAD OF THE FEVER

From the middle to the latter part of August it spread to Port Lavaca, Victoria, Goliad, Hempstead, Cypress, Navarino, Millican, Brenham, Chappell Hill, Independence, La Grange, Bastrop, Alleyton, Long Point, Courtney, Anderson, Huntsville, Liberty, Lynchburg and in many communities and smaller towns.

In most of these towns the mortality was very great. In Galveston the whole number of deaths from the first case reported to November 11, the date of the last case reported, was 1,154. The population of the city at that time was 22,500, but it is thought one-third of the population left to avoid the fever, so that the number of deaths represented about 20 per cent of those who remained.

INTERIOR TOWNS

In all of the interior towns named, and doubtless many others, the per cent of deaths was much greater, especially Brenham and Calvert. In Harrisburg and other places more than one-half of the fever patients died.

"The cause of this great mortality is obvious," says a current writer in that year. "In the interior towns the people were entirely unprepared for such a visitation, and universal consternation was generally the consequence of its first announcement, and hence many people who were able left for places of safety, and it was reported that in some instances there were not enough left of the well to attend upon the sick and bury the dead."

FEARFUL SITUATION

Some of the accounts given of the situation in numbers of towns and communities were heart-rending. The proper medicines were often wanting, while very few physicians knew how to treat the disease, and nurses could not be had at all. This was particularly the case at first, though soon after the great relief was rendered by the Howard Association of Galveston, and a similar association at Houston, as well as by the voluntary efforts of experienced physicians who came to the relief of a sorely stricken people.

GENERAL HOUSTON'S WIFE

It was during this most fearful scourge that Mrs. Houston died at Independence, having survived her illustrious husband just four years. The circumstances of her death were remarkable.

When the fever was announced to exist at Independence she gathered up her family and went out to the plantation of her son-in-law, Weston L. Williams, situated midway between Independence and Brenham, where she remained until the fever disappeared and all danger was said to be passed. She returned to her home happy in the thought that she had saved her entire family of four boys and four girls, was stricken suddenly and died in a few days.

LITTLE RAILROAD COMMUNICATION

One remarkable fact of the epidemic of 1867 is that many of the towns that suffered severely were not on any railroad line, and were far distant from any road and center of population. The infection or contagion was so intense that the atmosphere seemed to be reeking with the

A YEAR'S TEST

Has Proved It to Be a Necessity in Fort Worth

A twelvemonth is a good strong test of a man's health. If a cure holds good for that length of time it is a cure. It proves beyond doubt the efficiency of the remedy that did it. Here's Fort Worth testimony that cures worked by Doan's Kidney Pills are lasting cures. The statement is made by a responsible citizen: J. E. Gaskill, well-known carpentry contractor, living at 701 Hattie street, says: "More than a year ago I was relieved of an aggravated attack of backache by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I had procured at Weaver's Pharmacy, on Main street. At that time I made the fact known to citizens of Fort Worth so that others suffering from kidney complaint in any of its various forms might have the benefit of my experience. My opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills is the same today as it was when they were first brought to my notice. The cure has stood the test of a year's time."
